A peal of Stedman Cinques at Surfleet was conducted by Frank E. Perrins, and one at Birmingham by J. Frank Smallwood, whilst Stedman Caters at St. Margaret's, Westminster, had W. H. Hewett to conduct, and at Beckenham, Kent, Herbert E. Audsley conducted the same method when Frank W. Hicks and James E. Bailey rang their first of Stedman Caters.

Frank B. Lufkin conducted Kent Major from the treble at Brentwood, whilst at Surfleet a handbell peal of Double Norwich was conducted by Walter Ayre, ringing 7-8.

Some particulars of the family and early life of Henry Thomas Ellacombe were printed, being extracts from the life of his son, Canon H. N. Ellacombe.

50 YEARS AGO

October 1, 1920.

A ringing holiday in Hereford and Shropshire had eight peal attempts and nine failures but everyone enjoyed themselves. The failures were given the following reasons: (1) rope broke, (2) conductor asleep, (3) conductor lost, (4) rope slipped wheel, (5) man ill, (6) band off colour, (7) call missed, (8) too late for attempt, (9) band asleep.

The president of the Ladies' Guild, Miss Rosetta White, was married at St. Michael's, Basingstoke, to Mr. J. C. Salvaneschi.

Two trebles were added to the ring at All Saints' Church, Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, bequeathed by Lt. R. V. Falconer, who fell in the war.

Grandsire Triples, an irregular six-part composed by Edgar C. Shepherd, M.M., was rung for the first time at Stoney Stanton.

A peal ringing tour in Essex resulted in 11 peals being scored, nine of which were conducted by William Pye, the other two by T. T. Gofton. All were peals of Surprise.

Men who would spend a Saturday afternoon within the four walls of a tower, working hard, perspiring freely, looking into each other's faces with that earnessness which the art of bellringing demands, were men out of the common.—Address by the vicar of Pendleton at the Lancashire A.G.M.

Messrs. A. H. Winch and G. Marriner (Leatherhead) were welcome visitors to a Sussex County Association meeting at Pulborough.

COMPOSITIONS

TWO SIMPLE QUARTER PEALS OF BOB MAJOR FOR THE YOUNG CONDUCTOR

Most young conductors of Bob Major will soon come across the touch of 238 changes, where the sixth makes the bob three times, viz.:

23456	W	В	M

The two following quarter peals are based on this touch and may be of value to those wishing to try something fairly easy.

1440 23456	PLAIN W	BOB B	MAJC M	R

25463		1
34256
45362		1		_

Repeated.

It will be seen that in each block of two courses the sixth makes the bob three times followed by a call at Home, when the sixth is dodging 5-6 down. Three times with bobs at Home produces 720 changes. With a single at the third part-end, the entire piece can be repeated to produce 1440 changes.

1360 23456	PLAIN W	BOB B	MAJO M	R H
25463 45362 25364 35462 45263 35264	14	1	s s
42356 34256 32456 43256 24356 23456				- - - - - s

In this quarter peal the 5th and 6th are fixed in thirds and fifths for the first half, and in their Home positions for the second half. A closer examination of the first half will reveal that the working bells are the 2, 3 and 4. If the conductor regards the Middle position (i.e. when the tenor is dodging 5-6 down) as a course-end, he will find that the lead-ends are as follows:

324		S
243		_
234		S

A further examination will reveal that these lead-ends are the same as the course-ends in the second part (and in the same order) when the back four bells are in their natural position at Home (i.e. 5678).

St. John the Baptist, Egham, Surrey

Travelling from London along the great South West Road, the first relief from the flatness of the Metropolitan area comes as one crosses the Thames via the new Staines Bypass bridge. Stretching out to the right across the Medes is Cooper's Hill, capped by the R.A.F. Memorial and flanked by the acre of American soil given by the British people for the inspiration of John F. Kennedy. This sweep of green trees and meadows, with the Thames winding away in the foreground, is complemented by the view to the left of the town of Egham, nestling around its church. At night, when both the R.A.F. Memorial and the church tower are floodlit, the effect is equally striking. Not that the stranger would necessarily recognise the tower as that of a church, for it is one of the first of a small group, most of them built in London at the end of the Georgian period, and was in fact completed in 1820. It replaced a building dating from 1327, the porch of which now stands alone at the entrance to the churchyard, inscribed with a plate "John Wesley preached here in 1744." Prior to 1327 a Norman church, built early in the 12th century, must have been the first associated with the great event of June 15, 1215, and thus known as the Magna Carta or Runnemede Church.

Without doubt Archbishop Langton led the barons to this very spot to say prayers for success in their efforts to persuade King John to share his power. This resulted in the historic document which is recognised as the foundation of democracy world-wide. Replicas of the coats-of-arms of the 25 Surety barons chosen to defend the Great Charter are mounted around the gallery front of the present church, having been presented by their descendants.

The architectural style of the church is something quite different from our ancient Norman and Gothic churches and from the many churches built by the Victorians later. This is designed in what is called the Classical style and depends entirely upon straight lines and the minimum of ornamentation to achieve its looks. As you stand at the west end of the church and try to appreciate its design, note the vast unsupported ceiling, the fine sweep of the gallery front and the uninterrupted view of the shallow sanctuary (there is no chancel in this type of church). You are beholding a real "period piece."

LAST RECORDED DUEL

Dr. J. S. B. Monsell, vicar 1853-70, was a famous hymn writer, whose best known hymns include "I hunger and I thirst," "O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" and "Fight the good fight." By a coincidence the last recorded duel ever held in England was on Cooper's Hill and the victim is buried in Egham Churchyard. From the parish records it is apparent that the size of the tower was dictated by finances, as the architect, Henry Rhodes, wanted it to be large enough to accommodate eight bells (presumably on one level), but as this would have cost £500 and there was only £300 left, a compromise was reached. It is interesting to note that the financing of this part of the building was from the sale of "the catacombs under the church at 30 guineas each." and although this may sound expensive for the period the records go on to say that "each one was capable of holding up to 14 bodies."

APPEAL

Will you please help us to add two new bells to those already ringing out over Runnemede, thus doing our part in our 150th anniversary year to maintain the heritage handed down to us.

Thousands of visitors come each year to see the river and memorials there. Let us remind them of the Lord's presence. As David put it, "Praise Him with sounding cymbals."

Donations, which will be acknowledged and recorded, to MRS. J. KNOWLES, 46 SIMONS WALK, ENGLEFIELD GREEN, SURREY.—N. Issberner, Vicar.

As there is a replica of Magna Carta in the ringing room it could be claimed that Egham boasts the oldest set of ringers' rules in the country, but a set which is less generalised appears in the parish records of 1820.—

Regulations for keeping better Order and Decorum In Ringing and Chiming the Bells at Egham Church

1st. That a list of the Names be kept in the Belfry of those Persons who attend for Practice on Monday and Thursday Nights.

2nd. That three of the Ringers shall attend alternately on Sundays or any other Day appointed for Public Worship to assist the Sexton on Chiming, or be refused admittance into the Relfry.

Belfry.

3rd. That the Sexton do not admit any Persons into the Belfry whose names are not in the list of ringers.

4th. The tolling of the Bell for Public Worship to commence at half-past 10 in the Morning and half-past 2 in the Afternoon and continue 10 minutes; the chiming to be continued steadily for a Quarter of an Hour, and the last Bell tolled till the Clergyman is in the reading desk.

5th. That the Sexton do sweep out the Belfry and passage to it, every Friday Morning before 9 o'clock and clean down the Stone Staircase leading to the Belfry or be fined 2 Shillings. 6th. The Ringers not complying with these

6th. The Ringers not complying with these Rules shall not be entitled to any Remuneration from the Parish and be refused the use of the Belfry on any particular occasion and the Sexton suspended from his situation.

7th. The Person appointed to the care of the Church to see these Rules carried into effect and make his report thereon to the Churchwardens and the Committee.

Of the bells themselves, the church guide claims that three were pre-Reformation. However, numbers 2 to 7 are inscribed T. Mears fecit 1819. These six did service until 1912, when Gillett and Johnston recast them, added a new treble and tenor and tuned them all on the five-tone Simpson principle. They were rehung in a massive H frame on two tiers with Nos. 2, 5 and 6 above.

Apart from 5 and 8, all swing in an E.-W. direction, but this is probably due to space limitation rather than stress consideration. They are equipped with short wooden stays operating against small metal slider blocks running on curved rails. Under the bells is a clock room, where wooden guides are used to produce a good "circle" in the belfry from the positions necessitated by the two-tier hanging.

The bells swing mainly in the louvred portion of the tower so that the sound beats down in the immediate neighbourhood. Attempts have been made to alter this by the use of building board lined with a kapok made of seaweed, but this has not proved durable and the seaweed has attracted thousands of flies which hibernate there. It is now proposed to build a wall of lightweight building blocks behind the louvres up to frame top height. The remaining space will be baffled to throw the sound upward, with a remote control system for complete closure for practice.

The Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, in which Egham is one of the 15 towers with rings of bells, has ten eights, four sixes and a five. Thus for the majority to ring on a higher number than their own they have to go outside the district. In an effort to avoid this and to cater particularly for the present needs of their own band, the Egham ringers are working to augment their bells to ten. The band has a membership of 20 with currently another eight at the nearby Royal Holloway and Shoreditch Colleges. Their efforts so far have been mainly in the collection of paper, but other events are to follow. The amount to be raised is about £1,500, of which some £150 has already been given by local ringers.

PEAL RINGING

There have been 48 peals on the bells to date. Of particular note is that no local ringer had rung a peal before 1927, when W. A. Peck (who is still a member of the band), H. Worsfold and E. Burley rang in Parker's One-part Grandsire Triples to welcome back the vicar from a trip to Australia.

Prior to this, on April 13, 1914, William Pye and his band chose Egham for Bristol, when they rang four Surprise methods in the one day (London at Chertsey, Cambridge at St. Peter's, Staines, and Superlative at Old Windsor).

The first peal was seven methods Minor in October, 1901, and was the only one on

Kent County Association Dinner

A NATIONAL ASSOCIATION?

MR. FRANK E. DARBY LOOKS AHEAD

"Why is it we have so many different Associations when we could be one?... The chief advantage, as I see it, is that there would be no more friction over overlapping territories, no serious rivalries, which have occurred from time to time in different places. . . . The peal ringer, travelling over the country, would pay one subscription. . . I am not trying to sell you this idea tonight . . . but to say what I think might happen in the future. We are very jealous of our titles—our Diocesan Guilds and County Associations—and rightly so. We would have to adopt a title, one that has been spoken of over the years: a National Association."

The speaker was Mr. Frank E. Darby, vice-president of the Surrey Association, who was proposing a' toast to the Kent County Association at their annual dinner, which was held at the Queen's Head Hotel, Maidstone, on September 26. Between 130-140 attended, and presiding was Mr. E. A. Barnett, chairman of the Association, accompanied by Mrs. Olive Barnett. Others eated at the principal table were Canon C. C. Tufton (Vicar of All Saints, Maidstone), Rev. J. E. Robinson (Vicar of St. Nicholas, Leeds), Mr. Alan Berry (general secretary, K.C.A.) and Mrs. Anne Berry, Mr. C. A. Tester (secretary, Maidstone District) and Mrs. Olive Tester, Mr. A. Waddington (captain, St. James, Egerton) and Mrs. Waddington, Mr. F. E. Darby and Mrs. Darby, Mr. B. May and Mrs. May, and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor, Ringing World).

REMINISCENCES

Mr. Darby, who started ringing 50 years ago, continued by reminiscing on the happy times he had spent in the Kent County, mentioning the Barnett family, the Groombridges, senior and junior, and Mr. Phillip Corby. The Kent County Association, during its 90 years of existence, had achieved greatness and was in the forefront of the Exercise. It had lived in harmony with its neighbours, showing understanding and respect for them and had in consequence a peaceful life.

Mentioning many names of officers and leaders in the Association, Mr. Darby concluded: "While your membership embraces people such as these the Kent County Association cannot fail to prosper."

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm. Responding, Mr. Alan Berry said that one of the difficulties of a general secretary was that it is hard to know whether or not the association is making any progress-it is a sure thing that we either move forwards or backwards; there is no standing still. There are many ways in which progress could be made: stronger finances, more peals, better peals, more members, less unringable towers, better meetings, more activities. He went on: "Our peal record fluc-tuates from year to year, but we are definitely ahead this year compared with last year's total. The number of towers where restoration work is in hand or definitely anticipated is considerable. The registration of our Bells Restoration Fund as a charity has enabled the Association to reap the benefits of investment and, with other plans in mind, in future years it may be possible to make grants much higher than at present. Our membership last year showed a slight drop in numbers-was this because of the increase in subscription? District meetings seem on the whole to be well attended, although of course there is always room for improvement. We are in-deed grateful," concluded the speaker, "for all the assistance that we receive from our clergy, and it is a pity when many of them

TAUGHT BY DAN COOPER

Canon Tufton, in his reply, said he did not have many qualifications to speak as a bellringer. He did start once at Beddington, under that excellent teacher and fine ringer Mr. Dan Cooper, and it was a sad day when he died at such an early age. The speaker then gave details of some of his researches into bells and bellringing. He expressed appreciation to the bellringers for what they are and what they do, and he admired the tremendous family spirit amongst them all.

"INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS"

Mr. A. Waddington, in proposing the toast of "The Church," said: "We are frequently reminded of the need for both church fellowship and Christian stewardship. I think on the whole our members can claim to enhance both."

As regards "Time, Talents and Money," which was the threefold call today, he instanced (1) the ringing for services, teaching and belfry maintenance; (2) the value of an experienced ringer joining a struggling band and the efforts required to keep a band together when once formed; (3) the belfry repair funds, which needed continued and increasing support. He mentioned a sponsored peal which raised £80.

"We inevitably come round to what might be called our 'industrial relations' with the clergy," went on the speaker, "In Kent we are fortunate in having not only ringing parsons but, with very few exceptions, a fine spread of 'ringable' parsons.

"Where there is an active regular band there is usually active co-operation from the vicar. It is a two-way partnership. Mostly the clergy are very tolerant of the ringers' greatest failing and nowadays seldom admonish us when we slink away during the 5-minute bell.

"The incumbent is the one who stands in a difficult position between ringing and the suffering public. In many towers with noisy bells complaints are justified. One good line of defence for the incumbent is to ask the complainant to help pay for the necessary measures of sound control—these need not be very expensive.

"In conclusion, let us honour the Church of the past for leaving us the grand heritage of our towers, people like Canon Helmore, who laid the foundations of our Association and the present clergy up and down the country, without whose support and encouragement we should not persist."

The health of "The Guests and Visitors" was drunk on the call of Mr. Colin Tester, who welcomed Canon Tufton, Rev. J. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Waddington, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Darby, the Editor of The Ringing World (who received certain criticisms, including some from leading K.C.A. members), Mrs. Mitchell (who had travelled from Brighton) and three other octogenarians — Messrs. Lewis Head, Fred Macey and Edwin Barnett.

Mr. Tester called on the members of the Kent County Association to drink a bumper toast to the many guests and visitors, which was cheerfully done.

A MAN OF MANY PARTS

The response, given by Rev. J. E. Robinson, was apt and highly amusing and at times the laughter drowned the following comments of the speaker. The Vicar of Leeds is obviously a man of many parts and a popular choice as an after-dinner speaker—especially for bellringers' dinners.

For the speeches the chairman introduced each speaker, and with anecdote and personal data often it seemed at the expense of the person proposing the toast; but all through the evening the programme flowed easily and happily along. There was never a dull moment. During a break there was a musical interlude given by Rosemary Ellis and Hilary Hinde, who received gifts from the chairman in appreciation for their part in the entertainment. A raffle, in aid of the Restoration Fund for the James Barham tomb in Leeds Parish Church, was drawn by the editor of the R.W., three prizes being awarded.

The proceedings continued with a full social round, everyone joining whole-heartedly in the happy spirit which abounded throughout the whole evening.

Keep your eyes wide open before marriage and half shut after.

Benjamin Franklin.

Obituary

MR. ARTHUR DREW

Captain and verger at All Saints Church, Lindfield, Sussex, for 40 years, Mr. Arthur Drew died recently at the advanced age of 87. He was well known among Sussex ringers and had played an active part in the life of the church in his own area.

The bells were rung half-muffled for the funeral, which was attended by many of his ringing friends.

MR. W. A. ROUSE

William A. Rouse, who was aged 68, died suddenly at Great Holland, Essex, on September 3.

Bill was well known and liked both at St. Michael's, Kirby-le-Soken, and at All Saints', Great Holland, where he was a regular ringer until a serious illness five years ago prevented him from taking part. In the last few years he was made a life member.

Bill was interred at Great Holland, close to the tower, on September 9, and the bells were half-muffled for Sunday ringing morning and evening prior to the funeral date and were rung half-muffled after the interment.

LAST OF THE DAYS

The last member of the family of Fred Day, of the firm of Geo. Day and Sons, Eye, Suffolk, bell hangers, died from cancer in hospital on September 2, aged 73. She was the youngest, Dorothy, who lived with her husband, Mr. Penson, a retired schoolmaster, at Low Eaves, Manor Road, Barton-le-Cley, Bedford.

Mrs. Penson was a teacher at Stradbroke
School, Suffolk, during the First World War and was also a church organist. She was cremated at Luton on September 9.

Her sister, Ella Kate Day (a spinster, also a retired school teacher), died at Eye on December 4, 1968, aged 84.

Her brother, Hubert Joseph Day, passed away at Eye on August 9, 1952, aged 63. He was the last member of the firm to do any tower work and he had done but very little in that field for a number of years His widow continued to live in Eye, at Bell Cottage.

EDWIN CHARLES EADES

Charlton Adam, in Somerset, lost one of its most faithful and respected parishioners with the death of Ted Eades (aged 70) on September 12, and this loss will be felt by all who knew him.

Ted became a choirboy at Charlton Adam when he was seven, and except for a brief spell in the Army and when living in the nearby village of Kingweston he was always in the choir stalls. For the past 16 years he was churchwarden.

He was a "regular" in the belfry at Charlton Mackrell for nearly 50 years and helped many "strugglers" over the "stile." and for a number of years was captain, taking over from his brother, Percy. About two years ago Ted and his wife worked very hard and raised money for a new set of ropes for the bells.

His health began to fail about 12 months ago and he was unable to attend any ringing activities, and in the tower he was greatly missed.

On the day of the funeral his colleagues rang a half-muffled quarter peal of Sted-man, Grandsire and Bob Doubles (his favourite methods) to say farewell to cap-tain "Ted."

At the K.C.A. dinner on Sept. 26 a presentation of a cheque was made to Mr. B. W. May, who had served the Association as an officer for many years, latterly as hon. treasurer. Mrs. May received a bouquet. In the R.W. photo are (l. to r.) Mr. May, Mrs. May, Mrs. O. Barnett, Mr. E. A. Barnett, Mrs. O. Tester and Mr. C. Tester.

BELLS, RINGERS AND THE CHURCH

Speaking at a ringers' dinner last year, the Lord Bishop of Derby, the Rt. Rev. G. F. Allen, said that without doubt bells were the most effective external witness the Church had ever had, for, in the words of the poet, their sounds went into all lands, speaking in many different ways.

Although to many people bells and bell-ringing were relics of the time when there were very few clocks and watches, the Bishop assured the company that their message was just as relevant today to this modern world, with wars and racial tension, as it was over 100 years ago when Tennyson wrote of bells ringing for the common love of good.

Bells are an external witness of the Church's work and remind someone, somewhere, of God. Very often people ask whether the expense of bells can be justified as they are only a luxury nowadays, but if that argument is used, so is the choir, organ, vestments and whatever else you care to consider.

Ringers should be proud of their calling and service to the Church and, in turn, the Church and clergy should be proud of their ringers and give them the encouragement required to carry out this service with dedication and enthusiasm.

BELFRY SCREEN DEDICATED

During the bellringers' service at All Saints' Church, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, on September 13, a glass belfry screen was dedicated by the vicar, Rev. M. W. Mansbridge. It was the gift of Miss May Vivien Godderidge and her sister, Miss Phyllis Godderidge, both former parishioners and bellringers who died last year, and was designed by Mr. Alan Wood, a member of the local band and a professional architect.

Following the dedication, rounds and queens were rung on a set of 12 handbells, donated to the church by Mr. F. V. Nash. The ringers, all members of the Coton band, were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Beamish, G. A. Bell, J. Draycott, L. Trevor and J. Evans. Tunes were also rung on a set of 24 handbells by three Coton members, augmented by three from Allesley. The preacher at the service was Rev. Martin Clarke, curate of St. Mary's, Atherstone, the most northerly of the Coventry diocesan towers. Mr. Clarke joined in the ringing of the ten tower bells after the service. Miss Vivien Godderidge was well known in Folkestone ringing circles for a number of years, having taken a teaching post there in 1927.

A philosopher may despise riches; but I'll bet his wife doesn't.

Editorial

ONE YEAR GONE

"Congratulations on completing your first year of office (as Editor) so successfully. I hope you can carry on for many more as happily, for the sake of the 'comic' and the Exercise."

Last week a regular correspondent (of the younger generation) put this footnote to a letter, having realised that it was a year ago that a new (and inexperienced) editor was taking over the "hot seat." It was also mentioned recently at the K.C.A. dinner when, in welcoming the cditor, it was pointed out that he was not considered "new" any longer.

But what has been achieved during these 12 months? The first three were spent "sticking on stamps," examining files, getting to know the ropes and planning the new look R.W., which burst forth on January 9. This edition caused considerable comment, much being favourable, a percentage definitely "anti," but the majority accepting "with reservations."

Periodic amendments and further improvements to layout were made, and even now suggestions—some practical, some impossible—still arrive. ALL are considered.

The biggest obstacle to many of the ideas put forward is cost. What the Editor would like is another eight pages a week so that more technical and historical articles could appear, with more illustrations. A comment made by a discriminating and very respected lady (who is both peal ringer and guild officer) was: "I can't wade through all that solid small type—but I just love the chatty bits, the letters and the pictures," which is something of a guide.

In starting on the second year the Editor once more asks for tolerance and a special effort by every reader to help increase the weekly sales to 7,000 copies. This would ensure that the cost per copy would remain as now during 1971. The ever-increasing cost of paper, labour and postage is a continual anxiety, and only by the help of all ringers and readers can this spectre be laid once and, we hope, for all.

Heard in a London belfry.

"How do you spell 'canons' — the sort on the top of the bells? One 'n' or two?"

"You mean, do you spell them like a big gun or do you spell them like more exalted members of the clergy?"
"Yes."

"It must be the one 'n'—all the clergy I know are as crooked as the loops on top of a bell!"

WEDDING

One of the Great Mongeham, Kent, bell-ringers, Gillian Hawkins, was married on September 12 to Robin Wilson at the parish church of St. Martin, Great Mongeham. The bells were rung before and after the ceremony, and to mark the occasion a date touch was rung during the same evening.

Our picture shows the bride ringing after her own wedding. Robin and Gillian's future home will be in Leighton Buzzard, Beds

Belfry Gossip

A new ring of six will shortly be installed by John Taylor and Co. at Arnold, Nottingham. Taylor's have also completed the rehanging of the bells at Dulverton, Somerset.

It is very much regretted that Mr. Fred Greedy, of Newport, Mon., son of the late Mr. Charles Greedy, was rushed into the Royal Gwent Hospital, Newport, after being taken ill on September 21. Fred has been a loyal ringer at the Cathedral for many years and all wish him a speedy recovery.

The peal rung at Headcorn, Kent, and recorded on page 798 was forwarded by Mr. G. W. Grant (secretary), who said he was very pleased with the performance of his pupils. It was the first "local" effort since before 1928. A picture of Mr. Grant (and others) appeared on page 732 and at 75 he had hoped to take part in the peal but decided three hours might be too much. He did not want to let the others down and so Roger Sutehall (Egerton) stood in as a substitute.

The East Anglia Daily Times reported a wedding at Hoxne, Suffolk, where a recording of bells was used before and after the wedding. Mr. Claude Rush, of Felixstowe, sent us the cutting and adds: "Hoxne, pronounced Hoxen, is where King Edmund, of East Anglia, was tied to a tree and killed by arrows, eventually being buried at Bury St. Edmunds. This was 1,100 years ago. Hoxne Church tower is a fine one, containing five bells, tenor about 10 cwt. No ringing has taken place for years—the bells are not ringable. Villagers must have been taken by surprise by the recording, especially if it was part of a peal of Caters or Maximus!"

Personal records: Tony Skilton (50 peals), Margaret L. Ellwood (50).

New conductors this week include Nigel C. Sheppard (15) and Peter J. Devrell.

First peal congratulations to Elizabeth A. Hutton, Fred Richardson, Pat Hurworth, Richard A. M. Newman, Jane Churchill (13), David Taylor (15), Nigel C. Sheppard (15), Ronald Millidine, Bernard V. Thurman, Peggy E. Jennings, Jonathan Franklin.

The peal of Stedman Caters at Derby Cathedral, recorded last week, was for the wedding of Mr. John Stennitt, who has been a member of the band for 20 years. It was also the first by an "all-Cathedral" company since 1964.

If any guild or district secretary (or master) would like half-a-dozen copies of the R.W. (recent issues) for distribution among their members at meetings, in the hope of possible regular subscription, we will gladly send them free on request.

Last year a suggestion was made for the formation of a ringing association for the legal profession. Mr. Paul Boucher, of Stockport, who followed up the enquiry, has heard nothing further about the suggestion and wonders if the possibility of such an association is still contemplated.

such an association is still contemplated.

The handbell peal of Plain Bob Royal printed on page 780, for the N. American Guild at Washington, is a duplication. It had already been recorded on page 700.

Mr. Ernest W. Rowe, who has been in business in High Street, Sidmouth, has now "sold up" and the premises closed. All will wish him a pleasant and happy retirement.

We understand that our suggestion of a Yale type lock on doors, etc., in churches for additional safety is not a good one as they are "useless for security." A 5-lever mortised deadlock would be better for doors 2 in, thick or cylinder deadlock for others.

Spending about five months at 8/2 Coniston Place, Colombo 7, Ceylon, is Mr. J. R. A. Muller, lately of Maidenhead, and he wonders if there are any other expatriate ringers in Ceylon.

The band at Wentworth, Yorks, was reconstituted in September, 1968, and has now rung the first quarter of Minor with all "locals".

Because of pressure of work the tenor man who was to have covered in a quarter at Stithians, Cornwall, arrived after the start. Nevertheless the band included his 6d. rope donation to the R.W. (Gratefully acknowledged!—Ed.)

At Sproughton, Suffolk, three quarter peals were rung during a festival of flowers and music combined with harvest thanksgiving and a display of bygones during September 12-13.

A very good picture in the local newspaper of Mr. and Mrs. George Swift, of Chalfont St. Peter. Bucks, ringing handbells, with a detailed report of their hobby, has reached us. It tells how, through bell-ringing, George met his wife, Mary, and of the continuity of ringing of father to son.

has reached us. It tells how, through bellringing, George met his wife, Mary, and of the continuity of ringing of father to son.

Another cutting, from The Stratford Express, sent by Mrs. Winifred Riddy, of Constantine. Cornwall, shows 54-years-old
Mr. John McPhale "playing" four bells at All Saints Church, West Ham. He is seen chiming, with a rope on each foot and one in each hand, which he pulls whilst sitting in a chair. His grandfather and he used to chime eight between them.

Letters

APPRECIATION

Dear Sir, — I would like, through the pages of The Ringing World to place on record my sincere thanks and appreciation to the Truro Diocesan Guild.

I have just spent ten months working in South-West Cornwall and from the time I first met the ringers in this area they were most friendly and helpful. I was made to feel welcome straight away in all the towers which I visited. At no time can I remember hearing a cross word or a loss of temper.

This environment plus the warmth and friendliness of the ringers made my time in Cornwall the most pleasant I can remember since I started ringing.

It would not be fair to mention any names as the praise belongs to everyone. With letters being published these days from people "condemning" or having a "slanging" match, it will be a change to make known the kindness of the Cornish folk and say "Thank you, Truro ringers, for making me feel so much at home. Yours faithfully,

T. E. HOWARTH. Midshipman, R.N.

Portland, Dorset.

OUT OF SYMPATHY?

Dear Sir,-Under Belfry Gossip in Sept. 18 issue of the R.W. the subject of donations received with peal reports in propor-tion to quarter peal reports is again raised. This comparison, as usual, reveals that the majority of donations originate from quarter peals. The question I would ask you, sir, is on what grounds you consider it should be otherwise? Peals, in order to be accepted by the C.C., have to be published in its journal. Is it not, therefore, unreasonable to expect ringers to defray the publishing costs imposed by a rule which many are out of sympathy with? The financial millstone which the R.W. finds around its neck is originated by the C.C. and it therefore follows that the C.C. should be the body to overcome the problem.

The following are two possible ways in which this problem could be resolved. (1) The C.C. to impose affiliation fees on member guilds/associations to cover publishing costs; or (2) abolish the publication of peals except perhaps where the performance is of particular merit. Peal bands wishing to publish their activities could then utilise the facilities of the notice pages.

Doubtless readers will have other probably better ideas, which I hope will be forthcoming.-Yours faithfully. MIKE FISHWICK.

Littleborough, Lancs.

BELL OATHS

Dear Sir.-Your paragraph regarding the bell from Beach Park made interesting reading. In a book I have been reading recently, by Paul E. Peery, he refers to the custom of swearing oaths on bells, bearing in mind their ancient sacred associations. He states that as late as 1832 a justice in County Clare required a bell oath to be sworn on the Beach Park bell. At that time, apparently, thieves were so afraid of being brought face to face with this bell they would confess and return the goods rather than swear the oath! It is a pity modern thieves do not have the same respect for our playthings!—Yours faithfully.

THE PRESENT POSITION

Dear Sir,-On page 496 of The Ringing World there appeared an account of Mr. G. D. Armitage's week-end of ringing. This was of particular interest to members of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association as it mentioned a quarter peal rung at St. Oswald's, Durham. These bells are listed in our current report as unringable, and I therefore made enquiries about what had changed to permit this quarter peal.

From Mr. Armitage's account I quote three paragraphs which seem most relevant:

"The tower at St. Oswald's received some attention a few years ago so I got the architect to agree that the tower was not unsafe for ringing. He expressed doubts about the frame, however. I told him that we had already had a trial ring five weeks previously, on the vicar's authority. At that ring I had Mr. R. H. Dove inspect the frame WHILE THE BELLS WERE BEING RUNG, and he, like myself, felt that although the frame was not in an ideal condition it was not unsafe. As you per-haps know, Mr. Dove used to be a belfry inspector for Gillett and Johnston and then for Taylor's.
"Now that the local populace has been reminded what full circle ringing sounds like, as opposed to chiming, there has been much favourable comment, and it is hoped the local interest thus aroused will lead to a complete overhaul and rehanging-which is what the bells need to put them in an ideal condition.

TETTENHALL BELLS

Dear Sir, — Charles Lynam, in "The Church Bells of the County of Stafford (1889)" gives the diameter of the 1804 bell at St. Mary, Wolverhampton, as 33 in. The back four at Codsall are given as 29½, 31½, 34 and 39 in. The bell at St. Jude, Wolverhampton, is given as 30 in. If the information given by Lynam, H. E. Green and the anonymous author on page 610 is all correct then Tettenhall gave away the second and fourth of their five-and still had four bells left to make a reasonable ring when added to the old bell at Codsall! This seems to me fairly good evidence against Mr. Green's theory of the origin of Codsall bells.—Yours faithfully. JOHN E. DAVID.

LONDON ROYAL

Dear Sir,-I am sorry if the text of my article on the Surrey Association was in any way misleading. The error pointed out by Mr. Nash regarding the first peal of Spliced Surprise Royal is regretted, though I would add that the inclusion of London and Bristol in the later peal at Beddington would appear more meritorious. The note on London Royal, however, was intended to read (as was in fact written down) that the Beddington peal was the first in the version universally rung today. The note in belfry gossip to the effect that the first peal of London Royal was rung at Brighton is in fact incorrect as this was only the first of the "No. 2" extension. The first beal of an extension of London to ten bells was the "No. I" version rung at Stepnev 19 years before the Brighton peal, in 1907. [As printed last week.-Ed.]

I hope this clears up the points raised and I thank readers for their comments. Yours faithfully.

CHRISTOPHER F. MEW. Putney, S.W.

"St. Oswald's bells continue to be chimed and notice is required if anyone wishes to ring full circle as the chiming hammers have to be cleared out of the way and ropes put on.

I submitted this section to the architect and Vicar of St. Oswald's for their comments on (1) any of the points in the statement. (2) the circumstances in which permission was granted for the ringing of the quarter peal on Whit Sunday, (3) what would be the attitude to any further reduests for permission to ring at St. Oswald's. I wrote to Mr. Armitage to show which parts of his account had been in-

The Architect commented: "I take great exception to the statement made that the architect had agreed that the tower was not unsafe for ringing and I trust that this will be corrected as quickly as possible as it is absolutely untrue. My opinion on the ringing of the bells has been very clearly stated to the vicar and I have today written a further letter to him restating the grounds on which my opinion is based.
"I feel that I must leave him to make any further comments on this subject which has been very thoroughly explored over the past ten years.'

The Vicar commented: "I ought, in reply, to say that while I was willing for the bells to be rung by Mr. Armitage and others, we had a considerable and detailed enquiry about the bells previously conducted by the Rev. J. W. Rogerson and Mr. Serge Zvegintzov. The outcome at that stage had been that it was inadvisable to ring the bells until a new frame had been installed and the bells themselves looked at and in some cases recast. They were then put in order for chiming.

"I was most surprised when Mr. Armitage appeared several years later and seemed to imply that things were not as bad as they had appeared to be and that it was worth ringing them with an experienced band to see what sort of effect this would have. He also seemed to imply that the architect. while not in agreement, was not averse to such an attempt. I therefore gave permission if the churchwardens were in agreement. It was not my intention that this should be the precedent for ringing in the future, nor to suggest any kind of contradiction of the architect's previously ex-pressed views. Since the occasion of Mr. Armitage's visit to ring the bells I have received a letter of disapproval and disquiet from the Rev. J. W. Rogerson and also correspondence from the architect expressing disquiet. I appreciate your interest and shall be glad to give you any further information.

Mr. Armitage dissented from my view that it was desirable to give an account of what had gone on "behind the scenes" obtaining permission to ring on 'unringable" bells. I hope, sir, that you will agree with me that this is a matter of public interest and publish this letter. I regret that the holiday season has delayed the completion of the correspondence, but I have thought it better to suffer this delay in order to present the three views simultaneously. I am sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Armitage for his information.

I hope that this letter makes quite clear what is the present position at St. Oswald's. Durham. What has been achieved by this quarter peal I leave for others to judge.-Yours faithfully,

DENIS A. BAYLES,

Secretary

Hon. General Secretary. D. and N. Diocesan Association.

J. K. & CO. IN LANCASHIRE

The advance party of the John Ketteringham tour arrived in Liverpool on the evening of Aug. 21 and were able to listen to the peal in the Cathedral and, the remainder of the party joining up at Ashton-under-Lyne next day, Yorkshire Maximus was scored in which Geoffrey Bridges scored his 200th. On Sunday morning, whilst the other members of the party rang in Bolton for service, three others attempted a handbell peal in what we thought was a remote field. But after about half an hour an irate farmer drove his car right through the field accusing us of disturbing the grass, so we had our first loss.

The afternoon peal at Worsley was successful and Keith got his 50th as conductor. The Monday morning peal of Pudsey (Tim's special request) turned out to be a long one but Tim, Alan Long and Arthur scored a first in the method.

PEALS LOST-BINGO WON

The conductor decided to stop the afternoon attempt at Westhoughton after about two hours and this was the first of five peals to be lost. Both attempts on Tuesday failed—London at Walkden and Lincolnshire at Parbold. Owing to a miscall the Lincolnshire came round at 1344 changes and was true! opportunity was taken to practise spliced for the next day, and a false touch of 900 or so changes was rung. In order to forget the losses all the party proceeded to Blackpool expecting to lose their money, but came back with three prizes from Bingo! At Adlington the next morning Chris Forster proved that he is awake sometimes by calling Jim Diserens' 8-spliced (much to our admiration!). It looked as if our luck had turned but Keith Walpole miscalled Chorley Surprise at Chorley in the afternoon after 2 hours and 17 minutes. We had had great difficulty in locating the key and started over an hour late, which did not help concentration.

SCORING SPLICED

Our next attempt for spliced (Davies's 5) at Farnworth was also successful and Alan Long rang very well in his first attempt. Here, also, Jim Andrews completed the circle for the second time. We did not get on very well with the bells at Radcliffe that afternoon, "Cannon's Delight" being miscalled after only a short time, and our decision to try Stedman also came unstuck. (No doubt this was a relief to the workmen re-roofing the church.) Not to be done out of two peals that day four of us rang a good handbell peal in No. 2 bedroom of the hotel immediately above the sitting room so that the remainder of the party could listen.

Easingwold was decided on as the method for Friday at Penwortham and was the first in the method for J. R. K., Tim, Alan, Geoffrey and Jim. We had to replace two of the ropes (sixth and tenor) before we could start at Hoghton in the afternoon, and the tenor rope in particular was very springy. Despite the heat the peal was successful, not many of the c.r.u.'s being lost! This gave Arthur his first in the method. After reviving ourselves at the nearest hostelry some hard driving got us to Emmanuel, Southport, just in time to ring a touch of spliced.

J. R. K. had accepted an offer from the scheduled conductor to have another go at calling Lincolnshire on Saturday afternoon, not realising he was already calling in the morning, so he found himself spending all his spare time on Friday learning Starbuck's and Humphrey's (at least, that's what he said!). Anyhow, both peals came to a successful conclusion.

By this time the heat and ringing were beginning to have their effect and the evening was spent quietly eating and drinking. It was fortunate that Sunday was free, and after leaving Alan Flood at Manchester Piccadilly Station to keep a date with Sherborne we tried to get in to Old Trafford, but as some 27,000 people had been there before us, we made our way to the hills

Our marathon letter writer was rather disgruntled when the Monday morning attempt at Hyde started late owing to some local misunderstanding. However, the traditional attempt for a new Delight method came round at the appropriate time, giving Neil. Geoff Fothergill and Chris their first of Delight. A quick dash to Stockport cheered up our chief scribe, and so the tour finished with 11 peals scored and a very enjoyable, if tiring, ten days.

Our thanks to many people and in particular Jim Andrews, Don Lawson, Geoff Fothergill and last, but not least, Mrs. "Brukes."

JOHN KETTERINGHAM'S PEAL TOUR

UNIVERSITY OF SUSSEX GUILD SUMMER TOUR OF DEVON, 1970

Helped by Devonians Frank Shepperd and John Longridge, this year's University of Sussex Guild tour included some of the finest rings in Devon. Knowledge of the area was supplied by our former master, Ray Talbot, who at the last minute was unable to join us owing to pressure of work.

able to join us owing to pressure of work. A small convoy of cars, plus one minibus, met up at Sidmouth and proceeded down to Teignmouth, the centre of operations. From there forays into the surrounding Devon countryside were masterminded (pun) by Terry. The first full day's ringing, however, took place on August 15 in Exeter purposely to avoid the holiday traffic. It was a pity that the Cathedral tenor was clapperless but there is always another day to ring on the full 12.

Following a shattering storm on Saturday night we emerged on Sunday to ring for services in Teignmouth. From then on the weather was none too good all week, but our gallant party of 20 soldiered on in high spirits. On Monday we headed for Plymouth via Buckland, Widecombe-in-the-Moor and Tavistock. Tuesday, our less-rushed day, ended with a successful quarter peal at Brixham. The band's composition was half local and half guild, and for good measure we supplied a maid amongst our ringers (apologies, Marion)! On Wednesday we travelled north to Thorverton, Cullompton (a glorious ten), New Honiton, Old Honiton (an experience), Ottery St. Mary, Broadclyst and Newton St. Cyres.

Thursday was a special day as we had been invited to ring at Buckfast Abbey. What a fantastic ring it is, a great tribute to the Abbey builders, the Fathers themselves, and to the bellfounders. Between the Abbey visit and ringing at Buckfastleigh our railway enthusiasts managed a trip along the Dart Valley line. On Friday a peal attempt was made at Highweek whilst the others visited Torquay. The peal was lost, unfortunately, but the band rang a quarter before joining us at Babbacombe. After ringing at Paignton and Upton we finished the week's ringing programme at Stoke Gabriel (a recently rehung six).

Our thanks go to all incumbents and ringers who met us, and special thanks to our new friends, Frank, Bob, John, Don, Dick and Steve. Hope to see you in Sussex one day.

A "COMING-OF-AGE"

On the first anniversary of the "firing out" of the Stedman Cinques at St. Paul's (for which the chief Pilgrim is said by some to have been responsible) the 21st Pipe's Pilgrims tour got under way, leaving the Cathedral for a "scientific" tour of the home of "change" ringing — Devon. The party journeyed to Heavitree, where Fred Wreford was waiting to welcome us with a grand Taylor ring to start the week.

Raring to go, the complete party and the all-important Robert at the wheel set out for Thorverton, the first tower on Monday. and Bill Simmonds was on the scene to grab his last eight in the county. A reluctance was shown to leave the next tower at Tiverton (Taylor, 1924)—good ringing on good bells. Next a visit to the Troyte family home—Huntsham. The last remaining member of the family has recently sold Huntsham Court and items in the auction were a set of handbells (£45) and a set of C. A. Troyte's books. The author of "Change Ringing" is buried in the churchyard beside his brother, Arthur, the compiler of "A Guide to the Steeples of England." Brigham Young rang with us here and then on to Uffculme, to be met by Arthur Fidler. Culmstock bells—1, 2, 4 Gillett and Johnston, the remaining five older; and so to Cullompton, where Surrey Pilgrims were delighted to meet Chris Barnes (ex-Streatham).

Tuesday. Hills, hot sun and cows brought us to Noss Mayo which contains the "new" Revelstoke. A view of Newton Ferrers and then Ugborough, the general consensus being that the bells are the front eight of a ring of 12. Through Totnes, with a glimpse of a 16th century cupola and the River Dart, to Brixham. A low ceiling, a fine tower and five founders are features here. The high spot of the day, Buckfast Abbey, came next, but we were disappointed not to meet Brother Angold. Once accustomed to the unusual acoustics in the ringing chamber the bells can be recognised as a fine ring of 12 (tenor 41 cwt.). Listening from the Abbey farmhouse to the back four being lowered in peal with "Hosanna" being rung as a drum note was an experience. Up the hill to the somewhat stark tower (with spire) of Buckfastleigh, with a glorious view through the mist of the Abbey below. The bells (Taylor, 1935) are in a two-tier metal frame—three above, five below. The last tower of the day was Buckland-in-the-Moor. A strikable eight, three trebles by Taylor, an augmentation of a 1760 Bilbie five, and here eight ladies rang a good touch of Bob Major. Features of the church are the tower screen (erected 1908 to the memory of a reverend gentleman), the "My Dear Mother" clock faces and the vestry in the churchyard opposite the tower.

Wednesday.—At Pilton the bells are 1 to 4 and 6 Taylor, 1853; 5, 7 and 8 Rudhall. 1712: rehung Gillett and Johnston, 1947, on ball bearings in existing frame; rehung Taylors, 1970, with new frame and fittings. Down a corkscrew hill to Combe Martin and Beethoven played by a Pilgrim on a piano in the church was an interesting background to the Mears and Stainbank eight, recast 1922 from an existing six. Through a shower of rain to Georgeham, where the bells were everhauled by Mr. Fidler in June. A nostalgic moment for two Pilgrims when they met in the porch the man who had married them some years ago. Through the oldest (?) borough in England and over Bideford Bridge to Appledore and a Pilgrims' 1,000th tower visited. Onward through heavy rain to Holsworthy, well known through these columns for its bells tune. They are played electrically by a machine installed by Gillett and Johnston in 1949, who also recast the bells with added weight from an eight of 1836 by Thomas Mears II. And so back to Exeter.

Thursday. - Along the Dart Valley and on to the Moor to High Bickington and cobbles. The 15th century carved pew ends and an even earlier font were much admired. Down a l-in-5 hill and up a l-in-4 to Hatherleigh; more cobbles and a fine shingled spire. Lunch was at the A.D. 1450 George Hotel. Thus to North Tawton, where we met Mr. Fidler again. The church possesses a sundial, an organ loft (very much in use) and a fine board recording a "peal" of 2861 Call Changes rung in 4 hours on 17.1.14. We next came to Newton St. Cyres to be met by Rev. J. M. G. Scott, the incumbent. The back five are by William Evans, of Chepstow, 1733; third Mears and Stainbank, 1908; treble and second Gillett and Johnston, 1951, in which year the bells were rehung and retuned. A quick tea at our hotel and on to St. Mark's, Exeter, a fine modern church with a fine Taylor ring (8 bells). The combination of metal frame and brick tower meant the inevitable clapper knock, which was very pronounced. Our piece de résistance of the week, Exeter Cathedral, came next. A brief tour of this magnificent building was very rewarding before ascending apprehensively to the ringing chamber. Having heard the bells at a distance on Monday evening, ringing them ourselves was very satisfying once we were accustomed to the acoustics and tower movement. Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Grandsire Cinques were successfully rung and rounds for those wishing to "try" the tenor. The next hour or so was spent in the entertaining company of Fred Wreford at a local hostelry.

Friday. - The previous evening at the Cathedral the chief Pilgrim had been in conversation with two American ladies and as a result they joined us for the day. A brief stop at Alphington for Sylvia to take a photograph of the church where she had rung a peal over 20 years previously, and so to Dawlish, with a six recast from a five by Pennington in 1784 and two trebles added in 1911. The bells were rehung in 1888 and 1950. Incumbents can be hard to come by these days, but if offered the 1536 value of this living (£25.5) I'm sure they would never get one at Dawlish! Bill Simmonds took us on a conducted tour until lunch time through Teignmouth, with its coastline railway and red cliffs to Torquay, with a view of Torbay, having passed St. Mary's Church. Mr. K. N. Roberts. general secretary of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, joined us and informed us that we could have had a ring at Babbacombe, his own tower. A glimpse of Lyme Regis and Portland Bill, through Newton Abbot to Highweek, where Superlative was a good start on good bells — Gillett and Johnston, 1935, recast from an eight comprising 1, 2 Taylor, 1919; 3 to 8 (?) Pennington, 1781.

Having negotiated Telegraph Hill, we arrived at St. Thomas', Exeter, which dates from 1261. Coats of arms on the chapel ceiling and the royal arms of 1682 were admired during a touch of Erin Triples on the eight, augmented 1923 by Gillett and Johnston, when they recast the existing six by Pennington, 1789, the treble of these having been recast by Mears in 1901. A quick tea and round the corner to St. David's. Up and over the roof into the ringing chamber of a stone-faced brick tower containing an eight, a little difficult to ring. The church itself is very fine and after a brief look round two Pilgrims were harangued by a doctor who was finding it difficult to hold surgery whilst the bells were ringing. At last the final tower of the tour was reached - St. Petrock's, Exeter (the writer's 100th new tower this year). Inside the bells are virtually impossible to hear. They were restored after the First World War but fell silent in 1936 and were rededicated in 1962. The church is probably unique: its origins are Early English with extensions in 1413, 1513, 1587, 1828 and 1881. The last two extensions changed the direction from east/west to north/south and thus when walking down the aisles one passes through the original nave arcades.

The company gathered in the "functions" room at H.Q. for the traditional end of tour presentation to Jim and Sylvia. Grateful thanks were expressed to this hardworking couple for their efforts in producing yet another first-class tour, and Jim was presented with an expandable suitcase for his "globe-trotting" whilst Sylvia received a china donkey, a replica of "Arthur," for whom there is no substitute. Jim made his customary speech and said that he had intended to make this the last tour but had been persuaded by his wife to arrange at least four more to bring the total to 25 for a silver jubilee. The programme was tentatively announced as Cheshire, Lanca-shire, West London and possibly Ireland. Sylvia added that it was the company as much as the ringing that she enjoyed. Having gone to Bude for the evening Robert, our driver, had to wait until Saturday morning to be presented with a fine glass tankard and a cheque. Having said farewell to nine Pilgrims the remainder boarded the coach for the trip back to London and beyond. Lunch was at Amesbury and tea at Sunningdale.

So ended another tour, which had been so successful that virtually all the company made a provisional booking for next year. "POM-POM."

OVER THE HANTS/DORSET BORDER

On August 22 the ringers of St. Mary's, Fordingbridge, were joined by ringing friends from nearby districts for an enjoyable day's outing. The first tower visited was at Maiden Newton (6, 10½ cwt.), and here ringing from call changes to Doubles methods was enjoyed. At the next tower, at Axminster (a rather heavy eight) the back six were rung up in peal very successfully and some good ringing was experienced on the melodious bells (tenor 25½ cwt.). Afterwards all adjourned for well-earned refreshments and a little relaxation.

The next stop was at Lyme Regis, and here a few of the ringers took a dip in the sea. Tea was taken here, followed by ringing on the rather easy-going eight (tenor 10 cwt.), their tone being quite remarkable. On our way to Dorchester we experienced our first rain of the day and travelled through a thunderstorm. We rang at St. Peter's for an hour on the superb eight (tenor 20 cwt.) and were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Derek Sibson, who appeared to enjoy the bells as much as we did (and were more than helpful!). We had our traditional stop at the Cricketers' Arms in Wimborne, and all enjoyed a social drink and exchanged views on the day's ringing. Special thanks to Ron Marlow, who made the excellent arrangements.

the six. After the augmentation to eight the Surrey Association, Oxford Diocesan Guild and Middlesex County Association all rang peals within six weeks. The Cumberlands rang a peal on January 7, 1913, starting at 5.20 a.m. No explanation is given as to why the early start was made. The College Youths did not visit the tower until 1922 when, on May 13, they rang Stedman Triples. In 1934 the first peal ever of Chiltern Surprise Major was rung, followed in 1936 by the first of Pyrford Surprise Major and in 1938 by Cranbourne Surprise Major.

The first peal by an all-local band was in 1969, of Plain Bob Major, and included W. A. Peck. The second, rung to commemorate this the 150th anniversary of the church, was of London Surprise Major.

25 YEARS AGO Taken from The Ringing World for October 5, 1945

What is not generally recognised is that the possession of an ear keen enough to appreciate the finer points of bell music is by no means universal, even among the best bands.—Leader.

James Higgins rang his first 10-bell peal Appleton (Grandsire), conducted by Walter F. Judge.

Stedman Triples at Farnham included Wm. Viggers, Sgt. John Freeman and Cpl. Fredk. A. H. Wilkins, with Alfred Pulling conducting.

Peal ringing is not an art, but merely a part of the art of ringing, in just the same way as one looks at the performance of a Beethoven symphony, not as an art in itself but as a part of the art of music.-Richard A. Post, of Headington, Oxon.

The experiences of Alfred Williams, of Bexley, Kent, who was with the Fleet Air Arm in Australia, were told in a letter from J. E. Bailey, of Dartford.

A meeting held in Llanfigan, Brecon, was attended by 14 ringers. The eight bells, not often rung, were in a church used regularly only in summer, but several peals had been rung in the tower. One cottage is near the church and the nearest farm is half-a-mile away.

50 YEARS AGO October 8, 1920

What is really wanted is some sort of central authority by whom all new compositions should be examined before any claim to originality should be admitted.— Leader.

Gladys Bateman rang in a peal of Kent T.B. Major at Holme Lacy, Hereford, the first lady to achieve a peal in the county, and she repeated that honour in Shropshire two days later.

A peal of Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes' was in honour of the tercentenary of the sailing of the "Mayflower" and the Pilgrim Fathers.

Ar Whitley Bay, Northumberland, in a peal of London Surprise Major, James E. Richard A., Joseph A., R. Alder and Thomas T. Gofton all took part.

At Knighton, Leicester, a peal of Grandsire Doubles was the first peal on the bells, which had been a five since 1880.

Items of news marked "Press Matter

Only" and in an unsealed envelope required only a ½d. stamp.

Mr. G. E. Symonds wrote regarding "old peals by new composers," and said Mr. Annable's peal of Bob Major was capable of 410 variations.

WHAT MAKES A RINGER TICK?

"Some take it up for the mathematics of it, trying to work out new methods, some for the pure joy of the sound. Others are attracted by the chance it gives to visit beautiful old churches, all different, and others by the satisfaction in the movement of controlling the bell."

This was included in an illustrated and well-written article in The Hertfordshire Mercury about a meeting of the Eastern District of Hertford County Association held at Aspenden recently. Various ringers attending were interviewed and their comments recorded, including the one quoted above, made by Mr. A. Van de Zande, of All Saints, Hertford.

St. Michael's, Yorktown. Camberley, Surrey

STANDING ON A HILL beside the A30 arterial road, as churches go St. Michael's is not old. At one time part of the two hamlets. Camberley and Yorktown, were attached to the parish of Hawley, just over the Hampshire border, and until the formation of Guildford Diocese in 1927 was in that of Winchester. In 1847 it was found that "300 persons were living more than two miles from any church and three from the parish to which they belonged." Signed by four neighbouring clergy, a petition was made for a church at Yorktown, and in the following year a parcel of land was granted from the Royal Military College estate.

With a chancel from abridged designs by Sir Gilbert Scott and nave with the small ventilation spire, St. Michael's was a modest building erected with the local freestone. This was consecrated on May 6, 1851, by the Rt. Rev. Doctor Sumner, Bishop of Winchester, and became a separate parish church. In 1859 the north and south aisles were added. In 1888 the eldest daughter of the vicar died, and he and his wife caused the tower and spire to be built. A brass below the west window records: "The Tower and Spire of this Church were built by Ellen Middleton and her husband Frederick Matthews Middleton, to the Glory of God and the dear memory of their beloved daughter Freda, A.D. 1891." A fund was started to provide a ring of bells and on October 5, 1895, the tower, spire and bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Southampton.

ABOUT THE BELLS

In the key of F major, the eight bells were all cast at one time with the inscription around the crown of each: "John Warner and Sons Ltd. 1895." On the waist of the treble is inscribed:

"Ring forth no uncertain sound, True be thy note for praise be found. Praise the Lord who reigns on high, Both while we live and when we die. In memory of Ellen and Freda Middleton." It is 29" in diameter, weighed 6 cwt. 1 qr.

On plain bearings, the bells hung in a very substantial oak frame which had a rather short life. In 1935 it was found that movement in the timbers was having a detrimental effect on the masonry of the tower, and in the following year the bells went to the foundry of John Taylor and Co., Loughborough. The canons were cut off, the tenor retuned and the whole ring hung on ball bearings in an iron frame. By the removal of metal each bell is now approximately ½ cwt. lighter, the tenor now being 13 cwt. 3 qr. 9 lb. Reinstalled, the dedication took place on October 23, 1936. by the Rt. Rev. C. H. Golding-Bird, Asst. bishop of Guildford.

The bells are rung from the ground and have been heard "on the air" several times. To shorten the very long draught a faculty has now been granted to install a gallery 10 feet up. The ringers are committed to raising some of the cost, and contributions would be welcome (as indeed are all visitors as well). Ringing is every Sunday, at 9.30 a.m. and 5.45 p.m. Practice, Wednesdays.

Over 50 peals have been rung on the bells and the peal book contains some well-known names from the past, among them the Rev. F. E. Robinson, George Gilbert and Alfred H. Pulling, and in the present Michael J. Church, who is a member of the local band. The parish magazine for October, 1895, giving full details of the dedication service on a Wednesday evening. states: "At the conclusion, the first peal was rung by a band of the Winchester Guild of Bellringers, a large number of the congregation remaining in church to watch the proceedings." The method was Holt's Original composition, 5040 Grandsire Triples. conducted by Henry White. As this took 3 hours I minute it must have been near midnight when it came round. (Bell News, October 12, 1895, gives details.)

An interesting peal is recorded for Sunday, July 25, 1897: 5184 Plain Bob Major in 3 hours 15 minutes, "composed and conducted by Frank Bennett." A footnote states: "The composition is now rung for the first time."

Incidentally it may be of interest to note that the title, Yorktown, is now obsolete. Having become incorporated in the township of Camberley. Yorktown is only used locally to indicate that sector of the town. Visitors to Camberley find "Dove" misleading on this point. RAYMOND BATH.

SPONSORED RINGING

As the first effort to raise money for the new Mitcheldean Community Centre, the young ringers from Mitcheldean, Church volunteered to attempt three sponsored quarter peals in one evening. 5.30 p.m. the ringing commenced and, three quarter peals later, seven tired, sore-handed but happy young ringers finished their self-appointed task, and by their unselfish efforts earned £30 for the fund. The ringing also achieved two first quarters, one first inside and one first as conductor.

As this attempt was arranged and carried out entirely by the young people themselves, it proves that initiative and enthusiasm among our young ringers is still very much in evidence. A. A. P.

WHEN AUTUMN LEAVES DID FALL

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD HOLDS ITS FESTIVAL

The sun shone brilliantly for most of the day on October 3 and the streets and colleges of Oxford were thronged with thousands of people from many parts of the world. There were the mini-skirted young (and not so young) ladies, others wearing maxis and midis, spruce young men and long-haired and bearded ones too; but over them all the music of the bells from church towers passed almost unnoticed, for such sounds are all part of the life in this city of spires, towers and bells.

The Bishop of Oxford (Rt. Rev. H. J. Carpenter), who retires in December after 16 years in the diocese, photographed by the R.W. at the festival. Miss Elizabeth Sharpe, Miss Elfie Klemenjak (an Austrian lady) and Mr. Frederick Sharpe (deputy master) are also portrayed.

The gateman at Christ Church College was polite but very insistent: "You cannot park in here, sir. Bellringer? Try the next gate down the road." And so to the next gate, where a large notice stated that no parking was permitted except with the express permission of the Dean. However, that gentleman was not to be seen and nobody else was interested and so we parked. trusting the Dean would agree that the Oxford Diocesan Guild's festival was worthy of reporting in the columns of The Ringing World and that the editor was also worthy of a parking space for his car.

The wind was blowing strongly through the cloisters, corridors and gateways of this magnificent old college and cathedral, now in the hands of cleaners, restorers, builders and other multifarious trades, the work costing, no doubt, a considerable sum, but all very worth while and essential.

THE FESTIVAL SERVICE

About 200 were present in the cathedral and a bright and happy service was conducted by the Guild's clerical master, Canon C. Elliot Wigg, the crucifer being the deputy master, Mr. Frederick Sharpe, with the Bishop of Oxford (Rt. Rev. H. J. Carpenter) being seated in the sanctuary. hymns were well chosen and sung lustily: "Unchanging God," "Ye holy angels bright," "Immortal, invisible, God only wise," with the Jubilate Deo (Psalm 100). Mr. Sharpe read the lesson from Isaiah 60 and the prayers included one for the Oxford Guild. The organist was Mr. Kemsley (from Wilmslow) and the choir of boys, young ladies and men were from various towers in the Oxford Guild, chorister-bellringers who led the singing with obvious harmonious pleasure.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS

In his address to the assembled congregation the Bishop (who is the Guild president) spoke of his experiences among the ringers in his diocese when visiting the many churches during his work as bishop. It gave him the greatest thrill always. Ringing combined a healthy exercise, a great sense of rhythm and movement, skill and team work, and it played a real part in the worship of the church.

Bellringing also was doing good youth work, for youth did not only want entertaining, as was generally supposed, but to have something to do that was worth doing. Bellringing did just that. In the Oxford Guild they were fortunate in their leaders, Canon Wigg and Frederick Sharpe.

Continuing, the Bishop quoted the collect for St. Michael's Day and compared the ringers' work with that very well known prayer. "We ought to reflect more often," he said, "on God's creation and the wonderful order of things which He has given to us. We must give thanks to God for worship which we share with the holy angels, and for the particular part we play in summoning people to join in that worship; we give thanks for His succour and for our opportunities of helping others. He has given His creation a wonderful order and we must thank Him day by day for it," concluded the Bishop.

At the close of the service there was a retiring collection for the Guild's Restoration Fund

LUNCHEON AND SPEECHES
The wonderful dining hall of Christ
Church College was the scene of a social hour before luncheon was served, about 160 sitting down. On the platform were seated the master (who presided), the Bishop, Mr. Sharpe, Miss E. Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barker (treasurer and vicepresident respectively), Mr. and Mrs. Kemsley, and Miss M. Cross, Dr. J. Baldwin and Mr. H. Oglesby (stewards), Miss Elfie Klemenjak, Mr. W. Butler (general secretary), Mrs. J. Kelley, Mr. W. G. Wilson (vice-president) and Mr. C. W. Denyer, (editor. The Pinging World)

(editor, The Ringing World).

The loyal toast was followed by one to the Church and State, given by Mr. W. Butler, who spoke of the formation of the Guild nearly 90 years ago and compared the number of clergy then to the numbers now. Today the Bishop of Oxford was the president and the Bishops of Dorchester, Buckingham and Reading and three archdeacons were vice-presidents and in 1885 the Archbishop of Canterbury was patron. The speaker then gave several amusing anecdotes and concluded by asking the company to rise and honour the toast.

BISHOP RETIRING

The Bishop in replying said he was the last bishop to be recommended for appointment by Sir Winston Churchill and had been for nearly 16 years in the diocese. He would be retiring from Oxford in December and moving over the border into Gloucestershire, but he looked forward to disguising himself and slipping into Oxford to meet again the many bellringing friends that he had made. We were, he said, all members of the Church and members of the State and were therefore toasting ourselves. He thanked everyone for what they did for the Church and wished continued success and prosperity to the Oxford Guild. Occasionally he had a letter of complaint from a parishioner about the bellringing, and he always told them if they lived near a church that had bells they must expect to hear them. He thanked the company for the way they had drunk the toast,

Dr. J. Baldwin proposed the toast of "The Visitors" and mentioned many present who had travelled long distances and to whom they extended a special welcome. He then gave an interesting account of his year in the U.S.A. and his ringing activities there, emphasising the fact that in England ringers could make almost as much noise as they liked, but this was not the case in America for it was limited considerably.

RINGING WORLD APPRECIATED

In welcoming the editor of The Ringing World, Dr. Baldwin said how much the new typeface and layout were appreciated, as were the variety of articles and items printed. [Applause.] He appealed to the assembly to keep the paper alive by sending in regular contributions to the editor. He also suggested that amendments which were given at frequent intervals should always be together and not included as belfry gossip items as had begun to happen recently. It helped those who tried to keep records accurately for they could then turn to the proper page for that purpose.

The toast was well received. The editor in responding first thanked the Guild for their hospitality to the guests and agreed to keep amendments as one item in future. He pointed out that these were not necessarily all printers' errors and asked all contributors to submit copy separately. on one side of a sheet only and not to put peals, quarter peals and reports on the same piece of paper as sometimes happened.

Continuing, Mr. Denyer referred to a proposal that one day there might be a national association, as had recently been suggested, and gave his opinion as to what an uninteresting paper the R.W. would then be with only divisions, sections and subsections recording peals and reports.

The Oxford Guild is a strong, healthy and influential body, he stated, and if a national society ever came about they in that guild would have a big say in such matters. He thanked them for the support they always gave to The Ringing World and asked the visitors to drink a toast to the continuing success and prosperity of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

The visitors responded with enthusiasm.

THE BUSINESS MEETING

Many visitors left the hall to grab many of the 26 towers which had been made available for their exercise and pleasure, the Bishop retired and the master opened the business meeting. Following the signing of the minutes a count of those attending was taken to ensure a quorum was present, and this having been established the following items were disposed of: (a) the honorarium to the deputy master to be as before, and tives' expenses. Both these items were carried

The detail concerning grants from the Restoration Fund was held over until the next meeting as no information was available. A discussion followed on fixing the date of the 1971 A.G.M. at Dorchester and it was agreed to revert next year and in future years (except 1972) to the first Saturday in July. In 1972 the Oxford Society would be holding its centenary on that date and the Guild will therefore avoid any clash with this event.

GUILD OUTING?

The general secretary, in other business, put forward a suggestion that the whole guild should try to get together for a day's outing. It would be a big event but could be done if each district co-operated. As many as 500 or 600 might make the jour-

AT THE FIRST ATTEMPT

On September 5 ringers of St. Paul's Society, Papanui (N.Z.), rang the first peal for the Society. Last year a peal of 42 Doubles methods-variations had been planned, but as the year progressed alterations to the bell frame for the augmentation to six bells intervened, and it became clear that a peal could not be rung before the installation of the new treble. This took place on January 24 with the dedication a week later, and then thoughts turned to Minor rather than Doubles, Two quarters of Plain Bob and one of Kent T.B. were rung and it seemed that a good excuse for a peal would be the 90th anniversary of the old back five bells. This anniversary fell due in July, but the band were not yet ready. Finally September 5 was chosen, and right up to this time opinions were divided as to whether or not Kent and Oxford T.B. should be included. A peal of Plain Bob was less exciting but more likely than other methods to be achieved by the inexperienced band.

We played safe, and a peal of 5040 Plain Bob Minor was rung in 3 hours 42 minutes at the first attempt (recorded in this issue). The ringers are members of the St. Paul's Sunday service band - the first all - New Zealand team to ring Cambridge S. without the assistance of ringers from England.

ney, although catering would be a problem. It was agreed to put the suggestion to the committee with a view to getting opinions.

Mr. Sharpe voiced a comprehensive vote of thanks to the many who had contributed in a variety of ways to the undoubted success of the festival, and this was accorded with acclamation.

In a few minutes the hall was empty as each and every one went their way-some to view Great Tom, some to continue a tour of the available towers and some to visit or revisit the galaxy of beautiful buildings which are always a joy and a wonder.

The 60-mile journey back to Farnham was pleasant indeed the beautiful autumn tints among the trees, the ever-changing shadows and sunshine, the many crossings of rivers with the varied craft moored or scurrying along, their owners making the most of what remains of a beautiful sum-Certainly a day to remember.

MARRIED HIS PUPIL

The wedding took place at St. Thomas a Becket Church, Pagham, Sussex, on Sept. 5, between Michael J. Wake and Patricia Clark, the weather being bright and sunny. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by Canon T. H. Franklin (Vicar of Sidlesham) and was attended by several ringers from the district.

The bells were rung before and after the wedding by friends and relatives from Chichester, Felpham and Pagham.

Mike and Pat are both regular ringers at Felpham and Pagham, having met when Mike was assisting in teaching a band at Pagham after the bells were rehung. Pat was one of the learners and is now an accomplished ringer and they both intend to continue their ringing.

After the photographs were taken outside the church the bride and bridegroom returned to the belfry to be photographed with the ringers and rang a few rounds with the bridegroom's parents and the bridegroom's brother (who was best man). After the reception a quarter peal was rung by members of the Chichester and Pagham bands. Peals were also rung in seven Minor methods at Felpham and Thakeham.

ROPESIGHT

Observant readers will have noted with pleasure that Ropesight is now again available in the Snowdon series—obtainable along with Grandsire from Christopher Groome (see advert). I have, I suppose, had a greater connection with the Snowdon series than any other ringer since the death of Mr. J. A. Trollope, but the reputation of Ropesight is such that it would be invidious of me to review the new edition (the thirteenth) as if it were a new publication now presented to the Exercise.

I must first, however, congratulate Mr. Groome on being able to publish this edition for sale at only 8s. The tenth (1946) and eleventh (1950) editions, which I have before me, were priced at 3s.—they were probably straight reprints from standing type of the earlier editions. The present issue has, I imagine, only been possible at the price by the use of a modern lithographic process, making an exact copy of earlier editions.

I cannot avoid expressing my regret, though I can understand the reason, that the opportunity was not taken to modernise the 19th century format and language for much the same reasons as it has been found necessary to do this for the Bible. This would have meant a new printing, at greater cost, but careful editing could have reduced the volume by at least 50 per cent. without affecting the usefulness of the explanations. Indeed, they would have been clearer and more comprehensible to a generation brought up on strip cartoons and present day press articles and TV programmes.

The major part of Ropesight is a series of chapters dealing with changes on, respectively, four, five, six, seven and eight bells; all in the Plain Bob method, just as would be expected of Jasper Snowdon, a Yorkshireman, writing in 1879. But today we should expect the chapters on five and seven bells to deal with Grandsire. Confusing to the reader? only if you persist in regarding Grandsire as a different method. But explain that Grandsire on five bells is Plain Bob on four with an additional hunt bell, and that Grandsire on seven bells is Plain Bob Minor with an additional hunt bell, and a good deal of the confusion is gone. And the usefulness of the book to a beginner has increased tre-mendously. I believe that if Ropesight had been modernised as was Grandsire in 1948 and Stedman in 1938, then such is its reputation that it would have sold at a higher price, if that had proved necessary-and I would have risked my money for the chance to prove it.

But we must all be glad that newcomers to the Exercise have now at last the chance of obtaining a copy of this most famous of the Snowdon series with, in addition to the chapters mentioned above, the detailed chapters on handling a bell, ringing rounds, pricking changes, conducting and calling round, raising and falling in peal, rope splicing and proof of Plain Bob Major. But above all, with its author's emphasis on the accurate striking which can only be attained by good bell management and careful listening by the beginner at the rope's end.

Belfry Gossip

Well-known ringer Martyn Hawkes has been appearing regularly on ITV recently as the driver of the Mini in the Shell petrol advertisement who is amazed at the number of miles his car does to the gallon!

Stubbed cigarette ends in tower and nave were found by Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner, president of the Northampton Branch, in his church (Harlestone) after a snatch by touring ringers from elsewhere.

St. Mary's, Addington, Croydon, are hoping for support at practices from outside sources. They have six "dolly birds," a steeplekeeper and captain, and as the dollies are studying for exams at times the practices are a bit thin. Practice nights, Mondays, 8.15. Secretary: Penelope Cocks, 11 Crossways, Addington.

Going abroad to Ndola, Zambia, in the near future, are Jeff and Sandra Claughton, of Highmead, Tilford, Farnham, Surrey, and are relying on their family at home to forward the R.W. until the end of the year when they hope to indulge in an air mail copy direct. Jeff is taking up a post in the city engineer's department which will last for three years, and both hope to meet fringers in that part of Africa and trust ringging friends will keep in contact. (We wish them good luck in their new post.—Ed.)

The East Anglian Daily Times gave an excellent picture and article to 10-years-old Laurence Payne, of Whepstead, Suffolk, who, finding he could not sing, took over the job of honorary verger. He rings the bells on Friday, gets the hymn boards ready and generally makes himself useful round the church. He has eight brothers and sisters, five of whom sing in the choir!

The oldest bell in the Northampton District is thought to be at Great Billing—tenor by John Yorke, cast about 1370—writes Geo. F. Roome in the Northampton Branch Newsletter.

Assisting Mr. Frederick Sharpe in the translation and compilation of a book on Austrian bells, Miss Elfie Klemenjak (an Austrian) was a welcome visitor to the Oxford festival on October 3. Her classic beauty was outstanding and added considerably to the attractions of the principal table at the luncheon.

When difficulties occur. trouble threatens or help is required, Mr. Wilfrid Wilson is always willing to oblige. Forty-two quires of Ringing Worlds delivered to a London wholesaler were returned to Guildford because of the SOGAT delivery dispute, but a phone call to Waterloo 5000 had Wilfrid nipping round the corner and arranging things with the firm concerned, and we trust all R.W.s eventually were delivered, even though a day late. The Oxford Guild also appreciated W.G.W.'s help for the large amount of duplicated paper work which he had executed on their behalf. (But then he is one of their vice-presidents!)

The Cambridge Surprise Major peal at Malmesbury was rung by eight of the Sunday service band of St. Mary's, Cheltenham—the first of Surprise by the band.

The East Anglian Daily Times of September 22 gave a heading "A Suffolk Idyll" to a September sunshine picture of Monks Eleigh, which enhanced this idyllic scene in an unspoilt Suffolk village.

The peal of Lincolnshire at Framsden on September 28 was rung as a compliment to the composer, Mr. Charles J. Sedgley, to commemorate his taking part in the second-ever peal of Cambridge Maximus in September, 1910. This was rung at Ipswich by a local band.

Mr. Leslie Dobbie, of New Bridge Avenue, Milton Regis, Kent, is finding life desperately lonely since the loss of his wife and appeals to ringers—in particular a lady—to join him in his ringing activities.

Congratulations were extended to the general secretary of the Oxford Guild at their festival recently, when it was announced that he had become engaged to Miss J. Barker (both are Thatcham ringers).

In recent months Walter Smith, of East Quantockshead, Som, has not had the best of health: it was a pleasure to have him ringing in the quarter peal at Over Stowey on September 22. Like all loyal ringers, as soon as he felt fit and well he was back ringing at the first opportunity.

That popular young ringer Peter England recently celebrated his 21st birthday, and to mark the event an inscribed tankard was presented to him by his fellow ringers at Yatton, Somerset, where he is vice-captain; they also rang a quarter peal to honour the occasion

No fewer than 25 first peals are recorded this week, and some very young people amongst them. In New Zealand five rang in a peal, at Crimplesham four succeeded at their first attempt and at Mickleton all six of the band, including the conductor, were first pealers. All this augurs well for the Exercise and we wish further successes to each and every one of these 25.

First peal congratulations to Keith Record, Dawn Owen, Brian McDowell, Christopher Oakes - Monger, Janice Flight, Gillian Spence, Jillian Richardson, Mary Spence, Ronald Stevens, Ross Williams, Alan Craggs, David Kennedy, David Briggs, Alfred Symonds (14), Christine Hudson (14), Brian Sayers (14), Michael Mann, Michael Fairfax, Roy Kibblewhite, David Hart, Martin Reed, John Nicholls, William Morrey, Susan Godwin, David Tomlinson.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe writes that he has just completed 23 tower and bell inspections (in three weeks) and asks that other inspections anticipated be deferred until he has submitted reports of those already examined.

Personal records.—F. William Midwinter (300 peals), Roger Baldwin (600), Thomas J. Lock (1,100), Susan M. O'Neill (25), and new conductors: Bernard Taylor and John Nicholls.

By collecting wastepaper and paper sacks from farmers and smallholders Belton (Northants) ringers have added £76 10s. to their bell fund. Something like 12 tons of paper was handled.

According to a national newspaper the Liberty Bell in America (cast 1752), which is cracked, is to be the subject of a complaint to Whitechapel Bell Foundry next month, when the president of a body called the Procrastinators visits London. That body says the crack was caused by shoddy British workmanship, but Mr. Douglas Hughes, of the Whitechapel foundry, puts the blame on the (American) incorrect hanging and their messing about with the bell. (Should be an interesting meeting.—Fd.)

Letters

WILLIAM PYE

Dear Sir,-I thank most sincerely your correspondents for the fine articles written on the occasion of my late father's centenary; also the bands who rang peals and quarter peals.

I feel that a special "Thank you" is due to the men of Suffolk, in which county my father rang many of his early peals. His first of Double Norwich was at Lavenham and New Cambridge at Grundisburgh. It was a great privilege to be invited to Grundisburgh to call the peal of Cambridge Royal for this special occasion. The generosity and fine hospitality of Suffolk which my father found in his day is still carried on by the present generation, led by such men as "Jim" Pipe and Les Brett. May they be spared many more years to carry on the fine work.—Yours faithfully, ERNEST W. PYE.

A QUANTITY CALLED "Q"

Dear Sir.—The recent correspondence on the tuning of bells seems not to have mentioned the possibility that in addition to the method of tuning the decay-time of the vibrations may be of considerable impor-tance to the pleasing (or otherwise) sound of the bells when rung in changes.

As a radio engineer I have in mind a quantity called "O": the ratio of the energy stored to the energy given up during each cycle of vibration, and which determines the time taken for each bell to give up its vibrational energy.

During relatively slow ringing, say on six bells, a longer "tail" to the decaying vibrations of each bell would be tolerated, whilst this would tend to smear the notes of a faster sequence, say on 12 bells, so as to make them indistinguishable. Conversely, bells which are "short of breath" might be clearly separable by the ear even when rung closely behind one another.

Is it possible that the long-persistent hum heard in the background of some of our more sonorous bells may be attributable to their high "Q" factor rather than which particular tones were selected in the tuning process?

When ringing I have often been distracted (from the method!) by what I can only describe as "secondary music" — a strange contrapuntal "tune" which accompanies changes struck on "musical" rings of bells, and which I take to be due to intermodulation between the various strike notes and the various components of the background hum, but distinct from either. I wonder whether one of the experts would care to comment on the above?—Yours faithfully, GEOFFREY C. BAGLEY.

Malvern Link, Worcs.

Kevin Taber, of Croydon, writes: "Regarding the comments in Belfry Gossip as to the condition of the ropes at St. John's. Croydon, for the festival ringing, I must point out the new ropes had in fact been prestretched for as long as two weeks on clock weights and they have now been used for two months. One quarter peal has been rung by the local band on them. However, it was perhaps unfortunate to have new ropes on for such an occasion as open ringing, and on behalf of the Croydon Society I should like to apologise if the day's enjoyment was in any way marred for the visitors.

LUNDY ISLAND BELLS

Dear Sir,-I made an inspection of the bells on Lundy in 1964—the only bell inspection for which I have had to travel by paddle-steamer! They were then on the floor of the porch and I understand they are there still. The problem of disposing of them in any way at all is much complicated by the transport difficulty, as there is no quay at Lundy Island and they would have to be transferred somehow down a very rough, steep track and into a small vessel lying offshore.

The frame had been partly dismantled for safety; the cast iron trusses between the oak sills had rusted to the appearance of lace curtains, with the salt spray blowing through the large openings in the tower. The tower was seriously cracked above the doorway, and in view of the situation, which will require a special frame to resist the weather condition and the unlikely prospect of keeping a ring of bells manned, the outlook is less bright than some of your correspondents may suppose.

The bells were fitted with bolt-through crown staples and two of these had rusted right into the bells. On the 4th expansion had cracked the bell, and by now the same may have happened to the 7th.

My version of the inscription differs somewhat from Mr. Mountjoy's, but as I cleaned the bells carefully before making it (and as it makes better sense in Latin) I think it's correct. I may, however, be wrong about the 3rd and 4th: with the bells on the floor it was difficult to tell which was which, but the diameters ought to make the order which I suggest.

POOLSTOCK BELLS

Dear Sir. The statement regarding Poolstock St. James' bells, Wigan (R.W., page 762), not having received any attention is incorrect. The bells were hung in 1896, the 7th rehung about 1929 and all the bells were rehung in 1938. The 7th was rehung again in 1960, but the bells will never go well until a metal frame is put in and metal headstock put on the bells .-- Yours faith-

STRIKING COMPETITIONS

Dear Sir, A good argument in favour of the striking competitions which are now increasingly popular and widespread is that on these occasions the complexity of the method becomes of secondary importance to ringing the bells in accurately-struck changes. It seems to me, therefore, that to award extra points for a particular method is to defeat the object of what is after all a striking competition, and as it places a less advanced band at a disadvantage some towers may be deterred from taking part for this reason, which is a pity.

But a practice which makes fair assessment impossible is that of allowing a team to include ringers who are not members of the tower concerned, as the band itself may well be below strength or lacking sufficient skilled members of its own. Awards made to towers on this basis are rather meaningless, to say the least, and such rules do nothing to encourage the maintenance of full Sunday service bands. — Yours faith-

M. L. MANN.

THE SAWSTON PEAL
Dear Sir.—With reference to Michael Ling's recent letter concerning the peal at Sawston, in which it was stated that the peal was believed to be the only one to be rung for the Ely Diocesan Association by a "purely local band," I beg to inform him that a peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung at March on September 29, 1956, by the local team of Sunday service ringers.

I have no idea whether that peal was the first by a local team for the Association. It was not the first time that March ringers had achieved such a peal. In 1815 a local team rang one to the accompaniment of crackling bonfires and noisy fireworks, the occasion being November 5. The Elv Diocesan Association had not been formed then.

It is pleasing that the Sawston peal has received official recognition, for an effort such as that, successfully concluded by a local band, is truly a milestone and one that is comparatively rare nowadays. Yours faithfully,

TREVOR A. BEVIS.

WHITECHAPEL QUATERCENTENARY

Dear Sir, The excellent account of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry of September 25 reminded the members of St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, of their last outing to some London churches before the Second World War, in 1938. Thrir first call was at the foundry, and after a look round the late Mr. A. A. Hughes showed them the beautiful and symmetrically-shaped four ton tenor contemplated for Liverpool Cathedral. which he struck several times for all to hear its magnificent tune and to be among the first to hear it.

Through unavoidable circumstances it was not settled in the proper place until about ten years afterwards. A wag once wrote and asked: "Is it Mears and Stainbank, or Stain and Mearsbank, or Mearsbank and Stain?"—Yours faithfully.

THE LAUGHTER OF MUSIC

"Change ringing has been called the laughter of music. But it is much more than that to all of us. It decorates the fleeting time with arabesques of coloured sound, which forms a fitting accompaniment to the motions, be they joyous or sorrowful, of those that hear it. The soul-compelling powers of bells, it is true, have been minished since the waning of the Middle Ages, the great age of Christianity, when Earth seemed the ante-chamber of Heaven, and the strait gates of mortality stood always ajar.

"We no longer believe that the music of bells laughs to scorn and drives away the blue malignant mists which brood over a plague-smitten land. And since we cannot believe in it, so salutary a miracle is now impossible. But in the countries of the vine, at any rate, there are many simple Christian folk who are sure that the clangour of great bells will break and dissipate a storm of lightning and pelting hail more effectively than the wide-mouthed noise guns invented for the same purpose.

"Yet the love of change ringing, which caused England to be called the 'Ringing Isle' in a bygone century, is still quick in the hearts of Englishmen. Therefore we wish good fortune to all the fraternities of bell-ringers, both great and small, who ply their long descended craft—a noble athletic pursuit indeed—in innumerable belfries, and have the art always to turn a holiday into a holy day

"Change ringing will doubtless remain the Englishman's favourite form of music in the heavens, for he is still the most conservative of racial types in all matters that appeal to that giant heart of memories and tears and laughter, which is called nationality

"It is good tidings to know that a tower is to be built and a fine carillon installed therein at Loughborough as a war memorial to the fallen townsmen." — The Morning Post, 1920.

WOLVERHAMPTON PENSIONERS

This band was formed some years ago for the purpose of assisting with ringing at mid-week weddings, and on Tuesday afternoon, August 25, Mr. Bert Morton (senior member of the band) arranged a very enjoyable outing into Shropshire for the members. Ringing took place at Cound, Berrington and Atcham, three delightful small villages near Shrewsbury.

At the conclusion of the ringing at Atcham (the church is on the left bank of the Severn) the party adjourned to the riverside lawn of the adjacent hostelry and enjoyed their drinks in the evening sunshine.

The day ended with a meal in Wolverhampton, when Fred and Joan Bennett were the guests of the members. This gesture was in return for hospitality extended to the Pensioners by Fred and Joan a year ago.

The Pensioners thank Mr. W. Lloyd, of Cound, himself a Pensioner, for his assistance with this outing, and also Rev. G. S. Lloyd (Atcham) and Rev. Donovan Allen (Berrington) for the use of their bells.

AN AUSTRALIAN SLANT

It is tantalising to read the list of towers covered in a week's ringing tour in England when your nearest ringing neighbour may be 60 miles away, and to grab 25 towers you have to cover over 5,000 miles. Having accomplished this, there is only one choice left—England. So after four years of saving and six months' travelling I was in time for the 1970 U.A. tour in Northamptonshire.

We were centred in Knuston Hall, Irchester, and on August 22 the company of 45, loaded with hampers of food sufficient for an army of ringers, set out for the first of the 55 towers on our list.

With an average of eight towers a day we had about an hour's ringing in each, which allowed everyone one or two good rings and there was a chance for all to try new methods. Each day two different ringing masters were appointed and the majority seemed satisfied with the difficult job they performed. The tour had been very well planned by Richard Speed, who was unfortunately in America on business, but his wife, Anne, was a capable deputy.

The area is rich in rings of eights and sixes with the occasional heavy five, such as at Leighton Bromwell. Daventry had a well-going light ten, and Kettering a heavier ten in an impressive spire. The Saxon tower at Earl's Barton was celebrating its millennium while we were there.

There were some embarrassing moments, as when, with a well-known bellfounder in our midst, a vicar with tower problems informed our expert that he did not trust these bellfounders for an accurate report. He would rather trust the local carpenter.

Northampton churches have a fine selection of brasses, which can be well combined with a ringing tour, and a surprising number of ringers found themselves carefully rubbing a brass while the writer dashed off for a ring. We also had an American statistician in tow when he realised the mathematical side of our art. He has now departed with various recordings, including an explanatory talk by Dennis Bayles with handbell demonstration.

Two quarters were attempted and rung, one of Cambridge Surprise Minor and one of Plain Bob Minor (the latter in hand at 7 a.m., which was an achievement after a night of table tennis, drinking, singing and bridge until 2 a.m.).

At the business meeting I felt envious about the tour plans for Essex and Devon in the following years, and I must be content with the 1972 A.N.Z.A.B. tour in New Zealand, even it does mean three towers instead of a hundred.

BARRIE DOVE'S TOUR Diary of a Peal Week

Friday. — Discovered that several of the tourists, including one of the organisers, would be unable to participate. Battle headquarters established at The Flat and supply lines via Whitelock's and the Nag's Head.

Saturday. — First attempt of the week—London Major at Brighouse—traditionally fired out amid hangovers and muttering. Reached Halifax after an unconducted tour of the West Riding, although because of depleted numbers we could only man the light eight. Result—a good peal of 9-spliced.

Sunday.—Lie in. Feeling much more relaxed, and, augmented by a couple of our worthy part-timers, we managed Cambridge Royal at Pontefract (St. Giles), where the treble ringer heard his bell for the first time while ringing down. Evensong ringing at Leeds Parish Church, followed by customary entertainment.

Monday. — Wortley deterred those who remembered a fiasco here the previous year and, rather like football vandals, we left certain shoes and shirts outside the ringing chamber. A good peal of Rutland was scored, however, despite much sweating and groaning on the back end. Over to Bolsterstone to wrestle with the clock hammers. Watford was achieved here, while litt!e woolly finger-pads showered the floor; this was to become a popular feature.

Tuesday. — Pontefract All Saints is an ingenious blend of the old tower and a small new church set within the charred but impressive ruins of the original building. Local legend tells of fairies in the ringing chamber and it may have been these who disrupted our Ashtead in parts. But a steady peal was secured on the very pleasant eight.

Sherburn-in-Elmet was only an emergency tower and is not an easy option for a peal at the best of times. Our band, unrested from the beginning of the week. rang Bristol and collapsed – fortunately after it was safely concluded.

Wednesday.—After an hour of fine Ealing at Idle, Bradford, the newly-inducted vicar asked us to stand as a result of complaints. Having run the gauntlet of one formidable lady ourselves, we appreciated his feelings if not his policy. In the afternoon Oxenhope was again a stop-gap tower, with broken stays and decaying ropes giving one member a bad case of Bellhangers' Droop. Lighting problems complicated matters and Zebedee was shaky enough to justify calling round at the quarter. Our smallest ringer performed from a pile of boxes and hassocks as tall as himself, giving rise to speculation on the direction of his eventual fall.

Thursday. — Disaster Day. By this time we were down to a bare eight ringers, with no possible rep!acements, and the discovery that our mini-ringer had gone ill meant that we had to cancel attempts at St. Cuthbert's, Darlington, and Bishop Auckland, probably the two best towers of the week. Ron arranged a ring at Chapel Allerton for us at short notice and, having picked a Surprise Minor method out with a pin, a well-struck peal of Northumberland was rung. Evening handbell ringing proved popular with the neighbours.

Friday. — Cambridge Royal at Marsden was reduced to a quarter—of course, once the decision had been taken the ringing miraculously improved! We were chagrined to hear the opposition peal tour doing better there in the afternoon, with local

LETTER ORIGINAL

Dear Sir,-I have noted with interest the recent correspondence regarding composi-tions (rather the lack of) of "Original" tions (rather the lack of) of Minor. One very elementary aspect of the principle seems so far to have been overlooked by Minor ringers, which makes the process of obtaining a composition of Original for any number of bells quite a simple matter. The plan which can be used is a direct parallel with that used by Robert Roan in the 17th century to obtain an extent of Plain Bob Minor from Reverse Grandsire Doubles. In the case of Original, the method which bears such a relationship is simply Plain Bob itself (and thus Reverse Grandsire on working backwards). All that needs to be done is simply to calls bobs in Original Minor at the same interval as bobs are called in Plain Bob Triples (the unit in each case being the lead for Plain Bob and two changes for

For example, the simple touch of bobs Wrong and Home repeated (Wrong here I call tenor 5-6 up) for Bob Triples produces, when transposed, the following touch of Original:—

-	241356 423165	4ths
	432615 346251
	364521 635412
	653142 561324
	516234 152643
	125634	Lead

Repeated.

Now a touch "Wrong and Middle" (five courses) for Bob Triples produces a plain course of Single Court. An extent of Original (Single Court) when transposed to Bob Triples produced an extent of Bob Triples. Such an extent is given in Rope-people who for once enjoy hearing their bells. At this tower gates have to be shut to keep sheep out—a coincidence, since we had a shepherd ringing with us. He seemed to be a jinx, but perhaps he just had a baa-d influence on us. A fine peal of 17spliced was then scored at Saddleworth.

Saturday.—Break-up day, in every sense of the word. A clapper broke at Leeds after two-and-a-half hours of the ill-fated Zebedee (who wanted a Z for their alphabets?) and the ringing itself broke up at St. Francis', Holbeck—possibly the effect of not being able to stand out of an occasional attempt and sleeping on the floor for a week.

Standards in general seemed to be rather higher than last year and the ringing consistently better. Although we lost more peals this time there was a greater effect of tiredness and mechanical failure than before and the choice of towers was reduced by three tours picking the same area within two weeks. So advance warning—Dorset has been chosen for next year's invasion!

BISHOP BELL.

sight (page 90) by Annable and is simply the standard calling of Single Court Minor adapted to Bob Triples.

As can be seen, calling by the treble can be directly transposed to calling by the seventh in Bob Triples by the following

Original (Treble)	Bob Triples	(7th)
Lead	Home
Out	Wrong (5-6	up)
In	Middle (5-6	down)
4ths	4ths
Home	In
Wrong	Out

I shall conclude by giving two examples of extents of Original transposed from Bob Triples. Several peals of Triples are to be found in Ropesight and in many reports from the last century and the early years of this one.

	Hubbard) M H	720 Original Out In Lea
=	3 3			3
5x repeated. SS Home halfway and end.		5x repeated. SS Lead halfway and end.
W	м н	Out	In	Lead
In Out 4ths	— 3 — 3 3 3		d. —	3333
4 x re	neated.	4 x r	epeate	d

I hope this brief analysis of the two "methods" is sufficient to enable more peals to be rung of Original, if not of Bob Triples! There can now be no valid reason for including pure "Single Court" in a peal of Original.—Yours faithfully, Heslington, Yorks. DEREK J. JONES.

THE INVENTION OF BELLS

We are told that the inventor of the improved gallows—"the new drop," as it was called—was the first to be hanged upon it; that the builder of the first Eddystone lighthouse was the first to lose his life there; that the inventor of the guillotine in France was said to be the first to be executed upon it—although the latter, like many traditions, is fictitious—and many other cases of similar fates of disaster attending inventors of one kind or another.

The same fate, tradition tells us, attended the inventor of bells, who is said to have been a monk in the monastery of St. Gall, Switerland, whose name is stated to have been Tancho. Having produced his first bell, its sound was so sweet and solemn that it was at once adopted as an indispensable portion of the ornament of church and chapel and, soon after, of religious services themselves. Charlemagne hearing it and perhaps believing that an increased value in metal would produce a richer tone, sent him a sufficient quantity of silver to form a second bell. The monk, tempted by the facility of turning the treasure to his own use, brought forward another specimen of his skill, but of mixed and inferior metal. At the first swing of the clapper, and before the just but severe Emperor was aware of the fraud, it broke the head of the dishonest founder, who had apparently gone too near to witness the action of the tongue. bell was thenceforth looked upon with veneration, as the discoverer of the unjust manufacturer.—Northampton Branch News-

Het Willeluiden or Dutch Change Ringing

The illustrations show the ringers after the first 120 on handbells and chiming in the Grote Kerk (note the massive timbers).

English ringers tend to regard Europe as a cultural desert of campanology. Any ringer going abroad for work or holiday thinks that it will be a farewell to ringing for a time. There are plenty of bells. The Dutch and Belgians play tunes on carillons, the French and Germans have big bells and clash them like "the artillery of God," and the Swiss have a room of antique bells in the Zurich Museum. Many places have something of interest, but change ringing stops at the English Channel.

Recently this gloomy picture has been changed and a group of Netherlanders have been studying change ringing in the town of Dordrecht, not far from Rotterdam. Dordrecht is a charming old town busily and rapidly modernising itself, but retaining many delightful sights and a notable church, the Grote Kerk. It is an interesting town to live and work in, but it lies off the main tourist tracks and is not often visited by English people.

To the English viewpoint, the arrangement in Holland is peculiar and interesting. I am not sure that I have all the facts correct, as the language barrier gets a bit tricky with these technicalities, and I have to simplify a rather complex situation, which is quite different from that in England. As a rule the church has little or no jurisdiction over the tower. In Napoleonic times the towers were taken over as lookout posts and placed under the civic authorities, who usually retain control even to this The church may have the right to ring one or two bells for services, but that is about all. The municipal authorities, working through a small carillon committee. are responsible for the tower, bells and clock; they pay for any repairs and upkeep and appoint the "beiaardier."

This gentleman is a salaried official and although he may have other sidelines it can be a full-time profession, especially if he has the care of two or three towers. He has studied for a period of years at one of the carillon colleges and besides being a first-class musician he is able to do all normal repairs and upkeep to a complicated instrument, and is a mine of information about the history, technique and all aspects of the carillon art. He has to arrange much of his own music, especially if topical tunes are to be played. He plays the carillon for festivals sacred and secular, and at certain times each week, often on Saturday afternoons during the market. In the summer he organises evening concerts when other

"beiaardiers" come and play for an hour.
Booklets are issued, giving details of visitors and their programme; a map of the surrounding district shows "recommended listening places," and evening strollers listen critically. Programmes are chosen with widesoread interest and it can be suddenly affecting to an English exile when "Greensleeves" or "The Londonderry Air" burst out in a mixture of folk songs.

The Dordrecht beiaardier, Jaap van der Ende, had become interested in the English ideas and wanted to know more about them. Apparently in the college curriculum the students are told something like this: "The English Istrange people] do not ring tunes on their bells but ring them in mathematical sequences and each bell needs one man to ring it." As the Dutch carillons often have 48 bells, this conjures up a picture of 48 men marching up the tower!

Bellringing is an unknown activity to the average Englishman and the difficulties of finding out anything about the English method in Holland were great. However, in 1969 a group of Dutch people met together to study campanology. They started without any outside help, using at first a collection of metal bars rather like the separate bits of a xylophone. People came, people went, but it settled down to a regular six or eight. As this was a civic activity, they met in the Town Hall (Stadskantoor), and coffee was supplied.

Ropes were fitted to eight bells of the Grote Kerk carillon so that they could be chimed, and at Christmas. 1969, the first course of Grandsire Triples was chimed out over Dordrecht. Was it perhaps the first in Europe?

Early in 1970 a set of handbells was bought and progress speeded up. By the way, the Dutch firm of Petit and Fritsen supplied them within three weeks of the order. Part of the "Elementary Handbook" was translated into Dutch and duplicated as "Elementaire Beginselen van het Wisselluiden" and bobs and singles were studied.

An historic evening was May 20, 1970, when 120 Grandsire Doubles was rung on handbells, which could possibly be the first by a non-English-speaking team in ringing history! Details are: 1 A. C. de Landtsheer, 2 Anneke Dicke, 3 Micke Jansen, 4 A. Dekker, 5 J. van der Ende (conductor), 6 K. J. Krouwel. (First 120 by everyone!)

On Saturday afternoon, May 23, the same team (1 and 3 changing places) went to the Grote Kerk and a very creditable 120 Grandsire Doubles sounded over Dordrecht.

The summer concerts started on June 4 with an English evening, when works by Handel, John Bull, William Byrd and Jeremiah Clarke were performed. The public were invited to the ringing room and a short explanation of change ringing was given with a demonstration by the Dordtse Wisselluiders. The local newspaper gave a full report of the evening, with pictures and comments.

If any ringers visit Dordrecht, an interesting evening can be enjoyed:—

Weekly practices at Stadskantoor, Wednesday at 8,30 p.m.

Chiming on the Grote Kerk bells on certain Saturdays after the carillon playing, usually 3 to 3.30 p.m.

Contact (Holland) for latest information is Mijnheer Jaap van de Ende, Tol 6, Schoonhoven, Z.H.

Schoonhoven carillon has also had eight bells adapted for chiming and it is hoped to start a study group here.

Tentative plans are being made for a visit to England to learn how to handle tower bells, and watch changeringing. To add verisimilitude to the chimes of Dordrecht and Schoonhoven, old sallies are desired to splice into the ropes; they would be a most acceptable gift.

It will be interesting to see how this group develops from this promising start. Does anyone know of any similar non-tenelish group studying change ringing? Is it the first in Europe?

Further information can be obtained from H. P. Thompson, 3 Hallgarth Terrace, Lanchester, Durham, who works in Dordrecht at various times.

True Harmonic Tuning

AN INTERESTING AND INFORMATIVE ARTICLE BY C. D.

FOLLOWING the article (February 20th) on the advent of accurate bell tuning in this country in the 1890's, for which the Taylor foundry and Canon Simpson can justly claim joint credit, I hope that the following review of true harmonic tuning in England will help to complete the picture. Based as it is on only seven years or so of looking, listening and note-taking in belfries confined largely to the southern part of the British Isles, I am afraid that it cannot hope to be a complete survey; and I very much welcome any details of omissions which kind readers care to send to The Ringing World.

I am assuming that readers know about the "true harmonic" or "five tone" principle and how it differs from "old style" tuning; the subject is explained in Mr. Frederick Sharpe's The Church Bells of Herefordshire and elsewhere. In no way do I wish to decry old style tuning but I must confine this review to founders who produced true harmonic bells (either by design or by accident!) and certain bells which have become true harmonic by retuning.

The obvious starting point for this review is 1896, the year in which Taylors of Loughborough installed the first ever true harmonically tuned rings of bells in British belfries—the very first is said to be at Norton, Derbyshire (8, 15½ cwt.). I have come across several Taylor bells of 1896, and even one or two of 1895 which could be classed as transitional, a good example being at Ewerby. Lincs, where only two out of the six bells added to make ten are really true harmonic. The year 1897 saw the casting of the glorious octave $(25\frac{1}{4})$ cwt.) at Heavitree, Exeter, which a great many ringers must know and admire, but this of course is only one of many excellent Taylor rings of the late 1890s. With their bellhanging perfected in, I think, 1895 and their tuning quite suddenly perfected in 1896 (with none of the teething troubles experienced by Gillett and Johnston and others) there was to be no looking backwards at Loughborough. Only recently has the tenet "old style bells are for old style foundries" been relaxed in the case of certain recastings and augmentations. One point leaves me curious: from time to time one finds an almost perfectly tuned Taylor bell cast long before 1896 (and not retuned since): for example, Leafield, Oxon, tenor (1874) — how was it that the foundry did not "tumble to it" sooner? This is not to say that some of their old style rings are not fine in their own right (St. Paul's Cathedral. Cambridge Roman Catholic Church, etc.), but it seems from such rings as Winshill, Staffs (6, 17 cwt., 1868, retuned since), and the tenor at Bridgwater (also 1868) that their bells were nearer to true harmonic in the 1860s than later on.

ALMOST EXCLUSIVE

Apart from its last few years, the 19th was a century of almost exclusively old style tuning, of short and sometimes exceedingly thick bells, of Thomas Mears II and Lord Grimthorpe. Some grand rings and individual bells resulted and, although I for one would cheerfully consign Big Ben to the melting pot, I have a sneaking admiration for the great tough Warner quarter-chime bells. appallingly out of tune as they are.

The relatively little known founder who might have altered all this, had he not got into financial difficulties and been taken over by Thomas Mears II (who was doing famously and doubtless had no time for new ideas) was William Dobson, of Downham Market. True harmonic tenors seem to have been his forte: Camberwell. Lon-don, 1823; Sturminster Newton, Dorset, 1827 (5th, not tenor—the latter is an older bell and is mentioned below); Southoe, Hunts, and Corfe Castle, Dorset (both 1828), but the quality and tuning of his ring of eight (19½ cwt., 1821) at Poole. Dorset, and his ring of five at Rippingale, Lincs (13 cwt., 1830, augmented and re-tuned by Taylors in 1935), make it very clear that he knew and understood what true harmonic tuning was about. That he could also achieve it is remarkable: that he could not do so invariably is not surprising when one considers that he had no tuning lathe. Sadly William Dobson's efforts lead no further and his worth is now almost unrecognised: not only this, but his only ring of 12 (Pier Head, Liverpool) has been destroyed, and Poole, possibly his finest surviving ring (I have heard Diss but not Wisbech, yet) has been all but wrecked for ringing purposes by the shunting around that went on when the bells were augmented to ten in 1937, and (to remedy the rope circle) the moving of the ringing room downstairs, where there is a low ceiling and the bells are almost inaudible.

SCHIZOPHRENIC FOUNDER

John Briant, of Hertford, seems to have been something of a schizophrenic founder; on the one hand he could produce "broken glass" rings like Wolverton, Bucks (6, 12 cwt., 1820) and on the other such glories (retuned in both cases) as Adderbury, Oxon, (6/8, 20 cwt., 1789) and Hatfield. Herts (7/10, 23½ cwt., 1786), though as it is some time since I heard either of these I may have overestimated them from a true harmonic point of view! A remarkably good ring of Briant's in its original condition is at Swaffham Prior, Cambs (6, 10 cwt., 1791), and a perfect individual bell is the fourth (1816) at Little Munden. Herts.

Throughout the 18th century the Rudhall foundry at Gloucester was very much to the fore, although I cannot help feeling that the quantity of Rudhall bells sometimes exceeded their quality and that the foundry tends to be overrated nowadays. That at least two of the Rudhalls cast many fine rings is beyond doubt and occasionally a bell with almost perfectly true harmonics turns up (the fourth at Whitminster (Abraham II, 1722) and the second at Chipping Campden (Abel, 1737) for example). While such were perhaps "accidents," rings such as at Chipping Sodburv (5/6, 16 cwt., Abel, 1753). Wilmslow (6, 13½ cwt., Abraham II, 1733) and Burton-upon-Trent, St. Modwen's (8, 19 cwt., Abraham II again, 1726), retuned or otherwise, suggest that there may have been a conscious striving after true harmonics. However, famous rings such as at Painswick (10/12, 25¾ cwt., Abraham II, 1731) and Ledbury are unequivocally old style.

Rings cast by the Evans foundry at Chepstow, though far less numerous, often compare very favourably with the Rudhall enuivalent—Winterbourne, Glos (6, 20 cwt., 1757) and the back eight at Leominster (22\frac{3}{4} cwt., 1755)—but, while Evans bells lack the more aggressive old style characteristics they certainly are old style. A notable exception is the 10th ("Oldham," 331 cwt., 1729) at Exeter Cathedral, as retuned by Taylors in 1902. Whitechapel bells of the 18th century are almost invariably old style; Thomas Lester occasionally produced an exception (Little Glemham, Suffolk, tenor) though there is no evidence to suggest that he knew what he had got once he had got it!

A contemporary of Lester's was Thomas Bilbie I, of Chewstoke; on the whole a more sympathetic founder than his competent but very much old style son, Thomas Bilbie II. Yeovil tenor (40\frac{3}{4} cwt., 1728) is perhaps his masterpiece, though Mears and Stainbank must share the credit for this (they retuned it in 1931). His fourth and tenor at East Pennard (1740), grand as they sound, are very imperfect harmoni-

Other notable founders of the 18th century were the Eayres of Kettering and St. Neots and their successor, Thomas Osborn (William Dobson's predecessor) but they like the rest, were on the whole striving after effects other than those produced by true harmonics. I dare say that the Bagleys, of Chacombe and elsewhere, deserve mention, but I regret that I am not yet well enough acquainted with their productions to discuss them. Thomas Russell, of Wootton, Beds, deserves to be remembered if only for the tenor at Blunham (I am not referring to the "go"!) and the fifth at Brampton (both 1741).

Since writing the above last March, the Prices' (father and son) letters in The Ringing World and a visit to Gedney, Lincs, have made me realise how much I had underestimated Thomas Osborn, and how much his successor William Dobson must have owed to him. Previously the bells of Osborn's which I had heard had all been like Sleaford (8, 19 cwt., 1796) or Godmanchester (7/8, 19½ cwt., 1794)—that is to say good, but definitely old style. The ring at Gedney (5/6, 14 cwt., 1794), however, is harmonically excellent, at least since retuning and the addition of a treble by Taylors about 1910. It is almost impossible to believe that Godmanchester bells came from the same founder in the same year.

Edward Arnold, of St. Neots and Leicester, is not a founder whom I had previously included in my reckonings but I must now do so on account of perfect true harmonic bells of his at Thurlby and West Deeping. Lincs. More and more I realise how reckless it was to embark on this review before having heard every single bell in the British Isles!

On the subject of Somerset founders, I ought to add that Thomas Bilbie (I) can safely be regarded as an old style founder apart from his Yeovil tenor, but that two Bridgwater founders (Thomas Bayley and John Kingston) seem to deserve mention on account of near true harmonic bells at Honiton Old Church, Stoke St. Gregory,

The 17th and latter part of the 16th centuries were, on the whole, early for complete rings but produced more individual bells with true, or nearly true, harmonics than either of the two succeeding centuries, Some 17th century bells are pretty rough to look at but this certainly is not true of Hugh Watts II, of Bedford and Leicester, perhaps the pre-eminent founder of the era. Many of his bells have been very ably retuned (mostly at Loughborough) and, indeed, they seem to be especially responsive to such treatment (Long Buckby, Northants 4/5. 15½ cwt., 1624) and Great Barford. Beds (5, 16 cwt., 1636). I have not so far heard as many Watts bells as I should have liked and I have only found one which is harmonically perfect without retuning—the third at Brixworth (1622).

HARVEST BELLS BENEFIT CROPS Mr. Claude Rush sends us the following cutting from The East Anglian Daily Times. another harvest is gathered in it would be interesting to know if any Suffolk folk still believe that the ringing of church bells at the right time would swell the yield. "It was said at one time that if bells rang thrice while the corn was in the stook the farmer would have a successful harvest. Indeed, many cut their crops if possible on a Friday or Saturday, to benefit from the Sunday bellringing. The gleaners' bell, too, is a thing of the past. In 1840 three shillings were paid to Mr. Clarke, of Monks

"George Ewart Evans, in his 'The Farm and the Village,' mentions the custom in the Blaxhall and Tunstall district, the sexton ringing the bell at 8 a.m. for the start and at 7 p.m. for the finish of gleaning.

"Sometimes the bell was but a hand affair rung by the farmer."

Obituary

DR. A. S. PERN

A one-time lay canon of Portsmouth Cathedral, a churchwarden from 1914-1970, Dr. A. S. Pern died on September 14 at Botley, near Southampton, where he had lived all his life. He was 83. During the last war he served in the R.A.M.C. and was in Italy doing hospital work for the Allied

A bellringer for many years, he rang at Curdridge and was a capable "standard methods" ringer, but did not have the time to spare for peal ringing. His father was also a family doctor in Botley, although it is not known if he also had been a bell-

Because there are too few bells in Botley half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Curdridge in gratitude for the life and work of Dr. Pern in the parish of Botley, as follows:-

Curdridge, Hants.—On Sept. 17, 1260 Grandsire Triples: Miss E. M. Stevenson I, P. Page 2, Miss B. J. Daysh 3, W. F. J. Cope 4, K. Harrison 5, H. L. Hatfield 6, E. W. Colley (cond.) 7, N. George 8.

DEFEAT AVENGED

Mr. Eric J. Taylor, of Princes Road, Cheltenham, writes: "This is to avenge our defeat when we rang the false peal in 12 methods on September 2." The family have scored 5040 Minor in 12 methods, with young Bernard conducting his first (recognised) peal, which was a 23rd wedding anniversary compliment to father and mother and an au revoir to daughter Hilda, off to Birmingham. Although the family have now separated temporarily, no doubt their exploits will be renewed during holiday seasons.

62 YEARS A BELLRINGER

Mr. Bertram Keeble, for 62 years a bellringer at St. Peter's Church, Monks Eleigh, Suffolk, and for 40 years the clock winder. has just passed his 80th year, and the Bury Free Press depicts Mr. Keeble looking remarkably strong and fit with a rope in his hands. A retired farm worker, he occupies his time looking after the 1,000-years-old church, ringing as often as he can and keeping his mind (and body) occupied.

Bertram lives with his 70-years-old wife, Miriam, and when not at the church he works on his one-acre allotment garden, and we all wish him the health and strength to continue his many jobs. (Details from C. R.)

Suffolk Guild PRESENTED WITH MASTER'S BADGE

Saturday, September 19, at All Saints, Great Thurlow, was not only a happy but quite historic day for the Suffolk Guild. Mr. R. A. Vestey, already a generous patron towards church and bells, presented the Guild with a master's badge and ribbon of office in a simple but charming dedication service, conducted by Archdeacon Kenneth Child.

From early afternoon the fine-sounding six were heard over the picturesque village Thurlow, a village not only well cared for but with a distinct air of community spirit. About 70 ringers from all parts of Suffolk and beyond attended the service and handbells were rung from the chancel steps.

After receiving the badge from the donor the archdeacon pronounced a blessing and the guild chairman, John Blythe, presented it to the ringing master, Howard Egglestone.

Mr. Vestey was thanked for his keen interest in the Suffolk Guild and after a splendid tea, prepared by the village ladies. the master not only thanked those responsible for making the occasion possible but said he looked upon the badge as proof that the art was very much alive in the diocese. Of particular pleasure to all was the fact that the silver and enamel work was executhat the silver and channel houthend, ted by Peter Sloman from Southend.

Ringing continued until 9 p.m., concluding a very enjoyable day.

St. David's Guild BADGE DESIGN DISCUSSED

The quarterly meeting was held on September 12 at Llandovery (a very pleasant light six). Towers represented were Burry Port, Cardigan, Carmarthen, Llandeilo. Llandovery, Llanelli, Llandyssul, Pembroke and St. Florence.

Ringing commenced at 2.15 p.m. and continued until the service at 4 p.m., which was conducted by the vicar (Rev. C Thomas), the lesson being read by D. J. Morgan. The organist was Simon Rogers. An excellent tea followed in the Church House, served and prepared by the ladies of the parish, who were thanked on behalf of the Guild by Elizabeth Thomas, of St. Florence.

The vicar presided at the business meeting, at which the four new members from Llandyssul who were present were warmly welcomed. Mr. Williams (Carmarthen) was thanked for all the help he had given training the Llandyssul ringers. It was agreed to hold the 25th anniversary dinner on October 10 and the menu was selected. There was some discussion regarding new badges and it was decided that the matter be left in the hands of the officers. Seven new members were elected.

Ringing was later resumed until 7.30 p.m. B. M. R.

KICKED THE BUCKET-LITERALLY

A huge bandage around the leg of that well-known ringer Arthur D. Barker has had several of his friends worried. Arthur's eyesight is not what it used to be and when walking out of bright sunshine into a shady spot at his home a week or two ago he failed to see a galvanised bucket which he kicked and which retaliated by flinging its handle up and clouting him on the shin. Hospital treatment, of course, and bruising even to blackness up and down the legbut it hasn't kept Arthur out of things and he turned up as usual to perform his duties as treasurer of his beloved Oxford Guild.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for October 12, 1945

On the question of publishing or not publishing a peal of Minor with a cover bell the leader stated it was customary to publish accounts of any performances sent in as peals and not to attempt to discriminate between them. The duty of the editor was advisory not judicial.

At a meeting held at St. Peter's, Carmarthen, on September 29, it was decided to form a guild of ringers of the diocese with the title of St. David's Diocesan Guild of Bellringers.

A non-conducted peal of Bob Major on handbells at Sittingbourne was John E. Spice's 250th peal.

A peal of Oxford Bob Triples at Old Windsor was the first of Triples as conductor by Wm. Birmingham and the first in the method by Wm. Judd and Ronald Noon.

The Worcestershire and Districts Association annual dinner was revived with a capacity attendance in the only room in Worcester capable of seating 72 people.

During a brief visit of his ship to Japanese waters A. R. Pink, of H.M.S. Duke of York, sent details to the R.W. of a bell in the Roman Catholic Church in Yokohama which was about 12 cwt. and had an inscription Bollee and Sons. Founders, Accordeurs au Mans, France, 1874.

50 YEARS AGO

October 15, 1920

The 500th issue of The Ringing World was quite an event in the Exercise. "May we appeal to our friends who already stand and have stood loyally by us to use their best endeavours to win for us the support of their fellow members of the belfry who do not at present subscribe individually to The Ringing World."—Leader (which is still applicable today.—Ed.)

Herbert Audsley conducted his first peal (Kent Treble Bob Major) from the treble at Crayford, Kent, as did Leonard Mannering (Stedman Triples) at Aylesford, Kent.

A local band at Gorseinon, Glam, rang a peal of Grandsire Triples all ringing their first of Triples, except A. J. Pitman, who conducted.

A quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung by the Newark-on-Trent band to celebrate the revival of "Gofer" ringing, an old time custom and carried on for six Sundays.

A band of eight ladies attempted a peal of Stedman Triples at Clapton which failed after nearly two hours. The ladies were Mrs. F. I. Hairs, Miss Upsher, Mrs. John Thomas, Miss Stella Davis, Miss Gladys Bateman, Miss Evelyn Steel, Miss Edith K. Parker (conductor) and Mrs. W. J. Kemp.

After 17 years' silence the ring at Grundisburgh, Suffolk, was heard again after being restored by Messrs. F. Day and Son, of Eye.

At a Bath and Wells meeting at Westonsuper-Mare one of the members produced a photographic block map showing all the towers in the diocese, which was to be reproduced in the annual report.

St. Paul, Papanui, New Zealand

IN CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, there are two rings of bells, and they are nearly the same age: St. Paul's (cast 1880) and the Anglican Cathedral's (cast 1881). In the 1850s the early days of the colony, Papanui was a small village of sawyers about three miles to the north of Christchurch. Its population in 1851 was about 200. The Maoris gave their name to the settlement from the flat boards sawn from the 70 acres of native wood nearby: "papa" means flat and "nui" means a board.

A swamp lay between the village and Christchurch, but the road, which was finished in six years in 1857, was for 20 years nothing better than a cattle track, and it was not uncommon for bullock drays and coaches to be bogged down in the treacherous ground. The village's population reached a peak in the late 50s (692 in 1857 compared to 953 in Christchurch itself), but this ceased when the native wood was exhausted and the sawmills were moved elsewhere. Nevertheless, it was not until the post-World War I years that Papanui began to lose its identity as a village by becoming absorbed into the growing area of Christ-

The first St. Paul's was built about 1852-53, one of the first churches on the Canterbury Plains. It was intended only as a of a nave only. It was intended only as a temporary building, and originally consisted of a nave only. It was very small and, according to a letter in the "Lyttelton Times" in 1862, there was room for only 12 adults after the school children were seated. A chancel, south aisle, porch, and later a north aisle were added, but it is not known when. In those early days the church music was supplied by a violin, a cornet, a flute and an accordion, and about 1860 an harmonium was obtained. By the mid '70's the church had become too small and some of the timbers were rotting, so it was decided in 1876 to build a new church.

The foundation stone of the present church was laid in 1876 by Bishop Harper, who 12 years earlier had performed a similar honour at the Anglican cathedral. new St. Paul's cost £1,856 to build and was opened in 1877. For a time the old church was used as a Sunday School, but later it was removed and became a blacksmith's The debt on the new church was paid off by 1903, and the building was consecrated by Bishop Julius, whose son was to become the next vicar and eventually Dean of Christchurch.

SHIPWRECKED

When a ring of bells was suggested after the new church had been opened, one of the parishioners, Mr. John Matson, promptly ascertained the probable cost and wrote out a cheque on the spot. Warners cast a ring of five at a cost of £285. They were shipped in the Knowlesly Hall, which was wrecked off the coast of South Africa, but the insurance on the bells paid not only for a second ring but also for the installation of gas in the church! This second ring forms the back five of the present ring of six. The old treble is about 3 cwt, and the tenor 63 cwt, in B flat. The total weight of the old bells is about 26 cwt. The inscription on the tenor is: "We Sing the Lord's Song in a Strange Land. St. Paul's, Papanui, 1880." The bells were dedicated in July 1880 by Bishop Harper and first rung by the Rev. E. Lingard, C. Cranston, F. Hudson, J. Sheriff, F. Blackmore, T. Hall. From November until the following August the recently-formed Cathedral Society of Bellringers practised on the Papanui bells until their own bells were ready in September, 1881. The Papanui bells were rung regularly until 1903, but when the wooden tower was built bells had not been thought of, and now the creaking and swaying of the whole structure was most alarming. When the 9 foot cross on the steeple fell down one day the bells were thareafter only chimed until 1912, when the tower had become so unsafe that it was dismantled and the present one, also wooden, was built. It is 12 feet square and 75 feet high. But the whole church continued to sway with the new tower, and the bells were silent from 1914 till 1926, when a new, heavily-braced gantry was built inside the tower, detached from it and deeply embedded into concrete. This proved quite satisfactory and the bells could be rung again. As a matter of interest, a railway line borders one side of the church property, and the passing trains shake the tower almost as much as the bells do, but it is quite safe.

FIRST PEAL

The Papanui ringers never formed themselves into a proper society, and by 1945 ringing had once again ceased and the fittings deteriorated. In April, 1950, the Cathedral Society rang the first peal on the bells to mark the centenary of the Province of Canterbury: 5040 St. Simon, Plain Bob and Grandsire in 2 hours 42 minutes, A. Lancefield conducting from the tenor; but still the bells remained silent for another

In 1964 the Cathedral Society was asked to train a local band and a Papanui Society was formed in May, 1965. In 1967 Mr. R. H. Idle, a ringer for 34 years, resigned as master at the Cathedral and was elected master at Papanui. At this meeting a sixth bell was mooted and a fund opened. Donations were soon forthcoming from parishioners and the local citizenry, and the Cathedral Society gave two generous grants.

To arrive at the correct pitch for the new bell, Taylors sent over a tuning fork: this and the bells were tape-recorded and the results sent back to Loughborough. The new treble was cast in 1969 and weighs 2 cwt. 3 qr. 26 lb. Its tone is decidedly sweeter than the old chip-tuned bells, but its pitch fits perfectly with the rest of the ring. It was dedicated by the vicar (Archdeacon Williams) and first rung on February 1. 1970, during a special dedication service.

The Society is now strongly established. Last year 176 rings were recorded, and the Sunday service band can now ring Surprise methods. The local high school provides plenty of learners and the light bells are ideal for learning on. On September 5, 1970, the Society rang its first peal, marking the 90th anniversary of the old ring of five: 5040 Plain Bob Minor, conducted by the master, R. H. Idle, the only member of the band who had rung a peal before.

Middlesex County Association IN NORTH LONDON

Only six miles from the heart of London, on rising ground, stands the 19th century mediæval style church of St. Michael, Wood Green, with its 10 cwt. ring of six. It was here that the North and East District met on September 19 for their monthly meeting.

Despite a spate of weddings and the normal evensong, the Vicar (Rev. J. H. Sheen) graciously found time to conduct a short service.

The chairman welcomed several visitors, including Mr. A. P. Cannon.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. Alick Cutler, who recently completed his 500th peal for the Association and, at approximately the same time, celebrated his golden wedding, and to Miss Dorothea Robotham and Mr. Brian Watson, for ringing their first peals of London and Bristol Surprise Major respectively.

A map of the county of Middlesex, compiled by Mr. T. G. Hawkins and showing the situation of towers with bells, was brought to the notice of members. This is a most useful acquisition for the ringing chamber (and personal use) and copies sold readily, the income derived therefrom being, at Mr. Hawkins' request, placed in the Bell Restoration Fund.

Ringing continues to take place for midweek services at St. Giles-in-the-Fields (Thursday, 1-1.30 p.m.) and St. Botolph, Bishopsgate (Wednesday, 12.30-1.15 p.m.).

Gloria Simpson (Wood Green) and Celia
Badham (Hackney) were elected as ringing members, whilst the belfry election, prior to peal attempts, of Stephen Darvill as a ringing member and Stanley Jenner as a non-resident member, were ratified.

Thanks were extended by the chairman to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting before a return was made to the belfry, where a variety of methods was rung until 8.30 p.m. Ringing took place in the afternoon at Christ Church, Southgate. under the guidance of Ruth Foreman, who stepped into the breach and undertook the duties of ringing master at short notice.

AT THE "GRAND ATLANTIC"

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION'S 80th ANNIVERSARY DINNER

"A meeting was held on Saturday, May 31st, 1890, in the Church Schoolroom at Highbridge to consider the suggestion that the work of the Bath and Keynsham United Deaneries Association of Change Ringers be extended beyond the limits of the Rural Deanery of Bath to that of the Diocesan Association." This notice was quoted by Mr. J. H. Gilbert, B.Sc., C.Eng, A.F.R.Ae.S., general secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, when at the Grand Atlantic Hotel, Weston-super-Mare, Somerset, on October 10, the 80th anniversary dinner was held. The function was an undoubted success, having been well organised by a committee led by Mr. Gilbert, and about 180 attended from a wide area.

The Rev. H. F. Warren, master of the association, presided, accompanied by Mrs. Warren, and others seated at the principal table were the Bishop of Bath and Wells (Rt. Rev. E. B. Henderson), president, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gilbert, Mr. W. F. Scudamore (master, Gloucester and Bristol Association) and Mrs. Scudamore, Mrs. E. Palfrey (president, Ladies' Guild), Rev. R. N. Longridge (president, Salisbury Guild), Miss M. Legg, Mr. J. Brain and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor, Ringing World).

Proceeding, Mr. Gilbert said the notice was circulated and as a result the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association of Change Ringers came into being, the former Association being seven years old when the change was made. Details of their early meetings and of numbers attending were given by the speaker and some amusing and interesting items were read out. The first officers included the Rev. C. W. H. Griffith of St. Mary's, Bath, as master, and the first quarterly meeting was at Wraxall on October 11.

By 1907 there were over 1,000 members and the association had not looked back since those early days, the membership now being 1,850. Many other details were given and for this 80th anniversary year there had been six peals and 71 quarters, in which 62 towers took part with 42 people conducting.

Mr. Gilbert concluded by reading out the names of those who were at Highbridge on that memorable occasion in 1890, and then asked the company to rise and drink a toast to their memory,

The toast was followed by a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells rung by Mr. J. R. Taylor 1-2, Mrs. Jennie Taylor 3-4, Mr. R. C. Kippin 5-6, Mr. T. Chapman 7-8, Mrs. Margaret Chapman 9-10.

A POLICEMAN'S LOT

The toast to "The Church and Clergy" was drunk on the call of Mr. W. F. Scudamore, who in true police jargon addressed the president and read a dossier of his (the Bishop's) career, as one of a "clergyman extraordinary," trained at Cambridge and ordained in 1934. The speaker then gave many amusing but nevertheless authentic facts of the president's career which eventually proved him to be a "bishop extraordinary."

The ringers were there that evening to demonstrate their loyalty, and giving details of various religious sects who waved banners and called from door to door, the speaker said the Church of England was unique in that it had its church bells. Proceeding, he said that many bells of historic value were being catalogued in the Gloucester Association and suggested the Bath and Wells Diocese should do the same.

Rising to reply amidst sustained applause, the Bishop, who is a gifted and natural orator, treated the assembled company to a feast of wit and humour and with words of wisdom which were at once appreciated and honoured. He also spoke of the swans on the moat around Wells Cathedral, of the bell which they ring, and of the many happy hours and pleasures he had enjoyed for the past ten years in the Diocese. At the conclusion all felt that the president is verily a bishop extraordinary, and he is obviously greatly beloved by his diocesan bellringers.

THREE IMPORTANT DUTIES

"The Work of Diocesan Ringers' Associations" was proposed by the Editor of The Ringing World, who first thanked the valuable items to pay the clergy was mentioned by Mr. Denyer, who pointed out that this lead might be followed by other clergy who would consider selling the bells of the church if they were not used. Once these were gone they would never be replaced. He urged his hearers to take this threat seriously.

HANDMAID OF THE EXERCISE

The toast had coupled with it the name of the Rev. R. N. Longridge, who in reply said how important was the ringers' journal—the handmaid of the Exercise. There would be many incumbents, antiquarians, historians and members of the public who would peruse regularly the cover and inside of The Ringing World for the comprehensive details of the parish churches. It was a worthy alternative to Collins' Guide to the Churches, and at one shilling a copy it was an excellent production. He congratulated the Editor on the high standard achieved. Without it how would anyone in Somerset know what was going on in Dorset, he asked, and he offered congratulations to the Bath and Wells Association on their 80th birthday.

guild for inviting him to their dinner and for the very warm and friendly welcome he had received. He congratulated them on their 80th birthday and expressed appreciation for the support and encouragement extended to The Ringing World, which he hoped would continue, particularly in the task of increasing the circulation, which would help keep costs down.

Mr. Denyer then spoke on three duties which were, he felt, very important in the work of all associations and guilds:—

(i) To ensure that the church bells were rung regularly for services, and at all times to find and train recruits for that pur-

(ii) That they support the clergy and diocesan authorities in the tremendous task which faced the Church in these days of apathy and disbelief, by regular attendance at the tower and in attending the services as well.

as well.

(iii) To build up as quickly as possible and in devious ways the bell restoration funds These should be large enough to give the association officers the chance to offer £100 or £200 where bells were to be restored. When an offer like that was made it could well influence the incumbent and his P.C.C. in having the work carried out, whilst smaller sums might be brushed aside.

The recent news that Dr. Mervyn Stockwood of Southwark was to sell various

SHORT, NO RELIGION, SOME JOKES

He had been advised by his son, said the speaker, to make his speech "short, no religion and some jokes," which Mr. Longridge proceeded to carry out to the great enjoyment of the company. At the conclusion he expressed thanks to the association for the pleasure all had received that evening.

During the evening the Rev. H. F. Warren introduced the speakers and welcomed the visitors and at the end of the formal proceedings proposed thanks to Mr. Gilbert and the committee for the work of organising the event, and this received acclamation.

Handbells were again rung, three leads of Bristol Surprise Major being well accomplished by Messrs. Taylor, Kippin, Chapman and Mrs. Chapman. There followed a couple of hours of informality in which it was a pleasure to take part, many experiences being exchanged and views expressed on topical (ringing) subjects. Somerset folk—and their ringers in particular—are very friendly and have the gift of making visitors feel welcome. They spare no effort to ensure that everything is done for the pleasure and comfort of their guests.

Norwich Association.

AT HINGHAM Flower festivals, Sunday School outings and holidays took a serious toll on the attendance of the Northern Branch meeting at Hingham on September 5. Despite this the bells were rung to various methods under the leadership of the ringing master (Mr. T. E. Spight).

The service was conducted by the rector (Rev. W. F. A. Stones), the lesson being read by the chairman (Mr. G. Sayer).

It was decided to hold the annual branch meeting at Dereham in December. The chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the rector and to Mr. J. R. Elliott.

The secretary found his visit to the Drayton Flower Festival well worth while. Much credit must go to the organisers and flower arrangers for their splendid work.

IN THE NORTH-EAST OF KENT

Ringers from several towers ranging from Cliffe-at-Hoo to Sittingbourne spent Bank Holiday Monday visiting the Thanet area of Kent. Towers visited included St. Laurence - in - Thanet, St. Peter - in - Thanet (where our regular driver once again had a "lesson"), Broadstairs, Herne (where some of the party were treated to a "jar" by the landlady of a local hostelry) and St. Alphege, Seasalter. A short stop was made for liquid refreshment on the way The tour was organised by Laurie Mitchell, and ringing supervised by Chris Osenton.

Salisbury Guild. FOUR NEW MEMBERS

The quarterly meeting of the North Dor-set Branch was held at Yetminster on September 12, with ringing also at Bradford The guild president (Rev. R. N. Longridge) was present, and he and the branch vice-chairman (Rev. R. A. Wells) conducted the service, the chairman (Rev. R. G. Chaffey Moore) giving the address. The lesson was read by Mr. T. Bleathman, and handbells were rung by Miss S. Corry, Messrs. T. Bleathman, C. Longridge and M.

New members elected were Mrs. I. Perry and the Misses T. Foster, D. Newman and A. Perry (all of Yetminster). Mr. Woods spoke in appreciation of the work done by Mr. C. Longridge in organising the branch outing.

Lincoln Guild CLAPPER FELL OUT

A quarterly meeting of Elloe Deaneries Branch was held at Whaplode on September 26. The function was joint with the Ladies' Guild and a brief business meeting was held, attended by about 30 persons. The bells were put to good use until about 7.30. when the fifth clapper fell out! Thanks to the invitation of Mr. T. Charlton, the ringers went over to ring until 9 at neighbouring Moulton.

Hertfordshire County Association VISITOR FROM AUSTRALIA

Walkern was the first tower for Northern District meeting. There was a good attendance, the visitors including one from as far afield as Victoria, Australia. Ringing catered for all tastes, whilst the children found alternative amusement in the ford! Ardeley, in its picturesque setting with the ducks and their ducklings swimming on the pond, was the scene for the second tower. Here ringing ranged from rounds to London Surprise before the evening was rounded off in the Jolly Waggoner in the usual manner. M. M. R.

THE ASTON FESTIVAL

The Aston Village Society held a festival of music, flowers and bellringing from September 18-20 at the parish church of St. Mary, Aston, Hertfordshire.

Concerts were held on Friday and Saturday nights, each of which was preceded by 45 minutes' bellringing. The two Sunday services each had prior ringing and took a musical form with an organ recital and singing by the Aston singers, while the church was decorated with flowers.

The ringing, by the local band, was traditional call-changes, for which Aston is well known, and favourable comment on the striking was passed by at least one wellknown Devon call-change ringer. ringers present were L. A. Izzard (captain), F. J. Pallet (conductor), D. Chalkley, A. Gray, D. Scales, H. Harradence, R. Falder, D. Warren, W. Warren, G. Sapsford, P. Jones and G. Partridge. R. F.

IN SOMERSET

The Machen and Bassaleg (Monmouthshire) bellringers set out on September 5 for Bath and Wells. With the sun shining, our first call was at Publow, where all enjoyed the six, which are very mellow. The rector and his wife welcomed the visitors, and all enjoyed coffee and home-made scones on the rectory lawn. At Wells some of the non-ringers looked around the beautiful old town and the Cathedral. At Wookey we were again welcomed by the rector and later by the tower captain and his daughter. After lunch at Wells we were able to watch Morris dancers on the green.

At Midsomer Norton we rang the delightful eight and then on to Radstock, and again were met by the rector. We enjoyed ringing the six and afterwards left for our last ring on the eight bells at Bath (St. Michael with St. Paul). We set off at 8 o'clock and reached home safely. V. A. J.

MRS. EDITH WATTS

Mr. Herbert W. Watts, who has been captain of Stansted, Essex, tower for over 60 years, has been bereaved by the death of his wife, Edith Watts. To her memory, a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on September 14 at St. Mary's, Stansted. Although not a ringer, Mrs. Watts took an interest in ringing activities and was a ready helper at teas for ringers' meetings at Stansted.

Obituary

MR. SIDNEY BALL

Ringers of Lewisham District and older members of Surrey will be sorry to hear of the passing of Mr. Sidney Ball (captain of Dartford ringers for the past ten years) in Joyce Green Hospital on September 23 He was 64 and suffered a long and painful illness for more than a year. A month ago he seemed to improve, but unfortunately had a relapse and was admitted to hospital for a major operation, from which he did not recover.

He leaves a widow, a son (in Canada) and a daughter, both married. To them all our sincere sympathies are extended in their bereavement.

Sid (as he was known) learnt to ring at Mitcham in 1922 and moved to Lewisham in 1940. He came to Dartford in 1956 and after two or three years succeeded to the captaincy. He had not rung many peals during his ringing career, his last being at Dartford in 1961, but he was a great ringer and took an interest in service ringing and helping youngsters. Until his illness he was regularly seen at Lewisham District meetings of the Kent County Association.

The funeral took place at Holy Trinity,

Dartford, on October 1, followed by cremation at Eltham. Amongst those present were members of the local band and representatives of the district. R.I.P.

MR. C. A. THOMPSON

The South Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Association has recently lost one of its oldest ringers by the death of Mr. Cecil A. Thompson, who was a member for over 50 years. He was 84 and had rung in 37 peals for the Association.

A regular service and practice night ringer at Redenhall until two years ago, he would cycle the five miles each way to ring. He was always good company and willing to go anywhere to help and to get a ring. He took a keen interest in beginners and was quite happy to join in rounds or callchanges with them.

He will be sadly missed by the Redenhall company and by the Association. A quarter of Bob Triples, half-muffled, was rung to his memory by members of the South Norfolk Branch at Redenhall, which was his favourite tower.

SECURITY

Dear Sir, -- As secretary to the managing director of Yale Locks and Hardware may correct the paragraph on security under

"Belfry Gossip," in the issue of October 9.
Firstly, the phrase "Yale type" is a misuse of the registered trade mark of Eaton Yale and Towne Inc., and no doubt the phrase was intended to describe the standard cylinder rim nightlatch which is produced by many other manufacturers besides Yale.
Secondly, the words "useless for security" can be taken as defamatory of the goods manufactured by Eaton Yale and Towne Inc. We do in fact produce nightlatches where it is possible to deadlock the bolt against end pressure and the knob against rotation by a reverse turn of the key from the outside of the door.

The company also manufactures a wide range of lock and hardware products, including both cylinder and lever mortice locks and other high security devices. Insurance companies and the police do recommend Yale locks, the type of lock recommended depending on the level of security required. For tower security, especially where entrance to the belfry is from outside the church, they would suggest the Yale M.555 five-lever mortice deadlock and the Yale M.30001 double cylinder security mortice deadlock, the latter being only one of four locks to carry the British Standards Institute Kite-mark as conforming to their Standard 3621 for Thief Resistant Locks.— Yours faithfully,

BERYL E. CAWSER. Lichfield, Staffordshire.

The reason for publishing this letter as an Editorial is obvious. The term "Yale-type lock" is an accepted expression nowadays and we ourselves quoted from our correspondent (wrongly of course!). How-ever, it is gratifying that we have among us someone who can advise us on security for our bells and belfries, and we have invited Mrs. Cawser to contribute a general article on this subject for the benefit of the Exercise.

It is a most important subject and of in-terest to all. The securing of traps and slides between ground floor and bell chamber presents many problems, and we look forward to printing the information on how to overcome such difficulties.

A THESIS

Miss Deborah Power, a ringer from Ugborough, Ivvbridge. Devon, and a student at the West London College, has chosen for her thesis the theme "Church Bell Ringing" and we have been privileged to see a copy.

She has dealt simply and basically with a proportion of this very large subject from a beginner's point of view and has written chapters on the development of the art, the tower and the bell, bell handling, basic principles of change-ringing and the Exercise and its activities today. There are appendices listing the ringing associations, the numbers of rings and a short bibliography. and the whole is well illustrated.

Belfry Gossip

Mr. Jeans, who did so much work towards obtaining the money for the Somerton (Somerset) bells (Ringing World, page 771) tells us that approximately £128 more is required and he would be grateful for any contributions towards this amount.

Mrs. Cynthia Kirkham was for 12 years a ringer at Northwich Church, Cheshire, and secretary until she and her husband went to West Pennard, Somerset, and took over the Apple Tree Inn. All ringers are made most welcome when in the area.

New Method: Ely Delight Minor, and New Conductor: Yvonne A. Towler.

Mr. E. H. Mastin, of Downham Market, Norfolk, sending us a peal and a quarter peal report, rightly says how proud the band are who rang the peal (Bob Doubles) at the first attempt. Two of the band can ring Surprise Major and other methods on five up to ten bells.

By ringing the 3rd to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at East Hagbourne, Berks, on August 24, John H. Napper became the seventh man to circle the tower. Those who know John's strong, silent ways will realise why this fact did not appear as a footnote to the peal-he didn't tell anyone!

of Bedford, who started to ring at the age of eight, following the rehanging of St. Paul's, Bedford, bells in 1966. In July, 1969, he rang his first peal—the treble to Grandsire Triples at Maulden, Beds, and this year he has rung Cambridge from Minor to Royal in addition to the recent peal of London Major already reported. Although taught by his father, Mr. Stephen Ivin has been, we understand, a major influence and a source of encouragement.

this lad's achievements.—Ed.]

"I note with interest the inquiry of Mr. Paul Boucher with regard to a ringing association for the legal profession. replied to the suggestion appearing in The Ringing World last year but have heard nothing further. I wonder what response there was at the time?" writes K. E. Beale, of Taunton. (Perhaps the original instigator of the inquiry will let us know.—Ed.)

"Roger Wetenhall and I met and rang two peals together in October, 1931. We never corresponded (or met) until he wrote in July and said he would like us to meet. He called in August and as a result the peal was arranged for him," writes Mr. J. E. Cawser, of Lichfield, Staffs. The peal was Yorkshire Surprise Major at Claybrooke, Leics.

"The band would like to extend their good wishes to the tower captain, Ken Rider, on his recent recovery from illness," writes Mr. J. Pladdys, sending a peal report from Rotherhithe, S.E., and adds that they would like to associate the peal with the "Mayflower" celebrations at Rotherhithe on July 4, for which a peal was attempted (by an almost identical band) and lost through a broken rope.

Sending a quarter from Silkstone, Yorks, Frances A. Garfield says it was accomplished after considerable expense father's telephone bill! She hopes that Silkstone will be hitting the headlines in future, but the young learners could do with help from experienced ringers.

In a peal at Saffron Walden. Essex, after half a course the rope "tuck" came adrif: and John Ketteringham had three hours' ringing with three feet of rope flying around and pulling on a single end! Quite distracting.

The ring of six at Burrington, Devon, will shortly be heard again after rehanging, as also the six at Mathern, Monmouthshire, the work being carried out by John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough.

We ask all postal subscribers, when they have a change of residence, to supply the old address as well as the new. We also invite them to send us one shilling for cutting a new stencil, as this is the cost of these necessary cards. We often have halfa-dozen changes in a few months from some subscribers-mainly students-and we find it an expensive item.

Comments heard after a recent visit of the Cumberlands to Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire. "Best ringing from visitors for years," "Beautiful to listen to," "That is how bells should be rung.

In his letter referring to Winchester and Portsmouth Guild policy (Ringing World, page 774), Mr. G. Dodd points out that nothing personal was intended against the guild master, the observations being made about the guild policy and not a criticism of any individual.

B.B.C. RADIO BRISTOL

Dear Sir .-- A letter from Fred Scudamore a couple of weeks ago reported the commencement of a new radio station—B.B.C. Radio Bristol, which is to open each Sunday with bell recordings from a selection of towers in and around Bristol.

Several interested Bristol ringers switched on their sets last Sunday to hear an announcement that they were just about to listen to a recording of Bristol Cathedral bells. Then, to everyone's dismay and horror, followed a couple of minutes of rough Doubles on the back five.

A hasty phone call to the B.B.C. revealed that the person in charge of the bell recordings is in fact a Methodist minister who knows nothing at all about ringing. He has been working to a tight budget and has adopted the policy of using recordings from the West of England B.B.C.'s library as far as possible. The Bristol Cathedral recording was made on Easter Day, 1966, when many of the ringers who normally attend were away for the Bank Holiday, and five bells had to be rung instead of the usual touch of Stedman Triples and a course or two of Surprise Major. This recording was taken without the knowledge of the ringers or any of the clergy (as far as I am able to ascertain) I might add!! Seeing that it was an Easter Sunday recording, the B.B.C. thought "Ah, this must be something special," so they dug it out from the archives and put it on the air.

One principle and one question seems to arise from this incident. Firstly we seem to have taken several steps backwards in allowing the B.B.C. to broadcast something without being vetted by an experienced ringer. However, this has now been put right, as this in fact will be done before any further broadcasts are made. Also, the B.B.C. have promised to scrap the rough five-bell ringing and make a fresh recording of the Bristol Cathedral bells. secondly, the question I would like clarified is-have the B.B.C. any right to make recordings at random without the permission or knowledge of ringers or clergy and broadcast them as they feel inclined? I would be interested to hear the verdict of one of the Central Council Broadcasting Committee.—Yours faithfully,
D. JOHN HUNT.

A MILESTONE AND CELEBRATIONS

Dear Sir,—On Saturday, October 3, a milestone in the history of bellringing at Bolsover Parish Church in Derbyshire was passed when the 250th peal was rung on the bells. Although the method rung (Plain Bob Major) was simple compared with some of the peals rung on these wonderful bells, the important thing is that it was achieved by seven members of the local band plus Mr. A. B. Cooper, for many years the ringing master at Bolsover, who now lives at Hull.

The peal, which was rung during the harvest celebrations, also marked the 25th wedding anniversary of Leonard and Joan Coe and the 21st wedding anniversary of Harold and Joyce Wagstaffe, also the birth of the first grandchild to my wife and myof the first grands, self.—Yours faithfully, DENNIS COOPER

Bolsover, Derbys.

RECORD ATTEMPT

Dear Sir,-I wish to give notice that an attempt will be made to ring 11,111 Sted-man Cinques on handbells at The Wayside, 150 Narborough Road South, on Saturday, December 12, 1970, commencing at 9 a.m. Ringing will be conducted by Peter J.

Staniforth. The band will be as follows:—
1-2 David F. Moore
3-4 Robert B. Smith 5-6 Peter J. Staniforth 7-8 Alfred Ballard

11-12 Gerald Moorhouse.
Yours faithfully,

ROBERT B. SMITH.

Dear Sir,-Having completed the third quarter of 1970, it is time to report my observations, which follow a similar pattern as my two previous letters on this topic.

Totals Donations published acknowledged. 105 (£30-0-0d.) Peals 769 Handbell Peals 109 Ouarter Peals 1077 721 (£162-6-8d.)

In comparison with the previous quarter. published peals have decreased in their contributions to The Ringing World, whilst published quarter peals again show an increase. The respective figures are 13.654 per cent. and 66.945 per cent.

The total subscribed during the third quarter amounts to £262-0-6d. and is made up as follows:-

s. d. 30 0 0 Peals Quarter Peals 162 6 8 69 13 10 Personal 262 0 6

This shows an increase over the previous quarter but covers 13 issues instead of 12. Contributions from personal donors have increased, whilst those of peals and quarter peals have decreased. Peals account for 11.449 per cent. of this total, quarter peals 61.953 per cent., and personal donors 26.597 per cent.

As in previous letters, I am showing the breakdown taking an average of all peals (both tower and handbell) and quarter peals basing on six alternatively eight bells, with a 6d. contribution from each ringer. 45

3s. 115 7 769 Peals 153 16 1077 Quarter Peals 161 11 0 109 Handbell Peals 16 7 0 215 8 0 21 16 0 391 0 0 293 5 0

I am pleased to say that whilst compiling this quarter's statistics I have noticed far more 3s. and 4s. contributions, which leads me to believe that more bands are being just that little bit more generous in their We are much closer the 3s. minimum total figure than we have been before. Can we beat it during this final quarter?

The date for increased postal charges has now been confirmed and The Ringing World Committee will need all the financial help that it can get if it is to maintain the quality and price of our weekly ringing journal. Please do all that you can to help. The Ringing World's future is in your hands NOW.—Yours faithfully.

RICHARD J. CANN. Solihull, Warwickshire.

THEY WERE . . .

Dear Sir,—In response to the question "Who were they?" (Ringing World, page 774), I would inform Mr. Glen Clayton that "they" are the people whose names appear in this issue of the R.W. in connection with the peal rung at Samlesbury on September 5. I felt inclined not to reply to a letter couched in such terms, but as the names will be published in the report I feel that I must do so. The tour organiser (Rev. Michael Hart) has sent a separate letter to the vicar, expressing regret that Mr. Clayton had acted without consulting him (the vicar). It is regretted that the ropes were too short for the Samlesbury ringers the next day. Some of them were spliced and others taken up on the wheels by members of my band in the course of normal belfry maintenance. It is always difficult to judge after such repairs just how much higher the ropes are and we assumed that the local ringers would not feel too "put out," especially as it made the condition of the ropes better than before. We do, however, apologise for the inconvenience caused.

The stay on the third was severely cracked before we raised the bells and it did, in fact, fall off whilst the rope was being tried for length. The bell had to be rung without a stay during the peal. Clayton's statement that no note was left is incorrect, although I am prepared to accept that the note (which was fixed to the tower door) might have disappeared before the Samlesbury ringers met next day. We had left the tower to obtain a sheet of paper from one of the cars, and on returning found we were locked out. (Yale lock!) Thus we were unable to leave the note inside the tower, so fixed it to the door.

I would suggest that before letters such as Mr. Clayton's are sent to The Ringing World the "injured" party should make local inquiries first and so prevent inaccurate statements being printed and causing molehills to appear as mountains. —

Yours faithfully,

MICHAEL UPHILL.

Dear Sir,-I recently came across a paragraph in a local paper claiming that the bells of Holy Trinity Parish Church at Queensbury, between Bradford and Halifax, are the highest hung in England.

The building was erected in 1843, when the ring of six bells was given by Mr. John Foster, founder of the nearby Black Dyke Mills—home of what is perhaps the most famous brass band in the world.

The item in question gave the ground frame of the church as 1,142 feet above sea level and the bell frame as approximately 1,190 feet.

Does any reader know of the existence of bells in this country hung at a greater height above sea love, bury?—Yours faithfully,

A. H. ROBINSON. height above sea level than those at Queens-

Bradford, Yorks.

THE SAWSTON PEAL

(Ringing World, page 754.) Forty years ago a peal of Bob Doubles was rung for the Ely Diocesan Association at Downham Market, Norfolk, it being one of Bob Doubles by an all-local band. few months later a peal of Bob Minor was rung with the tenor as cover! It was the first peal conducted by E. H. Mastin, and also the first attempt by all the others in the band who were regular Sunday service ringers.-From E. H. Mastin.

LANCASHIRE RUN-AROUND

The plate on the gatepost introduces one to "St. Mary Magdalen's Vicarage—Surro-gate for Marriage Licences." Residents of Accrington might possibly be forgiven, therefore, for not realising that for a week this fine house was to be the headquarters of Michael Hart's "Peripatetic Pealers." In the vicarage our assault on Lancashire was planned and we adjourned to Rawtenstall belfry for a preliminary practice. The fol-lowing morning the local band at St. James' was joined for morning ringing on the pleasant, light ten. Three very fine octaves were visited during the afternoon— Clitheroe, Kildwick and Skipton.

Ringing commenced on August 31 with a well-struck peal of Bob Royal on the lovely bells at Preston, but at Kirkham that afternoon great difficulty was encountered ringing Stedman Triples due to the very long length of unguided—and new!—rope. This attempt was soon stopped but the vicar gave permission for another try that evening. It was decided to go for Bob Major, which had not been rung since the first peal on the bells in 1846. It was good to see our dear friend (and former vicar of Putney) Clifford Carver, who greeted us at the church. He has the neighbouring parish of Treales, and it was a pity Kirkham bells did not go sufficiently well to ring "These Treales things" which he has been waiting to hear since the first peal of Treales Surprise Major at Putney for his freales Surprise Major at Putney for his farewell. The Bob Major was scored and also rung as a "Get well" to Peter Sell, in hospital following a road crash. Simultaneously a peal of Minor was rung at Goosnargh. The only complete failure of the week occurred the following morning when Stedman was lost at Scorton after a change of method from Yorkshire local ringers desiring to ring the first of Surprise on this 1879 Warner ring. We were elated with our success at Lancaster Priory on Tuesday, having been warned that we could not stay the course for three hours. A good peal of Cambridge entertained the inmates of the neighbouring building—Lancaster Gaol.

Wednesday afforded a "lie-in" for those exhausted by the Lancaster peal, and they later drove to Helmshore to hear Cambridge brought to a successful conclusion. This was followed by the first of Surprise at St. John's, Blackpool (and first peal since 1946!). We were surprised that permission had been given, as the church is in the centre of this busy town. After getting the Roman Catholic church, we accepted a bottle of sherry from the priests. (A good example of Christian unity!)

Thursday morning was spent visiting towers north of Blackburn, and in the afternoon a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung on the Cathedral bells. A further peal of Minor was rung at Chipping that evening, during which, for a good hour, the local tower captain was standing by the curtain separating the ground floor ringing room from the church explaining to his very attentive vicar and another gentleman the intricacies of the art. All credit is due to them for keeping their voices down and we trust they enjoyed watching and hearing the third peal on the bells this century.

A peal of Yorkshire was rung at Has-lingden on Friday morning whilst arrange-ments were made for two peals that evening -at Brindle Vicarage to obtain permission from the vicar's wife (in the absence of the vicar) and at Rishton Vicarage, into which another old friend, Ernest Southcott (former Provost of Southwark) was moving in readiness for his induction on September 22. He was unable to give permission as he was not then incumbent, but a very obliging churchwarden did so. Later six went off to Brindle for a peal of Doubles, and the Oswaldtwistle band scored a good peal of Lincolnshire.

The start at Rishton was delayed as we could not get a clock hammer clear of the bell, but eventually several yards of rope round the chiming mechanism did the trick and a fast peal of Bob Major was rung. Two courses from the end we were alarmed by loud banging, then footsteps, followed by rattlings on the ringing room door, and finally silence. We feared somebody was upset at the length of ringing (it was the first peal for 18 years), but on leaving the tower the commotion was explained by a note: "Thank you for ringing. Came up the tower but couldn't get in. E. W. Southcott."

A most successful and enjoyable week ended with a peal of Grandsire Triples at Samlesbury. We are all grateful to Michael Hart for the use of his vicarage and to the two very capable and persevering "servants," Michael's mother and Stewart Pearce, who between them managed breakfast and the sometimes necessary evening coffee very professionally. FORMER TOWER CAPTAIN WEDS

On September 5 several members of the Aldrington (Hove) St. Leonard's band were very proud to see their former captain, Ann Sharpe, married to Mr. John Fowler, and the following Sunday there was a quarter peal of 1260 Plain Bob Doubles rung in honour of the happy occasion.

Prior to the wedding, at a small party, the ringers presented Ann with a set of smoke grey water glasses and matching jug. in appreciation of her services. For the past 12 years she has been a most loyal member of the band and during that time has held the offices of treasurer, vice-captain and captain. Although Ann will be living outside the parish the ringers expressed the hope that she would find time to visit them on occasions.

Coventry Guild RINGING COMPETITION AND PRESENTATION

The Coventry Guild ringing competition was held at Harbury on September 5 and proved to be a very popular event, 12 teams from nine different towers taking part. It was judged by Mr. B. G. Warwick and Mr. R. W. Pipe, their separate assessments agreeing within a few per cent. The results were: Rugby 13.3 faults, Warwick I 14.0, Chilvers Coton 18.9, Kenilworth 21.4, Allesley A 24.6, Harbury II 35.5, Dunchurch 42.8, Harbury I 45.5, Allesley B 48.5. Brinklow 71.2, Bulkington 91.8, Warwick II 158.5.

Unfortunately Rugby were one member short when they arrived at the tower, so a member of another tower rang with them to make up the team. As a result they were unable to win the cup but at least have the consolation that their ringing was of a high standard. The first team from Warwick were a close second but would have had to work very hard had the Allesley first team not had a trip near to the end of their course of Cambridge. The Bulkington team were very ambitious with Carlisle Surprise Minor, which finished with a splendid crunch!

After the competition tea was provided in the village hall, where the ex-guild pre-sident, Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward, was there to present the cup to St. Nicholas, Warwick I team. This, however, turned out to be the means for making him attend the meeting, as the president, Mrs. D. E. Beamish, presented him with a stainless steel tray and a set of cuff links as a mark of appreciation of his work for the Guild during the past years. The service followed, with further ringing H. M. W. until 8.30 p.m.

MR. LUCK CARRIES ON

The weather is always foul when the Canterbury District goes to Petham, but the welcome is always warm, as members were able to experience on September 12. This lovely church was gutted by fire in 1922 and most beautifully reconstructed. The present bells (tenor 64 cwt.) were the first ring produced by the Whitechapel Foundry departing from the old standard tuning. Lovely they were then and still are they lovely now. Ringing was under the leadership of Dr. D. H. Niblett. Evensong was conducted by Mr. David Cawley, the preacher being Rev. Christopher Donaldson, rector of St. Martin, Canterbury. The offertory was for the Chislet Bell Fund.
A bumper tea preceded the by-meeting, presided over by the chairman, Mr. Bert Luck, and a message of goodwill was sent to the Vicar of Petham, who was indisposed. A goodly number of new members elected from a variety of towers testified to the fact that ringing is far from being a "dead duck" in the district. The news that Mr. Luck intended to vacate the office of chairman was greeted with dismay, and it was unanimously resolved that this popular gentleman be asked to reconsider his decision at least for another year. Mr. Luck, obviously moved, agreed: long may he chair us!

The general secretary (Mr. A. P. S. Berry) who, together with Mrs. Berry, was welcomed, drew the attention of members to the criticism of meetings in the R.W. and asked the meeting to give thought to the matter in their choice of officers, on whom the successful organisation of meetings depended. He also asked the district to think now of the forthcoming county A.G.M. to be held in the district next Easter. He wished the district well.

The members were entertained with tune ringing on handbells by Mr. and Mrs. J. Stockbridge, Mr. L. Huckstepp and Mr. and Mrs. G. Grey. Many then returned to the church or to the twin parish of Walthem, with its central tower and complete Joseph Hatch four. The tuning of these bells (tenor 8 cwt. in A) was solved by Mrs. Berry, who pronounced them to be the middle minor four of the front six of a ring of ten in C!

FESTIVAL OF BELLS

Evensong at the Warminster Minster Church of St. Denys on September 13 was celebrated as a festival of bells, which annually takes place to recognise the work of the bellringers in the church.

The ringing beforehand took the form of a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles and the service, conducted by the Rev. A. T. Johnson, was opened by a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells by Messrs. E. Norris, E. C. Shepherd, N. Knee and F. Slatford (North Bradley). Lessons were read by Miss S. Howell and the tower captain, and instead of an anthem by the choir the handbells were rung to tunes by the Warminster Handbell Ringers, who had rung in the quarter peal. The sermon was preached by Rev. P. F. Tambling, rector of Zeals, himself a ringer. He took as his theme "Where you lead I will follow," as applied to ringing and normal Christian

At the conclusion of the service the belfry was thrown open to visitors, and many availed themselves of the opportunity to go "aloft" and "see how it's done." Ringing finally concluded at 8.30 p.m. Bath and Wells Association

ON A WET DAY

It was a very wet morning on September 12, when ringers of the Bridgwater Branch, together with families and friends, set off on their annual outing.

Our first tower was in Dorset-Sturminster Marshall, where we rang on the 18 cwt. six before proceeding to Bournemouth for lunch. Here some members of the party had to bale out the coach, and delay in leaving was caused by a lady ringer who had mislaid her spectacles while trying on the latest fashions.

We continued to Beaulieu for the afternoon, visiting the motor museum, Palace House and 13th century Abbey ruins, Tea having been taken here, our next tower was Brockenhurst, and the light six surprised some of the ringers. As the tenor was only 4 cwt. an all-ladies band was called upon for a touch of Bob Doubles.

The bells lowered, we made our way to Ringwood and travelled the more isolated roads of the New Forest. We were rewarded by seeing deer amongst the attractive scenery. Ringwood was our last and only 8-bell ring of the day, and after an hour we once more boarded the coach en route for C.K. Bridgwater and home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knight, following their wedding at St. Mary's Parish Church, Hendon, on Wednesday, September 16. The bride, formerly Miss Dianne Gazeley, has been a bellringer at St. Mary's for some years. The couple will leave for Australia at the end of October.

Another famous name in 17th century bell founding is that of Purdue. Thomas. of Closworth, Somerset, is justly famous for his work at Exeter Cathedral, and the 11th here ("Stafford," 41 cwt., 1676) and also the 9th are very fine bells indeed, at least since retuning by Taylors in 1902. The much lighter 11th at Redcliffe, Bristol, is by an earlier Purdue (Roger, in 1622) and is almost as fine (Taylor retuning in 1903); so too is his famous tenor at Queen Camel.

Since writing this I have seen that H. B. Walters ascribes Redc'iffe 11th to Thomas Stone, of Glamorgan. Whoever cast it, it is a magnificent bell. Queen Camel tenor is not, in fact, true harmonic but two of the many other Purdue bells which are are Hinton St. Mary tenor (1614) and Rampisham fourth (1615), both in Dorset and both by William.

John Wallis, of Salisbury, whose "plum" job was the provision of a ring of five bells (of which four survive) for Windsor Castle in 1612-14, produced several bells (but not really including these!) which are very good harmonically, perhaps the best being the tenor (20 cwt., 1618) of the sadly derelict ring at Cheselbourne, Dorset, the tenor (16½ cwt., 1612) at Sturminster Newton and the fifth at Hazelbury Bryan (1613) nearby.

It has been said that the Knight foundry of Reading produced a high proportion of bells with octave hum-notes, but I must confess to having never been especially impressed by its productions (with exceptions) such as at Great Haseley, Oxon (3/6, 1641), about which more below, and Hurstbourne Priors, Hants, fifth (1631); likewise I am not altogether convinced that Miles Graye I. of Colchester, deserves his exalted reputation. James, the first of the Keenes, of Woodstock, and Mears and Stainbank's tuning machine between them produced the very good tener at Brampton, Hunts (1630 and 1934): I should like to hear more bells of his of this quality and also of Henry Oldfield II's, of Nottingham, who cast the excellent 3rd, 4th and tenor bells (retuned by Taylors in 1895!) at Branston, Lincs. Judging from St. Clement's, Ipswich (6, 15) cwt., 1660 except tenor). John Darbie's tuning was uncommonly close to true harmonic: in fact the 2nd and 4th of his four bells (1677-78) at Hintlesham are almost perfect.

Some members of the famous West Country family of bell founders, the Penningtons, really deserve to be mentioned (equally there are other members whose work is a real disgrace to the art) but I must move on, or rather back, for a brief look at the 14th, 15th and earlier 16th centuries.

Pre-Reformation bells are think, very often notable for octave humnotes or true harmonics, although I have noted several in Dorset, from various foundries, including some which have responded to enlightened retuning, this time by the Croydon foundry. Carlton, Beds, tenor ought also to be mentioned in this connection; and at Great Ponton. Lincs. are two mediæval bells (the 2nd and 3rd) which are true harmonic without having had any retuning. There was, however, one very important mediæval foundry whose contribution to English tuning seems to have been rivalled only by Taylors' and William Dobson's, and that was in Exeter. On the strength of the contents of four Devon towers alone (Torbryan, Littlehempston, Churston Fer-rers and Gidleigh) one can safely say that Exeter had a succession of founders of exceptional talent. Some of their bells are, harmonically, little short of perfect, and this as early as the 14th and 15th centuries! If I dare to make a criticism it is that Exeter bells are sometimes better in tune with themselves than with each other. have the feeling that I am poaching on Rev. John Scott's territory, so I now propose to jump forward to the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries again.

The first of Taylors' competitors to join (or try to jcin) the true harmonic bandwagon was apparently Charles Carr, of Smethwick. Curiously enough we find both founders in the same tower, Carmarthen, in the same year, 1904, Carrs providing the tenor, frame and fittings, and Taylors the treble, 2nd and 4th bells! In 1907 Carrs cast quite a good chime (8, 4 cwt.) for Llanegwad, Carms. The tuning is not perfect but surely a commendable effort for a small foundry. In 1910 they provided five bells for Bridstow, Herefordshire, two at least of which are very good, though "hard" in tone; the total effect is spoilt by the poor 15th century (R. Hendley, of Gloucester) tenor and the wickedly out-of-tune trebles added by Mears in 1924.

The year 1907 was the first year of Gillett and Johnston's "Simpson" tuning (which they loudly claimed as such) with rings such as the light six at Launton. Oxon, and the augmentation from four to six at Wool, Dorset. The contrast between the firm's work (both tuning and hanging) in this and the previous year is astonishing; it is odd that, after a good start, Gilletts seem to have had such trouble with their tuning later on, with comparative "duds" such as the tenor at Hillingdon and disasters in the form of several bells breaking apart at the shoulder. I have heard it alleged that some of these troubles were due to sabotage! Their first major ring, I think, and a very fine one at that, was at Wimborne Minster, Dorset (10, 29½ cwt.). in 1911. But 1911 was a very busy year and included the casting of new rings for Wolverhampton (12), Wrotham, Kent (8) and Oakham, Rutland (8). Listening to rings such as at St. Peter's, South Croydon (10, 30½ cwt., 1912), one wonders whether Gilletts were actually aiming at a reduction in resonance; and many of their earlier bells have a rather lovable hollowness or "growl" about them. By the early 1920's, however, they had stopped experimenting and their tuning had settled down into such glorious rings as at Petworth, Sussex (8, 18 cwt., 1924) and Clerkenwell. London (8, 24³/₄ cwt., 1928). Regrettably, the firm's bellfounding came to an end in the mid-1950's, one of Gillett and Johnston's last rings being at Cranleigh, Surrey (8, 163 cwt., 1954).

CLERICAL MEMBER

On September 12 the Central District of the Durham and Newcastle Association held a ringing meeting and their A.G.M. at the Church of St. Cuthbert, Stella, Blaydon.

Bill Tyson was re-elected chairman and ringing master, Bill Davison retired from the position of secretary (which he had held for three years) and Norman Johnson (of Blaydon) was elected in his place.

The Rev. R. Stephenson, rector of Stella, was elected as a clerical member of the N. A. J. association.

THE DEAN OFFICIATED

A lovely wedding took place in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, B.C., on August 8. when Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the marriage of Ethel Margaret Izard, only daughter of Mr. E. W. Izard and the late Mrs. Izard, and Rev. John Sanford Twining. son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Twining, formerly of Gordon Head, Victoria, B.C.

The Cathedral choir, under the direction of Mr. Beal Thomas, led the singing of "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven" as the bride entered and rendered the chorale "Jesu, joy of man's desiring" during the signing of the register. Given away by her father, the bride was attended by her nieces. Miss Margot Izard and Miss Patricia Izard. Mr. Russell Twining, of Vancouver, was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. Richard Izard and Mr. Richard Twining. nephews of the bride and bridegroom.

As the bridal party approached and left the church the tower bells were rung by fellow ringers of the bride, among those taking part being the bride's brother. Mr. J. Arthur Izard, and two of her nephews. Mr. Ted Izard and Mr. Ian Izard. They were later joined by the bride's father, Mr. E. W. Izard, when handbells were rung at the reception in the garden of her home. 980 Arundel Drive, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Canon S. S. Wickens. Following the honeymoon at Point-no-Point, Jordan River, the couple will live at St. Mary's Rectory. Birch Hills, near Prince Albert, Saskatchewan (Box 447, Birch Hills)

A CROOKED SPIRE

The quarterly meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch was held at Cleobury Mortimer on Cleobury Mortimer, September 5. pleasant, small country town midway between Kidderminster and Ludlow, has a crooked spire surmounting the tower of its parish church. The tower contains a pleasing ring of six, which was put to good use during the afternoon and evening under the direction of the branch ringing master (Mr. Harold Thomas).

The service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. C. M. Oldroyd) and tea was provided by Mrs. Margaret Osbaldiston and her lady helpers. A feature of the meeting was the number of young ringers present, and Mr. Thomas saw to it that they had plenty of opportunities of ringing.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. Alec Osbaldiston, the local tower captain, for making the arrangements for this very enjoyable meeting.

CLEVELAND RINGERS TOUR SCOTLAND

(August 7-10)

On a rather miserable Friday morning in early August Mike Livesey's tour of Scotland started, after a delay for budding photographers to record the great moment. Thick fog was encountered for part of the journey, which put us behind schedule, but we managed to make up some of the time and were not too late at the first tower, St. James', Paisley. For some reason, possibly because of the long drive beforehand, both experienced and inexperienced ringers seemed to find difficulty in striking the bells and the ringing here was probably the worst of the tour. A late departure enforced another fast drive to enable us to book in at Fintry Youth Hostel and then return to Glasgow Cathedral by early evening. A visit to the wrong cathedral first made us keep up our dismal record by arriving there late also, but we joined our hosts to get the ten in action for some improved ringing.

Although we had been unable to get Inveraray bells on the Saturday we decided to go there, hoping to see the bells and possibly briefly to join any band who might be ringing there. No one was about and the bells were locked up, so we moved on to Stirling.

The following morning we joined Harry Glover and his band at Alloa to ring for Sunday service on the enjoyable eight before making our leisurely way to the mag-nificent Dunblane Cathedral. We found the bells excellent and it is a great pity that they are not rung regularly. We rang at Dundee Cathedral for evening service and were intrigued by the Victorian extractor fan set in the floor. After the ringing we went to the roof of the tower, where there is a superb view of the city and road bridge.

Next morning we travelled via the impressive Tay and Forth road bridges to Edinburgh for the final ringing of the tour. First was the Cathedral, where most of us were able to ring our heaviest bell to date by grabbing the 42½ cwt. tenor and with the help of the local ringers we got the ten in action. In complete contrast we moved to Fettes College and the 21 cwt. five were greatly appreciated.

The tour was a great success and thanks are extended to Mike Livesey and to Richard Harris and Bob Crighton for their efficient and uncomplaining driving, even when occasionally faced with suspect navigators.

The former Miss Margaret Izard, whose wedding is reported in this issue, is a very accomplished ringer and rang regularly at Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, B.C. On many occasions she has helped to entertain visiting ringers from the U.K. and when in England has rung at many churches, including Winchester Cathedral and Christchurch Priory.

The story on the cover about the bells at St. Paul's. Papanui, New Zealand, makes interesting reading and all bellringers in the British Isles will wish continued success to the St. Paul's Society and also to the Cathedral Society at Christchurch.

Returning to New Zealand after several months' stay in the British Isles, Mr. and Mrs. Armitage left on October 6. They have frequently popped in the office to have a chat and there is no doubt they—and we have enjoyed their holiday. We hope that we may meet again one day, but no doubt will see Mr. Armitage's name in the ringing items connected with Papanui.

IN HIS 99th YEAR

Sending a subscription from Alhambra, California, Mrs. Ann Weatherby apologised for the delay but was disabled for several months with a broken right arm. Her husband, Mr. Ernest Weatherby, who is in his 99th year, did much of his peal ringing in the Guildford area, and Mrs. Weatherby adds: "My husband has been a subscriber to bellringing magazines since Church Bells in the late 1800s and still shows great interest in ringing. He is self-taught, learning bellringing from Snowdon's books and attending practice nights in various towns and villages."

Wedding

The marriage between Richard B. Dorrington, of Bilston, Staffordshire, and Bryony P. H. Moorby, of Kingston upon Thames, Surrey, took place at Kingston Parish Church on Saturday, September 5. The bride wore an ivory gown of Duchesse satin. The gown and full length veil were embroidered and made by her mother.

The reception was attended by 150 guests, 30 or more being ringers. The church porch was decorated with bell ropes, and handbells were rung at the reception.

TWO YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—On September 14, 1968, the Central Branch of our Lincoln Guild held its quarterly meeting at our village, when Mr. J. Freeman was our chairman, with Mr. J. L. Millhouse ringing master and Mr. G. R. Parker secretary.

The meeting was well attended but many snags and incidents presented themselves that were very annoying to the officers concerned.

The meeting was never reported in the R.W.

The various incidents inspired a local ringer to write the following rhyme, which all concerned would agree is absolutely true in every detail and I am sure now that the said officers have had time to cool down they will only recall it with amusement. Here it is:—

The Central Branch of Lincoln Guild Held meeting mid-September, And Scothern was the place they chose For long we shall remember.

It happened when our "Vic" was ill, So him they did not worry; We had a parson from away And he was in a hurry.

The village hall we tried to hire
To seat our forty ringers;
The young and old, some boys and girls
And one or two beginners.

The hall was booked some time before For horticultural show; It happens every year just then, A fact we all should know.

So then we tried the reading room, Said they "You wait and see, For probably at that weekend 'Twill be the football tea."

We told our problem to a friend Who said "You are a fool To run around the village so And never try the school."

We saw the powers that be up there "Oh, come to school," they said, "We'll set the tables up for you And find you all some bread."

The meal was over, past and gone. Geoff said "So now we pay." The ladies rushed in one and all To clear the pots away.

A local gent barged in the room
As minutes true were read;
"I hope you've all enjoyed yourselves
And had good tea," he said.

When Harold tried to make a speech, As odd as it may seem, That fearless man walked in again To fetch the salad cream.

Before the ringing master spoke
The chairman called a halt,
To make quite sure our friend in there
Did not require the salt.

The business meeting duly closed, Then back to church to ring; Some played the organ for a while But no one tried to sing.

They rang another touch or two
To make complete the day,
Then finished off on Dunholme bells
Until they broke a stayl

Taken from The Ringing World for October 19, 1945

The first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus by all was rung at St. Martin's Cathedral, Leicester, it also being the first for the Midland Counties Association.

Harold J. Poole conducted.

Mr. T. Townsend was elected ringing master pro tem at a meeting of the Dudley and District Guild held at Oldbury.

The band who rang a quarter of Grandsire Caters at Solihull contained five members of the Bragg family, it being conducted by E. C. Shepherd.

At a Devonshire Guild meeting at East

Budleigh the company included Preb E. V. Cox (president) and the Rev. C. Carew Cox (president of the Salisbury Guild).

We are not disposed to quarrel with Mr. Joseph Dyke when he says that occasionally his ears tell him that perfection is reached in ringing but we do think that "perfection" is a word which ought not to be used of striking . . .—Leader.

William C. Shute conducted a peal of Bob Minor at St. Paul's, Salisbury, in which Frederick E. Manns rang his first peal (on the treble).

At Braintree a handbell peal of Double At Braintree a handbell peal of Double Norwich was rung by Edwin Jennings 1-2, Christopher W. Woolley 3-4, John B. Woolley 5-6, Albert Wiffen 7-8. It was arranged and conducted by C. W. Woolley, being his 250th on handbells.

The annual meeting of the National Police Guild was held at Leicester, and at the luncheon the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress were guests of honour.

October 22, 1920

A letter from G. P. Burton, of Bracondale, Norwich, called attention to the newly-formed Ypres League and the possibility of erecting a belfry tower on the battlefield containing a ring of bells for special occasions.

At the Central Northants Association meeting at Finedon it was agreed by a large majority that performing members should pay an annual subscription of 2s., with 6d. entrance fee.

The Norwich and Ipswich Association held their annual meefing on a Wednesday, when 70 were present and a service was followed by luncheon in Ipswich Co-operative Hall.

On October 21, 1920, a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at St. John's Church, Cardiff. [It is thought that Fred Bailey is the only surviving member of the band.—Ed.]

At Warnham, Sussex, Miss Florrie Wy-man rang the treble to Bob Major—her first peal, which was conducted by Oliver Sippetts.

The first peal on the bells at All Saints',

Tilney, Norfolk, was one of Bob Minor.
They were made a six in 1745.

At Monkseaton, Northumberland, five members of the Gofton family rang a hand-bell peal of Stedman Caters, and at Leiston four of the Bailey brothers rang a handbell peal of Stedman Triples.

A peal of Grandsire Triples for the Ancient Society of College Youths was scored by Arthur T. Morris, who tapped Carter's 12-part in 2 hours and 34 minutes before four witnesses. Published by The Ringing World for the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers and printed by

St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, Suffolk

By GEORGE W. PIPE

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER, now the Borough Church, is mentioned in the Domesday Survey as having been in existence in the reign of Edward the Confessor. Records show that it has always been associated with the civic life of Ipswich, indeed Merchant Guild of Corpus Christi (instituted in 1325) always had close links with the "Tower."

Unhappily these civic ties have tended to weaken over the past 100 years, although efforts are being made to restore a real feeling that once again the church and the town are as one.

These early foundations may surprise the visitor because the present appearance of this fine church owes almost everything to its extensive refashioning beween the years 1850 and 1868. Thus the nave and chancel arcades are the only mediæval remains of the structure.

There are some good brasses, an early 15th century font (one of a trio—the other two being at Helmingham and Grundisburgh), a Willis organ and a pulpit attributed to Grinling Gibbons.

The tower and spire, 176 feet high, was rebuilt completely in 1866, replacing a smaller one.

THE BELLS

The churchwardens' return of 1553 shows that there were five bells and one sanctus. The ring was augmented to eight, then ten in 1812, with the two trebles recast again in 1844/5.

The new tower in 1866 provided the opportunity to furnish Suffolk with its first and only 12 by the addition of a new treble and tenor and the recasting of the old 2nd and 6th to become the present 5th and 9th. The 7th was recast just after the last war. Details of the bells are as follows. (Notice the weights of the front four!)

Treble.—27", 5-3-5. Warner 1866.

St. Mary-le-Tower Society's achievements over the last 100 years are already well known. Suffice to say that up to 1963 nearly 400 peals were rung on the bells, most of which were on 12, many being Surprise methods.

Sadly the ring is in urgent need of restoration, no work apart from the recast 7th having been done on them since 1866/7. However, the first £1,000 has been raised (entirely through the efforts of ringers) and we in Suffolk are hopeful that the Church and civic authorities in Ipswich will soon recognise the importance of this work.

the first post-war peal in the method, and this was J. Motts' last of Surprise Maximus. He had successfully guided the company from the Double Norwich Maximus in 1892 and had conducted all their performances. In all he was the conductor for 39 years — no mean feat. Early in 1923 he passed to his rest, joining his greatly loved brother William, who had died on September 29th, 1919, aged 57 years.

"In 1920 George E. Symonds took up residence in Ipswich and joined the St. Mary-le-Tower Society. When J. Motts died George was elected conductor, being aided by C. J. Sedgley. Many of the older members had either retired from ringing or had died. Much patient work was required to rebuild the company, which they successfully accomplished.

"On April 30, 1927, they rang the first peal of Superlative Maximus, William Pye and brother G. R. being among the band. Then followed on December 8, 1928, New Cambridge Maximus; November 30, 1929, the first of Yorkshire Maximus; September 13, 1930, Pudsey Maximus; February 3, 1938, Rochester Maximus; and February 2, 1939, York Surprise Maximus. Truly a magnificent record."

COMMEMORATION OF THE 1910 PEAL OF CAMBRIDGE MAXIMUS AT IPSWICH

By EDWARD JENKINS and GEORGE W. PIPE

George Pipe writes:

"Earlier this year I wrote to Ted Jenkins (himself a Suffolk man and 'proud on it') telling him of our intention to commemorate the September, 1910, Cambridge Maximus at Ipswich by the Norwich Diocesan Association. He very kindly wrote a short article of the events leading up to the 1908 and 1910 peals, which is here published in full":—

"After the 1866 restoration, when Warners had added a tenor and treble to the old ten, there does not seem to have been much activity, although the College Youths came along and rang the first peal on them, which was, of course, Stedman Cinques. In the 1880's the two brothers Motts moved from Fressingfield to Ipswich, where they pursued their vocation as house decorators. James, the elder, established himself as leader of the company and in 1892 they rang the second peal ever of Double Norwich Maximus, the first having been rung at Norwich on January 20, 1817. For the Ipswich men this was a tremendous advance from the usual Treble 12 of those days. Subsequently they rang several peals of Double Norwich Maximus, all of which were conducted by James Motts.

"Early in the 1900's the news leaked out that the Gloucester people were practising Cambridge Maximus. A conversation with John Austin and more recent information from Mr. F. J. Lewis, of Cirencester, reveals that they did manage a plain course but a bob rather upset things and a fierce argument between the brothers Law James and Bankes James shattered the affair.

Circa 1906 the Ipswich men, assisted by William and George R. Pye and Bertram Prewitt, began practising the method. The first attempt failed, fortunately, for it was found that the composition used was false. However, on Saturday, August 15, 1908, all went well and the peal was achieved Well might Charles Borrett, then secretary of the Norwich Diocesan Association, write his own footnote to the peal in the annual report: 'This is the greatest performance in the history of campanology.'

"While the rest of the Exercise were recovering from their astonishment, the Sunday service band rang the second peal of Cambridge Maximus on September 17, 1910, and Charles J. Sedgley is the only survivor of that band, he having moved to Ipswich the previous year.

"The band for this peal was as follows: Edgar Pemberton Treble William P. Garrett 7 Arthur S. Boar 2 Chas. A. Catchpole 8 Edward Evans 3 Chas. J. Sedgley 9 Chas. H. Gillingham 4 William Motts 10 William L. Catchpole 5 Lewis W. Wiffen 11 James Motts 6 Robert H. Brundle Tenor Conductor James Motts.

Bill Garrett, incidentally, rang the 7th without a slider!

"It was this 1910 peal and the fact that Charles Sedgley (83) is still happily with us that prompted six Norwich and six Suffolk ringers to get together at St. Peter Mancroft on September 27 and ring the original composition. The peal, recorded elsewhere in this journal, was rung appropriately for the Norwich Diocesan Association, and thanks are due to our hosts for making the attempt possible.

INVERARAY BELLS RECORDED

LONG-PLAYERS TO BE MADE

During late August, recordings of Inver-aray bells were made with a view to two gramophone records being produced in aid of funds for improvements in the towerin particular, sound and weather control. The arrangements were made by Mr. N. Chaddock. The aim is to produce a 7in. L.P. of mainly Scottish and traditional melodies played on the chimes by Mr. Ray Aldington of King's Norton, who plays the Bournville carillon, and a 12in. L.P. including some six-and eight-bell ringing, but mainly Caters and Royal. It is hoped that these will be available before Christmas, and progress will be notified to The Ringing World

Let's look at a few old Ringing Worlds to see the sort of way people write accounts of ringing tours . . . Yes, usually accounts of ringing tours . . . Yes, usually long after the event—well, that's all right, it's a month since I agreed to write this article. . . Hallo, here's something a bit different—it starts in the middle of the

On Wed., Aug 26, we went into the Peak District. Some good ringing was had in the morning at Glossop and Hope, but mist prevented us from enjoying the scenery to the full. In the afternoon a peal of Cambridge Royal was rung at Chesterfield (which, according to nearby residents, took 4½ hours to ring), while the rest of the party practised their six-bell ringing at Hathersage, Edensor and Chatsworth. .

Well, it's a start—a bit pedestrian though.
... Those old boys who wrote in The Bell News had a certain charm about their style. . . . On Tuesday, the 25th, a party consisting of members of the Cambridge University Guild of Change Ringers set forth after a copious breakfast from Lyme Hall, Disley, the magnificent residence in which were so comfortably accommodated for the duration of their week's tour, and in fair weather proceeded by motor car to the pretty village of Marple, where the fine ring of eight bells which hangs in the ancient tower of the parish church was soon pouring forth its music over the adjacent valley. It was at this tower that the party had the good fortune to be joined by Canon Gilbert Thurlow, that ever popular . . . (etc.) After an hour's ringing the party proceeded to Hazel Grove, and thence to Stockport, where the magnificence of the fane is matched by the grandeur of 'the In the afternoon, after a light lunch, an attempt for a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on the historic bells at Ashton-under-Lyne was brought to an untimely halt by the temporary indisposition of one of the band. Meantime other members of the party displayed their skill to the local audiences at Chapel-en-le-Frith and Taxal.

. . . Yes, but perhaps that sort of thing is rather old-fashioned these days-after all, the Editor is trying hard to give The Ringing World a modern image .

Monday, August 24. Prestbury bells were really groovy, dad, but Dunham Massey—boy, what a freak! Knutsford was cool, man, cool. Then this band rings this peal at Bowdon

No, perhaps not. Anyway, speaking of the Editor reminds me that he urges con-tributors to be brief—perhaps we could try the Alfred Jingle touch?

Thursday—went west—Eccleston—capital bells— then Handbridge—Chester, in again, out again, no time to stop—fine six at Acton—only allowed ring back six at Barthomley—mechanical defect—Congleton—splendid bells, very—no peal attempt that day.

Brief, yes, but perhaps too condensed. So we're back where we started-and I don't suppose anyone's interested in reading what we did, anyway—I never read about other people's tours—so let's just finish off as quickly as possible.

Friday saw us in the Peak District again. The guild's 750th peal was rung at Darley Dale, and the band was hospitably entertained afterwards by Rev. R. D. St. J. Smith, the incumbent, who also rang in the peal. Ringing also took place at Chelmorton, Ashford-in-the-Water, Matlock, Youlgreave and somewhere else-I forget

. Now, can we get all the other essentials into one last paragraph?

Scores:—For: 3 peals out of 5 attempts; good time had by all. Against: 2 stays, 5 ropes, 1 tyre, 1 car door. Members present all or part of time 26. Grateful thanks to Alan Scholfield, whose hard work and organisation produced a really memorable "Guild Week," and to incumbents and towerkeepers for use of bells. There was also some ringing for those who arrived on the Sunday at the beginning of the week.

MR. JOHN BALL

John Ball was laid to rest on Sept. 30 in the churchyard at Gt. Addington, Northants, after a life spanning 86 years. For 70 of those years he served his village church as chorister, sidesman, churchwarden and bellringer, and in addition did many less glamorous tasks on its behalf, including the upkeep of the churchyard and maintenance

After being employed as bellhanger's assistant when the bells were installed in 1899 he, along with his brothers Francis and Albert, learned to ring under the tuition of the late Bill Gilbert, who walked from Raunds to teach his pupils. John, with his brothers, later figured in many peals rung by the Central Northants Association and afterwards the Peterborough Guild.

For those who knew him only during the last ten years his death is a severance of the link between the present band and the original one. He entered into most of our ringing activities despite the fact that many of the methods of his day have since lost

Following the death of his wife, John spent his latter years at the home of his stepdaughter at Derby, but returning to Great Addington for short stays at regular intervals-and always arriving on a Friday (practice night). The memory of this excited elderly gentleman clambering out of a car, with his jacket half-off by the time he reached the belfry door will always be uppermost in our minds. He loved coming back for practices and really enjoyed the company of younger ringers.

A quarter peal of Plain Bob rung open as a thanksgiving for his life and work was unfortunately lost a lead from home on the night of the funeral, but amends were made by one of Cambridge rung at Twywell on the following Saturday.

May he rest in peace.

STARTED RINGING IN 1904

Mr. Louis Head, of Little Buckland Avenue, Maidstone, who is a very active 80-years-old and is a popular member of the Kent County Association, photographed recently by The Ringing World. He started ringing in 1904 at Lyminge, near Folkestone, and during the first war served in the Royal Flying Corps. He was the youngest composer in the Kent County Association, having composed a peal of Bob Major when he was 16.

Mr. Head has rung many peals and conducted between 130 and 150 of them. He still rings in the monthly quarter peals at Maidstone and is a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

A golden wedding peal of Stedman Caters was rung on that auspicious occasion—October 5, 1968. Both Mr. and Mrs. Head are in excellent health, a state which all will wish them for many years yet.

RINGING WORLD FOR ROYALTY

When Prince George attended morning service with the Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter on September 6, at St. Martin's, Stamford Baron, Northants, a copy of The Ringing World lay on the table near the south door. Noting the cover picture (of St. Martin's) he asked if one was to spare. Mr. John Bluff promptly handed him one and gave him a brief description of the contents. Prince George is brother-in-law of the Duke of Edinburgh. J. H. B.

Guild of Police Ringers. NEW PRESIDENT

The A.G.M. of the guild was held on September 26 at Kettering, Northants, by kind permission of the Chief Constable, Mr. J. A. H. Gott.

Lunch was at Rothwell House Hotel, Rothwell, and the guests were Rev. E. G. Orland and Mrs. Orland, Chief Superintendent Ward and Mrs. Ward.

Ringing was arranged at six towers and the meeting was held at Kettering Police Station. The new president of the guild is Chief Superintendent R. Hagley of Guildford, and the new secretary-treasurer is P.C. George Cousins of Ross-on-Wye.

The next A.G.M. will be held at Bristol in September, 1971. W. J. F.

"B" TEAM WINS

The fifth annual striking competition of Bath Branch was held in delightful summer weather at Bathford on September 19. Seven teams entered and a good standard of ringing was achieved. The judge was the past secretary, Mr. Alan F. Lee, and in his remarks he commented on the small number of whole faults incurred. The final placings were: 1 St. Mary's B (5½ faults), 2 Corston B (10), followed by St. Michael's (13), Abbey (17), Twerton (23), St. Mary's A (30) and Corston A (38).

The Vicar of Bathford presented the Harold Parfrey Memorial Shield to the winners, and the chairman of the branch thanked him for allowing the use of the bells, the Vicarage garden and the Church Hall (where tea was served). The chairman also thanked the local tower captain, Mr. A. B. Cannings, for his work, and the ladies who prepared and served tea.

Herts County Association.

ANOTHER DISTRICT HELPED

The Eastern District summer meeting was held at Aspenden, where the attractive church is situated in equally fine countryside. The pleasant eight were put to good use, but unfortunately many ringers were on holiday at this time. Our thanks to members of the Bishop's Stortford District who came over and helped. Owing to the absence of the ringing master (Mr. David Harris), Mr. A. Stracey took charge of ringing.

A visit by the local Press added to the activity and many of the band were interviewed and photographs taken. The bells were lowered at 8.30 p.m. B. J. W. F.

Leeds and District Branch.

STRIKING COMPETITION

For its annual striking competition the Leeds and District Branch decided this year to substitute the branch stage of the Yorkshire Association's new competition for its own. Consequently the event took place at Batley on September 26. The weather was fine and warm (always a help on such an occasion), enabling competitors to stand in the churchyard to listen to the performances of their rivals. A record ten bands entered, five of whom were ringing call changes, at least one person in each "not proficient at ringing changes in method form."

The judging was done once again by Mr. Noel F. Moxon (Cawthorne), who patiently sat in a curtained Dormobile outside the tower for over four hours.

The results were announced at the business meeting which concluded the event, and the band from Thornhill, ringing cartwheel Oxford T.B., were declared the winners. Two bands ringing Cambridge Minor (Leeds Parish Church and Chapel Allerton) were placed second and third respectively, with only one fault between them.

Mr. Moxon presented as the prize the

Mr. Moxon presented as the prize the Leeds and District Amalgamated Society's engraved tankard, to Dyson Scargill, captain of the Thornhill band, and said how pleased he was to see such enthusiasm for the competition which had come from the branch, particularly from the relatively young bands who had rung call changes.

The branch chairman (Robin Brown) congratulated Mrs. Janet Walker and the Cleckheaton band, who rang call changes, and were placed fourth.

The Thornhill and Leeds Parish bands now go forward to represent the branch in the final of the association's competition to be held at the end of October.

Rededication.

Wickwar, Gloucestershire

Sunday afternoon, September 20, was pleasant and warm. Ringers attending the rededication of the bells of the lovely church enjoyed a pleasant service in this delightful village just below the Cotswolds. The service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. E. Akers Perry) assisted by the Rural Dean. During the service the first lesson was read by Police-Sergeant W. F. Scudamore, master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and the second lesson by one of the local ringers. Also present in the congregation were Miss E. M. Bliss, chairman of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and Messrs. A. Clayton and P. Brown, representing John Taylor and Co. the bell founders. An unusual feature of the ceremony was the accompaniment of the ringers' hymn, "Unchanging God," on handbells. After the service the bells were sentatives of the association and founders.

General ringing followed.

All felt an excellent job had been made. The bells were found to run smoothly and to admit of good striking from the outset. The bells were cast and installed originally by Gillett and Johnston in 1908 and are a pleasant-toned ring. The restoration has been made possible by a legacy left by a former ringer at Wickwar.

Guildford Guild. SECRETARY TAKEN ILL

The secretary of the Farnham District, Miss Sylvia Tate-Mitchell, became unwell and was unable to stay for the meeting at Seale on October 3, but the assistant secretary stepped into the breach.

The service, which preceded the meeting, was conducted by the recently-inducted rector, Canon Oldakre, who welcomed the company and expressed pleasure in meeting the ringers.

The company stood in silence in memory of Mr. Edgar Sherwood (of Ash), who was a founder member of the guild.

New members elected were David Turner, Joan Gillott, Tim Norris and Tony Poll (Farnham) and Simon Garrard (Seale).

The next district advanced practice was arranged for Farnborough in October, the date to be arranged with the local ringers. The meeting concluded with the master (Mr. T. Page) thanking the local ringers, the rector, and also Alan Rapley (Grayshott) for playing the organ.

The meeting was followed with a varied

Lincoln Guild. IMPROVEMENT NOTICED and lively programme of ringing.

At the second annual guild striking competition there was a very noticeable improvement in the standard of ringing over the previous year. However, only ten teams took part in the final, which was held at Waddington on September 19, one team from each of the Eastern and Elloe Deanery Branches and two from each of the others.

We were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Denis Carlisle as judge, and after a buffet tea he announced the results as follows: Stamford 90 faults, Algarkirk 101, Burton Stather 101, Winterton 63½, St. Giles, Lincoln, 119, Saxilby 80, Lincoln Cathedral 54, Bicker rang out, Grantham 84, Gainsborough 95.

The John Freeman Cup was presented to the conductor of the Cathedral team, together with a hand-written and framed certificate. A surprise was the presentation of a plaque, carved and donated by John Bluff (Stamford) to the conductor of the runners-up (Winterton).

OUR CALENDAR

Before the last war, Messrs. John Taylor and Co., the Loughborough bell founders. distributed free a well-produced and attractive calendar which depicted churches in which the firm had carried out bell installation or restoration work. As far as we can ascertain there has been no similar production in post-war years, and this prompted the Editor to design something which would be attractive, useful and moderately priced

A limited "run-off" of 500 copies of a Ringing World calendar has been printed and consists of 12 towers from various parts of the country with a month and year-toview on each page. It is printed in sepia on cartridge paper and carries a diary panel for each month. We realise it is not an ambitious production but, being experimental, it was felt that it should be retailed to ringers at cost price and, if successful, could next year be improved and somewhat more elaborate. We believe that the first issue is reasonably attractive and will prove useful, as well as an advertisement for the bell-ringers' own weekly journal—The Ringing World.

Ringing World Calendar; price 6s. (plus 6d. p. & p. per copy) from The Ringing World, c/o Seven Corners Press, Onslow Street, Guildford, Surrey.

"THE SOUND OF THE CARILLON"

In our advertisement columns we give details of a tape recording made by the City and County of Newcastle upon Tyne of their Edith Adamson carillon, which plays eight well-known tunes and four Christmas carols. It is a well-balanced selection and has special appeal not only to Tynesiders but also to carillon and bells enthusiasts. Playing for around 15 minutes, it is recorded on one side of the tape, and the reverse (plain) side can be used for sending a personal message if given as a Christmas gift, or for other recordings.

Packed in a strong box and bearing an attractive label of the bell tower, it is despatched in a specially padded envelope which can be re-used if required. A limited number of tapes has been cut and early application is advised. The cost is 21s.

Obituary.

WALTER E. DAY

On the morning of Wednesday, October 14, Walter died in hospital at the age of 63 after a series of illnesses.

He was a consistent and loyal ringer at St. Andrew's, Banwell, Somerset, where he first pulled a rope in 1925. In 1954 he rang his first peal (tenor to Grandsire Triples at Winscombe) and often remarked that he bought a new pair of braces for the occasion! He was made captain in that year and proudly held the office until, in 1968, he handed the position to a younger man be-cause, as he said, "a young band deserves a young captain." That was the kind of man Walter was-modest and generous.

He will be greatly missed by his many friends, including the members of the parish church choir, in which he had sung since he was a small boy.

Belfry Gossip

Details of ringing arrangements for the Snowdon Festival next Saturday at Barnsley appear in this issue. We regret these not published last week owing to a misunderstanding in our printing depart-

The Editor cordially thanks the many readers who have sent congratulations and good wishes on the completion of his first year in the editorial chair. couraging and very gratifying to have such messages, and to know that The Ringing World is doing what its first editor (and proprietor), John S. Goldsmith, set out to do-i.e. "to produce a bright and attractive bellringing paper devoted to ringers' interests and conducted on up-to-date lines" The limitations of the present paper are constantly realised by The Ringing World Committee, who do their best at all times to improve its image.

Sending an article on a ringing trip into Eastern U.S.A. (to appear in due course), Mr. J. M. Simpson, of Alta (Canada), adds: "There is quite an amazing English influence in the architecture of some of the churches and other buildings in Chicago, which is rather surprising in the mid-West of the U.S.A. Mitchell tower is, I believe, a copy of Magdalen College, and just across the street there is what I believe is a Unitarian church, the outline of the tower of which is very similar to Salisbury Cathedral and St. Wulfram's, Grantham, which was my old tower."

That popular and much-admired ringer, Edgar Shepherd, of Warminster, tells us that on October 10 he paid a flying visit to Solihull, where he was ringing master for many years, and rang a peal of Cambridge Maximus. Next day he conducted four courses of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's, Birmingham, and on the Sunday evening conducted a quarter of Grandsire Caters at Solihull, in which his old friend, William Leason (84!), rang the treble. adds that it was gratifying to know he could still manage a 12-bell peal and feel no illeffects—possibly because of the small modicum of ale consumed afterwards!

American youngsters are up-and-coming, too, says Bill Theobald. Alma Harward, one of Bill's proteges, at Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts, rang her first quarter peal (of Minor) there recently and was immediately ushered into a visiting band at Groton School to complete a quarter of Bob Major—her "first decent touch" on eight," Bill said afterwards. Some really hard, continuous and rewarding spadework was put in at Smith by Bill during his recent trip to the States—a shot in the arm that was truly appreciated by the keen student band there.

Canadian ringers remembered an old friendship when on a week-end trip to the States they read of Ruth Gay's wedding to Malcolm Shepherd. Ruth had been instrumental in starting Canada's handbell peal ringing two years ago before her return to England, and to compliment her the Canadians joined with Simon Humphrey at Smith College, Massachusetts, to attempt a handbell peal of Kent Royal. Although this was unsuccessful, a quarter peal of Bob Major on Groton School's bells the next day was completed and duly dedicated to C. H. the future happiness of Ruth and Malcolm.

Mr. John Camp has pointed out to us that it is the Oxford University Society that will be holding its centenary in Oxford in

Mr. W. L. Exton and some of his Bingham Branch (Southwell Guild) members went over to Bottesford (Leicester Guild) on October 3 and rang an excellent peal of Bob Major for the wedding of the daughter of the tower captain (Mr. L. Box), and both Mr. and Mrs. Box said it really made their day!

The organist and choir who led the singing at the Oxford Festival came from Winslow, Bucks, not Wilmslow (which is in Cheshire!)

Royston Grosvenor has recently obtained his B.D. degree, and a peal of Bob Minor was rung as a compliment to him at Leigh, Wistaston won Cheshire's best-kept village competition for over 600 inhabitants. The church possesses a musical ring of six by Gillett and Johnston (1921, tenor 6 cwt.). A peal rung on October 12 was to celebrate this success, but eventually was rung muffled as a tribute to the late Harry Howard.

Can any reader satisfy the curiosity of a reader by naming the church with a central tower that is shown at the beginning of the TV programme "Softly Softly"?

First peal congratulations to Godfrey S. Hall, Trevor C. Bonham, John F. Legg. John Pickering, John Garle and Iris Milton. New methods include Grafham S. Major, at Eaton Socon, Hunts, and Bristol Alliance Maximus (Birmingham).

Personal Records: Muriel Reay (800 peals), Derek Tysoe (50), Ronald D. Hughes Roger Savory (300), David M. Hughes (25).

New Conductors this week are Susan M. Williams and Peter J. Devrell.

Gone to teacher training college (York), Helen M. Simpson will be missed at Greasley, Notts, where she was loyal to both church and tower. She conducted many quarter peals during the past three years, and members of her old band send her good wishes.

Sending the report of a quarter rung recently, Alastair Stracey told us that it was intended originally as a peal attempt, but church cleaners disturbed the band-at one period almost sweeping the floor under the ringers' feet. As this happened in the first 720 it was possible to salvage something by ringing a quarter.

Another quarter, from Prittlewell, had a postscript: "We have had a bad year at Prittlewell this year for quarters, mainly because we haven't been for them!"

"It has been our aim to score a quarter every month with the Sunday service ringers and so far we have reached No. 10 this year-so we are keeping our fingers crossed (except when ringing, of course) to get the round dozen," writes S. G. Scott, of Binfield, Berks.

DISCOURTEOUS—OR IGNORANT?

Dear Sir,-I would be very interested to know why some ringers, who as a fraternity are supposedly a "friendly lot," can be so persistently discourteous. Yet again I read of the misdeeds of a visiting band in a letter of protest from the tower captain.

May I bring to the notice of "anyone to whom it may concern" the particular discourtesy to which I have been subjected during the last 12 months.

The telephone frequently rings, I answer, a stranger is requesting information about local towers and ringing times, etc., but does not give his or her name, and when asked to do so the reply is usually along these lines—"Oh, you won't know me, I am only visiting the district." TOWER UNSAFE?

Dear Sir.—As organiser of the Suffolk ringers visit to North Wales recently I would like to thank Mr. Charles Pound for his remarks (Ringing World, page 773). This, I can assure him, was a slip up on the part of our Press renorter, was fully aware of the facts vailing at Bodelwyddan. I was vailing at Bodelwyddan. I was told by the vicar in February that extensive works were being carried out on the spire and that ringing was banned for the time However, anxious to have a ring on what I believe to be a lovely eight, I tried again in July and was told that Phase 2 was completed and Phase 3 about to be started, but that the architect advised no ringing. We did, however, visit this beautiful church, and local people seemed surprised that we had not been allowed to With such a fine building and only just over 100 years old, it did seem remarkable that the tower was not safe after such a short time.—Yours faithfully, Rougham, Suffolk. L. WRIGHT,

ONE SURVIVOR?

Dear Sir,-The peal by the Cumberlands at Egham on January 7, 1913, starting at 5.20 a.m., mentioned in the article on that tower (page 807) was the first of what should have been four peals in a day. The second, Double Norwich at St. Peter's. Staines, was successful, but the third. Kent Treble Bob at Wraysbury, ended after 2 hours and minutes because of a shift, and the band decided not to start for the fourth, Oxford Treble Bob at Old Windsor. Mr. Alfred H. Winch is. I think, the sole survivor of the band, of which my grandfather was one. Other well-known ringers who took part were John D. Matthews (master of the Cumberlands for more than 20 years) and two "1,000-pealers," William H. Fussell and John H. Cheesman.

The account in The Ringing World said the band were called at 4 a.m. for a 5 a.m. start. I doubt if a neal at that hour would be very popular at Egham today, aspecially on a Tuesday (as this was).-Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT.

WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,-I wish to withdraw the peal of Spliced Minor rung for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild at Stamford on August 24. 1970 (Ringing World, page 780)—Childwall and Plain Bob on opposite sides of a single. My apologies to all concerned.-Yours faith-

REEKS OF VINDICTIVENESS?

Dear Sir,-I am one of those who, upon the receipt of The Ringing World, looks through the list of Sunday service quarter peals, as I feel that they are much more a reliable pointer to the state of the Exercise than a number of Surprise peals by the same hand will ever be. The suggestion you publish in "Belfry Gossip" (page 735) reeks of vindictiveness. I have no wish to be vindictive but only to reflect on matters in a practical sort of way.

No! Ringers of Sunday quarters would not wish their names to be published in the larger type. They are out to prove at least two points. (i) They are using the bells for the purpose for which they were installed, and (ii) they show that their tower is not amongst those that are silent on Sundays. No individual is perhaps outstanding but all take a pride in something they have accomplished for this purpose.

The 6-pt. face used for publication of these looks the same as used for notices of meetings. etc. (for which advertisers have to pay 2d. per word). On that basis the quarters go a long way towards covering the cost of their publication. Peal reports do not pay for themselves. Therefore why publish them in the 8-pt. type at all?

All credit is due to those peal ringers who send a donation with reports, and many of these wish that the others were equally high-No amount of argument or preaching will instil a spirit of generosity into those who do not possess it, whether inside or outside of ringing circles.

Your correspondent, Mike Fishwick, has certainly raised a point, although I do not think it to be practical in the form he sug-The only peal reports which should be sent direct to The Ringing World are "Non-Association." and these should be accompanied by the appropriate fee. Others should be submitted through the guild peal secretary or peal committee accompanied by the fee required for publication. If this procedure were adopted the publication of "hoax" neal reports would be virtually impossible, firstly because anything doubtful could be investigated by the peal secretary or committee before submission for publication in The Ringing World, and secondly because a hoaxer would think twice about putting his hand in his pocket for the publication of a false report. At present he gets them published free, whether known to the Editor or not!

Peal fees could vary. of course. should be higher for multi-method peals (on the lower numbers) and for anything above eight-spliced Major, Royal or Maximus, as these all occupy more snace than a onemethod peal. The band should pay accordingly. Any refusal to submit a fee with the report would mean that it would not be published in The Ringing World. Therefore it also could not be accepted by the guild or association for publication in its annual report.—Yours faithfully,

WILLIAM A. STOTE.

DOUBLES METHODS

Dear Sir,—I refer to page 659 of The Ringing World, issue 3,095. A peal of Spliced Doubles is reported late, after the original peal copy was lost. Listed below it are eight methods thought to have been rung for the first time, and thus named by the band concerned. Six of these were rung and named at Hambledon, Hants, on December 22, 1969, and are listed in the report on page 199 of The Ringing World, issue 3,072. These methods are: 57P Evening Star Place; 66P Cathedral Place; 64U Castlewood Bob; 67V Hambledon Bob; 69V Biddesden Place; 76U Broadhalfpenny Place.

In addition I should also point out that on page 199 are listed 16 variations thought to have been rung for the first time at Brockenhurst, Hants, on January 1, 1970, and consequently named. However, per-haps due to my report of the peal, four errors have appeared here: Bethlehem is Chevasse Place with Antelope Single; Bishop's Waltham is Maltby Bob with Antelope Single; Fareham is Callender Bob with Antelope Single; Shedfield is Montgomery-shire Place with Antelope Single.—Yours sincerely, Totton, Hants. D. C. JACKSON.

NOT THE FIRST

Dear Sir,-With reference to the quarter peal rung at Scarcliffe, Derbys, on July 25, and quoted as the first on these bells, may I point out this is incorrect, as a combined Blackwell and Teversall band rang a quarter there on April 26, 1966 (three methods) for the East Derbyshire and West Notts Association.—Yours faithfully, Newton, Derbys. W. RILEY.

"ROPESIGHT"

Dear Sir,-Referring to W. G. W.'s article on page 813. I would be prepared to doubt the advisability of teaching learners that "Grandsire on five bells is Plain Bob on four with an additional hunt bell, etc." It cannot be denied that in the plain course this happens to be true; however, the dodges in Grandsire occur at handstroke whilst in Plain Bob they occur at backstroke, and the effect of a call in the one method is vastly different to that in the other. I would therefore suggest that the very slight similarity between the plain courses these two otherwise very different methods is a matter to be "played down" and that learners should be taught them separately.

When learners can "hunt" reasonably well the next step is to teach them how to dodge. It is preferable that, in the first instance, they should do this on one stroke only. Because I consider it easier to learn to dodge at backstroke I always start my learners on Plain Bob (but this can only be a matter of opinion).

What is important is that, whilst learning, they should not have to worry about which stroke the dodge is going to come on. I therefore think that one would not only be adding to their confusion (rather than dispelling it) by pointing out this small similarity, but would also be adding to the number of fired out touches on practice nights with, for example, "Plain Bob" learners having been coaxed into ringing Grandsire Triples (after being told that it was more or less the same as Plain Bob). trying to dodge at the lead end instead of the change after the lead end. And the confusion is going to come, anyway, when a bob is called, so there would appear to be no justification for connecting the methods in the way suggested by W. G. W in the first place. -Yours faithfully,

London, S.W. MICHAEL UPHILL.

CHIMING APPARATUS FOR SILENT TOWERS

Mr. George F. Roome, writing in the current issue of Northampton Branch "Newsletter" suggests chiming apparatus for silent towers without ringers. The cost of the apparatus would be relatively small, he writes, in comparison with the huge cost of a complete bell restoration, and no doubt a P.C.C. would look more favourably at this suggestion.

"Why then can't we put forward this reasonable suggestion to all P.C.C.'s with unringable bells—unsafe bells or with no ringers—to ensure that their bells may sound out on Sundays? Is it because 'full circle ringers' have a narrow and suspicious view on such a suggestion in that if a chiming apparatus was installed there would be a, further decline in ringing as we know it?

"Having thought seriously on this matter, I consider that a chiming apparatus can do a lot of good for the Church and bellringing, in that the parish will have a continuity in the event of their bells being unringable. Perhaps I may give a few instances where a chiming apparatus is used, was used, or needs to be used.

THREE INSTANCES

"(a) About five years ago, in a village some eight miles from Northampton, a tower (with five ringable bells) had, through the initiative of the vicar, a chiming apparatus fitted, to enable him to sound the bells for Sunday services, as the church was lacking in ringers. I am pleased to say that this tower has now a band of learners in training. Thus this was a case of continuity, in that the bells have been doing their duty—ringers or not being present, and that by the fitting of a chiming apparatus the bells were still able to be rung in full circle when required.

"(b) A tower (with a ring of eight) some nine miles distant was equipped with a chiming apparatus in the 1920's. Unfortunately, the apparatus was fixed (by order) so that the bells could not be rung in full circle. However, they were able to be chimed on the apparatus and were still in working order when a change of events occurred. The tower was restored in the late 1950's and efforts made to get the bells ringing in 'full circle' once again. This, however, entailed the removal of the apparatus which had previously been installed as a permanent fixture. I am pleased to say the bells are now regularly rung, and may they continue to sound out.

"(c) A sad case which has been questioned many times is the silent ten bells at St. Giles', Northampton. These, as many of you know, are rarely rung for Sunday service. However, I see no need for the bells to be silent on a Sunday if a chiming apparatus was fitted (even if it was only on six or eight of the ten bells). No obstruction to ringing in 'full circle' need arise and visits to this tower could continue as before. In the event of learners coming forward, the apparatus would be an additional advantage.

"Many 'full circle' ringers will cry out against the installation of such a device and indeed there are a few towers fitted with such an apparatus which is sadly neglected by ringers and church officials, but with an awakening and a lead from our guild officers I can envisage many of the silent bells in our church towers being sounded for Sunday services to the glory of God; whether it be by ringing full circle or on a chiming apparatus, they will indeed be doing the duty for which they were installed.

LESSER TOWERS of the SCARBOROUGH—BRIDLINGTON REGION

In this region of the Yorkshire coast are four active bands at five ringing towers of four or more bells—Bridlington Priory (8), St. Mary's, Scarborough (next to the Castle) (8), Scalby (6), Flamborough (4) and Wykeham (5, in the area's only detached tower; no local band).

A recent upsurge of enthusiasm is evident at these towers in a region where towers of five or more bells are comparatively rare. Yet it is quite surprising that a majority of the churches in the area contain at least three bells.

I have been fortunate to be able to spend a number of holidays in the past four years in the area, and when the weather has turned somewhat chilly I have turned my transport inwards from the coast to look at some of these churches. The aim is a "bell-hunt" of mainly non-Dove churches. Ground-floor ringing rooms are often misleading and if access to the bells can be gained one's visit feels more rewarding. A word of warning! Depart hurriedly if ladders are insecure or floors creak ominously.

One will find bells in good or bad condition. From a survey of the one-, two-, three- or four-bell towers in the area about half the bells appear to be fully sounded at least, although in some cases their condition is deteriorating. In the other towers only one of the bells is used, and in at least one case (at Folkton) none of the three bells appears to be used.

ON THE A.64 ROAD

Take the A64 from Scarborough and one comes to the Church of St. Martin at Seamer. As the ringing chamber (at ground-floor level) was locked, the vicar was contacted. In the west tower hangs a ringable three (tenor about 12 cwt.), rehung in a metal framework by Taylors in 1952—the framework is built for six bells. Hopes for augmentation do not appear too strong as the bells at present are not regularly rung and other financial matters are at present taking priority. However, a ring of six at Seamer would be a useful addition to the Scarborough region.

Move along the A64 and leave via the B1249 and climb up Staxton Hill to the top of the Yorkshire wolds. A halt at Foxholes will reveal, rather surprisingly, in the alcove of the small mid-Victorian church three ropes. Ascent to the bells will reveal an almost ringable Taylor ring of three, although the treble's wheel is somewhat shaky and the bell chamber is somewhat filthy.

Turn right from Foxholes and travel westwards along the valley of the Gipsey Race. Four villages, each about a mile or so from the other, have a church. All four churches have three bells; each church was either built or restored by the same architect, who in the 1860's had Taylors either to cast or recast the bells to form rings of three. At Weaverthorpe (a Norman church) "a man does them but he's not as good as the previous man," so said a local lady working at the side of a grave. Helperthorpe's Victorian church has a south-west tower. The ringing chamber was quite clean but the ropes gave the impression of swing-chiming only. West Luttons had a chiming ring of three, and the fourth village church, at Kirby Grindalythe, had its ringing chamber and tower steps locked up, so their condition remains unknown. Some three miles south of the last-named village is the estate village of Sledmere, complete with a stately home. The church, in a well-kept, parklike setting, has a sturdy west tower and a pleasantly decorated interior. The worst feature was the three rather tatty-looking ropes, suggesting that the three bells were swing-chimed at the base of the tower. For a church which must get a lot of visitors, no guide book was available. Six villages and six rings of three bells!

"Even our Cathedral at Peterborough has a chiming apparatus and is regularly used. This is, as you may know, due to the fragile state of the west front. Also St. Matthew's, a church well noted for its music, is well satisfied with its chiming apparatus—again well used!"

PAID RINGERS

Move from Sledmere to the area east and south-east of Driffield (a near unringable six here, so I believe). At Burton Agnes, on the A166, again with a stately home, the church has a dilapidated and unringable ring of four bells. However, three churches near this church have ringable rings of three, all in good condition. The ringers at Rudston are paid for ringing. The large west tower at Nafferton also has three bells, and judging from the clock chimes there must be a tenor of about 10 cwt. vicar did not have the tower key on him on the day I called, but did know that new ringers were being trained so that his bells could continue to ring for the main ser-Near this encouraging situation is vices. another large church, at North Frodingham, with a Somerset-looking west tower. The church, with farm, and presumably the Rectory, stands on a slight hill away from the main village (in, apparently, a similar position as the famous church in Dorothy Sayers' The Nine Tailors). The tower staircase was accessible and the ringing chamber showed three fairly new ropes. In the relatively clean bell chamber in a metal framework with Hastings stays and plain bearings hangs a ringable ring of three (tenor about 12 cwt.). By the feel of the clappers they are all swing-chimed, at least. Travel towards the A165 and visit the old church at Beeford. I last visited the place four years ago and a note in the church said that the tower and its three bells were due for "eventual restoration." The same cannot be said for the final church of this survey, that at Leven, where there is a ring of four cast by Mears in 1845. These bells (tenor about 8 cwt.) are in a seemingly sturdy wooden framework and have fittings for full-swing ringing. Unfortunately the wheels are somewhat shaky and the bells, whilst still movable, have somewhat stiff bearings. All four of them are clocked by an apparatus in the ringing chamber. An enthusiast here, perhaps, could start a restoration.

Maybe most ringers will grunt at the thought of towers with three or four bells whatever their condition. Yet shouldn't we take an interest in them, especially if such towers have ringers, or at least ringable bells? The situation in the area I visited is encouraging (as at Rudston or Nafferton), or of hope (as at Seamer) or somewhat disappointing (as at Sledmere, Burton Agnes or Leven). Of course, the hopes that augmentations or restorations could take place is often "a head in the clouds" idea due to the finances of such projects. If the ringable threes or fours in this area had five, six or eight bells then . . . ah well, 'tis only wishful thinking. At least, I enjoyed the "hunting." Perhaps you might, as well.

TOM LOCK IN SOUTH WALES

The venue for Tom Lock's tour this year was South Wales, and on Saturday, August 29, ringers from Hertfordshire, Middlesex, Yorkshire, Sussex, Bedfordshire, Derby and Leicester made for the headquarters at Neath in brilliant sunshine. On the way peals were rung and enjoyed at Caldicote and Mitcheldean, giving the tour a flying start, although some found the journey from Caldicote to Neath rather trying. On the first evening we were welcomed by Mr. Edmund Morris and his wife, and we met the former on several occasions during the week.

Sunday was a free day, after ringing for morning service on the pleasant six at Neath. Two ringers renewed acquaintance with war-time Welsh friends, and others went swimming or touring.

Monday showed us some of the distances we would be travelling as we all went into Pembrokeshire. A good peal of Bristol was rung at St. David's, where we would have liked longer to enjoy this lovely spot, while others scored an equally satisfying peal of Lincolnshire at Pembroke. A visit to Haverfordwest in the afternoon enabled us to enjoy the sound of the mellow bells, but no peal attempt was possible, mainly due to a broken rope.

On Tuesday, although a peal of Yorkshire was enjoyed at Bridgend, the band at Penarth lost what promised to be a good peal of eight-spliced when a rope broke. In the afternoon a peal of Minor was scored at Neath, but at Tenby an attempt for Bristol was halted when two bells crossed over. It was while waiting here for a latecomer (held up by traffic) that the sonic boom of Concorde was heard. Wednesday started better with both the morning's attempts, Monmouth at Bedwellty, and Yorkshire at Newton Nottage, being successful. In the afternoon Bristol at Llangibby was scored, but owing to a late start at Llanelly there was only time for a quarter peal of Rutland to be rung. This was one of several times when we found the heavy traffic defeating us in our attempts to arrive on time. In the evening some of the party joined Swansea ringers at their handbell practice at the University, and enjoyed

Caerphilly and Lower Machen (the bestkept village in Monmouth), were the towers on Thursday morning, but a funeral at Caerphilly restricted the time available and a quarter peal of six-spliced was all there was time for. Again at Lower Machen two ringers were delayed, but permission was given for the attempt to be deferred to the afternoon. Unfortunately this attempt came to grief, and there was no consolation for these ringers when they arrived at Newport, where they found that the attempt Yorkshire Maximus had been set up after two hours as the ringing was not considered good enough. The evening was spent at St. John's, Cardiff, where we were welcomed by the local ringers at their practice.

Hones were high at Llandaff on Friday morning, where we attempted London Royal, but this, too, was set up after about two hours. There was consolation in that a peal of Minor was rung at Cadoxton, and in the afternoon a peal of Rutland was also enjoyed at Aberavon. Others of the ringers looked forward to a peal at Pentre, but un-fortunately one of the band travelled all the way to the wrong Pentre, leaving seven other ringers hoping he had not met with an accident. Again in the evening we were invited to join local ringers at their practice, this time at Cadoxton.

By Saturday the group was depleted, as some had returned home on Friday, but one

FIRST FOR 44 YEARS

Mr. H. W. Barrett, of Loddon, Norfolk, writes: "In the peal at Castle Acre, Norfolk, Walter Curston rang the treble and he last took part in a peal over 44 years ago at Terrington St. Clement (Kent T.B. Major on April 25, 1926).

"After the Castle Acre peal the ringers spent a very pleasant time at the home of Rev. C. E. Scott, who has come to live in the parish on retirement. The band were joined by the rector, Rev. J. H. Bloom, who is the son-in-law of Rev. Mr. Scott.

"Regarding the peal rung at Carlton Colville on August 3, when three 'firsts' were recorded, as the conductor I congratulate all three on their effort, but I must call attention to the excellent way in which Christine Gorrod rang the treble.

"After this peal the ringers, together with other members of the local band, were entertained to supper by the parents of Mary Solomon, the peal having been rung for Mary following her wedding on August band rang two good peals at Llanfigan and Blaenavon, though both peals were perhaps slower than expected. The remaining five ringers were joined by three locals for an attempt at St. Mary's, Swansea, and all were disappointed when it came to grief.

Our score of peals rung (and enjoyed) was 13 out of 23 programmed, but our enjoyment was nearer 10 out of 10. Everywhere we met with a very warm welcome, and we wish the Editor would allow us room to mention all those responsible. We found much of the beauty of the South Wales countryside and some of it industrial areas, but the week passed far too quickly. Thank you, Tom.

IRISH BELL NEWS

The autumn issue of the Irish Bell News was produced by the versatile editor, Mr. F. E. Dukes, while recuperating from a car accident. His first ringing after this misfortune was with Cambridge University Guild during their visit to St. Peter's, Drogheda, with somebody standing behind him in case of accidents. Fred is, however, making progress; all want to see him in good health again. A ten bob sub-scription to Fred's quarterly now covers a three-years' subscription. May friends rally round him with many more ten shillings!

The Irish Bell News has purchased a new duplicator at a cost of over £50, and a 15years' depreciation has been allowed for. Other duplicating work helps to reduce losses on the publication.

As usual the Irish Bell News gives a comprehensive coverage not only of tower activities but of tours. These include the Cambridge University Guild in Northern Ireland, during which a peal of Belfast Surprise Major was rung, and David Smith's tour of 27 ringers and families which lasted a fortnight. Local tours are also reported, including Dublin University's. Snowballing took place on the Antrim plateau during the latter tour. Dorothy Johnston was tak-ing part in her first tour as master, and the official scribe writes: "She gained in confidence from a rather harassing tour, so much so that she is almost unmanageable."

Fred's "instruction" section contains the first of a new series, "Learning how to handle a bell" and calling positions in Kent Treble Bob.

Two of Fred's sallies of wit deserve wider circulation:

"Moral indignation is usually jealousy with a halo";

"The dictates of conscience make a reliable guide.

In the meantime, strange things had been going on at Warners, arch-old style founders since the early 1850's. Their earliest non-old style bell that I know of is the tenor of 1911 at King's Somborne, Hants. It is unusually thin but has a fine tone and very good harmonics. The odd trebles, etc., of theirs which I have heard, dated 1912, have all been very good, too. Warners' first complete true harmonic rings did not come till 1913 and the succeeding years and were mever altogether successful (St. Mellons, Mon, 6, 11½ cwt., said to be 1913; Pocklington, Yorks, 6/8, 17 cwt., 1914; Christ Church, Erith, Kent, 8, 17½ cwt., 1915)—the heavier bells have an extraordinary, if highly individual, guttural sound. Cl ford Cathedral bells, although of Chelmscannot be classed as true harmonic; per-haps the founders decided to "play safe" in the case of such an important ring! The latest Warner bells which I have found are dated 1920 (at Botley, Hants, and Newport, Isle of Wight).

The Bristol firm of Llewellins and James seems to have done little bellfounding in our century; but the back four bells at Bishopstoke, Hants (1921, I believe), are examples of their efforts at true harmonic tuning (the 5th and 6th good; the 7th and tenor extraordinary but interesting).

THE LAST TO TURN

The very last English foundry to turn to true harmonic tuning—perhaps reluctantly, perhaps in desperation— was that at Whitechapel. Whilst it took Mears and Stainbank all of three decades to acknowledge the superiority of this form of tuning and to adopt it (and I can think of few rings cast by them in the meantime for which one should be grateful-Woburn (8, 24½ cwt., 1910) and Elveden (8, 17\(\frac{1}{4}\) cwt., 1923) are perhaps two) let it be said that once they had decided to take the plunge, they did so wholeheartedly and with excellent results. The octave of 1927 at The Good Shepherd, Preston, Sussex (13\frac{3}{4}\ \text{cwt.}), is said to be the first true harmonically tuned Whitechapel ring, with St. Ambrose, Bristol (8, 111 cwt.) and others following it in 1928.

It only remains for me to mention the subject of retuning old bells and the fitting of new bells into old rings. With each of the three major foundries, at least, the first rush of true harmonic enthusiasm evidently brought a wave of sometimes drastic, but often highly successful, retunings (rather than complete recastings) of older rings. The vast majority of old style bells are not, cf course, retunable to true harmonic standards. I have already mentioned Taylors' work at Exeter Cathedral (1902) which undoubtedly improved (and probably trans-formed) the old bells, and their retuning of the Watts rings at Great Barford and Long Buckby. In 1903 they drastically retuned what must have been very much an old style Whitechapel octave (1767) at Isleworth, Middlesex, with only partial success. This, however, is nothing to the effect that Gillett and Johnston's retuning in 1914 had on the Warner (1883) ring of six at Bagshot, Surrey: these bells have to be heard to be believed. The mediæval bells in Dorset (from three different foundries) which Gilletts retuned were obviously more responsive (at Sturminster Marshall, Durwe ton and Tarrant Keynston); the tenor at Tarrant Keynston is especially good. Few ears would detect that there are only two new bells in the ring of six at Great Haseley. Oxon, which they restored in 1925, so skilful was their retuning of the other four. Three outstanding retuning successes from Whitechapel are at Yeovil (10, 403 cwt., treble and 2nd recast, 1931), at Brampton, Hunts (6, 14 cwt., 3rd recast, 1934 and treble added since) and at Leckford, Hants (5, 8½ cwt., treble and 2nd added, 1934). Less successful were their added, 1934). Less successful were their efforts on a Wells (1821) ring of five at Deane, Hants (1927), and on a mixed ring of five at Shrewton, Wilts (1928).

Much has been said and written about the merits and demerits of inserting true harmonic bells into old style rings; surely the answer is that each case should be judged on its own merits. There are rings which, although predominantly old style, can be said to have been improved by the addition of true harmonic trebles or the recasting of the tenor; equally there are some which can be said to have been spoilt by the same means (especially when the bell to be recast has been not the tenor but the bell adjacent to it).

To those who believe that Whitechapel recastings and augmentations have always been as sympathetic as the sixth at Aldgate, London, I recommend a visit to Kingsclere, Hants, or Litton Cheney in Dorset. Similarly, to those who think that Taylors cannot, or will not, cast old style bells I recommend a visit to Lodsworth in Sussex to hear the two trebles (1966) which they matched to a "broken glass" ring of four (1891)! Beyond that, campanologists must of course decide for themselves whether they prefer their recast tenors to sound like Canterbury Cathedral; St. Michael, Cornhill, London: and Lyng. Somerset (all Whitechapel old style) or Exeter Cathedral; Bruton, Somerset; and Ashburton, Devon (all Loughborough true harmonic).

Gillett and Johnston, so far as I know, only once departed from true harmonic tuning in the case of a recasting—at Thax-ted, Essex.

May I end by saving that I hope I have not made any glaring errors or too many serious omissions; if any reader finds an example of either I shall be very pleased to hear about it. I hope, too, that I have been able to share some of the interest and enjoyment which I have derived from hearing really well-tuned bells and finding out who cast them.

Bath and Wells Association.
MEETING AT CHEDZOY

The autumn meeting of the Bridgwater Branch was held at Chedzoy on September 3, when despite competition from Bridgwater Fair during the day over 50 rang on the rather individual six. The service was taken by the vicar (Rev. R. Seywood), who thanked Mr. R. Dibble for his invaluable assistance in training the local band. A tea was waiting at the village hall and one individual was privileged by being allowed to sample a rather stronger local brew!

Mr. Herniman opened the business and proposed thanks to the vicar, the ladies and the organist, and a welcome was extended to the visitors. It was reported that the branch outing was very successful and the organisers were thanked for their hard work. A long (and rather fruitless) discussion took place on branch striking, in particular whether open or closed lead should be the policy. After much discourse and some practical "vocal examples" from the ringing master it was decided that for the time being at any rate both would be used at branch meetings, and, later, ringing continued in various methods—and both styles—until 9 p.m.

The next practices will be at St. Mary's, Bridgwater, in November, and Puriton in December.

HANDBELLS ENTERTAINMENT

The Whittington Handbell Ringers of St. Michael's, Paternoster Royal, were an added attraction when All Saints', Benhilton, Sur-rey, held a flower festival in aid of its bell restoration fund on October 3.

The numerous visitors who came during the afternoon and evening were entertained for well over two hours with a variety of Following tea the lady ringers were presented with bouquets. Visitors and prospective members are most welcome to attend the team's practice sessions held at 12.30 p.m. on Wednesdays at the Mission to Seamen's Church, College Hill, E.C.

Salisbury Guild. GOOD RINGING HEARD

The quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch was held at Lyme Regis on September 19, when six towers were represented. Visitors were warmly welcomed and some good ringing was heard. The guild service was conducted by Rev. J. H. A. Charles, and tea followed (kindly given by the local ringers and lady helpers) in the Church House.

At the business meeting the chairman (Mr. C. W. Powell) presided and announced the next meeting (the A.G.M.) at Bridport in November.

Methods rung during the afternoon and evening included Yorkshire, Double Norwich and Cambridge. J. D.

Kent County Association. TONBRIDGE WIN

The first association striking competition was held at St. George's Church, Gravesend, on September 19, with one Sunday service band from each district of the association. The competing bands were Folkestone (Ashford District), Canterbury Cathedral, Bexley (Lewisham District), Rochester Cathedral, Maidstone (All Saints'), and Tonbridge, and the competition judges were Miss Joan Beresford and Mr. Tom Lock. After the competition a service was conducted by the local incumbent, and later, at tea, the results of the contest were announced: I Tonbridge, 2 Canterbury, 3 Maidstone, 4 Folkestone, 5 Bexley, 6 Rochester. The arrangements for the competition were made by the Rochester District ringers. D. P. L. trict ringers.

Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. I.O.W. BRANCH OUTING

The Andover area was the choice for the 1970 outing on September 26. After coffee at Winchester we tried the light six at Upper Clatford and were joined by friends from Hornchurch, Essex. The eight at St. Mary's, Andover, sounded well, but our legs were a little shaky after a slightly perilous ascent.

After a ploughman's lunch we proceeded to Highclere and found the pleasant eight easy to strike to Triples and Major. Several younger members managed their first touch of Kent at Kingsclere, our next halt, and ringing was followed by an excellent high tea at the Kingsclere Grill.

The light eight at St. Mary's, Overton, were rung at our last stop. Here we took leave of ringers from Essex and Andover who had joined us for the day. Our journey back was highlighted by handbell ringing and guitar playing, making a good conclusion to an excellent day's outing.

Our thanks to Mr. Tom East for organising the tour and to all tower secretaries, incumbents and those who met us.

Wedding.

BASSETT—TAYLOR

A wedding of considerable interest to the bellringing Exercise took place at Lough-borough on September 5, when Miss Sarah Margaret Taylor, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor, of The Bell Foundry, Loughborough, was married to Mr. Michael Joseph Bassett, son of Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Bassett, of Albrighton, Wolverhampton. The ceremony was performed by Father Donald Anderson, an old school friend of the bridegroom, and Michael's brother was best man.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a dress of white brocade which she herself had made, and she was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Edith Taylor, who was attired in a dress of blue wild silk, which she also had made herself.

Following the service a reception was held in the Senior Common Room, Rutland Hall, Loughborough, where the wedding cake, made and iced by the bride and her mother, was cut. Later the newly-married couple left for a honeymoon on the Isle of Both the bride and bridegroom are employed at Fisons' Pharmaceuticals in Loughborough.

BELL STOLEN

Stephanie Green, of Potter's Bar, Herts, sends us the following:

Thieves risked their lives to climb about 40 feet outside a church near Brookmans Park and steal a 4 cwt. bell from the belfry on October 12.

Climbing a drainpipe outside St. Mark's Church, Essendon, Herts, they scaled a parapet and removed the £150 bell from its mounting. The bell rolled down the roof and damaged the parapet.

The theft was discovered by workmen returning to carry on with repairs to the guttering and roof of the 100-years-old church.

St. Mark's Church is the "daughter" church of St. Mary the Virgin, Essendon. The bell at St. Mark's was only hung for chiming but has not been used for several years as the crown bolts were rusted and it was considered unsafe to toll it.

The annual peal attempt at Worcester Cathedral will take place on October 31. Mr. G. W. Critchley's band will commence ringing at 12.30 p.m.

25 YEARS AGO Taken from The Ringing World for

At Willenhall (Staffs) Frank W. Perrens conducted a peal of Cambridge Royal, in which G. William Critchley rang the third, this being his first peal of Royal, and, at Beddington John Saunders, Frank Hicks and George Humphries also rang their first of Royal.

G. Kenneth Williamson rang his first peal (at Aldershot), as also did Denison C. Allen and W. Dennis Evans, John Freeman conducting Bob Major.

A peal of Doubles at Thurlby, Lincs, was rung by A. Wade, B. Wade, C. Wade, T. Courton and W. Oldman, it being the first for all except for W. Oldman.

A letter from Mr. E. W. Izard told of the visit of Winston Churchill to Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, B.C., and of a peal of Grandsire Triples in which Douglas Boniface, Margaret Izard, F. Weatherby, A. King, E. W. Izard, A. B. Lomas, E. F. Salmons and E. Lake took part.

Mr. A. P. Cannon wrote regarding the speed of peal ringing and said he had rung quite a few fast peals on tenors of over 20 cwt. and that at the end he realised that had they taken ten minutes longer it would have been easier for him.

The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg (president) presided at a meeting of the Oxford University Society held at New College Junior Common Room.

50 YEARS AGO

October 29, 1920.

At Louth, Lincs, a peal of Bob Major was conducted by Rupert Richardson, his 200th for the Lincoln Guild, and Walter Ayre rang his 50th peal.

Two tenor men, Thomas Griffin and John Stafford, covered for a peal of Stedman Triples at Bradford-on-Avon, Wilts. (Tenor 303 cwt.)

Arthur T. Morris took 2 hours and 54 minutes to tap a peal of Kent T.B. Major on handbells before five witnesses. It was for the Essex Association.

Miss Sarah Pigott was elected president of the Ladies' Guild in succession to Miss Alice White, who had held the office since the formation of the guild in 1912. Miss White had recently married.

The possibility of amalgamating the Yorkshire Association and the Cleveland Association was discussed at a meeting at Northallerton.

A meeting of the Rossendale Branch of the Lancashire Association was one of the best held in the district for some time, and one at Walkden (Bolton Branch) was also well attended—the tower being a particular favourite for meetings.

SOCIAL LIFE

There is a tendency for the wives and families of ringers to get left out of ringing social life. In order to remedy this, a large party of ringers and their families from Malvern Link, Leigh Sinton, Cradley and Colwall recently visited the Malvern Festival Theatre to see "The Pleasure of His Company." The event was most successful, and the visitors made a significant addition to the event of the property of the pro to the evening attendance figures!

St. James'
Cathedral,
Bury St. Edmunds,
Suffolk

Cover Picture

St. James' Cathedral, Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk

By GEORGE W. PIPE

THIS YEAR the capital of West Suffolk is commemorating the 1,100th anniversary of the martyrdom of St. Edmund, the brave young East Anglian King, whose shrine ensured for all time wealth and strength for his monastery and ultimately for St. Edmundsbury, or Bury St. Edmunds as we now know it.

Until 1914 Suffolk was contained in the Dioceses of Ely and Norwich, but at the formation of the St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich Diocese, St. James', Bury, was chosen as the mother church for the new

From its inception plans were envisaged to enlarge and beautify the church to meet the needs of the new diocese, but it was not until 1954 that approval for a major appeal was granted by the Bishop. Like all appeals, their story is full of incident, sometimes rejoicing, sometimes disappointment at lack of response. But faith has prevailed and stimulated by many people—creatures great and small—and spearheaded by Provost Waddington, former vicar of St. Peter Mancroft, a beautiful work now stands before us. Already its services and its plans show that this is not to be just a monument, but sensitive and understanding to the call of the present and the future.

The Suffolk Guild was privileged to be allotted five seats at the consecration service of the Quire and Crossing on September 29, including places for the master and his wife. And what a glittering and moving occasion this service was, yet portraying a very simple and humble expression of gratitude. The Cathedral bells were rung before and after the service with, let it be said, four of our ringing clergy taking part.

The Campanile of the Cathedral is universally known as the Norman Tower and was built at the time of Abbot Anselm (c. 1119-1148). It was in fact the cemetery gate leading direct to the west front of the great Abbey itself, and is one of the most remarkable structures of this period extant in Britain. It is complete except for the removal of the richly-carved tympanum in 1798, which apparently interfered with the passage of hay and straw carts!

Eighty-six feet high and 36 feet square, its walls are six feet thick and faced with Barnack stone. In this massive tower hangs an interesting ring of ten bells (tenor 30 cwt.). Interesting, not only because they were all cast in the year 1785 (an uncommon event for ten in those days), but that they represent probably the best work of that reputable founder, Thomas Osborn, of Downham Market.

In the writer's opinion the quality of these bells is marred by acoustics, their extreme falseness and the need for rehanging and retuning. Nevertheless, the tower and belfry are well worth a visit and the peal boards tell of famous names long since gone—the Moores, the Chinerys and Percy O. Laffin.

Obviously it is the fervent wish of the Suffolk Guild, now that the Cathedral has been so successfully restored, extended and beautified, that in the course of time the work will be completed by a worthy renovation of the ring of ten.

Worcestershire Association Proprieties Observed But Informality Adds Pleasure and Enjoyment

The 33rd Annual Dinner of the Worcestershire and District Change Ringing Association, which was held at Trinity House Ballroom, Worcester, on October 24, was well supported, 172 being present, one fewer than last year. Although the proprieties of the occasion were strictly observed, there was a relaxed atmosphere throughout the proceedings and an informality which added to the pleasure and enjoyment of those attending.

The dinner was advertised at 6.15 for 6.30 and right on time the Dean of Worcester (Very Rev. D. E. W. Kemp), who presided, invited the association chaplain (Rev. H. L. Davies) to say Grace, and an excellent meal was well served by a team of young ladies whose average age could not have been more than 14 years. The tables, dotted over the ballroom, each accommodated eight persons, the top table being the exception, where were seated the master (Mr. W. B. Cartwright), the Dean, the chaplain and Mrs. Davies, Mr. Glynne Hastings (hon. secretary Three Counties Show) and Mrs. Hastings, Mr. George Cousins (hon. general secretary Hereford Guild) and Mrs. Cousins, Mr. Morley P. Tobin (master, Northern Branch) and Mrs. Tobin, Mr. David Beacham (general secretary) and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor, Ringing World).

At the outset the Dean, who is president of the association, welcomed the company and introduced the guests. Following the meal and the loyal toast, Mr. George Cousins gave the toast to the association. He first explained the doubtful blessings of the stretches of roads being constructed between Hereford and Worcester and added that at their own dinner (the Hereford's) the previous Saturday, the Worcester secretary had proposed the toast to the Hereford Association, and this was now a reciprocal toast to their association.

The speaker then proceeded to delve into his memory of days gone by, his own experiences with ringing in the two counties of the Three Counties Show during last summer when the Expo Belfry was on show, and of the interest taken in the bellringing display. Mr. Cousins also expressed appreciation to non-ringing wives who patiently waited whilst their spouses were away on ringing activities. He concluded by repeating what the Bishop of Hereford had said the previous week—the importance of training young people correctly and encouraging them in bellringing. It was gratifying to see so many youngsters present that evening.

CORNISHMAN RESPONDS

Mr. Morley P. Tobin (master, Northern Branch), who left his beloved county of Cornwall four years ago to take up an appointment in Worcester (where not only has he learned change ringing but also married a charming lady from Wolverhampton), responded in a happy and jocular vein, which was well received. He then proceeded to toast The Ringing World and its Editor. He made reference to the improved quality of the journal and said his first complaint in four years must be made that evening. He had received through the post the day before a copy of The Ringing World which had two of one section, but one other section was missing. However, he realised he was in possession of a valuable copy and invited the company (in spite of this) to toast The Ringing World and its Editor, which was cheerfully done.

LIFEBLOOD OF THE EXERCISE

Replying, Mr. Denyer thanked Mr. Tobin for the happy way he had proposed the toast, and the assembled company for the warmth of its reception. He told of the friendship he had had for over 40 years with one of the Worcestershire Association members present that evening, Mr. Reginald Chance, who had been stationed in Aldershot in 1930. He spoke of the problems facing The Ringing World Committee, who had to face the rising costs of production and increased postal rates during 1971. Quoting a recent comment by the Salisbury Guild president that The Ringing World was the handmaid of the Exercise, Mr. Denyer said he felt it was more than that; it was the very lifeblood of it, for if anyone stopped to think what it would be like without a bellringing paper it would be realised that guilds and associations would become very parochial. Peal and quarter peal ringing would not be reported or even heard about. However, he believed that ringers everywhere would continue to support the journal and asked those present to play their part for the benefit of the Exercise in general and The Ringing World in particular.

The master of the association proposed the toast to the president and went to considerable lengths to explain the reasons for the Dean's quiet reserve at the previous dinner and of his animation on this, his second appearance as their president at this annual function. "He is really enjoying himself tonight," said Mr. Cartwright, "and we know he is the right man in the right place, as far as our association is concerned."

In his reply the Dean amused the company with the problems he faced whilst being in charge of the Diocese since the Bishop had left and until the arrival of a successor. It meant he had to write letters to himself (for the record) to ensure that the acting head of the Diocese was aware of what the Dean had been doing and to assure the acting head of the Diocese that the Dean was carrying out his duties correctly.

He concluded by thanking the bellringers for their services, and although he had not rung a bell since the last dinner his daughter had now taken up the art and would represent him (the Dean) in the tower.

The entertainment which followed was lively and enjoyable and included change ringing on handbells by Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Drew, Mrs. J. Thomas and Mr. G. C. Bagley, whilst tunes delighted the company as played by Eric Styler, Roger Hunt and Michael Leek, of Feckenham. Mr. John Emms, a local resident, who is a powerful baritone, also entertained with popular selections whilst accompanying himself on the piano.

At the close the Dean expressed thanks to the organising committee, and the general secretary in particular, for their work, and also to those who had entertained the company. He felt that it had been a happy occasion and an enjoyable evening, a statement with which all present concurred.

COMPETITION AWARDS

On September 5 the Ilchester Branch held its quarterly meeting at the Parish Church of St. Mary, Stoke-sub-Hamdon, when there was an exceptionally good attendance dur-ing the afternoon and evening. The vicar (Rev. F. W. Thomas) conducted the guild service, with Mr. Ken Russell as organist, and in his address the vicar spoke of the importance of the work of church bell-ringers. He also extended a warm welcome to all present. The good-going 17 cwt. six (one of the most popular rings in "Ilchester") was put to good use under the direction of Mr. Gordon Rendell, branch ringing master.

At the business meeting following, held in the church, new members were elected as follows: Mrs. Margaret J. Shaw (Somerton) and Mr. Raymond H. Baker (West ton) and Mr. Raymond H. Baker (West Coker). Certificates were presented to Messrs. Colin J. Baker (Montacute), David C. J. Marshall (Long Sutton), Roger Sharland (Harding-on-Mandeville), Misses Wendy H. Leach, Sandra D. Parker, Janet Bradford, Ruth A. Palmer, Hilary M. Thorne, Mrs. Sheila A. Timbrell, Messrs. Les H. J. Leach and Brian C. Whitlock (Tintinhull), Nigel R. Grinter, Paul W. Grinter, Kevin J. Beale, Frederick A. Cole, Miss Mary J. Wilburn, Mrs. Audrey Cole and Mrs. V. Constance Rice (South Petherton).

The company estood in silence to honour the memory of the late Mr. Francis (Long Sutton).

TROPHIES PRESENTED

The highlights of the meeting were the presentations of the striking competition trophy to the 1970 winners (St. John the Baptist, Yeovil) and the findings of the judges, Messrs. Ray Arscott and Arthur Read (Taunton Branch) on the tidy tower contest. The judges had an exceedingly difficult job, including the climbing of over 775 tower steps! They finally awarded Petherton, with St. Mary, Stoke-sub-Hamdon second, and SS. Peter and Paul, Odcombe, third. Both these trophies were donated by the branch hon. secretary, Mrs. M. M. Legget, and will be competed for from time to time.

The Ilchester Branch would like to place on record their grateful thanks to the Rev. P. W. Thomas, Mr. Bussell, Messrs. Warr, Pester and Venn (Stoke-sub-Hamdon tower officials) and Messrs. Arscott and Read for their kindness and co-operation.

On September 10 there was an informal gathering in the ringing chamber of South Petherton tower when the tidy tower trophy was on show. The vicar (Rev. J. H. Jelly) read the "Belfry Office" and thanked Mrs. M. M. Legget for having donated the trophy which his tower had won. He spoke of the tremendous amount of hard work carried out by all the ringers under the able towermastership of Mr. Reg Beale, and thanked one and all for the very great effort they had made. Mrs. Legget was presented with a bouquet by Mr. Bert Pearce, and in the accompanying photograph Mr. Reg Beale is seen receiving the trophy from the hon, secretary.

CARILLONS

From The Daily Sketch, March 11, 1920. CARILLONS FOR ENGLAND

By Professor Albert Vesetti.
Of the real art of bellringing, the exquisite effect of the keyboard carillon, which is so overwhelming in its sheer beauty to the visitor to Holland or Belgium, we in England know little or nothing.

An excellent idea, which might be fol-lowed by many other towns, was the recent decision of Loughborough to erect as a War Memorial a tower in which will be installed a fine keyboard carillon.

If other towns emulated Loughborough's example, what delightful effects we might enjoy musically, especially where carillons could be placed on the outskirts of Plains and Valleys, for the magic of the sound is greatly intensified in such situations.

So I would plead for the liberal distribution of carillons throughout England, as wonderful oral reminders of great deeds during the War. Such bells would unquestionably set up a higher standard of bell music, and we should no longer be content with the kind too often to be found nowadays, calling us so dismally to worship at Matins and Evensong, that it is small wonder the attendance at the Churches of all denominations is not what it might be.

A LEAD TO FOLLOW
The Worcestershire and Districts Change Ringing Association have sent (via the diocesan office) the following circular to all incumbents, and we suggest this might be copied by other associations.

To all incumbents:

The Bishop and Archdeacons draw your attention to the circular which follows and commend it for your earnest consideration.
THEFT OF CHURCH BELLS

Church bells, being made of bronze, have re-Church bells, being made of bronze, have re-cently begun to attract the attention of scrap-metal thleves and there has been a marked in-crease, nationally, in the number of thefts of bells. Two reported instances of this occurred at Droitwich a year or two ago. This associa-tion believes that the attention of all parishes in the diocese should be drawn to the risk before any more occur.

Generally, churches possess either one or two small bells or a full ring of six, or more, larger bells. The risk is probably greatest where the bells are comparatively small and easily removed, or where the church is isolated. The risk may be less where there is a full ring and a band of ringers to ring them. But where there are no regular ringers, the risk is increased.

The association strongly urges all those in charge to check the security of their bells, access to which should always be under lock and key. Where there is a band of ringers the captain should be consulted as to security. Keys should never be "hidden" in the church in obvious places.

It should further be noted that although the value of the metal may be recovered through insurance, many of these bells, especially those in churches having only one or two bells, are often very ancient and of archaeological importance and are therefore irreplaceable.

FALSE COMPOSITIONS

For years The Ringing World has published compositions for peals and quarter peals sent in by conductors and others, and these have all been printed in good faith. Occasionally someone has informed the Exercise that a particular composition is false, but we suspect that many we have printed are passed over, or recorded for the future and not used.

Mr. Derek Sibson, master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, has recently obtained access to a computer and is kindly having all compositions sent to us for publication proved before we print them.

It is a disturbing fact that of the first twelve checked four were false. What, then, of the many hundreds which have been published in The Ringing World over the years? Are we going to find that some of the less frequently used of the compositions are false and that peal records have to be amended? It is a frightening thought, but one that should be faced for the sake of correctness and the reputation of the conductor and his band.

It is well known of course that a few peals have been (and are, unfortunately) "fiddled" and a percentage, small though it may be, are not "true." A conductor who publishes a peal, knowing it to be below standard, or "fiddled," has only himself to blame if he has others of his efforts queried, for it is the one doubtful peal that is always remembered, not the 99 good ones.

We therefore recommend budding conductors firstly to ensure that the composition to be used is proved correct, and secondly to set a high standard of peal ringing and keep to it (and this also applies to quarter peals).

Belfry Gossip

Sending a report and some news items from Islington, Ontario, Canada, Mr. W. H. Jackson suspects that The Ringing World is received and read in Toronto before many readers in England see it, for the journal arrives first post on a Friday.

Have you run out of little quotations for odd corners? asks a reader. No, we have quite a few, but the odd corners do not always present themselves and we have to be careful that the quote is suitable to the reading matter on the page.

First peal congratulations to Jean Daughty, J. R. Ward, Michael Haighton, Alfred Symonds (14), Christine Hudson (14), Brian Sayers (14), Michael Mann.

Personal Records: Clifford Skidmore (700 peals), Peter Butler (25), Peter Bellamy-Knights (100), William Birmingham, jun. (50), Rev. R. D. St. J. Smith (200).

New Methods this week include: Horam Little Surprise Major at Waldron, Sussex.

The young ringers at Syston, Leics, were determined to ring a quarter on their own. After failing in the morning they made another attempt and were successful before Evensong. Their age group is 16 and under.

Mr. John Euston informs us that the peal of Stedman Caters he called at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on September 11 was a composition by G. T. Daltry, given to him by the late Mr. William Shepherd. The figures, he says, are almost identical with those of J. Carter, G. Lindoff, C. Charge and Sir Arthur Heywood.

St. James', Clerkenwell, is now a "bright spot" in London ringing, with young people participating on Sunday and Wednesday evenings. Mr. Euston writes: "The Martyr Church, not far from Holborn, was under Joe Hawkins and was the best ringing church, pre-war, in London."

Ringing suddenly seems to have become very popular in the Bloxham (Oxon) area, and the numbers have increased over the past two years to 20 in the band. Two quarter peals have been rung, the first (Bob Minor) on August 15, and the second (Bob Triples) on October 18. The first was a "first" of some description for the entire band (including the conductor!) (Well done.—Ed.)

Visitors to the Hillingdon joint meeting next week will have the opportunity of hearing the skilful handbell ringers led by John Mayne during the social evening. They hope to ring some 16-in and/or Spliced Maximus. Among other items will be the cricket match and Ron Russ talking about Australia (illustrated).

THE QUEEN OF BELLS

Mr. G. Amor, of St. Paul's, Bedford, was recently in Moscow and photographed the great bell named "Tsar Kolokol," situated in the grounds of the Kremlin. He supplies the following details: Cast in 1733-35, height 19 feet, two feet thick, weight 200 tons, broken portion 11 tons in weight.

"I feel I've really arrived," said the vicar of Croydon when visitors informed him that they had seen his photograph in a recent issue of The Ringing World.

The Rev. the Hon. N. Morrison, vicar of Randwick, Glos, rings his first peal. It will be remembered that he cycled from Lands End to John o' Groats to raise money for the treble bell when the ring was augmented from four to six.

At Manchester Cathedral a quarter peal was rung by teachers, pupils and students from Manchester, commemorating the 1870 Education Act. (One of the ringers suggested the footnote be "Commemorating the survival of education despite the efforts of a succession of education ministers!")

Now that the Irish banks have returned to normal working Peter W. Brown has returned to Dublin, having spent the months in which the banks were closed working at Loughborough Bell Foundry.

The enthusiastic young band at Selworthy, Somerset, have scored a quarter in four Doubles methods. All taught from scratch by a member of the well-known Arscott family—Frederick C.—the team is making good progress and enjoying the pleasures of change ringing.

"Wedding week-end," October 3-4, was at Edmonton, when two ringers were married on the Saturday, and the tower captain on the Sunday afternoon. On both occasions a quarter peal was rung.

George Massey tells us: "It may be of interest to know that the peals of Minor at Wanstrow and Whatley, Somerset, were the fastest peals on the bells by a substantial amount—14 minutes at Wanstrow and six minutes at Whatley. They were both excellent peals. The peal at Timsbury was also the fastest of Minor on the bells by 11 minutes, but there has been a peal of Doubles in 2hr. 32min., a minute under our time."

Sending a Ringing World subscription for 12 months, a reader added: "Thank goodness I now owe nobody nowt—only what they would be glad of."

A report sent in this week started: "The secretary does not usually bother to send an account of a branch meeting (other than the A.G.M.) as it would often waste precious Ringing World space and make boring reading." (We must be the judge of that—carry on sending in everything, please—although much may be cut down—Ed.)

though much may be cut down.—Ed.)

Quite a lot of hard work has been put in at Portbury, at Easton-in-Gordano and in Abbots Leigh, Somerset, by Helen Kirkpatrick, and on September 25 a quarter at Portbury was an 18th birthday compliment to Helen.

On October 3, Coddington, Notts, bell-ringers rang the first local peal on the bells, which was a sponsored peal to raise money for the organ fund. It had a personal connection, as one of the ringers is organist! A very good peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung, which was checked throughout by Colin Reed and Fred Hooper (of Newark). Over £70 was raised and the ringers have every reason to be proud of this and their efforts in the belfry.

We are informed by Mr. A. T. Wingate, captain of the Hereford Cathedral band, that the ring of bells in the Cathedral is in good order and that regular ringing takes place. A few very minor adjustments have been made, but there has never been any serious defect in the bells.

STRIKING COMPETITIONS

Dear Sir,—Whilst agreeing with the bulk of Mr. M. L. Mann's letter (Ringing World, page 814), concerning striking competitions and his argument against awarding points for the complexity of the method rung, I feel that if the practice of allowing bands to include ringers who are not members of the tower was discontinued it would mean the discouragement of those towers we most want to encourage. i.e., those who are below strength or with less skilled ringers. The fact that Mr. Mann's tower can produce a good team consisting of their own members is certainly meritorious, but rather than worry about scrupulously fair assessment of capabilities, shouldn't he be more interested in encouraging those not so fortunate to make the effort to reach higher standards?

In our (Central) Branch competition, to choose two teams to go forward to the Lincoln Guild striking competition final several of us helped to "make up" bands who could not otherwise have entered. We felt that the encouragement so given was of great value to the bands concerned and we hope that it will spur them on to train new ringers so that next year they will not need any help.

I would like to add that, in fact, the team who won (at a six-bell tower) had ten of its members taking part. Maybe this, if publicised, would have helped in making a "fair assessment."—Yours faithfully,

PETER A. SHARP.

THE BRIDES OF ENDERBY

Although there appears to be no record of The Brides of Enderby having been rung as a method, and it is probable that they (or it) are a progression similar to queens or tittums, there are still one or two pos-Sibilities that could be explored.

Enderby Surprise Major (H. and M. Collection 3617), perhaps is out, as it was first rung to a peal at Enderby, Leicester-shire, in 1964, and may have been christened for the occasion. Perhaps H., the band who rang it or even M. could

Mr. Harold Chant, in his Index of Minor Methods, gives the notation of Enderby Delight (Ringing World, April 23, 1965, page 278) and refers to A. Gill's notebook. Can Mr. Chant tell us anything about Mr. Gill or the origin of his method?

In May of last year the Lincolnshire lads rang Bag Enderby Doubles in a peal at Barrowby. It is to be hoped the Brides did not finish up in a railway left luggage office! Will the Lincolnshire band give information?

In any case, where is this Enderby? Did it not have a Mayor? Bartholomew's Gazeteer gives Enderby, parish Lincolnshire, see Bag Enderby and Wood Enderby, also Enderby St. Michael's see Mayis Enderby (who may have been one of the derby (who may have been one of the Brides!). These are all so far inland that a tide that affected them would damage a considerable area of Lincolnshire. Anderby is nearer the coast, but none of them seems to have been big enough to have had Mayor.

Mr. Dove does not mention Enderby, Lincolnshire, but of course they could have rung the method in the next town. I have never read the poem.—Yours faithfully, Manchester.

COMPOSITION FALSE

Dear Sir,-It has been drawn to my attention that the quarter peal rung at Trumpington, Cambridge, on July 18, consisted of a composition that was false. I would, therefore, withdraw this quarter peal from the columns of The Ringing World (page 617). I extend my sincere apologies to those persons who took part. My thanks to Dr. Sibson for telling me what was wrong with it.-Yours faithfully

MARTIN R. KITSON.

BRISTOL ALLIANCE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,-As conductor of the recent peal of Bristol Alliance Maximus, I should like to point out that it is not strictly an extension of Bristol Alliance Major under the present rules, because the pivot bell is different. I have submitted it, however, in the hope that the Methods and Records Committees will regard it as a test case and remove this rather unnecessary constraint on extension. Should they not see fit to do so, then I shall willingly rename the method.

Regarding the method itself, Bristol enthusiasts may well feel rewarded by giving it a trial. Not only does it have the de-sirable extending-lead properties without the artificial padding that so many other Maximus versions have, but also the music and blue-line work that so characterise Bristol.-Yours faithfully, Hollywood, Birmingham. R. W. PIPE.

ST. OSWALD'S, DURHAM
Dear Sir, — Whilst the object of Mr. Bayles's letter (Ringing World, page 794) is not clear, and as I am implicated to a certain extent, I feel some reply is necessary:

Some years ago I called to check the note of the tenor at St. Oswald's, and I formed the opinion that these bells were not unsafe, and I told the previous vicar so. When I was invited to a "try-out" I gladly accepted. Indeed I put in some voluntary labour in helping to make them ringableand I stand by my statement that there is no reason why these bells should not be rung.

It is a well-known fact that architects in general have only slight knowledge of ringing matters and it is safer when in doubt to say that bells must not be rung. In my opinion it gives the impression that they know a lot, when in fact they know nothing, and one wonders how many rings up and down the country are silent for just this reason.

As to the two authorities from whom the vicar has taken advice, I see by "Crock-ford" that one is a Hebrew scholar, and I have a suspicion that the other is not even a ringer. I may be wrong but I once saw a voluminous report which appeared to be a thesis by a student who had seen a ring of bells for the first time but who had little idea of ringing.

So far as the ringing of St. Oswald's bells is concerned there are no grounds for Mr. Bayles's suggestion that anything has gone on "behind the scenes." On his own showing, however, Mr. Bayles has been particu-larly active behind the scenes in stopping ringing here to the detriment of the church and, ultimately, his own association.

Mr. Bayles's letter does indeed make quite clear what is the present position at St. Oswald's, Durham, but the quarter peal has proved beyond all doubt that the bells are quite ringable.-Yours faithfully,

R. H. DOVE.

Dear Sir,-I was interested to read (R.W., page 834) that the bells of Queensbury, between Bradford and Halifax, are the highest hung in England.

On June 22, 1962, a team from the Plymouth area rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles at the Church of St. Michael-de-Rupe, Brent Tor, on Dartmoor. We thought that we had rung the "highest" peal, information in the church stating that it was built in 1190 and was 1,190 feet above sea level. A photo of the tower and church was published in The Ringing World of July 6, 1962.

On July 20, 1970, a letter was published from Brian Woodruffe stating that the highest was at Chelmorton, in the Peak District (1,225 feet). He also stated that Brent Tor was 1,075 feet above sea level.

While staying for a few days at Brewood, Staffs, shortly after that, during a conversation in the local following ringing, the Brent Tor peal was mentioned. One of the local ringers said he was married at Chelmorton, and a peal attempt was fixed for the next day. Only four ringers arrived and we could not find another so could not attempt the peal. We rang the front and back four to some call changes

ORGANISER'S RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Sir,-One sentence from Michael Uphill's reply (R.W., page 834) to Mrs. Glen Clayton's letter (page 774) seeking information as to the identity of a visiting band of peal ringers calls for particular comment. It is "The tour organiser (Rev. Michael Hart) has sent a separate letter to the vicar expressing regret that Mr. Clayton had acted without consulting him (the vicar)."

Now in some way this implies that Mrs. Clayton's original letter to The Ringing World was in bad taste and should never have been sent. I cannot see it that way. To me, it would have been more appropriate for the tour organiser to have sent a letter expressing regret that his band had broken a stay and failed to readjust the ropes after ringing their peal. A donation towards the cost of replacing the stay would not have been inappropriate.

The broken stay could easily have led to a serious accident. Who would have been to blame? I am surprised that the band did not make sure that the tower captain or vicar was informed of this mishap before any further ringing took place. A note pinned to the belfry door was certainly not adequate. This called for a personal visit to either the vicar or the tower captain (Mrs. Glen Clayton).

It is also worrying to me (as a tower captain myself) that a visiting band should come and ring a peal without the tower captain knowing who they were.

Whenever arranging a peal in a strange tower I have always considered it my duty

1. Make sure that both the vicar and tower captain are aware of the visit. (This can easily be done by addressing the application to the vicar, but sending it with an explanatory note to the tower captain for him to pass on to the vicar-s.a.e. enclosed.)

2. Make sure that the ringing room is left as it is found (ropes readjusted to their original lengths, windows closed, boxes put back, chimes off, etc.).

3. Repair any damage done (resplice any rope broken during the peal attempt) or offer to pay for damage which cannot be repaired on the spot.—Yours faithfully, Preston. CYRIL CROSSTHWAITE.

RANG AT FIVE TOWERS

A day out organised by Miss Margaret Lewis on Bank Holiday Monday was enjoyed by all taking part. Towers visited were All Saints', Kingston on Thames (10), St. Olave's, Hart Street, in the City, St. Mary's, Lewisham, St. John's, Deptford, and finally St. Alfege's, Greenwich. Lunch was taken at The Gun, Blackwell, where handbells were rung, and in the evening a Chinese restaurant was visited, where the use of chopsticks by some of the party caused great amusement. Altogether it was a happy and successful day. M. A. R.

NUMBERS LOW

The Eastern District had a very successful meeting at Widford and Hunsdon on September 12 although numbers were rather Ringing commenced at Widford at 3 p.m. and the local band had the opportunity to take part in change ringing and gain valuable experience.

The service was conducted by the Rev. S. Kirkpatrick, who mentioned that during his 40 years in the ministry it was the first time he had conducted a ringers' service and he felt very privileged to do so.

Tea was laid on in the church hall, followed by the meeting, at which Mr. E. Newnham took the chair. There was very little to discuss but many new members were elected from Hunsdon (which less than two years ago had a silent tower!). Ringing member, E. B. Lucas; probationary mem-mers, M. Mott, D. HOW IT CAME ABOUT

When in 1952 it was decided to form a band to ring the bells at Coddington, Notts, ringers from Newark and Balderton had a very difficult task teaching bell handling on the tricky 7 cwt. five. The bells were rung to call changes intermittently until 1963, when they had become so difficult as to be practicably unringable. An inspection by Taylors of Loughborough showed them to be unsafe and it was decided to have them rehung. The ringers set about the task of rehung. raising the necessary money and were backed by the vicar (Rev. Peter Wright) and the P.C.C.

In 1965 the bells were rehung in a steel frame and a treble added, which was donated by the Barron Bell Trust. A start was then made on method ringing, help coming once more from Newark and Balderton. In December, 1966, five of the local band rang a quarter of Grandsire Doubles under the expert guidance of the conductor. Colin Read (Relderton) conductor, Colin Reed (Balderton).

The band had the usual ups and downs with ringers leaving and new ones arriving to be taught. It was not until November, 1969, that they scored the first local quarter, Plain Bob Doubles, conducted by Derick Kirton. Doubles were now being rung regularly for Evensong, the Friday night practice attracting ringers from a wide area. A local peal now seemed a possibility and when it was learned that the organ was in need of repair it was decided to attempt a sponsored peal in aid of an organ restora-tion fund (the organist being a member of the band). The date was fixed for October 3 and Grandsire Doubles chosen as the method. Colin Reed and Fred Hooper were "roped in" as umpires.

Interest ran high in the village and during the attempt people could be seen standing and listening, whilst some even sat in church. The attempt was successful, the peal being rung in 2 hours and 30 minutes, and was conducted by Derek Tysoe. The band are all regular Sunday service ringers and were all taught to handle at Coddington, two on the old five and one being an original recruit from 1952

The peal ringers would like to thank the rest of the band (for helping to obtain sponsors), the umpires, the vicar for his en-thusiastic support, and, of course, the many sponsors, whose generous support enabled approximately £75 to be raised. D. E. K.

The Ringing Career of James Robert Haworth

By W. T. COOK, Librarian to the Ancient Society of College Youths.

AMONG THE MANY interesting manuscript documents in the possession of the Ancient Society of College Youths are two books in which James Robert Haworth, who was born on April 21, 1821, and died on December 24, 1910, aged 89, inserted details of his ringing career. The first, measuring 5in. x 7½in. x 1½in., has written as its title page "Change Ringing on Church Bells in Various Methods, by James Robert Haworth, Member of the 'College Youths Society' and 'St. James's Society of Change Ringers,' London. 1850." In fact it includes details up to his last peal in 1894. The second book, somewhat smaller (ruled as an account book), is entitled: "Paragraphs, Testimonials &c., in connection with J. R. Haworth, when Instructor of the Dundee Ringers, and at other places. July 14th to Oct. 14th, 1873. London. 1873."

From these two books it is possible to build up an unusually complete picture of the life, particularly the ringing career, of one of the best-known of the London ringers of the last century—one of whom, in his obituary notice in The Bell News of January 7, 1911, it was said "For nearly seventy years Mr. Haworth has been one of the most prominent personages of the Exercise". He was master of the College Youths in 1851/52.

The larger of the two books just mentioned contains details of all Haworth's peals, and a good deal of other matters besides, particularly accounts of ringing excursions and the openings of new rings of bells. The first 40 pages or so are taken up with a miscellany of newspaper cuttings, mostly illustrations of, or articles concerning, church towers and bells, but also including cuttings relating to Haworth himself, which will be mentioned in their proper place. There are also a number of loose cuttings and manuscripts, the first of which (in order of time) consists of three small sheets of paper pinned together, from which we learn about Haworth's early career.

APPRENTICED TO A PRINTER

In April, 1836, when he was 15 years old, Haworth was apprenticed to a London printer, Mr. White. Howarth noted on October 26, 1840, "Mr. White gaves James Robert Haworth his Indentures on the 17th October, 1840. He willingly gave them—at least he said so—and also that he was very glad he had the opportunity. . . . I have now got two and a half years to serve, which makes me seven years." Later he noted, "Mr. White kindly did everything he could when I was out of my time.—J. R. H. 1843."

The books do not show where Haworth was born, where he lived at that time, or with whom he worked. A testimonial dated 1860, written by "a Master Printer, in whose office J. R. Haworth was employed for some time," has 335 Strand, W.C. as address, and shows that Haworth was a compositor by trade. He is described there as "a steady, reliable and accomplished workman." In 1873 he was living in Exmouth Street, Clerkenwell.

However, from the evidence of the sheets of paper before mentioned and other early entries in the book, we can conjecture that Haworth started work with Richard Loftin, Printer, of 1 Crown Place, Temple Bar, who was a ringer, and that through him he learned to ring, perhaps at St. Margaret's,

Westminster, joining the St. James's Society in 1837 or 1838, and the College Youths on August 13, 1839. The grounds for these conjectures are as follows:

(1) The first item on the sheets of paper relates to an attempt for a "lapped" handbell peal at the Cock and Bottle, Bedfordbury (a street just behind St. Martin's Lane). It reads "Westminster Society, Cock and Bottle, Bedfordbury. On Sunday, December 31, 1837, six members of the above society sat down to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques, consisting of 6070 changes; and, after ringing very near four hours, one of the party missed giving away, only having to ring about a course." The band consisted of Charles Goozee, John Fairbairn, Richard Loftin, J. R. Haworth, Robert Williams and George Stockham. Goozee was the conductor, and Fairbairn "was the person who missed giving away."

PROMINENT RINGERS

Several of these men were prominent ringers of the time. Charles Goozee, of Cripplegate, was master of the St. James's Society in 1938–39; he was at that time a member of the Cumberlands, but joined the College Youths in 1852, and called several peals for them, some of which he composed. John Fairbairn, of Clerkenwell. was the current master of the St. James's Society and had joined the College Youths in 1835, and George Stockham, a handbell founder and steeplekeeper at St. Clement Danes', joined the College Youths in 1838 and was one of the leading peal ringers of that time.

(2) Enclosed in the book is an elaborately printed record showing that the same band met together again at the Cock and Bottle on Sunday, January 6, 1839, and rang a peal of Stedman Cinques, 5014 changes, "which was completed in a masterly style, in 3 hours and 9 minutes." The band was placed in the same order as before, but this time it referred to itself as "A Friendly Society." This sheet bears the name of R. Loftin as printer.

(3) The entry of Haworth's name in the College Youths' name book shows Westminster as the tower to which he belonged. Elsewhere in Haworth's book we learn that he joined the St. Clement Danes' band in 1838, and rang at Westminster Abbey for the Coronation in 1839.

The other item on the separate steets of paper is of sufficient interest to be quoted in full. It introduces us to two other famous ringers of that time—Squire Proctor, of Benington, Herts, and William Lobb, who was also a member of the St. James's Society, and master in 1939-40. He was a Cumberland at that time but, like Goozee, he went over to the College Youths in 1852.

"J. R. Haworth was at Bromley, in Kent, on Sunday (July 1st, 1839). Stayed there all night with Mr. Lobb, and came home on Monday evening. We went for a peal of Grandsire Triples, but got out, having rung about two hours.

"On Wednesday (10th July, 1839) I and Mr. Lobb went to Benington, Hertfordshire. We passed through Tottenham, Edmonton—and I did not forget Johnny Gilpin—Waltham Cross and Hoddesdon, stopped at Captain (Naval) Proctor's for luncheon; until we came to Ware; we bore off then a little to the right, and proceeded to Benington, which is about eight miles from Ware. It was Squire Proctor to whom we went. We came home the Monday evening following."

The main body of the book being described is taken up with Haworth's peals, of which he rang 176. He got a friend of his, Joseph Robinson (also a College Youth), to write the first 38 of them in his book for him (at the time when Haworth was master of the College Youths), and at the back of the book Robinson copied a long extract from Stedman's Campanalogia (1677). At a later late (1857) Robinson brought the book up to date with another nine peals. Thereafter Haworth wrote in the peals for himself or stuck in printed accounts of them. Many of these peals are of interest, not least for the additional information about them in the book.

Haworth's first peal was rung at Holy Trinity, Southwark, on Monday, October 1, 1839—a peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by William Lobb. His third peal, also Grandsire Triples, was rung at St. Mary's, Ealing, on May 2, 1841, conducted by that leading ringer of the time, Thomas Tolladay, "being the only peal rung there for upwards of thirty years." Some of the Ealing men were in the band, and they had two men on the tenor, although I believe it weighed less than a ton. Nearly all the peals in which Haworth took part after this were rung by the St. James's Society or the College Youths.

FIRST PEAL WITH COLLEGE YOUTHS

The first peal Haworth rang with the College Youths was one of Oxford Treble Bob Royal on December 30, 1841, at St. James', Bermondsey. This peal is of considerable interest in the history of the College Youths. The society at that time was, for various reasons, at a low ebb. New members were few (Haworth was one of only six who joined the society in 1839), and this peal was only the 13th rung by the society in ten years. Richard Mills, who was master from 1837 to 1840, had, however, determined to do something about this situation, which did in fact gradually improve from that time on, and among other things he offered a set of silver medals to the members who should ring the first peals of Oxford Treble Bob Major and Royal. The Major was rung at Holy Trinity, Newington, in 1840, and the medals duly presented. The same band, plus Haworth and Augustus A. Frost, rang the Royal as above mentioned, and Haworth and Frost duly received their medals. Haworth's medal is now in the possession of the College Youths.

The peal in which Haworth took part on Saturday, January 14, 1843—Grandsire Triples at St. Mary's, Wandsworth, rung by a College Youths' band, conducted by Thomas Tolladay—has an interesting founde to it, giving an example of how a new ring of bells was opened in those days.

"This was the opening peal; after which the ringers dined at the Rose and Crown, where they had good accommodation. About seven o'clock in the evening they again ascended the tower, and rang a short touch of Grandsire Triples to oblige Mr. Foster (the sexton), and Mr. Mills, after which they rang a course of Oxford Treble Bob and about five courses of Stedman Triples. They then returned to the Rose and Crown and spent the evening in a convivial and amicable manner till about 11 o'clock, when they (about 13) started to town in an omnibus, and arrived at the Elephant and Castle about 12."

IN THEIR HOME TOWER

On October 3 the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Association held their October practice meeting in their "home tower," the Parish Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Ilchester. Ringing during the evening on the 11 cwt. five was under the direction of Mr. Gordon Rendell, the branch ringing master. The branch is grateful to the Rev. A. Martin and Mr. R. Merritt (tower master) for their courtesy and kindness in granting permission for the meeting.

Derby Association.

A VISIT TO SHREWSBURY

The eighth annual outing of the Derby Association (Chesterfield District) took place on September 12, when some 40 members and friends visited Shrewsbury.

The ten bells of St. Mary's were rung to some well-struck changes, and after a substantial lunch all felt well fitted to tackle the heavy 12 of St. Chad's with its 39 cwt. tenor. A well-struck plain course or Little Bob Maximus was enjoyed, providing us with the very welcome though infrequent opportunity of ringing 12 bells. The next tower of the day contained the light and pleasant six at Meol Brace.

On the return journey a call was made at Alrewas for the final ring of the day on the eight bells of All Saints'. Towers represented on the outing were Chesterfield, Dronfield. North Wingfield, Old Brampton and Old Whittington.

Our thanks to the clergy and tower capins of the host towers. District ringing tains of the host towers. master Derek Peers (Dronfield) did a grand job, ensuring a wide variety of methods and seeing that everyone had a ring. Our thanks, too, to Malcolm and Marjorie Phipps for the excellent arrangements and turning up trumps yet again by finding first-class eating houses!

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

Members from all regions met at North-ampton on September 26 for the autumn meeting. Apologies were received from 22 members, and included in this number were Mr. C. F. Shanks (regional master, Eastern, South) and Mr. S. G. Martin (Joint Committee B.R.S.A.).

The programme and the success of the meeting was due entirely to Mr. S. Foskett, regional master, London Midland. Arrangements were made to have lunch and tea at the B.R.S.A. Club, Far Cotton. As buses were few and far between it meant, for many, walking. However, all turned up for both meals.

The ringing programme included a visit to St. Edmund's, St. Giles', Holy Sepulchre, St. Peter's and All Saints'. Those who arrived on Friday evening visited Earls Barton.

At the business meeting the rules for the ringing competition were accepted, with one exception—the time allowed members who were participating in the competition to notify their regional masters. This, however, was left in the hands of the separate regions. The master, Western Region, Mr. W. B. Kynaston, was already making arrangements at Worcester for 1971.

The inscription for the silver cup, suggested by the B.R.S.A., was agreed unani-mously. Six new members were elected (two Western, 1 Southern, 1 London Midland, and two Eastern).

Mr. S. Foskett suggested visiting the Scottish Region and Ireland in the near future. A proposal to put this matter on the agenda for 1971 was agreed. The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. C. A. Bassett and was seconded by Mr. W. J. Thomas. An enjoyable week-end concluded with a successful quarter peal at All Saints' Church.

Swansea and Brecon Guild. CORDIAL INVITATION

The Northern Section of the Guild held very successful meeting recently at St. David's, Llanfaes.

Attendance was slightly down on previous meetings, nevertheless there were ringers representing the following towers: Brecon, Glasbury, Swansea, Cardiff and Llanfaes.

Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock and continued till about 7 o'clock, only interrupted by a break for an excellent tea provided by the ladies of the parish.

Courses of Bob Doubles, Grandsire and Bob Minor were rung and it was decided to hold another meeting on January 9 at St. Mary's, Brecon. Ringers from any other guild who may be in the area at that time are most cordially invited to come along.

ORGANISED FOR THEM

On Saturday, September 12, a small party of ringers from Braintree, Essex, and their friends made use of a route opened for the Croydon Ringing Festival. Towers visited included St. Giles, Cripplegate; Southwark Cathedral; St. Giles', Camberwell; Beckenham; St. John's, Croydon, and St. Mary's, Beddington. Lunch was made available by the Croydon ringers. Some of the party attended and greatly enjoyed the Festival service, while others made use of Croydon's excellent shopping facilities or visited Chartwell.

Solid and liquid refreshments were taken on the way home and handbells used. spite the weather we had an enjoyable day. for which we are largely indebted to the enthusiasm of the Croydon ringers. Our main regret was that for various reasons the party was more depleted than we had hoped, so that full advantage of the interesting rings provided could not be taken.

STILL RECEIVING CRITICISM

Visitors from the Axbridge, Bridgwater and Bristol City Branches joined the Chew Branch for their quarterly meeting at Long Ashton, Somerset, on September 20, the clappers having come back just in time. The new form of service was a little more successful than before, although still re-ceiving criticism, whilst the rector, who is no great lover of bells, preached somewhat resignedly on the theme "If you must make a noise, you must," which, of course, we did.

Tea was served in the Red Cross Hall to about 40 members and friends, and Mrs. Yeo and Mrs. Gilbert were warmly thanked for their efforts. Mr. Brain acted as chairman at the business meeting which fol-lowed. Mrs. E. Dye and Miss J. Gallop (Yatton) were elected members, and Mr. M. W. Coleman (Adderbury) a non-resident life member.

Recommendations of the sub-committee set up to report on a suitable memorial to the late chairman, Mr. H. W. Knight, were read and discussed at length. A fund is to be opened to enable branch towers and friends to contribute towards a permanent memorial to be placed in his home tower at Wrington.

Mr. Horseman reminded members of an association striking competition at Compton Bishop on October 24, and the secretary gave notice that the branch A.G.M. at Yatton would be held on December 12, ?

Post-meeting ringing was extended to cater for latecomers, and the warmth of the September evening gave the party who adjourned to the Angel to discuss the ringing scene the added pleasure of sitting outside under the sky to enjoy their noggins. J. B.

FUN AND GAMES

What was to have been a leisurely afternoon tour of three towers turned out to be anything but that for Ronald S. Barclay and some of his friends. He writes:

"At the first tower, Stokesley, Yorkshire, we wasted a quarter of an hour trying to find the key, and the vicar asked us to lock the church door during ringing as there was a fair visiting the village. Leaving a note on the door for one latecomer, we ascended to the ringing chamber and closed the trap-

"At the end of the touch came the surprise; when we tried to lift the trapdoor it had stuck fast. A glance round showed that the window would not open and that the only way down was through another trapdoor (and there was no ladder), which involved a drop on to a concrete floor. A banging downstairs, however, told us that the latecomer had arrived but could not get in because of the locked door. One of the ringers had the intelligence to go up-stairs and throw the key out of the louvres

"All this made the afternoon quite interesting, but changed the leisurely tour into a mad dash to try to get to the other towers on time.

"The previous day we lost both a peal and a quarter at Whitby."

NORTH HANTS RINGING TOUR

The seventh tour of the kind involving 10- and 12-bell rings was held on October 3, when ringers from Hampshire travelled to Kent.

Disappointment was met at Shipham when, expecting to ring for 11 a.m. service, they heard the bells ringing. The local band were attempting a quarter peal for a 10.15 a.m. service, a lack of communication between the vicar and local ringers apparently being the cause. However, all were made most welcome at Tonbridge, although arriving without prior notice. Borden bells (8) were found interesting before lunch, after which we made the long journey to St. Nicholas, Wade (a fine six), followed by the heavy five at Minster-in-Thanet. The ringing at St. Lawrence-in-Thanet was cut short because of a baptism, but all enjoyed the ten bells. There was a tea break before ringing on the eight at St. Peter's-in-Thanet, where the vicar (a ringer) met us and joined in the ringing.

Service ringing on the light Mears eight at Birchington followed (our non-ringers judging these the best of the day) before out final tower, Quex Park, a big attraction for ringers and non-ringers alike, with its setting in a field. Here we aspired to Little Bob Maximus—the first of Maximus for half the band. Our final stop was near Dorking for liquid refreshments. G. D.

PRINTER'S ERROR

Mr. S. H. Ellis, of Limerick, sends us the cutting from a provincial newspaper, Guardian, published at Nenagh, Co. Tipperary. Mr. J. E. Cole, who was at one time a ringer at Limerick Cathedral, spotted the printer's error and sent the paper to Mr. Ellis.

"BELL-WRINGERS 'VISIT

Among visitors to Killaloe last week were 40 bellringers from across Channel. During their three-day visit from Monday to Wed-nesday they visited the local Cathedral and St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick. They appeared to be deeply interested in ancient castles and were very impressed by Bunratty Castle, especially in its mediæval decor."

Wedding.

MARTIN-MASON

The wedding took place at St. Peter's, Southampton, of Miss Muriel Jean Mason, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mason, of Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, Warwickshire, and Mr. Alan Howard Martin, of Chandler's Ford, Hants.

Despite her former ringing association. the bride chose a bell-less wedding in order to be married by the Rev. G. E. Beechey, who is chaplain to the Girls' Friendly Society Hostel, where she has been resident for three years. He is also vicar of St. Peter's, which has no bells.

The bride wore guipure lace, nylon and embroidered chiffon with a flowing tulle veil. Her bouquet of cream orchids, freesias and rosebuds was later placed on the altar at St. Peter's.

The bridal attendants were Miss Helen Carrick and Miss Joyce Martin, who wore apricot silk flecked piquet, and had geishagirl coiffures tied with apricot ribbons, whilst the chief bridesmaid, Miss Suzanne Saunders, had green piquet and a single flower head ornament. The dresses were long with puffed sleeves and mandarin necks, and the bouquets posies of white and apricot car-nations and rosebuds. Master Andrew Arnold, the bride's infant nephew, wore a blue suit with bell-bottom trousers and cummerbund, bow-tie and a blue and red jacket.

The bridegroom's mother wore an oatmeal fitted coat over a matching dress and a hat in rose-pink pleated silk, and the bride's mother wore a suit in French navy blue trevira with gold buttons and tabs and pink and beige accessories.

After the normal bridal walk down the aisle following their nuptials, the pair perpetuated a lovely custom observed at St. Peter's. They re-entered the nave after signing the register and made a full circuit of the church, via the south aisle, chancel and north aisle, round the central font. to the west door. This is known at the church as the bride's "lap of honour."

The bride and her sister were formerly ringers at All Saints', Coton, and later at churches in and around Southampton.

There was a reception at the Royal Hotel, Southampton, before the newlyweds left for Weymouth en route for a tour of Devon. They will live near Romsey, Hants.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for

November 2, 1945

In reply to a letter from Mr. F. W. Perrens printed the previous week on the question of perfection in striking, the leading article went to great length to explain how this is obtained, concluding: "The secret of good striking lies in the training of a ringer's ears, and the test of striking is how far it satisfies an acute and trained ear."

In a peal of Bob Major at St. Michael's, Southampton (tenor 16½ cwt.), which took 3 hours and 13 minutes, Rev. K. W. H. Felstead rang his first of Major, and Ronald Burford his first peal. Charles H. Kippin conducted.

Ronald C. Noon and Frank H. Hicks rang their first of Superlative at Bexley, Kent, whilst at Banstead, Surrey, Reginald F. Layton and Margaret E. Pitstow rang their first peal (Grandsire Triples), conducted by Harold N. Pitstow.

A Peterborough Guild meeting (Wellingborough Branch) was held at Earl's Barton, when 90 ringers were present. A collection for the bell restoration fund produced £1 18s. 6d.

Mr. H. E. Audsley was elected ringing master at the Lewisham District meeting of the Kent County Association.

"Let us dwell today upon the Fragrant Memory of the Past Masters of the College Youths of 100, 200 and 300 years ago . . . -E. Alexander Young.-Advt.

50 YEARS AGO

November 5, 1920 Under the heading "A Dangerous Practice." the Editor detailed the troubles which could result from wedging a wooden bell frame again tower walls to prevent move-ment. It was not a job for a local black-smith or carpenter to tighten and strengthen frames but for a qualified bellfounder.

Albert Harman, Alfred H. Winch and George Marriner took part in a peal at Ashtead, conducted by Arthur Dean.

Six members of Manchester City Police Force took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Birch, Manchester, five of them ringing their first peal.

Miss Evelyn Steel (Bedford) was elected a life member of the Chester Guild before a peal at West Kirby.

J. P. Fidler rang his first peal inside (7 Minor methods) at Norbury (Cheshire).

Ten members of St. Mary's Society, Reading, spent an enjoyable two days' excursion to Bristol, where they stayed at the Swan Hotel.

The death was announced of Mr. John Smith, of Tipton, Staffs. He was the first secretary of the Worcestershire Association (1885-1904).

In his 96th year, Mr. George Symonds, of Ipswich, conducted a peal of Bob Major at Grundisburgh on Tuesday last week. It was the 50th anniversary peal of Mr. Cecil Pipe's first peal, which Mr. Symonds also conducted, the compositions being the same on each occasion. (What ≘a man!)

St. Mary the Virgin, Bishop's Cannings, Devizes, Wilts

"Stand still great Queen, amidst your loving and listen to the bells of Bishop's Cannings -George Ferebe.

THE PLACE

IF THE ARCHÆOLOGIST, R. J. C. Atkinson, is correct, somewhere about 1500 B.C. teams of sweating men dragging huge sarsen stones from the neighbourhood of Avebury on their way to Stonehenge would have struggled down the lane from what is now the main Marlborough-Devizes road and through this beautiful village.

Thousands pass along the high road but few drop down the short lane to have a closer look at the ancient church with the tall spire they have seen peeping above the trees which form an avenue towards it. It is a large and lovely church for a small population (although the area of the parish is very great and was once much greater), a church the architecture of which is reminiscent of Salisbury Cathedral, a church which has been the meeting place for wor-ship for many generations of Wiltshire yeomen, farm workers and weavers during its 800 years, a church familiar to many—not least to Service men billeted in Devizes, at Yatesbury and Compton Bassett during the last war—as the church with a spire and a "little steeple" also.

This "little steeple" is a prominent characteristic of the church and is, of course, the head of the tower stairs, leading out into the steeple "ditch" at the top of the tower. The spire is at least a century younger than the tower, which was originally covered by a shingle roof. For generations the people of Devizes and the sur-rounding villages have teased Cannings folk about their squat little steeple which reby the teasing, the Cannings men did the only thing they knew to make it grow; they carried up a load of manure and placed it around the foot of the little steeple. But the only thing which grew was grass on the manure, so they are reputed to have dragged a calf up the spiral staircase to eat it down. One is still asked "Hast dunged thy little steeple yet?" or "Beant it time to dung 'un again?" But the folk of Bishop's Cannings are not so simple as some may like to think!

A CLAIM TO FAME

There stood in the village at one time a manor house of the Bishops of Salisbury, hence the name "Bishop's" Cannings, and among the treasures in the church built by those bishops there now stands an ancient and unique "carrel" or meditation desk, part of which is of pre-Reformation date, and an organ originally donated in 1809 by a parishioner, William Bailey, who was navigator with Captain Cook on his second voyage around the world.

The church contains much to interest the student of architecture and history but per-haps one of the parish's most treasured historical memories is that one of its vicars, the Rev. George Ferebe, vicar from 1593 to 1623, entertained Anne, Queen of James I, when on her return from Bath 11th June, 1613, she passed over the Wansdyke in his parish. He is said to have "dressed him-self in the habit of a bard and clothed certain of his parishioners, whom he had taught to play and sing in parts, in shepherd's weeds" and entertained the Queen with songs and music which he had com-posed for the occasion. The Queen "not only graciously received and approved but also bounteously rewarded" the singers and players.

A few years later George Ferebe entertained James I himself "with bucolics of his own making and composing, of four parts, which were sung by his parishioners who wore frocks and whippes like carters after this entertainment he entertained his Majesty with a football match of his own parishioners." But of special interest to readers of this journal is the ring of eight bells, said to be the oldest complete ring to be hung all at one time in a parish church in England.

"GAUDEMUS GAUDENTIBUS"

An inventory of Edward VI in 1553 states "Bysshopps Cannings iiij bells and a sanctus bell." We may guess what happened to these bells at the Reformation and that they suffered the same fate as the church plate. However, during the incumbency of this same George Ferebe, John Aubrey, the Wiltshire historian, tells us "Mr. Ferraby . . . was an ingenious man and an excellent musician." While entertaining James I "the eight bells (of which he was the cause) did ring and the organ was played on for state. The Parish in those dayes would have challenged all England for musique, football and ringing."

The bells of Bishop's Cannings are dated 1602 except the tenor, which appears to have been recast by Purdue in 1626 during the incumbency of George Ferebe's brother Thomas. They were also cast by John Wallis and are approximately in the key of E flat. Nos. 2, 3, 5 and 6 are still the original bells. The treble was recast by Taylors of Loughborough in 1912, Nos 4 and 7 by Mears in 1840 and the tenor The sanctus bell, by James Burrough of Devizes, is dated 1738 and decorated with five scallop shells. Details of the bells are as follows:

Treble. - 5 cwt. (25¾*). Hope Well I.W 1607.

2.-5 cwt. 2 lb. (261/2). Prayse God 1602 LW.

3.—6 cwt. (281). Feare God 1602 I.W. 4.—7 cwt. (331). Thomas Mears Found 1840. Thomas Mears Founder

5. — 8 cwt. 2 lb. (331/4"). George Ferebe Vicar 1602 I.W.

6.—9 cwt. 2 lb. (36 Church W 1602 l.W. (36½"). Thomas Sloper

-12 cwt. (41"). As No. 4 and Gaudemus Gaudentibus Dolemus Dolentibus.

Tenor.-16 cwt. 2 lb. (462"). Honour the Kinge. Thomas Ferebe 1626.

There are records of 23 peals having been rung between 1890 and 1964.
"THE APPARATUS"

Ringing was originally from the ground floor level as holes for the bell ropes and marks where the ropes have rubbed the stonework of the ceiling of the crossing clearly show. In 1829, when the church was reseated, "a ringing loft was constructed and the steps in the tower leading to the belfry repaired. In A.D. 1840 the stocks of the bells, eight in number, and the rest of the apparatus for ringing being much out of order, it became necessary to engage some competent person or persons to repair and render them fit for the purpose for which they were placed in the tower. Accordingly Messrs. Mears of Whitechapel were employed and by them one bell was recast and the whole ring, at the expense of much time and money, was rehung." The oak frame is said by experts to be over 200 years old and does not appear to have been strengthened by tie-bolts and plates until 1912. As a piece of engineering design it is remarkable, for it sits without fastening of any kind upon the main beams of the tower and moves very little in any direction, irrespective of the relative direction of rotation of the bells. Furthermore. because the eight bells are a tight squeeze in the belfry, the frame members have had to be cut away to allow the bells to swing so that clearance and timber strength are reduced to a minimum.

ALAS worked very loose and only short touches may be rung on the full ring and then only when the weather is damp, as it appears this tightens the joints! However, it is intended to replace the frame with one of cast iron in mid-1971 and to rehang the bells on new bearings with new fittings, but the cost of such work is very high for a small parish of only 600 adults. So we hope that all who have rung here in years past, those who have asked to ring in recent times and have had to be refused until the repairs are complete, and all who care that we should pass on our heritage in good working order, will help us by sending a donation to the vicar, which donations will be most gratefully received and acknowledged.

Needless to say we have not been idle ourselves and the ringers (who include a large number of youngsters) with their friends, raised £350 recently by a sponsored walk—which only goes to show how keen we are to get our bells in full working order again—a ring reputed not only to be the oldest eight hung at one time in a parish church in England, but the finest-toned ring in Wiltshire—or perhaps you don't agree? By the by, has anyone any good ideas for using the old bell frame?

When the Meal cost 3s. 6d. and Petrol 1s. $0\frac{1}{2}$ d. gallon

EVENTS RECALLED AT LANCASHIRE ANNUAL DINNER

Well before the last war the then editor/proprietor of The Ringing World (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) attended the dinner-dance arranged annually by the Lancashire Association. The meal cost 3s. 6d, a head—and petrol was 1s. 01d. per gallon. This was the last occasion that an editor of the R.W. attended this function, until October 31 this year when, by invitation of the organising committee, the present editor (Mr. C. W. Denyer) joined the association members at their dinner and was the guest speaker.

Last year many misfortunes, partly caused by illness, partly hotel management upsets, rather spoiled the arrangements, but this year all went very smoothly and a near record of 140-150 attended. The Royal Hotel, Southport, with its magnificent ballroom and excellent accommodation made a fine setting, the menu was well chosen and the meal expertly served by a competent staff. From the outset a happy spirit of comradeship pervaded, and light music played in the background helped. Follow-

Some of the problems and happenings an editor had to deal with were also given by the speaker to the amusement of the company and he appealed to Lancashire (and other) Association members to support The Ringing World, which played such an important part in communications throughout ringing circles. Mr. Denyer concluded by thanking the association for its financial contribution to Ringing World funds and asked the company to drink a toast to the Lancashire Association.

ing the loyal toast, proposed by the association chairman (Canon A. Hodgson), the guests and visitors were introduced by him.

A FOREIGN COUNTRY

Mr. Denyer greeted the company and said how delighted he was to be present. He thanked them for their hospitality in inviting him to their dinner, spoke of his association with Mr. Goldsmith and of his own ringing activities in the '30's, when any area north of Bedford was considered a foreign country. Even in those days the Lancashire Association had a fine reputation in ringing circles, and this reputation still existed now. The excellent foundations laid nearly 100 years ago by such men as Mr. Wray, Mr. James Mason and Canon Elsee and implemented over the years by succeeding officers had made the association what it was today.

If those worthy founders returned today to see the results of their foresight, said Mr. Denyer, they would be proud of what had been accomplished. It was for the present officers to carry on the good work and so assure continued success in the future.

BELL RESTORATIONS

The importance of building up the Bell Restoration Fund was also impressed on the gathering, for there would come a time when the offer of a cheque for £200 from this fund might result in bells being rung again which otherwise might be lost to the Exercise.

Mr. Cyril Crossthwaite (hon. ringing secretary), replying, produced the menu when Mr. Goldsmith attended before the war, and proceeded in a happy and well-chosen speech to amuse, to instruct and to delight his audience with many aspects of ringing, particularly those affecting The Ringing World.

A SINGLE GRAND-SIRE

"I am in the grand-sire class now," he said. "Grand-sire, single, at present, and as such allowed to dip into the past." The ringing press was very important to the Exercise and a great debt of gratitude was owed to John Goldsmith, who had supplied at his own cost The Ringing World, which was (then) never a financial success. Those ringers who had made it possible for the Central Council to acquire the paper when Mr. Goldsmith died also had done a great job. The Lancashire Association was well aware of the importance of The Ringing World to the Exercise, he said.

Mr. Crossthwaite then expressed thanks to the Editor for making the long journey from Farnham, and to Mr. Peter Sherwood, of Ash, Surrey, for acting as chauffeur to Mr. Denyer. Thanks were also extended by the speaker to Mrs. D'Aeth for her work of organisation, and special appreciation to Graham Austin, who was afloat on R.M.M.V. "Aureol" and had had the attractive menu cards printed on board and sent for the dinner.

HIGH SPIRITS

The pattern for the evening was set by the chairman, who told one or two very amusing stories, and high spirits and fun resulted

The dancing which followed was started by Mrs. D'Aeth and Mr. Denyer, and the M.C. (Mr. James Sumner) kept the proceedings flowing and there was never a dull moment. Handbells were rung to tunes by a team from Ashton-under-Lyne, assisted (under duress) by Neil Bennett, and these were much enjoyed. A draw for a bottle of wine in aid of the Bell Restoration Fund realised £7 12s. 6d.

It was midnight when the revellers departed to their several homes, and in the words of one of the members: "One of the best I've ever attended; I'm coming next year for certain!"

LANCASHIRE LUMINARY

After ringing for a wedding at Prestwich Parish Church, Manchester, on Saturday, October 31, 14-years-old John Manning was knocked from his cycle by a car and injured-fortunately not seriously. His friends and fellow ringers wish him a speedy recovery and many more hours of safe cycling in the future.

High winds and heavy squalls did not deter those who attended the annual dinnerdance, but, driving home after midnight, the general secretary (Mr. Frank Reynolds) and his wife and friends had the fan belt of their car break. Having pulled into a lay-by they were (fortunately) followed by another ringer, also driving home, and who had a spare fan belt with him in his car. Fortunate indeed.

Standing on two boxes and handling her rope extremely well was 13-years-old Susan Valentine, of St. Mary's, Prestwich, Lancs, when four visiting ringers entered the rather cramped hower recently. However, she did not miss a blow and ignored the interruption, but then Susan is a Girl Guide and looked very smart in the uniform. She later went down to take part in the church parade service.

Enthusiasm was displayed by Peter Chambers of Newport (Mon), who bought a "roving" ticket on the railway to get to Southport for a ring at Christ Church on the day of the dinner. Unfortunately there were only four ringers present 15 minutes before Peter's train was due to leave, so the bells were rung up four at a time to let him have his ring.

Celebrating her 21st birthday recently Miss Jane Reynolds, of Whitefield, Manchester, came home from college on November 1 and found many ringing friends waiting to greet her and to join in a celebration party arranged by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds. There was also a very fine cake made and attractively decorated by Mrs. Cyril Crossthwaite (who also made a cake for Mr. Reynolds' 50th birthday earlier in the year and reported in our columns).

"The Editor of The Ringing World wants to meet as many of you as possible, but for heaven's sake be careful what you say, be-cause it will appear in print next week!" So said Mr. Cyril Crossthwaite at the close of his speech.

"Ee lad, its real grand to meet t'editor again. Rang with Jack Goldsmith years agorn. Y'ill get a reet Lanc'shire welcome f'sure at dinner. Ringing World? Nay, hav'n't took it for years, and shan't start agin now, but good luck in your work, boy."

Who will wear the trousers? "Oh no, she doesn't ring—and I'm not sure I want her to learn. After all, when we're married I may not always want her around while I'm ringing with the lads!"

CLERICAL LONDON

It is not easy to find clergymen capable of ringing London Major, and even more difficult to assemble eight such clerics in one place at one and the same time. The president of the Guild of Clerical Ringers (Rev. R. D. St. J. Smith) had long had this as an objective, and his plans came to fruition on October 7. A party of eight gathered in Derbyshire, one staying with Fred Ross at Marlpool and the rest at Darley Rectory.

It was said that some had even been studying the blue-line as they sped up the M1; whether or not, when the first attempt to ring London was made at the local practice on Wednesday evening, little happened to inspire confidence for the future. Three towers, allowing three bites at the cherry, had been arranged for peal attempts on Thursday and Friday, the iJea being that persistence might make up for lack of practice in ringing the method. The first was Darley Dale (the president's own tower) on Thursday morning. It will be appreciated that when Roger Keeley called "That's all" at 12.45, and the first clerical peal of London had been achieved at the first attempt, satisfaction was mingled with surprise! By a happy coincidence this proved to be the president's 200th peal.

In a sense all that followed was anticlimax. An attempt for a peal of Plain Bob at Ashover on the Thursday evening failed when a call was missed early on, but too late to allow a second start. This gave the opportunity to practise Superlative and then relax in the president's club. On the Friday morning a decent peal of Superlative was rung at Fairfield, Buxton, the first in the method for the guild and the first by clergymen for 58 years.

We are all most grateful to Mrs. Smith, who bore the main brunt of the hospitality, and to Mrs. Ross, for entertaining us so kindly and comfortably, to the president for his excellent arrangements and to Roger Keeley for his cool and competent conducting.

Durham University IN WORCESTERSHIRE

Following the success of the weekend in May, past and present members met on October 16 at the general secretary's home in Bromsgrove, and next morning rang a peal on the superb eight at Hanbury, in the second half of which it was felt that the society had reached its highest standard for some years. The peal was particularly satisfying as it was composed by Colin Monson, who rang the 6th.

The afternoon saw us touring some of the good rings in the area: Dodderhill, which many thought to be one of the finest rings they had ever rung; Pershore, where fear of the drop on all sides of the open, suspended "cage" prevented us from giving of our best, and Feckenham, where we produced a well-struck course of Bristol that we never realised we could do.

On Sunday the local band kindly allowed us to virtually take over Bromsgrove Parish Church, where the somewhat difficult ten proved themselves well worth the effort to produce good striking.

As always, the weekend was as much a social event as a ringing one and, thanks to Colin and Jan, whose home at some stages was turned into a cookhouse-cumdormitory for upwards of 14 people, a thoroughly good time was had by all. The next meeting of the kind was fixed for February at Leeds.

WEST COUNTRY NEWS ITEMS

Twelve teams competed for the Kingsford-Lethbridge shield at South Tawton recently, when the winners were Lydford, with Chagford second and Burrington in third place. Mrs. Kingsford - Lethbridge presented the shield after a service in S. Tawton Church. The home team, having won the shield last year, were not eligible to compete.

At Bow, near Crediton, the Bow shield competition attracted 14 teams, the judges being Mr. R. Elliot (Bridford), Mr. C. Thorne (Colebrooke) and Mr. C. Way (Chawleigh). The results were: Seniors—1 Down St. Mary, 2 Kenn, 3 S. Tawton; juniors—1 Alphington B, 2 Yarnscombe, 3 Tawstock. A party held afterwards was organised by Lynette Wills and Shirley Gregory.

Cadbury Deanery (Devon) ringing festival was held at Washford Pyne this year, when 11 teams competed for a shield and a cup (presented as a runners-up award). Rev. John Scott (Newton St. Cyres) conducted the service, the judges being Messrs. A. C. Thorne (Colebrook) and B. Wood (S. Tawton). The winners of the shield were Down St. Mary, with Cheriton Fitzpaine as runners-up.

The Western Morning News recently gave a very good illustration of Supt. A. P. Wheeler with a team of Newton Abbot policemen which he has trained as bell-ringers. The photo showed the Vicar of Woolborough with nine gentlemen in shirt sleeves plus bellropes, being shown changes by Supt. Wheeler. They hope to be sufficiently advanced to ring the bells at the dedication of the recast bells at Drewsteignton this month.

Believed to be the only woman captain of a team of bellringers in Devon, Mrs. Jacqueline Hobbs, of Uffculme, was recently photographed with other ringers from her tower, and an article about her election and leadership appeared in The Western Times and Gazette.

Llandaff and Monmouth Association SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT

A most enjoyable and successful meeting of the Llandaff Branch was held at Porthekerry, in glorious weather, on September 12, with an attendance of some 35. Of these the home tower accounted for nine, while Llanbleddian and Whitchurch produced six each. Other branch towers represented were Llandaff Cathedral, Cardiff (St. John's). Bridgend, Cadoxton (Neath) and Llantwit Major.

Ringing on the pleasant light six (newly overhauled) ranged from rounds to Surprise and at the service the preacher was Archdeacon J. F. Williams, himself a ringer.

A generous tea was provided in the church hall of neighbouring Rhoose by ladies of the congregation. Mr. Nevil James (branch master) reported the success of the first year of the scheme for inviting outlying towers to ring for evensong at the Cathedral on the first Saturday of the month, Nine towers had taken part and any others wishing to join in should please inform him.

Many thanks to all concerned at Porthkerry for the efficient arrangements and for the pleasing welcome afforded. I.D.

Obituary

ARTHUR HINCHLIFFE

The death occurred suddenly on October 18 of Mr. Arthur Hinchliffe, of 8 Levens Way, Silverdale, Carnforth, Lancs. He learned to ring at Stainland, Halifax, when he was a teenager and later rang at Huddersfield Parish Church. Last year, whilst on a world tour, he called at and rang in Melbourne Cathedral, where he was made very welcome.

He moved to Silverdale seven years ago and joined the local band at St. John's, visiting many of the towers in the area. He had been ringing for a memorial service at the Parish Church and died on his way home afterwards.

The sympathy of the Exercise is extended to his widow.

MR. H. W. HOWARD

The Northwich Branch of the Chester Guild has suffered a grievous loss with the death of Harry Howard, for he was the pillar of the branch. His ringing skill and the friendliness he radiated made his tower (Davenham) the centre of change ringing in the area, and it is unthinkable to be without him.

He was taken ill in the tower of St. Giles', Wrexham, during a branch outing on September 19 and taken to hospital there. He seemed to be making good progress but died suddenly on September 30. He was buried at Davenham on October 8, and the bells he loved so well were rung half-muffled.

Harry was taught to ring in 1924, when he was 16, by the late Albert Booth, and it became his lifelong hobby. He had rung 525 peals, was chairman of the branch for 15 years and ringing master during the current year. Neverless he found time to play the trombone and euphonium in a brass band, to train the Great Budworth handbell ringers, to grow excellent vegetables and to work the most extraordinary hours for a firm of wholesale newsagents.

The Northwich Branch is very small and our loss is irreparable, for Harry was a friend of all and was such an extraordinarily nice chap.

We offer our sympathy to Mrs. Howard and her family.

MR. LESLIE JAMES

Mr. Leslie James, aged 70 years, passed away in St. Woolis Hospital, Newport, Mon, on October 12. He started ringing in 1921 and has been very regular in attendance. His interest and duty were towards his church (St. Basil's, Bassaleg, Monmouth) as churchwarden and tower captain, positions which he held for a number of years, and latterly as tower secretary.

He was strict on practice nights and many a learner can thank him for starting them on a ringing career. He was a member of Llandaff and Monmouth Association. He had not rung any peals but his first quarter was in 1928 and his last was at Machen in June for the Summer Festival.

The bells rang out half-muf

The bells rang out half-muffled at Bassaleg after the funeral service on October 16, and a quarter of Grandsire Doubles was rung by his old ringing friends at Machen and Bassaleg.

PEAL AND QUARTER PEAL PUBLICATION

From time to time we receive complaints from ringers taking part in peals and quarter peals that the report has not appeared in The Ringing World, which the conductor (or correspondent) sent in "weeks ago"—or "has submitted on two occasions and it has never been published!" Sometimes we are informed that a donation from the band was also enclosed and this has not been shown in "Gratefully Acknowledged."

Now we do not say we are infallible or that mistakes cannot occur in our office. But we do not accept that we hold up publication of these reports "for weeks." Our system during the past ten months has been for EVERY peal and quarter peal received from first post on the Wednesday up to the second post on the following Tuesday to be edited and given to the printers for type-setting. These then all appear in the following Friday week's issue. Sometimes there are varying numbers of both items, hence the differing numbers of columns in each issue of The Ringing World.

We did have a backlog in September/ October for three weeks owing to tour reports but this has been cleared. The only other reasons for delay are: (i) when details sent are not complete and have to be returned to the sender; (ii) when the copy is badly supplied or not written in the style of The Ringing World and has to be written by us; or (iii) if peal cards are ordered from Mr. T. White and only one copy sent.

On the money question, this is a delicate matter. All moneys received are handled by Mr. Lucas, our accountant, and the "Gratefully Acknowledged" list compiled from his accounts. If the acknowledgement does not appear within 14 days of sending, it is advisable to contact us with the relevant details. Peals and quarter peals not appearing within three weeks should also be queried, but only after checking with the person who promised to send the report to us. Often it is found that the letter was not sent. A few, we believe, are lost in the post, in which case cheques and postal order numbers should be available for G.P.O. inquiries.

The main reason for delay in publication we believe is usually the fault of the conductor/correspondent! The delay in publication is not (generally) in our office.

SOFTLY, SOFTLY

We have had several letters and phone calls to tell us that the central-towered church in the TV production of "Softly Softly" is Rochester Cathedral.

OUR CALENDAR

Since printing the advertisement in our peal pages, such has been the demand for the Calendar that we have SOLD OUT of the first printing. We have put another order in and we ask those who have not received their Calendar to be patient, and it will be despatched in due course.

Others who have not yet sent for the Calendar (6s. plus 6d. post and packing per copy) should put their order in immediately.

Mr. Frederick Bird, of Bishop's Stortford, writes regarding the peal rung in 1920 for the 100th anniversary of the ten bells, and says he is the only survivor of the peal. It was Grandsire Caters (5111 changes) conducted by H. J. Tucker. Mr. Bird has been ringing for 63 years at St. Michael's.

Charlie Copp, of North Muskham, is now in Hawtonville Hospital and would welcome visits or letters from his friends. Address: Collis Ward, Hawtonville Hospital, Newark, Notts.

Warsop are to be congratulated on winning the 1970 Oswy Street Contest, held at Sturton-le-Steeple on October 17. Four teams entered: the test piece was 720 changes. Results: Warsop 91 faults, Roughtown 120, East Retford 146, Derby (St. Peter's) 182. The judge was Mr. H. Chant. The cup and certificates were presented by Rev. J. L. Howitt, vice-chairman of the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

When Mr. and Mrs. G. Bowman celebrated their silver wedding a quarter peal of Doubles was rung at Chiseldon, Wilts, and this was followed by a celebration attended by relatives and friends, including many bellringers.

A Hurstpierpoint band went to Brighton and rang a quarter of Grandsire Caters at their first attempt. It was on St. Luke's Day and was an engagement compliment to Peter D. Hepburn and Ainslie M. Reeve.

First peal congratulations to Rev. Hon. Neill Morrison, Carol Parkhurst, James T. Gynn, Brian Butler, Diana R. Bromley, Janet M. Barnard, Gordon Adams, Therese Orriss, Henry J. Miller.

First-time Conductors: Ray Lockwood and Trevor Hughes.

Mr. George E. Symonds, of Ipswich, writes regarding the first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus by all at St. Martin's Cathedral, Leicester, mentioned in our "25 Years Ago" column. He tells us a similar peal of Maximus was rung at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich (being the first) on November 30, 1929, conducted by Charles J. Sedgley.

Members of the Cirencester Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association honoured two of their senior members recently with a quarter at Northleach, for their birthdays. Mr. J. W. Sly, who is believed to be the oldest member of the Association, was 90 on October 1, and Mr. W. Clayton was 71 on September 30.

For the ordination of the Rev. Dennis Beasley, curate at Exhall, Warwicks, a quarter of Bob Doubles was rung on September 29.

New Methods include Usk S. Major, Machen S. Major, Foxhall S. Major, Glasgow Little S. Major.

According to The Daily Telegraph the 140ft. tower of Tenterden, Kent, Parish Church, needs £6,000 to restore it and to rehang the bells. Because of falling masonry the west door has been fenced off and ringing stopped. A legend says that stones for the tower were taken from the sea wall and as a result the water overwhelmed the wall and the Goodwin Sands were formed. (The sands, of course, were there before the tower was built.)

Personal Records: Brian Whiting (25 peals), Roy Le Marechal (25), Nigel Thomson (75), Ernest Willcox (100), Keith W. Brown (100).

The monthly magazine "Cycle Touring" for September had a reference on one of its pages about the bells of Inveraray, their combined weight and height of the tower, etc. The bells, it said, have a superb tone.

Mr. James Burton, of Hartlepool, Durham, found an interesting article printed in a trade journal, "V-belt," about the Whitechapel Bellfoundry, which he photocopied and sent to us. Entitled "The Bells of Whitechapel," it was illustrated by old and modern pictures and gave an excellent write-up on the history, the traditions and the present-day workings of the Foundry.

and modern pictures and gave an excellent write-up on the history, the traditions and the present-day workings of the Foundry.

Good work is being done at Bloxham, Oxon. In a quarter of Bob Minor on August 15 there were five first quarters and one first as conductor. On October 18 a quarter of Bob Triples was successfully assailed, with two first quarters and two firsts of Triples. Ringing in the latter was Miss Pamela Warren, of Merrow, Guildford, who will be remembered by ringers at Melbourne, Victoria.

In 1953 the church at Frocester, Glos,

In 1953 the church at Frocester, Glos, was demolished, and its six bells hung in the church of the neighbouring village of Eastington. Until then there had been only two peals rung on them—in 1914 and 1918. The peal on October 21 was the first on the bells in their new home—and the first since

To commemorate the birthday of Mr. Lionel Jones, the popular tower captain of Usk, Monmouthshire, Mr. Donald Clift arranged a peal in a musical new method to which the band gave an appropriate name.

CHURCH ARTS AND MUSIC

In the series of services, Church Arts and Music, a ringers' service was held in St. Mary's, Dover, on October 18, at Evensong. Tower bells were rung before the service by the local band with some visiting ringers and the lesson was read by the local captain (Mr. G. F. Gray). In place of an anthem a plain course of Grandsire Triples on handbells was rung at the chancel steps. The talk by the vicar (Rev. E. Roberts) on bells and their place in the church and secular life was preceded with hymn tunes rung on handbells, and a further selection at the conclusion. During the singing of the ringers' hymn a collection was taken by members of the local band.

All were invited to the parish hall for coffee and an exhibition of bell ringing in various forms. The display had a section of local interest, photos and Press cuttings of the ringers and friends. There were displays dealing with handbells and their music, method work for tower bells, information on casting and belfry maintenance; also a large collection of general interest books and features included The Ringing World, and a table showing the link between local towers and the Kent County Association. Handbell ringing provided a pleasant background for all to look at the exhibits and to talk with the ringers.

I confess freely to you, I could never look long upon a monkey, without very mortifying reflections.

LETTERS

for publication should be signed and address of sender appended. If not for publication kindly put "Not for publication" at the head of the letter. We do not guarantee to print all of or any letter received.

ST. BOTOLPH-WITHOUT-ALDGATE

Dear Sir,-For many years the bells of this famous church were in a near-derelict condition. Some five or six years ago funds became unexpectedly available and the rector (Rev. Derek Harbord) indicated that if the bells could be rung at least two Sundays a month before the 10.30 a.m. Sung Eucharist he would have them rehung for ringing rather than have them hung dead or left as they were.

The sixth was recast and the eight bells were hung in a new metal frame considerably lower in the very tall red-brick tower capped by a heavy stone-dressed spire. There is still a great deal of tower movement and experienced ringers are needed to ring the bells well.

After the work to the bells was completed but before they were rededicated there was a disastrous fire in the church as the result of suspected arson, and the rededication was delayed until considerable rebuilding, refurbishing and decoration of the church had been completed.

I am frequently asked by various bands of ringers to obtain permission for outing parties to visit the church on Saturdays, but usually I have to refuse, as the church is securely locked from Friday evening until Sunday morning and the church staff take a well-deserved day off on Saturdays. Welldeserved, because the church is a wellknown centre for social work for down-and-outs, and the full-time staff are sup-ported by voluntary workers of many different faiths—and none. The church also has outstanding relationships with the large local Jewish community and is supported by the Alderman of the Aldgate Ward, Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen, and other prominent city business men.

LUNCH HOUR SERVICES

The church is made available for lunchhour services, both Church of England and other denominations. There is a very fine organ and Mr. Harold Dexter, the distinguished organist, arranges recitals and other outstanding musical events each Tuesday lunch-time. Older ringers will know of Mr. Dexter as the son of the late Frederick H. Dexter, of Leicester, the famous ringer and composer.

I realise the disappointment to ringers who are denied the opportunity of outing visits, but obviously, living at a distance. I cannot as a rule arrange to be in London on Saturdays. Having had one serious fire. the rector is understandably strict about security and requires me to attend personally when the verger is not on duty.

I thought your readers might be interested in these few notes about the church. but the main purpose of this letter is to issue, through the courtesy of your columns, a very cordial invitation to bands of ringers to undertake the Sunday ringing on a Sunday of their choice. The Cumberland Youths have for several years taken a band on the second Sunday of each month, and I usually take a band on the first Sunday. I shall be very pleased to hear from any of your readers who would care to ring with us on these occasions, but more particu-larly would be glad of bands to ring on other Sundays, either on a single occasion or to a regular pattern.

STINCHCOMBE BELLS

Dear Sir,-The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association is pleased to inform you that a successful conclusion to the over Stinchcombe bells has controversy been reached.

As a result of discussion between our association and Stinchcombe P.C.C., under the chairmanship of the Ven. Walter T. Wardle (Archdeacon of Gloucester), the Chancellor of the Diocese of Gloucester issued the following Order by Consent:-

"Having heard all parties in open Court on the 19th day of November, 1969, and having considered further representations made by the parties IT IS HEREBY OR-DERED that an amended petition for a Faculty be granted in the following terms:—

To rehang the bells in Stinchcombe Church in the Diocese of Gloucester for manual ringing plus electrical chiming and to recast the cracked tenor bell as a treble making a lighter ring; also the present third to be recast half a note

A Faculty in these terms was Granted on October 9, 1970. The work is being entrusted to the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, and members of the association are re-moving the old frame. It is hoped that the work will be completed within 12 months.

The association officers wish to thank all those who generously supported our Special Appeal Fund which has now topped £400, of which approximately £150 has been donated from outside the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

The entire fund will be given to Stinchcombe P.C.C.'s Bell Fund on the satisfactory completion of the work. All administrative costs are being borne by the Gloucester and Bristol Association.-Yours faith-

> CHARLES ROUSE, Hon. Secretary.

Churchdown, Gloucester.

I sometimes think it is regarded as almost heretical that ringers should consider attending a church service, but St. Botolph's has a struggling congregation of some 30 or 40 people, preponderantly immigrants, who are greatly encouraged by any addition to their numbers. The rector is very per-plexed that all Sunday ringers appear to have fulfilled their weekly duty to attend divine service before going to St. Botolph's to ring, or apparently intend to do so after-I fight a losing battle in trying to convince him that at least some ringers do attend church services, if only occasionally!

A nice itinerary for a Sunday visit might perhaps be: Ring at St. Botolph's 9.30 a.m. -10.30 a.m. Attend the service and join the congregation for coffee afterwards at the back of the church. Have a drink at The Bell near St. Paul's when the pubs open at 12. Lunch at Lyons Corner House. Charing Cross. Hear the afternoon ringing at St. Paul's or apply to Teddy Barnett for permission to do the afternoon service ringing at St. Clement Danes'. See the sights of London and ring for Evensong at a church on the way home.

A last word-any affluent readers who have old clothes for giving away could send them along to St. Botolph's for the downand-outs.

I hope I shall now be inundated with requests for dates for Sunday ringing! — Yours faithfully, P. A. CORBY

EXECUTIONS AT NEWGATE

Dear Sir,—Indeed the inventor of the guillotine (Ringing World, page 822) was not the first to be executed on it; nor was Mr. Marwood, Public Executioner at Newgate from 1874, the first to try the efficiency of the "long drop" system of hanging!

I use this to ask if any older ringers can exactly what the procedure was with bell-tolling for executions at Newgate. posite the site stands the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the condition of whose ten bells is a reproach to the custodians of this fine building. The church authorities claim that the 311 cwt. tenor was used as the execution bell; others claim the 9th; whilst in the church is a handbell and a card with a lugubrious rhyme, traditionally shouted outside the condemned cell (with appropriate handbell noises) ending:

"And when St. Sepulchre's bell in the morning tolls,

The Lord have mercy upon your souls."

Yet at Madame Tussaud's is a bell of quite fair size, from Whitechapel, saying:

"Ye people all who hear me ring, Be faithful to your God and King."

It is claimed that this was in fact the bell used to announce public (and, after 1868, private) executions. On the demolition of the prison it was acquired by the Tussaud authorities and is now hung outside the Chamber of Horrors.

Are the St. Sepulchre's authorities cor-Are the St. Sepurine's authorities correct in claiming that it was "St. Sepulchre's bell in the morning"? If so, which bell? And what was the function of the Newgate bell?—Yours faithfully,

DAVID L. CAWLEY.

DESIGN WANTED

Dear Sir,-Through The Ringing World someone may be able to help make a good decision on a suitable design for a ringing gallery at Kingsbury, Warwickshire.

We now have a glorious new ring of eight (Ringing World, June 27, 1969).

A new clock is to be installed any time now and our next job is to make the base of the tower a choir vestry and ringing gallery above.

If any member of a tower thinks that their design of panelling, and glazing above with means of ventilation, to be the ideal for a simple Gothic arch, I would be pleased if they would let me know.

Local counties I would be prepared to travel, but further away a photograph or sketch would be much appreciated.—Yours faithfully,

G. H. LANE.

7 West Avenue, Castle Bromwich, Birmingham 33.

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER

Dear Sir, - There is one slight error in your article on St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich (R.W., page 850). It says the brothers G. and W. Pye were in the first peal of Superlative Maximus. This is not so; it was rung by an entire band of local Sunday service ringers. The brothers Pye did, however, come a few months later with C. T. Coles and C. W. Roberts and rang one.—Yours faithfully.

CHAS. J. SEDGLEY.

Ipswich, Suffolk.

SUFFOLK GUILD PEAL WEEK

The object of our Peal Week is to move around to as many of the lesser known towers in the diocese as possible and also to encourage potential first-pealers and "first as conductor."

The 1970 Week produced 21 peals in 20 different towers in a variety of Doubles, Minor and Major methods. Four people scored their first peal (well done!), whilst of the 13 different conductors two managed their first.

Perhaps in 1971 we shall be able to clear Canon Felstead's list of ringable towers in Suffolk, which has yet to record a 5,000 on them.

Our thanks to the incumbents for their G. W. P. co-operation.

(R.W., September 28, 1945)

"March 24, 1843. On Tuesday the Shef-field St. Peter's Company of Change Ringers ascended the steeple and rang 5600 of Hudson's New Light on Treble Bob Major in the time of 3 hours and 46 minutes, being the first in that method ever rung by any company of campanologists. The band was stationed as follows: Wm. Hudson (sen) 1, Thomas Whaley 2, Isaac Lomas 3, Geo. Hudson 4, John Lomas (jun:) 5, Thomas Crossland 6, James Firth 7, Wm. Hudson 6 (jun.) tenor. In the above method of ringing treble bob the plain course contains 800 changes, and the peal was rung with only bobs. Composed and conducted by Mr. Wm. SUFFOLK AND NORFOLK VETERANS

The seventh annual get-together of the veterans took place this year on October 7 at Debenham (Where better, they said!) And what a delight to see them all again, listen to their ringing and the yarning afterwards. A good-looking crowd, too, for only 1,206 years at over 80 apiece!

The ground-floor ring of excellent bells sounded well over the pretty village, and to quote the 19th century peal boards, Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob were rung "in masterly style." At one stage we had Ernie Ambrose (92) and George Symonds (95) ringing together, and the stories those lads know would fill The Ringing World.

Anglia TV filmed them in "Look East." ("Ah!" said Ernie Whiting, "providing we don't go West.")

Tea was enjoyed at The Angel and good wishes sent to Charles Sedgley, Ted Jenkins and Lester Gray. Another memorable afternoon, and God bless 'em.

Leicester Diocesan Guild.

ST. MARGARET'S ON TOP

The annual striking competition was held on October 3 at Countesthorpe, following a meeting of the Leicester District. Six bands took part and St. Margaret's, Leicester, were adjudged the winners.

The competition was judged by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish, Mr. Len Trevor, of Chilvers Coton, and Mr. Frank Reynolds, general secretary, Lancashire Association. In his remarks, Mr. Beamish commented on the very high standard of ringing in general, and said that the ringing had been very good. Faults had been difficult to discern in the performances of the higher placed bands, and had occurred mainly in leading. Mr. Beamish then announced the results: St. Margaret's, Leicester (18\frac{1}{2}\) faults), Earl Shilton (20), Sapcote (40), Countesthorpe (50), All Saints', Leicester (99), and Thurnby, who, unfortunately, broke down, but until then had been ringing extremely well.

Mr. Beamish said that it had been a great pleasure to adjudicate and Mrs. Beamish then presented the shield to Mr. John Jelley, captain of St. Margaret's band, and congratulated the band.

The guild secretary writes: "I would like to thank the bands for taking part in the competition, and on behalf of the guild to congratulate the ringers on the very high standard. I hope these six bands have set an example for others in the guild (and there are many capable) to come next year and make an even greater competition. It provides an opportunity not only for each band to try to show itself better than the next, but to demonstrate the level of enthusiasm and high standard of ringing that exists in the guild today.

I would also like to tender the very sincere thanks of the Leicester Guild to the judges, who gave their time and travelled a long way to help us.

RANDWICK FESTIVAL, 1970

"Randwick" deserted its usual setting this year for an equally delightful one, namely, the Severn Vale Secondary School, Quedgeley, Glos, This year's organiser, Mr. Richard Page, and his helpers must be considered very fortunate to have managed this change of venue so well and for having picked a fine day, so that tea could be taken outside if one so wished.

It was nice to see so many youngsters taking part, all performing quite admirably, with little help from hard-working tutors. The young band from Bredon (under J. Pullin), Whitminster School (D. Berry), Stone with Woodford (R. W. Hayes) with their wonderful "lapping," Longford School (B. James) with their very nice bells, and the 1st Castlefields Girl Guides (W. Gibbard) all came into this category.

The band of experts from Charnwood (J. Bowley) come next to mind. What can one say of such ringing?—except "More, please." The operators of the very large bells were a joy to watch; the timing was excellent and their whole performance fully justified the hours of practice which must have been put in. Their "Palais Glide" still rings in the memory!

The Black Country Ringers (Miss M. Tromans) come next. Real expertise here: good top bells, not too heavy harmony with beautiful timing. Weston-super-Mare must also be mentioned. Their "Gavotte" and "Caller Herrin" were well worth hearing. The Bisley Ringers (Mrs. C. E. Abbey) were pléasant to listen to but would have been better without the tape-recorded piano, which did not add a thing to their performance. Mr. Page's own band from Hardwicke showed good harmonies

Having picked out those who impressed and apologising for not having mentioned every band and leader by name, we now give a few remarks about the ringing in

lot to be desired. Timing is very important. It is all too easy not to keep the currect number of beats for the notes at the end of the lines but to rush on with the next line. Many tunes were spoiled this way. Again, when there is a "quick bit" to ring. ring it quickly: don't slow up-everybody is singing it in their mind with you, so keep the correct beat going. When you are harmonising, strike your "tune" note and harmonies together, otherwise the piece becomes ragged and unrecognisable. Do not over-harmonise as this also makes the music hard to recognise if it becomes "every-note-a-heavy-chord." The tune is often swallowed up in the blast of lower bells. All these examples were evident at Quedgeley, and listening to it on tape seems to have made them sound worse. This is intended only as constructive criticism.

Finally, thanks everyone for a good afternoon and evening's entertainment, which was a very agreeable landmark in our lives. A word of praise to a very pleasant announcer. Mr. Frank Barnett, who bore patiently with all our shortcomings, such as not being ready when he called on us, and who made us all feel so welcome. Then there are the people who laid on the teasmuch hard work was put in here.

Haworth also took part with the College Youths in the first peal on the bells at Marlow, Bucks, on Whit Monday, June 14, 1843—again Grandsire Triples. Of this peal and the one they rang next day at Wooburn, Haworth writes: "On Whit Sunday, June 13th, 1843, eight Members of the College Youths Society went to Marlow, Buckinghamshire, and rang a good peal of Grandsire Triples on the Monday following, being the first peal on the bells.

"On the Tuesday following, seven Members of the above Society and one of the St. James's Society rang a peal of Grand-St. James's Society rang a pear of Changer Triples at Wooburn, about 5 miles from Marlow; it was a St. James's peal. The church is about five hundred years old, and it was said that the peal was the first rung on the bells. After ringing the peal and having refreshments at the Bell Inn, we set off for Maidenhead, and passed through Cookham, where we stopped and rang an 120 on the bells of that church. We arrived at Maidenhead at about half-past eight on Tuesday night and got into the train for London, where we arrived about ten o'clock."

Next month, Haworth had another interesting outing, this time into Kent.

"On Sunday, July 31st, 1843, some members of the Society of College Youths started for Leeds in Kent, and went as far as the Maidstone Road Station by the Brighton Railway, which is 46 miles from London. From that place it is eleven miles to Maidstone, and we had to walk six miles before we could get any conveyance. We got to Maidstone and there met with Mr. Pooley, the host who was to provide us with necessaries at Leeds—with a van, which took us to our destination. There we had a good dinner, which made amends for our fatigues. and soon after we ascended the tower to try that peal which brought us to Leeds, which was Kent Treble Ten In We rung 4,000 and got into trouble and were obliged to set our bells. We came down; after a certain time we retired to bed.

"Three of us, Tolladay, Stockham and Haworth, were to go to London to be at St. Martin's, on account of the Queen going to open the National Gallery at 12 o'clock on Monday. We had to be up at 5, to get to Headcorn at 7, which we did with quick walking; at Headcorn we got into the train and was soon on our road to London, which was 56 miles distant. We arrived there between ten and eleven and set off immediately for St. Martin's, where we arrived in time for ringing." From Sunday rived in time for ringing." From Sunday morning at 10, Tolladay, Stockham and Haworth had travelled 102 miles by Railway,

GRANDSIRE, STEDMAN AND KENT

In those days almost the only methods ever rung to peals were Grandsire, Stedman and Kent (which had recently superseded Oxford), and Haworth's peals were nearly all in these three methods, so I propose only to comment on the peals in which he took part which were of particular interest. One James's Society on January 3, 1844. at St. Clement Danes', Grandsire Triples, in memory of Thomas Tolladay, who had been such a mainstay of the St. James's Society, the Junior College Youths and, later, the Ancient Society of College Youths. Another was a visit to Hythe, Kent, on Monday, July 28, 1845, at the invitation of Mr. John Friend, a notable ringer of that town. The College Youths rang 5,024 Kent Treble Bob Major, conducted by Friend from the tenor, with Haworth on the sixth, and, according to the College Youths' peal book, "The Peal was heard by several of the oldest and best Composers and Ringers in the above County who pronounced it to be the most superior performance they ever heard on 8 bells."

On January 27, 1846, the College Youths rang the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus in London, at St. Saviour's, Southwark. Haworth rang the seventh to this peal, which took 4 hours and 21 minutes. He also rang his first peal of Stedman Cinques on the same bell in December, 1849. On August 19, 1850, he went with a band of College Youths to Windsor. Before ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. John's Church they rang a touch of Grandsire on the eight in the Julius Cæsar tower

At this time there was rivalry among the leading twelve-bell companies in England to obtain the record length of Stedman Cinques. The Birmingham men had rung 7,392 changes in 1848, and on Monday, January 6, 1851, this was beaten by a peal of 7,524 changes rung by the College Youths at Cripplegate in 5 hours and 24 Haworth rang the seventh in this peal, which was composed and conducted by John Cox. Next year, on Monday, April 5, 1852, Haworth took part in another long peal, 7,127 Grandsire Caters, rung by the St. James's Society at St. Clement Danes'. In this peal Haworth rang the ninth.

NEW BELLS OPENED

On May 24, 1855, Haworth went with a band of College Youths to open the new bells at St. Gabriel's, Pimlico, where they "rang various touches during the day. Ringing during the day conducted by Mr. Haworth." Earlier that year, on February 24, Haworth called his first peal (which was his 44th)—Grandsire Major at St. Giles-in-the-Fields. In 1857 Haworth was on a visit to Lancashire-perhaps staying with his relations who lived in those parts. He called a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Chad's, Rochdale, on July 11.
Meanwhile the Painswick band had gained the Stedman Cinques record with a peal of 8,448 changes, which the College Youths attempted to beat on Easter Monday, April 5, 1858. They went for a peal of 8,551 changes at St. Saviour's, Southwark (Haworth was, as usual, on the seventh), "but after ringing 6 hours 10 minutes, the person bringing the candles caused the party to get out. Nearly 8,000 was rung.

In that same year, between May 23 and October, Haworth travelled extensively in England, Scotland and Ireland—for what purpose is not clear, though he seems to have been on holiday. Attached to the front cover of the book is a sheet of paper showing "J. R. Haworth's travels by walking, steamboat and railway, in England, Scotland and Ireland." Briefly, he went from London to Leith by steamboat, stopping at Newcastle on the way, walked from Edinburgh to Glasgow, went across to Londonderry by boat, then set off on a walking tour to Belfast, Dublin, Cork and back to Dublin-a total of 528 miles. From Dublin he returned to Liverpool by boat, and eventually, after visiting several places in Lancashire, returned by rail to London.

The next peal of interest (No. 53 in Haworth's book) is described in a newspaper cutting as follows: "On Saturday the 17th December, 1859, six members of the St. Clement Danes Harmonic Society of Change-Ringers rang at Mr. Houghton's, the Punch Bowl, Carey Street, a fine peal of Grandsire Cinques, consisting of 5,037 changes, in three hours and twenty-five minutes." This peal was called by Haworth, who was ringing 1-2.

On Saturday, April 27, 1861, the College Youths succeeded in scoring the record peal of 8,580 Stedman Cinques at St. Michael's, Cornhill. James Dwight, in his well-known song about the peal, said:

"Robert Haworth rang the seventh, And well he played his part:

He has rung so many peals you'd think He knew them all by heart.'

In fact this was Haworth's 58th peal. Two years later, December 19, 1863, the College Youths rang a peal of Stedman Caters on the bells of St. Mary-le-Bow, the tenor of which weighed 53 cwt.. This was the first peal on the bells for 23 years, and, according to a newspaper cutting, "will reflect great honour upon the performers, considering the great weight of metal and the beautiful striking from beginning to In this peal Haworth rang the fifth.

ST. STEPHEN'S, CARLISLE

In 1865 Haworth took part in another opening of a new ring of bells—this time at St. Stephen's, Carlisle. Of this visit, St. Stephen's, Carlisle. Of this visit, Haworth wrote: "On Tuesday morning, May 30, 1865, eight members of the College Youths went by the North-Western railway to Carlisle, Cumberland, to open a peal of bells in the tower of St. Stephen's Church, built at the sole cost of Miss Burdett Coutts, who kindly paid their expenses. They rang Holt's Long Course Peal of Grandsire Triples, 5,040 changes, on Wednesday morn-ing, in 2 hours 58 minutes, and returned to London on Thursday morning, highly pleased with the journey. They also rang a course of Grandsire Cinques on the handbells, in the presence of Miss Burdett Coutts at the County Hotel, who afterwards liberally ordered refreshments for them." The peal was claimed as the first in the County of Cumberland.

On December 27 of that year the same band rang the same peal on the newly-restored bells of St. Mary's, Whitechapel. This band—Shury, Haley, Jameson, Cooter, Ferris, Haworth, Wood and Dwight—met a third time for opening a new ring of bells in the following year.

"College Youths at Leith, Edinburgh, Scotland. On Friday evening, Dec. 7th, 1866, at 9.15, from the Great Northern Railway, King's Cross, eight members of the above Society started to open a new peal of eight bells at St. James's Church, Leith. They travelled all night and arrived at Edinburgh at 8.30 in the morning—400 miles—the longest distance from London that a peal of bells has been opened by London The railway fare was £26 They returned on the Sunday evening following, having travelled 800 miles. ringers were received by Mr. Jackson, the clergyman, at the Parsonage, in a kind manner; and after refreshment several touches and firing were performed on the bells, much to the gratification of an attentive audience. In the afternoon the handbells were rung in Mr. Jackson's house before some of the principal ladies and gentlemen of the neighbourhood."

NOT THE FIRST

Dear Sir,-Mr. Trevor Bevis is several years out in his claim for the 1956 peal at March as the first for the Ely Association by a purely local band.

A peal of Plain Bob was rung at All Saints', Hartford, Huntingdon, in May, 1932, by the local band at Hartford, trained by the late John Smart. It was the first peal on the bells (and the only one—they are now unringable). It was Mr. Smart's first as conductor, and it was the first peal for the other five members of the band.-Yours faithfully,

E. PANNELL.

Darlington.

Obituary.

ALAN R. BRIDGES
It was with deep regret that Alan's friends learned of his death on Tuesday, October 27. He had not enjoyed good health for a number of years, but he rarely allowed illness to keep him from the belfry for more than a few weeks at a time before reappearing at practices and meetings and in the occasional peal. Alan had held office at district level in the Suffolk Guild and was report editor for the last two years. Our heartfelt sympathy is ex-tended to his wife and daughters at this time.

MASTER WEDS

The master of the St. Albans Cathedral Society of Change Ringers, Mr. Gerald Penney, and one of the members, Miss Janet Lesley Pearson, were married on October 10 at St. Albans Cathedral. During the service, which was conducted by the Sub-Dean (Canon P. J. Pasterfield), a touch of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung in

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a full-length dress of embroidered satin with a lace train and a short headdress edged with matching lace. carried a bouquet of orchids, white and yellow roses, lilies of the valley and stephanotis. She was attended by Miss Diane Richards, Miss Lesley Ewer and Miss Caroline Pearson, whilst Gerald had Mr.

Eric Edmondson as best man.
Gerald and Janet are the fourth couple (and the 11th and 12th members of the society) to be married in the past few years.

After the reception, the couple left in a highly decorated car for a honeymoon in Jersey, stopping for a short while to hear the start of the successful peal of Stedman Cinques at the Abbey rung by friends and members of the society.

PRESENTATION

At a recent joint meeting of the Elloe Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Guild and the Lincoln Branch of the Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Gray, vice-president of the latter, presented Mrs. Richardson with an Astro lamp and a brooch, as a token of regard and appreciation of her 43 years' service as hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild (Lincolnshire

Mrs. Richardson, obviously very moved, expressed appreciation of the gifts and said she had enjoyed working for the branch.

St. Botolph, Northfleet, Kent

By BARBARA I. WILKINSON

(With acknowledgments to the Rev. S. H. Cooke's A History of Northfleet and its Parish Church.)

THE PARISH CHURCH of St. Botolph, Northfleet, in Kent, stands surrounded chalk pits and overlooking the river, in the middle of the cement and paper industry of the Thames estuary. It may be easier to locate the town, known as Norfluet in the Domesday Book, if one mentions neighbouring Gravesend, and the town and docks of Tilbury across the river.

Parts of the Saxon church at Northfleet remain, as do two pillars of the Norman period, but the main structure was built between 1350 and 1370. Northfleet was a rich living, the Archbishop of Canterbury being Lord of the Manor, and some of the 14th century Popes made attempts to obtain it for their favourites. For two centuries the English Crown and the Popes were rivals for Northfleet's riches, and the high-ranking ecclesiastics who were appointed to the living are evidence of its importance. One, Peter de Lacy, who was rector from 1356 to 1375, was secretary to the Black Prince, and, in 1370, Keeper of the Privy Seal. His full-length brass in the chancel is well known to brass-rubbers. The battle for Northfleet was finally won by the Crown, for by 1538 the Archbishop of Canterbury was Thomas Cranmer, and the King was Henry VIII. Henry's views on the riches of the Church, and his consequent confiscation of what he could lay his hands on, are well known, and Cranmer presumably felt it more politic to give some of his possessions away in the hope of keeping the rest. In 1538 he therefore granted to the King his manors of Otford, Bexley, Northfleet, Maidstone and Knole. Since that time the living has remained a vicarage in the cift of the Crown in the gift of the Crown.

Dating from the 14th century, the church contains an old wooden parish chest, which may well be the "chest bound with iron" bequeathed by William Lye to the church 1391. Across the chancel from the Peter de Lacy brass are those of William Lye, and Sir William Rikhill and his wife Katherine, all now, sadly, only half-figures. Also dating from this period is the oak rood screen, thought to be the oldest screen of this date in situ in Kent. On the east side of the screen, above the chancel steps, are carved small heads of our Lord and the Apostles, cherub faces, oak and vine leaves and a church mouse. The Puritans took exception to the carvings of our Lord and the Apostles, and the details of the faces have been chiselled away.

Northfleet suffered towards the end of the 18th century, as did many churches, from absentee vicars. The church was neglected, and by the mid-1800's substantial restoration was necessary. Although the Victorians left their mark, Northfleet did not suffer too much from their zeal, and the stained glass especially is an example of some of their better work. In the present century successive vicars and church councils have dealt with the ravages of damp, which is a continuous problem. And there have been two attacks of death watch beetle and woodworm in the space of 25 years. Recently the churchyard was laid out local great authority the as an open ent; and 1965 space—a improvement; and saw the completion, in the churchyard, of a new building containing vestries, and a hall with kitchen facilities, and connected to the church through what used to be an old priest's door. This has fulfilled a long-felt need within the parish.

THE TOWER AND BELLS

In 1180 the Normans built a massive squat tower, resting on the two large pillars still to be seen at the west end of the church. It fell in 1628 and was left in ruin for nearly a century. Then its north side was converted into a staircase leading to the bells, and the present tower built in 1717 inside the old one, a good deal of the old materials being used. Although 68 feet high, it is too small in proportion to the large church, but presumably the chief object was to house the bells. The present oak frame is almost certainly the "new" one of 1717/8, but there would have been bells before this date, and there are earlier references to them. One is in the will of Edward Horden in 1538, who left "to viii men that shall ring at my burial ii s viii d"; and in 1532 John Branston left 40s. for the making of a bell for this church.

On a sheet of oilcloth kept in the tower it is recorded that for the 16 years from 1902 to 1918 there was no ringing because of the unsafe condition of the bells and frame. In a letter of 1904, Mears and Stainbank reported that "... The framework is wedged to the tower walls in all directions, and two girders have been fitted underneath to strengthen it. The joints are weak, but by fitting iron angle plates to them would make the frame serviceable for many years longer." But not until 1918 was the frame strengthened and the then six bells put into temporary ringing order. Between 1918 and 1920 nine 720's of Bob Minor were rung, including one half-muffled after the 1919 War Memorial service, and another, also half-muffled, during the service in Northfleet Cemetery at the unveiling of the War Memorial stone in March, 1920.

The oilcloth further records that in 1920 the old six bells were quarter turned, fitted with new headstocks and bearings, frame strengthened, and two new trebles added to make a ring of eight. This work was done by Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, who fixed a peculiar type of crown-staple over the old cast-in staples securing the bells to their girder headstocks. These have proved inefficient and the clappers are now loose. In the 50 years (since 1920) Northfleet's anticlockwise bells have been rung continuously, apart from the war years, and 113 full peals recorded. In 1923 a peal of Northfleet Little Bob was rung for the first and only We have recently been trying to find full details of this method, so far with no success, in order that it may be rung again.

RESTORATION

A chance opportunity this year of having the tower inspected by one of the foun-dries resulted in a surprising report. report. Ringers throughout Kent were firmly convinced nothing would be found wrong at Northfleet because of the careful maintenance of the fittings over many years. We were all surprised when told that there were many fittings in need of replacement, and that the gudgeons and bearings are badly worn and could result in the fall of a bell at any time. We were perhaps not so surprised to hear that the old oak frame now seems to have reached the end of its life. It rocks backwards and forwards, and also dips up and down to some extent, but it has served Northfleet's bells since 1718 and survived two known attacks of woodworm, so we cannot begrudge it honourable retirement.

To many of the inhabitants of Northfleet it is unthinkable that the bells should be silenced, and because of this the Church Council launched an appeal in August, on the 50th anniversary of the 1920 restoration, for £4,500. This will allow all necessary replacement of fittings and the installation of a new cast iron frame. It will also allow for the recasting of the eight bells and the addition of two new trebles. We naturally hope that all the proposed restoration work may be completed, but if not, as much as possible will be done. Any donations for this work will be most gratefully acknowledged by the hon. treasurer of the Northfleet Bell Restoration Fund, Mr. F. E. Martin, 4 Dover Road, Northfleet, Kent.

FOUNDED AS A SECULAR SOCIETY

ANCIENT SOCIETY'S 333rd ANNIVERSARY DINNER

"This society was founded as a completely secular society of ringers and as an institution is very nearly as old as the Church of England itself. It was formed with no stated objective, therefore the people who formed it were very sure of the value of it: and still today it has no stated objectives, and still today we are sure of the value of our society. That value is in the area of high standards, not only of ringing per se, but also of responsibility regarding our relationship with the Church and the world at large."

So stated Mr. A. R. Kench, master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, on November 7th, when he was proposing the toast to The Church, the occasion being the 333rd Anniversary Dinner of the Society, held at Walbrook Restaurant, E.C.4.

The master continued: "The society has changed over the years; the 20th century has imposed a rapidly changing environment of communications, of general level of education and in the variety of interests and warm reception of it. He endorsed the four points made. He had not been a ringer himself, although he had been as-sociated with bells for 40 years. Because of the condition of the tower where he first served, the bells were only chimed, separate hammers being attached to ropes over pul-leys. Although it was many years since he had ever thought about those early days, he could still remember the sequence of numbers. The Dean proceeded to quote line people pursue, and a higher general level of awareness of a much wider spectrum of We believe the society has kept pace pretty well and has survived as a flourishing institution in an age when many institutions are crumbling."

The speaker then detailed the ways in which the society had countered the outside challenges to its survival and instanced a parallel development in London and of the difficulties experienced in getting bands of ringers to the City at short notice. He then spoke of the relationship with the Church, and interpreted the situation today in four ways:

1. We ask the Church to appreciate the art form of change ringing as having a value in itself, to be worth preserving.

2. We recognise the debt we owe to the Church in helping to preserve and foster it, and wish to express our gratitude.

3. We as a society dedicate the best services of our art to the purposes of the Church as far as we are reasonably able.

4. We offer ourselves as a responsible and flourishing institution in the City of London, dedicated to a high standard of ringing, and committed to a responsible attitude towards the use of the bells.

Mr. Kench enlarged upon each point made and then invited the company to rise and drink the toast, to which was coupled the name of the Very Rev. M. G. Sullivan (Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral).

Replying, the Dean thanked the master for the admirable way he had proposed the toast and the company for the generous after line of changes and tunes to the amusement and appreciation of his audience. He quipped "In America they would give me a Ph.D. for that."

The mathematical precision of the ringers' changes were ever a source of admiration to him, the Dean continued, and he thanked them all for their important contribution made. There were two ways, he thought, that would impress sinners: (1) for the organist to ignore the music and make use of all the organ pipes (and there were one or two organists around who did just that) and (2) to let bellringers loose to ring whenever they wanted to! (Laughter.)

VALUE OF THE RINGING WORLD

In similar vein the speaker held his audience with easy and lively expressions, his New Zealand accent assisting greatly in every way. He told several amusing stories and also spoke of the communicable value of The Ringing World. It expressed the real vitality of the Exercise and was read all over the world. One of his friends who is a ringer in Christ Church, New Zealand, had a triumphant tour of England and found exercise approach to a provide the control of the control of the service of the control of the cont found amazing generosity and hospitality because of The Ringing World. It was an encouragement and would help to ensure continuation of its publication.

Rising amidst applause to propose the toast to the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. John Freeman, president of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, proceeded to generate peals of laughter with an apparently endless fund of after-dinner stories. His gift of being able to turn a chance remark into an amusing incident is well known and appreciated by those who have been priviled to hear him. those who have been privileged to hear him speak on other occasions.

Having entertained his audience, Mr. Freeman then spoke of the pomp and ceremonies practised by the Ancient Society over the generations of its existence and of the continual looking back to the past. "But this is the space age," he said. "We are continually reminded of the happenings of the past are continually this present age and that space is the lost this present age, and that space is the last frontier. Even in ringing circles this has happened, for voices were raised in 1969 about the Central Council, and these suggested that the constitution should be more dynamic to meet the demands of the space age. This had been discussed at Ilkley this year and the Council are endeavouring to be more in touch with the requirements of COLLEGE YOUTHS' DINNER—Contd. ringers and their everyday needs." Many associations, too, had taken action in this matter, and amidst all this the Ancient Society pursued its leisurely way, holding monthly meetings and practices, its annual dinner and summer festival. The three courses of Stedman Cinques were rung at St. Paul's every Sunday morning and after-noon and the bells were rung at Westminster Abbey.

Some might ask, said Mr. Freeman, what useful purpose did this society serve in this day and age. He invited his hearers to contemplate the future—the master of the society 200 years hence. The picture might be of everyone housed in large buildings with every facility in it, furniture designed scientifically, with meals in tabloid form, somewhat different from the meal enjoyed that evening. Altogether it appeared by present day standards to be a pretty drab existence. Everything would be functional and highly efficient but lacking in some of the things that made life worth living.

THE BLUE LINE

Mr. Freeman spoke of compositions recently appearing in The Ringing World and marked "computer proved," and of the differing ways of ringing handbells. He was one who, whilst he rang, was mentally following the blue line, but the modern method was by place notations, which no doubt was easier and very efficient. He (the speaker) questioned, however, the pleasure from this method compared with meandering leisurely along the blue line of the old

Maybe the computer had taken over in some cases, but it would be advisable before letting it take over completely to calculate carefully the future on a backcloth of the past which had contributed so much to our enjoyment. If this was done there would be a balance which would mean that the society had carried out its function in life. Mr. Freeman said that if the College Youths' master of 200 years hence looked back he would find that Anthony Kench was a capable master and that Jim Prior was an excellent and efficient secretary. It was a great privilege and pleasure to propose the toast to the Ancient Society. (To be continued.)

PERCY CLAUDE ARTIS

Percy Artis was a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association for 76 years. though few living today can claim to have rung with him.

Elected a member in 1894, he rang his first peal on December 1 that same year at Fressingfield. This was one of Oxford Treble Bob Major, conducted by Alfred W. Brighton. His 20th and last was also of Oxford at St. Michael-at-Coslany, Norwich, on March 7, 1922, conducted by George H. Cross.

Mr. Artis was attached to the St. Michael-at-Coslany company during this period and was also admitted a member of the St. Peter Mancroft Ringers' Benefit Society in 1899. He remained a member until the breaking up of the society in 1923. Shortly after this, Mr. Artis ceased to take an active part in ringing.

Throughout his long life of 94 years Mr. Artis was fortunate in enjoying excellent physical and mental health. He died suddenly on Sunday, October 25, near his home in Norwich, on the way to catch a bus to visit relatives. His wife predeceased him by 51 years.

Southwell Guild FIVE FOR THE POT

History was made in Ordsall Parish Church, Retford, on October 14. In the beautiful setting of the previous Sunday's harvest decorations, and by kind permission of the rector (Rev. W. A. Williams), bands of ringers from five local churches met to compete against each other-not for a silver cup but for a silver pot—a teapot!

It all began when, at the last annual general meeting of the Southwell Guild each district was asked to produce something new to mark next year's silver jubilee (the 25th anniversary of the guild).

The North Notts District, centred at Retford, the home for the "Crawford" cup diocesan competition and the more open and national "Oswy Street" cup competition, was at a loss to know what more it could do. However, as these two compe-titions were for the experienced bands of ringers, with their polished performances of the more complicated methods of change-ringing, it was felt that something ought to be done to enable the not-soexperienced, the novice and the ordinary Sunday service bellringers to take part. It was decided to have a striking competition, which could consist of simple rounds, callchanges, or a simple method on five or six bells and lasting for ten minutes.

The ladies on the district's tea committee, having the silver jubilee in mind and knowing how expensive silver cups are these days, offered to present a silver teapot, and they tramped around antique shops, eventually returning with a fine Victorian specimen which would grace any duchess's tea table. Until a title for the competition can be found it has earned the nickname of the "Teapot Trophy".

It was decided that this year would be a "trial run," but as it turned out it was definitely considered "the real thing" by the ringers on the day appointed. The Ordsall tower was prepared by Mr. Bob Bloomfield, a local ringer.

The adjudicators were Mr. John A. Coates (district chairman) and Mr. David Jack (captain, East Drayton), who spoke of the high standard achieved. They hoped that more bands would enter next year.

The trophy was presented by the guild's vice-chairman and district chaplain, Rev. J. Leslie Howitt.

The bands were (in the order of ringing) West Retford (captain, Miss Margaret Womack), who rang rounds and callchanges and had 59 faults; Wheatley (captain, Arthur Turber)—this band, more ambitious, rang Plain Hunt on five and Grandsire Doubles (93 faults).

The winners of the competition, Laxton (captain, David R. Chambers) rang rounds and call-changes (38 faults).

There were only five ringers from Everton, under the captaincy of Alan Wilson, sen., and they rang rounds and call-changes (55 faults).

Finally, the band from Sturton (captain, Harry Poyner) had the most novice ringers and rang rounds and call-changes (76 faults).

All the ringers worked well together and a very happy atmosphere pervaded. It is understood that the jubilant winners intend to follow arcient traditions of celebrating by filling the pot to overflowing (would you believe, with Double — beer?). No doubt the losers reinforced their resolve to win next year over glasses of other Doubles! All, that is, except the minors, who had to be content with tea.

MR. BOTTOMLEY RESIGNING

The news given to the Standing Committee on October 24 that the secretary of the Central Council (Mr. Vernon Bottomley), for business reasons, will not continue in that office after the 1971 Council meeting will be received with regret. He has spent a tremendous amount of time, and given of his knowledge and experience to the work of the Council and conscientiously discharged the onerous duties connected with the office, always ably and cheerfully supported by his wife, Jeanne, The thanks of the Exercise are due to both Mr. and Mrs. Bottomley.

The Committee have now the task of finding a suitable successor—no easy matter, for men of experience and with the necessary time available are few and far between. We wish them every success. in their search for this "superman".

Central Council

STANDING COMMITTEE MEETS

The Standing Committee had another meeting on Saturday, October 24, when the most important topic of discussion was the procedural report presented to the Council last May. It was reconsidered in detail and account was taken of the opinions of the speakers at Ilkley. An example is the drafting of a new object, No. 1—"To promote and foster the ringing of Church Bells for Divine Service." which will be embodied in the supplementary report which will be published eventually.

It was considered that the Council has a good case for seeking official recognition as a Charity and appropriate action will be

It was thought that there was a case for merging two or all of the Analysis. Methods and Records Committees because of an overlap of functions and an opportunity has been made for each of these committees to comment before any recommendation is made.

It was also decided to ask all committees to submit 1970 reports a month earlier than the date required by rule in order that they may be published in The Ringing World in advance of the Council meeting. It may thus be possible to arrange for discussion of controversial items at the informal meeting which is likely to become established as regular procedure.

The conveners of the three sub-committees responsible for the production of the 1969 constitution report and the principal officers of the Council have been instructed to prepare a supplementary report and to draft the motions for the consequent amendments to the rules, and these will be considered at the next Standing Committee meeting in March.

The secretary asked, with regret, that arrangements should be made to replace him at the 1971 Council meeting. He had unforeseeably been overtaken by a great volume of extra professional work and the strain was having physical effects. This state of affairs involved both the Council and the secretary in a risk which neither ought to take. A small sub-committee was formed which was instructed to submit a short list of possible successors to the

On ITV's "Opportunity Knocks" on Monday, November 9, three attractive young lady handbell ringers from Linley, near Bath, gave an excellent performance. Each ringing four bells, they rang confidently, and one particular piece, "My Grandfather's Clock," was exceptionally good.

The quarter peal at North Stoneham, recorded on page 857, was rung in 1969. It was not printed at the time and for obvious reasons it was felt that it should be published, as it was one of the last which Tom and Margaret Francis took part in. Both, it will be recalled, were killed in a car crash last March.

Deborah Eyles and her family are off to Canberra, Australia, and a peal was arranged and rung with the good wishes of the band and her fellow ringers at Allesley, Coventry. It also enabled Deborah to ring her first peal. [We all hope she will find a tower not too far away from her new home.—Ed.]

The ladies of Nottingham University Society decided to ring a quarter peal without their male counterparts, who were sceptical about the success of the attempt. The gentlemen had to climb down, however, when the excellent ringing brought the quarter round successfully.

Under "Wedding Week-end" (page 873) we apparently got the wrong tower captain married! Miss G. E. Newcombe is captain at Edmonton, but it was Mr. R. Wood, captain at Enfield, for whom the quarter of Grandsire Doubles was rung when he was married on October 4.

First peal congratulations to J. L. Thorogood, Deborah Eyles, Angela C. Parr, Clive C. Atkins, Frances Craig, Stuart W. Hale, Anne M. Ford (11).

New conductors this week include: Derick E. Kirton, Timothy R. Jones, P. Donald Naylor, Celia F. H. D'Aeth, John E. Harrold.

Personal Records: John M. Jelley (800 peals), Maris C. Stephenson (75), Patricia North (200), Gerald C. Hemming (400), D. John Hunt (700), Roger Kendrick (100), Roger Cadamy (50), Katharine J. Maundrell (150), Philip Mehew (800), David G. Kealey (25).

New Method, rung at Spalding, Lincs: Versailles Surprise Major.

Taking part in the North Notts District "Teanot Trophy" (reported elsewhere) were Ian Boothby, aged 13. of W. Retford, and Frank Pigott. aged 78, of Everton. All the teams showed signs of nerves before the start but soon settled down once the bells were ringing. The whole competition was very creditably run.

Standing Committee so that a nomination could be made at the 1971 Council meeting. Whilst it is right that the Standing Committee should consider Mr. Bottom-lev's successor it is, of course, open to all members of the Council to nominate someone for the post in accordance with the present rules if they so wish.

The Committee accepted, on behalf of the Council, an invitation made jointly and severally by the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths to hold the 1972 meeting in London. Both bodies were acting in concert with the other London societies. Warsop Augmentation. — Those ringers who rang at Warsop Parish Church, Notts, recently after the dedication of the two new trebles, could be very well satisfied with the augmentation. It is a job well done, and Messrs. Taylors of Loughborough are to be congratulated, together with the efforts of the Warsop band, writes E. A. W.

At the end of the peal at St. Michaelon-the-Mount, Cornwall, the band found themselves bolted in the tower—possibly the work of one of the local agitators. Standing on the top of the tower calling for assistance was the last thing envisaged by members of the party when they started the Dedicated to the memory of that well-known ringer and composer A. J. Pitman was a quarter peal rung recently by the Chipping Norton Branch of the Oxford Guild. The occasion was the wedding of Miss Judith Pitman, granddaughter of A. J., who married Mr. Robert Pooley.

It is now over 700 years since the Archbishop of Canterbury has been celebrant at a service in St. Mary's Church, Swansea. On October 27 Dr. Ramsey, who is chairman of the British Council of Churches, celebrated at the 7.30 a.m. H.C. and the bells were rung both before and after the service by J. Williams, G. Seldon, M. Jones, D. Adams, Elizabeth Way, Ann McFenton, Justine Antoine, Angela Thomas and Margaret Fox.

According to a national newspaper St. Mary's bells (Reading) ruined a trap set for immigrant smugglers by the police. A tape recorder placed suitably for a conversation was rendered unusable because the bells ringing drowned the conversation.

When was the last peal of the Killamarsh variation of Kent and Oxford rung in a handbell peal? asks John Owen, of Ontario. Canada. His handbell team found it the most demanding, he tells us.

Bellringing gives Bank people relaxation and a chance to meet their customers informally. This was the caption to an illustration in a House magazine in September, which showed Mr. John Thomas, Miss Margaret Snyder and Mrs. Elizabeth Beardsley with Mr. Walter Nichols (ringing master) and Mr. Geoffrev Cooper studying a bell set up in the belfry of St. Mary's, Nottingham.

The Rev. J. D. Cox, whose death was recently announced, will be sadly missed by Cornish ringers, especially in the Penzance area. A ringer himself, he always welcomed visiting ringers to his church and was a loyal supporter of his own tower. A quarter peal was rung (at the request of the cantain of Madron tower) by ringers from Madron and other local towers before a memorial service held at Madron Parish Church and attended by the Lord Bishop of Truro. Mr. Cox leaves a widow and son, to whom we extend our deepest sympathy. F. M. B.

Letters

FROM THE ORGANISER

Dear Sir,-It is regrettable indeed that so much correspondence concerning the recent peal at Samlesbury, Lancashire, has appeared in the columns of The Ringing World. The more so, because the correspondence so far has not stated accurately the facts of the matter.

Mr. Uphill's reply (R.W., page 834) to Mrs. Glen Clayton's letter (R.W., page 774) was accurate as far as it went, and in the tour committee's opinion Mrs. Clayton's letter was indeed sent in bad taste. (Incidentally, we apologise for getting Mrs. Clayton's sex wrong, but there was nothing in the signature to indicate that "Glen Clayton" was a woman.) Would it not have been more sensible for her to have written to me personally to complain before she saw fit to air, the matter publicly? At least I should then have had an opportunity of answering her complaints at first hand. If Mrs. Clayton did not know to whom to write should she not have consulted her vicar, who did know? Further, the vicar of Samlesbury had (a) granted permission quite happily for the peal, even at short notice, for which I apologised at the time; (b) informed me that he would make all the necessary arrangements for our visit, locally, and (c) assured me that there was no need for me to contact any local ringer as he would deal with the matter personally.

On arrival at the tower on September 5, the band was met by the verger of the church, who let them into the tower. After one hour and ten minutes had been spent in splicing worn ropes and in adjusting the heights of the ropes, the peal was begun. The touring band is alleged to have broken a stay. Although I was not present, I am assured by Mr. Uphill that the said stay was already severely cracked and damaged, if not broken, and that it literally fell from the headstock when the bell was raised. Mr. Crossthwaite in his letter (R.W., page 874) states that "the broken stay could easily have led to a serious accident." presumably to one of the local ringers. I agree, but the accident might well have happened to a member of the tour party. There was no notice on the rope of the bell concerned, or anywhere in the belfry or ringing chamber which could have warned visitors of the severely damaged stay. Mr. Crossthwaite further takes me to task as tour organiser. He says: "... it would have been more appropriate for the tour organiser to have sent a letter expressing regret that his band had broken a stay and failed to readjust the ropes after ringing their peal. A donation towards the cost of replacing the stay would not have been inappropriate."

In my letter to the vicar of Samlesbury
I did all those things which Mr. Crossthwaite claims I should have done, including an offer of meeting the costs of replacing the broken stay, for which we were not solely responsible, and an apology for any inadvertent discourtesies on behalf of the touring band. These facts have not been made known to your correspondents, and two months after the event of my writing to the vicar of Samlesbury I have not received any kind of acknowledgment of my letter either from the vicar or from Mrs. Clayton. It is a pity we have not heard anything from the Samlesbury authorities themselves on this matter, apart from the original letter from Mrs. Clayton. -Yours faithfully,

Accrington, Lancs. M. S. HART (Rev.). UNFORTUNATE CIRCUMSTANCES

Dear Sir,—I entirely agree in principle with the code of conduct set out by Cyril Crossthwaite in his letter (R.W., page 874), but I find it surprising that he appears to have assumed that none of the action he mentions was taken on this occasion—surprising because the band contained a past master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association, the master of the Manchester University Guild, the ringing master of Putney, a former ringing master of Kingston upon Thames, a district secretary of the Surrey Association and the Central Council Publications correspondent. Does Mr. Crossthwaite seriously believe that ringers who have been entrusted with such offices should need his advice on how to behave?

I hope that Michael Hart's letter will clear the matter up and that I would not be unwarrantably optimistic in believing that readers will appreciate this incident to be the result of an unfortunate accumulation of circumstances - something from which we all from time to time suffer. - Yours raithfully.

London, S.W.

MICHAEL UPHILL.

BELL THEFTS

Dear Sir,—A certain amount of publicity has been given in recent issues of The Ringing World to the theft of bells from churches, together with suggestions from various sources as to how this sort of thing can be prevented. There seems to be no mention, however, of handbells being Those ringers who travel the country visiting towers will know how easy it would be to acquire a set of handbells by stealing them. One visits a tower and there they are—all in a box or on hooks, asking to be taken and looked after. I can name two towers within 20 miles of my home where I could walk in at any time of the day and help myself. One of these consists of a set of eight with a tenor size 22 in C. Can we ringers really afford to let such valuable articles lie around rotting?

I would like to make a few suggestions about handbells in towers and I hope that what I have to say will be of value to those responsible for looking after towers with a set of handbells.

1. In all cases, handbells should have a box specially made for them. In some towers one finds a cupboard, and this is quite adequate, provided the bells are under lock and key.

Where there is a ground floor ring it is inviting trouble to leave handbells in They should be locked away in a vestry somewhere where the visitor to the church will not see them. If temptation is removed a prospective thief will find his ideas thwarted!

3. Make sure that handbells (together with everything else of value in the belfry, including tower bells) are adequately covered by insurance. In the event of a theft, an insurance cover will be the key to replacement

What I have said may seem fussy to some. It may not seem so silly when one thinks that a set of 12 handbells with a tenor size 18 in G (about the usual size for peal ringing purposes) costs over £100. To buy these new in this country one must add 32.4% purchase tax, making the replacement value something in the region of £135.

Food for thought, perhaps? - Yours faithfully, Priorslee, Salop. R. C. STEVENS.

ST. OSWALD'S, DURHAM

Dear Sir,-I am obliged to Mr. R. H. Dove (letter, page 874) for revealing something of the part he has played "behind the scenes" in the matter of St. Oswald's, Durham.

Continuing the policy that I have adopted so far I have sent copies of his letter to the vicar and the architect and invited their comments. If any are received I trust that you, sir, will be kind enough to publish them.

I am bound to say that I fail to see the relevance of the Rev. J. W. Rogerson's scholarship in Hebrew in this matter. I would have thought that his experience as a ringer and his curacy at St. Oswald's, Durham, were more to the point. Whether Mr. Zvegintzov is still ringing I do not know as he is no longer resident in this area.—Yours faithfully,
DENIS A. BAYLES,

Hon. General Secretary,

TENS AND UNITS

Dear Sir,-I was very interested to read of a striking competition held at Bathford and the small number of faults found, in comparison with a striking competition held at Wickwar, when the faults were counted in hundreds instead of tens and units.

Can it be our neighbours are better strikers (ringers), or was the difference found in the method of judging?—Yours faithfully,

H. HEATH.

Chippenham, Wilts.

SAWSTON PEAL

Dear Sir, - Re the Sawston peal, the Histon band rang two peals with all local ringers in 1966, both of Minor. The first was at Histon on April 23, and the second at Harston on May 21. Both were for the Ely Association and both by ringers all living then in Histon—Yours faithfully, HENRY C. FOSTER.

Histon, Cambs.

LEGACY FOR BELLS

Dear Sir,-Re Wickwar, Gloucestershire, (page 852).

It is stated that the restoration of Wickwar bells has been made possible by a legacy left by a former Wickwar ringer.

As one who knew the late Arthur Handoll (the donor of the money used at Wickwar) for a number of years, I feel that more should have been made of him and, at the very least, his name given.

Arthur learned to ring at Wickwar and was a member of the choir there from an early age. He taught a number of others, including the late W. Dyer, who was tower captain at Cheltenham for many years.

By trade a cooper, he left his home village in 1927 and from then until his death in 1950 rang at, and was in the choir of St. Mary's, Cheltenham. He is buried in Cheltenham Cemetery.

The money was given by him, I understand, some time before his death so that the bells he loved might be augmented to an octave, but this was not done for some unknown reason, and has now been used to restore the six.

There was a ring of six at Wickwar many years before 1908, indeed the Gloucester and Bristol Association held a meeting there in 1894, when Arthur Handoll became a member, remaining a member until his death, a total of 56 years.—Your faithfully, CHARLES ROUSE.

Churchdown, Glos.

Bedfordshire Association YOUNG MEMBERS PRESENT

The anti-clockwise six at All Saints', Cople, were rung by Biggleswade District band during the afternoon of the October meeting and the ringing master (Mr. C. D. Mann) was pleased to welcome many of the younger members of the district.

Tea had been prepared in Willington Village Hall by Mr. and Mrs. D. Wooding and helpers. Mr. S. H. Ashton was in the chair for the business meeting and welcomed Mr. P. Inskip (Bromham) one of the oldest members of the association and a ringer since 1905. Four non-resident members were elected.

Mr. A. S. Smith commented further on the district weekly practices and final details are to be circulated to members. Mr. M. Major announced details for the association striking competition and social evening to be held at Henlow.

Mr. R. V. Webb was ringing master for the evening's ringing at St. Lawrence, Willington (6), when other members and visitors were welcomed. M. L. M.

NORTHANTS OUTING

Ted Rochester gave us six of the best:-

And it poured most of the day.

Eaton Socon (13 cwt.) has a bright ring and its tower was in the temporary charge of a young ringer, who joined in the ringing. A notice states that the inscription on the destroyed 4th bell is to be found in the church—but where?

St. Neots (8, 19 cwt.). Inevitably one key fails to arrive during an outing and this was it. Handbell ringing filled the gap. This was sad, because the deep and tuneful bells are a joy to ring. The band has won the district and county striking champion-To strangers, ships, as two shields declare. the tenor sets very critically.

Irthlingborough (8, 10 cwt.). The bells are very clear, but not too noisy from the inside. The small, warm ringing chamber has many well-kept peal boards, one showing the first peal of Superlative, in 1897, with A. Tyler conducting. In this tower the vicar welcomed us.

Felmersham local ladies provided us with a marvellous lunch in the village hall, for which we were very grateful. The bells (8, 20 cwt.) are very satisfying to handle. The sitter-out can try to fathom the early surviving paintings round the lower wall of the chamber.

Bromham-in-the-Park bells (8, 22 cwt.) are a pleasant though slightly harsh ring. Our coach left us to cross the cattle-grid to walk the quarter mile or so to the church.

Luton (10, 25 cwt.) provided the day's treat and also the steepest spiral stairs of the day. Here we rang Caters and Royal in plain methods. Grand-sire with some of the locals in the band was very good. Bob Royal on our own was, sadly, unspectacular. Our newest recruit rang call changes with a blissful smile on her face.

In a great day's outing with fine rings throughout we had our funny moment. Tenor-loving Ted took his rope and looked round. "Don't waste time! Come on," he called. "Pull off then, Ted," called another. "What d'you mean . . ." and Ted looked at "What d'you mean . . ." and Ted looked at his rope with a dawning horror before throwing it from him. "I don't want t'old treble," he complained. Never mind Ted. You did us well. Thanks.

What is a friend? A single soul dwelling in two bodies.—Aristotle.

ST. MARY'S JUNIOR CHURCH HANDBELL RINGERS, BEAMINSTER, DORSET

These five young ladies ring ten handbells every third Sunday in the month-rounds and queens before Junior Church. In a talent contest earlier in the year they tied for first place against 16 other entrants, such as singing groups with guitars, comedians, dancers and solo instruments. The rise and fall on the ten guitars, comedians, dancers and solo instruments. The rise and fall on the ten bells was the thing which the audience of about 300 really liked. Two of the band have now started double-handed change-ringing for their Girl Guide's badge.

TEAMWORK

(A tonic on an old theme.)

Every reader will readily agree that ringing is a matter of teamwork. Our unique art is dependent upon the co-operation of small bands of men, women and youngsters from every walk of life to produce effort of mind and body in the touch or peal.

Unfortunately, for many, that is where the teamwork ends. Teamwork off the rope in some towers is non-existent and the chores of office are loaded on one or two members year after year, sometimes decade after decade.

Being "lumbered" is sometimes seen as a one-man job of some importance—a "boss-man" who likes it all his own way. Some tower captains revel in this sort of environment, some are quite good at without being bossy and others make difficulties for their band and anyone else concerned in the ringing of their bells.

There are many exceptions and many situations where one man can work or manage a tower to the best effect but in many ringing societies today a change and a sharing of responsibilities could be made for the better- for the tower and for the

A situation found in some places is where the tower captain, a senior ringer, has held the post long enough, in his opinion, but cannot get anyone else to take over-or feels that the willing one would not be able to hold the band together. So, for the sake of the ringing, he keeps on years after the job has become a burden to him and eventually the band become, like their leader. stale and apathetic.

Joint responsibility in a case like this would surely prove more successful (and in many more instances where one man is taken for granted).

A band should be in existence to ring as a team and to work as a team in order to maintain membership. Surprisingly little effort is necessary collectively to produce a balanced responsibility, where a great deal of effort is more often than not required to do the jobs in the tower single handed. To achieve this a few members of the band need to have some responsibility, but only for a comparatively short term. each with one year of office, should be sufficient and the duties distributed as

Tower secretary/treasurer. To deal with the correspondence in connection with tower affairs and in charge of the tower funds. To see that all services and special occasions have the necessary ringers and to arrange outside help when required. represent the band at branch committee

Steeplekeeper. To be responsible for the upkeep and maintenance of the bells and ropes together with the cleanliness of the ringing room. To open the tower on time or delegate another member when this is not possible.

Ringing matter or conductor. To arrange to ringing on practice night, for services. peals, etc. (Calling touches and quarter peals should be shared by all capable members.)

All three officers should have a key to the ringing chamber and be jointly responsible to the clergy for the safety and be-haviour of the band. For those who are really keen, each office could be held in turn but not at the expense of keeping out any ringer who would be willing to do his or her share. An annual general meeting should be held and if special events are forthcoming a committee should be formed to deal with them (i.e. outings, instruction for new members, rehanging fund, etc.).

A keen, co-operative band well balanced and well organised among themselves will find a harmony reflected in their ringing, and there is nothing like good ringing for a feeling of well-being.

It is often said that peal ringers (the prolific ones) keep the Exercise alive. Many ringers argue that it is the Sunday service ringers, the backbone of the Exercise, without whom ringing would be dead. Are we not all dependent upon each other? If we work together as a team on and off the ropes, in and out of the tower, each carrying some small responsibility, we shall all keep the Exercise alive-and we can have it healthily alive!

JAMES ROBERT HAWORTH By W. T. COOK

In August, 1969, the British Association were holding their annual meeting in Exeter, and this seemed to Mr. C. A. W. Troyte to be a good opportunity to get a party of College Youths down to Exeter to ring on the newly-restored bells at St. Sidwell's, and to try the ten bells at the Cathedral, which were then in a bad state of repair. Judging from newspaper cuttings in Haworth's book and elsewhere, Troyte's idea was to show the local ringers how superior "scientific change ringing" was to what one correspondent described as "Churchyard Bob and pully-hawling," and to draw the attention of the Cathedral authorities to the state of the bells there. The Executive Committee of the British Association voted £16 towards the expenses of the visit, and accordingly, in Haworth's words, "on Monday, August 16, 1869, ten members of the College Youths started at 9.15 by the Great Western Railstarted at 9.15 by the Great Western Railway to Devonshire, at the invitation of Mr. C. W. Troyte of Huntsham Court, near Tiverton. They were—H. W. Haley, J. Pettit, R. Haworth, G. Ferris, M. Hayes, M. A. Wood, H. Booth, J. Dwight, G. Muskett and W. Cooter. Mr. W. Wood and Mr. C. H. Lee accompanied them. They arrived at Exeter safely and went to the arrived at Exeter safely, and went to the Elmfield Hotel. After refreshment they took the rail to Topsham, to see the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe at Clyst St. George, who received them kindly. After ringing on the six bells, they had tea on the lawn.

"On Tuesday they went to Tiverton, where they met Mr. Troyte, and rang with him on the bells of the church, which are fine, in the key of D, 24 cwt. Dined at the White Bull Inn, Mr. Wood, and stopped there all night. Visited the Grammar School by the invitation of the Master. On Wednesday met Mr. Troyte at the Cathedral, and rang the bells."

There follows a cutting from The Exeter and Plymouth Gazette, from which, and from other newspaper cuttings, it appears that the "go" of the bells, especially the heavy ones, was so bad that it was almost impossible to ring them to changes. In the words of Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, "It was words of Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, "It was very soon evident to all that no good change-ringing could be effected; however, they did manage a touch of 126 Grandsire Caters, and a short touch of Triples on the first seven, keeping the three tenors at home. Besides the mishap of the snapping of one of the London ropes (for they brought their own ropes), by-and-bye one of the chime hammers, which had been tied down (as it is always necessary to do), fell and broke the wheel of the fifth bell, which Mr. Sheppard (the foreman of the Cathedral ringers) at once set to work to repair. After the Evening Service, nothing daunted, the party again pulled up the bells, and rang a longish peal of rounds, with the ten, and made good striking; they also rang six score of Grandsire Doubles on the first six." Various suggestions were made as to why the bells went so badly. A letter signed jointly by C. A. W. Troyte and William Bannister ends with the words, "We wish to make no imputations, but have merely to say that if any tricks have been played with the bells, we hope the persons who played them enjoy the disap-pointment of the numerous persons who assembled to hear the ringing of some of the best ringers in England, as much as we regret it." There seems, however, to have been no real foundation for making such a suggestion.

LARGE COMPANY FOLLOWED

The same afternoon, says The Exeter and Plymouth Gazette, "The Youths ascended St. Sidwell's belfry . . . They were followed by a large company of local bellioned by the same than the ringers, who were as greatly gratified as they had been before disappointed. So pleased were the outside crowd, bellringers all nearly, that they freely expressed their delight, said that the bells had never been rung so beautifully in Exeter before, and applauded cordially at the end of each per-formance."

"On the evening of Wednesday," continues Haworth, "there was a handbell meeting at Elmfield Hotel, at which Mr. Troyte, Professor Sylvester and Monsieur Khanikoff were present.

"On Thursday the party went to hear the athedral bells outside. They were rung Cathedral bells outside. by the local ringers in rounds, and are a remarkably fine ring. Rung at St. Sidwell's in the afternoon, and St. John's in the evening . . . On Thursday evening came by the 10 p.m. train to London, and reached Paddington at 5.10 a.m."

Of the ringing at St. John's, a correspondent to The Exeter Gazette who signed himself "A College Youth" said, "... the distinct and even striking of the bells elicited the continued approbation of the crowded listeners assembled to hear them. . . We hope these examples will stir up young Exeter to study and get into the way of half-pull scientific change ringing—scouting call changes, and all such sorts of ups and downs and rounds and rounds . .

Friday, April 21, 1871, was Haworth's fiftieth birthday. On that day he called a St. James's Society peal of Grandsire Triples at Clerkenwell, this being his eightieth peal. Shortly after that Haworth was one of the party who went to Bournemouth to open the new ring of eight at St. Peter's.

"On Whit Monday, 1871, eight members of the College Youths' Society were invited to open the peal of eight bells at St. Peter's, Bournemouth, where they were handsomely treated by the Rev. S. R. Waddelow and Mr. Arthur. They returned on Wednesday." There follows a long account of the dedication cut from a local newspaper. This took place on the Tuesday. Several touches were rung after the service; "A complete peal of 5,040 changes would occupy three hours and twenty minutes and this could not be attempted without interfering with the services, consequently frequent short peals were given during the day . . . At half-past three o'clock, the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe delivered a lecture on 'Bells and Bell-Ringing' at a lecture on Bells and Bell-Ringing at the Assembly-rooms . . . when Messrs. Haworth, Pettit, Cooter, Haley, Wood and Muskett of the 'Ancient College Youths' Society,' London, attended, and gave specimens of handbell ringing. . . On Wednesday the 'College Youths' paid a visit to the sanatorium, and delighted the patients with nearly as 'The Blue Bells of with popular tunes, as 'The Blue Bells of Scotland.' 'Auld Lang Syne,' &c., and many touches of changes on the handbells; these were very beautiful, 'Turn again Whittington, Lord Mayor of London' being the favourite.

Haworth's next outing was to Northwold, Norfolk. "On Thursday, January 18, 1872, great rejoicing took place at Northwold, on the occasion of the augmentation of the peal (from 6 to 8), which was satisfactorily accomplished by Messrs. Warner, London. Eight members of the Ancient Society of College Youths went by special invitation; and on their way from Lakenheath to Northwold, on Wednesday, were hospitably entertained by the Rev. W. W. Hutt, Rector of Hockwold-cum-Wilton (a peal of six), who rang 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor with them. At St. Andrew's, Northwold, they rang a peal of 5152 Kent Treble Bob Major in 3 hours 13 minutes. Sixty ringers from the neighbouring villages were present, many of whom rang on the bells, and all sat down to a dinner, which was provided principally through the kindness of Mr. Pooly, Churchwarden, whose hospitality and Mrs. Pooly's kindness the College Youths will ever remember. He is a ringer, and was at the opening of the peal of six and was at the opening of the pear of state of the band at the opening of Northwold in a touch of Grandsire Triples. The College Youths on their way to town on the Friday rang at Wilton church, where they were most kindly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Hutt."

FIRST PEAL IN IRELAND

Later in the same year, on July 27th, Haworth took part in what was claimed to be the first peal rung in Ireland, on the occasion of the opening of the new bells at Waterford Cathedral. Haworth wrote: "On Thursday, July 25th, 1872, eight mem-bers of the Society of College Youths were invited to Waterford to open a peal of eight bells in the tower of Christ Church Cathe-They started from London on the Thursday morning by the Great Western Railway to Milford Haven, thence by steamer to Waterford; returning the same way on Monday following, calling at Gloucester, and arriving in London on Tuesday night. They were well received by Messrs. Ridgway, Mackesy, Blee, Longmore &c. Below is an account from the 'Waterford Chronicle.'"

This newspaper recorded the inaugural ringing at the end of the dedication service in the following words: "The signal being given, the new bells rang out in joyous strains. The effect of the firing," which is done only on special occasions, was very peculiar, and elicited the admiration of all admirers of bellology. The 'Queen's Changes,' which followed, were musical in the extreme, and delighted many thousands in the city, all of whom spoke in the highest terms of the ringers and the bells. . . . At seven o'clock the ringers and bell com-mittee adjourned to the Protestant Hall to partake of an excellent banquet." The peal, Grandsire Triples, was rung on the following day; it was apparently originally attempted on the Friday after the dedication, and presumably lost.

TOUR OF NORTH WALES

The U.L.S.C.R.'s tour (the first for three years) began on July 25 at St. Mary's, Leintwardine (Herefordshire) and ended on August 2 at St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth (Shropshire). In between there was nearly 1,000 miles of travelling, some fine rings of bells, spectacular Welsh mountain scenery and, at times, plenty of rain.

Our first centre was Llandrindod Wells, where most of the party were staying in an hotel, whilst a few more hardy types camped just outside the town. Sunday was spent touring the Welsh/English border country where Audrey Alexander's comprehensive notes on places of interest and scenic routes greatly helped our enjoyment of them. The ringing was organised by the master, Nigel Thomson, and the usual variety of methods was rung.

being a great attraction. A visit to Chester on Saturday provided an opportunity for last-minute shopping and some ringing at St. Mary's-on-the-Hill, the vertical ladder causing some consternation amongst the ladies.

On Sunday we set off early to reach Shrewsbury in time for morning service ringing. We were pleased to join the locals at St. Chad's but due to a misunderstanding only half managed to gain access to St. Mary's Church for a ring on the fine ten.

At Bridgnorth, our last tower of the tour (St. Leonard's), we said our farewells with promises to meet at the society's 25th anniversary dinner in November.

Our thanks to all incumbents and ringers who allowed us to ring, and to Audrey Alexander for her efforts in organising the tour so efficiently.

Members and friends of the society photographed in the churchyard of St. Mary the

On Monday we trekked northwards via the Elan Valley (the beauty of which was rather spoilt by the weather) and Devil's Bridge to Llangollen, ringing at Machynlleth, Dolgellau and the impressive Church of SS. John and David, Barmouth, en route. The campers were in a field outside Llangollen, the others being comfortably settled in hotels in Llangollen and Glyndyfrdwy, Tuesday was one of the few fine days, and of a party of nine who set out to climb Snowdon only two made it to the summit. In the afternoon we rang at Portmadoc and then made a trip up to Ddualt on the Ffestiniog Railway.

Gresford bells and Wrexham steeple, two of the "Seven Wonders of Wales," were both visited on Wednesday. Unfortunately the former had to be postponed until later in the day because of a funeral, and the latter proved to be the scene of a lost peal of Yorkshire Royal, which came to grief after two and a half hours.

Travelling westwards on Thursday, we stopped at Llandegai and at Bangor before crossing Telford's Menai Bridge into Anglesey, where we rang at St. Mary's, Beaumaris (Anglesey's only ring of bells).

In front: Katy Gorvin, Ann Layton, Rev. Malcolm Melville, Alison Thirst, Keith Poole, Peter Layton, Alan Thirst, Mary Thirst, Nancy Layton, Audrey Alexander and Roy Mills.

PIN DROPS AT PINNER

With the west door of the church open. there was quite an audience - at times 50 people—watching Pinner ringers' performance of a quarter peal recently. Comments of spectators amused the band. Small boy: "Why did that man shout 'Single'?" Father: "I expect it's to tell them to ring faster."
Another — Wife: "That's the second time that man called Bob." Husband: "I should think he's ringing wrong!"

EMPTY AND RAVAGED

A newspaper article on East Horndon. Essex (near Billericay), says that All Saints Church, dating from the 12th century. stands empty and ravaged. Anne Boleyn's heart is believed to be buried in the churchyard.

The four ancient bells have been stolen. the window glass and old tiles smashed by hooligans, the interior blackened by tramps' fires. "But," writes James Wentworth Day, who is striving to save the place, "the diocese of Chelmsford doesn't want to know."

Help is now offered from two American visitors claiming descent from the Tyrells, whose tombs are there-Sir Walter allegedly slew William Rufus.

A MOUNTAIN PEAL

Following the success of the handbell peal on Helvellyn last year, it is not surprising that this year there should be a peal on the highest point in England, the summit of Scawfell Pike, Cumb, 3,210 feet.

It was after a peal attempt at Aspatria on May 23 that Kevin M. Price first mentioned the idea casually. Both David G. Kealev and Colin F. Gates were full of enthusiasm although they had never rung handbells before in their lives. The prospect certainly looked bleak. It meant well over 100 miles of travelling for each practice, owing to the distances between each ringer, but over this very short period all worked frantically, and Colin's wife, Barbara, had the peace of her household disturbed frequently and often until 2 or 3 a.m., quite often followed by a long car journey as she transported the team back home. Douglas T. Sim had been duly chosen as our umpire and the evening before the attempt he informed us that he was a member of the local mountain rescue team! and thus proceeded to try to discourage us by recounting all the loathsome tales of rescues he had been involved

Clothing and equipment were left to the individual and, on September 12, after a short ring at Brathay on the recently renovated bells, we finally set out from Great Langdale, dressed like spectral scarecrows on two legs, ready to begin the climb and armed with numerous copies of Wainwright's "The Southern Fells" and "Fell-wander."

The ascent was very wet and at times we nearly turned back, particularly in Rossett Gill, but we struggled on. The mountain is a great mass of tumbled boulders in the arid waste and consequently the walk is rather rough. Three people were met en route who had heard about the attempt on the radio, although this was not known by the ringers. The summit was finally gained at 8.30 p.m., just before dark, and when the mist occasionally lifted we were able to see the glorious sunset and a view of distant lakes silhouetted on the horizon.

The team then assembled a polythene bivouac over the summit shelter, making the walls windproof and ensuring that as little draught reached us as possible. Provisions were laid down and heaters and stoves were lit. Supper followed, with the traditional ringers' tea being brewed in Kevin's biscuit tin with ten tea bags. After much rearrangement for better comfort, the addition of more clothing, the first peal started at 10.41 p.m. and lasted until 12.49 a.m., this being undoubtedly the best peal. For the next two hours we ate and amused ourselves generally by talking about all the local ringers who had tried to change our minds and who had laughed at the idea. At 3 a.m. we exercised ourselves by running round the summit and back, in order to keep warm. During the second peal, 3.45 to 5.56 a.m., rain and hail poured down. but we were kept dry by the bivouac. The Tilley lamp went out but Douglas managed to keep us ringing by torchlight, much to the relief of David, who was finding the semi-darkness rather conducive to sleep. Douglas checked each extent and patiently umpired, while Colin tried to count up to

The descent started at 7.15 a.m. and Wasdale was reached at 9 a.m., where Barbara was waiting. The views were wonderful in the early morning light, and we returned to Mont Egre, Thornhill, to recuperation and satisfied with a job well done.

928 — The Ringing World November 20,

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for November 16, 1945

The loss of church bells in certain European countries during the war was the subject of the leading article with the comment that even in England many bells had been destroyed during bombing raids.

Because of catering restrictions and diffisary luncheon, Mr. E. G. Fenn (master) being in the chair, at the Bridge House Hotel. It was on the 88th birthday of Canon G. F. Coleridge, who proposed "The Society." culties, the College Youths held an anniver-

A letter by Sgt. A. P. Cannon spoke of taking part in a peal for the St. David's Diocesan Association, which was quite a satisfactory performance.

The first peal by a band of ladies in the Oxford Guild was rung at St. Ebbe's. The method was Grandsire Triples, and Betty Spice the conductor.

Ernest W. Pye rang his 100th peal at Sible Hedingham, Essex, and at Barnby Don, Yorks, Ronald H. Dove his 200th.

Capt. E. F. M. Samson wrote from Rawalpindi about the bells in India.

50 YEARS AGO

November 19, 1920

"Happily the status of the ringer is be-coming much more widely recognised."— Leading article.

In a peal of Stedman Triples for the Ancient Society of College Youths at Chiswick Henry G. Miles rang the 2nd and Robert Holloway the 4th.

At Long Ashton, Somerset, Percival W. Cave conducted a peal of Stedman Triples, his first as conductor.

Four married couples rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at Epsom, Surrey, the first time this had occurred.

The ancient ringers' guild of Stephen's, Bristol, celebrated its 300th anniversary.

The restoration of the bells, with augmentation, was commented on at the 283rd dinner of the College Youths by the Dean of Westminster, who said how glad every-one was that these bells should be heard again.

The Cumberland Association was revived with a meeting at Workington.

All Saints, Polebrook, Northants

All Saints, Polebrook, Northants

THERE ARE OLD and beautiful churches in all parts of the Eastern Counties, and most are badly in need of repairs of one kind or another. Some are lucky to be positioned and seen by wealthy or interested tourists, whilst others are situated in small country parishes. Such is Pole-brook in Northamptonshire.

All Saints', Polebrook, illustrated on the cover, has none of the advantages of wealth, nor does it have many visitors. It is sited in a very pretty, but small, stonebuilt village, and compares favourably with the better-known Cotswold beauty spots. It is certainly well worth a visit. Easy of access, it is $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Oundle, the home of the famous public school, where many parents come to visit their sons. The other way it is eight miles from Norman Cross on the A.1 (little more than an hour's run from London).

The village is about 300 strong, with 74 people on the church electoral roll. There are two village shops (one of them being the post office) and, of course, a village "pub." Polebrook Hall, in the centre of the village, where Queen Victoria is reputed to have stayed, was extended considerably in the 19th century by the Ferguson family, and is now owned by J. Folliott Vaughan, Esq., M.P.

This village of "Pochebroc" is mentioned in the Domesday Book, and the Church of All Saints, like many other churches in the diocese, probably has an early Saxon foundation, on which the present building was erected. It is a church that is finely proportioned, and possesses great natural beauty, being built of local stone. The first recorded rector was Robert le Fleming (1250).

ON A NORMAN FOUNDATION

Built mainly on a Norman foundation, its glory is in its 13th century work, when the chancel was lengthened and the west end of the church was largely rebuilt. There are still Norman arcades with capitals, enriched with foliage, and a Norman chancel arch. The pulpit is 17th century, and possesses one of the few remaining hour glass sand timers left in the country.

The east window is beautiful, shaftings and mouldings giving a unity to its three lancets, totally unobserved when looked at from the outside. In a different mood, from the masculine severity of the east window, the chancel screen is 15th century, with the original red and gold still to be seen on the traceried panels below the middle rail, the screen doors still hanging on their original hinges.

Surely the north transept is unique! Imagination can be exercised here: the stone seating, and the somewhat more "developed" arcading running with its nine arches on slender shafting around the north and west walls. The fine window which brightens this lovely transept is a modern one, erected to the memory of a young Lifeguardsman, Victor Ferguson, who fell in 1918. It depicts a knight in shining armour offering his sword at an altar, with the archangels St. Michael and St. Gabriel standing by. The transept is now a memorial chapel, with the names of the Fallen in both the 1914-18 and 1939-45 wars recorded.

The south transept is in a very different mood. Here are placed the mediæval pews, the fronts decorated with stylised copies of 13th century window openings (about three inches high). There is a double piscina and a square opening in the masonry. The font is some 700 years old (although restoration work was done in the 20th century by a local craftsman. The roof in the nave is timber-framed, and contains some mediæval beams, one of which has the Cross Keys, of the Diocese of Peterborough, carved on it.

In the midst of the Eastern counties, celebrated for their beautiful spires, the broach spire of All Saints', Polebrook, is justly famed for its graceful proportions, rising firmly from the square tower. The original central tower collapsed and was rebuilt in its present position and form in the 12th century, and it is thought that the Early English spire was added at a slightly later date. The bell and clock chambers, housed in the spire, are lit and ventilated by gabled openings.

CONTAINS FIVE BELLS

The belfry contains five bells, the first being given by William Tawyer in 1717. The second is named Andrea and was made by Thomas Newcombe of Leicester, 1562-1580, whilst the third, S. Maria, is by Francis Watts of Leicester, 1564-1600. The fourth bears the following inscription: John Hunt, John Groom, Churchwardens. This bell was made by Joseph Eayre of St. Neots 1771." The fifth bell is by the same maker. and has on it the names of John Hunt and Henry Negus, Churchwardens, 1765. It also bears a Latin inscription: "Ego sum vox clamantis," meaning "I am the voice of one that crieth." At one time a Gleaning Bell was rung during harvest at 7 a.m. and 6 p.m., and until about 1914-15 a bell was rung on Sunday after morning prayer (at 12 o'clock) informing parishioners that there would be another service in the evening (or it could have been the mid-day Angelus).

The bells hang in a wooden frame, which, to quote from a survey made by Messrs. Taylor of Loughborough, is "very poorly constructed indeed, and can never have been particularly strong. It is badly weathered and diseased." Because of this it is now only possible to ring three of the bells with safety. It is proposed to lower and rehang the bells in a new C.I. frame complete with new fittings, including new H.W. wheels, with W.I. plates and hollow box section C.I. headstocks. The bells will be turned, retuned and fitted with new

W.I. clappers.
All this, with the ancillary works, will cost some £2,000, of which £1,200 has been raised by the parish of 300 people, but helped generously by the Barron Bell Trust and the Peterborough Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers. The work is doubly Church Bell Ringers. necessary as the existing wooden frame is wedged against the tower, so endangering the structure, and could also endanger the ancient clock housed in the tower, which was made in the village in 1667 under the direction of the rooter of that time (Dr. direction of the rector of that time (Dr. Wilkins, a famous horologist), founder of the Royal Society, and brother-in-law of Oliver Cromwell.

The clock is worked by weights and pulleys (one of the weights is a chunk of local stone). It is one-handed, chimes the hours, and keeps fairly accurate time. is unique, the only other of its type being in Salisbury Cathedral.

We still need £800 for this work, and if you can help, please send donations to THE POLEBROOK BELL FUND, The Secretary, B. John M. Morgan, Ashdown, Polebrook, Peterborough PE8 5LN.

Obituary

MR. W. SMITH

Mr. W. Smith died suddenly at Whittlesey on October 26 at the age of 81. He was verger at St. Mary's for over 60 years and his passing ends 110 years of family service, not only for St. Mary's but also Whittlesey. His family served the town as harness makers in business, and as town criers by vocation.

Mr. Smith was a member of St. Mary's ringers for over 50 years. He enjoyed bellringing in every form—he conducted peals, played the carillon and was fond of tunes and changes on handbells. He will be remembered for his willingness to participate in any ringing, though he had a preference for Triples.

MUSICAL AND CAMPANOLOGICAL ENTERTAINMENT

"Under the auspices of the Hemel Hempstead Mutual Improvement Society, the Royal Holdfast Handbell Ringers gave a musical and campanological entertainment in the Town Hall on Friday evening the 15th inst.

"There were five performers and 130 bells. the largest bell weighing 114 lbs. and the smallest 4 ozs. Mr. F. Mason, President of the Mutual Improvement Society, presided . . . The Campanologists went through their programme with a slight alteration in a manner that gave great satisfaction and enjoyment to the audience. who frequently expressed their delight either of the clever manipulation of the performers or at the sweet music evolved from the bells. Several of the pieces were encored, Village chimes, Mandolinata (as performed on the bells at Antwerp Cathedral), Imitation of Village Bells and Chimes and Fairy Bells appeared to be special favourites with the audience. At the close, the President thanked the com-pany for their attendance."

Sent by Mrs. G. Manship, of Hemel Hempstead, Herts, who found it in an old paper dated February 23, 1884. Durham and Newcastle Association.

ANNUAL MEETING

Ringers of today are often motorists and when they attend a meeting in a town or city centre they need to give attention to "making places" for parking and "dodging" traffic wardens. They need to be as familiar with the yellow lines of the Highway Code as the blue lines of standard methods. Better then to hold the meeting outside a meter zone these days, thought the secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association in arranging the A.G.M. this year in Newcastle on October 3.

The business meeting, tea and service were held at St. Stephen's in Low Elswick, just off Scotswood Road of Blaydon Races fame. Although free from parking restrictions, the area is not without its hazards for motorists.

The surroundings of St. Stephen's have undergone considerable changes, with tower blocks replacing the older dwellings. old church remains but alongside it there is a modern vicarage and an attractive modern church hall built, as a plaque re-cords, with the proceeds of compensation for demolition of the previous hall. Its facilities were generously made available by the vicar (Rev. Martin Brion).

HELD THE FORT

The meeting faced a difficulty at the outset, as Roland Park had withdrawn from the presidency without completion of the full year of office. Bill Tyson, immediate past president, held the fort and conducted the election of a new president. Ken Lawson was the only nomination and he was declared elected. Later all the other officers were re-elected with one exception, but individual elections were held as members had expressed dissatisfaction with reelection en bloc. Kenneth Arthur was the one exception, and he retired (as announced last year) and Tom Cooke was elected to succeed him as ringing master. The officers for 1970-71 are: President, Kenneth Lawson; secretary, Denis Bayles; treasurer, Eric Harrison; ringing master, Tom Cooke; editorial secretary, Ken Lawson; auditor, Frank Ainsley; trustees, Kenneth Arthur and Eric Harrison. District officers;—Northern—chairman, S. Hewitt; ringing master, D. Martin; secretary, D. Wheeler. Central-chairman and ringing master, W. Tyson; secretary, N. Johnson. Southern—chairman, K. Lawson; ringing master, T. Cooke; secretary, F. Hodgson.

Sixteen new members were elected-nine from Hurworth, four from Shincliffe and one each from Brancepeth, Fenham and Lanchester. Two clerical members were elected and William Gofton was made a life member. Some years ago his father, R. Alder Gofton, was also a life member. It is not unusual for a son to follow in his father's footsteps, and give over 50 years membership to a ringing society, but for the father still to be alive when his son has done this must surely be rare!

From reports of a committee meeting in September it was seen that the financial position had improved with the increase in subscriptions; the total balances had increased by just over £20 and the general fund was just in credit. This position was regarded as satisfactory, as a comprehensive annual report had been printed for the first time for several years. A new ring of bells had been installed at Shincliffe, and the bells at St. Ignatius', Sunderland, had been rung again after rehanging, but on the debit side the bells of Hexham Abbey have been declared unsafe and ringing there has stopped. Efforts to revive ringing at BlayHereford Guild.

FESTIVE OCCASION

The annual dinner of the Hereford Guild took place at the Royal Oak, Leominster, on October 17, when there was an attendon October 17, when there was an attendance of 87. At the top table the master (Mr. Reg Powell) was supported by the Bishop of Hereford (Rt. Rev. M. Hodson) and Mrs. Hodson, Mr. David Beacham (general secretary, Worcestershire Association), Miss Noele Gordon (TV star of "Crossroads"), Mr. and Mrs. J. Haliwell (Hereford), Mr. G. Cross (secretary, Hereford Guild) and Mrs. Cousins.

After an excellent dinner the speeches were brief and witty. The Church and State was proposed by Mr. J. Haliwell, with response by the Bishop; The Hereford Diocesan Guild, Mr. D. Beacham, response by Miss Valerie Edge (a past master), The Visitors, Mr. Harold Thomas (Bridgnorth), with response by Miss Noele Gordon.

At the conclusion, entertainment was provided by Mr. Les Bonner (magician), Miss Christine Benbow (folk songs). A touch of Bob Major on handbells was rung by Elizabeth Wycherley 1-2, Peter Wycherley 3-4, Norman Mattingley 5-6, Marcus Sherwood 7-8.

A special word of thanks is due to Mr. George Cousins for his work in making the arrangements for this most enjoyable function. Earlier, ringing took place on the ten at Leominster Priory. F. C. A. B.

don, Morpeth and Hurworth were noted, the latter being particularly successful, as testified by the election of new members. The dinner held at Sunderland, the first for a number of years except for special occasions, had also been successful.

Peals totalled 21 (19 tower and 2 in hand) against 47 (46 and 1) the previous year. The leading peal ringers were George Deas and Eric Harrison (15 each) and Michael Maughan the leading conductor (with 9). Ealing Surprise Major was rung for the first time for the association.

RULES TO BE EXAMINED

It was agreed that a small sub-committee should examine the rules and report to the committee in January, when the Christmas party is to be held at Chester-le-Street. The dinner had been arranged for May 1 at the County Hotel, Newcastle, and the annual general meeting in September at Darling-

The service was held in St. Stephen's after tea. The vicar conducted the service and gave a short address. He had the assistance of Peter Rock at the organ, Ann Lawson and Denis Bayles reading lessons, and Messrs. Anderson, Bayles, Johnson and Lawson in ringing handbells. The collection for the bell restoration fund amounted to £3 1s. 2d.

With parking restrictions removed in the evening, members were able to make their way to the Cathedral, where ringing continued.

For dispersal, as for assembly, the association's territory is now served by a splen-did road system linking its principal cen-tres, and recently the Durham Motorway acquired a modern services area. On the way home several ringers tried the restaurant and found themselves attracted to machines bearing the label CHANGE. Such is the degree of automation in this establishment that unless one has the right coins the food and drinks remain visible but unobtainable.

EARLSHEATON BELLS

When Yorkshire ringers speak of the bells at Earlsheaton, they automatically associate with them the name of Mr. Hemingway Dransfield.

Hemingway is the second oldest member of the Yorkshire Association and reached the age of 90 on November 14. His association with Earlsheaton bells goes back over the whole of his life, for he started to learn to ring them in July, 1897, and continued to do so until a few years ago, when he had to give up, following an illness. His profound interest in the bells and in ringers and ringing in general, however, has not waned; Hemingway reads The Ringing World weekly from cover to cover and claims all ringers as his friends. It is understandable, therefore, that he looked at the weekend of October 3-4 with regret, for the bells were rung for the last time.

St. Peter's Church was built in 1825 on steep ground overlooking Dewsbury and was buttressed by surrounding houses clinging to the hillside. It is reputed that the demolition of these houses in recent slumclearance has allowed the hillside to become unstable and as a result the church is to be demolished.

In the early 1850s a fund was started in Yorkshire to alleviate suffering amongst the survivors of the Holmfirth flood, caused when a reservoir burst its banks. Surplus money from the fund was returned to the parishes which donated it, and in Earlsheaton it became the basis of a collection for a set of bells for the church.

Subsequently eight bells, with a 12 cwt. tenor in F, were installed by Mears and Stainbank and were rung for the first time on Friday, May 27, 1853. They were re-hung by Taylors in 1916. In recent years the interest from a bequest of £500, left in 1941 by a Mr. Haythorne, of Heckmondwike, has helped towards their maintenance.

The early ringers at the church were keen on good striking and contest ringing, and the band soon became famous for its hoarding of the cups and shields awarded as prizes in striking contests by the local ring-ing societies in Yorkshire. They won the cup of the Halifax and District Association 20 times in nearly as many years and the cup of the now disbanded Heavy Woollen District Association innumerable times.

Hemingway relates that when he started to ring, all the learners paid 2d. per lesson for their tuition and were not allowed to

WILFRED WILLIAMS' "BORDER" TOUR

The 1970 tour looked like being a washout when there was such torrential rain that Wilfred's car was aquaplaning up the M1, while Giles Galley was marking time in a garage in Sheffield after burning out his wiper motor on the MI further north. But we all got to the Prince Rupert in Shrewsbury in the end, and Wilfred doesn't mind a "wet" birthday. We made a promising start the next morning with a peal of London Royal at St. Mary's, Shrewsbury, being met by Hector Bennett, Ernest Willcox and other local worthies.

London was again successfully scored on the grand eight at Market Drayton later in the day and duly celebrated in the Corbet Arms in the company of Fred Price, Arthur Pearson and Ernest Drew, who kindly came to meet us.

Back at Shrewsbury the next morning we rang for the service at St. Mary's, and Pat Cannon demonstrated his masterly handling by knocking off his spectacles and breaking them! After lunch one band, augmented by George and Norah Randles, went to Broughton and rang Rutland, while at Wem a certain well-known 12-bell conductor, perhaps reflecting that six peals of Bristol on a recent week in Kent was too much of a good thing, slipped up in our first attempt at the method.

At the Wynnstay, Oswestry (our H.Q. for the rest of the tour), we found that the ring with the band proper until they could prove their competence. They were then paid 6d. per session for ringing on Sundays and had a system of deductions for late attendance—2d. deduction if not within the church gates as the clock struck the appropriate time and 4d. deduction if ten minutes late. If a ringer failed to attend without reasonable excuse then on top of receiving no fee a fine of 2d, was levied.

The keenness of the old bands for contest ringing was so great that relations between the ringers were sometimes strained; one ringer was turned away from the tower for several years after making a slip in a contest.

There are several peal boards in the ringing chamber testifying to past performances, but the chamber is dominated by a large portrait of a late ringer, Jack Garforth, who originally learned to ring at Dewsbury but moved to Earlsheaton following a dispute with the vicar. It was given to the tower on his death and has since kept an eye on the proceedings. Young lady ringers in recent years claim that during peals they have felt a little uneasy at the figure brooding down on them, demanding either good striking or no peal!

The Leeds and District Branch of the Yorkshire Association held an afternoon meeting at the tower on October 3, and upwards of 40 ringers took advantage of the opportunity of having a final ring on the bells. The ringing was concluded by a well-struck course of Kent T.B., which was the special method of the old bands and the method for most of the peals at the tower. Hemingway was present at the gathering and at tea afterwards.

A peal of St. Nicholas' Triples was rung on the following afternoon by a composite band from Ossett Parish Church and Wakefield Cathedral.

This concluded the ringing life of the bells and they were removed from the tower a week or so later. R.C. friendly young manager was also a ringer, hailing from Fairford, Glos.

On Monday morning London was rung at Church Stretton, and Spliced London and Cambridge Royal well rung in the afternoon at Coalbrookdale—the tower of the late Bill Saunders.

On Tuesday we ventured into Wales to ring on the delightful new eight at Berriew, where no peals are allowed now. The vicar (and Archdeacon) proudly showed us his Vicarage, built in 1616 by "TK" (Tenor King?). From there we drove over the mountains (with a glimpse of the Welshpool and Llanfair narrow gauge railway en route. complete with steam engine) to Dolgellau. Again no peal, as they are not allowed, but a pleasant ring. In the afternoon came our second failure. After practically three hours of Yorkshire at Barmouth, with two courses to go, we were stopped by the assistant curate. (There had been a breakdown in communications somewhere.)

On Wednesday a visit to two of the Seven Wonders of Wales—Gresford Bells and Wrexham Tower. At Gresford we rang Rutland, which was George Randles' first College Youths peal, with the senior steward and treasurer also in the band. A mid-day funeral necessitated an early start and a brisk pace (3-5). A visit to the lovely church at Malpas meanwhile verified that we could not ring there later in the week. After the band had refreshed itself with pints of "Border" ("the popular beer" from Wrexham) in the Yew Tree at Gresford, George and Norah Randles entertained us to a sumptuous buffet lunch at their home. The fine ten at Wrexham are mainly Rudhall bells and we scored a good peal of Cambridge Royal in the afternoon, before being welcomed at the Seven Stars by George Ledsham, landlord, ringer and friend of Ralph Edwards.

Thursday morning saw 65 minutes of Stedman Triples at High Ercall (cast by Taylor in the 1870s) before we had to stop because of a shift on the front; so again Leslie Barry's one peal attempt of the week was doomed. A local lady who evidently admired our ringing was there with a flask of coffee, which we drank round the font! Six good men and true, who had all rung over two tons to peals, set to work meanwhile on the heavy six at Clive (25 cwt.) and rang the first 7-method peal on the bells, with Kingsley Mason, whose first tour it was, on the tenor. These bells are very loud outside but sound a treat across the valley, and as they were well rung no one seemed to mind. Meanwhile the losers had a ring on the lovely little six at Moreton Corbet (and also a choir practice, with a reverend gentleman at the keys and Ralph Edwards on the blower!). The day was completed with a peal of Cambridge Maximus on the grand Taylor 12 at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury.

On Friday we rang London at Shifnal, then Arthur Pearson and his wife kindly gave us lunch at Claverley before we moved on to the church, built in local sandstone and overlooking a very pretty village, where we rang Bristol. We enjoyed meeting Fred Bennett and Ernest Drew again.

On Saturday Lincolnshire at Northop (Flint) enabled several to score another county. Meanwhile Wilfred and David and Susan Rothera were sampling the local tennis courts at Oswestry. In the afternoon we rang Roger Baldwin's Bristol on the magnificent eight at Eccleston, cast by Taylor just after the turn of the century-real vintage bells!

Sunday was a memorable day for the scenery. We visited Lake Vyrnwy, the reservoir for Liverpool, built with a massive stone dam by the Victorians, with a backcloth of dark and silent forests. On through the Cambrian mountains and past the new Clywedog Reservoir to Llanidloes, where Alan Ainsworth (another new recruit) called London on the recently-augmented bells in their curious, squat tower.

On Bank Holiday Monday we rang a good peal of London Royal at St. Giles, Newcastle-under-Lyme — the bells sound better outside than in-and met with disaster on the tuneful ten at Crewe, where after two leads of Pudsey Royal the sixth clapper broke. Our four failures were all for different reasons.

We rang 15 peals (some good ones, too, probably because we stuck to methods we all knew well), coupled with a sound knowledge of each other's ringing characteristics, enabling bands to be well placed-an important factor in peal ringing, often underestimated.

We take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to all, but not least to Wilfred himself, for a memorable tour.

There is no bigger bone of contention in the R.W. than what should or should not be included under peals (and quarter peals) as footnotes. The "first peal, first in method," etc., of course, are essential, and there are the recognised additions for weddings, funerals, church festivals, but many bands seem lately to be finding every possible triviality to put under the peal details, many of which have no connection with church or public occasions. A peal rung for the treble ringer's wife's cousin's birthday, or for the 3rd birthday of the conductor's son is, we consider, not worthy of a footnote, and exaggerated and lengthy wording is absolutely unnecessary.

The bells are the property of the church and should first and foremost be rung for its festivals and services. There is an obligation for all peals to be published in the R.W., but this does not extend to footnotes, although sometimes these make interesting reading.

Occasionally items of especial interest and considered of more importance have been extracted from the peal report and used as news items. This has not found favour with the band ringing the peal as the two items are thus divorced. Quite a few of the footnotes rank as advertisements, and where this applies we suggest that the correct amount be enclosed so as to ensure publication of the details with the peal. We are always pleased to include short items of news under the Gossip heading, and if senders of peal and quarter peal reports will put these on a separate sheet every endeavour will be made to include such items.

To those who have not yet received their Ringing World Calendar we apologise for the delay, which is due to pressure of work in the printing machine room. Just as soon as we receive delivery of our reprint order, our staff (of three!) will combine their efforts to get the calendars despatched.

"In July I took a cardigan by mistake from a tower in the Bristol area. If the person who lost it will contact me I will return it," writes Miss M. Legg, Drove Farm, Locking, Weston-super-Mare.

A quarter peal of All Saints Doubles was rung on All Saints Day in All Saints' tower, Ashcott, Somerset, the actual tower in which this method was composed. It was also a married couples' quarter peal and the conductor's 150th.

What was intended as the first peal of Royal by the Andover District, rung at St. Mary's, Southampton, unfortunately could not be counted as such. The illness of one of the ringers prevented him taking part and a substitute took his place. It is intended to get the first resident peal on another occasion.

Mr. G. H. Ellis, of Limerick, sends a cutting from Irish Independent, which reports that a business man has arranged for Beverley Minster, Yorks, bells to be taped to be used in the small church at Louisburgh, Co. Mayo.

The recent competition (run by the Nottingham District) to guess the total weight of Arnold bells was won by Mr. Reginald Wright, of St. Peter's, Nottingham, who was only 6 lbs. from the correct figure of 27 cwt. 2 qr. 25 lb.

First peal congratulations to Norman Tawn and Julian A. Long.

The tenor clapper at Loughton, Essex, fell out on Remembrance Sunday, but a quarter of Grandsire Doubles was rung.

The Ringers' Notebook and Diary, 1971 is now available and the advertisement gives details of where to send. There are several new touches and quarter peals this year and the publishers advise early ap-plication for this "must" among ringers.

Five young ladies (average age 13) took part in a quarter at Blunsdon, Wilts, and raised £11 10s. through sponsors for St.

Leonard's Heating Fund.

Wearing his Southwell Diocesan Guild badge and seen drinking (whisky?) from the cup he had won, Mr. Derick Kirton was pictured recently in the South Notts Advertiser after having become Coddington Conker Champion of 1970. Derick also had a bottle of sherry and half a dozen glasses presented to him by Mrs. Nina Terry, who organises many similar events for the old folk's fund. Derick's brother John is tower captain at Coddington.

Ordering a Ringing World Calendar, a gentleman in Gloucester enclosed a per-sonal donation "to acknowledge the interest I, a non-ringer, get from it, and as thanks for the jokes and aphorisms I have occasionally 'lifted' to print in the parish magazine I edit."

The radio quiz programme "My Word" on November 9 included the question: "What are Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman?" After surmising they might be characters in the radio serial "The Archers" John Wells identified them as terms connected with campanology "which is what happens up campaniles." Frank Muir revealed that he had been a bell-ringer until the age of 14½, when he had his tonsils removed (why did that halt his ringing career?), and informed the audience that Grandsire Doubles, which he had rung, was a smaller version of Grandsire Triples. The questionmaster, Jack Longland, displayed diplomatic caution when he confirmed that these terms represented the "principal methods" of ringing changes, though he stood in fear of correction knowing the complexity of the subject and that "campanologists are incredibly skilful."

"Shattering the post-prandial Sabbath calm" is the description given by a correspondent in sending three quarter peals rung for the joining of three villages into one parish.

Six young people have, during the past 12 months, been ringing the bells at Poslingford, Suffolk (pop. 142!), and are equally accomplished to ring in a quarter. Having only five bells, the youngsters draw lots to see who takes part in the different quarter peals to be attempted. [With such enthusiasm, maybe an increase in the number of bells will be forthcoming one day soon.-

Jones, 43 Bradbourne Street London, S.W.6, being a keen three-bell ringer, would be very glad to make the acquaintance of the author of the article on Yorkshire three- and four-bell towers published on page 885. He is, with friends, compiling a list of rings of three- and four-bell towers.

As the old farmer/dealer once said: "Honesty is the best policy-mind you, I've managed very well without it up to now."-Plain Bob.

Mr. F. Hodgson, of Darlington, came across the old photograph of a Gloucester tour in September, 1935, when he was perusing some personal papers of the late Mr. A. J. Hughes, of Bangor. He says it would not be often in those days that such an abundance of talent would be gathered together, and we reproduce it here, with the

L. to r.: Stafford Green, John H. Cheeseman, George Williams, Alfred Pye (back row); Frank Bennett, George Martin, Len Stillwell, Gabriel Lindoff, Jim Shepheard, J. C. E. Simpson, A. J. Hughes, E. Jenkins, L. M. G. Morris, W. H. Fussell and H. H. Firth (non-ringer).

It states that the photo was at Shipton-under-Wychwood (Oxon) and a peal of Superlative S. Major was rung.

"ROPESIGHT"

Dear Sir. - Whilst agreeing with Mr. Michael Uphill (page 854) that Plain Bob is best for starting learners, I feel he is both over-estimating their understanding and making Grandsire more complicated than it

Learners are only going to know when to dodge if they know in advance that they cut or wait at backstroke, or handstroke in Grandsire. I do not think many learners realise where they are dodging in relation to the lead-end.

I once had a band of "Minor only ringers at an eight-bell practice. They were told that Grandsire Triples is third's place Bob Minor (with the work "by the treble" the same) and so should dodge one place higher, dodging therefore at handstroke. We rang a fairly respectable course. Once the plain course is familiar the bobs are simple; double-dodge where Having said the above, I think Mr. Uphill and W. G. W. would agree that as most methods are developed from Plain Bob, Grandsire, like Stedman, is an interesting sideline.—Yours faithfully, East Malling, Kent. STEPHEN GARNER.

PROTECTING OUR BELLS

Dear Sir,-It is common knowledge that the stealing of bells from church towersparticularly those in isolated districts—is on the increase, as bell metal is valuable. answer is surely to leave the bells standing in the "up" position.

Ringers know that this is highly dangerous. But if the rope ends are attached to a hook which can be drawn up and the securing rope padlocked, no visitor or ringer can get the bells "down." Nor can any thief ring the bells down to remove them without rousing the neighbourhood.

A large notice in the ringing chamber stating that the bells are up and that it is highly dangerous to touch them should deter any innocent visitor or unauthorised person from interfering with them.

Those who do so should be informed that such interference is at their own risk .-

Yours faithfully.

Tewkesbury, Glos. L. J. BIRCH

RECORDS KEPT

Dear Sir.—As I keep a record of quarter peals published in The Ringing World, I find that I did not have a note of the quarter peal rung at Starcliffe, Derbyshire, on April 26, 1966, which Mr. Riley mentions in his letter on page 854.

As 1966 was the first year in which I started keeping these records, I could have missed publication of this quarter, in which case I would like to be corrected. If not, then the claim for the first quarter on the bells on July 25, 1970, still stands, at least since 1966.

Incidentally, the claim that the quarter rung at Shustoke, Warwickshire, on June 1970, was the first for ten years is incorrect, as I have three recorded in 1966, i.e. June 26, Bob Doubles; September 1, Bob Minor; and one of 9 Doubles. - Yours faithfully.

ALAN A. J. BUSWELL. Portsmouth, Hants.

BELLS AROUND SCARBOROUGH

Dear Sir,-I was most interested to read the article on bells around Scarborough (R.W., page 855) as I am bringing up to date Consitt Boulter's "Church Bells of the East Riding". There are, however, one or two points in need of correction and some things which can be clarified.

At Seamer your correspondent missed the most interesting bell, a small sanctus bell of French origin dated 1548. It is cracked and this has been cut out. Apparently it was used for many years at Seamer Railway Station before its restoration to the church.

Weaverthorpe's three are swing chimed (the tower is Saxon) and are by Edward Seller II, Samuel Smith I and William Oldfield. Helperthorpe's bells are hung for full circle ringing but the sides of the wheels are beginning to come off (why don't bellfounders use brass screws and glue instead of iron nails? Is it built-in obsolescence?). Kirby Grindalyth's three are at the moment unringable due to the work of pigeons: they are buried in droppings up to the waist. The fittings exposed were in good condition and with some work here it may be possible to get these going again. The 2nd and 3rd are interesting 14th century bells by John Potter. York. The frame, etc., is by Taylors, 1876.

Burton Agnes had its bells rehung dead as a chime in 1968. The 2nd and 4th are Henry Oldfield, of Nottingham, dated

Beeford's bells are now unsafe and I was unable to obtain permission to see them.

I was not surprised to hear that Leven's bells were stiff. When I visited there in 1968 they were prevented from swinging by pieces of wood nailed from the frame to the headstock! The tenor, incidentally, is 6-3-2 in B flat,

There are a few other sets of bells in the area which may be of interest to visitors there:-

Cayton (near Seamer), a Taylor three of 1897 (I have not been there yet so I don't know their condition).

Hunmanby, a swing-chimed three rehung by Taylors in R.S.J.s. A fourth bell used to be here until 1858, when it was sold to Mears to pay for a new clock. (It was a John Potter bell of c. 1370!)

There are "swing chiming only" twos at Reighton and Bempton (Bempton's bells are again 14th century, by John Potter).

At Bessingby there is a chime of eight tubular bells whilst at Sherburn there are eight hemispherical bells stacked saucer fashion, as well as a normal bell and another cracked one unhung in the tower.

There is a ringable three at Rillington (towards Malton) rehung in a metal frame by Taylors in 1909. These are swingby Taylors in 1909. chimed by the locals.

The A170 road to Pickering from Scarborough has some interesting churches and bells. There are three at Hutton Buscel in a substantial wooden frame. Treble and tenor are Taylors 1902 recasts, whilst the second is an extremely fine bell by John Potter (yet again). The inscription is in his large Gothic capital letters and the bell looks as though it came from the founders only yesterday. The detail in the lettering is very clear. Five miles further on is Ebberston, three of 5 cwt, in a metal frame with plain bearings and Hastings stays. The next village of Allerston also possesses a ringable three in a 1910 metal frame by Taylors. The tenor of about 7 cwt. is a mediæval one, probably by John Hoton,

ST. MARY'S, BISHOP'S CANNINGS

Dear Sir,—The writer of the interesting account of Bishop's Cannings church and bells (Ringing World, November 13) refers to the fact that the village derives its name from the Bishops of Salisbury having at one time had a palace there.

I believe, to be strictly correct, that the original owners of the palace (or manor house) were the Bishops of the ancient See of Ramsbury, a small village near the eastern border of the county, but in 909 important enough to be made the seat of a bishopric. The great diocese of Sher-borne was then split and most of Wiltshire and Berkshire were administered from Ramsbury, which endured as a diocese for 160 years. Succeeding bishops, however, found the small revenue to be an embarrassment and in 1075 the Sees of Sherborne and Ramsbury were united in one bishopric and the See was set up in Old Sarum.

Incidentally, All Cannings, a little further along the Vale of Pewsey, is a place even greater antiquity and the Church St. James, Devizes, was once a chapel

All Cannings Church of All Saints. As for the folk of Cannings being simple, all good Wiltshiremen will reply in the words of the old song, "The vlie be on the turmut but there baint no vlies on me."-Yours faithfully, Thurston, Suffolk. C. W. HANCOCK.

ENDERBY DELIGHT

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Whiting's query about Enderby Delight Minor and Whiting's

A. Gill.

Arthur Gill was a member of the Wathon-Dearne company, a tower which for at least a century and a half maintained a tradition of Minor method ringing culmina-ting in 1927 in ringing 197 720's in 186 dif-ferent methods, 147 of which had not been previously recorded.

Arthur prepared many notebooks which he distributed among his ringing friends, containing many methods which he had collected and classified.

The method Enderby is one such method. Arthur was no antiquarian and left few explanations as to the derivations of his methods. It may be that he had rung it somewhere at some time or perhaps the method was one of those rung and named by the Wath-on-Dearne company.

With regard to "The Brides of Enderby" in Jean Ingelow's poem, I made extensive inquiries some years ago and was left in no doubt that the tune was fictitious.

I note that Mr. Whiting has not yet read High Tide. I would suggest that he repairs this omission at the earliest opportunity, as it is one of the most beautiful and moving poems in the English language. -Yours faithfully, of York (c. 1450). The four at Middleton (just west of Pickering) are a pleasant ring of bells.

HAROLD CHANT. Wakefield, Yorks.

Hackness Church possesses three bells which are clocked (!). The frame is in poor condition.

The clergy, with one or two notable examples, have always been most helpful and displayed great interest in their bells when I have made my enquiries. In many cases it would seem that a few repairs would enable a fair number of rings to be rung properly again. Perhaps the ringers of the area may consider such work. Yours faithfully,

G. A. DAWSON. West Bridgford, Notts.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' DINNER

As is customary at this annual function the reply by the secretary (Mr. J. G. A. Prior) gave details of happenings during the past year, and included the attendance that evening, 230, a slight drop on last year.

Members were present from 30 counties: Devon and Cornwall, Yorkshire and Lancashire, from Wales and many other places.

Special mention was made of George

Symonds (96), a member since 1898, who was also present. A few days before he had conducted a peal of Plain Bob Major. (Applause.)

Other long-serving members present were Albert Turner (1908), Bill Rawlings (1914) and Bill Hibbert (1916).

Among the apologies were those from Harry Miles (1922) and Henry Hodgetts (1901), and a letter would be sent to these stalwarts conveying the good wishes of the assembly.

The company stood in memory of members who had died during the past year: Titus Barlow (1942), Cyril J. Hibbert (1935), Clarence H. Dobbie (1911), Herbert W. Knight (1942), Victor Griffin (1963), Frederick C. Maynard (1905), William Shepherd (1900), Charles C. Glass (1909).

Since the last dinner 55 new members had joined and 49 peals had been rung: 2 of Triples, 19 Major, 5 Caters, 6 Royal, 3 Cinques and 14 Maximus.

SPECIAL PEALS

On May 2 a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Cripplegate as a compliment to the master, who was married to Miss Gail Buxton at St. Nicholas', Brighton, that

On June 13 at Claybrooke, Leics, a peal of Stedman Triples was rung by members resident in Leicestershire, whilst on June 20 a peal of Stedman Cinques at Croydon Parish Church was part of the celebrations to mark the centenary of the rededication of the church following its rebuilding after a fire which had destroyed it.

Two peals were rung on July 11 at the same time-Bristol Maximus at St. Maryle-Bow and Cambridge Maximus at St. Michael's, Cornhill, to celebrate the Festival of the City of London.

This year is the 400th anniversary of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, and to mark the occasion a peal of Cambridge Major was rung by the society at St. Lawrence Jewry on September 26.

COUNTRY MEETINGS

On May 30 another highly successful country meeting was held in the West of England—with ringing at Bath Abbey and at five towers in Bristol, and arrangements for next year's meeting were already in hand: June 5, in Norwich and Ipswich. Country meetings are a highlight of the society's year and, as social occasions, are second in importance only to the annual dinner, said the speaker, who stated that normal Tuesday practices had been held throughout the year at the usual City of London towers and at Southwark Cathedral, with a number of special practices also on Tuesday evenings.

At a recent business meeting it was decided that, because of ever-increasing expenses, steepleage and the life membership fee would have to go up. As from Decimalisation Day (February 15, 1971) steepleage would be 1s. (5p.) with the life membership fee 30s. (£1.50).

Mentioning the events of especial interest, the secretary spoke of the television programme on December 31, 1969, when the master and several members took part in Thames Studios, which was transmitted on January 1. The Whitechapel Foundry "Expo" tower and bells were erected in the studio and the master and George Symonds were interviewed—George proving to be more than a match for the young man who interviewed him. This must have been the first time that members shared a studio with elephants, added the speaker amid laughter.

SUITABLE REFRESHMENT

On Shrove Tuesday the society honoured the memory of the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards. Mr. Edwards was a member of the society for many years (he joined in 1897) and in his will he left a sum of money to the society and expressed a wish that on Shrove Tuesday each year ringing should take place at one of the City of London churches and afterwards the ringers should take "suitable refreshment." He was a good member and a fairly frequent visitor to London so he well knew the form which the suitable refreshment would take. On Shrove Tuesday this year there were two practices and "In Memoriam" touches were rung at Cripplegate and at Aldgate.

For the City of London Festival the organisers had asked for ringing to take place at City churches on weekday evenings and this was carried out as a combined operation by the society and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths-one more example of the good relationship which exists between the two societies.

At the Central Council meeting this year a proposal was made that the Council should consider the possibility of holding the 1972 meeting in London, and this aroused a good deal of interest in London ringing circles, for the Council had not met in London for over 20 years. An ad hoc joint committee of members of the Cumberlands and of the College Youths was set up to discover ways and means. The committee made it its business to contact all the London societies and the county associations bordering on London, and it was pleasant to be able to say that all agreed to a joint invitation going to the Council from the two old societies. The invitation had been sent and London ringers looked forward to an announcement that the Council would be going to London in proposed the toast to the guests, whom, he said, he did not know, but then proceeded to list them! He made particular reference to the "master of another society" (Mr. D. E. Sibson was sitting next to the speaker) on more than one occasion; references which were of a jocular nature, but which were accepted in good part. Mr. Patterson, in mentioning several important dignitaries, added that their positions could not have been achieved without at some time acquiring an incidental immunity to flattery. He did not wish to waste any more time, however, and invited the company to rise and drink the health of all the guests.

Replying, the Rev. R. Simpson, who is Precentor of Westminster Abbey and Priestin-Ordinary to H.M. the Queen, first acknowledged the comments of the proposer for his kind and charitable remarks ("but I wrote this before I heard him speak," he added amidst laughter), and continued, "We in turn want to thank the Ancient Society of College Youths for inviting us to such an excellent dinner and congratulate this youthful body on its attainment of 333 years. "Some men have glory thrust upon them," he continued, "for I am the Superintendent of the Belfry of Westminster Abbey—an office which I am very proud to

THE ABBEY BELLS

"I have worked at the greatest Cathedral (Blackburn)—now I am privileged to work at the greatest Abbey—known to all who love our country. I have been reminded that the Abbey has an unworthy ring for such a great place. I am no expert—what I can tell you is that the Whitechapel Foundry, who have been associated with Westminster Abbey for exactly 400 years this year, will have the opportunity of putting things right in the not too distant future. More I am not allowed to say.

"I am well aware that young men and women are interested in the ancient art of campanology for all sorts of reasons, but one purpose is supreme. You may irritate the man who wants to go to sleep—you may give joy to the old person in a sick room, but when you ring before Sunday services you are preaching to far more than the vicar can ever hope to see in his congregation—the bells proclaim that Christ is the King and the Lord of all life.

So: ring out the darkness of the land, Ring in the Christ that is to be."

The master then spoke briefly, thanking all who had helped organise the event, and once more expressed pleasure at the attendance of so goodly a company, and especially the guests. He mentioned the master of 300 years ago, Thomas Denton, who joined the society in 1655; there was no record, he said of the master of 1770, it was not an active period, there being only one peal rung; the master for 1870 was Thomas Richards, when there were many peals rung and the foremost ringers of the Exercise were ringing with the society.

"This toast is the long tradition, 333 years, of the society," he added. "We have been warned this evening about relying too much on tradition. We must take what is worth pursuing and what is worth preserving and yet to be aware of the needs of today for the world of today," said the master, and asked the company to drink, in silence, the toast to the masters of 300, 200 and 100 vears ago.

The formalities completed, the pleasures of the evening continued in what is now unique in ringing circles—an all-male company enjoying discussion, debate and story telling to the full, and no doubt making plans for future conquests in the field of

Haworth did not have to travel so far next time he took part in an opening of a new ring of bells, as this was at St. Stephens's, Hampstead, on December 26, 1872. A College Youths' band opened the ten bells with various touches. As the notice of the dedication said, "Selections from the most approved methods of change ringing on nine and ten bells will be rung Youths (founded 1637), under the general direction of the Rev. W. Wigram, M.A., Vicar of Brent with Furneaux Pelham. Herts. To commence at Twelve o'clock.'

It was about this time that Haworth was engaged as official instructor to the bands Waltham Abbey and Wanstead, Essex. It was quite a common practice in those days for a band to engage a ringer to instruct them, who would be paid for his services; and it was perhaps in 1872 that Haworth—as far as I can judge from his records-started to take on such appointments. Apparently he eventually left printing to become a full-time "professional" ringer; at least, so I surmise, though there is no absolute evidence for this. pointment with the Waltham Abbey ringers lasted at least seven years. Presumably his duties there and at Wanstead involved attending regularly on practice nights only; later on, as will be seen, he took full-time appointments for definite periods, such as three months, and at the expiration of his contract he would leave that particular tower. Haworth was not the only one engaged in such business, as the diaries of William Fussell, which formed the subject of a series of articles in The Ringing World some years ago, show.

TESTIMONIAL

A testimonial from the Waltham Abbey ringers, dated July, 1873, reads as follows: "Mr. J. R. Haworth of the Society of College Youths, London, has met us for some time, and assisted us in the practice of Change Ringing, and we are pleased with his assistance, and glad to meet him on all There is a similar testimonial occasions." from the Wanstead ringers.

Next year, in 1873, the College Youths were again in Scotland for the opening of the new ring of bells in Dundee Old Steeple. Haworth writes: "Eight members of the College Youths were invited to open a peal of eight bells in the Old Steeple of St. Mary's, Dundee; and they started by the Great Northern Railway, through York, Newcastle, Berwick, Edinburgh, Stirling, Perth, to Dundee. They left London at 8.30 on Monday evening. May 19th, 1873, and arrived at 10 on Tuesday morning. They had a capital reception by many gentlemen of the town-Mr. Jamieson, Mr. Leng and others-and after the peal on Wednesday sat down to a first-class dinner, presided over by Mr. Jamieson and Mr. Yeoman (Clerk of the works). They also rang at St. Paul's, another peal of eight (which had been cast and hung in 1872). Haworth, Cooter. Muskett and Ferris went across the River Tay to see the ruins of St. Andrew's Abbey and University. They returned from Dundee on Friday morning at 7.55 by the North Western Railway through Cumberland and Westmorland, passing Gretna Green and Carlisle, arriving at Euston Square at 8.30 p.m."

The peal, Grandsire Triples, was rung on the Wednesday, May 21, immediately after the opening ceremony, and was claimed as the first peal in Scotland. Besides the ringers already mentioned, the band included V. Tanner, W. Jones, M. A. Wood (who called the peal) and W. Greenleaf.

In the newspaper account of the opening of the bells occurs this sentence: "We hope that a proposal to employ an instructor from London to instruct ringers for both St. Paul's and the Steeple peal will be carried out . . . The inhabitants of Dundee as yet know little or nothing of changeringing." The proposal was carried out, and Haworth was engaged for three months -July 14th to October 14, 1873.

It is this period and his subsequent engagements as instructor that form the subject matter of the second of Haworth's books. The "Dundee" book begins with books. press cuttings relating to the opening of the Old Steeple bells, and information about the other bells in the town. The arrangement of the other items, mainly press cut-tings, is somewhat haphazard. It includes the testimonials from Waltham Abbey and Wanstead, already referred to, together with one previously mentioned from a firm of printers for whom Haworth was working in 1860.

ARRIVAL IN DUNDEE

On Haworth's arrival in Dundee, says The Dundee Advertiser, "A meeting of the intending ringers was held in the Old Steeple at seven o'clock last night, when two classes of learners were formed one for each peal (i.e. St. Paul's and Old Steeple). It was arranged that the Old Steeple ringers shall practice, so long as the Instructor is here, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday: and the St. Paul's ringers every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at seven o'clock in the evenings. Until the ringers obtain some proficiency the bells will be rung silently." The combined bands soon numbered nearly twenty members, who, on the 22nd September, formed themselves into the "Dundee Society of Bell-ringers." The rules were drawn up by Haworth, he having first obtained quite a collection of specimens of ringers' rules, which are still preserved among the College Youths' papers.

Progress seems to have been quite good. After a month the bells were being rung open—which provoked a letter of com-plaint to the newspaper—and just before Haworth's departure it was published in the paper that "Mr. Haworth, their instructor, having completed his engagement in Dundee, it is the intention of the members of the Dundee Society of Bellringers to ring complimentary peals on the bells of the Old Steeple and St. Paul's this evening, between six and seven o'clock, as a mark of respect to him before his return to London. After this the ringers will only practise one night in the week on each peal." At the meeting on 22nd September, Haworth was presented with a gold medal, bearing an appropriate inscription.

On his departure, Haworth also received the following unsolicited testimonial: is to certify that Mr. J. R. Haworth, a member of the College Youths' Society, has during the last three months acted as instructor of the local ringers of the two new peals of bells in the Old Steeple, and in the tower of St. Paul's Church, Dundee; that he has been most attentive, diligent and judicious in the discharge of his duties; that the ringers have made highly satisfactory progress under his instruction.

which seems to indicate that Haworth was anxious to find another similar appoint-

The next appointment of which there is any record, however, was not until November, 1875. In the meanwhile, Haworth had taken part in the openings of another four new rings of bells, and had rung his hundredth peal, Grandsire Triples, at Bethnal Green, on February 21, 1874. The first of these openings was the augmented ring at St. Andrew's, Plymouth.

TEN COLLEGE YOUTHS
"On Saturday, June 13, 1874," wrote
Haworth, "ten members of the College Society, who were invited by the Youths' Devonshire Guild of Ringers, went from London by the Great Western Railway to open the bells of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, which had been augmented from eight to ten by the addition of two trebles." There follows a cutting from The Plymouth Western Morning News of Tuesday, June 16, from which we learn that this visit coincided with the inaugural meeting of the Guild of Developed the Could of Developed to the Could of the Could the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. After the service on the Monday morning the College Youths' band rang touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal. This was followed by lunch and the inaugural meeting, then the College Youths rang some more touches in the afternoon. In the evening there was a concert.

Haworth goes on: "On Tuesday the College Youths were invited to Plympton St. Mary, where they met Colonel Trelawny, the Rev. Mr. Kelly (a College Youth and a ringer), Mr. Woolcombe and Miss Trelawny, and rang several touches on the bells, with which they were much pleased. Under the porch of this church a circumstance occurred which had not been performed perhaps at any time or place before -a course of Grandsire Cinques was rung. in which Miss Trelawny took five-six, and rang them without a mistake, before thirty or forty persons. She appeared to be about eighteen or twenty years of age. . . Mr. Kelly invited the College Youths to his church, Plympton St. Maurice, about a mile from Plympton St. Mary, where they rang on the peal of six. They were kindly entertained by him at luncheon and dinner. and returned to Plymouth in the evening.

25 YEARS AGO

November 23, 1945

A letter from a "Gunner" in Norway told of some of the bells hung in the church in Narvik in the Arctic Circle.

At Worsley, Lancs, a peal of Oxford T.B. Royal was conducted by Joseph Ridyard, the other nine ringing their first in the method.

Nolan Golden and Henry Tooke took part in a peal of St. Clements Bob Major at Hethersett, Norfolk, it being their 100th together. Nolan Golden was the composer and conductor. . .

Bob Minor was rung at Thames Ditton, the conductor being Frank E. Hawthorne, his first in that capacity.

Information required. Can any reader give authentic highest and lowest average age of a successful peal band?—Advt.

Mr. Thomas Langdon was injured by one of the bells at St. Michael's, Cornhill, and taken to hospital. The details were not disclosed, but it was "a considerable time before he was released."

One hundred and fifty ringers from all parts of Leicestershire assembled in St. George's Hall to consider the recommendation of the provisional committee regarding the forming of the new guild. Mr. J. P. Fidler presided and Mr. H. J. Poole was elected first president.

50 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for

November 26, 1920 concern of ringers for the future of The Ringing World and expressions of a desire that the Exercise should rally to the support of the journal as the only link between the ringers of the kingdom.—

Thomas Wallis and Sidney Holt rang their first peal on ten (Grandsire Caters) at Worcester, and Joseph Ridyard conducted a peal of Grandsire Triples at Worsley, Lancs, for Armistice Day.

Three cover bells (4, 6, 8) were used in a peal of Doubles at Ludlow, Salop, which Daniel Matkin conducted.

Edgar C. Shepherd and William B. Cartwright rang their first peal at Harborne, Staffs, conducted by George Pigott.

Because of the unsafe state of the tower the ringing at Christ Church, Southport, had been suspended. (Gossip paragraph.)

Mr. George R. Marden was senior steward of the College Youths.

Mr. W. A. Cave wrote suggesting "... my brother ringers ... the conductor of my brother ringers . . . the conductor of a peal shall collect from each of the ringers the sum of twopence and to forward it with the details of the peal to the Editor of The Ringing World. This would help solve the financial difficulties."

For the funeral service of the Unknown Warrior at Westminster Abbey the bells were rung at stated periods half-muffled.

"Sussex Bells and Belfries"

George P. Elphick

pp. 427 + xx. 85 plates. 42 line figures. Phillimore, Chichester, 1970. £5 10s, Reviewed by David L. Cawley, F.S.A.Scot.

It is perhaps fortunate that even those accredited as the foremost experts in any field are liable to be proved wrong. Had this not been so, and the late Mr. Amherst Tyssen, who produced "The Church Bells of Sussex" in 1864, had been credited with infallibility, there is every likelihood that we should not be presented with "Sussex Bells and Belfries" in 1970. For it was due to a small inaccuracy that Mr. Elphick was aroused to curiosity as to the complete accuracy of the work and "found himself committed to a complete survey of Sussex bells". That was in 1935. Thirty-five years later we are provided with the fruits of that commitment.

It could well be that Mr. Elphick's work will revolutionise the study of bells and belfries in the second half of the 20th century. A large number of our county books deal mainly with inscriptions and with the chronological data about bell-founders, with which many will be familiar. We now have a work which is not only the most exhaustive treatise on the bells and bellfounders of any one county that has yet appeared, but also in itself an objective study of the evolution of the bell frame and the development of bell fittings.

It is Mr. Elphick's good fortune to possess in his Lewes home two of the oldest bells found in this country, and he is therefore well equipped to treat the subject of founding from Roman times until today. It is impossible to say much of bells of, say, pre-1200, as few large bells of this date exist. However, we must be indebted to Mr. Elphick for both writing and illustrating from such material as he has been able to gather from the work of Theophilus, "De Variis Artibus", III, which can be no later than 1050, and from that of Walter de Odyngton, of Evesham, c. 1250. Readers must be left to form their conclusions by reading the work as it stands in our new book, and they will agree with Mr. Elphick that, beyond these sources, together with another anonymous writer also of c. 1250 and, of course, the famous "Bellfounders Window" at York, very little material has been committed to paper (or other media) from the 13th to the 19th centuries by English founders.

Where then does one turn to obtain the information? It is to the bells themselves, bearing in mind the early sources mentioned above. Mr. Elphick's work is a masterpiece of cold fact and scientific deduction; by means of diagrams and trapezoids he shows how the shape of the soundbow, the head mould and the lip of the bell evolved in relation to the demand for correct tuning of the bell, both as regards its strike note and its overtones; how the canons were formed in shapes which reflected their usefulness and also as an attribute of beauty in a bell. As Mr. Elphick leads us into the 14th and 15th centuries he shows how the shape of the so-called "inscription ring" moulding on a bell with no other markings can help to date the bell. The techniques of casting are obviously reflected in the bells themselves, and by process of comparison and careful deduction we are shown how the date of a bell may be adduced; further, Mr. Elphick gives graphic descriptions of the tools of the bellfounder, his moulds, his furnace, the precautions he took; indeed one has only to shut one's eyes and one is in the 13th century foundry imagining the casting actually happening.

Mr. Elphick deals with the subject of tuning in a way which will appeal to all lovers of Sussex. Despite what has been said in this journal, the name of Canon Simpson, who lies buried in Fittleworth, Sussex, will ever be remembered and honoured in connection with the development of true-harmonic tuning, and yet he does not forget the contributions of others to the subject.

Mr. Elphick then proceeds to catalogue the various founders and their existing bells. Mr. Elphick has left no stone unturned in his efforts to uncover all relative information from the earliest documented Sussex founder, "Aedric, who cast the bells" (of Battle Abbey) in the 11th century, through the earliest named bell—the single one at Albourne, by Adam le Potter, possibly as early as 1282, through the 14th and 15th centuries and so to the 19th century with "little men" sprouting, some (like Naylor Vickers and Co.) like bad pennies, others such as T. C. Lewis, the great and gifted organ-builder, whose perfectionism in church bell founding eventually forced him out of business. There is an interesting discussion of the various foreign bells to be found in Sussex, the earliest (and most famous) at Duncton, dating from 1369 (it is the third oldest dated bell in England), and the way in which Mr. Elphick examines its history is indicative of the care he extends to each and every founder. Mr. Elphick's book is superbly illustrated with plates of his own plaster-casts of inscriptions, founders' marks and ornament, to which we are unused. Here, for the first time perhaps, are recorded a vast array of both local and national founders' stamps, which resemble their counterparts on the bells to a tee. Take a little pleasure from Plate LIII, the splendid Royal Arms on Arundel tenor; or look at the founders themselves—a stern John Warner, paragon of 19th century businessmanship, or Thomas Mears, junior, very much reflecting the ebullience of the century in which he was born.

Mr. Elphick does not leave untouched the subject of towers and the development of ringing; but it is not until these have been exhausted that with simplicity (despite the terrifying-looking graphs) and detail Mr. Elphick launches into the subject of the dating of frames and the evolution of fittings

With regard to the actual form of bell frames, Mr. Elphick gives us a plan of 26 different standard trusses, using 19 different variations to show how trusses can be varied by the position of the head of the end frame relative to the head of the side truss, and so forth. Careful study of Mr. Elphick's work (he is a carpenter by trade) will make it abundantly clear just what he is writing about. And so to the subject of dating. The reviewer is doubtful if the words "Carbon - 14", "Dendrochronology, or Tree - Ring Analysis", "Cambium Layers", "Summer growth" and many others have appeared in books on bells before.

There is a most careful introduction to the subject of dating by dendrochronology and the comparative use of timber samples of which the earliest was felled in the late 12th century and dates the period A.D. 1143-897 and the latest was still unseasoned in a builder's yard in 1949.

In studying the frame, however, we are not to forget the mechanical evolution of both framework and fittings, the layout of the former and the design of the latter. The drawings are of a high standard, and once again dendrochronology can (to rather a more cautious degree) be employed with fittings. The evolution of the wheel is the evolution of ringing, the development of the clapper is the good striker's guide to the difficulties the founders of yesterday faced, and the careful maintenance of bell fittings has ample precedent in the past.

The contents of Sussex belfries are admirably catalogued by Mr. Elphick. The matter of whether to include the weights, in the writer's opinion, a subject of which only the author can be the arbiter. It is perhaps sad that no bells are illustrated in toto (excepting the notable frontispiece), but the plates and line drawings are half the glory of the book and the criticism can hardly be justified.

The writer believes this is the best book that has appeared on Church Bells. The Tyssens, the Stahlschmidts, the Norths, the Ravens, the H. B. W.s of the past; the long line of Sussex bellfounders and those who have supplied bells to Sussex; the countless ringers who have enjoyed the bells of this most lovely county—all will join in acknow-ledgement of Mr. Elphick's work, whether it be because he brings their pioneering to the 20th century with 20th century methods; whether it be for the care he devotes to appraising their products or examining their workmanship; whether it be for the interest he kindles in this most fascinating subject of bells. We, who hope to follow in his footsteps, can have no better guide. And the ringers of Sussex can add their tribute by carrying out one of Mr. Elphick's closing observations: "To continue the use of their art so that men may be reminded that bells are a witness to the world of the existence of the Church." Snowdon Dinner, 1970

"Honour the past and look to the future," was the message which Canon J. C. K. Brumpton gave to the Yorkshire Association and its members at their 38th Annual Commemoration Dinner to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers, proposing the principal toast of the evening.

The Dinner, held in the New Arcadian Hall, Barnsley, was well attended, with 162 members and guests sitting down to enjoy a very good meal served in a manner typical of South Yorkshire folk. The meal over, the president (Mr. Vernon Bottomley) proposed the Loyal Toast and commented that it was the first occasion the Dinner had been held in Barnsley and it was a very enjoyable and memorable occasion. He also announced the winners of the association's striking contest (the final of which had been held at Dewsbury earlier that day), as Kirk Ella, with Wakefield runners-up.

The evening's entertainment included a selection of tunes played by the Hunshelf Handbell Ringers under the leadership of Mr. Michael King, and included a number of their own arrangements.

PRINCIPAL TOAST

The president introduced the first guest speaker, Canon J. C. K. Brumpton, rector of Barnsley and president of the Barnsley and District Society, who proposed the toast of "The late Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association."

Canon Brumpton said that when in-

Canon Brumpton said that when invited to speak he felt he ought to decline as he thought it required someone with a greater practical knowledge of bellringing. He was afraid he might appear rather like a vegetarian at a gathering of pork butchers. However, he had accepted for three reasons:—

Firstly, to welcome the association on behalf of the Diocese of Wakefield, the Deanery of Barnsley and the Barnsley and District Society. He) acknowledged the work done by ringing societies and knew of the work done by the Barnsley Society. Having read the Yorkshire Association's Report he was filled with admiration for those involved in the art of ringing those involved in the art of ringing.

Secondly, said Canon Brumpton, "I decided it would do me good to meet and to mix with real bellringers and so get to know them better; and thirdly, as a 'tinkler of bells,' regretfully I reveal to you that my past is littered with four broken bell ropes and one stay. At least I have had a go and have tried to clang the bell in some parishes to let people know that the parish church is still there—which, after all in the whole supresses of ringing."

after all, is the whole purpose of ringing."

Canon Brumpton recalled the importance of the church and bells in village life, and added that these must have been very familiar to Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and his contemporaries almost a century ago. He commented on the credit side of Yorkshire ringing, which seemed to be in a very healthy state—especially in days when recruitment is very difficult. This healthy state was due to the undoubted enthusiasm of the members in fostering the association's work. Praise should also be accorded to the president and the officers for their unfailing efforts in the continuance of an act which is very much a part of our English heritage.

The Report included one item which stood out: the rule setting the bellringer as a Church worker alongside the chorister, the organist and even the clergy, and this ideal must have been extremely close to the heart of Jasper Snowdon. It is very easy for a tower to become remote from the rest of the church and even the life of the village or parish. Ringers must try to divorce themselves from the intricacies of the art and consider the purpose of ringing—the glorification and praise of God. They must not forget Christ's teaching on service—accepting service from others is just as important today as rendering service, and, whilst ringing, they must remember their aims and the nature of the service they are performing.

PART OF OUR HERITAGE

"We recall," said Canon Brumpton, "the memory of those who so faithfully persevered to keep ringing in Yorkshire going and to bring it to its present healthy state. England's bolls have rung out during all conditions and crises, and they are part of our heritage. So, here in the present, we honour the past and look to the future," and with these words the assembled company rose and raised their glasses toasting Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association.

The traditional acceptance of this toast, a plain course of Grandsire Caters, was rung on handbells, five members of the Southern Branch (all holding office in the Association) taking part, and the handbells used were those which belonged to Dan Smith, who until his death in 1962 was for many years vice-president of the Southern District and of the Barnsley Society. (The bells had not been used since his funeral.) The ringers were: W. Eric Critchley 1-2, Harold Chant 3-4, Wilfrid F. Moreton 5-6, John L. Gilbert 7-8, A. Colin Banton 9-10. The toast to the visitors was ably (and briefly) proposed by Mr. Harold Chant (chairman, Southern Branch), who in addition to Canon and Mrs. Brumpton men-

The toast to the visitors was ably (and briefly) proposed by Mr. Harold Chant (chairman, Southern Branch), who in addition to Canon and Mrs. Brumpton, mentioned especially Mr. Tom White, for 23 years editor of The Ringing World. Although not a visitor, Mr. John F. Moxon (Sandal) was greeted; at the age of 91 he is still very active and has the distinction of being the oldest member of both the Yorkshire Association and the Barnsley Society.

Replying to the toast, Mr. Tom White said he regarded it as an honour to be invited to the Snowdon Dinner and, on behalf of the guests, to say "Thank you" to the officers and members of the Yorkshire Association for their warm hospitality and entertainment. The Hunshelf Handbell Ringers, he said, deserved a special word of praise. There were times when items, other than change ringing associated with handbells, were discouraged in The Ringing World, and he had been asked to refrain from publishing such items. He had not heeded this and was glad, for today the art of change ringing was on too firm a pedestal to be disturbed by the dulcet tones from tune-ringing on handbells.

A FAMOUS BOOK
The Yorkshire Association and the societies embodied in the county have remained true to the tenets of Jasper Snowdon. Just over 90 years ago Snowdon gave to the Exercise the famous book Ropesight, which had been reprinted, and future generations could read Snowdon's words in an unabridged form. There had been a concentration on initial training, said Mr. White, and he mentioned the work of Wilfrid Moreton and Norman Chaddock in producing The Tutor's Handbook. In view of the tremendous developments in change ringing he considered the stability of the Exercise depended not on new fields of mathematical excursions into the unknown, but upon men and women with the knowledge and personality to train bands in the rudiments of change ringing and complete mastery of the bell. To meet this everconstant need, publications like the Tutor's Handbook need to be produced, concluded Mr. White. He wished the association well in the future.

The Hunshelf Handbell Ringers then gave a number of items, and the president concluded the formal proceedings by thanking all present for their attendance, and also those who had helped with the arrangements. He singled out Chris Moxon and Colin Banton, who had borne the responsibility of the major part of the organisation.

The remainder of the evening was spent renewing old acquaintances and in making new friendships, and all agreed it was a most happy and memorable occasion.

Supporting the president on the top table at dinner were Mrs. Bottomley, Canon J. C. K. and Mrs. Brumpton, Mr. Tom White, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moreton and Mr. A. Moreton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Chant and Miss S. Chant, Mr. and Mrs. R. Brown, Rev. G. C. Galley, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Moxon.

CHRISTMAS GIFT SUGGESTIONS

At this time of year many kindly folk are looking around for suitable gifts for relatives and friends, but to find the ideal present for a bellringer we suggest is easy. Our advertisers provide these ideas:

The Aldershot Stores have ties in varying colours and also blazer badges; and Peter Sloman also has a tie in a different design while he specialises in the one for the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain.

Peter Minchin makes a novelty which can be put to many uses as well as being decorative—the miniature bellrope. Good value for money is this at 30s each value for money is this at 30s. each.

The B.B.C.'s record, "Church Bells," advertised in this issue, is well worth consideration, and when played before a company of ringers will give pleasure as well as a topic for conversation, as will the tape recording "Sound of the Carillon" (Ringing World, page 926) at 21s. (plus p. & p.), produced by Newcastle on Tyne Civic Centre.

The many publications advertised offer a wide range to suit all pockets: Kingsmead Bookshop, Bath, Somerset, have several ringers' books, among the most recent being the facsimile of a first edition of Stedman's Tintinnalogia (1668), which at 42s will grace any bookshelf.

Phillimore of Chichester have now published Sussex Bells and Belfries by George Elphick (reviewed in this week's issue). Beautifully produced and well illustrated it is a book every ringer would wish to possess, and although costing £5 10s. the limited edition is worth every penny.

William Viggers (Aldershot) publishes

Dove's Bellringers' Guide (4th edition) in three bindings, and also has several of his own "Delight" series available—visitors books, etc. The Ringers' Notebook and Diary which appears every year is a "must" for all ringers, and the Central Council's variety of publications should be considered for the beginner and the progressive campanologist.

Other worthy publications include the Snowdon Series (Christopher Groome), The Ringers' Handbook (Mrs. E. S. Powell), and Instruction and Diagram Book (Lancashire Association) from Frank Payends cashire Association) from Frank Reynolds.

Paul Cattermole's booklet The Bells of Bale is a very limited handmade effort and quite a novelty in its production, whilst the two Calendars offered are one of churches in Bedfordshire and the R.W.—
both 6s. 6d. inclusive.

There are no doubt many other items—records and books—of which we have no immediate knowledge but would sell if advertised, we are sure!

And a subscription to The Ringing World is always acceptable. Send it to Mr. C. W. Lucas, Ringing World Office, Guildford.

Hertfordshire County Association SPARSE GATHERING

There was a sparse gathering at Baldock for the Northern District quarterly meeting on October 3. Ringing took place before the rector (Rev. K. G. Martin) conducted an interesting and unusual service, no organist being available.

Tea was taken in St. Mary's Hall and the president of the association (Mr. A. R. Agg) took the chair for the business meeting. Future meetings were discussed and it was decided that in December they would be moved from the first to the second Saturday to enable members to attend the St. Albans District dinner. One new member was elected—Robert Ellis (Baldock).

Further ringing took place, under the direction of the ringing master, Ian Panton, duced by John Priest.

This 12in. Mono L.P. 33\frac{1}{2}\text{ r.p.m. record} gives a wide selection of change ringing on bells from six to twelve in number. The eight of Debenham, Suffolk (21 cwt.) start with three leads of Bristol and are followed by Lichfield Cathedral ten (31\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt.}) ringing Grandsire Caters. Stedman
Doubles are rung on the six at Cadoxton, Glam (7\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt.}), whilst the Cathedral and Abbey Church of St. Albans ring Erin
Cinques on the 12 (23\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt.}) in that wellknown tower.

Evercreech, Som, are heard twice—Stedman Triples on side 1, and Grandsire Caters on side 2 (tenor 21 cwt.) and, completing the first selection, St. Martin's, Birmingham, ring Stedman Cinques (36\frac{3}{4} cwt.).

For the opening of the second side, Hillingdon (Middlesex) are heard ringing Grandsire Caters (21\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt.}) and are followed by the eight of Hughenden, Bucks, (14\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt.}) ringing Stedman Triples. The Evercreech Grandsire Caters already mentioned follow, and Norwich Surprise Minor on the six of West Wickham, Kent (12\text{ cwt.}) is next rung. Grandsire Triples on the 21\frac{1}{4}\text{ cwt. eight of Stratton, Cornwall, are followed by the final item — Stedman Cinques on the 62\frac{1}{2}\text{ cwt. 12 of St. Paul's Cathedral.}

The record sleeve carries descriptions of each of the churches selected and a short historical note on its bells. It is, in our opinion, a good record and well worth the 28s. 9d. which it costs, although to the discriminating ringer no doubt the imperfections here and there will be noticeable; to the average ringer, however, a possession of which he can boast to ringers and non-ringers alike.

Saffolk Guild RINGING RESTRICTED

The A.G.M. of the N.W. District was held at Horringer on October 10 and, as has been experienced before, attendance was poor and this resulted in both afternoon and evening ringing being restricted. At the meeting the small amount of business was soon dealt with, officers being returned as previously. Quarterly meetings were arranged for the coming year and ringing resumed with learners having a good chance to practise

FRANK AFFORD

Although Frank Afford had not rung for many years he is still remembered by older ringers for his good work in the past. He started ringing during the 1914-18 war when Winwick bells were restored, and continued until about 1929. Frank died on October 28 last in Peterborough Hospital, leaving a widow. His favourite method had always been Grandsire Doubles, and a quarter peal was rung at Winwick, halfmuffled, on the evening after the funeral. Two of the band taking part, Mr. R. J. Yeomans and Mr. H. Goakes, had rung with him in the past. G. M.

THOMAS ISOM

It is with deep sadness that I report the loss by death of Tom Isom, of Groby, Leics, at the age of 58. Tom was not well known in the sense of being a ringer of peals or advanced methods but he nevertheless took a great interest in the guild and its operations. He very much enjoyed coming to meetings, which he attended regularly when his health permitted. Above all Tom was, as the vicar (Rev. Peter Blackman) stated at the funeral, a faithful servant of his church.

Tom taught very many young learners to ring and had been a member of the guild for 22 years.

His health had been indifferent for a number of years, but he always recovered sufficiently to come back into the picture once more. However, the last 12 months or so proved too much for him, and he was "called home" on November 7.

Tom's passing leaves a deep gap in the Groby band but his memory will be with us for a long time. All who knew him will remember his example of a generous and gentle-hearted fellow. To his widow, Jessie, and son, John, goes the sincere sympathy of the Leicester Guild.

TINTINNALOGIA—or THE ART OF RINGING

To a printer the lithographic reproductions of the 136 pages of this well-known book attributed to Fabian Stedman, who was a printer himself (in 1668), is a very worthy effort. The clarity of the wording and figures is very good indeed, the quality of the paper is suitable, although the cleancut edges all round rather spoil the effect of "age" (this, of course, is for economy reasons) which the rest of the book proclaims. When it is realised that the considerable amount of hand type-setting involved in those days required a still more considerable amount of hand type and wood cutting, the quality of the production in 1668 is well displayed in the reproduction in 1970.

Apart from the pleasure of owning such a reproduction, the interest and instructive value of the work alone is immeasurable, and, as Mr. Frederick Sharpe writes in his introduction to this edition: "The great majority of ringers will wish to include this important and historic work on thein bookshelves."

The first edition of Tintinnalogia rapidly sold out and a second edition was published in 1671. We believe that the first reproduction edition in 1970 will also rapidly sell out, and advise our readers to make sure of their copy by ordering now from: Kingsmead Reprints, Rosewell House, Kingsmead Square, Bath (price 42s.).

A SILENT HERITAGE?

A disturbing but nevertheless substantially true article by Rex Butler in The Church Times of November 20 suggested that because of lack of recruits "the time is departing when in towns and villages sons followed fathers in the towers, and families of bellringers of several generations were built up; because today a large proportion of village youth leave their native places for the towns; there are so many more competitive attractions, and many would prefer an evening in front of the television to climbing the tower steps."

Giving several reminiscences of his youth spent in Bristol and also of happenings in Buckinghamshire, the writer speaks of the bells playing a lesser part in celebration of public and historic occasions and of the festivals of the Church, mentioning the Pancake Bell and the Pudding Bell, and hopes the time will never arrive when Tennyson's lines are mere extracts:

"The time draws near the birth of Christ; The moon is hid; the night is still; The Christmas bells from hill to hill Answer each other in the mist."

An interview with Mr. R. V. Johnson (master of the Sussex Association), however, encouraged the writer to hope that the church bells were not becoming silent, as had been suggested, and we agree with the final paragraph:

"While the situation at present is not entirely discouraging, there would appear to be need for increased effort to ensure that the voices of the Church are still to be heard in town and country village in years ahead."

It is our duty as ringers to look ahead and to ensure that sufficient recruits are forthcoming and, once obtained, to make the art interesting and appealing to them.

ST. DAVID'S GUILD

Sending us a well-produced and attractive silver jubilee booklet, incorporating the annual report of St. David's Guild, the ringing master (Mr. Arthur F. Walters) also sends a number of quarter peals accomplished for the anniversary. It is a small guild, only having 14 ringable towers, but the enthusiasm and drive is equal to any larger association.

In the quarters, 25 ringers took part and it took over two months to ring them for, being spread over a wide area (Pembroke, Carmarthen and Cardiganshire), getting ringers together was a mammoth task.

The list of officers, including 17 clerical vice-presidents, is very impressive. There is a foreword from the Bishop (president) and a message from the master (Mr. P. C. Rogers), a letter from the secretary (John Prytherch) and a short history of the Guild. The cost of the report has been offset (only partially, no doubt) by many advertisements from butchers and bakers, etc., and the whole effort shows great enterprise and initiative. We congratulate the guild on its excellent effort and its anniversary.

We shall not be missing an issue of The Ringing World this year (as was done in 1969). Our Christmas number will appear on December 18 and the following issue on December 22. Advertisers and association secretaries please note—all copy must be with us by December 11 for December 22 issue, and by December 18 for January 1 issue.

Christmas Cards are expensive to buy and cost 4d. to send through the post. We are reserving space in our columns for you to send your Greetings (5s. for 30 words minimum) during the week December 18 and 25. Copy (with remittance) must be in our hands by first post Thursday, December 10. Don't delay, send NOW!

Personal Records: P. Roy Collins (125 peals), Ernest Preston (50), and one new conductor, Richard H. Hall.

Susan Guy is the second member of St. Mary's, Northiam, Sussex, to join H.M. Forces this year. Geoffrey Juden is serving with the Royal Military Police. Sue (with four months' service) is now playing an E flat bass with the band of the Women's Royal Army Corps at Guildford and took part in this year's Lord Mayor's Show.

"May the blue bird of happiness let fly in the foliage of your favourite forsythia!"—This inspiring and encouraging message together with a colourful bird decoration (of doubtful origin) was depicted on the sheet of notepaper sent to the Editor containing notice of a Lancashire Association meeting. (Quite delightful.)

Are there any survivors of the old Wednesday afternoon band of the James George era, asks Mr. T. C. Belton, of Birstall. His father, who has been in hospital for several months, was one of them during the 1930's.

With the best wishes of the whole company the ringer of the 3rd in the York Minster quarter peal on November 8, Douglas Clegg (recently retired) left York the following week for a visit to Australia.

The gratitude of the local band at Bredgar, Kent, is extended to Walter Dobbie and his wife who have helped them and came over to join in the first attempt at a quarter recently.

The quarter peal rung at Bures was rung by the local band as a thanksgiving for the life and kindnesses of Mrs. St. Osyth M. E. Wood, O.B.E. In 1950 Dr. Thomas Wood acted as guarantor for two trebles; the contract had just been signed when a sudden heart attack proved fatal. Within a matter of days Mrs. Wood sent word that she would act for her husband, this gesture proving a great relief to the fund organiser, as only just over £100 was in hand at that time. It was later decided that the bells should be a memorial to Dr. Thomas and subscriptions came from many of his friends. Thus on the satisfactory completion of the work the bellfounders were paid.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on handbells rung at Maidenhead on November 6 completed the Cambridge family "in hand" for Jennifer Dunning, Christopher Rowson and Keith Walpole.

Mr. Percy Gardner, of Wraxall, Som, rang his first peal—Bob Major—at Bristol Cathedral on October 30 at what he believes to be his eighth or ninth attempt. On one previous occasion 5040 changes were rung at Chewton Mendip, but they discovered 3 and 4 to be over at the end!

Llandaff Cathedral.—To add to peals of Grandsire Caters and Plain Bob Royal achieved in recent years, the Cathedral Guild, membership of which requires regular ringing on Sundays, has now rung Stedman Caters this being completed with very few mistakes on November 20. The next goal is a peal of Surprise Royal, which it is hoped to ring early in the New Year.

First peal congratulations to Percy Gardner, William Arnold, Susan J. Lee, David K. Gough.

New methods this week include Clyde Little Surprise Maximus and Gwent Surprise Major.

Mr. Derek J. Carr, commenting on the fact that St. Botolph-without-Aldgate is in the charge of someone living 20 miles away, suggests that a local band be trained to solve the regular ringing problem.

"Sorry about this, the baby's been at it!" said a footnote on a peal report form which arrived minus the corners!

By calling a peal of Cambridge Royal at Minehead on November 14, Robert Dennis has rung peals on all six tens in Somerset this year. Has this ever been achieved in one year before?

Over a period of seven years five attempts have been made by Mr. Anthony Davidson, general secretary of the Truro Guild, for a peal of Cambridge Royal and he has at last succeeded. There are few opportunities at present for Surprise Royal ringing in Cornwall, but no doubt in time this will improve.

David and Beryl Dorrington thank the Middlesex Association for ringing a quarter of Stedman for their wedding on October 3 It was much appreciated and made the day all the more happy.

The neal of Plain and Little Bob at Deptford on October 31 was the 650th by Trevor A. Cross.

Sheffield Cathedral honoured the completion of the major work to the tower and hells by a quarter of Bob Maximus on November 15. Coupled with this first quarter on the new hells were congratulations to Mr. H. O. Chaddock on his 65th hirthday (November 14) and his retirement from full-time employment. Apart from the bells there is a new frame and fittings, the addition of a flat sixth and the renovation of the ringing room.

Warning to visiting ringers with cars and cycles. Vandals are still spraying anything in sight parked outside St. Mary's Church, Finchley, with paint stripper. The police are watching the area and St. Mary's band are helping them during practice hours and on Sundays.

After two attemnts at Norton Subcourse failed, it was third time lucky when the quarter at Pakefield came round. Fred Harrold's young band (age 11-16) hope to ring several more quarters and then attempt a peal.

EXECUTIONS AT NEWGATE

Dear Sir,-In answer to Mr. D. L. Cawley's inquiry regarding the above, a bequest of £50 was made in 1605 by Robert Dowe, a Merchant Taylor buried in St. Botolph's, Aldgate, "for ringing the greatest bell in St. Sepulchre's Church on the day the condemned prisoners are executed" and "for other services for ever concerning such condemned prisoners. The bell commenced to toll when the procession left Newgate Gaol and outside the church a nosegay was presented to the criminal. The latter favour was last be-The latter favour was last bestowed in 1774.

There is believed to have been a tunnel connecting the church crypt with the gaol through which it is thought that condemned prisoners were brought to receive the Last Sacrament, and this was the way that, in accordance with Dowe's further bequest, the sexton went on the eve of execution to the outside of the cell to give "twelve solemn towles with double strokes with a handbell and deliver with a loud and audible voice" the exhortation referred to by Mr. Cawley. This took place at midnight.

The "great bell" mentioned in Dowe's bequest was almost certainly the one known as "Baynard's Castle," which after many vicissitudes was sold for scrap in 1713. Which bell was used at executions after that date I am unable to say.

A very detailed account of the bells of St. Sepulchre's by Mr. Charles Brown (churchwarden) appeared in your issues of September 4 and 11, 1964, which would be of interest to Mr. Cawley if he is not already acquainted with it.—Yours faith-

C. W. HANCOCK. Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk.

Dear Sir,-Regarding Mr. Cawley's inquiry (page 894). About 70 years ago I went to ring at St. Sepulchre's. The steeplekeeper was a man named Daniel Lovett, who also held several ancient offices in the parish, including that of parish beadle.

While we were waiting outside and looking across at Newgate, then in the process of demolition, it was remarked, "There goes a bit of Old London," and Dan replied, "Yes, and there goes some of my income. I used to get ten shillings for tolling the ninth every time there was an execution"!

The handbell Mr. Cawley mentions was originally in Dan's possession and was given by him to the church for preserva-This was reported in the ringing and national Press at the time.—Yours faithfully, E. BARNETT.

TO BE DEPLORED

Dear Sir - The article by Mr. George F. Roome on the installation of a chiming apparatus in silent towers (Ringing World, page 855) is one that should be deplored. It encourages only those who want to do things the easy way, and is an admission of defeat. Such installations are poor substitutes for ringing, and I class them little above "canned" bells.

Speaking in terms of cost, our churches are a national pride, inherited from our forefathers, and it is up to us to see that they are properly maintained in our time for future generations. Built to the Glory of God, nothing but the best should be put into our work, be it ringing, singing, or whatever form of church work we may undertake. If we encourage the installation of come cheap contraption, such as a chiming apparatus, we would be better to leave things alone. To put forward such suggestions would (with possibly soze exceptions) create a few more "unringscles."

Mr. Roome referred to the chiming of Peterborough Cathedral bells; and what a miserable effort-completely out of step with such a magnificent building where a high standard of worship is maintained. Since the formation of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild (in 1924) starting with its first master (the late Fred Wilford) everyone holding that office has approached the Dean and Chapter in the hopes of getting something done. Apart from the late Dean Page, who really did show interest in getting the ring restored and brought back to ten, successive Deans couldn't care less. Recent correspondence in The Ringing World reveals that the position has not improved.

Now, turning to Mr. Roome's "sad case" regarding the silent ring of ten at St. Giles', Northampton, I am inclined to think that the age-old story of petty dif-ferences and disagreement, unfortunately common amongst Northampton ringers over the last 40 years, still exists. Can one really say that something is not radically wrong when, in the congregation of St. Giles' there are at times sufficient ringers and yet the bells are silent? Is it not time that the ringers got together to Is it not eliminate this deplorable situation?

During my term of office as master of the Peterborough Guild I appealed to those whom it concerned to forget their differ-Glory of God," to which a reply "Northampton Rings to His Glory" appeared in a subsequent issue of The Ringing World. Had this been so, I would have been most happy to withdraw what I said, but unfortunately with the exception of Kingsthorpe and Weston Favell this was not the case.

Unfortunately there always have been silent towers, and always will be; and any contribution ringers (and, indeed, associations) can do should be done, but unless we have local support, which is not always forthcoming, we shall not get very far.

Yours faithfully,

B. P. MORRIS.

13440 RUTLAND SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—I would like to give notice of an attempt to ring 13440 Rutland Surprise Major at St. Mary's, Barnes, S.W.13., on Saturday, January 23, 1971. The attempt will start at 10 a.m. and the band will consist of members of the Ancient Society of College Youths to which the peal, if successful, will be credited. Yours faithfully, TIMOTHY G. PETT.

ST. OSWALD'S, DURHAM

Dear Sir,-Following the action that I took and described in my recent letter, I received this (appended) reply from have Mr. M. Hayton, architect to St. Oswald. Yours faithfully,
DENIS A. BAYLES,

Hon Secretary

Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Assn.

"Dear Mr. Bayles,- I acknowledge re-ceipt of your letter of 8th November and have read the correspondence which was enclosed. What the vicar and P.C.C. of the church do in the light of advice they take is a matter for their decision only. only comment further because Mr. Armitage and Mr. Dove between them have created an entirely erroneous impression of the situation at this church. Also, I do not consider that the ability to ring bells is in itself a qualification for making opinions on the structural condition of a bell frame or its tower. The ringing of a quarter peal in the face of other advice was foolhardy and proved nothing.

Mr. Serge Zvegintzov has a great terest and considerable knowledge of bells and bellringing and his most carefully considered report was based on several inspections. The Rev. J. W. Rogerson as curate of the church and as a ringer was most enthusiastic that the ring was put into full order. As an architect member of the parish I was only too glad to consult with them and also to go into some detail with a national firm of bell founders to prepare a report and recommendation for the vicar. It seems to me that all the correct elements for making a proper decision were brought together on this occasion and I believe that they would all still endorse the opinion then given.

Mr. Dove's statement regarding architects will not, I am sure, be taken seriously by bellringers generally. My own experience is that they enjoy the mutual consultation which has kept so many bells ringing that would otherwise have been silenced by the collapse of frames and ancient towers. All towers were not built for bells, and the masonry of many of them is in an increasingly precarious state. It is therefore inevitable that where funds are not available for adequate restoration, responsible opinions, disappointing to all of us who love the sound of full circle ringino. must be firmly given—Yours sincerely, M. Hayton."

From Melvyn Hiller, of Bothenhampton, Bridport, Dorset: - Eight variations rung in the quarter at South Perrott believed without names. Mr. C. K. Lewis tells me that according to his records there are no names to them. Would readers make their observations if in fact they already have names. All using a Plain Bob bob and Plain Hunt for an extreme.

The next opening took place at St. Saviour's, Walthamstow, when several touches were rung by eight College Youths. On New Year's Eve the bells of St. John's, Deptford, were opened by a band of College Youths, who were afterwards enter-tained to a ringers' supper. On January 7, 1875, Haworth took part in the last peal on the bells at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, before the demolition of the old tower and church, which were to be replaced by a new church. On Wednesday, April 14, 1875, Weybridge bells were opened with a peal of Stedman Triples, and the following day the same band rang a peal of Kent on the bells.

In November of the same year, Haworth took on the job of instructor to the ringers at St. Albans Abbey, a position which he held for over a year. Evidently all went well, and good progress was made. For a time Matthew Wood assisted Haworth, and in the report read at the annual meeting of the St. Albans Society on January 9, 1877, it was stated that "under the able tuition of Mr. Haworth . . and Mr. Wood, noted members of the celebrated band of College Youths, the Society has every reason to be satisfied with the progress it has made, the ringers having on several occasions rung over 500 changes." The accounts showed an amount of £21 12s. 6d. as instructors' expenses.

There are various newspaper cuttings in Haworth's book which relate to his time as instructor to the St. Albans ringers. The first tells that on December 27, 1875, "eight first tells that on December 27, 1875, members of the Ancient Society of College Youths ascended the tower of our fine old Abbey, and rang . . . over 5000 changes of Grandsire Triples in a splendid and masterly style; by a slight accident they did not complete the peal of 5040 changes, which would only have taken a few minutes more." The band included two local ringers, Henry Lewis and Henry Younger.

HONOURED AT DINNER

On July 19, 1876, twelve members of the St. Albans band, with Haworth, went to Benington, Herts, and rang various touches of Grandsire Triples. "They were honoured at dinner," says Church Bells, "by the company of Squire Proctor, his ringers, and other gentlemen, numbering about forty. During the day the Benington band rang Double Norwich and Superlative Surprise, much to the gratification of the young ringers of St. Albans, who have only been In practice a short time, but have. under the able instruction of Mr. J. R. Haworth (who has been presented with a gold scarfpin for his attention), been able to achieve what is mentioned above." Another cutting tells of the visit of the St. Albans band, with Haworth, to Woburn Abbey.

Through the recommendation of the Rev. T. Ellacombe, Haworth was asked by the Hon. Henrietta Kenvon to go to Hanmer, Flintshire, to instruct the ringers. He engaged to go there for a week, from November 29, 1875, and then to go on for a further week to Maloas. Cheshire, where the Hon. and Rev. T. W. Kenyon was rector. Haworth preserved the letters he received from the Hon. Henrietta Kenyon. from which it appears that the ringers of the six bells of Hanmer were at that time "young, and some of them quite inexperienced, though some few of them have learnt more." Travel was not so easy in those days: "I enclose a paper of trains. The first is the best if it is not too early for you, and I think it will be best for you to get a trap at Whitchurch, which will bring you and your box, as there are no flys to be had at Bettisfield, and we could not conveniently send for you."

A paragraph about Haworth's visit later appeared in Church Bells, in which it was stated that "although Mr. Haworth's visit was a short one, there was a great improvement in the striking, the management of the bells, the leads, &c., and the foundation laid for change-ringing . . . Mr. Haworth also visited Malpas . . . it is hoped that the example and advice of the London ringer will incite the young men to advance in the pleasing art of change-ringing . . ."

On the last day of 1875, eight members of the College Youths, with Haworth among them, travelled down to Llanstephan, Carmarthenshire, having "had the honour," says Church Bells, "of being invited to open the ring of eight bells at the village church of St. Stephen, by Henry Parnall, Esq., the restorer of the church and donor of the bells. They rang the old year out, and the new year was ushered in with well-struck change-ringing." On New Year's Day, 1876, the band rang a peal of Grandsire Triples, the first College Youths' peal in Wales. "On Sunday the College Youths rang at the commencement of the three services, which was highly appreciated. Before leaving Llanstephan they rang the hand-bells at the houses of several of the gentry, all of whom expressed themselves much pleased with the music of

TWO NEW ENGAGEMENTS

The year 1877 brought two new engagements of Haworth as ringing instructorat St. Andrew's, Hertford, and Arlesey, Beds. Haworth preserved some of the correspondence relating to these engagements, but it presents no special interest. On April 24, 1878, Haworth was once again one of the band that opened a new peal of bells-those in the rebuilt church at Privett, Hants, where a band of College Youths "manipulated the bells with great dexterity before and after the consecration according to the Observer and County News. In fact they rang a peal of Grandsire Triples. Evidently Haworth had already turned the opportunity afforded by this new ring of bells to good account, for there is a paper in his book which says: "At a full meeting of the Company of Church Bell Ringers, established in the Parish of Privett, Hants, held at the Privett National School on Monday, May 20th, 1878, the Vicar in the chair, the following resolution . . . was carried unanimously, 'that the best thanks of the meeting be afforded to Mr. Haworth for his kindness and attention while engaged in instructing the Ringers."

The next two openings of bells recorded in Haworth's book took place in London. The first was the bells of the now vanished Church of St. John, Wilton Road, Pimlico, which were opened on October 2, 1878. Once again Haworth was appointed official instructor, as correspondence shows. Among the young ringers he taught there were two whose names were to become very well known Francis Edward Dawe and Challis F. Winney. The second was the opening of the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral on November 1, when Haworth rang the sixth in the opening touch. There is a very full and interesting account of this dedication ceremony in The Ringing World of November 2, 1928, and a shorter notice of it in the issue for November 1, 1968;

Haworth's book only contains a short cut-ting from The Daily Chronicle of November 2, and a service paper of the dedication ceremony. Haworth was elected one of the original members of the official St. Paul's band, and remained a member until his death in 1910, when H. Langdon was elected in his place.

ON HIS TRAVELS AGAIN

A few days later, Haworth received a letter which presumably set him off on his travels again. It was from a Mr. Arthur E. Street, of the Architects Office, New Courts of Justice, Strand, who wrote to say: "Lord Eldon has referred my father (G. E. Street, R.A.) to you as an authority on the hanging and ringing of bells. the Cathedral of Christ Church, Dublin. which my father has just been restoring, there is a peal of 13 bells, partly new. These do not give satisfaction, but there is considerable difference of opinion about the cause. . . . My father wishes me to ask you whether you would meet him at Christ Church, Dublin, on Friday in next week (Nov: 8th), so that you might give your opinion." It appears from another letter that Haworth agreed to go, but there is no record in his books of what happened on that occasion.

Meanwhile, Haworth had continued to give instruction at Waltham Abbey, and on February 3, 1879, the Waltham Abbey Society, all of whom were also members of The College Youths, rang a peal of Stedman Triples on their bells, this being the first peal of Stedman by the society, rung at the first attempt. Haworth rang the treble to this peal, he having been elected a member of the local company before starting for the peal; "and on the following evening," it was reported in Church Bells, "being the annual supper, he was presented with a sum of money for his assistance (once a fortnight for seven years) to the Society."

In 1879 or 1880 Haworth was appointed instructor to the ringers at Hitchin, Herts. A band of College Youths rang a peal of Grandsire Triples there on April 19, 1880, with Haworth on the second. This was the first peal on the bells since 1782, according to The North Herts Journal, or 1796 if The Herts Express is to be believed. After the peal, The Herts Express tells us, "Mr. Proctor's band of ringers from Bennington and the Hitchin ringers performed some change ringing in clever style. In the evening the College Youths and other ringers were entertained at dinner in the Sun Hotel . . . The health . . . was drunk . . . of Mr. Allen, the captain of the Hitchin ringers, through whose exertions so talented a body of ringers had been got together. A capital performance on the handbells was given by some of the College Youths. under the leadership of Mr. Haworth, who, it may be mentioned, has recently been giving instruction to the Hitchin ringers, very much to their improvement. The evening, which was enlivened by several songs and speeches, was very pleasantly spent until the time arrived for the departure of the London ringers, when the company separated.'

The happy man, It is not great wealth nor high station which makes a man Many of the most wretched beings on earth have both; but it is a radiant. sunny spirit, which knows how to beat little trials and to enjoy little comforts, and which thus extracts happiness from every incident of life.

MORE MUGS

(An account of the Manchester University

Guild's outing for freshers—Oct. 10, 1970) Leaving Manchester at 8.30 on a dark, foggy morning wasn't much fun, but we had to go early to avoid the traffic. Carefully avoiding other cars driving about Cheshire at that time of day, we arrived at Bowdon 20 minutes too soon. Some members of the party rang handbells round the monument (but nobody was watching!). The locals met us (they turned out to be lithesome lasses who helped us ring Original, even with 4ths place bobs). They were really nice bells and we managed some Surprise Major with the odd half-lead single on them. We flashed across to Rostherne (23 cwt. six) and just about managed to ring some changes. Mobberley has a beautiful church and it was decorated for Harvest Festival. In the ringing gallery the front three bells perform on a stage about 3 feet higher than the back three, but that didn't cause any trouble and the bells sound very pleasant. We found more traffic in Knutsford (of motorway fame), another Harvest Festival and another nice six. These were anti-clockwise, which fooled us, surprisingly. We had to ring at Great Budworth before lunch (a good idea, really), for this ton weight eight goes rather heavily and gave us a good appetite.

By now the weather had turned out very fine, and all set out enthusiastically for the afternoon session. The six at Stretton didn't seem to respond to our handling too well (the tenor having a very independent spirit) so we were pleased to find the eight at Grappenhall in excellent condition, tuneful and capable of more methods than we were. We rushed to Lymm and worked hard on the 30 cwt, eight (extremely sonorous), became very weary, and admired the vertical fluorescent lighting. In no time at all we reached Warburton, another eight, but only 26 cwt. this time. Our strength had failed and the bells weren't so toneful, so we left quite early. There was a long gap before the last tower, so we sampled Cheshire pasties at the local before ringing at Culcheth. A fast-going eight here with a familiar twang in the trebles, and we rang spliced everything. It was too dark and cold to go any further now, so back to Manchester, coffee, and so to bed. Thanks to Nik for arranging, drivers for driving and locals for meeting.

WHAT GENERATION GAP?

Members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers rang a quarter of Bob Minor at St. Mary's Church, Berry Pomeroy, prior to harvest festival service recently. noteworthy, perhaps, except that the band embraced an age range of 71 years! Stan-ley Carter, senior member of the guild's Mid-Devon Branch, pulled a fine treble rope on his 83rd birthday. (Stan came to Devon in 1965 from Hertfordshire.) He has been ringing for over 65 years and is still very active, ringing regularly at Brix-ham and Dartmouth.

Guy Thompson, also from Brixham, rang his first quarter peal inside one week short of his 13th birthday. Guy, one of the brightest young recruits to the branch for some time, has been a ringer for just two years but started learning change-ringing less than 12 months ago. Since his first quarter peal on February 14 he has comhandled the treble through quarters of Doubles. Minor, Triples, Major and Caters, and on practice nights has been ringing inside for some time. ELEVEN LOCAL TOWERS

The October meeting of the Chesterfield District was held on the 10th at Clowne. when ringing on the light six in a wide variety of methods was enjoyed during the afternoon and evening, jointly conducted by Malcolm Phipps and Derek Peers (district ringing masters). Some 40 members sat down to tea in the Church Hall, prepared and served by the lady members of the local band.

A short business meeting, chaired by John Arkwell, was held, at which Ann Naylor (Clowne) was elected a member and a welcome was extended to visiting ringers from Rotherham. Best wishes were extended to David Hird (Chesterfield) and Joseph Leary (Old Brampton) on their departure to universities, and tributes were paid to the late Mr. John Sykes (Dronfield), founder member of the association.

Local towers represented at the meeting were Barlborough, Bolsover, Chesterfield, Clowne, Dronfield, Eckington, Norton, North Wingfield, Old Brampton, Old Whittington and Staveley.

Thanks were given to Mr. George Hunt and the local ringers for an excellent tea, well-maintained bells and kind hospitality. M. E. B.

Meadows' Marvels WILTSHIRE WEEKEND

On the evening of September 11, Wendy and Les Meadows, the organisers (Churcham), Cecil Cox (Much Marcle), Jack Webb and Anne Butcher (Ross-on-Wye). Ray and Beryl Brewer (Llangarron), David Huddleston and David Andrews (Henbury), Derek Price (Welland) and Geraldine Mitchell (Corse) made their way to Devizes.

Next day, Saturday, a very wet one, began with the ground floor six of Market Lavington. An interesting feature of this church is the square peep-hole from the vicar's vestry to the sanctuary. This village, which is often likened to a miniature town, was followed by yet another ground floor ring at Great Cheverell. At Erlestoke we were met by the vicar and found the bells already up for us. The rain, although still troublesome, had eased enough for us to admire the Early English arch the church possesses. Next came the lovely church of Edington, which dates back to 1361. Before being able to ring on the ten, approach to the tower has to be made across the roof. We were joined at Edington by Jack and Lena Long (Lydney).

Following lunch came the musical six of Bratton. The steps to the ringing room are very steep indeed, but the lovely clean tower makes the climb worthwhile. At Horningsham, as a result of the storms, we rang in a pool of water which had managed to get into the ringing room. Some of us were very honoured to be shown a most exquisitely embroidered altar frontal, which we understand was made by a member of the Bath family of nearby Longleat. This beautiful piece of work must surely be the church's proudest possession. The recently-rehung bells of Corsley, with such a light, airy ringing room, were a pleasure to ring. The day then closed with the long draught at Keevil.

Sunday morning, the weather hardly any better, saw us at various churches nearby. joining local ringers for ringing for matins. After lunch we made our various ways home, after spending a most enjoyable weekend in Wiltshire, and we thank all who made the tour possible.

Norwich Association THREE FUNCTIONS

About 40 ringers and friends went on the first-ever Eastern Branch outing on September 26. The coach left Beccles at 5.30 a.m. and arrived at the Loughborough Bell Foundry at about 11.15 a.m. Following a very interesting conducted tour of the foundry the ringers were able to try their hand on the very light ring of ten in the Campanile, and then adjourned for lunch. Visiting Queens Park, we ascended the many steps inside the carillon, first to the museum, then the playing room, where we had a demonstration of tune ringing, and finally to the actual bells, from where we had an excellent view of Loughborough. The next call was Loughborough Parish Church, where the ten were available for some very enjoyable ringing. Loughborough for Melton Mowbray and after a very good tea there set off on the long journey home, having had a very enjoyable day, for which we thank Norman Cossey who had made the arrangements.

On October 3 about 25 members attended the Eastern Branch quarterly meeting at Ludham, where the service was conducted by the rector (Rev. F. Smith), who also played the organ. During the meeting thanks were extended to the Rev. Smith, the ladies who had prepared tea, and Canon H. Wake for the use of Catfield bells. Because of the state of the tower. Catfield bells were available for a short time only.

On October 31, 74 ringers and friends sat down at the Star Hotel, Great Yarmouth, for the first dinner to be held in the Eastern Branch. Following an excellent meal, Rev. Peter N. Bond (chairman) made a short farewell speech as he is leaving to take up an appointment at the end of November. The guest of honour (Canon A. G. G. Thurlow) welcomed the youngest ringer in the branch, Miss Kaye Fuller (Pakefield), who is only eight years old. After a short break all were entertained by the Norton Subcourse Handbell Ringers, who rang several well-known tunes and ended with two Christmas carols. The party left soon after 11 p.m., having had a very enjoyable evening, and Norman Cos-sey was again thanked for organising the M.K.

December 3, 1920 In a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Michael's, Cornhill, his first attempt at a peal was successful for Robert A. Farden, who "is under 17 years of age." Arthur Mason rang the 6th, and George R. Farden the 7th.

Rung on the eve of the 300th anniversary of the granting of a charter to the Ancient Society of St. Stephen's Guild was a peal of Cambridge Royal at St. Stephen's, Bristol.

Continuing his prowess for tapping peals, Arthur T. Morris tapped 5056 Kent T.B. Major in 2hrs. 40mins., whilst at Monkseaton, Northumberland. James E., Thomas T., Joseph A. and R. Alder Gofton (? brothers) rang a handbell peal of London Surprise Major.

An attempt was made to revive the Oxford University Society, which had ceased its activities some time before the war.

A large number of letters had been received by the Editor about charging for the insertion of peals.

A new district of the Ladies' Guild, called the Northampton District, was formed with Miss Cecil Hepburn as hon secretary.

Mr. James George celebrated his 67th birthday by ringing his 100th peal of Sted-man Cinques, and a celebration party followed the event.

All Saints, Sapcote, Leics

All Saints Church, Sapcote, Leicestershire

THE CHURCH, dedicated to All Saints, is in the Early English style of architecture and was erected probably towards the end of the 13th or beginning of the 14th century. It has a square embattled tower, with a handsome light spire, a nave, north aisle and chancel. The spire is an octagonal pyramid, in height 60ft., a side of the octagon at the base being 5ft. 3\(\frac{1}{2}\)in. The tower and steeple are of equal height. The length of the nave is 54ft., its breadth 21\(\frac{1}{2}\)ft. and the aisle 15ft., making a total width of 36½ft. The chancel is 30ft. in length.

In the year 1607 the steeple, which is of hewn stone—as are the nave and north aisle—was pointed, as appears from the following memorandum in the register: "The Steeple of this parishe was poynted in the year of Our Lord God 1607. Jhon Worship beinge then persone and preachere there, and Jhon Tacker and Edward Wryght, Churchwardens." It has also twice been seriously damaged, first in a heavy gale, March 14, 1757, which rendered necessary the rebuilding of 16ft. of the spire and the repair of the rest at a cost of upwards of £40, and second when it was struck by lightning in 1804 or 1805, which shivered off some of the cornice stones, forced out the weather-boards from the northern bell window and damaged the clock.

Before 1611 there were only three bells, but in that year the great bell broke and was recast into two. The catastrophe is duly chronicled on the cover of the register. as follows: "The greate Bell of Sapcot was broke on ye feaste day of St. Michaell 1611, and cast into two bells, on the ninth day of November ye same, and hunge up on the .

This memorandum is in the handwriting of John Worship, the rector, but the blank left for the date of the replacing of the bells has never been filled in. From this circumstance and from the following memorandom at the end of the register it would seem that, for some reason or other, a period of 10 years elapsed before these two bells were hung: "The bells of Sapcoate were newly hunge in a newe frame, the XIth day of Auguste, in the yeare of our Lord 1621, by Edward Jones, a North-amptonshire man; Richard Messenger and amptonsaire man; Kichard Messenger and John Kinde beinge churchwardens at the same time; John Worshipe beinge parson, who dyed the XIth day of January next after." (Signed) THOS. ADAMS.

The bells were newly hung August 1, 1721, and once more in 1809, when the second bell was recast, having been broken some years before. They are all of a fine, full tone, and when well rung sound very sweetly. On each of them, with the exception of the first, which bears only a date, is an inscription, viz., on the 1st: (date only) 1611

2nd: B. Perkins, C. W. J. Over, B. H. J.

Briant, Hereford, Fecit, 1809

3rd: Ave Maria Gra. Plena. D'no Tecum. 4th: Thomas Newcombe, of Leicester, made mee, 1611.

The above is an extract from the History of Sapcote, 1853, by the Rev. H. Whitley, M.A., Curate, but is not absolutely correct as the 3rd bell of the four was cast by T.

Mears in 1812. The inscription reads:

"W. Spencer. A. Nurse, Churchwardsns 1812.

I. F. Turner, Esq., Patron.
I. E. Harrington Rector
Mears of London Fecit."

In 1894 a great restoration was embarked upon through the initiative of the Rev. A. G. Lound, Rector. This entailed adding two trebles, and an excellent metal Hframe for six was fitted by Messrs, John Taylor & Co. at the cost of (we believe) £250. These two bells are inscribed:—

1st.—Joseph Garratt and Stephen Holvoak Churchwardens. 1894.

Crest.

2nd.—Alfred George Lound Rector 1894. Taylor's Crest.

In 1951 the bells were hung on ball bearings together with a general overhaul of all moving parts, again the cost being £250, Taylor's doing the work. From time to time since the 1894 restoration there has been talk of adding two trebles to complete the octave. The writer, with a band of ringers capable of ringing Surprise Major, approached the Church Council for permission to raise the necessary money. a new church hall had just been built and £1,000 was still needed to pay for that. The ringers, however, promised to raise the money for the bells entirely from collecting scrap, and the Church Council agreed.

To save money, Messrs. Taylors were approached to see if a do-it-yourself effort, with the founders supplying the parts, could be arranged. This they agreed, which saved approximately £500. With £60 in the bell-ringers' fund, work started in September, 1969, collecting papers, scrap-iron and nonferrous metals. By the end of that year the fund reached £230. We asked the Church Council if we could place the order and they agreed. They also agreed that the Rector write to the Lord Bishop of Leicester, asking him to dedicate the bells on December 12, 1970, and he kindly accepted. It looked as though we would be able to have the two trebles by the end of 1970. The writer's farmyard was turned into a scrap-yard, and we have lost count of how many old motor-cars have been cut up. By the end of April the fund had reached £550 -about half-way.

On Whit Sunday an appropriate quarter peal of 8-Spliced was rung after Evensong by the Sunday service band, being the last ring on the bells before starting work putting the new frame in for the eight, which we had built ourselves. We also decided to have the ringing chamber upstairs. A metal staircase was purchased and fitted to the existing floor 22ft. up the tower. The new belfry was plastered by Mr. Tony Seal, a member of the P.C.C., with about a dozen churchmen and ringers ably mixing and carrying the plaster. For the next three months work proceeded in the tower -literally from top to bottom. Frank K. Measures, of Burbage, very kindly made us a new hopper-type opening window and an ingenious counter-balance trapdoor was fitted at the entrance to the new ringing room. The old six were rearranged in their existing frame to enable the two new treble ropes to come down in the right place in the ringing chamber. The staircase was cased in with chipboard with the help of Mr. Des. Butterfield, who has spent many hours working on the project, and the whole of the frame was cleaned down and painted by Neil Harvey. A new ceiling was fixed in the ringing chamber and by the end of August we were able to ring the six for the first time from the new ringing room. All were very pleased with the improved go of the bells with the shorter draught.

On September 9, 1970, a party of over 20 from Sapcote visited Taylor's Foundry to witness the casting of the new trebles. Approximately three weeks later the writer went to Loughborough with his van and collected the bells, headstocks and all ringing mechanism for them.

The bells were placed at the chancel steps for Harvest Festival services and were of considerable interest to the congregation, the inscriptions being:-

Treble.-Two trebles added to complete the octave through the initiative of the Sapcote Ringers. Michael E. Brown, Head Ringer.

John Taylor & Co. Loughborough.

Second. — Dedicated 12-12-70 by the Lord
Bishop of Leicester. C. W. Scott, B.Sc.,
Rector. A. Chapman, J. Underwood, Churchwardens. John Taylor & Co., Loughborough.

The following day the bells were hung in the tower by Mr. Denys Harvey and the writer, and that same evening the local ringers had a "try out" ringing Bob Major, Cambridge S. Major and then "fired" them at the wish of the architect, who was then satisfied with the tower and the way the bells were hung in it.

The following evening we had a visit from Mr. Paul Taylor, accompanied by Mr. Harold Marcon, who complimented all on the work done and gave advice on how to improve the acoustics in the tower. The back six were too loud and the trebles being on top were too quiet. This was remedied with another floor being fixed immediately under the bell frame; a chute made from the new trebles right down to the ringing room ceiling (4ft. x 18in.) and this gave every satisfaction.

We then turned our thoughts to a heating and ventilation system in the new ringing room. David Manship (Burbage), an expert in this field, kindly offered to help. Ducts were made and fixed in the ringing chamber and a fan with electric element fitted below to blow hot or cold air at the flick of a switch. At the time of writing part of this job is still in hand, and the ringing room, new staircase and old ringing room have still to be decorated. This, D.V., will be completed for Dedication Day, together with a fitted carpet on the ringing room floor. The total cost of the whole project, including all materials, is approx. £1,150. Of this we have raised £920, leaving £230 to find, and the deadline is Easter,

This whole project would not have been possible without the co-operation and en-couragement of the Rector (Rev. C. W.

RINGERS

Sapcote has always had a regular change ringing Sunday service band. The first peal on the bells was in five minor methods on Wake Saturday, 1896, when three Sapcote ringers rang their first peal. It was not until Easter Monday, 1915, that the second peal was rung, in which Charles W. Brown rang his first peal and who later became head ringer for about 30 years but has now retired to Stourbridge. Until the Second World War only seven peals had been rung. In 1944 two peals were rung, one of which enabled the writer to ring his first peal, and after the bells were rehung in 1951 peal ringing increased. A number of peals were rung by the Sunday service band, the climax of which was Spliced Surprise Minor in 34 methods. To date 69 peals have been rung on the bells.

University of London

SILVER JUBILEE DINNER

Efforts made in the mid-'30's to found a ringing association within the University of London were not successful, and it was another ten years or so and after the second world war before sufficient numbers of interested students were available, and these formed the nucleus of the University of London Society, founded in 1945.

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of its founding, members, relatives, friends and specially invited guests attended a dinner at Mecca Restaurant, London E.C.2, on November 28, when Mr. Alan F. Thirst (fifth president) presided over a gathering of 100. Supporting Mr. Thirst were his wife and the Rev. L. E. M. Claxton, Father How, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kench, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. A. Prior, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sibson, Mr. D. Barton and Mr. N. Thomson.

The president, Alan F.
Thirst, with Sue Miles
(hon. secretary), Nigel
Thomson (master), Mrs.
Thirst and Denis Layton, photographed by
The Ringing World before the dinner.

Mr. Philip Gray, who had flown home that day, spoke briefly, apologising for having been unable to propose the toast but as it was a special occasion—"Our silver wedding—jubilee, I mean," he corrected himself, amid laughter, and as he was in on the start (as first secretary) he felt very proud that after 25 years the society was still flourishing.

Mr. Dale Barton (master of the Cambridge University Guild), responding, thanked the society for their splendid hospitality, congratulated the members on their jubilee and proceeded in a jocular and bantering manner to quote from the Book of Proverbs and The Ringing World.

Mr. Prior, in proposing the toast of "The Founders," gave details as he remembered them of the mid-'30's attempts to found the society, which were not success-

Following the very excellent meal, the president called on the company to honour the loyal toast, and this was immediately followed by one to the Church, which on this occasion was a formal one only, with no response, to enable others following to speak at greater length on the 25 years that the society has existed.

The visitors were welcomed on the call of Mr. Robert Dennis, who deputised for Mr. Philip Gray (and whose name as proposer was printed on the menu card), who had to fly to Bucharest three days before the dinner and had asked to be relieved of this obligation.

"We have been particularly fortunate during our 25 years' existence," said Mr. Dennis "to receive support from the College Youths, the Cumberlands, the London County Association, and also from the incumbents of the churches where the society rings." He particularly mentioned the Rev. L. E. M. Claxton (St. Olave's, Hart Street) and Father How (St. Vedast's). Other guests welcomed included the master of the College Youths (Mr. A. Kench) and Mrs. Kench, the secretary of the College Youths (Mr. J. Prior), Mr. Alan Patterson (junior steward), Mr. Wilfred Williams, Mr. Jack Euston, Mr. William Theobald and many members from the Cumberlands, including the master (Mr. Derek Sibson) and Mrs. Sibson, Messrs. William and Douglas Hughes (Whitechapel Bell Foundry) and also representatives from Cambridge, Bristol and Southampton Universities.

Members of the society drank the health of their guests and visitors, ful. The next moves, as far as he knew, were in 1944, when Denis Layton and Philip Gray with one or two others got together with the result that the University of London Society came into being on October 12, 1945. Denis was the first master and Philip the secretary, with James Simpson as president. Giving the company the details of subsequent presidents and masters the speaker said that at the first general meeting there were only five present, but those five had certainly made sure that the foundations of the society were well and truly laid. Two names of pioneers who were not now with them were James Simpson and Geoffrey Carter (auditor), the latter gentleman being remembered for his very delightful character.

The society had proved its value, said Mr. Prior, by enabling ringing to take place in City of London churches where otherwise little or no ringing would be done, and also in providing the two oldest societies with new blood. He felt it was a great honour to propose the toast to the founders of the society and invited all present to join him in drinking to the health of those gentlemen.

25 YEARS OF HISTORY

Rising, amidst applause, to reply, Mr. Denis Layton caused considerable amusement by producing a huge file of papers, from which, he said, Mr. Prior had quoted, and another similar file which he intended to refer to for his speech.

There were, he added, a number of young people present who were not even born when the society was founded—something he felt difficult to believe, as he himself did not feel any older than 25! (Laughter.) The problems and happenings of the early days the meetings, outings, reunions and dinners during the 25 years of its existence were dealt with by Mr. Layton in a very interesting, if rather lengthy, speech, and would make, we feel sure, with the other data he has in his possession, an informative and historic booklet which each and every member of the society would wish to possess.

Many amusing incidents and a number of

Many amusing incidents and a number of personal reminiscences were told by the speaker and there was at times an atmosphere which brought murmurings of nostalgic pleasure. Although he could have "gone on all night," Mr. Layton closed by thanking, on behalf of those founders present, all the company for honouring the toast.

Proposing "The Society," Mr. D. Town thanked firstly those ringers who helped in the ringing on Thursdays and then spoke of the welcome always extended to new members and of the friendly spirit prevailing at society functions. Speaking mainly of happenings among the younger members of the society, the laughter and comments of his friends and associates sitting at his table at times completely drowned what he had to say. He concluded by remarking that the work of the committees and members over 25 years had made the society what it was today, and he looked forward with eagerness, anticipation and confidence to the next 25 years.

The master (Mr. Nigel Thomson) replying gave a resume of the activities during the past year and mentioned many events connected with individual members. Interspersed with several stories, he finally thanked the previous speaker for proposing the toast, and said that the society was in a healthy state and, with everybody's support, would continue to be so.

The president, who introduced each speaker, closed the formal proceedings with several notices and informed the company that the bar was open until midnight.

RINGING WORLD FINANCES—THE FACTS

It had to come. The Ringing World Committee on November 14 were forced to accept the inevitable and agree to increase the price of our paper from January next. As indicated in our brief announcement last week, we have had to wait for final details to be fixed up with the printers. In accordance with the policy of telling our readers as much as possible about their paper and our management of it, the Committee asked me to write this article, giving you the facts. The now customary note of our other decisions will appear separately.

It will be recalled that on August 21, 1970 (page 663), we reported requests from Seven Corners Press Ltd. for a substantial increase in the price paid for printing and that, after considering our financial position we had agreed to offer a limited increase per week for the time being and to consider the matter further when details of the expected increased wages and paper prices were available. Until that time the first six months' working in 1970 had shown a small profit in spite of our increased editorial costs, which readers will recall started in October, 1969. The amount which we were then able to offer our printers, and which they accepted in the spirit in which it was offered, was £20 a week on the basic price charged. Simple arithmetic shows that this, apart from extras, was a direct additional call on our income at the rate of £1,040 a The four months' figures (July to October) studied on November 14 showed indeed that by the end of this year or earlier the small profit would be decreased and might even vanish. This despite all our special efforts such as calendars, gift tokens, extra advertisement charges and the quite outstanding efforts of Mr. Denyer in conjunction with the printing staff to make economies in production without reducing too much the quality of the paper.

Many of our readers will know that while we do our best to use up-to-date business methods (we can tell at short notice all through the year how our finances are proceeding—which is more than many business firms can) we do not and cannot run the R.W. as a trading concern. We live on the interest from our investments—they are not paid out to shareholders; we depend for our subject matter on the written contributions of our readers (or ourselves)—we have no paid reporters; we have no paid board of directors and no directors' expenses; we make full use of, and are grateful for, donations from the very many of our readers who can proudly claim in consequence that the R.W. is "our paper".

But all this means that we cannot at times of need reduce our expenditure except by reducing the size or quality or frequency of issue of the paper. And we do not believe that the Exercise wants a smaller paper, or a poorer paper, or one which appears only monthly. A national newspaper or a trade paper can and often does consist of 50% or more of advertise-ments for which they can charge high rates commensurate with their circulation. The proportion of advertising in the R.W. is very low, is connected with ringing, and most of it has to be paid for in one form or another by you, the reader. We have not found it possible to obtain "national" advertising to any extent in spite of con-stant efforts. Indeed we do not believe that our readers want to pay good money for pages of advertisements unconnected with ringing; and we would not, even if we could, wish our voluntary efforts to be spent in being advertising agents for extraneous products.

NOT UNREASONABLE REQUEST

On November 14 the Committee had to face a not unreasonable request from the printers for a further increase in the basic charge per issue. They gave details of the increased costs—basic rates for printers rose for men and women by 14% and 19% respectively from August 5 last and there will be further increases in August, 1971. And there have been greatly increased charges for paper and ink, with more expected next year.

We have offered to pay an increase of $12\frac{1}{2}\%$ on the basic price which has been in force since last August and have asked that this price remain firm throughout 1971. Seven Corners Press Ltd. have accepted our offer at least until August, 1971, and the increase will operate from the first issue in 1971

About half of our circulation is posted to subscribers, and they I am sure will have noted that as from Decimalisation Day the Post Office has announced increases in postal charges. 4d. and 5d. letters will from that date cost 6d. and 7d. Many of our subscribers renew in January each year and it is clear therefore that, to be fair to all, any increase in the subscription rates must be applied also from January I. An added complication to be allowed for is decimalisation.

Very regretfully, therefore, it has been decided that the price of the R.W. must be increased to Is. 3d. from the first issue in January and 62 new pence from Decimalisation Day — February 15. This is the minimum increase possible to meet the present increased commitments. Hitherto our postal subscribers have paid £3 a year for one copy. Allowing for 52/3 issues at ts., this has not fully covered the cost of postage, wrappers and labour costs for addressing and packing. Offset against this was the fact that publication costs for newsagents' copies were higher than they are now that we do our own publishing. We now have to ask our postal subscribers to pay the full cost of the service they obtain-not forgetting that when the post is normal they receive their copies earlier than others. The annual subscription rate for one copy by post each week has therefore been raised to £4 4s. from January 1. Other rates pro rata will be shown in the paper. The Committee have, however, authorised the editor to publish additional pages when news warrants it to give readers some additional return for the increased charges.

The Committee have not made these changes lightly or without much thought. And they were greatly helped in their consideration by the presence at the meeting of the Central Council's senior officers and also the R.W. treasurer and the accountant. They are confident that with this explanation the Exercise will understand the dilemma and will appreciate that the paper is so vital these days to the life of the Exercise that it must be continued whatever the cost and whatever the effort. They confidently hope, too, that there will be no drop in circulation such that the overheads will have to be spread over fewer copies and the price increased yet again-this time for no good reason-and that their decision to keep the increase to the barest minimum will be justified.

Presentation at Yeovil.

May 16, 1970, saw the Ilchester Branch embark on a new venture—a branch striking competition, as reported in The Ringing World of June 12. In the accompanying photograph Mrs. Margaret Legget is seen handing the "Striking Competition"

Trophy" (which she herself donated) to the captain of the victorious Yeovil St. John the Baptist team, who went on to compete in the inter-branch competition on October 24 being placed fifth with 141 faults.

EDITORIAL

The information on the opposite page is of great importance, not only to readers of The Ringing World but to EVERY ringer. The circulation must be maintained and, if possible, improved, for as we have said on many occasions without a weekly paper what would become of the Exercise! It is YOUR responsibility to see that our journal continues, and we ask you to accept the challenge and keep it alive.

We realise that many of our older (fixed income) readers will find it difficult to afford the additional cost and we suggest that guild or association and district or branch officers endeavour to find out if one of these pensioners has had to give up The Ringing World, and to ensure that a copy is made available to him either by sharing one or by purchasing one from benevolent funds.

There are a few subscribers who yearly donate a subscription for this purpose and we invite others who feel they would like to help in this way to send what they can afford to Mr. Lucas, subscription manager, Ringing World Office. c/o Seven Corners Press, Onslow Street, Guildford, and copies will be despatched regularly to deserving cases.

Jeff and Sandra Claughton, writing from Ndola, Zambia, say:

"We have enjoyed our first three weeks here. We have moved into a flat and hope soon to move into a bungalow. So far we have not seen very much. Ndola is not very inspiring (but the swimming pool is good) but in time we hope to get much further afield. We are sorry that we can't send you all any 'lovely African sunshine,' but the rains started a fortnight ago and we've seen very little of the sun these last two weeks and can expect a mere four hours a day for the next four months. It is, however, a good deal warmer than it is back home."

In hospital at Farnham, Surrey is Mr. Roy Collins, who was operated upon on the evening of Monday, November 30, for the removal of his appendix. Mr. Robin Collis is in the South Middlesex Hospital, Isleworth, under observation. He went in on December 2. Mr. Peter Sells is also back in hospital for further treatment following his motor accident. All send their best wishes to these three well-known ringers, and also to others whom we have not heard about.

Mr. David E. Parsons, Egham, Surrey, will be leaving England on January 3 for a three months' course in language training in Berlin. He is on development work in Messrs. Siemens' laboratories.

The Egham bell augmentation appeal is going quite well and we are informed that £710 of the £1,200 required is in hand, helped by an anonymous donation of £360, one from Schröder charity of £50, and £73 from waste paper (including old Ringing Worlds).

The bells at Drewsteignton, Devon, have been retuned and rehung (not recast, as stated in The Ringing World, page 892) and the rededication was on November 17.

Many ringing friends of Mr. Stanley V. Rayfield, of Queenborough (Rochester and District) will be pleased that he is making good progress at his home after his illness.

Don't forget to post your Christmas Greetings now for inclusion in next week's issue.

Because of postal delays due to last week "stoppages," several advertisements and other notices arrived too late for inclusion in our columns.

Personal Records: Mary E. Elmes (200 peals), Christopher N. Scholes (100), Beryl R. Simpson (175) Brian M. Gardner (100), Richard Manton (50), John H. Hunt (250), Peter J. Brown (100), Iris M. E. Lemare (200).

"With a Thirst on one side and a Poole on the other, do you wonder I fell in?"—Comment by Mr. J. Prior at the University of London Society Dinner, speaking of the request for him to propose the toast by Mr. A. Keith Poole and Mr. Alan Thirst.

A quarter of Bob Royal rung at Manchester Cathedral on November 14 for the Girl Guides' Association diamond jubilee service was conducted by Miss Jane Reynolds. Until a few years ago Jane was a member of the Girl Guides Company at St. Mary's, Prestwich, Manchester.

Manchester Cathedral ringers thank the ringers at Manchester Town Hall for the use of the Town Hall bells for a Wednesday evening practice, when the Cathedral weekly practice had to be cancelled at short notice because of another function taking place in the Cathedral.

The different prices for metal tonnage was the subject discussed at one table during the dinner of the University of London, Society, and whilst tin, being melted, evaporated at £1,500 per ton, the cost of lead, which many believe to be a costly metal, is only £120 per ton.

A quarter peal of Grandsire Triples on October 11 and submitted last month to the memory of Edwin Langley Campton (69) who died on October 5, was rung by Anne Vernon 1, F. K. Measures (cond.) 2, J. Veasey 3, Cynthia Wells 4 H. Parker 5, D. Manship 6, J. Watkins 7, B. Tipper 8. The name of the place was not given, neither was there a name and address of sender, so it could not be included in the usual place.

Mr. F. W. Tomlin, of Loughton, Essex tells us that he has had dealings recently with the B.B.C. 1 Television recording team and found it very efficient. The handbells were rung to be included in a programme "Seeing and Believing." The Whittington Handbell Ringers, who performed, have been connected with St. Michael's, Pater noster Row. E.C.4, since 1949, and the church has been restored for the Mission to Seamen. The programme recorded very be used on March 14, 1971.

Walter Judge, ringing master of the Oxford Society until last year, celebrated his 75th birthday on November 16. A peal was attempted by members of the society at his home tower, Kidlington, but was unfortunately unsuccessful. Walter is still very active as tower captain at Kidlington and continues to teach learners there. He finds that the claims of his own tower prevent him from attending ringing at Oxford Cathedral on Sunday mornings, and his presence there is greatly missed.

Mr. Christopher L. D. Munday and Miss Ann Peck, of Manchester University Guild, are now engaged, and a peal of spliced was rung at Salford to congratulate the couple.

To All English Ringers: Greetings and best wishes for Christmas and the New Year from the Ringers of Christ Church Cathedral, New Zealand. (The first Christmas card received—the greetings and good wishes are reciprocated.)

First peal congratulations to: Norman A. Johnson, David Morton, Julian Beldom, David J. Palmer, Martin Bluck, Christopher B. Martin-Jones, Gregory J. Webster, Stuart M. Lee, Colin R. Gibbons, Philip N. Green, Margaret Brown, Alan R. Bentley, Judy Weekes, Christopher B. Wacher Mark

A special Sunday is set aside at Chelsfield, Kent, when the bellringers are remembered, and this year, according to the report in a local paper, the ringers rang an immaculate quarter of St. Clements under the expert direction of Mr. John Barnes (secretary of the Cumberland Youths). There is a very strong band of ringers, including many youngsters, some of whom "stand on boxes to reach the sallies." The preacher at the special service was the Rev. John Ellingham, of Groombridge, "popular hon. assistant priest and bellringer at Chelsfield."

Selby, Yorks, ringers have very good reason to be proud of their effort for on November 15, for Evensong, seven of the eight ringers rang a first, and at the first attempt! (Peal attempt shortly?)

Printing 150 copies by hand and 24 pages (plus cover), some in two colours, is quite a feat, but Paul Cattermole and his friend, Colin Cunningham, have done that in producing "The Bells of Bale." The lino cut illustrations and the collating and binding all needed considerable time, and Paul and Colin will appreciate the first edition of Stedman's Tintinnalogia, which was all printed on machinery even more crude than their own Albion press. (Congratulations to these amateur printers!)

A quarter at Wheatley, Oxon, was a triumph for Colin Smith, as all the ringers taking part were taught by him. It is sad, however, that the first quarter by a "homegrown" band should be a finale for Colin, as he has now moved to Headington.

Diamond Wedding quarter at Ashtonunder-Hill near Pershore, Worcs, on November 12 to Mr. Jack Langley, former ringer, and Mrs. Langley.

Sixty-six methods were spliced to a quarter at Damerham, Hants, on November 12. Mr. D. C. Jackson, the conductor, believes this is the greatest number in a quarter.

Earl's Barton, Northants, has just completed its 1,000 years' festival. Closing act in this Saxon tower was a quarter of Plain Bob Major.

Youngest local ringer to call a quarter at Orsett, Essex, is 15-year-old Stephen Wood, who had had three previous attempts. There were three other teenagers in the band and, to improve the average, 81-year-old Harry Smith. "We were all very pleased," writes Miss Joan Hills. "Happy Birthday" was said by Petersfield

"Happy Birthday" was said by Petersfield ringers with a quarter of Triples on November 22. Recipient was Mr. N. H. Bennett, one of their company who is now 85.

The Gloucester and Bristol Association ringers celebrated 50 years of ringing together by a quarter at Stroud on November 22. They were Leslie Barry, Thomas Witts and Trevor Pritchard.

FROM KUWAIT

Dear Sir,—I should like to congratulate C. D. on the most enjoyable article concerning true harmonic tuning.

Although it is a number of years since I took an active interest in ringing, and memory perforce suffers, I suggest he visits Middleton Cheney, near Banbury, and Clay-brooke, Leics. I believe the tenor at Middleton is by Bagley, and I remember being impressed by its sound, although I cannot now say whether it was true or near true harmonic. The Claybrooke tenor is a very good bell, though I believe its founder is unknown. This bell is best heard from inside the tower, and particularly during a well-struck rise and fall. At these times it produces a tremendous sound which is most impressive.

One interesting point not covered by C. D. concerns the differences in sound between light and heavy bells tuned to the true harmonic principle. As these become heavier an additional note four times higher than the strike note becomes audible. On some bells, D, C sharp and below, this is very prominent, although the overall effect is pleasant.

There is no doubt to my mind that true harmonic tuning is decidedly better than the old style. There, the seventh hum note tended to take the "body" out of the bell in particular the larger examples. ever, true harmonic has one disadvantage that should be carefully considered by church councils and people contemplating restorations. In general it produces a stereotyped bell—good though it may be. The effect of this is that all true harmonic bells of similar note sound the same and "character" is thereby lost through too extensive recastings. In this context I remember being particularly disappointed when the old eight at Southwell Minster were recast into the present twelve, which are very good, though light for the tower, and so very similar to many others of this weight, size and key.—Yours faithfully.

J. B. BENNETT.

NOT THE FIRST

Dear Sir,—On page 906 of The Ringing World Mr. Pannell gives details of a peal rung at Hartford, Huntingdon.

I was a member of a band which rang the first peal there in 1930. This was rung for the Ely Association, and the annual report confirms two peals rung at Hartford.

Yours faithfully, ERNEST H. MASTIN. Downham Market, Norfolk.

TWO BELLS STOLEN

Little Lever, near Bolton had eight bells, hung dead (for chiming), with an 8½ cwt. tenor, but there are now only six, as the 7th and 8th have been stolen. Thieves 7th and 8th have been stolen. somehow manhandled the bells and lowered them to the ground, but as the tower has stone louvres, two of the walls face houses and the Vicarage, the other two being over and part of the church, it must have been a tricky job. Mr. J. Thornley, of Farnworth, who sent us the information, said it must have been "a job" by people who knew how to handle heavy loads.

NEWGATE

Dear Sir, In reply to Mr. D. Cawley's letter concerning the tolling of a bell at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill, for condemned prisoners at Newgate, the answer appears to be that both a handbell and a tower bell were rung on such occasions.

In 1605 a certain John Dowe left £50 "for ringing the greatest bell in the church on the day the condemned prisoners are executed and for other services for ever concerning such condemned prisoners."

The "other services" consisted of the ringing of a handbell by the clerk under the window of the condemned prisoner's cell on the night before execution, and repeating a certain admonitory rhyme, and presenting the prisoner with a nosegay on his way to execution next morning.

The above facts are taken from Campanology, dated November 11, 1896, but no mention is made of the bell which is now displayed at Madame Tussaud's. I can only assume that this bell was used, as Mr. Cawley says, to announce public executions, and the St. Sepulchre's handbell used in the manner already described.-Yours faithfully,

D. F. WILLCOCKS. Southgate, N.

NORTHFLEET LITTLE BOB

Dear Sir,-With reference to the request for information on Northfleet Little Bob contained in the article on St. Botolph's, Northfleet, on page 910, I have the following figures for this method:

38.16—34. 12 l.h. 4ths place bob.

It would seem, however, that a 4ths place bob cannot be correct, as this would mean that 5, 6, 7 and 8 would never come to the front. A 6ths place bob would seem to be much more likely.

The basic method has a six-lead course with lead heads of 13428765, 14235678, 12348765, 13425678, 14238765, 12345678.

Unfortunately I have no compositions for this method.

I trust this information will be of interest to your readers, especially to the band of St. Botolph's, Northfleet.—Yours faithfully, J. W. SMITH, S./Sgt., R.A.M.C. B.F.P.O. 29.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND

Dear Sir,-I was surprised to read (Ringing World, page 911) Mr. A. R. Kench's claim that the Ancient Society of College Youths as an institution "is very nearly as old as the Church of England itself," the implication no doubt being that the Church of England originated from the Reformation period.

On the contrary it might be said that the Church has existed in this country from Roman times, although St. Augustine is generally considered to have founded the Church of England in the year 597, and despite being at that time under the jurisdiction of the Pope it enjoyed considerable independence until the 12th century.

There were certainly changes at the time the Reformation (comparable ones are taking place in the Roman Catholic Church today), but there was no break in legal continuity when the Church of England succeeded in reasserting its ancient independence in the 16th century.

As a matter of interest, if Mr. Kench ever visits Lincoln Cathedral he will be able to see one of the four remaining contemporary copies of Magna Carta, in which he may read (in Latin, of course) the clause which states that "the Church of England shall be free," and this was written in the year 1215.—Yours faithfully, Lincoln.

LONG LENGTH ATTEMPT (on Handbells)

December 31, 1970, at 9.30 a.m.; in the vestry at All Saints' Church, Whiteparish, Salisbury, Wiltshire: 10,000 Spliced Plain Major (six methods).

BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

Whiteparish, Wilts.

PETTY SQUABBLES

Dear Sir,-One of the worst things that can disrupt a band of ringers is a quarrel amongst its members, and very often the subject of the disagreement is a petty one. I have come across several bands broken up for this reason, and in one case the ringing itself has been seriously affected.

If only the ringers in question would realise that they ring primarily for the church and people, and that their petty differences must be prevented from interfering with the ringing of the bells. If there are not many ringers in an area a quarrel can cause some to go and ring elsewhere, leaving the original band quite unable to maintain a respectable standard of ringing.

Arguments between ringers are unavoidable, human nature being what it is, but when they prevent the bells of a tower from being rung, they are unforgivable; the people in question do not deserve to be known as ringers and church workers. -Yours faithfully,

DISMAYED.

Gloucester.

A GUILD CHURCH

John Euston writes:

"St. Andrew's, Holborn: To correct a misunderstanding, I must point out that Joe Hawkins took charge of St. Andrew's iust after World War I and maintained what I considered the best Sunday service ringing there (in London) until 1940. The morning ringing would commence at 10 a.m. with all visitors welcome! (and there were many). Evening ringing would mean that anyone who was there ready to start sharp at 5.30 p.m. would be in a quarter attempt, and there were often up to six or seven ringers present; noted critics sitting out. Methods were Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman with an odd quarter of Double Norwich or Cambridge. Joe was wholly impartial, although a staunch College Youth."

SPIRE DAMAGED

The gales which raged on November 3 were responsible for considerable damage to All Saints' Church, Cockermouth, Cumberland. A gust of wind estimated at 117 m.p.h. brought the large iron cross, several ornamental summit stones and some blocks of masonry crashing down through the roof Generally, the church the chancel. furniture was not badly damaged, but steeplejacks had to work long hours removing loosened and unsafe masonry from the 180ft. high spire.

Ringing is suspended, for how long is not known, as repair costs will be considerable and there was no insurance to cover this type of damage. An appeal has been launched, Mr. R. W. D. Wetenhall tells us, and the ringers are doing their best to keep together by ringing at other towers.

All ringers will sympathise in the misfortune which has struck Cockermouth, and any financial help will be welcomed and acknowledged by Mr. Wetenhall at Shotton Lodge, Cockermouth.

AUTUMN "MINI-OUTING"

On the beautiful autumn afternoon of October 10, 40 cheerful people from the Cathedral and Birch - in - Rusholme left Manchester on the second annual "mini-outing," which was again to Derbyshire. Five towers had been arranged, all light sixes, so that the learners could gain from the trip, and a different ringing master/ mistress was appointed for each tower.

Burbage has a pleasant and easy-going six and Ashford-in-the-Water's are a modern light Taylor six and were a delight to ring.

The lovely church of St. Anne, Baslow, was next, with a mixed but melodious ring, cast by Heathcote and Hedderly. After tea we were in the right mood to appreciate the truly lovely bells of Eyam, the famous "Plague Village". Unfortunately, morning exercise came to grief a few blows from the end and prompted the remark that the ringing master should be left in the village stocks, which are still on view.

Disley was the last tower, but despite the ease of the bells the ringing here was not very inspiring. The Ram's Head provided the lubrication for the vocal chords of the "choir" during the ride back to Manchester.

The trip provided a wonderful end to the outing season; with such lovely weather and fine bells, who could ask for more? Our thanks to Margaret Manby, who arranged the towers, and to the incumbents and ringers for the use of their bells.

D-I-Y PROGRESS

Work on All Saints, Benhilton, Do-it-Yourself Restoration is progressing satisfactorily. The latest major job tackled was raising 3½ tons of concrete 60 feet to its position for the reinforcing beam round the tower. On a Saturday morning at 7 o'clock the first "helpers" arrived to make the final preparations and by 8 o'clock the 12 men, compressor, vibrator, cement mixer, sand, cement, etc., were all as-sembled. It was then "all stations go." Into the mixer were thrown the measured sand, cement and water, well mixed together, emptied into the skip and winched up to the waiting men perched on the scaffolding near the beam position. The cement quickly poured in, the skip lowered and the same process repeated many, many times to fill the large space of the beam.

At 9 o'clock the compressor broke down, causing some panic, but the fault was soon rectified, and on again. The secretary arrived at 10.15 with welcome flasks of tea, quickly drunk, and back to work. At 1 p.m. it was time for the first wedding of the day, so half-an-hour was taken for a hasty lunch. From 1.30 to 2 p.m. work again until the next wedding. There were four weddings that afternoon, with amused newlyweds being photographed to a back-ground of compressor and "helmeted" workers!

By the 3 o'clock wedding all the concreting was finished and it only remained to clear up. The three ladies who came to view the finished job were roped in to dust the church (which was thick with cement dust) and at 5.30 p.m. a thoroughly tired but triumphant band of men wended their way home for tea.

On the Tuesday evening following an anxious inspection was made of the concrete. All was well and showed that a first-class job had been accomplished. Now a repeat of all hands to the task of preparing for the erection of the other half of the concrete collar!

Kent County Association

19 QUARTERS IN A DAY

All the youth and beauty of the Ashford District were out in force to attempt to ring 20 quarter peals on August 31.

There are 23 6-bell towers in the district. of which 19 were available, plus the back six at Appledore. Four bands were organ-ised to ring at five towers each. There were about 25 ringers, and talent and conductors were distributed as evenly as possible.

The resultant almost embarrassing run of success exceeded all expectations. at High Halden was defeat admitted, but this band succeeded at their other four towers, which had all the heaviest rings (average tenor weight 15 cwt.). At Charing there were two attempts (owing to a broken rope), with a quarter at Great Chart sandwiched in between. Successes were achieved at Newchurch, Burmarsh, Saltwood, Lympne and Newington; Willesborough, Brabourne, Stowting, Aldington and Sellindge; Bethersden, Smarden, Woodchurch and Appledore; and Little Chart, Charing, Pluckley, Hothfield and Great Chart. Many of the Bank Holiday visitors to the churches expressed their interest and appreciation, mainly in variations on "The Miner's Dream of Home" theme. There were ten conductors and conductresses and methods ranged from Surprise Minor to Doubles.

The day's entertainment concluded with social life in the evening at he Duke's Head, Hamstreet, where notes were compared and success celebrated.

Our thanks for this memorable day are due to the incumbents and local ringers concerned, and to John Hemsley, the chief organiser, for his excellent arrangements. We understand he is already preparing a similar programme for Christmas. C. T. H.

KIMPTON CUP COMPETITION

The Kimpton cup competition was held on September 26 in beautiful autumn weather and once again on the 10 cwt. six of Kimpton Parish Church.

Inaugurated in 1959 by the local band to mark the rededication of the bells after restoration, it had always been hoped that the competition would eventually be organised and run by the Hertford County Association to ensure continuity and encourage support, and this hope was fulfilled when the association agreed to include the event in their calendar and take over completely in 1971. Alterations to the rules were agreed to reduce the test piece to 240 changes and to give bands unable to manage method ringing an opportunity to compete with ten minutes' call-changes. The latter relaxation was not taken up this year as all nine entries successfully completed a touch of 240 changes.

Nearly 70 ringers sat down to tea, served by the local ladies in the Church House, when the vicar (Rev. Robert Meredith) welcomed the company. He then asked the judges to give their comments and results.

Michael Orme, judging this competition for the first time, gave some very constructive comments on the various teams' efforts and concluded by saying that if Sunday service ringing could achieve this level there would be little to worry about.

Pat Cannon then announced the results: St. Albans Cathedral "A" (Cambridge), 53 faults; 2 Wheathampstead (Bob Minor), 56; 3 St. Albans Cathedral "B" (Stedman Doubles), 63; 4 King's Langley, 68; 5 Apsley, 73; 6 Hitchin, 78; 7 Bishop's Stortford, 99; 8 St. Albans Girls' Grammar School, 144; 9 Tewin, 179.

Congratulating the winners, A. P. C. said he had judged the first competition in 1959 and all subsequent events. There had been a steady improvement in the standard of striking, which obviously resulted in better service ringing, which was the object of the competition.

All were pleased to see Walter Ayre and looking so well. Walter had been a judge in 1959 and given much advice and assistance in the early years of the competition cup. Mr. Ayre thanked John Cull (who is moving to the Ipswich area) for all his work in organising the competition since its inception and wished him well in his new locality.

A very enjoyable social evening followed in the village hall, with grateful thanks to the M.C. (Martyn Jordan) and the congenial barman (Reg Shepherd) and his helpers. J. G. C.

Yorkshire Association STRIKING CONTEST

The preliminary heats were rung in the five districts during the summer and autumn, and two teams from each district should have competed in the final at Dewsbury on October 31. Ormesby had to scratch, leaving only Guisborough to tepresent the Cleveland and North Yorkshire The rules provided for the deduction of bonus points related to the methods

Harold Chant was the judge -- with all his experience in this role it seems disrespectful not to refer to him as Lord Chief Justice-and soon after 1 o'clock he had entered a Dormobile parked in the churchyard, accompanied by his daughter. Susan, who was to mark for him.

It was hard lines for Wragby, a relatively new band, being drawn first in their initial final, but they sounded not overawed and quickly settled down to a good beat, ringing call-changes on the back six. They collected 72 faults-not a bad score with such a critical judge. Wakefield followed, ringing Cambridge Minor in a manner which demonstrated to those following that they would need to be trip-free to have a chance. The ringing was rather stiff and a little on the slow side—63 faults less 9 bonus.

The sole representatives of the north followed and put, up a plucky performance. It could not have been easy for a voung and inexperienced band to ring call-changes following good Surprise Minor, and they emerged with 132 faults.

Thornhill, who followed, were the only band to ring with closed leads, intentionally. They rang Oxford Treble Bob Minor, rather too slowly, had a nasty trip and collected 132 faults, less 6 bonus points.

The only 8-bell ringing of the day followed - Bob Triples, rung by Calverley. They got away to a shaky start, but after the damage was done they settled into a reasonably good beat—120 faults, less 3 bonus.

Bradford rang Cambridge Minor and spoilt it mainly with some weak leading and a trip and had obviously not beaten Wakefield-81 faults, less 9 bonus.

Cambridge was also the method chosen by Kirk Ella, who rang to a very good rhythm, only marred by the tenor treading on other bells when he was in seconds place. Nevertheless, faults only totalled 47, and with 9 bonus points they were, it transpired, the winners.

Market Weighton had the unenviable task of following them, and the nervous-ness of some of the young ringers was apparent from the shaky start in Plain Bob. They recovered and the last course was a beauty-84 faults, less 3.

Leeds Parish rang Cambridge Minor without, as it appeared to the listeners, the confidence necessary to have come any where near the obvious leaders, and had 102 faults, 9 bonus.

Most of those who had taken part, and others besides, adjourned to the Parish Room for tea and, more important, to hear the judge. He was introduced, only because courtesy required an introduction. by the association's president, and gave his verdict in his inimitable way. Afterwards thanks were expressed to those who had helped to make the day a success, and particularly to Bob Cater, whose careful planning had enabled the whole event to be concluded without a hitch.

People generally have more fluency in condemning than approving; they hate with more ardour than they love.—Bovée.

CROOME TROPHY COMPETITION

October 3 was the date for the Gloucester and Bristol Association's third ringing competition and we were again favoured with good weather. During the morning a number of ringers availed themselves of the opportunity to ring in various towers in the Wotton-under-Edge and Bristol Rural branches before converging on Wickwar, where the competition was held. The six bells have recently been rehung and were, in fact, rededicated just a fortnight before the competition.

Ten teams competed during the course of the afternoon and the judging was in the capable hands of Mr. C. Kippin. Mitcheldean (Forest Branch) were the first to ring and showed a marked improvement on previous years. They were followed by Stonehouse (Stroud Branch), ringing Grand-sire Doubles. Cheltenham Parish Church chose to ring Stedman this year and rang well, but unfortunately Thornbury (Bristol Rural Branch) were unable to sustain the good ringing with which they began. Stone Wotton Branch) were thrilled to be ringing 240 changes for the first time and Bristol Cathedral's Cambridge Surprise Minor was very good indeed. They were followed by Andrew's, Chippenham, Stow-on-the-Wold and Cirencester, all of whom rang Grandsire Doubles. The last team, Barn-wood, had us all wondering whether we were to have a repetition of last year's result, when the last team to ring were the surprise winners. Had they maintained the standard of their opening ringing they may well have beaten all comers.

MEMBERS THANKED

After the ringing evensong was conducted by the rector (Rev. E. Perry) and the address was given by the Ven. Walter T. Wardle, Archdeacon of Gloucester. He began by saying how delighted he was to be able to thank publicly the members of the Gloucester and Bristol Association and other ringers all over the country for the magnificent way they had risen to the challenge of Stinchcombe. He was glad to say that he could now put away his massive file on the subject for, due to the persuasiveness of the officers of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, the bells of Stinchcombe would now be rehung for traditional ringing.

He also spoke of the work of Will Croome, in whose memory the Gloucester Diocesan Board of Finance presented the trophy to the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and said that the wonderful state of the fabric in the churches of the diocese was a permanent memorial to him. It was said that one could tell immediately one entered the Diocese of Gloucester for the influence of Will Croome was so evident.

In conclusion, he reminded ringers of the importance of their faith, suggesting that they ask themselves three questions: "Do I believe?", "What do I believe?" and "Am I awake in my faith?".

Before the declaration of the results Miss E. M. Bliss, association chairman, thanked the Archdeacon for his attendance and Mr. Kippin—the man who had worked hardest that day—for judging the competition. In his appraisal Mr. Kippin first of all commented on the bells, remarking that two in particular had caused embarrassment during the afternoon. He then gave his criticism of each team in turn. Mr. W. F. Scudamore revealed the identity of the teams, the results being as follows: 1st, Bristol Cathedral (94 faults): 2nd, Cheltenham (114); 3rd, Barnwood (137); 4th, Mitcheldean (140): 5th, Thornbury (161); 6th, Cirencester (187); 7th, Stow (227); 8th, Chippenham (233): 9th, Stonehouse (271); 10th, Stone (341).

Canon Wardle presented the Croome Trophy and six miniature bell ropes to Mr. P. J. Bird (Bristol Cathedral) and the ringing master's clapper "for a good attempt" to Mr. C. A. Wratten (Cheltenham Parish Church), the band which on two occasions has only just missed the trophy.

Miss Bliss thanked the ladies for the excellent buffet tea which had been served during the afternoon, the Rev. E. Perry for allowing his bells to be used, and Mr. W. F. Scudamore, ringing master, on whose capable shoulders had fallen all the organisation of the competition.

Middlesex Association

VISIT TO THE CITY

The rector of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate (Rev. E. R. Moore) welcomed the N. and E. District on October 10, conducted the association's form of service and took the chair at the business meeting which followed tea in the Church Hall, a building which is also used by the members of the Fanmakers' Company. He pointed out that Bishopsgate, as a street, was steeped in history and, as its name implies, was one of the main entrances into the old City through the Bishop's Gate, built in 675, the site of which is adjacent to St. Botolph's. The church is unusual inasmuch as its spire is situated at the east end.

New ringing members elected at the business meeting were David Town (Clerkenwell) and R. Greenhill (Edmonton).

Jim Davis and Reuben Sanders — what memories these names bring to the older generation of ringers, and therefore how delightful to find Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Sanders as two of the tea hostesses, still giving their services to help the Association when opportunity occurs. Our best thanks were accorded to them and also to Michael Wycherley, who stepped into the breach at very short notice and accompanied at the organ during the service.

East Grinstead Guild ANNUAL OUTING

The annual outing was held on October 10 and toured the banks of the Thames. The first tower was the six at Ottershaw and the ringers found the bells easy-going but the belfry was so small and with so many waiting it made ringing uncomfortable. The next tower, Walton-on-Thames (8), was followed by lunch, after which Oatlands Park (8) was on the list. At Sunbury-on-Thames (8) the church is disused and due for demolition (we understand the local band still ring on Sundays for services held in a chapel nearby). Tea was taken at East Molesey and the two evening towers (both tens) were at Kingston upon Thames and Beddington. Various methods were tried at each with varying success.

After refreshment the party returned home, and our thanks go to Mr. C. A. Bassett for his organisation and to Ted Baker for driving again. R. J. E.

Ringing, under the direction of the master (Mrs. H. G. Hart), took place before and after tea, principally in the standard methods, and a number of the younger members rang on these bells for the first time.

WATFORD DISTRICT OUTING

On October 3 members of the Watford District paid a visit to Worcester, passing through familiar and well-loved countryside en route

A coffee stop at Moreton-in-Marsh was welcome on this blowy autumn morning. Friends from Swindon Village, Glos, joined the party at Badsey, where we were met by Mr. Brazier and the tuneful ring of eight was put to very good use.

After lunch the anti-clockwise ring of six at St. Swithun's, Worcester, was rung to a variety of methods. Tucked away almost out of sight behind the busy High Street, the bells in this old city tower sound loud and clear. Mr. Fred Pugh, who had met us there, accompanied us to the Cathedral, where the heavy 12 were approached with some slight trepidation by our company of varying experience, and some words of advice from Mr. Pugh proved most helpful.

vice from Mr. Pugh proved most helpful.
Rounds on 12. Grandsire and Stedman Caters, a speculative half course of Yorkshire on the back eight and a fair to reasonable lower—then it was time to go. We were aware that our efforts did not do these really magnificent bells justice, but it was a joy to ring them none the less, and we would here record appreciation to those concerned. It was a pleasure to meet David Beacham for a few minutes outside the Cathedral afterwards.

Over the bridge to St. John's where, in the nicely-carpeted ringing chamber, the pleasant eight seemed particularly easy to ring. Mr. Lewis met us there and we learned from this enthusiastic ringer of his equally enthusiastic young band.

In the gathering dusk, the brightly-lit church of Moreton-in-Marsh, with its harvest festival preparations going on, was very pleasing, as indeed were the bells, and on this delightful octave the last touches of the day were rung.

Our thanks are accorded to Andrew Mayes (district secretary) for arranging such a good outing, also the above-mentioned gentlemen who met us.

INTO SUSSEX

On a Saturday in September the Bromley (Kent) ringers and friends visited five Sussex churches, and when the party left there was a fine drizzle falling. The first call was Lower Beeding (8), where Michael Hansford successfully conducted his first quarter (Bob Major).

Cowfold (6) was next, where a quarter of Grandsire came to grief, and after a picnic lunch the party headed for Shipley (6), where an attempt was made for Cambridge Minor but was lost ten minutes from the end. The weather improved and those not ringing much enjoyed walking around the peaceful and beautiful countryside. The impressive windmill, preserved as a memorial to Hilaire Belloc, the author and poet, was also visited.

At Steyning (8) the bells were found to be less easy to ring than those previously rung; nevertheless the visit was much enjoyed. A pleasant tea was later enjoyed at a local café.

The last church was Henfield (8). A successful quarter of Stedman Triples was conducted by David Kingston and all found the delightful bells a pleasure to ring. The day finished with a call at the White Hart (where a few changes were rung on handbells) before returning home.

In July, 1880, there took place the consecration of the new church on Lord Eldon's estate at Kingston, Wareham, Eldon's estate at Kingston, Wareham, Dorset. Eight members of the College Youths were invited down, and before and after the service on Saturday, July 24, they rang on the new bells various touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob "under the leadership of Mr. Haworth." In the afternoon they attempted a peal of Grandsire Triples, but only rang 3,500 changes. They rang for the morning and evening services on the Sunday, and "returned to London by way of Poole, where they rang changes on the eight bells, supposed to be for the first time (new in 1821)."

Haworth's most noteworthy peal in 1881 was the first peal on the bells at St. Paul's Cathedral, Stedman Cinques, to which he rang the fourth. Even to-day a peal on these bells is not to be treated lightly, and in those days it was hailed as "a great feat in change-ringing." In Church Bells it was noted that "All present bore testimony to the fine and regular striking throughout the whole of the ringing. It was the first long peal, first attempt, and rung by the Cathe-

The year 1882 saw Haworth once again busy with attending openings of new rings of bells. On April 1 eight members of the College Youths opened a ring of eight bells (six old and two new) at Tring, Herts. "The ringing commenced with a quarter real of Stadesar's Trings to Stadesar's Trings and the stadesart's Trings and the stadesart's Trings are stadesart's Trings are stadesart as the stadesart's Trings are stadesart as the stadesart are stad peal of Stedman's Triples, conducted by Mr. Wood, followed at intervals during the day by touches of Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major and Stedman's Triples, in some of which Squire Proctor, of Bennington, Herts, assisted." On Easter Monday, April 10, Haworth was one of the ringers at the opening of the eight bells (augmented from six) at Baldock, Herts. This time it was Squire Proctor's band who did the official opening ringing.

HOLT'S TEN-PART

In the same year the eight bells at Bletchingley, Surrey, had been rehung, "and to prove the fact that everything is in good order, on Tuesday, the 29th August, eight members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, London . . . rang Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples in 3hrs. 8 mins.; and, in the evening, two long courses of Kent Treble Bob Major (704 changes), and six courses of Stedman's Triples. ringing was conducted by M. A. Wood." (Church Bells.) Haworth rang the third in this peal.

There was an interesting centenary peal on August 4, 1883, in which Haworth took part. On August 4, 1783, a band of the "Junior" Society of College Youths won a silver cup in a ringing contest at Sonning, Berks (this cup is fully described on page 684 of The Ringing World, September 6. 1968), and it was decided to mark the centenary of this victory by ringing a College Youths' peal at Sonning. So Haworth and four other College Youths (Pettit, Mash, Wood and Greenleaf) went by train to Twyford, from where, according to The Bell News, they "had a most enjoyable walk across country to Sonning," where they met the rest of the band. After ringing the peal—Grandsire Triples—"in splendid style. without let or hindrance. party adjourned to a marquee, where a sumptuous and well-furnished repast was provided by 'mine host.' Mr. Bright, of the Bull." After the meal the silver cup was filled with wine, and appropriate toasts were drunk from it. The other London members apparently went home that evening, but Haworth stayed for the week-end, possibly as the guest of J. M. Routh. On Sunday they rang at Tilehurst, where "having been hung by an incompetent local," the belief were scarcely ringable therefore Minor could not be attempted. On Monday "several short touches of Grandsire Triples were indulged in" Haworth, who had been rejoined by F. E. Dawe and W. Greenleaf, together with the local ringers, at St. Mary's, Reading.

Later, on January 22, 1884, Haworth presented another silver cup to the College Youths to commemorate the centenary peal. An account from the silversmiths shows that the cup cost £6 15s., and the engraving on it another £1 10s. A cutting from Church Bells describes the scene at the College Youths' meeting room at the King's Head, Southwark, reports the presentation of the cup, and gives the speeches which were made by Haworth and J. M. Routh.

A peal of note in which Haworth took part in 1884 was one of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, rung at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on April 29. It may be remembered that Haworth had taken part in the first peal rung in that method on those bells 38 years previously, and the 1884 peal was the first in that method that had been rung there for 22 years.

A WEEK-END IN KENT

In September of the same year Haworth spent a week-end down in Kent. Sunday, September 21, was the harvest festival at Sittingbourne, and a cutting from Church Bells states that "an especial feature of the occasion was the ringing. Determined to have some really good ringing, a prominent member of the local society invited three members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, under the direction of Mr. J. R. Haworth, to come down and assist." The London party (in fact numbering five in all) arrived on the Saturday evening, and with three local ringers, attempted a peal of Grandsire Triples on the bells, but lost the peal after 3,200 changes. Together with other local ringers, they rang various touches during the Sunday, both before and after the services. Haworth and two other London men (F. G. Newman and R. French) went to Faversham the next day where a mixed band rang a St. James's Society peal of Grandsire Triples.

On October 7, 1884, Haworth rang his 150th peal, Grandsire Caters, at St. Clement Danes', Strand. His next peal on these bells, also Grandsire Caters, rung on December 1, 1884, must have been a sad occasion for Haworth, for it was rung halfmuffled in memory of George Stockham who had died a fortnight previously. Howarth had known Stockham ever since he (Haworth) had taken up ringing.

Only one of the peals Haworth rang in 1885 is of any special interest-Grandsire Triples at Chichester on July 18, rung by a band of College Youths who had gone down there for the week-end. This was wards the band were "most libe ally entertained" by the local ringers at the Anchor Hotel. "The remainder of the evening." as Church Bells records "were report as Church Bells records, "was spent in a convivial manner, and some excellent songs—Mr. Haworth's 'Learned Man' being well received—and speeches brought the meeting to a close." The Sunday was spent mainly in sight-seeing: and three of the party—Haworth, Mash and Winney stayed overnight and returned to London on Monday via Arundel, where they had a ring with the local band.

The year 1887 was Queen Victoria's Jubilee Year. Haworth took part in three Jubilee peals at St. Lawrence, Jewry; St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate; and St. Clement Danes', Strand, all of which were rung by the St. James's Society. The peal at St. Lawrence, Jewry, was of especial note, in that it was only the fourth peal on the bells in the 207 years of their existence (the tenor weighed 36 cwt.) and the first since 1762. A newspaper cutting states that "Mr. J. R. Haworth, the caretaker of the bells and head ringer, deserves some credit for their excellent condition." After the peal the ringers were "entertained at supper at the Goose and Gridiron Hotel, St. Paul's Churchvard, by Mr. Churchwarden Bening-

Sa'isbury Guild NOTICES OF RESIGNATION

The Devizes Branch held its quarterly meeting and striking competition at Holt on October 3. Ringing during the afternoon was under the direction of ringing master Bob Purnell (Melksham).

Tea, provided by the Bridge Women's Institute, and the meeting, preceded the service, at which the rector (Rev. G. Howlett) welcomed the ringers to Holt. Mr. Eric Walters was at the organ.

At the meeting, chaired by Mr. C. F. Andrews (branch chairman), two new members and two honorary members were elected, and notices of resignation from office were received from G. D. Davis (Bradford-on-Avon), secretary, and N. G. Knee (Warminster), ringing master.

In the striking competition which fol-lowed, run by Bob Purnell, Warminster emerged as winners, with Longbridge Deverill second.

Full placings were as follows: 1 Warminster, 2 Longbridge Deverill, 3 Christ Church (Bradford-on-Avon), 4 Holy Trinity (Bradford-on-Avon), 5 Holt, 6 Bratton, 7 branch ladies' band, 8 branch under-16 band.

The judges, who were thanked by the chairman, were Mr. Brian Woodruffe, of Whiteparish, and Mr. Neil Shelton, of Salisbury.

Guild of Devonshire Ringers CERTIFICATE PRESENTED AT SERVICE

The South West Branch held its autumn meeting at Noss Mayo on October 3 and ringing during the day varied between rounds and Cambridge Major, via all the standard methods on six and eight.

The recently-restored octave were rung before the service, which was conducted by the rector (Rev. P. E. Fairbrother). During the service he departed from the branch's normal practice and presented a guild certificate to Anthony Pullan, of Whitchurch. A traditional feature of the service was a course of Grandsire Triples in hand.

After tea in the church hall a business meeting was held, at which Christine Tebbot and Sally Jackman (Whitchurch). Robert Young (Emmanuel, Plymouth) and Nicholas Head (Stoke Damerel, Plymouth) were elected to membership.

In the evening, and thanks to Rev. Fair-brother's further hospitality in his capacity as Vicar of Newton Ferrers (Noss Mayo's "twin village"), ringing continued on the fine ring of six at that church. J. F. S.

24 NEW MEMBERS

On October 17, a beautiful autumn day, over 40 ringers came to ring Lytchett Mat-ravers' six bells, and to join in the guild office conducted by the rector. Perhaps not for the first time (but rare enough to mention) the service contained three Hail Marys.

After an excellent tea organised by Mr. W. S. Oakley in the Church Hall (which used to be a pub) a noteworthy business new meeting followed. Twenty-four members were elected, 13 being from Sturminster Marshall's new band, and all were welcomed to the guil.d It is hoped that those who came enjoyed themselves may be tempted to come again. and

A tender-hearted and compassionate disposition, which inclines men to pity and feel the misfortunes of others, and which is, even for its own sake, incapable of involving any man in ruin and misery, is of all tempers of mind the most amiable; and though it seldom receives much honour, is worthy of the highest.—Fielding.

"CHANGERINGING"

A correspondent asks whether the omission from the list of suitable Christmas presents of The Ringing World conveners' book, "Changeringing," is the Editor's way of showing disapproval of the conveners' note about price increases! [The Editor certainly can't be accused of favouritism! The book is available from all booksellers, £3 3s., the publishers being Faber and Faber.]

"QUITE A DAY"

Three peals with a difference, in that they were all rung on the same bells (Derby Cathedral) on the same day, without the bells ceasing, by three different bands of ringers. Rounds were rung during the changeover periods. Why such an event? A final fund-raising effort for Derby Cathedral Appeal, during which the Provost of Derby, Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes, sat in the churchyard from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. to collect donations. The Cathedral ringers, with the help of ringing friends from Bedford and Lincoln, agreed to ring all day to give the Provost some moral support. Well over £2,000 was raised.

CANON FELSTEAD LEAVES SOUTHAMPTON

The month of October has seen numerous festivities to mark the 9th centenary of the founding of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Southampton's oldest building. These started with the Patronal Festival (September 29) with the Bishop of Winchester preaching. Other special services have been held during October.

These started with the Patronal Festival (September 29) with the Bishop of Winchester preaching. Other special services have been held during October.

On October 29 a dinner was held at the Polygon Hotel, Southampton, attended by the Bishops of Winchester and Southampton, the Mayor of Southampton and many of the people who have worked hard to restore the church—over 100 of St. Michael's "family". Both the Bishop of Winchester and the Mayor of Southampton spoke of Canon Felstead's untiring work and devotion in virtually saving St. Michael's from the threat of demolition and bringing it to its beautifully-restored condition today.

The fact that £50,000 has been raised and spent on this restoration over the past 15 years is sufficient indication of the work Canon Felstead has led so well and so lovingly. His article (R.W., page 770) touches briefly on this mammoth task which his natural modesty would prevent him from showing in its true proportions.

The 9th centenary dinner was a fitting culmination of Canon Felstead's work at St. Michael's, for now, with some sadness, he is leaving (after 25 years) to take up a new appointment as Master of St. Cross Hospital. Winchester.

Hospital, Winchester.
From the ringing viewpoint, not least of his efforts at St. Michael's was the augmentation to ten in 1948. The bells have been well and truly used since then, with almost 100 of the total of 125 peals having been rung in this latter period.

It was fitting, therefore, that on Canon Felstead's last Saturday at St. Michael's he took part in a peal of Royal in his tower. A new method was rung which he was pleased to have called St. Michael Surprise Royal. Finally, for his last service, evensong on November 1, many of his ringing friends came to ring him to church, London S. Royal being among the methods rung.

He will be sadly missed at St. Michael's, but Southampton's loss is Winchester's undoubted gain.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for December 7, 1945

Edward V. Rodenhurst rang the eighth in a peal of Kent Maximus at Shrewsbury, his first of Kent Maximus.

The treble to a peal of Bob Major at Ufford was rung by George W. Pipe, his first peal in which Mrs. C. W. Pipe and Mr. C. W. Pipe (conductor) also took part.

Mrs. A. J. B. Wayman and Mr Raymond F. Smith both rang their first peal of Stedman Triples at Harmston, Lincs, conducted by John A. Freeman.

The reader . . . will see how valuable to everyone is a good "Letter to the Editor." It adds to the interest of the paper; it causes people to think; often it supplies necessary information; and usually it presents a point of view which, though not the editorial one, may be a valuable complement to it.—Leader.

Mr. A. V. Davis was elected hon. secretary and treasurer of the Christchurch Branch of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild and Mr. W. E. Cheater was elected ringing master.

At a meeting at Selby, Yorks, it was decided to form a local society to be known as Selby and District Society of Change Ringers. Mr. T. H. Foster was elected hon. secretary and treasurer.

50 YEARS AGO

December 10, 1920

The National Assembly of the Church of England proposed to confer on parochial church councils certain powers which might have affected bellringers, and Canon Baker, of Dunstable, suggested that ringers who wished to express themselves on any clause or suggest any amendment should communicate with him.—Leader.

It was uphill work learning to ring and there were so many other attractions nowadays that it was difficult to keep young fellows in the tower.—From a Hereford Guild report.

Mr. Matthew Ellsmore, of Portsmouth, wanted to know if there were any bells in Sydney, Australia; it was also stated that Mr. Clement Glenn was settling down in France for a while.

Frank Croft, William J. Croft and George Croft (first as conductor) took part in a peal at Great Wymondley, Herts, for the wedding of Mr. R. Croft and Miss Ida Cherry.

William H. George, James F. George, Henry George and James George rang in a peal of Kent Major at Eastwood, Notts conducted by Edward C. Gobey.

And seven of the Bailey brothers rang in a peal of Guildford Surprise Major at Leiston, Suffolk, the eighth ringer being James A. Rumsey. Charles F. Bailey conducted.

Nearly two columns were occupied on readers' views on whether or not peal ringers should pay for inserting peal reports in The Ringing World. Alfred Pulling thought a penny should be the maximum, as with the cost of postage and postal order charge it would make it a dear job in some cases.

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF THE BELLS

ST. MARY'S CHURCH stands four miles south-east of Sheffield on the A.57 road to Worksop and the East Coast. It occupies a commanding position on the top of a long hill which starts at Woodhouse Mill, and the familiar sound at the church is of the gears of heavy lorries changing upwards almost with a sigh of relief after the long climb.

Handsworth is mentioned in the Domesday Book. It is probable that the church was founded by William, son of Richard de Lovetot, Lord of the Manor, not later than 1181. The record of rectors does, in fact, go back to 1195. The Chapel of St. Katherine was built about 1220. The Fabric Rolls of York report: "1472 Hannesworth Church is ruinous, it is now, however, being rebuilt." The tower was built soon after the church and the tower arch is a fine example of Transitional architecture. A spire was added later and this was "struck down by a ball fire" in 1698. "Handsworth Stump," a small, squat steeple, was then built and pulled down in 1825 to make way for the present spire. Other noteworthy features of the church are: a trefoiled piscina and two trefoiled sedilia; a large blocked up opening visible inside and out which retains its old hinges for a shutter; a blocked Transitional priests' doorway.

THE CROSS KEYS

An interesting building where many ringers have celebrated successful peals and "drowned their sorrows" after failures is the Cross Keys, which fronts on to the main road but actually stands in the church-yard. This building was the old church house and school and was built well before 1600. There is a record of the names of the headmasters from 1600 until 1800, when it ceased to be a school.

According to the inventory of 1552 at the Public Record Office, there have been bells at Handsworth since 1428. The first and third of the old three were recast in 1828 by T. Mears and these were melted down and used to cast the present ring. The second was cast in 1590, still hangs in the tower and is called the "Shrewsbury" bell. It bears the inscription "Jhesus Be Our Spede lower. G.S. 1590 H.O." the initials depicting George, 6th Earl of Shrewsbury, and Henry Oldfield of Nottingham. Although the bells were hung to ring full circle, for many years prior to 1920 they were chimed by hammers operated from a drum-like contraption turned by a handle.

Soon after the end of the Great War, discussions started in the village as to the form a memorial to the Fallen should take, and finally a choice between a new church hall or a ring of bells remained to be decided upon. An accomplished ringer in the village had arrived from Derbyshire a year or two earlier in the person of Fred Watkinson, who had already proved his worth in church activities. He had recently been a great help in forming the first Church Council, was its first secretary and held the post for several years. By giving lectures on bellringing to the Church of England Men's Society and other organisations he stirred up an interest in the art, and when later a vote was taken the bells were chosen to be the memorial together with clock and chimes. The parish now has a fine community centre (the old rectory converted), a youth centre, a scout hall and a modern rectory as well as its fine ring of bells.

The installation of the new ring of eight bells (tenor 12 cwt. 14 lb. in the key of F sharp) was carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co, and was one of the very first rings to be hung on ball bearings.

Four of the bells are inscribed and show

Four of the bells are inscribed and show the organisations which worked very hard to collect the money to pay for them.

Treble: The Children's Tribute.

3: Handsworth Girls' Club. Grateful Remembrance.

5: The Mothers' Union. Thy will be done.

Tenor: This peal of eight bells was placed in this tower in memory of those men of Handsworth who fell in the Great War 1914-1918.

C.E.M.S.

The bells were dedicated exactly 50 years ago on Saturday, December 18 1920, by Dr. Leonard Hedley Burrows, the first Lord Bishop of Sheffield. The opening touch was rung by a band of ex-Service men. This same band rang the first peal on the bells on April 9, 1921, and stood as follows: A. Hague (conductor) treble, J. E. Lewis Cockey 2, Winifred M. Hague (later Mrs. T. C. Ryder) 3, Sidney Briggs 4, Haydn Thorpe 5, T. Colin Ryder 6, Charles R. Wright 7, Colin Harrison tenor. Mr. Cockey and Mrs. Ryder are the only two of the band surviving.

Fred Watkinson was a master of the art of training ringers and in addition to the local ringers many well-known personalities (Bert and Norman Chaddock, Canon Felstead, Paul Taylor, to name a few) will testify to the help they received from him in their early struggles. He soon trained a full team to ring for service and to such a proficiency that on March 11, 1922, only 15 months after dedication day, the second peal on the bells was rung entirely by the local band. Fred maintained a good team until the ban on ringing in the second World War, but on the resumption when the ban was lifted he was forced to retire due to ill-health and was repliced by the present ringing master, Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert, who took over when he was demobilised.

EASY-GOING BELLS

Handsworth, with its light and easygoing bells, has always been considered a "ladies" tower and has always had lady ringers. The first notable peal was, in fact, the first peal of Major ever rung by ladies on January 7, 1928, conducted by Molly Davenport (Mrs. E. S. Powell) and including Noel Cawthorne and Eva Hopkins of the local company. Two other allladies peals have since been rung, also a married couples peal. Peals of 36 and 42 Spliced Surprise were records at the time of ringing. Many firsts for the Yorkshire Association have been accomplished. The present company have recently been pleased to record the 200th peal on the bells. Mrs. Dorice Kelly rang her first peal for 13 years and the first with her son David, and it is fairly safe to claim that Handsworth is the first tower in Yorkshire to achieve this total.

A lean period started for the tower in 1962, when seven or eight ringers left almost at the same time, and an original and very faithful member, William H. Taylor, died, as did Fred Watkinson. Fred Cardwell, the only original member to have stayed the 50 years, is still going strong. Three more of Fred Watkinson's pre-war pupils, Dorice Kelly, John Gilbert and John Turley, are still regular members. The present band consists of eight promising youngsters, five of whom have rung their first peal during the last two years.

Handsworth is a comfortable place for rectors. There have been only three in the last 90 years. Rev. William A. Baker was rector at the time of dedication. He used to say that the bells would have no ringers 50 years hence, and he would have been delighted to know he was wrong. Canon Heneage succeeded him in 1944, and last year the ringers were pleased to ring a peat to celebrate his silver jubilee as rector.

DEVON RINGERS' TOUR

On October 24 a number of members of the Devon Guild under the leadership of Mr. A. L. Bennett held a tour in the Crediton district. Accompanying him were the Misses V. Stephens and M. Towers visited were South Tawton, Iddesleigh, Sheepwash, Bow, Zeal Monachorum, Coldridge and Crediton. The lunch and tea intervals were spent in the Bow area, and all were pleased to meet Mr. John F. Fidler during the afternoon.

A Delightful Occasion

The annual dinner-party of the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers was held on December 5 at the Red Lion, Wareham, a company of approximately 50 members and visitors sitting down under the branch chairmanship of Dr. C. T. Erown (Wareham).

The excellent meal was well served in the pleasant dining room of this delightful Dorset hotel, the tables being placed informally, apart from the main one, at which were seated Dr. Brown, Rev. Roger Keeley (Salisbury Guild master) and Mrs. Keeley, Mr. Ross Robertson, Mrs. Judith Robertbells were not easy to get, but Bill managed

Mr. Denyer concluded by wishing the branch every success and said he hoped to meet many of them on future occasions. He felt it was part of the Editor's duty to get around and to meet as many ringers and readers as possible, and a better understanding and sympathetic consideration on both sides would result.

Mr. Mitchell, branch ringing master, brought greetings to the gathering from a meeting that afternoon at St. John's, Surrey Road, Bournemouth, and the chairman then closed the formal part of the pro-son (branch secretary), Mrs. Betty Christopher (Wareham tower secretary) and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor, Ringing World).

Following the loyal toast, the chairman extended a warm welcome to all the guests and visitors, mentioning particularly the Guild master and Mrs. Keeley, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Collins (Ringwood) and The Ringing World Editor. He also greeted, and the company applauded, the six members present from Sturminster Marshall, who were attending for the first time, the whole band having joined the branch at the last quarterly meeting.

Breaking with the tradition of "no speeches," the chairman introduced The Ringing World Editor and invited him to address the gathering, it being the first time that the Editor had attended this annual function.

Mr. Denyer expressed his thanks to the branch for inviting him to their dinner, and particularly thanked Dr. and Mrs. Brown for accommodating him for the night to save the 80 miles journey home. He then spoke on the problems and general production of the ringers' journal and told of the very great importance of keeping the cir-culation up, the necessity for each tower, if not each ringer, to take and share a copy with others, and of the work of the staff at Guildford to ensure regular despatch.

He also mentioned the happy ringing hours he had spent in the 1930's in the Salisbury Guild and of the pleasure of meeting again that evening, after many years, Mr. Bill Shute, who had helped so much in those past years with the enjoy-ment of that ringing. Bill was a great fellow, he added, and always managed to get around on his cycle (and, later, motor-cycle) and to have the bells ready for visitors. Sher-borne Abbey tenor made the greatest moment of those days, said the speaker. MID-DEVON MEETING

The meeting held by the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers on November 7 took the form of a tour, the Teign Valley being the objective. Towers visited were Bridford, Christow, Ashton and Trusham. A service was held at the last church conducted by the Rev. W. S. Pears (rector), the lesson being read by Mr. D. J. Roberts (general secretary of the guild). After tea at a Chudleigh cafe the business meeting was held in the Constitutional Club, with the Rev. D. P. Angold in the chair.

Several new members were elected, and it was decided to hold the annual meeting of the branch at Brixham in January, 1971 (subject to the necessary permission) with four towers being available.

Ringing took place at Chudleigh Parish Church in the evening. A. L. B.

N.D.A. STRIKING COMPETITION

The Norwich Diocesan Association was again blessed with a warm, sunny day for the annual striking competition. The choice of Gaywood as the venue proved excellent and the bells were ideal, but perhaps the isolation from the accepted ringing areas was reflected in the attendance-only four teams competing.

The highlight of the afternoon was, without doubt, the presentation of a magnificent rose bowl by former president Mr. Nolan rose bowl by former president Mr. Nolan Golden. This trophy was proudly accepted by Mr. Norman Harding, captain of the winning band from St. Margaret's, King's Lynn. The other teams were placed as follows: 2 Diss, 3 South Norfolk, 4 St. George's, Colegate, Norwich. It should be pointed out that the St. George's band were unlucky to "fire out" after some good ringing. Thanks were expressed to Mr. Frank Lufkin for coming from Essex to judge and comment on the ringing, and also to Mr.

SERVICE REWARDED

Over 60 people participated in the autumn meeting and service of the South Oxford-shire Branch which was held at Benson on November 7. The service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. A. E. Barton), who thanked all ringers for their work Sunday by Sunday. He pointed out that they were an important part of the life of the Church, and as' such must take up the challenge of the Church to make a witness. The lessons were read by the Rev. C. T. O'Reilly (hon. member) and Canon C. E. Wigg (guild mas-

A buffet tea was provided in the hall by ladies of the parish. Mr. Douglas Exon (branch chairman) welcomed all present, remarking that it was the largest branch meeting he could remember. He then asked Mr. James Godman to perform the pleasant duty of making a presentation to Mr. Frank Absolom, for many years branch ringing master. Mr. Godman recalled Mr. Absolom's efforts in teaching method ringing in the days when many local towers were ringing call changes; he had always been a leader in the branch and was a natural choice for ringing master. Mr. Absolom, who was presented with a cheque, thanked the branch and said how pleasing it was to see so many young ringers present.

Members were introduced to Mr. Bill Butler, the new secretary of the guild, who put forward plans for a guild outing in the future. He also commended the branch newsletter as a useful form of communication and felt that the Guild as a whole would benefit from some kind of news

Fifteen new members were elected, and in view of the many inexperienced ringers now in the branch it was decided to investigate the possibilities of running an instructional course.

RINGING COURSE

It all started in June of this year, when one branch secretary said to another: "The trouble with branch practices is that there is so little time available and often very few expert ringers to help with the instruction." The conversation continued expressing the desirability of beginners having the opportunity to practise with complete bands of competent ringers.

The result of this conversation occurred on October 31 at Bishop Loveday School in Bodicote village (near Banbury). Students of all ages began to arrive at halfpast nine. They were greeted by a fascinating display of handbells, founders' marks and numerous photographs depicting bells through the ages, bell fittings and other topics of campanological interest.

At 10 o'clock the vicar (Rev. D. Bishop) opened the proceedings with a short address of welcome and prayers for the success of the venture. The first session dealt with a technical and historical introduction to the art of campanology. This extremely interesting subject was in the capable hands of Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who delighted his audience with many slides, interspersed with amusing anecdotes.

TWO GROUPS

The ringers taking part were later divided into two unequal groups. The smaller went to Bodicote Church for a practical session on tied bells, devoted to ringing up and down. This was ably organised by Miss Daphne Pollard. At the same time Mr. Wilfrid Wilson explained how methods were constructed. One of the main difficulties experienced by a tower instructor is the task of explaining change-ringing to new recruits. It was felt that Mr. Wilson's talk did much to present change-ringing as an exercise of logistics. There was more than one comment heard afterwards, declaring that the theory of change-ringing was not as mysterious as had been supposed!

Following almost three hours of theoretical instruction, a welcome break was enjoyed by all. Although lunch had been confined to "own arrangements," coffee, tea and orange were provided by Jean Davis and Pamela Powell. During the break a further opportunity was taken to inspect the exhibition of bells and photographs. Attention was also given to a display of books on bellringing, which had been lent by the library of the Oxford Guild especially for the occasion.

During the afternoon practical sessions were held at Lower Heyford and Rousham. At the former tower Mr. Sharpe gave instruction on elementary ringing, whilst Mr. Wilson coped with an enthusiastic group at the latter and covered the more admethods. Arrangements had been vanced made for a large number of competent ringers to be present at these towers, to provide a sound "backing." For those not ringing, instruction was given on rope splicing at both towers. Unfortunately there were too many ringers at these towers, resulting in some having to wait a considerable time for a ring. A third tower staffed by competent ringers would have eased the pressure.

At 4.30 a stream of cars headed towards the village of Wootton, where tea had been arranged in the village hall, prepared by Jean Davis and Pamela Powell. Exactly 60 persons sat down. The rector (Rev. L. C. Perfect) prayed for all ringers and said Grace. The gathering was privileged to have present the master of the Oxford Guild (Canon C. E. Wigg), who expressed

A GOODLY NUMBER

The venue for this year's Rochester District annual meeting was Frindsbury, and a goodly number turned up on October 17 to a lively and interesting meeting. The service was taken by the curate, himself aringer (Rev. Roger James), and then everyone adjourned to a nearby hall for a knife-and-fork meal, provided free.

The chairman (Rev. Stanley Evans) welcomed visitors to the district and asked that the good wishes of the meeting be sent to Mr. Stanley Rayfield, who was making slow progress following his recent illness. He also welcomed back two ringers from Stockbury, Messrs. Lacey and Borman, following recovery from accident and illness.

The secretary (Mr. David Leworthy), giving his report at the end of his first year in office, stated that the average attendance at meetings had been 65. In all, 37 peals had been rung: 16 tower (decrease of seven), 21 in hand (increase of 16). Noteworthy performances included seven firsts, Trevor Cross's 600th and Chris Osenton's 300th. There had also been 53 quarter peals, with 18 members ringing firsts, and this augured well for the future of the district, he remarked.

Membership was 180 adults, 38 juniors

Membership was 180 adults, 38 juniors and 30 associate, with 50 subscriptions outstanding, and three members had died.

The district newsletter which the secretary produced at the four quarterly meeting had proved popular, the average circulation being 75.

One non-resident life member and three practising members were elected at the meeting. Those present disagreed with a suggestion put forward by a sub-committee that each district should have a committee. It was felt that the few occasions when a committee was required did not warrant one being in permanent existence.

The election of officers for the year were selected, in some cases by ballot: Chairman, Rev. Stanley Evans (Bredgar); secretary, Mr. David Leworthy (Minsteriary, Mr. David Leworthy (Minsteriary, Mr. P. Osenton (Halling) and Committee, Mrs. P. Osenton (Halling) and Trevor Cross (Rochester); ringing masters, Messrs. Chris Osenton (Halling) and Len Crouch (Frindsbury); Ringing World correspondent, Mr. Laurie Mitchell (Newington-next-Sittingbourne). A proposal from the Lewisham District with reference to a peal booking fee was turned down.

Votes of thanks were expressed to all who had made the meeting so successful, and many ringers later crossed the Medway to take the opportunity of ringing on Rochester Cathedral bells.

delight at the reception given to the venture. A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Ron Thorne (Bodicote), mentioning especially Mr. Frederick Sharpe, Mr. Wilfrid Wilson and Miss Daphne Pollard for their tireless effort and patience. Mr. Thorne concluded by drawing attention to the hard work of Jean Davis and Pamela Powell, who had made all the catering arrangements.

Whilst a small army of volunteers tackled the problem of clearing up, further ringing was enjoyed on the six at Wootton, under the direction of Mr. Cyril Kinch.

Thanks must go to all the instructors, to all the competent ringers who gave up their Saturday afternoon to help provide strong bands at the practical sessions, as well as to the incumbents and ringers of the four towers used.

LEIGH (detached) ASSOCIATION

The venue for our 31st quarterly meeting was amongst the falling leaves of the Maidstone district, where, on a misty day, ringing was started at the recently rehung John Wilner four at Addington which with the treble recast, tuned, and new frame, went remarkably well. Ash-by-Wrotham was next, where, on approach, the "Whitechapel" sound was heard, Saturday being the local band's practice day. Although having worn bearings and two cracked bells ringing was steady and unfaltered.

With extra members we continued on to the tuneful bells of Boughton-Monchelsea which "thudded with glory"! Chart Sutton was next and then Maidstone, where All Saints' bells proved a delight. After lunch, ringing commenced on the six at St. Michael's, Maidstone—strange to the ear as being the middle six of an eight. The ring of six (Samuel Knight, 1763) at Holling-bourne, being tuned in the minor key, also seemed strange to the ear. The bell engineering is interesting—rolled steel joists being used as headstocks.

The Whitechapel five at Frinsted went very well despite lack of shrouding on some of the wheels. After tea we proceeded to the last tower, at Bicknor. The paraffin lamps were lit, and after some attention we managed to ring the steel four (2 cwt.). which, stayless, sliderless and sallyless were a challenge, to say the least. They were finally a mastered after conventional bell-handling had been thrown to the wind.

Finally a vote of thanks to Mr. Roberts for his kind assistance in arranging the towers, and the South Downs region was chosen for the next meeting.

N. M. S.

FIFTH OUTING

Arranged by Kevin Price, a party of ringers from the Lake District area set out for their fifth annual outing on October 17 to Northumberland and Durham,

The first tower was at Allendale (8, 10 cwt.), where the bells were very pleasant, and then on to Newton Hall (6, 12 cwt.); the bells here are seldom rung.

The third tower was at Wylam-on-Tyne (6, 22 cwt.), and the bells were voted as the best of the day, Cambridge Minor going extremely well.

going extremely well.

After a packed lunch we moved on to the industrial town of Blaydon-on-Tyne (6, 6½ cwt), where the third is lighter than the treble!

The biggest difficulty came next, trying to find Brancepeth. Few tourists arrived on time and some did not arrive at all, so the ringing on these bells (8, 13\frac{3}{4} cwt.) was limited.

The next tower was at Shildon (8, 164 cwt.), where the bells are really magnificent, although the tenor makes rather hard work. All were impressed by the beautiful ringing chamber, and, indeed, by the condition of all the towers visited.

We journeyed on to Hurworth (6, 17½ cwt.) and received favourable comments from the local people listening to our efforts. The final tower was at Grinton, North Yorks (6, 10 cwt.), a nice six, and afterwards all adjourned to an hotel for some traditional refreshments. The return journey via Wensleydale was somewhat misty, but a most enjoyable day had been spent.

Note. — An unusual footnote to any outing, perhaps, but this year all the towers visited were pleasant, well kept and housed good rings.

ABOUT OURSELVES

At the Whitechapel Bell Foundry on November 14 The Ringing World Committee once again achieved a full attendance-very encouraging to the convener when he considers the distances travelled and the many Saturday demands on active ringers. The committee were glad to have with them the president and vice-president of the Central Council (Mr. J. Freeman and Mr. E. A. Barnett), the treasurer (Mr. D Hughes), our accountant (Mr. D. A. Tate) and Mr. Denyer (our editor). The financial situation which was the major item for consideration, has already been reported to our readers.

The question of the reporting of the Central Council meeting, raised in correspondence in The Ringing World, was discussed. It was agreed that the Central Council officers would bear in mind the need for the Editor to be seated at Council meetings where he could see and hear pro-perly and that other aspects should be raised at the next meeting of the Standing Committee of the Council.

It was noted from the Editor's circulation reports that casual sales were being well maintained.

In addition to the normal cash and bank statements and details of investments. special interim reports by the Guildford office and by the accountant were before the meeting, so that, as reported, the committee had every possible facility for making its decisions on costs and charges. The Editor was authorised to negotiate charges for printing additional pages as often as may prove possible, to give readers some additional return for the unavoidable price

The committee considered that the scale of charges for notices, etc., should be in-creased slightly; they do not at present cover their cost. The new rates will be 6s. (30 N.P.) for 30 words; each additional word 1 N.P. Display advertisements: 10s. an inch, single column; £15 a page; £8 10s. half page. Association secretaries should note that three insertions can be made for the price of two-so submit your copy in time to take advantage of this.

The perennial question of peal footnotes was considered and the Editor was given discretion to act as he thought fit. [He has since given his views—see page 933 of November 27.]

The Editor reported on the expected sales of The Ringing World Calendar and the action taken by him in conjunction with the convener (I almost wrote "in spite of") in ordering additional copies was confirmed. Certain improvements would be considered for next year. The early announcement of a scheme for gift tokens had to be abandoned this year, because of the delay caused by the changes in sub-scription rates, but the Editor will be glad to supply details and forms to any readers who ask for them.

Arrangements are now getting firmer for a diamond jubilee celebration on March 27, 1971, the main features of which will be a visit to our founder's grave at Pyrford and a lunch in the Guildford area. A provisional guest list was agreed, there will be an appropriate souvenir edition of The Ringing World, and the Editor was authorised to incur reasonable expenditure to conclude the arrangements and make appropriate announcements when readv. Readers are asked to book the date.

It was agreed to meet again on March 20, 1971, and a useful meeting concluded with thanks to Mr. Hughes for his neverfailing hospitality.

Spliced Surprise Fourteen in six methods (and on handbells!) has been rung for the first time, composed and conducted by John R. Mayne, at Watford.

The story of the ringing career of Robert Haworth, which has appeared regularly for several weeks, has now been concluded. The Editor and all readers are indebted to Mr. W. E. Cook, librarian of the Ancient Society of College Youths, for providing this interesting account of one of London's great ringers, and one who did so much for the Exercise in those difficult days. We hope Mr. Cook will continue to supply such readable copy for ringers and readers of The Ringing World.

In our "50 Years Ago" (R.W., page 948) the senior steward of the College Youths was G. R. Farden (not Marden). He was the father of Mr. R. A. Farden, of Watford

In our "25 Years Ago" column last week (page 987) the peal at Ufford, in which George W. Pipe rang his first, did not state that George was only ten years of age (neither did the original report). And now he is 25 years older!!

Other interesting items in the same issue were peals of four-Spliced Surprise Major at Oxford with six firsts, and Walter F. Judge's first of Spliced Surprise as conductor, and a week later, also at Oxford, London Surprise Major also conducted by Walter (his first in method as conductor) and in which six of the band rang their first in the method.

There has been a spate lately of peal reports arriving over three months after the event, and as there appears reasonable doubt about where the original copy was lost, we have printed them in the usual In future, however, late submisthe responsibility being that of the conductor. If a peal does not appear within four weeks of submission it should be sent in again and marked "Second submission." sions will be set in the quarter peal layout,

The young band who rang the peal at Chapel Allerton on November 15 are to be congratulated, for the average age was 14 years, and all had a "first" in one way or another.

Many congratulations will be extended to Mr. Leonard W. Carbutt, ringer and tower captain of St. Mary's Church, Barnsley, for 45 years, on the occasion of his golden wedding. In honour of the happy event a quarter peal was rung at Royston on November 2.

Leonard Fox, who has been ringing regularly at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, since 1932 moved to Eastbourne on November 30. His first callings for the Stepney band were Grandsire Doubles in 1935 and Grandsire Triples at first attempt on May 1, 1937, for the Coronation of H.M. King George VI. He took over the tower captaincy from his brother. He greatly missed by all who ring at Stepney, who express the most sincere and best wishes to him and his wife on the move.

One morning during the summer a coach with some Australian visitors aboard stopped outside All Saints' Church, Stamford, and at that moment the bells started This so thrilled some of the party who had never heard bells ringing before that they asked if a tape recording could be made. This has been done and sent to be made. This has been done and sent to Mrs. L. Erbacher of Toowoomba, Queens-land, where it will be heard at some Christmas celebrations. On the tape are the bells, the Battle of Britain service held in All Saints' Church, the bells again, and other items of interest.-J. H. B.

We learn that Mr. Ray Collins (Farnham) is now home again and convalescing, and that Mr. Robin Collis is also progressing in South Middlesex Hospital, though he will not be back to duties for at least six weeks.

Mr. C. W. (Jim) Pipe is also in hospital following an operation, although we have no details. All will wish this well-known and popular ringer a speedy and complete

Because of an accumulation of reports of meetings, dinners, outings, etc., there is a delay in publication of many items, for which the Editor apologises. (We need the extra pages!) After the Christmas issues are completed it is intended to summarise some of the earlier reports so as to avoid a continuity of late news.

Mrs. Rebecca White, mother of Mr. Tom White, our previous editor, was 101 last Sunday, and was visited, as she is every week, by her son, in the nursing home at Woking, where she has lived for the past eight years.

COMPUTER PROVED

Dear Sir,-I have been mildly disturbed to note the appearance as a footnote to a number of recent peal compositions of the legend "Computer proved."

Now, while the advent of computers in our art is a development to be welcomed, a word of warning to the uninitiated may be appropriate. As anyone who has had dealings with the beasts will agree, computers are rather like sewers—what you get out of them depends on what you put into them.

There is a temptation which afflicts even the most hardened of experienced pro-grammers to regard the pronouncements of computers with a touching, childlike faith.

The fact that the answer to a problem was produced in the blinking of an eye and printed at staggering speed by an attractively styled grey box is no more proof of its validity than if it had been thought out by five generations of Tibetan monks and inscribed on vellum. A healthy scepticism may help to prevent disillusion and acrimony.—Yours faithfully, P. BOSWORTH.

London, S.W.

Dear Sir, — I should like to protest against the appearance of the words "Computer proved" under my composition of Superlative (R.W., page 888). The proof of this composition was established beyond doubt by traditional methods prior submission to The Ringing World and so the computer can have done no more than check its truth. Computers, although inherently accurate, are programmed by humans and so the possibility of error still arises, and the words "Computer proved" cannot automatically be taken as a sufficient condition to establish the truth of a composition as was implied in your editorial. While I feel that the checking of compositions by computer is obviously a sensible idea, the responsibility for the validity of a composition should remain that of the composer/arranger and its conductor; "Computer proved" transfers it to the computer and its programmer.

I am also rather disturbed by the lack of uniformity in the notation used to signify the groups of false course-heads. Recently there has been an apparently arbi-trary use of upper and lower case letters to denote those groups and unless a universal convention is established soon, publication of f.c.h. group letters will cease to have any meaning, e.g. are f.c.h. groups eD

There seems to be a case for relettering those groups containing only out-of-course f.c.h.'s (considering only the tenors-together part) as each group consists of two subgroups (in-course and out-of-course), either or both of which can be empty. Thus it

Dear Sir,-For about 12 months I have been making attempts to analyse 10,792 Minimus extents, all genuinely computer proved and believed to be a complete collection. They consist of 301 group extents in a group having the same place notation, and 53 groups have a fixed hunt

Further classification has been only partially successful and I would welcome any information on Minimus methods/variations/extents currently rung or any knowledge of whether these extents have been found before.

The 53 treble hunt extents could form a very neat quarter peal and if anyone is interested I would be pleased to supply details.—Yours faithfully,

M. J. PICKUP.

RADLETT DELIGHT MINOR

Dear Sir-The 2,160 block of the above method rung at Radlett, Herts, on May 23, 1970, has subsequently been proved false and the name is therefore withdrawn.—Yours faithfully,

REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION

Dear Sir,-Your readers will note my change of address amongst the notices.

For the past few months for several good reasons, I fear I have not been able to deal with many requests for information about peals, etc. I apologise to those concerned about this and hope that they will be patient for a little longer until I have settled down in my new sphere of activity and can find the opportunity to answer them.—Yours faithfully,

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

With the annual meeting season approaching. The size of committees. If membership is more than about 16, there is too little scope for individual participation. If it is less than five it will depend too much on strength of personalities. — From J. Henderson: Notes for Managers, No. 9. 1965.

would appear to be illogical to have a different system of notation for those groups with an empty in-course sub-group if the notation for those groups with an empty out-of-course sub-group and those with no empty sub-group is the same.

As there is now a long delay (over 12 months is not uncommon) between submission and publication of compositions in The Ringing World, would it not be possible to introduce a similar system to that employed by the leading science journals; new work is sent to referees, who check its validity and originality and recommend whether it be published. Applied to compositions, competent referees could ensure that no false or unoriginal compositions are published and could also ensure that original and worthwhile composition are published quickly, while arrangements and peals of doubtful merit are held up and only used as space fillers. -Yours faithfully,

TONY COX.

RING ON, SWEET BELLS

Dear Sir,-The following recently appeared in a local paper, following an article from a publican which was printed in the national and local Press, complaining that the bells interfered with the trade on Tuesday evenings. It did not affect the business of another pub next door but one (and nearer to the tower).

The writer of the poem, an 87-years-old parishioner, lives about 200 yards from the tower, and the pigeons mentioned belong to the publican who complains!

One night I heard the pigeons' yells,

They sail off to ring the bells, Their sound went out, both far and near, And reached a place where they sell beer. Whene'er the landlord drew a pint, The people stood and left the joint. It makes you wonder, stop and think, Whate'ers the matter with the drink.

The local Press had much to say, You'd think they rang them every day, They sound the same if rung or chimed, The pigeon flock don't seem to mind.

One big result, we're on the map, And all the time beer's on the "tap," Midst bells and beer, and crime and pillage,

They call our Thrapston Town a village.

Ring on sweet bells-They bring back a memory of being lifted off my feet by them 75 years ago. "ELOUAC."

OLD RECORDINGS

Dear Sir,-Browsing through a secondhand shop in Soho I was both amazed and delighted to find three rare 78 r.p.m. gramophone records (all in excellent condition) displaying various facets of bells and ringing. The first is presumably an extract from a peal—this being of half-muffled Stedman Cinques from St. Paul's Cathedral on November 11, 1927.

In the writer's opinion the recording is slightly marred by the treble, second and eleventh bells, which "scream out" above the others. This recording might have more qualities of excellence if it had been recorded from the then printers' paradise of Paternoster Row.

The second record is of the superb and sonorous 13 bells of York Minster. I say 13 bells quite deliberately for "Great Peter," the 10-ton hour bell, soars through a "course of plain hunt on eleven" with the glorious tenor bell resting firmly in the 12th place. One small criticism—the ringers of 5 and 9 fail to set their bells and they continue to strike in glorious discord with "Great Peter." (Can any reader supply the date of this recording?)

The third record (also without dating) is the remarkable carillon at Bournville. This takes up 1½ sides of the record and the rest is given to Turles' rather insipid hymn tune to "It came upon a midnight clear. The best feature of this recording is a well-tapped touch of Plain Bob Triples (to my mind the best bell music).

May I add in conclusion that I have not rung for 20 years due to an arthritic condition, but that I still take The Ringing World (a most excellent publication), and I hope that my comments will be of interest to ringers and also indeed to those of the "Chiming World."—Yours faithfully,

Obituary

WILLIAM FAY

On November 14 St. Mary's Scarborough, bellringers lost a close friend and former captain when William Fay passed away in his early 60's after having been taken into hospital a week earlier.

William learned to ring at Tadcaster when he was a boy and later moved to Burghwallis, near Doncaster, where he had many

He was elected to the Yorkshire Association in 1934 and rang 26 peals for them. At the time of his death he was a member of the Beverley and District Ringing Society, In 1964, when Mr. B. Sutton left St.

Mary's, William was elected as captain, a post he held until March of this year, when, because of failing health, he had to give up. During his years in office he worked extremely hard to keep things flourishing and introduced many new features into the life of the belfry, including annual belfry meetings, outings, a belfry fund and new offices within the belfry. He was responsible for a complete set of new ropes five years ago and for the redecoration of the belfry. Also during his years of office a handbell team was formed and the handbells overhauled.

In May this year St. Mary's ringers held a social evening, at which the vicar (Rev. J. Keys Fraser) presented William with a tankard to mark his services to the belfry.

In July he revisited Doncaster and we honoured his request that this would be the area for an outing this year. We saw him in the belfry last month (one of his rare visits) but we did not know that he had "trebled down" for the last time.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to his widow, daughter and grandchildren.

St. Mary's bells were rung half-muffled as a token of affection on the following Wednesday and Thursday evenings. May he rest in peace.

PREB. G. W. SAUNDERS

Preb. George William Saunders was for 34 years vicar of Martock and for 32 years president of the Ilchester and Merston Deaneries of the Bath and Wells Association (now the Ilchester Branch). years ago he retired to Bridport, where he died recently in his 91st year. He was vicar of Martock from 1917 to 1951, after holding livings at Street and Curry Rivel, Somerset. He was appointed Surrogate in 1917, Rural Dean of Martock 1931-46, and Prebendary of Timberscombe 1933. An authority on Church history, architecture and archæology, he was author of a series of articles on the history of All Saints' Church, Martock. These were printed in the local Press and later in booklet form.

The burial service took place on November 16 in the lovely Parish Church of All Saints, Martock, conducted by the Bishop of Bath and Wells (the Rt. Rev. E. B. Henderson) assisted by the Assistant Bishop (the Rt. Rev. D. Wilson) and the vicar (the Rev. Peter Coney).

Before and after the service touches of Grandsire Triples were rung (open, by request) by a representative band of the Ilchester branch composed of Mr. T. J. Setter, vice-chairman (Yeovil), Mr. Gilbert W. Rendell, vice-chairmap (Hardington Mandeville), Mr. Gordon W. Rendell, ringing master (Montacute, Mrs. Margaret Legget, hon. secretary (W. Coker), Mrs. Christine Boyce (Martock and Bournemouth), Mr. Gordon Glyde (South Petherton), Mr. Harold Greenham (Chiselborough) and Mr. Albert Dyer, tower master (Martock).

A PROBLEM FOR YOUTH

Mrs. Angela Newing, of The Rectory, Tibberton, Gloucestershire, has devised the following problem, which is open to all young ringers under the age of 17.

Entries should be addressed to her as above, and the first correct solution opened on December 30 will receive a 12/6 book token from Mrs. Newing as a New Year present.

Print your name and address and age on the paper on which your solution is worked

STEALING THE BELL ROPES A Mathematical Puzzle

By ANGELA NEWING

We hear a lot these days about bell thieves, but this is the story of Fred and John, two men who decided that bell ropes were also worth stealing. One night they broke into a church with two bells with the intention of stealing as great a length of rope as possible. The tower had a ground-floor ringing chamber, and the thieves noted that neither rope had its end knotted in the usual fashion and that the tail ends of both were just touching the floor.

There were no rope guides and the upper ends of the ropes disappeared through holes in the ceiling high above. Not being ringers themselves, they thought that the bells were probably immediately above the ceiling and that rather than trying to break into the stairs to the bell chamber, they should be content with the lengths of the rope which they could see. Little did they know that there was exactly the same length

They began to think how best to set about their task. A vertical iron ladder way fixed against the south wall of the tower and reached almost to the ceiling. This wall was exactly six feet from the foot of the furthest rope. Fred, who was quite an athlete, thought that if he were to climb that rope and cut it off near the ceiling he ought then to be able to jump to the second rope, three feet closer to the wall, cut it and then jump for the ladder. While he was thinking this out John was doing a quick estimate of the amount of rope they would get away with. He noticed that the end of the first rope, that is, the one furthest from the south wall, touched that wall at a point exactly six inches from the floor when it was pulled taut. Being something of a mathematician, he was then able to calculate on the back of an envelope the height of the ceiling.

Fred started to climb the first rope. Unfortunately for him the bell above swung as soon as the rope took his weight, and he was so surprised when he heard it chime that he let go. The bell was well oiled. It continued to swing and chimed twice more after he had let go, whereupon Fred and John decided to beat a hasty retreat. The noise aroused the vicar, who looked out of his window in time to see them making off across the churchyard.

What was the total length of each bell rope?

Work every hour, paid or unpaid; see only that thou work, and thou canst not escape thy reward. Whether thy work be coarse or fine, planting corn or writing epics, so only it be honest work, done to thine own approbation, it shall earn a reward to the senses, as well as to the thought. No matter how often defeated, you are born in victory. The reward of a thing well done is to have done it.-

M.U.G.S. IN SOMERSET

August Bank Holiday was the occasion of the fourth reunion of past members of the Manchester University Guild—the venue, Clevedon, Somerset. Having travelled down on the Friday, the whole party gathered at the first tower, Yatton, next morning. The group was unusual in that there were ten married couples, all of whom were ringers. In the sunshine at Congresbury we were joined by the 11th ringing couple, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chap-

Lunch was taken al fresco in a pub garden before ringing recommenced at Wrington. The usual leisurely programme continued with ringing at Backwell and, Left to right (ignoring children): Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chapman, David Baker, Jean Hallett, Edward Bryant, John Hallett, Pat Bryant, Shirley Pilkington, John Pilkington, Mary Tomlinson, Brian Tomlinson, Meg James, David James, Norma Baker, Margaret Warford, Ron Barclay, Stephen Taylor, Rachel finally, Clevedon (Meg and David James' home tower). Meg and Jim were hosts later for a well-appreciated convivial

Sunday saw us meandering round Bristol, joining in various Sunday service ringing and in most cases having a look round or over the SS. "Great Britain." The evening found us, minus Chris and Jane Movley, at Chez Jones in Midsomer Norton. The weather had turned cooler for the Monday ringing at Wraxall and Portishead, where a photograph was taken. Lunch was had in a family-style public house, where there seemed to be more children than adults. Loud farewells and thanks were made and we departed on our lengthy journeys home.

This annual event is now very well appreciated by Old Mugs or the Society of Ancient Mugs, as was put in one tower's visitors book. Thanks are therefore definitely in order to Meg and David James, the main organisers, for an excellent week-

TEWIN RINGERS IN BUCKS

The Tewin Young Bellringers Society are very keen on different types of outings, and the captain (Peter Owen) decided this time on an outing on cycles.

On October 24 the machines were loaded into a hired van, which together with two cars conveying the ringers, headed for Buckinghamshire. The first tower, at Wendover, contained a pleasant six which went well. The party cycled through Little Missenden (a delightful village with a fine church and bells) to Penn via narrow lanes and rolling countryside which can only be appreciated on a bicycle or on foot; the bells here are a fine ring. After lunch it was decided to miss Monks Risborough and head for Great Kimble, but the party found themselves travelling into High Wycombe. We were too late for Great Kimble and so pedalled on to Ellesborough, where from the church on a hill a panoramic view car be enjoyed.

The ringing programme ended but there was still the ride back to Wendover, where the bikes were reloaded and all headed for Thanks go to Peter Owen for arranging a very enjoyable day, and to the incumbents and tower secretaries for allowing us the use of the bells. B. J. W. F.

When men are rightly occupied, their amusement grows out of their work.-

THE DORSET FESTIVAL

This year was a record for the number of ringers, about 75, attending the annual festival at Blandford Parish Church or October 24, though only four towers entered for the striking competition. The latter held under the bequest of a former citizer of Blandford, Samuel Francis Pond, took place during the afternoon and was won by the tower of Lady St. Mary, Wareham The Wareham ringers were presented with the S. F. Pond trophy by the Mayor of Blandford (Ald. Mrs. G. F. Lane), who also presented certificates to the bands of Holy Trinity, Bradpole (2nd), St. Andrew, Preston (3rd), and St. Nicholas, Durweston

The trophy itself, a plaque in the shape of a bell, made of oak from Wimborne Minster, with a silver inscription and replicas for the names of winning towers, had been designed, in accordance with suggestions made at last year's festival, by Mr. L. J. Lockyer, of Wimborne. This was its first appearance after the bequest of the late S. F. Pond in his will of 1942 for the provision of a "suitable trophy" for competing teams of bellringers from any part of Dorset.

Owing to the repairs being carried out in the church the usual festival service could not be held, though a short service took place in the nave, when the rector (Canon H. G. Goodall) described the work being done, including the finding of the remains of mid-17th century coffins and contents in a vault beneath the original church, burnt down in the great fire of 1731.

The competition was judged by Mr. C. F. Andrews, of Melksham. At tea, provided by members of the Blandford W.I., the Mayor welcomed the ringers. The Town Clerk (Mr. C. K. Lavington), also present, was congratulated on receiving the freedom of the borough after long service in the town clerk's department and as Town Clerk himself for nearly 25 years.

Open ringing followed later, under the direction of Mr. W. C. Shute.

JAMES ROBERT HOWARTH By W. T. COOK

In July, 1887, Haworth paid visits to High Wycombe, Winchester, Hughenden and Beaconsfield. A sequel to his visit to Hughenden is recorded in a cutting from Church Bells: "At the meeting of the Ancient Society of College Youths held at headquarters on Tuesday evening, September 13th, 1887, the Master, Mr. G. T. Mc-Laughlin, on behalf of Mr. J. R. Haworth, presented the company with a curiosity in the shape of an oak box. During Mr. Haworth's visits to Hughenden, near High Wycombe . . . he came into contact with an old ringer there named Thomas Hussey, otherwise known as 'Crippled Tom,' who showed him this oak box, and expressed a wish that the above Society should have it, and accordingly Mr. Haworth, on behalf of 'Crippled Tom,' presented the Society with it . . " This box was for many years used by the College Youths as their "pence box" for collecting contributions to the Benevolent Fund.

In December, 1887, Haworth visited the village of Swavesey, Cambs, "to inspect the bells and belfry, and give a few lessons on the art of change-ringing . . . Mr. Haworth also visited St. Ives."

1889—A BIG YEAR

Haworth did not ring any peals in 1888, but 1889 was a big year for him, for on Tuesday, August 13, he completed 50 years' membership of the College Youths. That evening a Jubilee touch of four courses of Stedman Cinques was rung on the bells of St. Saviour's, Southwark, and afterwards as it is recorded in Church Bells, "a numerous gathering of the members took place at the Meeting-house to congratulate Mr. Haworth on his fifty years of member-ship of the Society." In his reply, In his reply, Haworth quoted his certificate of membership as reading, "This is to certify that James Robert Haworth was elected a mem-Paries Robert Haworth was elected a member on the 13th of August, 1839. Mr. Richard Mills, Master; Mr. John Cooper. Hon. Sec.; Messrs. James Durrant and Thomas Britten, Stewards. No. 2006." He also said, "In making enquiries—and I have known all the London ringers for many years—I have never heard anyone say, nor is it recorded in the Society's books, that any College Youth was a member for fifty In that case we may come to the the only person who has arrived at the point of being a Jubilee member of the Ancient Society of College Youths." The 50th anniversary of Haworth's first peal occurred. on October 1, and a special touch of six courses of Stedman Cinques was rung at St. Paul's to mark the occasion.

Shortly before his Jubilee, Haworth achieved what had evidently been a long-standing ambition. On July 25, 1889 (St. James's Day), eight members of the St. James's Society, all bearing the Christian name of James, met at St. James's, Clerkenwell, and rang a peal of Grandsire Triples. A footnote to the peal says, "The above peal has been talked about for nearly forty years, and many times nearly rung. Mr. Haworth was in the first attempt and is the only one remaining of the band to be in the successful termination of it."

The last opening of a new ring of bells recorded in Haworth's book took place at Christ Church, Epsom, on July 31, 1890. On that occasion Haworth took part in a peal of Stedman Triples, composed and conducted by J. W. Washbrook, rung by members of the Surrey Association.

A cutting from Church Bells dated July, 1890, is of special interest. It refers to a wedding which took place in Westminster Abbey. "A new and charming use of the phonograph was thought of in connection with the Stanley marriage. Colonel Gouraud presented to Mr. Stanley a phonograph as a wedding present. There are only four phonographs in England. Three were in Westminster Abbey during the wedding service. One was placed in the tower, to record the full sound of the wedding bells, which were rung by the Abbey ringers, Messrs. Haworth, Weatherstone, Albone, French, Hopkins and Waghorn, assisted by Mr. Winny while the man with the phonograph was standing among the bells. The second phonograph was placed by the organ . . . The third was placed in the choir. . . . This is the first occasion on which the phonograph has been used to record wedding bells and the music of a marriage service."

AT ST. CLEMENT DANES'

On October 19, 1893, Haworth took part in a peal which marked the bicentenary of the bells at St. Clement Danes', which had been augmented from eight to ten in 1845. In a report of this peal, Church Bells said of Haworth: "Our vigorous old friend is the only one living who has stood in a band for a peal on the old eight bells. It may be added that he rang his first long peal in the tower in 1842, and was elected one of the parochial ringers in 1838, fifty-five years ago, when Mr. G. Stockham was steeple-keeper."

The last peal recorded in Haworth's book was also rung at St. Clement Danes', on July 26, 1894, with Haworth on the treble to Grandsire Caters. This was his 176th peal. His peals can be summarised as

Rung with the College Youths St. James's Society 61 Waterloo Society 5 Other Societies 10

Two final newspaper cuttings relate to the last year of Haworth's life, 1910. May of that year the Prince of Wales presided over the annual dinner of the Printers' Pension, Almshouse, and Orphan Asylum Corporation at the Cecil Hotel. The Daily Mail reported: "The Prince mentioned that among the guests at the dinner was Mr. J. R. Haworth, who was 89 years of age and had worked as a compositor in London. Mr. Haworth had himself founded a pension for the corporation. In addition he was one of the oldest bell-ringers in the country. He had helped to ring the bells in Westminster Abbey at the coronation of Queen Victoria. At every succeeding anniversary of the Queen's Birth Mr. Haworth had rung the bells and also at the coronation of the King. After the Prince had finished his speech Mr. Haworth was presented to him."

The other cutting throws some light on Haworth's activities as a printer and a philanthropist. "Mr. J. R. Haworth stated yesterday that he feels fully rewarded for his long life of self-denial by the attention paid him by the Prince of Wales at the Dinner of the Printers' Pension Corporation. He is the working compositor who in the course of his eighty years has contributed more than a thousand pounds to charity, probably a unique effort on the part of a workman. . Mr. Haworth has not been engaged on the trade for many years, but he goes on saving money in order that he may devote it to his trade charity. He lives in a single room in the City and managed this year to give 100 guineas to the institution at Wood Green. 'I have no story to tell.' he said. 'I never had much to do with the newspapers and cannot say how times have changed . . . I was only on weekly papers. I was at the start of 'Punch,' but I cannot say that I came in contact with any of its originators and I do not now remember anything about their 'copy.' But there have been great changes, and things must go much faster than when I first took up my 'stick.' My hobbies have always been bell-ringing and Printers' Pensions."

Haworth died on December 24, 1910, and was laid to rest in Highgate Cemetery.

A GOOD TURN-OUT

The autumn quarterly meeting was held at Ashby-de-la-Zouch on October 17. Towers were open at Ibstock, Heather, Measham, Packington and Ashby. We were again blessed with beautiful weather, and there was a very good turn-out at all the towers, at times being packed out.

The vicar of Ashby had unfortunately been called away, therefore no service was held. About 80 people sat down to a delightful tea, which had been laid on in the Parish Room by the Ashby ringers and ladies. After tea Mr. Paul Taylor proposed a vote of thanks to all who had worked to make the meeting a success.

The meeting was opened by Mr. John Bramley (guild president), who extended a cordial welcome to everyone present. The loss by death of two members was announced-Charles Hector Stenhouse (Hoby) and Edwin L. Campton (Burbage). The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to the departed. The names of 20 new resident members were announced, together with 20 new non-resident life members. Two of the new resident members had joined directly as life members; nine certificates of membership were presented.

It was announced that Mr. E. A. Barnett (vice president of the C.C.), Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor of The Ringing World) and the Rt. Rev. Bishop J. E. L. Mort, the new Canon Residentiary at the Cathedral, were to be invited as guests at the annual dinner next year. It was also announced that the guild striking competition had been a muchenjoyed and useful event this year and six bands had entered, with St. Margaret's, Leicester, as the winning band.

Mr. C. W. Hall drew attention to the fact that two district meetings had been advertised for the day of the quarterly general meeting, and inquired the reason for this. The president replied that the matter had been gone into at a recent committee meeting, and it was felt that these had been due to a genuine oversight. said that district secretaries had been urged to ascertain, when arranging local meetings.

that quarterly meeting days be avoided. Further ringing took place at Ashby under the direction of Mr. K. P. Gilliver, again attended by a large number of ringers.

"IT MUST BE RATHER CRAMPED UP THERE"

This was one of the remarks of H.R.H. Princess Alexandra when she was at Isleworth Parish Church on October 25. the photograph are (back view) Harold Rogers introducing the Princess to Mark Stacey and Frank Bishop (emergir from belfry door). The Princess was assured that the ringing room at Isleworth was really warm, comfortable and nicely decorated. and that the conditions were not at all cramped for the ten ringers who rang a quarter peal of Stedman Caters to welcome her to the church. The occasion was a service of thanksgiving for the completion of the rebuilding of the new church complex, and the Princess, one of the most charming of all royal persons, was "quite taken" with the whole conception.

The service, which was beautiful and dignified in the extreme, typified the "downto-earth" and functional nature of the church. The Bishop of Kensington, the vicar and the choir were robed only in cassocks, and children of the local Blue School produced a modern dress mime to the old story of the Good Samaritan. The inclusion of this item enabled all present to witness, during the singing of a hymn, the altar being raised by a lever on to casters and moved away from its central position and the priests reading desks and rails (also on casters) swivelled out from anchorages to make "stage" room for the drama sequence.

One and a half pages were devoted to Church Councils (Powers) Act, several well-known ringers writing on the subject. They were: A. H. F. Boughey, C. D. P. Davies, H. J. Elsee, J. S. Pritchett, T. L. Papillon, C. W. O. Jenkyn and A. T. King.

"Essex Ringer" wrote about a peal of Grandsire Caters for its centenary and said there was a doubt about its truthfulness. "I think we should all uphold cleanliness in peal ringing, although it is difficult to draw a line or form a standard between a fair peal and a bad one," he added.

A peal of 7136 Double Norwich was rung at Norwich, composed and conducted by George H. Cross, the longest of Norwich since 1837, when 7360 Treble Bob was conducted by Samuel Thurston.

Edwin Barnett junior rang the tenor for Stedman Triples at Croayford in which William J. Wheadon rang his first of Stedman on the treble.

THE SONG OF THE BELLS

What is that the bells are saying, pealing over field and fold? They are telling us a story; sweetest story ever told . . This is what the bells are saying Loud and clear their message rings. Come, good people, celebrate the birthday of the King of Kings.

Come - for this is Christmas morning: God's own Son to earth was sent - to restore the broken-hearted and redeem the penitent . . . Lift your hearts in adoration. Come unto this holy place—Seek the glory of His presence and the blessing of His

From your worldly cares and worries turn your thoughts and draw apart—Come unto the house of God and praise Him with a happy heart . . . This is what the bells are saying as along the lane they call. Christ is born, our Lord and Saviour. Peace Christ is born, our Letter on earth. Goodwill to all.

The Chimes . . .

Extracts from Charles Dickens' famous novel in which Toby (Trotty) Veck finds his beloved bells and chimes almost too much for him.

... As he was stooping to sit down, the Chimes rang. "Amen!" said Trotty, pulling off his hat and looking up towards them.

"Amen to the Bells, father?" cried Meg.
"The agrace my dear," said Trotty, "They broke in like a grace, my dear," said Trotty, taking his seat. "They'd say a good one, I'm sure, if they could. Many's the kind thing they say to me."

"The Bells do, father!" laughed Meg, as she set the basin and a knife and fork before him. "Well!"

"Seem to, my pet," said Trotty, falling to with great vigour. "And where's the difference? If I hear 'em, what does it matter whether they speak or not? Why bless you, my dear," said Toby, pointing at the tower with his fork, and becoming more animated under the influence of dinner, "how often have I heard them bells say, Toby Veck, Toby Veck, keep a good heart, Toby! Toby Veck, Toby Veck, keep a good heart, Toby!' A million times? More!"

"Well, I never!" cried Meg.

She had, though, over and over again. For it was Toby's constant topic.

"When things is very bad," said Trotty, "very bad indeed, I mean; almost at the worst, then it's Toby Veck, Toby Veck, job coming soon, Toby! Toby Veck, Toby Veck, job coming soon, Toby! That way."
"And it comes at last, father," said Meg with a touch of sadness in her pleasant voice.

"Always," answered the unconscious Toby. "Never

The Chimes took up the words so suddenly-burst out so loud, and clear, and sonorous—that the Bells seemed to strike him in his chair.

And what was that they said?
"Toby Veck, Toby Veck, waiting for you, Toby!
Toby Veck, Toby Veck, waiting for you, Toby! Come and see us, come and see us, drag him to us, drag him to us. Haunt and hunt him, haunt and hunt him. Break his slumbers, break his slumbers! Toby Veck, Toby Veck, door open wide, Toby, Toby Veck, Toby Veck, door open wide, Toby—" then fiercely back to that impetuous strain again, and ringing in the very bricks and plaster on the walls.

Toby listened. Fancy, fancy! . . . again, again, and yet a dozen times again. "Haunt and hunt him, haunt and hunt him. Drag him to us, drag him to us!

Deafening the whole town. "Meg," said Trotty softly, tapping at her door. "Do you hear anything?"

"I hear the Bells, father. Surely they're very loud tonight!"

It was impossible to bear it: their energy was dreadful.

"If the tower door is really open," said Toby, hastily laying aside his apron, but never thinking of his hat, "what's to hinder me from going up into the steeple and satisfying myself? If it's shut, I don't want any other satisfaction. That's enough!"

He was pretty certain as he slipped out quietly into the street that he should find it shut and locked, for he knew the door well and had so rarely seen it open, that he couldn't reckon above three times in all. It was a low arched portal, outside the church, in a dark nook behind a column; and had such great iron hinges, and such a monstrous lock, that there was more hinge and lock than door.

But what was his astonishment when, coming bareheaded to the church; and putting his hand into this nook, with a certain misgiving that it might be unexpectedly siezed, and a shivering propensity to draw it back again; he found that the door, which opened outwards, actually stood ajar!

He thought, on the first surprise, of going back; or of getting a light, or a companion; but his courage aided him immediately, and he determined to ascend

"What have I to fear?" said Trotty, "It's a church! Besides the ringers may be there and have forgotten to shut the door.

So he went in; feeling his way as he went, like a blind man; for it was very dark. And very quiet, for the Chimes were silent.

The dust from the street had blown into the recess: and lying there, heaped up, made it so soft and velvetlike to the foot that there was something startling even in that. The narrow stair was so close to the door, too. that he stumbled at the very first, and shutting the door upon himself, by striking it with his foot, and causing it to rebound back heavily, he couldn't open it again!

This was another reason, however, for going on. Trotty groped his way and went on. Up, up, up and round; and up, up, up, higher, higher, higher up!

It was a disagreeable staircase for that groping work: so low and narrow, that his groping hand was always touching something; and it often felt so like a man or ghostly figure standing up erect and making room for him to pass without discovery, that he would rub the smooth wall upward searching for its face, and down-ward searching for its feet, while a chill tingling crept all over him. Twice or thrice, a door or niche broke the monotonous surface, and then it seemed a gap as wide as the whole church; and he felt on the brink of an abyss and going to tumble headlong down; until he found the wall again,

Still up, up, up; and round and round; and up, up, up; higher, higher up.

At length the dull and stiffing atmosphere began to freshen: presently to feel quite windy: presently it blew so strong that he could hardly keep his legs. But he got to an arched window in the tower, breast high, and holding tight, looked down upon the housetops, on the smoking chimneys, on the blur and blotch of lights .

This was the belfry where the ringers came. He had caught hold of one of the frayed ropes which hung down through apertures in the oaken roof. At first he started, thinking it was hair: then trembled at the very thought of waking the deep Bell. The Bells themselves were higher. Higher. Trotty in his fascination or in working out the spell upon him, groped his way. By ladders now, and toilsomely, for it was steep, and not too certain holding for the feet.

Up, up, up; and climb and clamber; up, up, up, higher, higher, higher up!

Until, ascending through the floor, and pausing with his head just raised above its beams, he came among the Bells. It was barely possible to make out their great shapes in the gloom; but there they were. Shadowy, and dark, and dumb.

A heavy sense of dread and loneliness fell instantly upon him as he climbed into this airy nest of stone and metal. His head went round and round. He listened and then raised a wild "Halloa!".

"Halloa!" was mournfully protracted by the echoes!

He might have said more, but the Bells, the old familiar Bells, his own dear, constant, steady friends. the Chimes, began to ring the joyful peals . . . so lustily, so merrily, so happily, so gaily, that he leapt upon his feet, and broke the spell that bound him. . . .

They were ringing! Bless their sturdy hearts, they WERE ringing! Great Bells as they were: melodious. deep-mouthed, noble Bells! Cast in no common metal: made by no common founder: when had they ever chimed like that before!

"I see the Spirit of the Chimes among you!" cried the old man.

HORLEY'S BELLS RING AGAIN

But More Work to be Done

The Church of St. Bartholomew, Horley, Surrey, has a wooden tower and spire built in the 14th century, and in mediæval times had contained bells, another two being added in 1673. In 1839 two trebles made up the octave, and according to a report this "proved too much for the tower and ringing ceased in 1957." Another theory is that a land mine exploding nearby during the last war shook the church foundations and caused the tower to become unsafe.

During the past five or six years funds have been raised and at a cost of £6,000 an independent steel tower inside the old wooden one has been erected on to which the original wooden bell frame has now been bolted in four places, the work of firms in Lingfield and Horley. The Whitechapel Bell Foundry refixed the pulleys, supplied new ropes and overhauled the clappers.

The rededication of the tower and bells was performed by the Archdeacon of Kingston on Thames (Venn P. D. Robb) on December 12 and was witnessed by a large congregation. The vicar (Rev. E. A, Noon) conducted the service, and other clergy were Rev. W. M. Hetling (St. Wilfrid's) and Rev. B. D. Roderick (St. Francis') and lay-readers Messrs. H. C. Luck, G. Middlecote and C. H. Scutter, the latter gentleman reading the lesson. The hymns sung were "Angel Voices," "Christ is made the sure foundation," "Now thank we all our God" and "Ye know that the Lord is gracious."

REDEDICATION

The rededication took place below the gallery in which the ringers stand, in view of the congregation; and following the Blessing rounds were rung by Mrs. F. Illman, Mrs. M. Dallison, Messrs. K. Dallison, H. Coomber, G. Charlton, D. Little, G. West and D. Attfield, members of the Southern District of the Surrey Association, and with the exception of Mr. Little (who is district ringing master) all from St. John's, Redhill.

At the conclusion of the service a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung and later a quarter peal was attempted but was not successful. There is, it seems, too much movement in the frame which, according

This photograph, seen in Christ Church (Southport) ringing chamber, was borrowed for a while (for reproduction purposes) so that other ringers may admire the dignity and finesse of a bygone age. to the adviser (Mr. J. H. A. Crocket) is very loose and split on one side. Asked why a new steel frame was not included, he replied that it would have cost another £1,000, and that it was intended to bolt the frame down in several more places and perhaps wedge it in an endeavour to make it more rigid. A rather frightening thumping which occurred periodically during the ringing was also not explained, but further experiments are to be carried out to locate the noise.

ROPES DID NOT HELP

The difficulty experienced in controlling the bells whilst ringing was not helped by the very new ropes. We understand that the bellfounders recommended that the bells be recast into a lighter ring of eight and hung lower in the tower, but that the diocesan advisory board then produced the alternative scheme of the new steel tower, the first time this has been attempted anywhere.

The enthusiasm, generosity and hard work of the people of Horley deserve better results than has been obtained at present. The hon. secretary of the Tower and Bells Appeal Committee (Mr. Scutter) told The Ringing World editor that they had been assured that the bells would now be able to be rung for another 100 years without further attention—a statement which the editor listened to with considerable scepticism.

PRESENTATION DINNER

Members and friends numbering 52 met for dinner at the Temple Farm Country Club, Sandford-on-Thames, on October 23 in order to make presentations to William G. E. Collett (president, 1946-67) and to Walter F. Judge (ringing master, 1944-69).

Following an excellent dinner the society's loving cup, which had been given in 1905 by Mr. G. A. Smith (Tunstall) at the time of his election to membership, was circulated and the company were able to take a drink of champagne. While this was taking drink of champagne. While this was taking place the president (Neil I. Allnatt), having proposed the loyal toast, went on with some comments on the history of the society, mentioning the earlier peals rung as far back as 1733, and saying that the peals were the only positive information about the society of those early years. The earliest minute book available commences on May 23, 1878, and follows on from a previous book not now in the possession of the society. It is possible only to hazard a guess as to what happened to the earlier

The minute books available show that the society was very much of a closed shop at this time and the number of members listed during 1877-81 varied between 13 and 16 persons, but by 1920 had increased to 49. Of the more prominent members of the period mentioned were Charles Hounslow (treasurer, 1902–13), W. J. Smith (frequently master between 1880 and 1918) and J. W. Washbrook (master, 1890-3, 1895-6).

From the past to more recent times, the the president directed his comments firstly to Mr. Collett, speaking of his ability as chairman and how he was able to overcome difficult situations. He thanked him for his services to the society and said although he had been president for so many years he had also held all the other offices in the society (including that of auditor), and then presented Mr. Collett with a suitably inscribed silver salver.

To Mr. Judge, the president said he had been an excellent master during a very long period, and he was a man able to bring the best out of all those who rang with him. Extending the best wishes of all those present to Mr. Judge, he then presented him with a pewter tankard, also suitably in-scribed. Both recipients were loudly ap-

Mr. Collett, in reply, spoke of the early members of the society, who were all of the male sex, and suggested that Margaret Reynolds was probably the first lady to be K. Lock, March 4, 1918; Miss S. Davis, August 12, 19(25; Miss M. E. Reynolds, November 14, 1928.) He spoke of the past and present officers with whom he had been associated, referring especially to Vic Bennett, who had been secretary for many years before his death in 1954. Of Walter Judge he said that he was known the country over as an excellent conductor. He thanked the company for the gift and said that he hoped the society would continue to flourish.

Mr. Judge, replying, said he was born into a ringing family at Kidlington and had joined up in 1914, and when he was "demobbed" came to Oxford to work. Married in 1921, he had lived in a small cottage in "Hells Passage," near New College, "one up and one down." He spoke of his many friends in the City and University and elsewhere making particular reference to Harry Miles, John Spice and Dick White.

Closing the proceedings the secretary referred to the excellent meal provided, and then introduced Mr. Harry Lucy (for a number of years the society's recorder) and his wife, remarking on the quality of the work, and said all the society's peal books were available for inspection. The Appleton Handbell Ringers were present for the dinner and entertained the company afterwards. They were thanked for coming along by the secretary.

Those attending were: Mr. N. I. Allnatt (president) and Mrs. Allnatt, Mr. W. G. E. Collett, Mr. W. F. Judge, Mr. J. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. H. Wilkins, Mr. J. R. Chaundy (hon. treasurer), Mr. P. GOODWILL TOWARDS MEN

It is often said that youth is jealous of age, whilst age envies youth. During the Christmas festival these very human frailties recede, each generation endeavouring to radiate a spirit of goodwill and happiness to the other.

The bitterness, hostility and hardshin recently experienced during the "work to rule" of generating electricians have brought youth and age together in a common endeavour to relieve the loneliness, neglect and infirmity which have been spotlighted by this unfortunate (and unnecessary) industrial dispute.

In our own little world of bellringing, the letter in our columns from "Dismayed" (R.W., page 974) expresses the hurt and disappointment felt by some of our fraternity because of what could have been just a clash of personalities, a thoughtless comment, or a purely selfish act by one or two of the band.

We believe bellringers, generally, are not thoughtless or deliberately vindictive. The kindness, tolerance and companionship which are so much in evidence at meetings, social functions and also in individual towers, contradict the suggestion that ringers as a body are often at loggerheads.

To be tolerant where others are concerned, to give a little in our own expressed views and not wittingly or willingly to cause hurt among our fellows is an idealistic endeavour but one which we are perfectly certain will bear fruit when put to the test—and Christmastide is a good time to start practising these better relationships.

And so:

To youth and old age, and to those in between,

We extend our good wishes—and trust you have been Blessed with good fortune in days just gone by,

And have hopes for a future—both cheerful and high.

John Taylor and Co. have recently completed the rehanging in a new frame for the ten at St. Thomas', Dudley, which included recasting the four front bells. They also have completed the rehanging of the eight at Oswestry and are at work on the rehanging the six bells in a new frame at Upper Arley, Worcs,

First peal congratulations to Kenneth G. Lee (13), Peter W. Dickinson, James Swallow, Andrew Gibbons, Neil Cullum, Nicholas H. W. George, Jean Simpson.

Personal Records.—A. P. Cannon (1,275 peals), Christine Broadlev (50), Elizabeth Stevens (100), Michael O'Callaghan (200), Roland H. Cook (375), Brian Walton (50), Robert J. Crocker (100), John J. Durham (150).

New Methods this week: Wroxton Surprise Major at Bloxham. Oxford: Selhurst Surprise Major at Lambeth.

A newly-formed handbell tane ringing team from the Sunday service band of St. Thomas, South Wigston, Leics, made their debut in entertaining an audience of 115 at the church's annual harvest supper.

With David and Susan Clark, the organisers, aged 16 and 15 respectively, are Paul Atkins (14), Elizabeth Roberts (13) and Lynda Watts (16), believed to be the youngest team of tune ringers in the area. A great achievement after only a few months' practice.

It is heartening to learn that these enthusiastic youngsters have a target—to raise £50 for charity this Christmas. David, Susan and Lynda were members of a former team which raised £25 for charity last Christmas.—S. H.

The cover picture this week is of Guildford Cathedral bells and was supplied by Whitechapel Bellfoundry.

When Mr. Phil Corby withdrew his nomination as a trustee for the College Youths one of the officers said he hoped Mr. Corby would have joined the officers where he would have been less trouble there than he was at present on the "back benches".

A comment by Mr. Frank Smallwood that one did not become a trustee until senility had set in caused considerable amusement and a suitable comment from Mr. Wilfred Williams (Mr. Smallwood's co-trustee).

Mr. C. I. Rowson says he is not the composer of the Cassiobury S. Major as it is a composition "inherent in the method" and has probably been composed several times before.

Les'ey A. Shipman, who rang the treble to a quarter at Croxton Kerrial recently, has only been ringing since March and has mastered change-ringing by her own hard work, as there has been no one at any time to stand behind here for instruction numbers

The Leicester University Society is "alive and well", according to Chris J. Pickford, who has recently arrived there. It is hoped to build up the Society to quarter peal and peal standards next term.

At the A.G.M. of the Oxford University Society on December 1, Canon C. E. Wigg was re-elected president and J. E. Camp general secretary. The new resident officers for the coming year are: C. J. E. Wyld (Hertford), master; S. Smith (St. Cath.'s) and Miss L. Merrall (L.M.H.), joint secretaries; and S. I. Bamforth (New College), treasurer.

A welcome to the new vicar at Kirby Muxloe was a peal by the Leicester Guild, and it also enabled Martin Green to ring a peal on the bells on which he learnt to ring—something every ringer would like to achieve.

The peal of 8-spliced at Pulham Market. Norfolk, on November 28, was arranged as one of the preliminaries to the annual dinner of the Colegate Society and was rung by members and friends of the Society. Chris Kippin, the conductor, was ringing his 500th peal, whilst the brothers Cubitt reached the total of 100 together. Furthermore, it was the 50th together for David Cubitt and Geoff Pullin and Geoff Pullin and David House.

A quarter was rung on September 6 (Bob Doubles) as a farewell to Jane Bryant (conductor), who left for Exeter College. The name of the church where this was rung was not sent but the other ringers were: Dawn Goodwin, Susan Goodwin, Susan Rayner, D. P. Leworthy and M. Woolnough.

ST. OSWALD'S, DURHAM

Dear Sir,-One of the aims of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association when it was founded in 1877 was secure proper treatment of the bells themselves, as being valuable property of the Church . . .," so it is strange that the hon. secretary should make strenuous efforts to prevent the ringing of the bells at St. Oswald's, Durham. Perhaps Mr. Bayles considers that the practice of "clocking" as obtains at this church fulfils

The vicar tells me that several parishioners have expressed their pleasure at hearing the bells rung, and Fr. Bevan feels that Mr. Bayles has been over-officious in the matter.

If it is any consolation to the secretary he might like to know that when we first tried out the bells the association was in fact represented, as my old friend Roland Park, at that time master of the associa-tion, came at short notice to help out.

The architect disagrees with my contention that without observing the action of the bells under ringing conditions any opinion as to their safety or otherwise is pure speculation, but since there is neither the intention to permit further ringing here in the present condition nor to aim at rehanging the bells lower in the tower, Mr. Hayton does not feel at all grateful for Mr. Bayles' efforts.

I would have thought that the relevance of the Rev. J. W. Rogerson's specialisation in Hebrew would have been obvious in that it would be unlikely that he would have been equally qualified in the field of engineering the mere incidence of his one-time curacy at this church would in no wise qualify him to give a ruling. For that matter neither does holding the rank of hon. general secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association entitle Mr. Bayles to speak with authority on the matter.

It surprises me that Mr. Svegintzov professes to have been a ringer-after trying to understand his highly technical but obscure report I could more readily have believed that he was a nuclear physicist.

What has been achieved by the quarter peal at St. Oswald's Mr. Bayles leaves for others to judge. What Mr. Bayles' efforts have achieved I do likewise.—Yours faith-

Ancient Society of College Youths. ELECTION MEETING

Youth dominated the annual meeting of the society at its annual election meeting at the Lord Raglan, London, on December 1, for of the 60 or so attending only 11 present were over 50 years of age, the majority being in their 20's. The master (Mr. A. R. Kench) presided, and all the other officers were present. A welcome was extended to several visitors who were introduced by their sponsors, and the secretary (Mr. J. G. A. Prior) also welcomed the Editor of The Ringing World in his official capacity, but who is a member of many years standing.

One new member was elected (Geoffrey Fothergill) and, the other regular business having been dealt with, the election of officers for 1971 took place, resulting as follows: Master, Mr. David E. Rothera; secretary, Mr. J. G. A. Prior; treasurer, Air Commodore J. S. Mason; senior steward, Mr. A. Patterson; junior steward, Mr. C. H. Rogers; trustees, Mr. J. F. Smallwood and Mr. W. Williams; librarian, Mr. W. E. Cook.

The master, before relinquishing the chair to the new master, thanked the officers and members for their support and said the society was in a healthy state, many new members having been elected during the year. There was, however, still room for more. He then decorated Mr. Rothera with the collar and badge of his office and, in turn, had the I.P.M.'s collar and jewel placed round his neck by Mr. A. Stubbs, who had completed his year in that office.

The newly-elected officers each addressed the meeting and Mr. Smallwood, who was attending for the first time for 12 months, was greeted and thanked for his long service, although he said he had not done "a blessed thing" during the past year.

Generally, the atmosphere of the meeting was lively and cheerful, and the year ahead looks very promising.

GO, DOUBLE NORWICH!

This was the heading to an article in "Albright" magazine published in August, in which a full-page story (with photo) was given about 55-years-old Owen Ballarda B.B.A. Long Melford process operator from Cavendish, Suffolk—a ringer for 32

The story and picture were by Mike West and made very interesting reading. It gave the non-ringer a real insight into the in-tricacies and problems of the Exercise, explained the changes obtainable on different numbers of bells and some method names were added.

Mr. Ballard evidently had his interviewer tied up once or twice, but generally the resultant story was excellent, and ad-vertised the interest and enthusiasm of ringers as a whole. The picture shows Mr. Ballard in his home tower with other ringers.

HERTFORD-NOT HERTS!

Dear Sir,-From time to time items concerning the Hertford County Association appear in The Ringing World using the abbreviation "Herts" in the association's title. I should like to point out to your correspondents that this is incorrect, "Herts" being, of course, the abbreviation for Hertfordshire. The name of the association was changed from the Hertfordshire Association was changed from the Hertfordshire Association many years ago!—Yours faithfully,

ANDREW W. R. WILBY,
Ringing Master, St. Albans Dis.,

Hertford County Association.

HILLINGDON JOINT MEETING

Fred Goodfellow insists on sending up The Ringing World notice of this annual event in the name of the South and West District secretary, but that's just typical of his modesty. For this is the occasion when the Hillingdon band invites the Middlesex Association (S. and W. District), the Oxford Guild (E. Berks and S. Bucks Branch), the London County Association and the Ladies' Guild to spend an afternoon and evening at Hillingdon, and of course it's Fred who arranges everything.

This year's event was on November 14. It was raining cats and dogs all day, but despite this there were nearly 100 people present. In the afternoon there was ringing at Hayes and Hillingdon. Then followed a service in Hillingdon Church, at which the vicar (Preb. F. C. Tyler) preached. Next, a sumptuous tea in the church hall, and then back to the tower again for more ringing. And finally, at 8 o'clock, back to the church hall for the remainder of the evening. And what an enjoyable evening it was!

First, some of the younger members of the Hayes band entertained with tunes and carols on handbells. Next, a tour of Australia with Ron Russ, and a wonderful selection of slides. There were those of particular interest to ringers, such as the work on Adelaide Town Hall bells, the ringers' barbecues, some shots of the Great Adventurers, and of course views of most of the towers with bells; and then others to give us some idea of the country, like the view over Hobart from Mount Wellington, a bush fire in the middle of nowhere, the wild flowers of the south-western corner of Australia, and some gorgeous sunsets. All were shown with a most interesting com-mentary by Ron, and at the appropriate moments he played tape recordings of the hells of Adelaide and Perth Cathedrals.

But this was not all. After refreshments seven well-known ringers sat down in a circle and calmly rang three leads of Kent 14-in. Then one dropped out and "Go Londinium . Yorkshire . Newgate . Bob . Fulham . Bob . Ealing . York . Bob . That's all." Impressive? No.

that's too mild! One can only marvel at the skill required to steer two bells along such intricate paths and retain near perfect striking when one knows how hard it is to do it with one.

Surely it must be time to go home now! But not yet—we haven't played the annual cricket match. So it's duly nlayed—Middle-sex v. Oxford. and it's Bill Birmingham and his team of youngsters from the Oxford Guild who win the famous trophy—one tea cup (badly cracked)!

Now it really is time to go. For a most enjoyable day, thank you, Hillingdon, and particularly you, Fred!

The United Counties Association Cup

THE UNITED COUNTIES ASSO-CIATION was formed in 1885 of towers in Lancashire, Yorkshire, Cheshire and Derbyshire.

It had been decided to have two cups to be competed for annually, one for eight bell and the other for six bell ringing. It is the latter that I propose dealing with as, to be quite honest, I have been unable to glean much information about the eight bell cup.

The Association's annual dinner and meeting for 1887 was held at the Wagon and Horses, Gorton, on Saturday, January 22nd, when members attended from Ashton, Castleton, Chapel-en-le-Frith, Dinting, Disley, Glossop, Gorton, Hayfield, Hyde, Leesfield, Manchester, Mottram, Northenden, Saddleworth, Stockport, Whitfield and Worsley. Quite an assembly.

At this meeting the rules for the Cup Competitions were discussed, and were as follows:—

1. That where a competition is held the home ringers to be debarred from ringing in the competition.

2. That all members of the Association be eligible to take part in all competitions after six months' membership.

after six months' membership.
3. That when there is a draw for a place of meeting, 8-bell and 6-bell churches be drawn for separately.

drawn for separately.

4. That the competition starts at the church that wins the ballot at the next annual meeting.

5. That if the minister objects to the competition taking place at any particular church the meeting shall take place there as usual.

6. That no person be allowed to ring with more than one company.

7. That the committee ballot for competent judges, whose decision shall be final.

8. That two cups be offered for best ringing, one for six the other for eight.

9. That there cups be won by one company three times before it becomes their own absolute property.

10. That the committee determine the amount of entrance money.

Rule two was objected to on the ground that it would be unfair for members practising in eight-bell steeples to compete for the cup to be given for six-bell ringing, and vice versa, because while members belonging to the first-named steeples had the advantage of practising either on six or eight members belonging to the last-named steeples could only practise on six unless put to considerable inconvenience; therefore some of the members thought it would only be fair to let eight-bell ringers compete for one cup and sixbell ringers for the other. The objection was fairly supported, but was overuled on being put to the vote.

The first six-bell competition took place on Saturday, July 16th, 1887, at Chapel-en-le-Frith. On this occasion there were two other prizes, the second being six silk pocket-handkerchiefs, with figured bells and ringing mottoes woven in by Mr. E. Matthews, of Macclesfield, given by the Chapel-en-le-Frith ringers; and the third, six silver scarf pins the shape of a bell, by J. Carter, of Birmingham, given by the president of the Association.

Each competing company rang a 720 of Oxford Treble Bob Minor, in the following order: Saddleworth No. 2 company, Saddleworth No. 1 company, Royal George, Hayfield and Glossop. The competition commenced at quarter-past twelve noon, and concluded in about four-and-a-half hours, which seems rather a long time for five 720s, but no doubt there would be refreshments—no closing hours in those days.

Winners Particularly Good

Throughout the contest the ringing was considered to be very good, and that of the winners particularly good. The awards were made according to the least number of faults, on the same principle that a good General is judged: It is not the one that makes brilliant points that wins, but he that makes the least blunders! Messrs. B. A. Dodson (Birstall, Yorkshire) and S. Wood (Ashton-under-Lyne) were the judges, and no complaint was made with regard to their decisions.

The results were as follows: Saddleworth No. 1, first prize, 160 faults; Royal George, second prize, 173 faults; Glossop, third prize, 183 faults; Saddleworth No. 2, 323 faults; Hayfield, 334 faults (rung out). After an enjoyable dinner at the Bull's Head, the president, Mr. John Holden, presented the prizes, saying that it had been a nice, harmonious and successful contest.

The Royal George company were the Friezland ringers, and appear to have been so called because the patrons of that church also owned the local mills known as the Royal George Mills. (I had thought at first it might have been a local hostelry.)

The second contest took place on Saturday, September 22nd, 1888, at St. Matthew's Church, Hayfield, Derbyshire. On this occasion, although the competitors were at liberty to ring a 720 of any method they chose, they all rang Oxford Treble Bob. The draw for order of ringing took place at the Royal Hotel at 2 o'clock, with the following result: Saddleworth United, Saddleworth (holders), Chapel-en-le Frith, Royal George, and Mossley. A plain course was allowed each company before commencing. At 2.30 the first company ascended the tower, the others following on without loss of time. A very large number of ringers from various parts attended to listen to the ringing, which was of an excellent character, especially the ringing done by the companies gaining the prizes. Much excitement was manifested at the close, on account of the four prize-winners running so close together, and a large number of people assembled to hear the judges announce their decision from the balcony of the Royal Hotel, which was as follows: 1st prize (the Association Cup and six sterling scarf pins the shape of a bell), Royal George; 2nd prize, Saddleworth United; 3rd prize, Saddleworth; 4th prize, Mossley. The judges were Mr. J. Green Hardy of Huddersfield and Mr. B. Dodson of Birstall, and their decisions gave general satisfaction. The committee of the Association publicly thanked the Vicar of Hayfield for placing the bells of St. Matthew's at their disposal, the Hayfield ringers and their friends for their generous subscriptions and hearty co-operation and also the courteous judges.

Six Bands Competed

The third competition was held on saturday, September 21st, 1889, at Christ Church, Burbage, near Buxton. The first prize was the Association Cup and six drinking cups of Buxton stone; second prize, six felt hats; 3rd prize, six silk pocket handkerchiefs; fourth prize, six Buxton stone scarf pins with a bell in the centre. Six bands competed, Friezland (Royal George), Hayfield, Mossley, Saddleworth, Saddleworth United and Saddleworth Juniors. The judges were Messrs. John Rhodes (Holmfirth) and Allen Womersley (Almondbury) and Mr. William Ashmore acted as umpire, with Mr. John Sidebotham as writer for them. The judges' decision gave general satisfaction when they awarded the prizes as follows: First prize, Saddleworth United; Second, Saddleworth; Third, Hayfield: Fourth, Mossley. A meeting was afterwards held in the large room of the Red Lion Inn, where the president of the association, Mr. John Holden, distributed the prizes to the conductor of each band, the recipients responding on behalf of their respective companies. At this meeting, the members of the Association unanimously elected their President, Mr. Holden, as their representative on the central committee.

after which votes of thanks were passed to the judges for their just and impartial decision; also the Burbage ringers and friends for the excellent prizes, and the vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells.

The central committee to which Mr. Holden was elected was, I believe, a provisional committee elected to meet to consider, amend and confirm the proposals for the formation of what is now known as the Central Council. But that is another story with which readers will already be familiar.

In 1890, the contest was held at Friezland, and a local paper said: "Judging from the interest which was taken in the bell-ringing contest at Friezland, on Saturday afternoon, campanology has lost none of its hold on the people of Saddleworth, where the manipulation of bells has long since gained for it a reputation which it is pleasing to note is still fully maintained."

Six companies of ringers had entered, and all of them competed, in the following order:—Chapel-en-le-Frith, Saddleworth United, Hyde, Saddleworth, Hayfield and Mossley.

Old and Tried Ringers

The day was very fine and warm, and as a consequence a good number of old and tried ringers from various outside places were in the neighbourhood of the church, and augmented those already assembled from within the district, so that during the whole of the afternoon the usually quiet valley presented an animated appearance.

Great interest was manifested in the proceedings throughout, and in the evening, shortly after the contest was concluded, the judges, Messrs. Joseph Pickering (Kirkburton) and Allen Womersley (Almondbury), gave out their decision at the Farrars Arms to a large crowd that had assembled on the road in front. The results, which were received with loud cheers, were: 1st, Saddleworth, number of faults 262; 2nd, Saddleworth United, number of faults 353; 3rd, Mossley, number of faults 534; 4th, Hyde, number of faults 560; 5th, Chapel-en-le-Frith, number of faults 794, 6th, Hayfield, 301, rung

Directly after the decision had been given a move was made to the clubroom over the public house, which was soon filled, the object being to distribute the prizes. Mr. Pickering, one of the judges, distributed the prizes. The first prize (Saddleworth) consisted of the Association's silver cup and six travelling bags, value 16s. each. The second prize (Saddleworth United) consisted of six cruet stands, value 8s. 6d. each. The third prize (Mossley) comprised six inkstands, value 6s. 6d. each. The fourth prize (Hyde) was six silk handkerchiefs, value 3s. each.

Appropriate Toasts Given

After the prizes had been distributed appropriate toasts were given by Mr. Pickering and the chairman, which were duly acknowledged. Mr. John Sidebottom (secretary) moved that the best thanks of the Association be given to the Friezland ringers for the manner in which the contest had been conducted throughout, and for the handsome prizes they had given that day. After the proposition had been seconded and heartily carried, Mr. J. F. Dicken replied and said the Friezland ringers had done their best to get the money in to buy the prizes, which had been subscribed for by the parishioners and friends, and the next time they had a contest there he should like to give something better again. The chairman, in conclusion, hoped everyone would strive to promote what they had in view, namely the success of change ringing.

"Bell News" did not report the 1891 meeting which was won by Friezland, as they were then referred to. Unfortunately, a controversy had arisen over the subject of prize ringing contests, because it was alleged that they raised "evil passions" that are happily never found connected with peal ringing. There was however, about the same time, a somewhat robust correspondence being conducted regarding a peal that had been recently rung, or not rung, one letter of which commenced "The letter sent by Mr. ———— is a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end."

The final contest, which was won by Friezland, who thereby won the cup for keeps, was at Chapel-en-le-Frith in 1892, the result being: 1 Friezland, 228 faults; 2 Glossop, 333 faults; 3 Saddleworth, 338 faults; 4 Hayfield, 415 faults.

For nearly eighty years the cup remained at Friezland until early this year, when the Friezland ringers, at the suggestion of Mr. Joseph Burgess, their captain, presented it to the Saddleworth Museum, where it can be seen when the Museum is open on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

MINOR REPAIRS AT MARCH
The bells of St. Wendreda's Church,
March, Cambs, will be out of action for the next two or three weeks. A bellfounder's biennial inspection revealed that all pulleys needed renewing, and while this is being carried out the ringers are scraping the teak and iron frame, which will be creosoted and painted respectively, and all louvres and spire vents will be rewired. The bells and fittings generally are in good order. Cast in 1802 by Thomas Osborn, the six bells (tenor 15½ cwt.) possess fine tonal qualities. They were last overhauled in 1929 and since then have put in a lot of work at the hands of successive March teams, observed at their tasks by over a hundred angels, part of a galaxy of medieval figures in a ceiling said by experts to be the finest of its kind in the country. The ringers are hoping to raise money to defray expenses in the repair of the bells' fittings.

BELL RINGERS' SUPPER

Anne Efemey

Christmas and New Year are times of memories, and as just about everything that could be said about them has been, I only offer you a memory from my own store.

Living now in a large, ugly conurbation of industrialisation, I suppose it is only natural that my thoughts should wander back to the six Christmasses I spent in the depths of the English countryside. One in particular stands out.

In the countryside, even in these days of scientific discovery the country dwellers are ruled largely by the clements, and when the snow began to fall on Christmas night, heavy drifting banks of it, we all knew in the village what it meant. Lying in a valley on the banks of the river Severn, with only one main road out, it wasn't long before our one real contact with civilisation was severed. The local railway line having been removed some years earlier in the interests of progress, the only other hope was through the estate of a local landowner, and this by foot.

We were not considered priority, so the snow ploughs concentrated on the larger villages and left us for the next few days in a gleaming solitary world of white. The thermometer fell rapidly and the big freeze set in. The steep hill into the village turned into a sheet of ice, and post, bread and milk were brought to the top of it and dumped, the braver locals ventured up it with sacking tied round their feet to bring

The question uppermost in people's minds was, would it thaw before New Year's Eve. The great Social Event of the year was held this day, namely the Bellringers' Supper at the local inn. Could the sirioins of beef be got in, or would we have to make do with frozen chickens from the village shop's deep freeze?

The day dawned cold and bright, but with no hint of a thaw. The hotel's cook could be seen wandering sadly up and down the village street in the hope that the butcher's van would suddenly materialise and frantic phone calls were being made to those bellringers who had deserted to the next village or nearest town, but were "allowed" back for the great annual event.

By evening things had sorted themselves out in the way that only those who live close to nature know how. The meat had been brought in by foot, and as many guests as possible had been packed into a local farmer's jeep and brought within walking distance of the hotel.

I remember clearly the expressions of triumph on the faces of those gathered round the long table that night. The traditional speeches of welcome, the carol singing and hand bell ringing, and the story-telling by the older generation of the village in former days.

Later that night as the church clock struck midnight and we were all gathered in the ringing room of the bell tower to ring in the new year-half the village seemed to have crowded into the little room that year-I looked out of the window on to a white world with the little village clustering at the grey icy water's edge, and felt as though I too were a part of the long history of this little place. admiring the determination of these quiet country folk, thinking how few town people would understand their intense desire to continue the traditions handed down over the centuries and hoping that progress would not bring them to a halt.

Obituary

FREDERICK W. SODEN

Fred, as he was known to his many friends, passed peacefully away at his home on September 30 after enduring his illness with much fortitude and faith. Born in Burford in 1912, he was taught to ring by his father (the late Frank Soden) but such was the strength of the local band that he did little ringing until the mid-forties, by which time the war had caused many changes.

Most of his early peals were of Triples, but with the formation of a Surprise band in 1960 he became a competent member, so that the majority of his later peals consisted largely of Surprise Major or Minor. His final total of peals was 120, of which he had conducted several of Grandsire Triples. He moved to Witney in 1966 and at the funeral service on October 2 the congregation included many ringing friends, who heard a moving tribute paid by the Rev. M. Warren.

During the evening a half-muffled quarter peal was rung at the Parish Church and Burford bells were also rung half-muffled on the following Sunday. To his wife, son and daughter is extended our deep sympathy. May he rest in peace. B. J. C.

LOUIS A. WILSON

The death occurred on December 1 at St. Austell, Cornwall, of Mr. Louis A. Wilson in his 95th year. He was a native of Ottery St. Mary but came to Wootton Bassett as a young man and remained there until a few years ago. For practically 70 years he was very active in the ringing life of the area and was secretary of the Calne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild for a very long time and was a vice-president of the guild. The treble bell at Lyneham was installed in 1949 as a compliment to Mr. Wilson for his work in the branch and he rang the new bell in the first peal on the His wife predeceased him a few years ago and sympathy is expressed to his daughter, with whom he went to live in Cornwall. The funeral was at Ottery St. W. B. K. Mary on December 7.

JACK SMITH

Returning to the team at Christ Church, Friezland, at the end of the 1939-45 war, Jack Smith became the treble ringer, but seldom ventured "inside." It was with a great sense of shock that we were informed of his death, suddenly, on November 19, as he only entered hospital on the 16th for X-rays and observation. He was a member of the College Youths, the Barnsley and District Society and the Halifax Associa-

Before the funeral on November 23 the bells of Christ Church were rung, fully muffled, by members of the Halifax Association, including the president, the secretary and the treasurer, along with Alfred Bennett (Friezland), Dennis Greenwood, Joe Greenwood and Charlie Byrom (Meltham) and W H. (Bert) Nield (Roughtown). Jack's brother-in-law, Charlie Henshaw, and his cousin, Leslie Dawson (Friezland), were among the mourners present.

A memorial service conducted by the Rev. Harold Hutcheon was held at Christ Church on November 29, when the bells were rung fully muffled by the ringers from Rough town, augmented by Alfred Bennett. A. F.

[Due to a lack of learners, for whom numerous appeals have been made, without response, it appears that an era of fine ringing, with outstanding striking being a watchword, has come to a close, and Friezland is now a "silent" tower.]

HENRY I. MINGAY

The death occurred on November 26 of Ine death occurred on November 26 of Mr. Henry Isaac Mingay, of Wellington Street, Grimsby, at the age of 80. Born at Gorleston-on-Sea, Norfolk, he moved to Boston in 1901 and joined St. Nicholas', Skirbeck, choir and bellringers before moving to Grimsby in 1911, where he eventually became secretary of the Grimsby District of the Lincoln Guild a nost he held for 25 the Lincoln Guild, a post he held for 25

Bellringing was his main hobby and he seldom missed a meeting or an opportunity to ring, and enjoyed every moment of it.

CHRISTMAS

For us the Star; but in that Land afar Where our beloved are, they need no Star. For us the night: but in their Country bright.

Our happy Saints in Light have no more

For us the Quest: but our beloved rest Among the Blest, who have attained their Ouest.

For us, for them, the Babe of Bethlehem; Newborn at Bethlehem for us, for them.

The Daily Sketch (and other nationals) of November 28 gave the report of the Precrastinators from America who turned up at Whitechapel Bell Foundry to demonstrate and protest against what they constrate and protest against what they considered an injustice: "That the Liberty Bell cast in 1776 in Whitechapel cracked in 1835 and considered as shoddy workmanship." However, after quite a lot of crossbetween the Americans and Mr. Douglas Hughes, plus a tour of the foundry and a glass (or two) of sherry, the visitors departed. All good, clean fun (although one or two visitors wanted to see "Oh! Calcutta" whilst in London).

There were several disappointed ringers at the Horley (Surrey) rededication of tower and bells on December 12. Terry Williams and David Cox and a peal band (who had been to Crawley) under Michael Church arrived and hoped for a pull, but found there was no general ringing arranged. In view of the difficulties being experienced there at present it is, we think, just as well that no open invitations were extended until better results are obtained

A jinx in evidence where evening ringing is concerned in the N. and E. District meetings of the Middlesex County Association. In recent months a bell has parted from its bearings, a broken rope been experienced, access was not obtainable to the tower on another occasion and the last upset was when the electric light bulb in the ringing chamber decided to end its usefulness at a most inappropriate moment.

The Bridgnorth (Shropshire) College of Further Education has three courses running each week on bellringing and one is an advanced ringing course. The 12 students, under the expert eye of Michael J. Fellows, have progressed from learning to conduct Plain Bob Major to ringing and conducting London, Bristol, Glasgow, etc. So many people apply for these courses that numbers have to be limited. A new series of courses will begin in January and anyone interested may write to the College giving details of their requirements and the College will then send details of suitable courses, writes Morley P. Tobin.

R.U.S.C.R. OUTING (14-11-70)

One had his clothes taken during the night and had to borrow some before we could set off.

Two had to make an unscheduled return home, which curtailed our ringing abilities.

Three overslept, so we had a hurried start. Four new learners grabbed six new towers. Five were rung at Swerford to Stedman, with thanks to Canon Wigg.

Six were rung at Cuddesdon, Horspath and Wootton.

Seven should have been the final total, but the lights were fused at Cassington.

Eight were rung at Great Tew (by oil lamp) and Hook Norton (the highlight of the Nine inches of rain (at least) fell during the day.

Ten (+ 8) sat down to a fish and chip supper in Chipping Norton.

Home again are Mr. Roy Collins (Farnham), after his "op", and Mr. C. W. "Jim" Pipe (Grundisburgh), although both are out of active ringing for some weeks. Robin Collis is still in hospital but hopes shortly to be allowed to get up.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for December 21, 1945

That no great success in any belfry is likely in the absence of an able and enthusiastic leader is pretty obvious. One really competent and enthusiastic man, endowed with the necessary tact, could do much.—Leader.

The last meeting of the Leicester District of the Midland Counties Association was held at Leicester, Mr. G. T. N. Walker presiding.

Mr. George Sellers, sen., died at Penzance at the age of 101. He took part in the first peal ever rung in Cornwall. His son, George, jun., played the organ for the funeral.

Dear Sir,—My shop, H.M.S. Duke of York, came back etc., etc.—Letter from A. R. Pink. (We never heard whether he owned or only managed the shop!)

Wilfrid F. Moreton wrote from Poona, India, about the carillons at Malines, Belgium, and said there was nothing wrong with them six months previously, as he had managed to ring half a course of Bob Minor on them before the official bellringer objected!

A peal of Surprise Minor in 15 methods was rung at Darlington, conducted by Roland Park, it being the most methods yet rung to a peal for the Durham and Newcastle Association.

A peal of Double Norwich at Wymondham, Suffolk, was composed and conducted by Nolan Golden.

At Epsom, Surrey, Richard S. (F.) B. Speed rang his first peal of Major, conducted by Betty Spice.

John Freeman rang the third at Metheringham to Double Norwich, his first in the method, Edward J. Bragg rung the 4th and John A. Freeman was the conductor.

First, may your ringing bring you joy, And those outside may not annoy. So mind you strike your very best, Then leave the bells to do the rest. When standing in to ring a touch, The method matters not that much As mind, and eyes, and ears, and hands With them are made the best of bands. This Christmas ply your ancient art, Forgetting not, before you start, By bells the message may be given, That angel hosts brought once from heaven.

T. P. HARRIS.

50 YEARS AGO December 24, 1920

It must be apparent to all that with the existing number of pages we are so cramped for room that it is impossible to publish anything like all the news that is sent to us. To make the journal worthy of the Exercise it must be enlarged.—Leader.

I wonder how many ringers realise that The Ringing World is the only link we have and what it would mean to the Exercise if it should cease to exist! I wonder, too, how many ringers would cease to attempt a peal if they knew there would be no journal through which their performances could be recorded.—Mr. W. Kilborn, Leics.

C. W. Woolley, a pupil of Rev. E. Bankes James in a double sense (scholastic and ringing) and son of the rector of Long Stanton, has gained a scholarship open to boys under 14 at Dover College. A few men from Cottonopolis have been peal hunting lately. Since Amos Trippier was elected councillor for Eccles (a place famous for cakes) he determined to uphold its reputation. (From a Manchester report.)

Richard A. Gofton, just before his 17th birthday and after only one practice, rang 1-2 to London Surprise Major, the others being Thomas T. Gofton, Joseph A. Gofton and R. Alder Gofton.

E. Charles Allen, W. Arch Norman, Gilbert Bell, Albert Barcock, R. Charles Allen and Edward P. Duffield (cond.) rang a local peal at Sharnbrook, Beds.

At Burnham, Bucks, a peal of Superlative Surprise was conducted by George Martin, others taking part being George Allder, William Henley, William H. Fussell, Cecil C. Mayne, Jesse Eldridge, Arthur Martin and William Welling.

A tea and social arranged by a few Bristol ringers was a great success. Over 100 attended, one of the biggest gatherings of western ringers and over £13 was handed to the Gloucester and Bristol Association Memorial Fund.

In order to accommodate the reports of the large number of peals that have recently been rung, next week's issue will consist of four extra pages and the price will be 3d. —Advt.

A new treble, making a ring of six, has been added at South Stoke, Oxon, as a memorial to the parishioners who fell in the war.

It was suggested at a Hereford District meeting that funds be raised to recast the tenor at All Saints'.
