COGGESHALL is an old market town. It originated on Stane Street, a Roman road running from St. Albans to Colchester. The Romans built a ford here and probably a church building of sorts on the site of the present church.

The church was rebuilt during the prosperous 15th century, when the wool trade was East Anglia's chief industry. It is a beautifully-designed church, with graceful columns and great windows, the east window being a large seven-panelled piece of work, looking large even from the tower arch, 40 yards away. The oak roof of the nave looks down from a height of 40 feet and its old and new timbers nest on canopied figures of the Apostles. These carefullycarved figures were placed here last century.

Unfortunately the church suffered severe bomb damage in 1940, which left the bells hanging somewhat precariously in the remains of the tower. Luckily the bells remained intact and were taken down and hung for chiming in a cage in the churchvard. In the 1950s the church was rebuilt in its original form except for the tower, which is slightly different in design.

THE BELLS

The earliest references to the bells appear in wills, the first being in 1506:
"Item -/20 toward the being of a bell hanging in ye quere [choir]."

Money was left in 1518 towards the repair of the church and bells, and there were similar donations at later dates.

In 1681 Miles Graye III cast a ring of six bells, with a tenor of approximately 22 cwt. in F, and much information regarding these bells is to be found in "Diary of the Time of James III and William and Mary", by John Bufton, of Coggeshall.

"... We have a history of the bells to: Nov. 8th, 1681. Three Bells were run in Mr. Ennow's Barn, and the other three Dec. 23. 1681.

In Sept. 1682, the sixth and third bells were new run at Colchester.

In April. 1683, the fifth bell was carried to Colchester, and there was made thereof a little bell, less than the least before. In May, 1692. The great bell was carried to London to be new shot, and was brought home again in July.

In June. 1693, the fourth bell was carried to Sudbury, to be new shot and the rest were chipt to make them tuneable.

In Jan. 1693 the fourth bell was split and carried to Sudbury, to be new shot, and brought home about May 7, 1694. Then it was made too little and was carried to Sudbury to be new shot and made bigger. And was brought home about June 18 1694 and were first rung that June 22, 1694."

As can be seen, this ring was hardly a success. By 1733 two of Graye's remaining four bells, the third and the fifth, had to be recast again. This was done by Thomas Gardiner, of Sudbury, who in 1757 also recast the fourth. Apart from rehanging the treble (which was done by the local ringers in 1789) no more work was done to the bells until 1806, when John Briant, of Hertford, recast the treble.

A receipt attached to the churchwardens' accounts of 1854 shows that the bells were fitted with new wheels, these being made by John Ely, a local cartwright. The 1870s saw a new interest in the bells, which was largely encouraged by the then curate, Rev. H. T. W. Eyre. In 1874 the bells were rehung by Messrs. John Warner and Sons, of London, and in 1876/7 the ring was augmented to eight and the tenor recast, again by Warners.

The next fifty years saw the rise and fall of a really strong local band, which maintained a high standard of striking and scored many peals. In 1931 the bells were overhauled and rehung, the third bell being re-cast at this time by Mesrs. Gillett and

With the outbreak of the second World War and the severe bomb damage to the tower ringing was stopped until 1955 when, the church restoration completed, the bells were retuned and rehung, in the newly-built tower, by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and, even allowing for local partiality, the bells are certainly amongst the finest in Essex.

PEALS

Eighty peals have been rung on the bells since June 25th, 1888. Of these, 50 were rung before the first World War and eight since the second. There were two significant gaps between peals. These were between 1923 and 1931, and between 1939 and 1957 (when the tower was destroyed). The greatest activity in ringing was at the end of last century and the beginning of this—seven peals were rung in 1897 and seven in 1910. The most important for the local band was in 1894, when an all-local band scored a peal of 5,040 Plain Bob Major

MAJ.-GEN. RECRUIT LEAVING

The band at Benington, Herts, which is already suffering on practice nights due to increased homework, suffered another blow on December 15th with the loss of two more ringers, one of whom, Brigadier P. J. Howard-Dobson, during his recent posting at Whitehall, had learnt to handle a bell at Benington and became a regular member of the Sunday service band. He has re-cently been appointed to be "chief of staff to the Commander-in-Chief Far East . . ." in the rank of major-general. It is understood that his work will be concerned with the withdrawal of troops from the Far East.

The surprise and pleasure of the ringers to find that they had such an important serving officer in their midst was only equalled by their disappointment at losing him for several years. Before he left, however, a promise was extracted from him to return to ringing as soon as possible. The band look forward to his return.

A quarter peal attempted as a farewell and to celebrate his promotion was unsuccessful

SCHOOL HANDBELL RINGERS

We are indebted to Mr. C. Rush, of Felixstowe, for a cutting from the "East Anglian Daily Times", dated December Allgham Dany Times, dated December 10th, which printed a very clear 4-column picture of Mrs. Evans, "one of the church bellringers", giving handbell instruction to a group of boys of Harwich C.P. School in the ringing chamber of St. Nicholas' Church. The lads hope to learn tower bell ringing eventually and we wish Mrs. Evans every success in her efforts.

PEAL RECORDS 1969

Mr. and Mrs. D. House, of Flat 5, 43. The Chase, Clapham Common, S.W.4, are kindly undertaking the individual peal records for 1969. Will those who have rung 25 peals and over during that year please send their record to them, giving total number of peals, number conducted in tower and in hand.

About the Central Council

1—THE PRESIDENT (MR. JOHN FREEMAN)

THESE are times of change. In all quarters long-established institutions are being scrutinised and their efficiency questioned. An example of this is the report of the Royal Commission on Local Government. The Commission has surveyed the existing structure of local government, weighed it in the balance, found it wanting in certain respects and made recommendations as to how it might be improved. Other examples also come to

The Ringing Exercise is no exception and, as is well known, the Central Council at its meeting at St. Albans in 1969 instructed the Standing Committee to examine the constitution and procedural workings of the Council. Although this task has been given to the Standing Committee, the views of not only other members of the Council but of the Exercise as a whole ought to be taken into account. Ringers have been invited to express their views and their opinions may be called for again. If comments are to be invited it is desirable that those who are likely to make them should have some reasonable knowledge of the subject of their comment. This has prompted the thought that perhaps many ringers have little idea of the workings of the Central Council other than what they glean from accounts of meetings and correspondence in "The Ringing World", and this is the first of what it is hoped will be a series of articles by the officers and conveners of committees giving an account of their jobs.

I am the President, but a newcomer to the office, so that what follows is, in part, an account of my limited experience of the office and in part my assessment of what the President's duties ought to be.

The President, of course, is most in the public eye on the day of the Central Council meeting. The proceedings hitherto have opened with a welcome by civic and clerical dignitaries and the officers of the local ringing Association. It is the President's task to reply to this welcome.

It is his duty then to preside over the formal business of the Council, as set out in the agenda already circulated to the members of the Council. People are elected to various posts, minutes read, reports received and motions are discussed. All this promotes a great deal of discussion, and although the summary of a meeting given here is of necessity brief, the meeting President hopes he will be impartial, give all an opportunity to speak and yet be able adequately to control the course of the meeting and be a match for those razorsharp minds ever ready to raise difficult points of order! It is a long, hard day, and it is with a sense of relief that the President declares the meeting closed and moves on with other members to tea, where he carries out the final formal duty of the day-that of thanking those attending to the needs of the inner man, usually the civic authorities.

It is the duty of the President, too, to take the chair at the meetings of the Standing Committee, which for many years has met on the eve of the Council meeting to discuss the agenda for the following day.

The activities so far described are selfevident and well known to many ringers. What else does the President do? Without doubt a most important function is the conduct of the annual meeting of the Council. If he is to do this to the best of his ability he must be properly prepared for it. This preparation involves a careful study of the agenda and all the committee reports immediately prior to the meeting, and discussion with the secretary about them. However, it should go further than this. In my view, the President has to "keep his ear to the ground" all the time and be well acquainted with the important matters discussed by the various committees. The President is not an "ex-officer" member of all committees, but he ought to be in close touch with them on important matters. An example of this is "The Ringing World" Committee, who invite me to all their meetings. I cannot vote on any issue but listen to their deliberations, and this is a great help to me.

On general matters throughout the year the President is in constant touch with the secretary, who keeps him well informed on all matters.

One of the more pleasant things about being President of the Central Council is that each year brings its crop of invitations to attend annual dinners. Usually this involves speaking at the dinner, proposing the toast of the local Association, replying to the toast of the Central Council, etc. I welcome these invitations because, apart from the personal pleasure I derive from them, it often gives me an opportunity to draw attention to the Council's activities and to comment on matters which are being currently raised in the columns of "The Ringing World". Probably more important, however, is the fact that it enables me to meet and talk with all sorts of people, which may, I hope, help to counter the charge that is made from time to time that the Central Council is out of touch with ringers generally.

The foregoing gives a brief account of the job of the President as I have experienced it up to now; but it goes further than this. The President must expect to be

OUR NEW LOOK!

This issue—the first in the '70s—contains several innovations which, we believe, makes "The Ringing World" more attractive. The splash of colour on the redesigned cover, the condensed peal layout which will give more space for general topics, and the repositioning of certain pages which allows for later news items, should enable our readers to enjoy their journal and find greater interest in it:

We receive many letters giving varied opinions on how the columns of the "R.W." should be used. Some contain advice and some give threats of withdrawal of patronage, but the majority send encouragement and promises of support. To quote:—

"If page after page, week after week, is taken up with petty bickering . . . "

"Have you not heard of the new game called Exercise Baiting"—a modern version of 'Editor Baiting'? . . . "

"If you decide to 'sub' my letter, kindly consult me first . . . "

"Surely my footnotes are as important as anyone else's

"Keep up the good work, and jolly good luck"

To all our correspondents we say "Thank you!" We do not always agree with the views expressed, but we endeavour to publish any letters which we feel are of general interest. The "blue pencil" to footnotes and reports causes some upset, but every journal must have a policy and there is no ulterior motive in our actions.

During the year we shall give periodic features about the Central Council and its committees, and the President, Mr. John Freeman, has this week started the series. We invite all tower captains in towns and villages everywhere to send group photographs (black and white, not colour) of their local bands for publication, giving names of ringers and officers. In this way ringers in the north will "meet" ringers in the south, others in the east, those in the west, and "names" will become "people".

To "press" representatives, whether of Guild, District or Tower, we ask you please to send contributions promptly, including those of weddings or of deaths. For tour organisers, your reports should be couched in terms of general rather than individual interest. The fact that "Dick had a double helping of chips" or "Mary lost her handbag" or that "creaking boards at the hotel told its own story" is of interest only to the participants and will not be published in the "R.W." Christian names only in these reports are not news, neither are the methods rung, except in especial circumstances.

And so, dear reader, our good wishes to you. Do endeavour to increase the circulation of your one and only paper. Take one copy for each bell in your tower—and more if possible. Let us have your views, your comments, but above all your support. You will benefit in the end. C. W. D.

called upon from time to time to represent the Central Council (and thereby all ringers) in dealings with other people and other bodies. These are likely to be pleasurable occasions in the main, but the reverse might apply. On all such occasions the President ought to be able adequately to voice the views of the Council and bring to his office the dignity which it rightly deserves. It is my sincere hope that I shall not fail in this.

C.C. Standing Committee Meeting

The Standing Committee held what may well have been a record-length meeting on November 29th, when most of the day was occupied by an examination of Council procedure and a discussion of the ways in which the Council could improve its service to the Exercise.

It will be recalled that earlier in the year the secretary of the Council had, through the columns of "The Ringing World", invited all ringers to submit suggestions as to the way in which the Council's constitution and procedural workings could be im-proved. This had resulted in suggestions being made covering various matters such as reduction in overall membership, nonrepresentation for non-territorial societies, abolition or reduction of life and honorary membership, reduction in size of the Standing Committee, standing orders for conduct of meetings, etc., etc.

Twenty-three members travelled to Leicester and four who were unable to attend had submitted papers. Material had been sent to members in advance of the meeting, consisting of a summary of the many suggestions made by Council members and ringers generally, and also two rather longer papers which embodied some novel ideas. All this formed a very useful starting point for discussion and the committee submitted both itself and the Council to a very critical examination.

The initial task was a scrutiny of the Aims of the Council as expressed in the Handbook and their relevance to present conditions. Members of the committee expressed the view that whilst in general terms the Aims as set down were satisfactory, they needed to be expressed more specifically to establish proper guide lines for the actual working of the Council. It was thought that over the years the Council may have failed to liaise with the Associations as it should have done, had become far too rigid and had, in fact, lost the common touch.

It appeared, therefore, that the prime need was to redefine the Aims of the Council in more specific terms and then to decide on the structure and organisation best suited for the achievement of the Aims.

Nevertheless, it was agreed that there should not be change for change's sake and any proposals for change would need careful scrutiny before being brought into operation. For this reason it was realised, early in the meeting, that it would be necessary to form sub-committees to examine the various aspects of the problem, and the meeting took the form of a general discussion which, whilst it produced no firm decisions, gave an indication of the general thoughts of the committee for the guidance of the sub-committees which were formed later in the meeting.

Amongst the many other topics discussed The provision of a forum for discussion of technical matters and the fuller employment of expertise, often available outside the Council, with possibly parallel discussion groups and a reduction in time applied to routine. The need to (re)define the terms of reference of all committees. Arising from this the Standing Committee took a long and critical look at itself and its function in There was a strong feeling that its eve-of-Council-meeting discussion of the Council agenda was unnecessary, and although no firm decision was made it is certain that very serious consideration will be given to the discontinuance of what has become the traditional Standing Committee meeting, and only to hold meetings when it is necessary to discuss specific Standing Committee business. Redundant bells and restoration funds.

It was decided that three sub-committees should be appointed to examine respectively the following subjects, in the light of the day's discussion, and submit recommendations for consideration at the next meeting which has been arranged for March 21st;

(1) Aims, Objects and Procedure.

(2) Membership (a) Council

(b) Standing Committee

(c) Committee generally (3) Finance

These matters are by no means "subjudice" and all those involved will welcome any constructive contributions made to these columns, or to the Secretary of the Council by those who feel too modest to have their ideas published.

RETURN OF THE NATIVE

In mid-November Wilfred Williams arranged a peal week-end in the "land of his fathers", and on a Saturday cars arrived from the South-East, the Midlands and the Rhondda for an attempt on the ten at Abergavenny. Despite the fact that the visitors at the local football stadium were Ton Pentre, recently despatched from the F.A. cup, Iechyd-da was persuaded (or ordered) to brush up his Bristol Royal and take his place in the band.

The first effort had been in progress for no more than a lead or so, during which time the wrong dodging in the method had been causing some little consternation, when the rope on the fifth, which had been rapidly deserted by the writer because he couldn't reach it, came tumbling around the ringer's ears. Two others immediately vanished up the stairs to execute a quick splice. Soon we were off again, and the first peal of Bristol Royal in Wales (!) was successfully rung.

There followed the traditional adjournment to the local hostelry, where we were joined by Don Clift and Teebald, who had been doing noble work greasing bearings and checking ropes at Llangattock-next-Crickhowell ready for our visit the following day. An hour or so and several pints later the Birmingham contingent set off en route for the M5, two others went over the hills and far away and the rest repaired to the Belmont, our lodgings for the night. It was by now freezing hard, so we "abandoned" the cars and walked back into

The next morning the awful truth about our parking efforts soon dawned upon us: tickets on windscreens with phrases such as "Parking without lights" and "Parking on the offside of the road during the hours of darkness" heavily underlined. Used to such setbacks, it was calmly pointed out that the dreaded documents were at that stage merely an invitation to call on the local constabulary. After we had joined the local band for service ringing the two offenders duly attended to offer their "abject apologies", and it is understood that Wilfred managed to slip in a reference to the "no lights" concession enjoyed by motorists in London without actually claiming that he was a "stranger to the district"!

The afternoon saw our pilgrimage to Llangattock, where Wilfred had rung his first peal and where he learnt to ring on eight bells. He had warned us that the bells were not too easy. In his own words: "There hasn't been a peal of Surprise on them, and that's no surprise"; but a head-line in "The Observer" that morning read "Williams Optimistic", and so it turned out. The bells are a ground-floor ring and just a little indistinct at first, so Cambridge proved a wise choice and a good peal was rung.

The return journey was broken at Gloucester, where we had a quick one with Les

Our thanks are due to Wilfred and Don Clift for their organisation at both ends, and once again to Bill Theobald for his labours. D. E. R.

900th ANNIVERSARY PROGRAMME

With a primary object of creating more interest in the Norman tower and church of St. Lawrence, Alton, Hampshire, an ambitious programme of events will be staged in 1970 to celebrate the 900th anniversary.

The idea of holding a series of organ recitals in recent years has given the necessary enthusiasm for these to be extended, and recitalists of international fame include Fernando Germani and Gillian Weir. Orchestral concerts are to be given by national and local orchestras.

Concerts include folk, by Cy Grant, and choral by Guildford and Winchester Cathedral choirs, with a performance of the "Messiah" by the Waverley Singers (Farn-

Exhibitions by local organisations, festivals for schools, music by the Salvation Army Band, together with a flower festival and Son et Lumiere are also to be given.

Bellringing is well and truly marking the occasion. A complete programme has been devised to fit in with all the events. and quarter peals have been arranged, the local Guild playing its part. Nearby local towers have not been forgotten. They have been invited to Alton to ring for Sunday evensong and the St. Lawrence team will replace them at their church. An open day is planned at the flower festival.

A ringing festival, centred on Alton, is being arranged in the district for Saturday, July 18th, when it is hoped many will come to help make a successful day. Full details will be published in "The Ringing World".

A delightful photograph of the ringers at St. Mary-the-Virgin, Eastbourne, whose booklet "About Bells" makes pleasant reading.

About Bells . . .

We have received a well-produced, attractive little publication, delightfully illustrated throughout—a production of Crain Duplicating, of Eastbourne.

It has been written by Mr. Harold Reynolds, captain of the ringers at St. Marythe-Virgin's, Eastbourne, and is entitled "About Bells", and methods of ringing and the history of the bells are dealt with in layman's language, which was the reason for this publication.

Mr. Reynolds, born in Eastbourne, has rung bells since the age of 12. As a choirboy he started to ring at Christ Church, Eastbourne, and while still ringing at Christ Church he rang his first peal at St. Mary's Church on January 28th, 1936, when a muffled peal was rung on the day of King George V's funeral. By the age of 16 years he had rung four peals and had soon begun a pursuit which has led him to ring at most towers in Sussex and some as far away as Australia and New Zealand.

After the silence imposed during the last war Mr. Reynolds attempted with the help of others to revive ringing at Christ Church, and himself ran Christ Church ringers from 1956 to 1963. In 1950 Mr. Reynolds joined St. Mary's ringers and subsequently became treasurer. Shortly after this appointment he became captain in 1961 and in 1965 became secretary, both of which positions he still holds. Mr. Reynolds has a ringing family and on practice nights he is joined by his wife, Ruth, his 15-year-old daughter, Kathleen, and her 12-year-old twin brothers, Alan and Geoffrey.

THE SCOTTISH FOURS

While on tour in the summer an opportunity was taken to make an inspection of the two Scottish 4-bell towers listed in "Dove".

The Church of the Holy Rood, Stirling (in union with the Church of Scotland), stands on the hill just below the Castle, and the battlements of its bold, oblong tower afford impressive views of the Castle, town and surrounding countryside. The bells hang in a rather crude, unsubstantial frame, dating from 1781, and are no longer safe to be rung. The treble is cracked and the tenor (about 8 cwt.) hangs very loose on her stock, while all ironwork is corroded. The second is a pre-Reformation bell of poor tone, while the third is a 1657 Dutch bell, somewhat larger than most examples in Scotland. The woodwork is rotting, including the main beams supporting the frame.

AUGMENTATION

Full circle ringing last took place in 1949 when Ranald Clouston took a band there from Paisley. Reading this you may well think here is another forgotten ring of four rotting away into oblivion. Was it worth Ron Dove's trouble listing them in his Guide? Why do we change-ringers bother even to go and look at them?

Well, in Stirling's ease it was worth itwhile the application to inspect and attempt to ring the bells was partially turned down by the church architect, it had repercussions in other directions. It sparked off a latent local interest and has led to an order being placed with one of the foundries for complete restoration and augmentation to six. Much help and advice has been proffered and plans are afoot for the Alloa ringers, led by Harry Glover, to ring the new six occasionally, and it is hoped eventually to train a band there and ring regularly each week.

With this happy thought of a new six pealing over the Gateway to the Highlands in 1970, let us move on to Fort William. St. Andrew's Episcopal Church is in complete contrast to Stirling, with a tiny spired tower, so tiny in fact that it looks incapable of housing a ring of four; but they are there, in a two-tier wooden frame installed by John Warner in 1880. The third sits above the other three and is the only bell with a slider. The three bells on the lower level (tenor about $5\frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) are so tightly packed that the founder had to cut slots in the frame to accommodate some of the wheel rims! Clearances on moving parts are so fine that some recently-erected wire netting over the louvres prevents the clappers of the trebles from swinging freely and renders them unringable. A little wheel patching is also necessary, but a few hours of carpentry would give Scotland a ringable four again.

PEALS—AND RINGERS

Dear Sir, I feel Mr. Marsh (page 966) must either have a chip on his shoulder or be most unfortunate in his peal ringing acquaintances.

We know some peals are dubious, but to lump all peal ringers into the same category because of this is about the same as accusing all young people of drug addiction. Perhaps he has never heard of the "silent majority"?

He also feels that "very few" are "committed Christians" or "attend church regularly". I don't ring many peals but I find that so far this year I have done so with 17 people, of whom to my knowledge nine serve their parish church in various capaci-

Perhaps Mr. Marsh could explain why he feels that getting pleasure from peal ringing is inconsistent with the glorification of God, but this concept that one cannot enjoy one's worship is, to me, completely incomprehensible and not Christian. I get great pleasure from my little bit of peal ringing: equally I am very aware of the Christian message I am thus sending out, be it peal, meeting. Sunday or practice night.

The "R.W." is read by many of the general public, other than ringers, and we should all think carefully before we write letters which might have the effect of stirring up or injuring the reputation of the Exercise.—Yours faithfully.

ROY THREADGOLD.

Braintree, Essex.

Dear Sir, — The letter in your issue of December 12th under the name of one Edward Marsh certainly does not go far in saving space in "The Ringing World".

An Association's strength lies in the main with its peal ringers. Look at the list of Associations in the Ringers' Diary and see how many officers are regular peal ringers a good majority!

Peal ringing provides a way of improving one's standard of ringing. Eight people in a belfry ringing a peal will generally achieve a far higher standard of ringing than the average meeting produces.

Mr. Marsh, vou really should get your facts correct and not wildly generalise before committing vourself to print. The fifth paragraph of your letter is most objectionable, for peal ringers, certainly to my knowledge, put themselves out a good deal more than the average "one tower ringer" and these I submit are the majoritywhen it comes to turning up regularly both for ringing and worship.

The tower which has peal ringers among i's band stands a far better chance of maintaining regular ringing than the one which has just six or eight persons getting older each year and who do nothing about teaching learners or supporting their local Association.

Yours faithfully. M D FELLOWS.

Stourbridge, Worcs,

Dear Sir .-- I am sure many indignant peal ringers have already replied to Edward Marsh's letter in a recent "Ringing World". As a non-peal ringer may I say how much I deplore his attitude. Neither "The Ring-ing World" nor the Exercise can survive without the support of us all.

We must realise that peal ringing is a leisure activity in the same way as, for example, fishing or boating. With increasing leisure and mobility it is bound to increase. Why Edward Marsh should think it less Christian than any other pastime I cannot understand.

All the peal ringers I know are loyal members of their local Sunday service bands and by virtue of their experience cannot fail to improve the efforts of the less dedicated. I would, however, appeal to them to be more tolerant towards the less proficient, for the Exercise needs us all .-Yours faithfully,

P. R. EVEREST.

Chiddingstone, Kent.

From Christopher D. Corby, of St. Neots: 'I have many friends who ring peals and most of them are keen churchgoers and ring for the glory of God Ringing World' does give information to learners and to the more advanced ringers . . . I can say I have never rung a false peal, even if Mr. Marsh thinks he is the only ringer who has not."

C.C. REVISED DECISIONS

Dear Sir,—I refer to Mr. D. E. Parsons' letter on page 985 of December 19th and to the Central Council's revised Decisions on page 987 of the same issue.

The paragraphs of the revised Decisions relating to the rows contained within a peal are to be found in Part D. Paragraphs A1 and 2 require that a peal must start and end with rounds and that no row may be struck more than once consecutively. Paragraphs B I to 8 require (with one exception, B 2b) that peals must consist of "true and complete" 24s, 120s, 720s or 5,040s, or at least 5,000 true changes. The terms "true" and "true and complete" are not defined or explained in the revised Decisions, and to obtain a definition it is necessary to consult the previous Decisions as set out in the Handbook. It is there stated (on page 19) that "On all numbers of bells a true peal shall in all cases start from and end with rounds". There is no other stated requirement for a true peal nor is there in either the old or the revised Decisions any provision relating to repetition of rows other than that relating to repetition without an intervening change (paragraph A 2).

I conclude therefore that the Central Council's Decisions do not render unacceptable a peal containing "falseness" resulting from composition only, and that a peal should not be refused recognition under paragraph E of Section D on that ground

Whether this position is desirable is. course, another matter.—Yours faithfully, MARTIN MORRIS.

COMPUTERS

Dear Sir.—The rapid spread of computers throughout industry and commerce in recent years has brought many ringers into contact with these machines. An early result was the appearance of the "H. and M." Collection of Surprise Major methods in 1963, produced as the output from a programme run on an English Electric DEUCE computer.

In the course of conversations and correspondence I have had with a number of people in different parts of the country it has become apparent that quite a lot of research is being done, with the aid of computers (in some cases as powerful as the IBM 360), into such problems as method building and extension and the composition and proof of peals. There does not, however, seem to be any liaison between the various people involved. As a result, skilled programming and expensive computer time may be being wasted in duplicative work, while other fields of research, ideal for machine handling, are being ignored.

I am prepared to act (at least initially) as a clearing house for information on computer work on ringing problems. Could I therefore ask any ringer with access to a computer who has or is planning to run any ringing programme to contact me? It would help if some indication could be given of the type of computer and what language compilers are available, and what programmes have been run - whether successful or not .- Yours faithfully,

SIXTEEN IN HAND

Dear Sir, - Recent peals of sixteen on handbells have brought to mind a conversation I had with my father at the time Albert Walker rang his peal of Sextuples in 1924, in which he said: "I knew a man named Powell from Waltham Abbey who had rung a course of Grandsire Sixteen". This would have been about 1880 and my father 18 years of age.

I think I am right in saying that a man of that name was associated with John Cox, Henry Haley, Matthew Wood, etc., when they rang the first peal of Stedman Cinques in hand in 1854, either as a member of the band or as an umpire, and could easily have been the same person.

In a long ringing life (exactly 75 years) I have never seen or heard any other reference to this and realise it may only have been tradition, but thought it worth while recording should any other information turn up unexpectedly in the future.-Yours faithfully.

E. BARNETT.

DISTRICT PEALS DAY

As part of an effort to combat a lack of interest in the affairs of the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association, the officers borrowed an idea from the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and organised a district peal day on December 6th.

It was originally hoped that four peals might be attempted but, perhaps inevitably, a number of members had other commitments on that day. Nevertheless three separate bands were assembled and peals of Cambridge, Yorkshire and Plain Bob Major were attempted at Sevenoaks, Tonbridge and Edenbridge respectively. The Sevenoaks attempt, which followed the wedding of a former member of the local band and was also to celebrate the 21st birthday of the conductor, Andrew Corby, was the only failure, being lost two courses from the end as the result of an unfortunate misunderstanding.

In spite of this disappointment, however, when members gathered later in the evening the general opinion seemed to be that the day had been worthwhile and might usefully be repeated.

If nothing else, the occasion provided an opportunity for the district to honour the 80th birthday of Albert Relfe and to pay a tribute to the memory of Thomas E. Sone, the sad news of whose death had been heard earlier in the week. It was fitting that the peals should have been associated with these two men, who contributed much to Kent ringing in the past.

HANDBELLS IN SCHOOL

On B.B.C. TV "Look East" from Norwich on December 17th, a dozen children, some very young, of the Primary School, Surlingham, Norfolk, played "Good King Wenceslas" and "Away in a Manger" on handbells to figures on a board and under the guidance of a teacher with pointer. It was harmonised. Some children had a bell in each hand, some one bell only and some had two hands on one bell! Only down strokes were used. The children gave a very fair performance.

A hundred years ago Surlingham Church had four bells, which it still possesses.

FOR "SINGERS" READ "RINGERS"

The "Oxford Times" cannot have any cliringers on its staff or the mix-up would never have occurred. A well-known ringer upplied copy both to the "R.W." and the local paper, and the latter decided that, as ringing the changes the team could sing them as well. It printed the following:

Christ Church singers at Faringdon.— Eight members of the Christ Church Cathedral company of ringers visited the Church of All Saints, Faringdon, on Spliced Triples, consisting of 720 Changes of Stedman Triples and 560 Changes of Grandsire Triples with 19 Changes of method.

Turner 1. Frederick A. H. Wilkins 2, Heritage 3, Martin J. Turner 4, Journeaux 5, Walter F. Judge 9. Philip H. Jocock 7, and Neil T. Allnatt Conducted by Walter F. Judge."

EXPO SALTBURN VENTURE

Now that all the peals rung at the EXPO belfry at Saltburn have been published it is possible to summarise them.

Monday, July 21st.—5,088 Yorkshire Surprise Major in 2 hrs. 30 mins. Yorkshire Association.

Tuesday, July 22nd (morning). — 5,088 Yorkshire Surprise Major in 2 hrs. 25 mins. Durham and Newcastle Association.

Tuesday, July 22nd (afternoon). — 5,120 Kent Treble Bob Major in 2 hrs. 28 mins. Yorkshire Association.

Wednesday, July 23rd.—5,120 Plain Bob Major in 2 hrs. 36 mins. Yorkshire Association.

Thursday, July 24th.—5,184 Double Norwich Court Bob Major in 2 hrs. 37 mins. Yorkshire Association.

Including the belfry's first appearance in the South of England last year there have now been six peals on the bells. The Yorkshire Association is firmly established in the lead, with four peals, and the fastest peal goes to the Durham and Newcastle Association. The title "Most peals on the bells" is held jointly by Enid Lawson and James Belshaw with two peals each. P. S.

BLUE SKIES ON THE I.O.W.

With the winter months here, one looks back on summer outings with happy memories of warm sunshine and blue skies.

The outing by a party of ringers in August was with a difference. It had been arranged a year before and it was with the prime object of inspecting the bells at Shanklin and Newchurch and, with the architect's approval, of trying them out, both being unringable due to the state of the towers.

At Newchurch the bells had not been rung since 1955; after repairing a wheel the bells were pulled up individually and when rung together the "go" was quite good. A report about the wooden supports of the tower has been given, and it is hoped that when the work is done the bells may be rung again.

On then to Shanklin: here ropes were fitted, but a lot of work was needed before the bells could be raised. This was to be expected after 40 years' silence, and ringing was restricted to short touches only, the architect having fitted tell-tales on all the cracks, the outside stonework also being in a bad state. With all the tests made, we lowered the bells individually, and hope the architect's report is favourable.

A short ring at Niton preceded service ringing at Whitwell and Brighstone, the band splitting up to visit the two towers. Then the long journey by bus for the Whitwell band, along the island's glorious southern coastline to Ryde, to meet the Brighstone ringers, who had travelled by car across the middle of the island in time to make their way along Ryde Pier, loaded with bundles of ropes and providing a guessing game for fellow passengers as to their use.

For the winter there remains the memories of a day of glorious weather, successful ringing, good bells and marvellous scenery. What else could one want! G.D.

U.L.S.C.R. ACTIVITIES

Since the beginning of the new academic year in October members of the University of London Society have all been very active.

On a Saturday in late October 17 students met outside their H.Q. and went by coach along a route close to the Thames. Ringing was enjoyed at Twickenham (8) and Isleworth (10). After lunch the towers were at Barnes, Putney, Battersea and Lambeth.

For the dinner—the second this year!—the Society had a change of venue in the Mecca Restaurant in Blomfield Street, E.C., and during the day the bells of seven London churches were rung.

The general meeting was held in St. Olave's Rectory, for which the president, Alan Thirst, took the chair. A slight change in the constitution was proposed and, after a lively discussion, approved unanimously in an amended form.

Following this, the election of two new life members (bringing the total to 132) and nine ordinary members (total now 42) was ratified.

Audrey Alexander appealed for prompt replies regarding next year's summer tour of North and Central Wales. The dates of the A.G.M. and 25th anniversary dinner—the ringing social event of the year!—were confirmed.

A company of 81 enjoyed a delicious meal, which was followed by excellent speeches. Lawrence Hanney ably proposed the toast of "The Church", to which the Rector of St. Olave's (Rev. L. E. M. Claxton) replied. "Jumbo" Seager very wittily welcomed the visitors, for whom Geoff Bridges replied. The response by the master to Bill Theobald's toast of "The Society" brought the evening's speech-making to an entertaining conclusion.

The company of 81 included:-

CENTRAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATION

Dear Sir, - The main reason given by those who. like Mr. Dunwoody ("R.W.". November 21st), would like to see Central Council representation for non-territorial Societies abolished is that since territorial Societies cover the country, all ringers are represented, at least potentially, through those bodies. To use this argument clearly implies "one man, one vote". If this is to be achieved, all non-territorial Societies, College Youths and Cumberlands included. must be denied representation, and all territorial Societies must ensure that non-resident life members do not vote for representatives. Even then something would need to be done about the overlapping of the areas of certain territorial Societies.

The impracticability of this is dimly perceived by proponents of the scheme. For example, they always illogically exclude the two senior Societies from their strictures. Knowing that vested interests would make it impossible to gain much support for the abolition of representation for these two Societies (most Council members, I suspect, belong to one of them) they turn their attentions to Societies such as the university Societies, which have less influence on the

But the basic trouble with the argument is that it is founded on a false premise. The myth that representation should depend on "one man, one vote" needs to be buried. Representation on the Council is of Societies not of individuals. Most non-territorial Societies have an individual and distinct contribution to make to the Exercise (and agree completely with Mr. Lebon's comments on university Societies which you published on December 12th). Attempts to make the Council a more effective body are essential, but if the result is to deny representation to Societies which have played and still play a major part in the raising of ringing standards, then the effect will be detrimental to the Council and to the meetings for January 3rd were not received in time for publication in our last issue. Indeed, one dated December 15th arrived on 23rd, and under the arrangement (at that time) the printing p'ates had to be made on December 19th. New methods of production are now in hand, and it is hoped to be able to improve, not only with notices, but with more up-to-date items of news.

These views are my own and not necessarily those of the Society which I represent on the Council. Yours faithfully. JOHN CAMP.

The management and staff of the Seven Corners Press have co-operated wonderfully to produce this new edition of "The Ringing World" and the editor is very grateful to them for their help. B. & W. at West Coker . . .

On December 6th the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Association held its A.G.M. at the Parish Church of St. Martin of Tours, West Coker. The guild service was conducted by the rector (Rev. L. H. Bailey) with Mrs. A. Davis, organist. The tower master, Mr. A. L. Guppy, read the lesson.

It was one of the best-supported meetings for many years. Among the 50 who attended were the Association treasurer, Mr. E. Naylor; the bell adviser, Mr. H. J. Sanger; and the peal secretary, Mr. G. Massey.

The hon. secretary reported a successful year with increased membership and also presented the branch accounts. The chairman thanked the retiring officials for their good work in 1969, and the following were elected to serve in 1970: Chairman, Rev. C. J. B. Marshall (Long Sutton): vice-chairmen. Messrs. T. J. Setter (Yeovil), Gilbert Rendell and W. E. Turner (Hardington Mandeville): hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. M. M. Legget (Montacute); branch ringing master and diocesan representative, Mr. Gordon Rendell (Montacute); assistant branch ringing master, Mr. James C. Taylor (Preston Plucknett).

New members elected or transferred were Mr. H. P. Gould (West Coker), Mr. S. Spearing (High Ham), Mrs. C. Rice (South Petherton), Miss M. Martin and Miss R. The company stood in silence in memory of Mr. J. T. Locke (tower master, Drayton) and Mr. A. Phillips (Preston Plucknett).

Tea was enjoyed in the Church Hall, arranged by Mrs. A. L. Guppy, Mrs. L. H. Bailey and helpers. Thanks were extended to them and to all who had helped during the afternoon and evening.

Ringing continued on the popular, goodgoing, light eight (tenor 12 cwt.), under the direction of the branch ringing master.

ANOTHER DEVON SIX

For many years it has been the ambition of the Inwardleigh ringers to rehang their five bells and add a treble. Patiently Mr. Sam Pengelly and his friends have worked towards this end and slowly the bell fund grew.

There have been many disappointments. Rising prices seemed to push the target farther and farther away, but in April, 1969, the P.C.C. was in a position to place an order with Mr. Arthur Fidler to rehang the five bells with new fittings in the existing bell frame, which needed some reinforcement. The taking down of the bells appeared on Western TV and created local interest. Shortly afterwards a new treble bell to complete the six was ordered.

DEDICATION

The new bell and fittings came from the Loughborough Foundry; the hanging and provision of the additional framework was carried out by Mr. Arthur Fidler, of Bow, Devon, in a very thorough manner.

Prior to the carol service on December 17th the new bell was dedicated by the Rev. A. J. Radford, Vicar of Okehampton, in the presence of a large congregation. After the service the bells were rung until a late hour by ringers from neighbouring parishes, and all spoke very highly of the work carried out.

Inwardleigh now possesses a handy ring, with a tenor weighing 6 cwt. 3 qr. 3 lb. The bells go well and are a pleasure to hear.

A 14-DAY TOUR

The medley of people of the John Ketteringham tour assembled in the Crown and Cushion. Derby, on a Friday in August were getting to know each other in traditional style when a 'phone call from Norman Edwards got the tour off to a flying (?) start as he had broken down in Northampton! However, the spirits of the company were not dampened.

The serious business began next day with peals at Creswell and Bolsover and visits to Clowne and Barlborough. A mix-up over the key at Creswell was soon resolved but an attempt to ring the slowest peal on the bells at Bolsover failed as it came round in 2.49.

Only half a band turned up to ring at St. Andrew's on Sunday, but the turnout was better at the Cathedral. Great Longstone that afternoon was the scene of the first disaster of the tour when a clapper fell out after an hour, but Tim Wylie arranged for us to ring a quarter at his home tower. Baslow, Meanwhile a handbell band scored Bob Major at St. Andrew's.

Keith Walpole had the pleasure (?) of ringing Middleton's twice on Monday—at the Loughborough Foundry to Christchurch and at Mountsorrel where he called it to Cambridge. Unfortunately the highlight of the tour—Stedman Cinques at Leicester Cathedral—refused to go, and we ended up by ringing Yorkshire on the light eight. Keith really made a day of it by taking part in a handbell peal on the Ml as well.

DISASTER AT CHESTERFIELD

Most people had by now found their way round Derby. Bob Hardy had his big day on Tuesday conducting his own composition of Superlative to what, by all accounts, was a very good peal and the best of the tour. The morning attempt was at Melbourne — a very long draught with an extremely stretchy tenor rope, but Geoffrey Bridges rang it very well.

Wednesday brought another disaster when, after scoring a new method at Darley Dale, we went to what we consider the best ten in the county at Chesterfield, and after four courses to our amazement a broken rope put paid to the attempt. We certainly never expected such a thing to happen here and were very disappointed. We rushed to Clay Cross and joined the remainder of the party for a ring on the beautiful six.

TWO FUNERALS

Thursday morning's peal attempt at Copt Oak had to be abandoned as the funeral of a local ringer killed in a road accident was taking place that day. However, after the bird guards had been removed a quarter peal was rung prior to the service. The afternoon's attempt at The Oaks-in-Charn-wood was successful and back at "the ranch" the handbell ringers scored Bob Major in the morning and Royal in the afternoon. Friday's attempt at Duffield had to be cancelled again owing to a funeral, but after several phone calls we found ourselves back at the Foundry scoring Bob Royal. Brassington and Bradbourne were visited in the afternoon. That evening the Derby week was concluded traditionally in the Navigation, and so on to Lincolnshire for a more leisurely (?) week, but not before another handbell peal had been scored in the Derby Canal.

"THE PARTY PIECE"

Geoff performed what was to become a rather embarrassing party piece at Ewerby, the rope breaking at the tail end; but the Albanian wasn't as good as it might have been, even allowing for the tricky bells, and the attempt was abandoned. Our base for the second week was at Alford, where we rang for Sunday morning service before the peal attempt at Walesby. Unfortunately the conductor tried to get the bells into an out-of-course coursing order and the new Delight method was not scored. The two attempts on Monday's programme at Billingborough and Edenham succeeded and another handbell peal in ten plain methods also succeeded, thanks to Mr. Holmes who loaned a room and bells for the attempt.

Tuesday was a quiet day, ringing at Horncastle and Metheringham during the morning. The evening attempt at Harmston failed, but the non-pealers had an enjoyable time at Waddington.

Two local attempts had been arranged on Wednesday—success at Willoughby, failure at Alford. The morning non-pealers found a secluded beach and one of the party (on his own admission) had his first bath for months!

We travelled as far as possible on Thursday, to the excellent eight at Barrow, where we nearly scored Rutland but after three hours it failed!

On Friday we had the pleasure of meeting John Segar. at Burgh, before our attempt there, and we also rang a handbell peal and visited the excellent six at Halton Holgate.

Another long journey on Saturday to Surfleet, calling at Sutterton on the way, resulted in our scoring the Rutland lost at Barrow.

The tour concluded on Sunday with Geoff repeating his "party piece" at Heydour whilst ringing the tenor up, but even so failure came after about an hour.

Thanks are due to the Derbyshire Association and Lincoln Guild, whose members helped in many ways, and for the tremendous amount of work involved in organising the tour we owe our thanks to John Ketteringham, and look forward to next year's tour.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Many will have heard the 9.5 a.m. pro-Many will have heard the 9.5 a.m. programme on Radio 4 which is an annual "must" for bellringers. This year the towers to broadcast were: SS. Philip and James, Holywood, Co. Down; Holy Trinity, Darlington; St. Elvan, Aberdare; St. Martin, Birmingham; St. Andrew, Stratton by Bude, Cornwall; St. John the Baptist, Hillingdon, Middlesex; St. Andrew's Cathedral, Inverness: Church of the Nativity Bethleses Inverness; Church of the Nativity, Bethle-

The introduction to each was brief but interesting and it is a pity this could not have been extended somewhat. All the major church festivals would, we feel sure, be enhanced by a similar programme of bells and bellringing.

"MAGPIE" PROGRAMME

Because our December 26 issue was delayed at the printers and did not appear until January 2 the information about this bellringing demonstration could not be advertised, which was most unfortunate. The "Expo" tower was erected by Mears and Stainbank in 24 hours (Mr. Douglas Hughes driving the lorry as some of his staff were down with 'flu) on December 30, the filming was done on December 31 and the programme shown on January 1. The Ancient Society of College Youths' team included 94-years-old Mr. George Symonds (making his first—and we hope not his last—television appearance) and Richard Barker (age 11), of King's Langley, Herts.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from "The Ringing World" for January 5th, 1945

A letter was printed from P. A. Corby (Herne Hill) regarding peal ringing in wartime and stated that in his experience he had found peal ringers for the most part the mainstay of Sunday service ringing and more useful than those gentlemen who, in spite of a lifelong association with the belfry, exhibit but the slightest knowledge of change-ringing and still less of striking.

Mr. E. P. T. Field resigned as ringing master of the North Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild and Messrs, W. C. Chute and L. Perret were elected in his

The bells at Chilvers Coton, Warwickshire Guild, were rededicated following re-hanging by John Taylor and Co. The body of the church had been destroyed in May, 1941, but £3,000 had been contributed to a restoration fund. The ringing floor had been removed and the ropes brought down to the ground, but had not proved successful. For a meeting advertised at St. Giles', Lincoln, it asked all attending to "bring food and tea. Hot water provided!"

The sudden death of Mr. James E. Davis (78), of Streatham, was announced. He had been ringing at St. Margaret's, Westminster, a few days before. He rang 1,131 peals in all and conducted 264.

At 170, Headstone Lane, Harrow, 720 of Plain Bob Minor was recorded. The ringers were John R. Mayne 1-2, Mrs. C. C. Mayne 3-4, C. C. Mayne (cond.) 5-6.

At Soberton, Hants, a peal of Grandsire was rung in which four rang their first of Triples: Tom Page treble, John H. Hunt 3, Patrick Page 4, Harold A. Nobes 6; whilst at Aldershot a peal of Stedman Triples was the first peal for Raymond Clist and the first in the method by Will H. Viggers.

50 YEARS AGO

January 9th, 1920

Five ladies took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Ashton-under-Lyne, which was conducted by Miss Cissy Thorp, who was the first lady to conduct a peal in the

At Sharnbrook, Beds, a local band for the first time rang a 7-method peal of Minor, and the team were E. Charles Allen, W. Archibald Norman, Gilbert C. Bell, R. Charles Allen, Albert J. Barcock and Edward P. Duffield, who conducted.

It was recorded that a long length of Grandsire Cinques at Painswick by the Painswick Youths had had to be stopped because one of the ringers became unwell. 7,600 changes had been rung in 5 hours 15 minutes.

London County Association (late the St. James' Society, established 1824) gave notice of a meeting at St. Giles', Camberwell, at which the tea was to be given by the vicar.

The Provost of Edinburgh Cathedral unveiled a memorial tablet erected in the belfry in memory of the ringers who had died in the Great War.

At a meeting of the Bath and Wells Association at Evercreech 30 new members were elected.

The leading article was taken up with an argument that Bristol is not a Surprise method, and it was suggested that a Court of Appeal be set up on the lines of the High Court.

St. John-the-Baptist, Halesowen

By MOLLY TROMANS

IN THE famous Domesday Book of 1086 we find a reference to Halas: "Earl Roger holds of the King one manor Halas..... In the demesne there is a church with two

There is no trace of this Saxon church though it must have been one of some importance. The oldest part of the present building was built by Roger Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury, and consists of the west and south west doorways, with indenture mouldings, two bays of rounded arches, a window in the chancel and 2 blind arcade on the exterior of the east wall. Hence the Norman church of Earl Roger was of the same length and occupied the same site as the present church, The large square font, though usually considered to be Norman, may be of an even earlier date.

As early as 1497 there was an organ in

As early as 1497 there was an organ in the church. A second organ was purchased from the Abbot at the Abbey, and 40 shillings was paid to the men for mending it and setting it up in the church in the year

The patronage of the living of Halesowen has been vested in the Lyttleton family since 1559. The present head of the family, Charles John Lyttleton (Viscount Cobham) resides at the family seat, Hagley Halesowen is justly proud of its bells. Two bells, Nos. 3 and 4, were mentioned in 1487. A new bell No. 5 was purchased in 1517 and another bell No. 6 was cast in Nottingham in 1522. No. 7 bears the inscription "Chas. Littleton Knight and Barr Benefactor 1707." In 1620 the tenor was cast. This has a diameter of 46½ inches, weighs 16½ cwt., and all were recast in the year 1707.

Several ringers have given more than 50 years of devoted service. There is a brass with the names of four of them:—

George Newby Cockin 53 years
Elijah White 54 years
Matthew Hackett 53 years
William H. Webb 50 years

Mr. Skittleton, of London, on a visit to Halesowen in 1753 admired the sweetness of the tones of the bells (six) and, lamenting that there was not a perfect octave, generously offered to head a subscription list to purchase two mere. These two bells, the treble and second, thus completed the octave and were recast in 1864.

Near to the belfry door there is a funeral urn to the memory of the poet Shenstone, whose tomb is in the churchyard.

Also in the church on one of the pillars near the south west porch can be seen a memorial plaque to Francis Brett Young, who was born in Halesowen and achieved world fame as a writer 1884–1954.

Although Halesowen has changed considerably over the last few years, the Parish Church of St. John the Baptist stands sentinel, with just a few old buildings left in close proximity to the new shopping centre. From the tower can still be seen the surrounding countryside of Frankley Beeches and Clent Hills in the distance.

SHINCLIFFE BELLS DEDICATED

RINGERS from Durham, Northumberland and Yorkshire, and visitors from as far afield as Birmingham were part of a large congregation at the dedication of the new ring of six bells at Shincliffe Parish Church, Co. Durham, on December 20. This was the first new ring to be dedicated in the county for 20 years. The service was conducted by the Rector of Shincliffe (Canon W. A. Lathaen), assisted by the Rector of Chester-le-Street (Rev. A. Spurr) and Rev. J. W. Rogerson, Lecturer in Theology at Durham University. The bells were dedicated by the Dean of Durham (Dr. J. H. S. Wild), who also gave the address. During the service, immediately after they had been dedicated, the bells were rung by members of the local team, and at the close a team from the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association rang a 720.

It was a great occasion for the committee, who had worked for the past four-and-ahalf years to replace the original three bells of the parish. The latter were cast in 1852 by J. Murphy, of Dublin, apparently not specifically for Shincliffe, since the words "St. Mary's Shincliff" (sic) were incised on the waist of the bells. The second of the three also bore the words "bought with penny subscription," and this may explain the tuning of the bells to G, F sharp and E flat—an unmusical combination to say the least. Probably the parish had two bells in the first instance, the first and third, and when the second was bought it had to be bought "off the peg" and there was no money to have it tuned to agree with the other two. The three old bells were given in part exchange for the new ring, together with a bell from the former mission church in the parish of Chester-le-Street. The new ring in the key of D with a tenor of $4\frac{1}{2}$ cwt. was cast at the Whitechapel Foundry. The frame was constructed by H. Marsh and Son, of Sunderland, and much work was done by local craftsmen and helpers, including present and former stonemasons and carpenters from Durham Cathedral.

The inscriptions on the new bells tell something of the history of the appeal for the ring. The fifth records a donation from the Sir John Priestman Charity Trust and the third a donation given as a tribute to the work of the tower captain, Mr. T. Jopling. The treble states that it was the gift of the ringers, who raised money for it by the collection and sale of waste paper. The second mentions the efforts of the parishioners and friends who organised and supported money-raising events.

At tea after the service the bell fund treasurer, Mr. F. Stone, paid tribute to the work and inspiration of Tom Jopling, without whose determination there would be no new bells. He also reminded those present that £450 was still needed to repay the interest-free loan that had enabled the committee to place the order.

The dedication was combined with a general meeting of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, and the bells were available for ringing for the whole afternoon. The secretary of the Association, Mr. Denis Bayles, gave a talk on bellringing, which he illustrated, among other things, with a film of the Expo Belfry, taken at Saltburn. In the evening members of the parish joined members of the Association for a Christmas party.

A CHRISTMAS BROADCAST

Recordings of Christchurch Priory bells ringing Cinques, Caters and Triples were made at the end of last year with a view to using them during Christmas services.

using them during Christmas services.

The broadcast of these services duly took place on December 20 and 27 and was heard in England. The recordings were used as a quiet background to the readings during the service and finally were brought into full volume, ringing Grandsire Caters to conclude the service. A tape-recording of the whole service has been presented to the Priory tower by the promoters of the broadcast.

RING OF 12

We learn that St. Stephen's, Bristol, will have a ring of 12 this year. Recasting the three trebles, plus two new trebles, retuning and rehanging in a new frame lower in the tower, will be carried out by the Loughborough Bell Foundry. At Redcliffe a new bell will be added to make a light ten.

THE "FAIR SEX" IN FORCE

The first meeting of the year for the Wigan Branch of the Lancashire Association was held at Rainford, when the pleasant ring of eight was put to good use during the afternoon and evening. About 25 people enjoyed tea provided by the local ringers, and a short business meeting was held. One new junior lady member was elected and the number of young members of the "fair sex" present was particularly commented upon.

commented upon.

Next meeting, St. John's, Coppull (6), February.

"STIFF-GOING EIGHT"

The Eastern District of Herts County Association held their December meeting at Ware. Some good ringing was enjoyed on the rather "stiff-going" eight until 7.30 p.m. The attendance during the meeting was very good and it was announced that the district's annual meeting would be held at the two Hertford towers in January.

B. J. W. F.

This photo, salvaged from the fire, was taken some 17 years ago and depicts the Archdeacon with his ringers.

SIXTY YEARS IN THE MINISTRY

Now 83 years old, the Ven. T. Dilworth-Harrison, formerly Archdeacon of Chester-field, recently celebrated 60 years in the Ministry. He was appointed archdeacon in 1934 and held the appointment until 1963, when he moved to Halam as priest-in-charge of Edingley and Halam. It was entirely due to his efforts that the ring of ten in Chesterfield Parish Church was recast and rehung in 1945, after 25 years of silence, and before the disastrous fire destroyed the ringing room, the clock room and the world-famous Schnetzler organ below. The archdeacon, although due to retire, remained in office until restoration work was completed.

During his years of ministry at Chesterfield he carried through a number of major works, including the central sanctuary, the great east window, the rebuilding of the organ, the cleaning of the whole interior of the nave and, of course, the ten bells in the famous crooked spire. These works, particularly the bells, will remain a lasting attribute to many years of loving and faithful service to the church in Chesterfield.

Unfortunately, all the names of the ringers in the picture are not available. Mr. S. Scattergood, stands at the back,

"The Church Bells of Wiltshire"

TO the writer the initials H. B. W. are to the campanologist as such names as Annable, Snowdon, Middleton and other great ringers may be to the composer of today. They stand rather like a bridge between the purely antiquarian researches of Victorian campanologists, who neglected altogether the circumstances of the bells with which they dealt excepting for their origins, and the newer county histories, in the main produced by R. W. M. Clouston and Frederick Sharpe, which pay detailed attention to the bells, their origins, and how they in their particular arrangements contribute to the evolution of summoning by bells as we know it today.

H. B. Walters was not a practical ringer; was, however, an historian of the first order, whose many works are often hard to the Kingsmead Bookshop, under the directorship of Mr. B. W. Frost, has the core done the Exercise a great service in producing this reprint of what is possibly the greatest county bell history. For the first time in many years younger ringers the opportunity of placing readily upon the shelves a campanological masterpiece.

pp. 350, 196 line drawings with two complete folding plates. H. B. Walters, M.A., F.S.A. Kingsmead, 1969; limited edition of 500 copies of 1929 book. Cloth 8vo and Jacket, 50s. Reviewer: D. L. Cawley, F.S.A. Scot. It is not proper for the writer to sum up the statistics of bells surveyed, and here he would say that this is a survey of 40 years ago, and naturally they have undergone very great changes since that time. What then is the value of the reprint?

First, the writer would mention the masterly chronological account of the Wiltshire bells and their founders which occupy the last hundred pages of the book. We who have particular interest in certain localities, or in particular features of bell, fitting or frame design, are thereby reminded that for an authoritative appraisal in any work our outlook must be far more comprehensive. If our local knowledge is so restricted that we seek for a foundation on which to build, then we could do far worse than to start with H. B. W.'s Wiltshire, for it has stood with remarkably little alteration the test of time for 40 years. Here we find the great Henry Jordan or the mid-15th century cut down to size, and a reappraisal of all 15th century bells which Dr. Tyssen had set out in Sussex II some 15 years beforehand, a discussion which we are still continuing.

Second, we have in profusion a variety of lettering used by West Country founders drawn out in such a degree that it provides an invaluable guide to those who, ascending some hitherto unexplored tower, may be well out of their own territory, by the taking of casts or rubbings, till now unfamiliar to them, inasmuch as they can now by the comparative method identify unnamed bells and trace their history. The 196 figures are all beautifully produced, and afforded the writer special pleasure because of the meticulous accuracy of their detail.

Third, it provides a record of many bells which no longer exist. Recasting sometimes leaves but imperfect record of what was there before, and many times H. B. W. has to comment adversely on the "reproduction of old inscriptions." Since his book appeared there have been more changes. This takes us back—back before there was a battle school area devastating Salisbury Plain and the lovely little church of Imber still had its five bells; back to the heavy old six of Edington. And beyond this, to the glorious Cathedral of Salisbury, whose people will, like those of Ely, Norwich and Coventry, never again hear bells ringing grandly in the Close.

Fourth, this is in one sense a relic of an age past; its very format conjures up pictures of the "bridge" — of Tyssen, Raven, North, Stahlschmidt, shadowy figures of an age which saw the dawn of scientific campanistic enquiry, and of the age which numbered among its children H. B. Walters. Did he ever know them? I wonder. Whether he did or didn't is of no matter, because he is the link par excellence and this book is the embodiment of the link and is one which we cannot let snap.

Reminiscent of a gracious age and of a very great man, this book is intrinsically a lovely production. It deserves a full sale of its limited edition of 500 copies and urges us to be as worthy in our ringing, as it is in its describing our glorious heritage of hells

Obituary

MR. C. H. HAYLINGS

By the death of Charles Harvey Haylings on December 22 the parish of Ripple and the Western Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association have lost a great personality.

Charlie was born in Ripple 61 years ago and lived there all his life. He worked as a gardener at Ripple Hall until his retirement due to ill-health four years ago. His father died when Charlie was 16 years of age and on his death he took on the duties of parish clerk and sexton, which had been carried out by his father and grandfather before him. The year 1962 saw the completion of 100 years of service in this office by the Haylings family, an event which was marked by a special service attended by the bishop.

Also, like his father and grandfather, Charlie became a ringer and for many years was the enthusiastic captain of the Ripple band. His main objective was to maintain a Sunday service band, and in the course of his life taught many village youngsters to handle a bell. He rang his first peal in 1930 and his first as conductor in 1932. His peal total for the Worcestershire Association was 42, of which he conducted 17. The writer is proud to have learned some of his early ringing under Charlie's enthusiastic guidance, and it was Charlie who called his first peal in 1947.

Charlie was completely involved in the life of the parish and most things seemed to revolve around him. For the church he was parish clerk, sexton, tower captain and steeplekeeper, clockwinder, boilerman, et al. For the village he was captain of the cricket team and organiser of many functions; his enthusiasm was unbounded. And then came the first heart attack four years ago, which forced him to give up all of this. This seemed a cruel blow to one who had done so much for his church and village and might cause bitterness in anyone; but not Charlie! Though he could no longer ring or do many of the other things which were his life, the overriding cheerfulness of his personality never failed him and he maintained an active interest until the end. The packed church at his funeral was evidence enough of the esteem in which he was held.

SIMON WILLIAM KINSEY

At the age of 91 years Simon William Kinsey, known to all as "Bill," died at his home in Wallace Road, Ipswich, over two miles from St. Margaret's Church where he used to walk twice each Sunday.

Starting his ringing career at Old Newton in 1897 while living at Mendlesham, he moved to Ipswich White House Farm as horseman. This is now built on and known White House as White House Estate. He became a member of St. Mary-le-Tower Society in 1914 and from there was asked to help train a band at St. Margaret's, and this became his Ringing at the churches in and around Ipswich and in most of Suffolk, his peals totalled 34, many at St. Margaret's and some of Maximus at St. Mary-le-Tower. Bill's peal book is very interesting, re-cording other things, such as: "1921. Very dry summer; finish cut wheat July, cut barley 1st August, finished harvest 10th August."

He was sad when he had to give up ringing in 1950 because of ill-health.

CYRIL HIBBERT-AN APPRECIATION

Many ringers and churchfolk, young and old alike, will have read with regret of the passing of Cyril Hibbert, of East Ilsley, in Berkshire.

Those of us who knew him well will miss the friendly greeting and welcome we received whenever we were privileged to be his guest, either in his parish church for ringing and worship or in his wonderful little Berkshire home.

So serious in important matters, Cyril's almost impish sense of humour was a joy, as it frequently showed itself. His loyalty as sidesman and ringer was a shining example and his departure leaves a gap most difficult to fill. To Marney, his devoted wife, to Trisha and John and other members of his family, we can say: "Just as we shared your happy times, so we wish to share any sorrow. We shall be thankful for his life and work and the honour of being known as his friends."

His epitaph might well read:-

'They shall be mine, saith the Lord of Hosts,

In that day when I make up my Jewels." W. H. C.

A DEVOUT CHRISTIAN

The funeral of Mr. David George Velvick took place at Brookland, Romney Marsh, Kent, on January 1st. Mr. Velvick, who was 78, had been a ringer for 60 years and captain of the campanile tower for a long period. A churchwarden for some 40 years, he was a devout and faithful Christian. He welcomed the many visitors—particularly touring bellringers—with great courtesy, and many will remember him with thanksgiving, as do his fellow parish-ioners in Romney Marsh. May he rest in

MR. ALBERT YOUDE

Nailsea ringers have lost an old friend by the death of Mr. Albert Youde, and to his memory they rang a quarter peal on December 23. Albert rang his first quarter on August 6, 1968, and his last on May 13,

OVER 50 YEARS' SERVICE

The "Market Drayton Advertiser" recently printed a report with a picture of a presentation to Mr. A. M. Hickman, It stated:

"For over half a century Mr. Alan M. Hickman, of The Burgage, Market Drayton, has rung the bells in St. Mary's Church tower. He started 51 years ago but it was not until November, 1919, that he rang his first peal.

"To mark the 'golden jubilee' of that occasion the St. Mary's ringers rang a quarter peal of Plain Bob, which was the first peal that Mr. Hickman rang those 50 years ago. On that occasion he rang the treble bell and what was more appropriate than that he should ring the same bell last Saturday when he was one of the team.

"Twice every Sunday does he go to the tower to summon the parishioners to worship, and on practice night a presentation was made to Mr. Hickman to mark his long service of loyalty to his church. His colleagues of the belfry had subscribed to purchase a record cabinet and this was presented to Mr. Hickman in church by the Vicar (Rev. Grenville Morgan), who thanked him for his long and loyal service.

STOOLBALL IN 1970!

The East Grinstead and District Guild met at Cuckfield on December 13th. After afternoon ringing and service, tea was taken in the White Hart nearby, and at the meeting 35 members were present. Two new members were elected and Mr. E. Ladd informed members that dinner tickets were on sale. It was proposed to try for Maresfield for the meeting in February, with Fletching as an alternative. Members stood in memory of Mr. T. E. Sone, who had died. Two items of correspondence were received, one from Mr. C. A. Bassett thanking the Guild for the grant towards Wadhurst's ropes, and from Mr. A. Relfe acknowledging the Guild's greeting to him on his 80th birthday.

Jean Osbon (secretary, Northern Division, Sussex Association) invited the Guild to a stoolball match and carol service in 1970 and it was decided to accept the invitation. Thanks were expressed to Mr. R. V. Johnson for making the local arrangements, and ringing continued until 8.30 p.m.

R. J. E.

DISAPPOINTMENT AVERTED

It has become in recent years a tradition to attempt a peal at St. Ebbe's, Oxford, in honour of the birthday of Mr. Charles Coles, who is in charge of the tower, in which he has been a ringer for over 50 years. On December 22nd a band turned up to celebrate Charlie's 75th birthday, but owing to difficulties of communication they found themselves short of their conductor, Mr. Alan Pink, who had been struck down with 'flu, or of a replacement for him. As The Oxford Mail sent along a reporter and a photographer, the band felt that something should be done to try to over-come Charlie's disappointment. Consequently a splendidly-struck quarter of Minor was substituted for the peal, conducted by the youngest member, Mr. David Brown.

NEW YEAR'S EVE IN LIMERICK

Despite the cold easterly wind and the bite of the freezing night air, hundreds of young people and late night revellers gathered in Nicholas Street, Limerick, beside St. Mary's Cathedral, to welcome 1970 in traditional manner. There was singing and dancing to the accompaniment of city bands, while overhead the 300-year-old ring of bells pealed out from the floodlit Norman tower, bidding farewell to the old year and a joyous welcome to the new.

Covering on the 24 cwt. tenor was Mr. Alec Brislane, who has been ringing with the Cathedral band for 57 years, while the youngest ringer had just celebrated his 12th birthday.

A familiar figure missing this year was the Very Rev. M. J. Talbot, Dean of Limerick and president of the Irish Association, who was in hospital. All will remember the friendly welcome which the Dean extends to ringers and trust that soon he will be restored to full health. G. H. E.

LONGPARISH RINGERS' VISIT

Once again the Saturday before Christmas was chosen for Hampshire ringers to visit London to see the lights and with a theatre show as an added attraction.

Ringing en route was on the ten at Feltham, the two sixes at East Bedfont and Stanwell, and later St. Margaret's, West-minster, where John Euston had made the arrangements and which made our outing so enjoyable. Home was reached at 1.30 G.D. a.m.

BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY DINNER

Those who gathered in High Hall bar for an opening pint the night before the Bir-mingham University annual dinner on December 6 found that little had changed from last year. The snow was here again, the beer was much the same and the same people were propping up the bar.

Fortunately the snow had disappeared by the morning and the sun renewed the vigour and enthusiasm of those who had spent a less comfortable night sleeping on the floor. Perhaps its power was too great, since at Edgbaston Richard Parker finally managed to break a very thin-looking splice on the tail end of the tenor. However, not to be daunted, Mike Jefferyes gaily took over the chiming apparatus and managed to chime the tenor to rounds.

After a brief call at the light eight at Shirley we arrived at the newly-augmented 12 at Solihull. Here, much to the ringing master's surprise and relief, we were successful in Little Bob Maximus and Grandsire Cinques.

The afternoon's ringing commenced on the eight at Selly Oak and continued at Northfield. At these towers the faults of the morning's ringing were forgotten and some good Major was rung. Ringing con-cluded on the fine ten at King's Norton.

Forty-seven members and guests sat down to dinner in the Students' Union in the evening, a large and most welcome proportion of them being graduates. After an excellent meal the speeches were gratifyingly short. The guest speaker was Mr. E. A. Barnett, chairman of the Kent County Association and a life member of the Central Council. It was perhaps inevitable that he should make reference to Chris Rowson's recent exploits, since Chris was once an undergraduate at Birmingham and was indeed present at the dinner. His suggestion that the new Editor, on taking up his ap-pointment, had asked Chris to "make a pointment, had asked Chris to "make a row, son," with the sole purpose of enlivening the pages of The Ringing World, was refreshingly novel!

As usual, the company split up after dinher to head for various havens well stocked into the night. All in all a very successful ay. Many thanks, and see you all next S. G.

A REVIVAL AT POOLE

We learn with pleasure of a revival of chvity at the Parish Church of St. James. Poole, Dorset.

The old town of Poole is rapidly disappearing, and in its place an almost completely new town centre is rising from the bare wastes. The effect on the parish life of St. James' has been disastrous. This, undoubtedly, makes the task of building a new team of ringers a formidable proposition but has in no way daunted the enthusiasm of the new tower captain, Mr. Fred Price, of Southbourne, Bournemouth, who is convinced that in the new community there is sure to be a revival of interest in the work of the parish, and the bells will be rung every Sunday for Matins and Evensong as soon as a band can be trained.

The advice of Mr. F. E. Collins (area representative on the Central Council Towers and Belfries Committee) was enlisted with regard to mitigating noise nuisance and the rector at once gave permission for the louvres to be boarded and felted This has now been completed with good effect and further improvements are contempted, including the "go" of the F.P.

ST. ALBANS DISTRICT ACTIVITIES

The November meeting of the St. Albans District of the Herts County Association was held at Barnet. The afternoon ringing was devoted to learners, in particular learner conductors, and many had the chance to call their first touch. The service was conducted by the new Vicar of Barnet, and tea, prepared by the Barnet ringers, followed.

At the business meeting, chaired by the Vicar, the secretary asked for volunteers to help at assisted practices held at Sandridge after Christmas, and also gave details of the memorial to Canon Harpur, Vicar of St. Michael's, St. Albans. Those wishing to contribute to this memorial, to be erected in St. Michael's Church, should hand or send their donation to Mr. Bob Hardy.

DISTRICT DINNER

The St. Albans District dinner on December 6th in the Peahen Hotel, St. Albans, was a great success. Eighty-five attended, a large proportion of these being district members. The turkey meal was much enjoyed, as were the speeches which followed. The toast of "The Church" was ably proposed by Mr. Kenneth Darvill, ringing master of St. Peter's, St. Albans, the reply being given by Canon Pasterfield, sub-Dean of St. Albans Cathedral. The following speeches came from opposing camps, Anthony Kench, Master of the College Youths, proposing the toast of "The Association and District", and the president, Mr. Walter Ayre (a Cumberland), replying. During an interval at this point a set was played on the bagpipes by Rev. Andrew Talbot-Ponsonby. This was followed by the toast of "The Visitors", proposed by Gerald Penney, ringing master of St. Albans Cathedral, to which Mr. Stuart Armeson, of Rotherham, replied. Andrew Wilby, dis-trict ringing master, acted as toastmaster.

The evening's entertainments were compered by Stephen Darvill and included three leads of Kent Sixteen and a touch of Spliced Surprise Maximus on handbells, well rung by John Mayne and his band. Martyn Jordan kept everyone amused with a succession of marvellous jokes and the winning raffle tickets were drawn by Kath Moody. Tony Carter also contributed a number of good jokes.

Thanks to Bob Hardy, the district committee, the handbell ringers, Martyn Jordan, Rev. Talbot-Ponsonby, the speakers and all others who helped with the evening's suc-K. S. H.

CHRISTMAS PEALS TOUR

For the last few years Barrie Hendry has arranged peals in Northants and neighbouring counties, under the auspices of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. This Christmas a start was made on December 29 at Leighton Buzzard, Beds, where we were met by Alan Frost, who was unable to ring because of a car accident. The attempt for Lincolnshire Royal was set up after half way as the ringing was not considered good enough, and the same thing happened at Linslade with Pudsey Major. A visit was then made to Great Brickhill, Bucks, where there has been no ringing for two years. The six (tenor 14 cwt.) went reasonably well, and Sir F. P. Duncombe, the local squire, whose family has been in the village for over 400 years, arranged for his son, Major F. Duncombe, who is a churchwarden, to make a tape-recording. A course of Cambridge Minor and a course of Bob Major on handbells rung in the chancel supplied the recording.

On December 30, 12 ringers were available, so Frank Crosier, the energetic ringing master of the Thrapston Branch, got permission for four peal attempts. Islip was unsuccessful owing to a weak tenor rope, which also came untucked, so the bells were brought round after 2½ 720s. However, three good peals of Minor were rung -Seven Surprise Minor at Great Addington, seven methods at Ringstead and 28 methods of Treble Bob Minor at Lowick, where the band was met by Mr. Halifax, local captain, who informed us that the tenor had been cast 350 years before by Watt, of Leicester (1619). We met Frank Crosier at his home tower of Great Adding-

A fall of snow during the night did not prevent a punctual meeting at 9.30 a.m. on December 31 at Newton Longville, Bucks. On the long draught ring of eight Graham Paul ably called a one-part peal of London.

Mr. F. Mayne met us in the afternoon at the fine, complete Norman church of Stewkley, Bucks, which will be demolished if plans for the third London Airport materialise at Wing.

Barrie Hendry called a one-part peal of Cambridge in the steady time of 3 hours 6 minutes, and a good finish, after a bad start, brought another enjoyable "mini" tour to a close, with thanks to incumbents and captains who gave permission and to Barrie for his careful arrangements. A. P. C

Letters

VIRTUE OR VICE

Dear Sir,-One cannot help but feel sorry for Mr. Marsh. From his letter one gains the impression that he does not enjoy peal ringing, that he probably has not accumulated a variety of past successes and failures to look back on and that he therefore has little to talk about if he meets a group of peal ringers in a pub. What a great deal he is missing!

It is strange that he feels so strongly about the "fiddling" of peals when he considers peal ringing to be a trivial activity. Certainly the participants in such affairs are hardly likely to be worried by his criticism.

If ringing is to survive in our modern society, in which a great number of leisure activities are open to all of us, it will do so because it is able to compete as a stimulating and fulfilling pursuit, and not because of any religious significance. Good ringing is enjoyable and rewarding: a good peal has the added bonus of being a kind of trophy—something one can "collect", and man has a collecting instinct.

I would summarise the characteristics of a worthwhile leisure activity in this way: it must be enjoyable to engage in; it must be competitive; one must have something positive to show for it, e.g., a record of peals rung. Do away with peal ringing or even lessen the importance given to peal records and the Exercise will die. It seems to me that quite a few ringers suffer from two failings. Firstly, they accord the status of a virtue to what may be an inconvenient and not very enjoyable duty, and secondly they condemn as a vice something which others enjoy but which the critics do not have the inclination to indulge in themselves. The "virtue" and "vice" in question are, of course, Sunday service ringing and peal ringing (or tower grabbing) respectively.

To condemn peal ringing as a vice is short-sighted and could lead to the demise of the art of campanology. — Yours faithfully,

P. J. WYCHERLEY.

RECORD LENGTH REPORT

Dear Sir,-Some three months ago a note appeared in Belfry Gossip saying that a new record length of Superlative Surprise Major had been rung at the Bell Foundry. Loughborough, on September 13. The peal has yet to be published in The Ringing World and I understand that it is being withheld from publication by the Records Committee. I was not a member of the band, but I believe they and the general ringing public deserve a reasonable explanation for what I understand to be an action without precedent.—Yours faithfully

ROBERT B. SMITH.

"A TASTE OF ---?"

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Cribley (page 1007), it strikes me that preferring Cinques to Maximus may well be akin to preferring lemonade to beer-very sweet, but Surely, to twist a well-known saying, in-telligibility is in the ear of the listener.— Yours faithfully,

D. E. HOUSE.

PEALS-AND RINGERS

Dear Sir.—At last someone has had the courage to speak out against the excessive peal ringing emphasis, both in "The Ringing World" and the Exercise in general. Mr. Edward Marsh's letter, however, fails to mention one vitally important aspect of the use of bells, namely the enormous expense of hanging them in the towers at all. In a world of starvation and social want of every kind the church is hardly justified in spending huge sums on keeping bells in towers for the amusement of peal ringers.

I should like to make it clear that I am not against all peal ringing - indeed, my family hope to accomplish one some time this year-but peal ringers, in my view, fall into two categories: those who ring a peal now and again for some special reason (the majority) and those who, to my mind, selfishly collect large numbers of peals, going from tower to tower for their own amusement. These latter are of little real service to the Exercise. They do little for the church in the majority of cases and seem to forget that without the church, bells and campanology would never have existed, let alone remained in being. A glance at the "R.W." will show that large numbers of peals are rung by quite small numbers of peal ringers. At my own tower we would be flooded by peal requests if we permitted them. We have to find £1,500 to rehang the

I would like to suggest four rules which ought to be fulfilled before a peal attempt is made.

- 1. It should contain at least one, and preferably more, "firsts".
- It should, alternatively or in addition. mark a special occasion, preferably of the Christian Church (not thought up afterwards).
- 3. Each ringer should pay something like 2/6 a rope before the attempt (money refunded if you don't go an hour) to the church which owns the bells.
- 4. Each ringer should pay 2/- for the privilege of publishing the peal in "The Ringing World". (It is most noticeable how the quarter pealers always send in far more than the pealers.)

This last suggestion would go a long way towards helping the financial problems of our journal.-Yours faithfully, ERIC J. TAYLOR. Cheltenham.

Note.—Our post today: 29 quarter peals, 22 contributions; 42 peals, NIL.—Ed.

OLD PRINTS

Dear Sir, I have recently acquired some antiquarian prints of the exteriors of London churches, but have been unable to find out any details of the past and/or present bells in some of the towers. I was wondering if any of your readers could supply me with any information in regards to the following towers: St. Clement, St. Clement's Lane: St. Bene't Fink, Threadneedle Street; St. Peter le Poor. Broad Street; St. James, Piccadilly: All Hallows, Bread Street; St. James. Garlick Hill; St. Mildred, Bread Street: St. Stephen, Walbrook; St. Mary, Aldermary; St. Margaret Pattens, Rood

Perhaps anyone who could help would contact me.-Yours faithfully,

JIM HEDGCOCK.

AN APOLOGY

Dear Sir,-I should like to offer my apologies to the Chester Guild handbell band and Mr. Gerald Moorhouse in particular for my recent unkind remarks.

They were intended as a humorous sequel to an earlier controversy, but having re-read my letter I confess that it does not appear to be funny at all.

I am sorry to have been the cause of unpleasantness.—Yours faithfully,

JONATHAN PORTER.

COMMENT INVITED

Dear Sir,—I read with interest the report of the Consistory Court hearing on Stinchcombe bells and the appeal for donations by the Gloucester and Bristol Association which appeared in the subsequent Ringing World. I would like to make the following observations and would be interested to have comments from the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

(1) Mr. Sharpe speaks of "gross neglect" being the cause of the present need for rehanging. Why did the G. and B. do nothing to assist the local band when ringing was dying in the parish? This may well have prevented the present situation from arising.

(2) Both Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Scudamore give the impression that there would be no difficulty in obtaining a local band to ring the new bells. If this is so then perhaps Mr. Scudamore can say why, when I was in the area recently, there was no local ringing for evensong at either Frampton on Severn or Wheatenhurst, all neighbouring parishes to Stinchcombe. Nor did there appear to be any ringing at North Nibley. Rev. W. A. Goater's other parish.

In view of these circumstances I cannot bring myself to believe that a flourishing band will spring up at Stinchcombe if the bells are rehung for ringing. I feel that Mr. Scudamore and the Gloucester and Bristol Association could more fruitfully employ themselves by reviving ringing at towers having bells which are still ringable rather than by trying to "close the stable door after the horse has bolted" at Stinchcombe. -Yours faithfully,

ROBIN J. COLLIS.

Twickenham, Middx.

PEAL CONGRATULATIONS

D. C. Jackson, of Totton, Hants, writes congratulations to Brian Mills and his band who rang the peal of Minor with 210 methods (R.W., page 993). He adds:—

"To the average ringer, who finds keeping a steady path in Cambridge or Kent very taxing, this achievement at Holme Pierrepont is not just admirable, it is outstanding. It is also an event in the history of campanology which should surely rank alongside the extent of Major at Lough-borough and the achievements of Anthony Peake's Surprise Major band.

THE CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

"A good article marred by a petulant remark," writes Mr. N. F. Moxon, of Cawthorne, Yorks, regarding the leader contributed by Rev. M. Freeman. The observation was 'school Nativity plays with shepherds dressed in bath towels and angels with cardboard wings, etc.

"We all realise that this presentation of the Nativity is not all that Christianity stands for, but it is part of the Christmas scene and for many young children it may be the beginning of Christian teaching."

MAKING A GRAMOPHONE RECORD OF SELECTED EXAMPLES OF GOOD STRIKING

THIS apparently simple task has proved to be a difficult and substantial one. Planning and drawing up a list of suitable examples for the tutor and inexperienced ringer, drafting comments and explanations was relatively simple. About eight examples were chosen. The booking of an appropriate band, including reserves, did not prove easy and Sunday afternoons proved to be the time most suitable for the ringers.

Obtaining suitable towers was the next consideration. In this connection, availability, weight, musical qualities and acoustics were important. A place away from extraneous noises, for the microphone, power supply, and shelter for the recorder was also necessary, since it is accorded. sideration. since it is essential for such recordings to be made from outside the tower.

The master tape for a gramophone record must be made on first-class electronic equipment, again limiting the producer's choice.

It is remarkable how nervous first-class ringers become for such an occasion and one

However, after the expenditure of much time and petrol, a collection of recordings has been made containing enough suitable material. Selecting the best from this mass of material has been a time-consuming job and the making of the master tape for the firm producing the record will also take much time and skill.

In due course this useful record will become available to the Exercise.

PERTH CATHEDRAL—A SILENT TOWER?

There are dismal prospects about ringing Perth Cathedral, W.A. According to "Ringing Towers", the engineering department at the University of Western Australia recently carried out further testing on the effect of the bells on the Cathedral building. These have shown an 80 per cent. increase in the movement of the tower, for which last year's earthquake can, no doubt, be held responsible. As a result it has been decided to limit ringing to the front five bells and to cease ringing completely at the end of the year. There is every possibility that the bells will then be removed from the tower. Dismal though this sounds (writes Jim Carter, the tower secretary) all is not yet lost.

The second major setback to Perth ringing is the departure of Tony and Heather Mann to England. Unfortunately this will not just be for a holiday. Tony, who was captain at St. George's Cathedral, has been the key figure in the improvement made in Perth ringing in recent years.

RINGER'S UNUSUAL OCCUPATION

RINGER'S UNUSUAL OCCUPATION
Probably most trades and professions are to be found in the ranks of bellringers. One who has an unusual occupation is Cyril Cook, of Bonvilston, Cardiff, who is a thatcher and rings at Rhoose, Glam. Cyril learned his craft and also to ring in Oxfordshire. In 1955, at the request of the Rural Industries, he went to South Wales.

Cyril has written an interesting story about his work for "The Channel," the magazine

Cement Company. He is pictured using wheat

He is pictured using wheat reed, sometimes called Devon reed, being wheat straw which has been through a reed comber, and not an ordinary threshing machine; a thatch of this should last for 30 years. And what of the future? Cyril is looking forward to the day when a supply of plastic reed will be available. "We should then," he writes, "have an olde worlde effect with modern material and a roof which would last for many more years than those we see at present.'

SKITTLES MATCH

On December 16th two teams, representing St. John's, Cardiff, and Llandaff Cathedral, met at the Rose and Crown, Kingsway, as a result of a challenge from Stephen Fenwick, representing Llandaff, to a skittles match. St. John's won with the total score at 346-300, but Llandaff salvaged some honour possessing the top scorer, Mike Lakin (31 from six throws). The bell-ringers' traditional thirst was well satisfied by the bar which was provided. Everybody thoroughly enjoyed the evening and more especially as Peter Bennett arrived after becoming the proud father of a baby daughter that morning, and also when it was announced at the end of the match that it was Jack Pryor's birthday. The strains of "Happy birthday to Jack" rocked the alley.

After the successful evening it is hoped to make this an annual event.

WORK DONE

The firm of John Taylor and Co. (Loughborough) gives us the following information about major works carried out during the past year:-

Baston, Lincs.—New treble supplied and the remainder of the bells rehung on ball

Bishop's Waltham, Hants.—The bells rehung with largely new fittings in the old frame

Bungay, Suffolk.--The whole ring tuned and hung with entirely new fittings in a new frame fixed to a concrete foundation.

Chinnor, Oxon.—The two treble bells recast and hung together with the four remaining bells with entirely new fittings in a new frame.

Droxford, Hants.—A new treble to make a ring of five.

Harpenden, Herts.—The bells rehung with new fittings in the old frame.

Kingsbury, Warks.—The ring of six bells recast with additional metal into a ring of eight bells and hung in an entirely new framework with new fittings.

Kirton Lindsey, Lincs. — The ring tuned and rehung with entirely new fittings in a new frame.

Little Budworth, Cheshire. - The ring tuned and rehung with entirely new fittings in a new frame.

Llandyssul, Cards. — The ring of bells tuned, with the addition of a treble to make five, and the whole ring rehung with entirely new fittings in a new frame.

Papanui, New Zealand.—A new treble to make a ring of six.

Ringmer, Sussex. - The bells tuned and rehung with new fittings in the old frame.

Ruddington, Notts.—The whole ring recast and hung in one level with new fittings in a new frame lower in the tower. The ancient bell of the former ring cast by John de Stafford in the 14th century has been retained as a priest's bell, above the present bells. As you know, we claim some historical association with John de Stafford.

Stourbridge, Worcs. — Two treble bells added to complete the ring of ten bells and the whole ring rehung in a new frame lower in the tower

Whitnash, Warks.—The old bells retuned, two trebles added to complete the octave, and all rehung with entirely new fittings in a new two-tier frame.

BELL STUDY IN SCHOOL

It is interesting to hear of a study about bells, bellringers and of the history and art of bellringing being carried out by a class of schoolchildren. Such a venture was carried out recently by the children of Chacombe, near Banbury. Their interest was aroused when it was realised that the village of Chacombe had once been the home of the Bagley family, famous as bellfounders. They undertook considerable research into the family history, especially into the life of Henery Bagley, whose tombstone is to be found in the churchyard at Chacombe. The climax of their work was a visit to the foundry of John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

Belfry Gossip

The Jubilee Issue of the R.W. (1961) is now out of print and we regret we cannot supply any further copies.

The Excellent Article about Hillingdon and its church, featured in our issue of December 26 January 2, was written by Mr. Fred Goodfellow, captain of the ringers.

At Castle Cary, Somerset, a quarter of Grandsire Doubles was a special birthday compliment to H. F. Creed.

Due for closure, the Bishop of Bristol decided to keep the Church of SS. Philip and Jacob open for at least another ten years, and as a thanksgiving there was a quarter of Bristol S. Major.

Twenty-five years a ringer, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles was rung at St. Mary's Church, Durban, S. Africa, for Mr. T. J. Maeder

Four-in-Hand, Tim Jones, of Aldbourne, Wilts, rang 1,272 Minimus in eight methods on December 29.

Senior Ringers honoured this week in our peal columns are: W. J. Sealey (80), Albert Relfe (80), George F. Tizzard (84), William G. Buchanan (70) and R. J. Johns (77).

At St. John's Church, West Wickham, Kent, on St. John's Day, a peal of Bob Minor by six ringers; Christian names— John, of course.

Meeting one short for Royal at Worsley on January 1, the band are grateful to William Dowse for standing down when Cambridge Major was rung.

Mr. John Faithfull, sen., recently fell and fractured a leg whilst on a short stay at Poole. Dorset. All his ringing friends will wish him a complete recovery.

A Christmas peal was rung at St. Clement Danes' on Boxing Day and as a compliment to Frank Lufkin, whose birthday is on December 25.

Because Horsell, Woking. bells have been silent for six months, the vicar has asked Mr. Ernest Warner to train a new band here, and any help on Tuesday evenings at 7 30 would be welcome.

When Ralph D. E. Pobjoy was baptised Barnwood his father rang the 4th (although without a stay) for a quarter and godparents also rang.

Fifty peals on the bells of Blewbury, Berks: Mr. Bob Blond has conducted 45 of them. He is an excellent conductor but has no aspirations to break records. He has yet to complete the circle at Blewbury!

At the request of the Rector of Long Stratton, Norfolk, a peal of Minor was rung on December 24, and it was the 15th consecutive Christmas Eve peal.

Canon E. W. Blyth, who died on December 22, had been rector of Yaxham for ten years and was a vice-president of the Norwich Diocesan Association.

Canon W. E. C. Thomas, of St. John, Cardiff, had the pleasure on Boxing Day of hearing his son, Paul, aged 14, ring the second to his first peal of Grandsire Caters. Paul is the youngest ringer to score a peal on the bells.

All the ringers in the peal of Grandsire Triples at Pembroke on New Year's Day were members of the local band, with the exception of the conductor. It was the first of Grandsire Triples in the county for nearly 40 years.

Barnwood ringers have done well with handbells this year, raising about £24 in three evenings—£14 0s. 6d. on one night alone. Christian Aid and the Gloucester and Bristol Special Appeal Fund are to benefit.

Members of the Northern District of the Essex Association are doing what they can to see that the bells of Rayne are rung for Sunday service, and it is hoped this may stimulate interest locally. There is a pleasant little ring of six but no ringers.

"What a delightful surprise to hear Birmingham's famous 12 at St. Martin's in the Bull Ring on Christmas morning," writes R. H. Mansell, of Handsworth. "Let's hope we hear more of these 12-bell towers in the future," he concludes.

All Saints' Church, Southbourne, is one of many in Bournemouth designed to have a bell tower and a ring of bells. None except the mother church of St. Peter has been completed in this respect. Christmas bells were heard, however, in All Saints, for members of the Christchurch and Southampton District rang Grandsire Triples on handbells prior to the carol services (morning and evening) on December 28. Carol tunes were also rung on 18 handbells by members of St. James, Pokesdown, Girl Guides.

New Style Peal Forms are now available from R.W. office and will be sent on receipt of stamped addressed envelope (4" × 9")

During Great Adventure II the tourists rang at Papanui, near Christchurch, New Zealand, on a ring of five contained in a wooden tower. One of the tourists, Rev. M. C. C. Melville, also rang in the first peal of Papanui Surprise Major at Cole-Orton, Leicestershire, on December 17, 1969.

The Daily Sketch of December 23 printed an article regarding mini-skirted lady ringers and stated that the Vicar of Hitchin, Herts, had found a poem pinned up in the belfry regarding this subject and had reprinted it in his magazine. (The R.W. has already printed this same poem.—Ed.)

A 60 per cent rise in the annual subscription (from 5s, to 8s.) has been notified to all towers in the Guildford Guild by the general secretary. Only nine members wrote objecting to the increase and 20 was the operative number necessary to prevent the extra 3s. being added.

The Editor is grateful for the response to return copies of December 19 which, in some cases, were duplicated. Any postal subscriber who did not receive their copy of this issue should apply to us at Seven Corners Press.

Mr. C. A. Barron. of Birmingham, although qualified to be listed in the leading peal ringers does not want his name included in "some kind of league championship." His yearly total in future will not be more than 25 he assures us.

Librarian and quarter peal recorder for St. Paul's Cathedral Society, Bendigo, Australia, is Mr. Jeffrey Bills, who succeeds Miss M. Aslett. Jeffrey, who was at St. Mary's, Horsell, Surrey, before leaving for other lands, sends the good wishes of all down under to ringers in Great Britain.

Three "first pealers" at Wentworth on December 13 were aged 48, 49 and 54, and all took up the art after reaching 40! which, as our correspondent writes, "proves that perseverance, a capacity to enjoy ringing and with the tactful handling by more experienced young people, it gives immense satisfaction to say 'At last!—I've rung one!"."

First Peal congratulations to Jeffrey Bills (Australia), Gerald Brown, K. G. Weeks, Miss P. Freeland, Miss B. Bruford, P. D. Powell, Miss P. A. Gouly, David J. Goss, Colin L. Barr, Alan Walton, Miss F. Templeman, J. A. Humphrey, Sylvia Trotter, Jonathan R. B. Speed, Robin C. B. Speed, Margaret C. Jones, M. Ann Castle, Martin R. Clive, Dennis B. Clive, Andrew S. Madeley, G. Peter Butler, Joan Muxlow, Kathryne R. Pearce, Ronda M. Purkess, Graham Buchanan, William G. Buchanan, Wendy Platts, Kenneth Ireson, Thomas Cairns, Rajah R. Naliah, Robert J. Grundy.

THE LATE MR. E. S. BAILEY

As briefly reported last week, the death took place recently of Mr. Ernest S. Bailey, of Leiston. Suffolk. He contracted pneumonia and passed away in St. Audrey's Hospital, Melton. His peals were rung mainly with his brother, James, and he is survived by two other brothers. Leonard and Fred. The latter rang a peal of Maximus non-conducted at St. Martin's. Birmingham, in 1935, and has not done much peal ringing since. The funeral of Ernest Bailey was at Leiston on January 6.

HANDBELL ENTHUSIASTS

TWENTY-FOUR members of Clere Secondary School, Burghclere, are leading a revival of interest in handbell ringing in their rural area on the Hampshire-Berkshire borders.

Since their summer holidays, when they "rescued" a fine set of 36 bells which for many years had lain idle and neglected in their parish church, these young people have shown just what it is possible to achieve by almost daily practice achieve by almost daily practice.

Now the Clere Handbell Ringers are to appear on television in the Thames Television programme "Magpie," and the B.B.C., Southern ITV and a London recording company, "Tulip Records," are all interested in engaging them.

During the pre-Christmas period the ringers toured the parishes of North Hampshire, playing in village squares, pubs and private houses. They also visited local primary schools. The ringers were one of the highlights of the school's Christmas concert, at which they played several of their tunes to an electronic organ backing.

Commenting on the educational value of handbell ringing, the school's musical director, Mr. Graham Page, said: "Quite apart from the pleasure pupils get from ringing the bells and the musical aspect, I feel that ringing is of great help in teaching them the importance of teamwork—of not letting the side down."

Mr. Page would like to see handbell ringing become more popular in English schools, as popular as it is in schools and colleges in Holland and America, although he realises that the cost of both bells and sheet music is much cheaper in those countries.

Now the school is to have its own set of 36 handbells—three octaves in the key of C—at a cost of about £200. The bells have been ordered from the Dutch foundry of Petit and Fritsen, several local residents making generous donations towards the cost of the bells.

SECRETARY WEDS

The secretary of the Chester-le-Street ringers, Mr. Ian V. Wintrip, was married at Chester-le-Street on December 13th in the church where he had been a member of the choir for many years. His bride was Miss Kathleen McDermott, of Perkinsville, who was attended by Mrs. Doreen Smith and also her sister, Miss Elaine McDermott. The ceremony was conducted by the Rector (Rev. A. Spurr) and the best man was Mr. John W. Oates.

The local ringers rang the bells before and after the service, and later six of the locals, with two other friends of Ian, rang a peal of Plain Bob Major to mark the occasion. The conductor, Denis Bayles, recalls that in 1944 he called a peal of Double Norwich when Ian's parents were married in the same church, Ian's mother then being an active member of the local band.

D. A. B.

IN DEVON WITH THE ARCHBISHOP

Notes that the late summer which commenced at Marldon, having an old ring of five about to be augmented.

On a Sunday we left H.Q. at Newton Abbot for a day in Exeter. Among the several bells rung were the Taylor octave of 1897 at Heavitree (and who can deny that the tonal quality of this ring is 100%?) and the impressive Cathedral bells. The first ring next day was on the Taylor eight at Wolborough. These were hung in an "H" frame in 1926. The neighbouring towers of East Ogwell and Denbury have similar rings, both containing Pennington bells of 1633 and Mears of 1907. The tenors are by Hambling, of Blackawton (1828 and 1829), and Aggett, of Chagford, placed both rings in iron frames in 1907. It is claimed, locally, that it is unsafe to go up Torbryan tower, so we were unable to have a look at the mediæval ring of four bells. However, it was observed that the first floor in the tower was of recent construction, so perhaps further work is in hand and the tower may soon be less dan-gerous to ascend. After ringing at Ipplepen we moved on to the rather ordinary Kerswells and the even more ordinary Teignheads, and the melodious Coffinswell bells provided a refreshing interlude between the two groups. We ended the day at West Teignmouth where many were baffled by the surplus rope bosses. There baffled by the surplus rope bosses. There is, it seems, a choice of two rope circles, the poorer one being used for service ringing, which leaves adequate space for the congregation to walk through the ringing room to go into church.

Legend has it that Staverton bells were hung by the local blacksmith. What Mr. Stokes, of Woodbury, who provided the steel frame and ball bearings in 1927, would have answered is open to speculation, but we encountered no difficulty and went on to Dartington (Warner, 1879). Few ringers would single out the second at Totnes as being a Gillett and Johnston recast of 1935, yet none of the others was tuned when this was done. The Warner tenor places a big question mark on this ring's splendour, but one could possibly come to appreciate it after a while. The old six at Berry Pomeroy are a mixed lot and became even more mixed when two trebles were added in 1909. Stokes did the hanging and provided a separate iron frame for 3-4. Collaton St. Mary's bells are a shrill five, the tenor being by Mears, 1865, and the rest 1920. Taylors tuned up Paignton bells in 1953. The third at Little Hempston is a fine bell by R. Norton, of Exeter, and the fourth (Exeter, pre-Reformation with black word stamps and a Maltese cross but not positively identified) compares very favourably with most modern tuning. The second and tenor of this minor five are by Stadler, of Chulmleigh, 1700. The treble was added in 1847. At East Teignmouth we were welcomed by Dr. Gent at the practice, run by Mr. William Simmonds, of Babba-combe. These bells are a complete Llewellin and James ring of 1897 and hang in an iron two-tier frame on Aggett's patent self-aligning plain bearings.

HEARD BY THE ARCHBISHOP!

It is interesting to note that part of the Croydon foundry's restoration at Highweek in 1935 was to recast the two trebles of 1919, along with the old third. The result is a first-class ring of eight, the back five being the old Pennington ring of 1781. light six at Bickington would have benefited, we think, had the treble been recast when they were tuned and rehung in a new iron frame by Taylors in 1960. The same work was done by Gilletts in 1947 at the next tower, Ilsington. Buckfastleigh bells came from Loughborough in 1935 and the Abbey bells arrived a few months later. Fr. Paulinus welcomed us to the Abbey on the occasion of the fortnightly practice. The top eight are rung usually, and Mr. Simmonds, whom we were privileged to meet for a second time. told us that ringers cannot hear the bells above the smallest whisper, so an atmosphere of strange silence prevails during ringing. We were allowed to pull the back bells up for the last few minutes in order to "grab" the 12. The Vicar of Holne greeted us with the news that Dr. Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, was staying at the inn near the church and that he was "listening out" for us. A notice had been given out in church the previous Sunday at a service attended by the Primate announcing our forthcoming visit, and several parishioners braved the pouring rain to see and hear our efforts on this Gooding five of 1743. Evening ringing was at Ashburton, where the fourth is slightly cracked, and on the magnificent 1929 Croydon octave at Kingsteignton, where perhaps the best piece of the week was the raise in peal and the Devonshire competition touch.

Coffee at the lady churchwarden's home was thankfully accepted on the cold, wet morning (Thursday) at Broadhempston. At Dean Prior we met Mr. Aubrey Bennett, who was later to sell us a ticket to the car park at Buckfastleigh Station prior to an enjoyable run to Totnes on the Dart Valley Railway. Other towers that day included Churston Ferrers, having a very tuneful six with three interesting 15th century Exeter bells, and Brixham, where five foundries have contributed to the ten.

Bovey Tracey (Taylor's, 1902 or so) was the first tower on a sunny Friday, followed by the 1920 Gillett six at Lustleigh. At N. Bovey, Mears recast the fourth of the Bilbie five (1814) in 1872 and Warners added a treble 40 years later to make a musical six. The Vicar was most agreeable to our fitting in his other tower. Manaton, which contains the only two bells in the county by a bellfoundress, Joanna Hille, of London, who cast bells in the period 1440-1443 between her marriages to two bellfounder husbands, Richard Hille and John Sturdy. The rope guides at Moretonhampstead appear far too low and make ringing difficult on this "G and J" ring. Frustration was experienced also on the lovely Taylor (1914) octave at Chagford, hung by a local firm with their own frame and fittings. The tenor crown staple was found to be loose. causing the bell to be odd-struck. Gidleigh, with three 15th century Exeter bells, provided a change of tuning technique. back four are the top of a major five and the treble is a semitone above the second. A ring on the "Gilletted" Throwleigh bells

Proceedings ended with ringing on Saturday morning at Exminster and the fine Mears (1897!) eight at Axminster. It was a pity that before savouring these latter bells one of our party, David Hughes, should have suffered a car crash, but fortunately damage was only to the vehicles involved and there were no resultant injuries.

LAST DRINK SAVED LIVES!

In connection with the old tower at Witham-on-the-Hill, Lincolnshire, a story is told to the effect that one Christmas Eve the ringers, for the purpose of taking some refreshments, left the bells standing and adjourned to a tavern that then stood opposite. One of their number, a little more thirsty than the rest, insisted that before going back to ring they should have another pitcher of ale, and this being at last agreed on by the company they duly stayed to drink the last draught. This extra mug of beer saved their lives, for while they were drinking the steeple fell. Whether this is a tippler's tale or a sober statement of a remarkable incident has not been verified.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for January 12, 1945

Five firsts in the method (Grandsire Triples) were recorded for Terence Gardner treble, Jill Poole 2, Peter Staniforth 3, Norman G. McCrum 4 and Dennis Dodson 6. It was rung at Thurcaston, Leics.

At Christ Church, Isle of Dogs, Miss Marie R. Cross conducted her first tower bell peal (Bob Major) and in the band were the Rev. M. C. C. Melville and the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, Philip J. M. Gray rang his first peal (on the treble).

A handbell peal of Spliced Major which contained 21 methods with 50 changes of method was "the greatest number of methods yet rung to a peal of Major." It was rung at Sittingbourne, Kent, by W. L. B. Leese, Betty Spice, John E. Spice and Jean A. Southearst.

Mr. Arthur W. Leeder (68), whose death was reported, had rung 57 peals for the Norwich Diocesan Association, and Mr. James R. Mackman, whose passing was also recorded, requested the bells of Bramley (Surrey) be rung open in his memory.

Ringing in Cornwall was the subject of a letter from Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram (one-time Master of the Truro Diocesan Guild). He defended and extolled the virtues of ringers and ringing in the West Country.

At Staplegrove, Taunton, Som, Douglas Fear and William Warren rang their first quarter of Stedman Doubles.

A meeting at Sutton-on-Trent was advertised for "all Notts ringers to discuss proposal to form Southwell Diocesan Guild."

50 YEARS AGO

January 16, 1920

College Major was rung for the first time to a peal at Deptford, Kent. It was composed and conducted by Edwin Barnett, sen., the 2nd being rung by his son, Edwin Barnett, jun.

The parish church of St. Mary, Hitcham, had a "miniature" ring of six installed, which were dedicated by the Bishop of Buckingham; tenor 6 cwt.

The Oxford Guild was in a flourishing financial position with a total balance of £186 12s.

Thirty-five years after a similar peal St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, ringers rang Oxford T.B. Maximus.

The foreman in a Shropshire church claimed 4d. from a visiting ringing soldier for not removing his spurs. An old rule of 1744 set out on a large stone in the tower

"Or if you ring in spurr or hatt Fore pence you must pay for that."

A handbell peal in the master's parlour at the Abbot's Hospital, Guildford, conducted by A. H. Pulling, was rung there at the express wish of the master and his daughter.

St. Andrew Farnham Surrey

Cover Picture

St. Andrew, Farnham, Surrey

THE ANCIENT town of Farnham, Surrey, stands astride the northern arm of the River Wey and the busy A31 trunk road. The town has, in turn, been an important corn market, a centre of the hop growing industry and, later, Farnham gravel was famous for its road making qualities and was used all over the South of England. William Cobbett, whose tomb stands close by the north door of the church, records that Farnham hops fetched double the price of other hops in the 1820s. Farnham's brewery, alas, is now a factory, making doors, but the old Maltings have just been saved for the town.

St. Andrew's Parish Church stands in the centre of the town, but the fine square tower is one of the most conspicuous landmarks to travellers along the bypass. Parts of the church date from the early 12th century, but most of the early building has been lost by alterations and additions over the years.

The lower stages of the tower date from the first quarter of the 16th century, being the work of Bishop Fox, of Winchester, who resided at the Castle, where he also built another fine tower. Thus two of Bishop Fox's towers face each other across the rooftops of the town. The link between the castle and the church was for centuries very close, the castle being the seat of the Bishop of Winchester, and later and until recent years of Guildford.

In 1865 the tower was raised 50 feet, at a cost of £1,600. Much abuse has been showered on Victorian "improvers" but there can be no doubt that on this occasion they were right, and gave Farnham one of the finest towers in Surrey.

In 1723 Farnham's church tower had a ring of eight bells, by Richard Phelps, of London, with a tenor of about 21 cwt.

EARLY PEALS

The first peal was rung in 1730, in 3 hours 5 minutes. We only know it was "Tripples." Union Triples was rung in 1738 and the first peal of Major (Plain Bob) in 1755; a peal of Grandsire Triples in 1785 and 6,160 Bob Major in 3 hours 46 minutes in 1787. In 1805 a peal of 6,736 Bob Major in 4 hours 22 minutes was rung and seems to be the longest peal on the bells. In the same year, on October 21st, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to celebrate the "Glorious Victory at Cape Trafalgar."

The bells seem to have required some attention after this period. The fifth was recast by T. Mears in 1820, the tenor by T. Mears in 1830 and the sixth in 1869. In 1882 the bells were raised to the top of the tower at a cost of £305! It is perhaps a little unfortunate that they were hung so high, as it causes the tower to sway, which can affect the ringing.

From the 1880s Farnham boasted a very capable band of ringers. A number of peals are recorded and include many members of the local band. Ringing for the first part of the 20th century was under the leadership of Charles Edwards, a competent and enthusiastic conductor, and whose peats are recorded in many neighbouring towers. The brothers Tom and George Upshall were also prominent in ringing and they too rang many peals in most of the local towers, some being the "first on the bells."

Richard Hasted was the next conductor, and under his leadership in the 1930s the band rang local peals of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent and Double Norwich Major, this last being 5,152 and was composed by R. Hasted.

In the years which followed the last war Farnham was again lucky to have a leader in the person of Charles Denyer, who had moved to Farnham from Aldershot. This was the time of National Service and many young Service ringers stationed in Aldershot and Bordon found their way to St. Andrew's, and it is interesting to note that a surprisingly large number of those young soldiers are now "household names" in the columns of the R.W.

The accent then, as now, was very much on teaching, and many of the young ringers taught at Farnham have become officers of Guilds in many areas.

A great church restoration in 1959 was planned, and the ring of bells had become odd-struck and at least two were cracked. It was decided during restoration to recast the eight with a tenor of 19 instead of 21 cwt. The work was carried out by John Taylor and Co. and on December 8, 1959, the bells were rededicated and a peal of Kent T.B. Major was rung, conducted by Charles Denyer.

St. Andrew's, Farnham, has been fortunate with a succession of loyal ringers who have served the tower for long periods. The present steeplekeeper, Sidney Meadows, learned in 1924, and this, combined with a policy of training a steady flow of learners, has helped to produce a blend of youth and experience, and these two ingredients ROY COLLINS.

COLLEGE YOUTHS SCORE A "MAGPIE"

By W. T. COOK

ERECTING THE "EXPO BELFRY" IN THE TV STUDIO

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31. The old year is going out in piercing cold, with flurries of snow. In the morning half-light I make my way to the station and eventually reach Waterloo, where the train for Teddington which should have left 20 minutes ago is still patiently waiting at a platform quite different from the one advertised. I board it, and presently it moves off unconcernedly.

I sit back and reflect why I am making this journey. There seems to be very little to go on. It appears that the producer of a Thames Television programme called Magpie (of which I confess I had not previously heard) has decided to feature bell-ringing in his programme. I have heard vaguely from Tony Kench, Master of the College Youths, that the producer has arranged through the Whitechapel Bell Foundry to have the Expo Belfry erected in the studio, and that the College Youths have been asked to demonstrate ringing on it. The only other thing I know is that we are supposed to be at the Thames TV studios at Teddington at 10.30 and will probably be there till six in the evening. This seems a long time, but I suppose someone knows what it's all about. There has also been a rumour that we will be sharing the programme with some elephants.

I leave Teddington Station and, following the directions I have been given, walk with hunched shoulders through the driving snow. The studios seem a long way from the station. When I arrive I state what I understand to be my business to a bored-looking girl at the reception desk. She seems unimpressed, but at that moment a young man in a pink jacket and green trousers appears and tells me to go to Studio 2.

ELEPHANTS (NOT PINK ONES!)

Hesitantly, I open an improbably heavy door and go in. I find myself in a vast barn-like structure, innocent of windows. As a good bellringer the first thing I notice is the Expo Belfry, which the men from the foundry have erected the day before in one corner of the studio. They are there now, putting the finishing touches to it. Half the floor is littered with huge cameras mounted on wheels, monitor screens and boom microphones. There are perhaps a couple of dozen people around, playing desultorily with this equipment, some of them wearing headphones.

Presently a huge door at the far side of the studio is slid back and three elephants walk in. They are grey, not pink, so I assume that all is well. An argument appears to develop between the men in charge of the elephants and the studio personnel as to why they are there or what is wanted of them. Meanwhile other ringers begin to arrive. The bell foundry men are still putting ropes on the bells and tightening nuts.

The young man in the pink jacket comes over to us and invites us to wait in the press room opposite. Here there are comfortable chairs, a battery of telephones and a radiator which soon makes the room oppressively warm. Eventually, about 11 o'clock, the whole band has assembled—Tony Kench, Andrew Stubbs, Michael Moreton, Jim Prior, George Pipe who has brought George Symonds from Ipswich, Philip and Andrew Corby, an 11-year-old ringer from King's Langley named Richard Barker, and myself. We sit around, exchanging the usual ringers' gossip, and wait for something to happen. Nothing does, so we order coffee, which is soon produced.

We are then invited to return to the studio, where we find that an elephant has chewed one of the sallies, but otherwise the belfry is now ready. Powerful arc-lamps hang from the ceiling and it soon becomes quite warm in the studio. We ring the bells up and ring rounds on them. Because of their light weight we are somewhat apprehensive at first but soon find that they are quite easy to ring. The noise is almost deafening, although Andrew Stubbs on the treble does not seem to be ringing as loudly as the rest of us. Ropes are adjusted and we start our first rehearsal. In spite of appearances, someone does know roughly what is expected to happen. We are told to ring for one minute, after which some of the ringers will be interviewed. So we ring rounds for one minute. A TV personality, called Tony Bastable, then walks into the circle and practises the interviews with George Symonds, who tells how he rang for Queen Victoria's jubilee in 1887, with young Richard Barker and with Tony Kench, who tries to explain in as short a time as possible how a bell is rung and lets Tony Bastable "have a go." We are then asked to ring for two more minutes, so we ring a bob course of Stedman Triples. While all this has been going on cameras have been manœuvring around us and arclamps have been moving from place to place across the ceiling.

NO COPYRIGHT PROBLEM

Other pieces of the programme are rehearsed. Apparently no one has a script and the whole proceedings are inchoate. We go through our routine again. Halfway through the interview Tony Bastable is interrupted by a man wearing headphones who has been having an argument by walkie-talkie with an invisible interlocutor. The upshot of the altercation is that the interview is far too long. So the explanation of how a bell works is jettisoned—no one has been asked to explain why bells are rung, or when—and Tony Bastable's lesson No. 1 in bell control is still further reduced.

We ring our course of Stedman Triples again, and the man with the walkie-talkie decrees that it is time for lunch. A young girl with a large notepad inquires what we have been ringing and who wrote it. I tell her it was written by Fabian Stedman and was first published in 1677. She makes a careful note of this and informs us that there will probably be no difficulty about copyright!

Armed with vouchers for lunch, we follow the young man in the pink jacket through an unlikely sequence of modern workshops, crumbling 17th century buildings and car parks to the staff canteen, which overlooks Teddington Weir. George Pipe swallows a hasty lunch and dashes off back to Ipswich, but the rest of us take things more slowly and feed well—though there is no means of obtaining the beverage with which College Youths usually accompany their lunches.

DRESS REHEARSAL

We return to the press room and after a further period of waiting we go back to Studio 2 for another rehearsal. This time the whole programme is rehearsed in its correct sequence, and we can see that there is some shape to it after all. We discover that the elephants are being put through their paces by another TV personality called Pete Brady. His remark that the elephants can do some wonderful things provokes an unfortunate reaction from one of the elephants. We go through our routine again, this time with a certain amount of confidence. Everyone seems reasonably satisfied and we return to the press room for a further period of waiting. Tea is demanded and produced.

During this interval we go along to the make-up room to have our faces powdered. Douglas Hughes arrives and makes suitably facetious comments about our appearances. Soon it is time for the dress rehearsal. In one corner of the press room there is a TV monitor screen, and we watch the first part of the dress rehearsal on this. For the first time we discover what the rest of the programme is supposed to be about, although obviously things are not always going as they should. In the interval reserved for the commercials (the dress rehearsal is run in accordance with the final timing schedule) we return once more to the studio and wait for our cue to begin. We go through the now-familiar routine, except that various things go wrong and the ringing is very bad, which makes us despondent. The foundry men make some last-minute adjustments to the bells.

RINGING QUITE GOOD

Another interval, more tea, another wait in the press room. This time it is the real The programme, as it is to be seen by the public tomorrow, appears on the monitor screen. This time all the snags have been ironed out and everything goes smoothly. We go into the studio for the last time, take our places at the ropes and wait quietly for our cue. The signal to start is given. In spite of the fact that we are now familiar with the bells and with what is going to happen there is a general feeling of slight tension among the band; we are now actually doing the ringing on which we will be judged by other ringers watching the programme tomorrow; there can be no retake. Tony Kench calls "Stand"; the interviews proceed (not quite as well as during rehearsal), Tony Bastable has his lesson No. 1 on bell control for the fifth time and—for the first time, without delay—we catch hold for our bob course of Stedman Triples. This time, fortunately, the ringing is quite good. We set the bells at the end of the touch with a feeling of relief and satisfaction. We lower the bells, say our farewells, wash the powder off our faces and prepare, with perhaps a sense of anticlimax, to leave the strange world of television and return to the everyday world.

Outside it is very cold and dark. We make our way to the Angler's Arms to refresh and congratulate ourselves, and to spare a thought for the foundry men who have to get the Expo Belfry dismantled and out of the studio that same evening. The year is dying in the night, but at least we have ended the year with an unusual and in some ways an exhilarating experience.

REDEDICATION AT CHINNOR

The Bishop of Reading rededicated the bells of St. Andrew's Parish Church, Chinnor, Oxford, on November 23. The church was full, the congregation—including several visiting ringers who joined in the ringingfollowing the service.

After six years with no ringing a local band has been re-formed, practices having been held at Great Kimble since January, 1969. We are pleased to record that two quarter peals have been rung by this local

The ringing chamber at Chinnor has been decorated by the ringers and transformed from a forgotten storeroom to a clean, bright and comfortable ringing room. fitting of an extra floor between the ringing chamber and the bells has eliminated excess sound, and sound control was needed in the louvres as a housing estate has recently been built very near to the church.

There is a short draught at Chinnor and some difficulty was experienced with rope handling, especially during wet weather when the ropes were stiff. However, following a visit by Mr. Paul Taylor, some extra work was done to correct the fault, and we are pleased to say that the trouble has been eliminated. The bells go very well and are now easy to handle.

The two trebles have been recast and the other bells retuned. All are hung on cast iron headstocks, with self-aligning ball bearings. The oldest bell, the tenor, is by Knights, of Reading, circa 1586, and 3, 4 and 5 are 17th century bells, also by Knights. The tenor weighs 10-0-20, note G.

Visitors are always welcome on our practice night which is Friday, 7.30-8.45 p.m. G. N. H.

RAVING RINGERS' REUNION

We were met at St. Mary's, Guildford, by Mr. Tom White at 8 p.m. on January 2, and our hotel for the weekend was at Newlands Corner. Here we spent Saturday evening reminiscing, particularly on the tour in Scotland.

Saturday's ringing included some very pleasant and well-chosen towers, requiring little effort to find. These were West Clandon (8), Shalford (8) and Godalming (8) in the morning and Wonersh (8), Cranleigh (8), Ewhurst (8) and Albury (6) in the after-Ringing on Sunday morning was at Holy Trinity and St. Nicolas', Guildford. Following lunch we drove to Aldershot and Farnham, concluding our weekend's ringing at Guildford Cathedral, a belfry not ideally suited to the icy weather conditions.

Thanks must be given for the excellent organisation, which had to combat influenza. G. M. B.

FINANCIAL HELP NEEDED

St. Peter's Church, Ipsley, stands high above the new town of Redditch, in which it is soon to become enveloped. It was rebuilt from an earlier chapel in the 14th century and, ironically, the aisles, which were removed during a severe restoration.

The three bells would have been rehung when the tower was restored about ten years ago, but the amount of money available was insufficient and the scheme was dropped. The bells were left lying on their sides on the bell chamber floor. The treble was cast in Worcester about 1420 and is a "Royal head" bell, bearing the heads of King Edward III and his queen, Philippa (as word stops) and the inscription: + DVM TONAT HOC SIGNVM PRECE PELLE ROBERTE MALIGNVM. The other two bells were cast by John Martin, of Worcester, in 1664.

They are now to be rehung in a new steel frame for six bells with, if financially possible, three new bells to complete a ring of six. They have been taken away to Loughborough for retuning. The bell fund, at present, has only enough money to cover the cost of rehanging the three bells in 2 new frame, and donations, large or small. towards the cost of rehanging and augmenting these bells will be most gratefully received by the rector: Rev. F. G. Foreman, Ipsley Rectory, Ipsley, Worcs. C. J. P.

Obituary

MRS. EVA SHARPE

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends has been extended to Mr. Frederick Sharpe in the death of his mother, Mrs. Eva Sharpe, on January 3. She was admitted to hospital on December 19 and three days later fell and fractured her femur. This was certified as one of the causes of her death.

Mrs. Sharpe, who was 86 years of age, was the widow of Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who died in 1929. He was churchwarden at Launton and Fred succeeded him. Mrs. Sharpe was a great church worker, being enrolling member of the Mothers' Union for over 40 years and a member of the P.C.C. since its formation. For 54 years she was responsible for the flower decoration of the Lady Chapel in Launton Church, Oxon. Older generations of ringers will remember her for her great hospitality; her friendship with the Exercise had prevailed even before Fred married.

Mrs. Sharpe lived at Church Cottage, Launton, with her daughter, Miss Marjorie Sharpe. who looked after her in latter years.

MR. F. J. WILLIAMS

A very popular chairman of the Melton Mowbray District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild for eight years. Mr. Frederick John Williams. of Eaton, died in Carlton Hayes Hospital on December 31, at the age of 69. He was employed as chauffeur by Lady Paynter and was a very active village worker. He was also for a short period secretary of the Framland Association. He had rung three peals for the guild.

The funeral service, which preceded interment in the cemetery, was conducted in Denys Church, Eaton, by Rev. J. J. A. Hodgins, and Mrs. Williams' grand-daughter was at the organ. Members of tramland ringers attended and the bells were rung half-muffled by Messrs, J. T. W. Morris, Clayton, Turner, R. Hazlewood, Mr. and Mrs. M. Cooke and Miss A. Cooke.

STILL RAGING

It must always be embarrassing to be could after 25 years but amusing to find that the controversy about peal ringers still ges. writes Mr. P. A. Corby. "I haven't changed my views since 25 years ago, although I would happily widen the description of ringing enthusiasts to that used by Philip Gray in a recent document in which he refers to the specialist peal or touring band." In short, the people who are interested enough to get themselves out and about are usually found to be more reliable in attendance at their own tower and more use when they get there."

HANDBELLS AT SERVICE

The annual meeting of the Devizes Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild took place at Bradford-on-Avon on January 3.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., under the direction of ringing master Reg Jones, of Longbridge Deverill. At the service Rev. B. Strangeways welcomed the ringers and spoke of the varied talents of a ringer. During the service handbells were rung by Messrs. F. Slatford, N. G. Knee, E. C. Shepherd and E. E. Norris. Mr. V. Burchell presided at the organ and the lessons read by members of the local band.

Between 30 and 40, including visitors from Chiseldon and Box, sat down to a tea, provided in the Youth Centre by local ringers and friends, and was greatly enjoyed.

ringers and friends, and was greatly enjoyed. The chair was taken by Mr. C. F. Andrews, of Melksham (branch chairman) with Mr. G. D. Davis, of Bradford-on-Avon, as secretary. Mr. G. H. Harding, of Trowbridge, was congratulated on 60 years' service as a ringer and was applauded. The accounts were adopted unanimously and it was decided to carry on with the collections at monthly services as this had helped churches as well as branch funds. Thanks were extended to the secretary/treasurer and auditor.

Officers elected were: Chairman, C. F. Andrews (Melksham); vice-chairman, A. T. Weeks (Devizes): secretary, G. D. Davis (Bradford-on-Avon): treasurer, A. T. Weeks (Devizes): ringing masters. R. Jones (Longbridge Deverill). N. G. Knee (Warminster) and R. Purnell (Melksham): auditor. J. Weeks (Devizes). Messrs. E. J. Hitchins (Melksham) and E. C. Shepherd (Warminster) were re-elected to the branch committee.

Over 20 new members were elected, those present receiving Central Council hand-hooks from the chairman. After discussion, it was decided to leave the nature of the monthly instructional period to the branch committee. The striking competition was discussed. Mr. Purnell asking for more support from tower captains, and it was decided to hold the competition in October in the evening, arrangements to be made by branch committee.

Rev. R. N. Longridge was put forward to the guild committee as a recommendation for the office of guild president from the Devizes Branch.

Ringing continued until the failure of the lighting system prematurely ended the proceedings.

PEMBROKE RINGER MARRIED

The wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Pembroke, on January 5, of Miss Susan Stevens and Pilot Officer Kenneth Deveson, B.Sc., R.A.F.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a Victorian-style gown of nylon lace, trimmed with crystal satin, and a bouffant veil held in place by a lace-trimmed Alice band. The flower girl was three-years-old Helen Hodges, who looked sweet in a sapphire blue velvet dress with white lace bonnet. Helen's mother was also formerly a local ringer.

Susan is now teaching at Winterton Comprehensive School, Lincolnshire, where she still manages an occasional ring, although at the local tower practices are held only once every three weeks.

After the wedding a quarter peal of Bob Minor was rung by past and present pupils of Pembroke Grammar School, which both Ken and Sue had attended and where they became head boy and girl respectively before leaving school to embark on their careers.

NINE TOWERS REPRESENTED

The quarterly meeting of St. David's Guild was held at Haverfordwest on Dec. 13. Members attended from Burry Port, Cardigan. Carmarthen, Haverfordwest, Llanbadarn Fawr. Pembroke, St. David's, St. Florence and Tenby. The standard of striking on the rather heavy-going. anti-clockwise ring proved much better than had been anticipated.

The service at 4 p.m. was conducted by the Vicar of Haverfordwest. Canon Ll. J. Davies. At the short business meeting which followed it was decided to accept the suggestion made by the Swansea and Brecon Guild that we should once again combine for our March quarterly meeting, which will be held on the second Saturday at Llanelli, if available.

"TOWER GRABBERS" OF 1969

Will those who rang in 100 or more new towers during 1969 please send to Miss Penelope J. Thorley, of School House, Laxfield. Woodbridge. Suffolk, the following information: Name and home tower, number of new towers in 1969 and grand total of towers. The closing date is February 13.

OVER 200 MEMBERS

The A.G.M. of the Bath Branch of Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at the Church of St. Michael with St. Paul, Bath. on January 3. Ringing, under the direction of the ringing master. Mr. J. Owen began promptly at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.30 p.m. At the service the rector. Rev. G. Holden, welcomed members and commented on the improvement in the singing. The lesson was read by the secretary of the branch. Mr. Alan Lee, and the address was given by the rector of Shepton Mallet, Rev. L. A. B. White, who is a ringer.

The customary solendid tea in the Church Hall was provided by the ladies and the business meeting was under the chairmanship of Mr. G. J. Hawkins, 70 members being present. The secretary announced that the membership had now passed the 700 mark. "To reach this target has always been one of my aims," he said, "and I am pleased that I can announce it in this my last report." A hearty and sincere vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Alan Lee. Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. G. J. Hawkins: vice-chairman, Mr. L. Taylor: ringing master. Mr. P. Devrell: deputy ringing master. Mr. D. J. Orledge: hon. secretary/treasurer. Mr. A. Adams. New members were elected from Keynsham, Bathwick (St. Mary's), Twerton-on-Avon, Bathampton, Batheaston and Bath Abbey.

The quarterly meetings were provisionally arranged: April. Weston; July. Keynsham: October. Bathwick. The Corporate Communion in November will be at Marksbury.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Alan Lee. The meeting ended with prayers, with special reference to the late Mrs. Dora Evans, for so long a faithful member of the branch. Ringing was continued at the Abbey, under the direction of Mr. Peter Devrell, until 9 p.m. A. A.

Letters

MINSTEAD BELLS, HAMPSHIRE

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the information contained in Mr. Cobb's letter (R.W., page 1006) regarding previous per-formances on the bells and their state in

The bells are still in quite good condition despite many years of neglect. The rector has no recollections of any ringing during his incumbency from 1963 and at the present time the bells are chimed for services by an elderly gentleman with no ringing experience. The wooden headstocks and frame show signs of woodworm but the ropes are very sound.

The performance for which I was responsible awakened some interest in the village. many people thinking the tower was unsafe because of the many years since the bells were last rung. An architect examined the tower several weeks ago and pronounced it safe for ringing. An estimate is to be sought as to the cost of augmenting to five.

Regrettably, the memorial plaques to Sir Arthur and Lady Conan Doyle (buried in the churchyard) are still in a dilapidated state, propping up the wall of the chamber between the bells and the ringing chamber as they were in 1961.—Yours faithfully, BARRY J. FRY.

Brockenhurst, Hants.

GRANDSIRE SIXTEEN

Dear Sir,-I was interested in the letter from Mr. E. Barnett (page 6, Jan. 9) and his references to "a man named Powell from Waltham Abbey who had rung a course of Grandsire Sixteen." This would almost certainly have been Thomas C. Powell, son of the famous Birmingham ringer Joseph Powell and a highly-proficient handbell ringer.

Thomas Powell rang his first peal (Stedman Triples) on January 31, 1847, at Aston. and in the following April another peal in the same method at Deritend, both conducted by Henry Johnson. The next year he rang in the then record peal of 7,392 Stedman Cinques before moving to London in 1850, where his prowess as a handbell ringer soon became apparent. On December 19, 1853, he rang 3-4 to the first peal of Stedman Triples in hand, and in June. 1854, again rang 3-4 to the first peal of Holt's Original on handbells.

About 1857 he accepted an appointment Waltham Abbey, where he teamed up with Thomas Britten and the brothers Carr to maintain a high standard of ringing in this town. When Britten retired as proprietor of the Three Tuns Inn it was Powell who succeeded him, and many handbell evenings were spent at this hostelry during the 1870s and 1880s. The first peal for the newly-formed Essex Association was rung at Waltham Abbey on August 2, 1879, conducted by Thomas Powell, and it was at the Three Tuns that William A. Alps conducted the first handbell peal by four Essex

A rift eventually occurred between Powell and the local ringers, and he resigned his appointment as belfry warden. later moving from Waltham Abbev to become landlord of the Hollybush at Loughton.

I trust this will be of interest to Mr. Barnett and give some confirmation of his father's remark.—Yours faithfully,

J. E. G. ROAST.

STEDMAN CINQUES

Dear Sir, — I have looked up Matthew Wood's peal books and the particulars of the handbell peal of Stedman Cinques referred to by Mr. E. Barnett (Letters, page 6) are as follows:-

The St. James' Society.-On Friday, February 10th, 1854, was rung on handbells re-tained in hand at the Whittington Hat, Church Row, Bethnal Green, 5,014 Stedman Cinques in 3 hours and 28 minutes, being the first ever rung. Performers: H. Haley 1-2, J. Cox 3-4, G. Ferris 5-6, M. A. Wood 7-8, W. Cooter 9-10, J. Dwight 11-12. Conducted by H. Haley.

Whether Mr. Powell was associated with the peal we are not told, but it is clear that he was not in the band.—Yours faithfully, W. G. W.

DIAL IIII

Dear Sir, I noticed on the cover of the R.W. No. 3062 (for Dec. 26 and Jan. 2) that the picture of St. John the Baptist's, Hillingdon, Middlesex, showed the clock face with the hour "4" marked "IV," which in Roman numerals is correct. However, on most clocks (and watches!) the "4" is shown as "IIII."

I have only actually seen two public clocks marked "IV," one at Brewood, in Staffordshire, and one at Christ Church, Crewe, Cheshire (the latter being my home tower).

I wonder if any of your readers have noticed any others? If so, perhaps someone could enlighten me why the majority are marked "IIII."—Yours faithfully,
JOHN HOLLOWAY.

Crewe, Cheshire.

HOBBY OR DUTY

Dear Sir. - Peal ringing is basically a hobby, Sunday service ringing is a duty. Successful peals, in common with any other successful enterprise undertaken for the love of it, make good items of news: the weekby-week attendance for duty on the part of Sunday service bands passes unreported, as is generally the case with duties regularly performed.

The popularity of peals and their interest as news items inevitably causes the R.W. to carry a very high proportion of items relating to peals, peal bands, peal tours and the like, a proportion which has prompted Mr. Marsh to write the letter published in the issue of December 12.

Every thinking ringer knows that it is not ultimately by peal ringing that the Exercise stands or falls, that peal ringing forms only a part of its activities. How to reflect this fact in the R.W. is the problem

Yours faithfully. ELIZABETH M. BARBER.

St. Albans, Herts. (Miss Barber made suggestions which are already "in hand" - tower pictures. See R.W., page 3.--Ed.)

NOT KNOWN

Dear Sir, - After extensive enquiries in the Redhill area I have been unable to discover a ringer called Edward Marsh. I believe that this may be a nom de plume of a well-known contributor to these columns.

I would be pleased to hear that Mr. Marsh indeed exists, but unfortunately I feel this is unlikely. I heartily deplore hoax letters of this type as they lower the tone of an otherwise excellent publication.-Yours faithfully, GRAHAM REYNOLDS.

Redhill, Surrey.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MINUTES

Dear Sir,-I should like to draw attention to the following omissions:-

Page 967, column 2.—The name of P. G. Smart from the list of those greeted by the President

Page 987, column 3, (A) 7.—The words "to any ringer" after "given."

It is not as clear as I would have liked that the last two paragraphs of column 2 on page 988 are not connected with "The Technical Committees."—Yours faithfully, VERNON BOTTOMLEY, Secretary,

Northowram, Halifax.

Dear Sir,-I write to point out that the Central Council Minutes as printed in The Ringing World, Dec. 26, 1969, and Jan. 2, 1970, page 1007, are incorrect.

The motion which was proposed by myself and seconded by Mr. J. D. Clarke did not urge consultation with the Council for the Care of Churches to vary policy on the recasting of bells, but read as follows:-

"That this Council through its Tower and Belfries Committee seeks early consultation with the Council for the Care of Churches and the Principal Bell Founders, to revise and bring up to date their agreed policy on Bells and Bell Frames, with particular regard to (a) the recasting of bells and (b) the position of bells in Churches which are, or are about to become redundant or closed."

As you will appreciate there is a considerable difference between the words and "revise and bring up to date."

In view of the considerable amount of discussion that has taken place on this subject since the last Central Council meeting. may I ask all of those who have an interest in this side of the Exercise to contact me before the next meeting, please. - Yours faithfully,

W. L. EXTON, Hon. General Secretary Southwell Diocesan Guild.

St. Quens. Whatton, Nottingham, NG13 9EQ.

RUNG WITHOUT PERMISSION?

Dear Sir,-It was brought to my attention that the five bells at Alvescot were rung recently. These bells, whilst not completely unringable, are considered to be in a dangerous condition. The point I wish to make, however, is that they were rung some time around midnight on the night of Sunday, December 21, and Monday, December The incumbent did not give permission for the bells to be rung, and he was quite surprised wher. I contacted him regarding the matter. However, the churchwarden at Alvescot, who heard the ringing, although surprised thought the ringers must have been "experts" as he considered the ringing to be good. In fact this churchwarden felt that no harm had been done.

It is very doubtful whether the identity of these "experts" will be revealed. Fortunately, there was not an accident. But there might well have been. This irresponsible action has more than likely harmed the public's attitude to ringers. - Yours faithfully, Woodstock, Oxford.

LLANDYSSUL BELLS REDEDICATED

Over 12 months ago the parish of Llandyssul in Cardiganshire set itself the mammoth task of raising £10,000 to overhaul and make safe the church tower and to put its four bells in ringing condition.
Thanks to the generosity of Miss Sadie

Hodgson, a new treble was added to the ring, and on December 21 at a service conducted by the vicar (Rev. I. D. John), the Lord Bishop of St. David's (Dr. J. Richards Richards) dedicated the ring of five.

There was a sorrowful note to the service because of the death, a few months before the dedication, of Miss Hodgson.

The original four, a complete ring by Thomas Rudhall, has the new treble added, cast by Taylors, of Loughborough. The bells and inscriptions are as follows:-

Treble. This bell was given by Sadie Hodgson to the glory of God and in loving memory of her dear parents, William and Anne Hodgson, Beechwood, Llandyssul. Easter 1969. Vicar I. D. John. Churchwardens: E. Griffiths, W. Lorez Laber Teels: fiths, W. Jones. John Taylor and Co., Bellfounders, Loughborough.

2nd.—Peace and Good Neighbourhood 1777.

3rd. - Fear God Honour the King 1777. - Thos. Rudhall Glocester Founder Tenor.-Come at my Call, Serve God all 1777.

Details of Llandyssul bells may be found in Mr. F. Sharpe's excellent book The Church Bells of Cardiganshire.

The ring, which has been hung in a new metal frame, is the third ringable in Cardiganshire

Representatives of the St. David's Diocesan Guild and the University of Wales Society were present at the service and rang during the service, and afterwards the bells were rung to various Doubles methods.

NOTTS UNIVERSITY IN DERBYSHIRE

The number of ringers estimated, usually, for our end-of-term outing is in the region of 15, and this tempts the organiser to hire a 15-seater minibus. On the other hand, should the estimated number be exceeded chaos would ensue, and so the wise organiser orders a small coach. Come the end of term at least one person is ill, one has gone home early, one pretends he had never been told of the outing and has made some other arrangements, and so on. Now there are 10 or 12 of us and, on the day, a 42-seater coach arrives, and there we are, scattered over a vast coach.

I thought I wouldn't be so stupid as to let the same thing happen again, and so I managed to be a driver insured for the University minibus.

Never, since I've been at Nottingham, have we had 20 ringers on our outing!

of our ringers who own cars "volun-teered" to help out, and these car-loads to help out, and these car-loads were the only ones to get to the first two towers at Clay Cross and Ashover on December 6: the minibus key I had collected the day before was not the right one! I didn't manage to acquire the right key until mid-morning, and we finally joined the others at Bakewell, the third tower. Here the ringing was not up to the standard of the bells. After lunch we went northwards to Castleton, where the length of the ropes

TIME FOR ACTION

"Northamptonian" contributes the following to the Peterborough Guild Newsletter. I sit writing this having just returned from a Northampton Branch week-night practice at St. Giles' Church, Northampton, . rather to commiserate on the fact that only five ringers turned up! And one of those was a visitor from another branch. Many bitter thoughts swept over my mind. A panorama of ringers' faces passed before my eyes . . . where were they all? Glowing speeches from past A.G.M.s rang hollow in my ears . . . had everyone forgotten what was said?

"But then what does one say about such a state of affairs? Here we have a branch of 170 members, the centre of which is a town. The town centre has one 10-bell tower and four eights, and within four miles of the centre are three 6-bell towers, one five and another eight. Yet an official branch-sponsored practice dies slowly for lack of support. It has no rival practice.

"One could accept the situation joyfully, I suppose, if thriving practices were held in the other town towers but, with the exception of Kingsthorpe on the outskirts, none could be called that. All Saints' are the only local band practising in the town centre. St. Peter's Church doesn't have a band, Holy Sepulchre's never practise, and one is forced to wonder when these bells are ever allowed to be rung! Which leaves St. Giles', with the fortnightly 'branch' practices—now on the skids for lack of support.

"It seems to me that the ringers of Northampton and district are not interested in supporting week-night ringing ventures outside their own home towers. The attitude is fair enough I suppose, but gosh, I do hope they can maintain their band without one day needing outside help!

"My thoughts finally turned to despair despair of ever seeing a strong local ringing band at St. Giles' and St. Peter's without some regular practice being established in these towers—despair for the future of the bells in Northampton. I wonder what the future holds for the bells of such towers as St. Giles' and St. Peter's? Sold off to pay for the mounting repair bills to the church buildings? One could hardly blame the church authorities, if the bells are never "Gosh, I must go to St. Giles' next Thurs-day; perhaps it will buck up a bit!

EIGHT LADY RINGERS

Emmanuel, Southport, ringers are proud of the fact that the New Year was rung in by a band of eight ladies. After minutes of very creditable ringing, After five male members took over and, helped by some of the ladies, achieved Bristol and Stedman. The good standard of striking is attributed to the generous hospitality of the Guy family before the ringing. A fortunate tower indeed!

made handling somewhat difficult; but this was not the case at Baslow (a light six). The last tower of the day, after tea in Mat-lock, was at Wirksworth (a first-class ring of eight).

Thanks to the incumbents and local ringers who permitted us to ring and who, in many cases, kindly met us at their churches.

TWO HANDBELL TEAMS IN ONE SCHOOL.

Ecclesfield Comprehensive School, near Sheffield, with about 1,750 pupils and 95 staff, has two sets of handbells—those of the former Grammar School and Hunshelf Secondary Modern School—the schools having been amalgamated. The Grammar School (now known as Mr. Mitchell's team) has a recently-overhauled set of 163 bells which formerly belonged to the renowned Ecclesfield Village Ringers. The others, now known as the Hunshelf Ringers, organised by Mr. M. King, have an older set, which until October, 1969 (still a theory), belonged to the Ecclesfield Village team. These bells were presented to the school last October on the understanding that the school took full responsibility for their upkeep. This responsibility has been met by the Hunshelf Ringers raising an average of £35 a year for the past five years for the bells' future overhaul and maintenance. Thus the school has now in its possession a five chromatic octave set of 61 bells plus two small bells. Ecclesfield is probably the only school to possess a full set of bells.

Announcements of the School's new property were made by the headmaster at the first two of the end-of-term concerts. Among tunes rung was an arrangement of Darke's "In the bleak mid-winter" and Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers." The teams have also rung at two old folks' Christmas parties.

Last autumn term, for the first time, regular weekly practices have been held on tower bells at Ecclesfield Parish Church. Steady progress at these practices resulted in a fair standard of rounds and callchanges for the school's three carol services. Next term it is hoped to start change-

MENTALLY HANDICAPPED BENEFITED

The Wadhurst Handbell Ringers had another successful Christmas, playing round the streets on five evenings. After our subscriptions to the County Association and putting £24 into the belfry fund (for new handbells), £15 was given to mentally handicapped children.

Only three old hands were available to start practising and the ten recruits seemed very slow. During the last two practices, however, they suddenly improved and we found we could have two teams. The problem was where to borrow another set of bells! Ernie Ladd's bells were already booked; the Vicar of St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells; would not let his set go out of the tower; Albert Relfe had given his set to Lamberhurst Church; but after three phone calls we located some at the captain's house.

Saturday, 20th, saw the writer sitting on the floor with 28 bells, trying to produce two sets in a certain order, but found he could only get one set of nine (instead of the usual 12) in the key of F and another of eight in the key of B, with an odd bell to change it to F sharp, on which only five tunes could be played; but the music was hastily rewritten for the evening. By next Christmas we hope to acquire five small bells, which will give two sets of 12, on which can be played over 20 tunes.

SIDCUP BELLS

Dear Sir,—Why recast a perfectly sound ring of six? They are a good Warner casting about 70 years old and were retuned around 1950 by Mears and Stainbank, who did a very good job. Do the authorities intend to break them up just to replace them with just another modern eight? There have been many instances of modern trebles added to six old "buckets", but in the case of Sidcup this is quite the reverse. Could they produce two trebles worthy of the present six?

I last rang on them at the A.G.M. about four years ago and found them to be musical and in very good condition. I think it is a shame to destroy this excellent six and only feel inclined to contribute towards adding two trebles to them in a new frame and fittings.-Yours faithfully,

G. P. HUCKSTEP.

Bexleyheath, Kent,

(It is the intention, we understand, to recast the six into a lighter ring of eight, not to add two trebles.—Ed.)

TRYOUT

Dear Sir,—The composition of Plain Bob Caters by D. A. Chapman on page 24 (Jan. appears interesting on the face of it. However, before committing itself to a peal in a Caters method without dodges in 8-9 using a substantially "tittums" composition, I suggest a band tries a short touch.

once suffered half a peal of St. Simon's C.B. Caters in the tittums position and assume that Plain Bob would produce similar "music," but have no intention of finding out!—Yours faithfully, Somerset, were pleased to welcome Miss Gillian Richardson. of Haresfield, G'os, when she recently attended a one-month residential course at the Farm Institute nearby Gillian took part in both service and practice ringing and her valuable help and pleasant manner were very much appreciated, writes D. K. L.

At Quorn. Leics, the first quarter has been rung by the Sunday service band, which was formed when the bells were recast after a serious fire two and a half years ago. Only one of the bells had been rung previously but had never been rung to a quarter. Now members have rung their first quarter. With the exception of the ringing master and one other ringer, the next oldest ringer is 18 and the average age 16.

BROKEN LIMBS

The ice and snow of recent weeks have caused a number of unfortunate accidents, and none more so than in the Barnett family at Crayford, Kent. Teddy (sen.) is in Joyce Green Hospital, Dartford, with a broken hip, which occurred on January 6. and the same day Teddy (jun.) also fell and broke his wrist (his writing hand, of course!). Both, we are glad to say, are progressing fairly well and ringers every-where will wish the natients speedy and complete recovery whilst extending sym-nathy and understanding to Mrs. Olive Barnett who, no doubt will have to carry the brunt of the extra load necessitated by these mishaps.

TO ST. ALBANS DINNER AS A VISITOR

ONCE again a large number of ringers from various parts of the country gathered at St. Albans for some good ringing and a good dinner. Andrew Wilby (district ringing master), assisted by Julia Fellows, had arranged no less than nine peal attempts for visitors and district members.

At the first attempt, at Dunstable on Friday morning, the band rang a good peal of 8-Spliced Surprise Major. This was to the astonishment of the ringer of the fifth, who thought a peal of Rutland was to be attempted. A peal of Turkish Delight Minor, rung at Sandridge in the afternoon, was always full of an "eastern promise" which did not materialise. Unfortunately a team at St. Michael's, St. Albans, lost its attempt for 4-Spliced Surprise Major.

On Saturday 16 ringers set forth through the snow to Barkway and Aspenden. Eight arrived at Barkway but only seven at Aspenden. Kingsley Mason's car coil was cracked and this trouble dogged him all day, finally causing him to miss the dinner. Andrew stood down at Aspenden and George Thoday conducted a lively peal of Cambridge Minor. Andrew rushed to Barkway, where Philip Mehew was calling Lincolnshire, and arrived at the time that two and five shifted course. Even the "Dorset Wonder" failed to notice until some eight courses later, when the conductor finally set up. The band were consoled by being told that "we have had less 8-2s as a result of the shift."

A late start was made at Barnet, where a somewhat hasty peal of 9-spliced was rung. The other band at Knebworth changed Yorkshire for Plain Bob and consequently also scored, under the guidance of Frank Lufkin.

The majority arrived at the dinner in good time, and even the late-comers were in time for soup. It was an excellent meal and well above last year's standards. The speeches were most entertaining but the highlight of the evening for most was, I am sure, the performance of "sixteen in" and Spliced Surprise Maximus by John Mayne's handbell team. For many this was the first time such handbell ringing had been heard and it certainly contributed to the success of the evening.

A tired band met to ring for the early service at Harpenden on Sunday and then at St. Albans Abbey. We all thank Gerald Penny for accommodating us at the Abbey.

The now-reduced number of peal ringers made their way to St. Neots, where Tim Collins called a very good peal of Bristol. It is worthy of note that at 18 years of age this was Tim's 100th peal and 48th as conductor in 1969, and a coincidence that David Rothera also scored his 100th in a year at Rickmansworth, the dinner weekend last year.

In the meantime, back in St. Albans a handbell peal of Plain Bob Major was scored, Bob Hardy conducting.

Thus seven out of nine peals were rung. Writing for the visitors who rang peals and otherwise, I say "Thank you" to the organisers. especially Andrew Wilby, for a successful and most enjoyable weekend.
"ULMUS."

FROM AUSTRALIA

GREETINGS for the New Year from all the ringers at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, to all in the home country.

This is a brief account of ringing activities on New Year's Eve. Ringing started at 8.30 p.m. and during the evening we had about 22 ringers in the belfry. These included Ross Bampton, Craig Herbert and Keith Hendry, who came down from Sydney (550 miles), and John and Monica Martin, who came down from Bendigo (100 miles).

Apart from the ringers several passers-by came up to the belfry just to see what was going on. Comments like "What time is the next performance?" were quite common. We also had the inevitable drunk who was evicted after a bit of commotion. Ringing during the evening was fairly general, ranging from Grandsire Caters, Cambridge Major and Stedman Triples to call-changes on 10 and 12.

At 11.15 p.m., when the Cathedral service started, we stopped ringing and partook of the excellent supper that had been provided by all the members of St. Paul's belfry. As usual there was an abundance of food and drink

At one minute to midnight our 12 best ringers rang the traditional 12 rounds, followed by 12 strokes of the tenor and a further 12 rounds. We then attempted to fire all 12 bells 12 times. This was not over successful, and Helen Henderson now has the honour of being the first person in the world to break a stay in 1970. At half a minute past midnight (Australian Eastern Standard Time) she was seen rising gracefully from the belfry floor only to fall again, without a sally, unharmed.

General ringing continued until 12.15 a.m., when we stopped to prepare for a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters. "Go" was called at 12.25 a.m. and a successful quarter was brought round in 49 minutes. We believe this must be the first quarter in the world for 1970, unless Sydney or New Zealand beat us to it.

At 1.15 a.m. you would think we would have had enough, but somehow six of us talked ourselves into ringing another quarter: this time it was Plain Bob Minor which was started at 1.40 a.m. and brought round at 2.20 a.m. Details as follows: 1,260 Plain Bob Minor (40 minutes): Miss J. Murphy 1, R. Bampton 2, R. Turner (cond.) 3, K. Hendry 4, M. Scowen 5, C. Herbert 6.

This really was the end of the evening (or morning), but a happy and tired band sat talking until 3 a.m., when we finally bade each other "Good morning and happy New Year."

Just one more item of news. We are losing both Margaret Aslett and Helen Henderson. Margaret is returning to England after 2½ years out here; she will be greatly missed both as a ringer and a friend. She sails on January 8 aboard the Australis. Helen is going for a 12-month trip and hopes to be in England about the middle of the year. Whilst she has not been living in Melbourne for some time, she will still be missed and we look forward to her return. She sails aboard the Marconi on January 6.

Best wishes for 1970 to all.

M. SCOWEN, Captain.

A FEW FORESTERS AROUND BANBURY

IN SPITE of the fine summer and autumn this year, one Monday in September dawned a very damp day. A party, led by Richard Huddleston (organiser), made its way by bus towards the first tower at Butler's Marston. followed by Alderminster and Wellesbourne Hastings. Ringing is around the font at Snitterfield: then the six of Kenilworth were rung, and a novelty is the clock on the ceiling of the ringing room. At Royal Leamington Spa we were ioined by a local ringer who rang with us. We travelled on to the eight of Southam and the final ring of the day, the very easy going six at Harbury.

Another damp day. Tuesday began with a visit to the anti-clockwise six at Priors Marston. Owing to tower repairs at Byfield we were unable to ring as arranged, but a number spent the time ringing handbells. Preston Capes and Culworth (two fives) were next on our list of towers. At Helmdon we were joined by Brian Danby, of Nether Heyford, who spent the afternoon with us and rang at Marston St. Lawrence. Cropredy and Wardington were the two final rings of the day.

The beautiful-toned bells of Tvsoe were the first on Wednesday, followed by Wroxton. Lunchtime was spent ringing on the ten at Banbury, and we then went to Horley (four) where the bells are rung from the chancel. At Mollington a funeral was leaving, and much to our surprise we were allowed to ring! Next came Farnborough, having a lovely little six, and finally Radway, after which some went to Banbury to join in the evening practice.

On Thursday we rang the eights of Deddington and Adderbury and the seven of Aynhoe (the sixth here is cracked) and by the time we left the tenor rope (a new one) had been well stretched. At Souldern we attempted London, and then on to the five at Croughton. A quarter peal was rung at Middleton Cheney (Plain Bob Minor) on the rather heavy six, and another was successful at Brackley. The day's recordings were, as usual, listened to and criticised.

We were unable to ring at Steeple Aston next day because of a funeral, and so the first ring was at Bloxham (well worth a 6d, rope charge). Next came Swalcliffe and Great Tew, and then followed Swerford and Hook Norton. We had a long walk at Chipping Norton as a local fair caused a number of streets to be closed, and on to Churchill where we were very pleased in the evening to visit Mr. Jarvis. of Home Farm, and to ring his beautiful little bells.

On Saturday, the last day of the tour, the weather had improved and was the best of the week. Promptly at 9.30 we arrived at Shipston-on-Stour, followed by Brailes, Cherington and Wolford. At Bourton-on-the-Hill the front five are anti-clockwise and the tenor hidden behind the treble. From Evenlode we arrived at Adlestrop a little early and so rang a quarter peal. Here the church was beautifully decorated for harvest. Charlton Kings, the final tower, made a lovely finish to a pleasant week.

Forty-three towers had been visited in the week, and the tourists are grateful to Richard, the organiser.

JUST AN IDEA

MENTIONED to the Professor the other day an idea suggested to me by a ringing friend of mine. This was that Minor splicing should be carried out in half leads, the changeover being made with the treble in 3-4. This would necessitate the touch or 720 starting with a quarter of a lead before the changeover, this then being made thereafter every half lead, the whole terminating with a quarter lead.

The Professor returned to his cell and when I next saw him had produced some arrangements which I hope will prove of interest. He pointed out that as a half or a quarter lead did not sufficiently define any one method the only logical conclusion was to name all the methods represented by the truncated section, as it could, indeed, be any of them.

As an illustration of this type of splicing I give the first one-and-three-quarter leads of one of his arrangements (without figures).

First quarter lead. Oxford, London Scholars, Kingstone, Sandal, Capel, Burton, Coventry, Richborough, Cawthorne, Snowdrop, College Youths' Pleasure, Morning Exercise, Worcester, Chichester, Blythe, Pilsey, Wellington, London New Delight.

Half-lead (backwork). College Exercise, Royston, Gladstone, College Bob IV, Queen Bess, Bocking, Vale Royal, South Kirkby, Newtown.

Half-lead (frontwork). Norbury, Duke of Norfolk, Ockley, Evening Star, Rochester, Morning Star, Disley, Conisbrough, Houghton, London Delight, Hatfield, Nostell, Darton Exercise, Ringers' Delight.

Half-lead (backwork). Penistone, Hoylandswaine, Wragby, Willesden, St. Werburg, Felkirk.

And the list of methods, as the Professor gleefully pointed out, is by no means complete.

With this procedure each 720 could be made to include several hundred methods, and a peal, especially if plain and alliance methods were included, run into several thousand. The idea had the added attraction that hundreds of methods not yet invented, or ever likely to be rung, could also be included.

As each peal would probably take several pages of "The Ringing World" he suggested that the Central Council could publish a spliced supplement and that spliced ringers could cover the cost at so much a line or alternatively pay a fixed charge for each method included.

When I pointed out that his arrangement was merely a lead and three-quarters of Spliced College Exercise and Norbury, he accused me of being a cynic bent on impeding the march of progress, but I have a feeling that he was not really serious.

'FLU STRIKES AGAIN

The long peal attempt for 10,080 Spliced Surprise Major in 45 methods at Longney, Gloucestershire, last Saturday (Jan. 17), had to be called off at the last moment because one of the team was struck down with influenza. Another day will be fixed shortly.

DEATH OF MR. C. W. NUTT

The sudden death of C. William Nutt at his home on January 3 came as a great shock to his fellow ringers in the Hereford Diocesan Guild. He had been a ringer at Bosbury for about 50 years, was ringing master of the Ledbury District for 20 years and a loyal member of the Hereford Diocesan Guild. A farm worker, and later a gardener, he was known to be thorough and trustworthy, and as a ringer, especially a peal ringer, he was the same. His peal total of 70 included those for the Worcester Association.

The funeral took place at Bosbury on January 8, when 20 ringers were present. Mr. J. Ward represented the Hereford Diocesan Guild and Mr. J. Ranford (ringing master) the Ledbury and District Branch. The service was choral and ended with the ringers' hymn. Four ringers acted as bearers and the bells were rung halfmuffled after the service. In the evening a peal of Doubles was rung by some of the band who rang in his last peal ten days previous. Quarter peals were rung at Crad-ley and Eastnor and on January 10 the bells at Bosbury were rung to a quarter peal by fellow members. A peal was also rung half-muffled at Mathon.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for January 19, 1945

The leader followed up Col. Jerram's letter of the previous issue regarding the West Country Round Ringing.

At Appleton the first peal in the method by all, Double Norwich Court Bob Caters, was conducted by Walter F. Judge, whilst at Enderby, Leics, Francis W. Jelley rang his — the treble to Cambridge Surprise

Parker's 12-Part Grandsire Triples was rung silent at Coseley, Staffs, and to umpire it-Francis Brotherton.

William A. Stote conducted his first peal of Doubles at Keresley, Warwicks.

Holme Pierrepont, Notts, ringers rang a quarter of Doubles in which four of the five scored first quarters.

An editorial note stated that the increased circulation of The Ringing World had exhausted the extra supply of paper allowed. and new subscribers would only be supplied as vacancies, either from death or other cause, occurred! [Editor's note: We can supply any number now!]

The death of Mr. Samuel Cotton (78), of Leicester, was reported. He was a fine handbell ringer, but only rang 80 peals in all.

A request came from W. Edgar Clarke, Chaplain, R.A.F., S.H.A.E.F., for a set of handbells for "an enthusiastic body of soldiers and airmen in France to learn and

The deaths of Mr. Hugh Beechey (58), of St. John's, Peterborough, and of Mr. C. E. Read (77), of Ewell, were announced.

50 YEARS AGO January 23, 1920

In a peal of Stedman Cinques at Shoreditch, Alfred H. Winch rang the 6th-his first attempt for a 12-bell peal.

A resident band, the first, rang a first peal of Doubles on the newly-rehung five bells at Orlingbury, Northants.

During a week's visit to Guildford seven handbell peals and four tower bell peals were rung, all conducted by Alf Pulling. The new ring of eight at Watford Parish

Church was dedicated and the "new slider and also a device for preventing the clapper from rebounding" were of great interest to

The Ancient Society of College Youths decided to exclude ladies from membership. In Rule 1 the word "male" was to be inserted and in Rule 4 the words "or she" were to be omitted.

The bells at Portbury (tenor 25 cwt.) had been renovated by Messrs. Llewellin and James, of Bristol.

At Leiston, Suffolk, on January 13, six brothers rang a handbell peal of Kent T.B. Maximus, the first ever as such. They were Allen F. Bailey 1-2, Ernest S. 3-4, Charles F. 5-6, James M. 7-8, Frederick W. 9-10 and Edgar H. 11-12. It was a birthday peal for Ernest S. Bailey. [See R.W., p. 39.—Ed.]

MR. J. E. BARBER'S PASSING

Mr. John Edward Barber, of Wrexham, passed away peacefully, after a long illness, on January 9, at the age of 65. He had given a lifetime of devoted service as a ringer and sidesman at Wrexham Parish Church.

Following the funeral service, attended by many friends and ringers, a half-muffled quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung by his fellow ringers, three of whom had been ringers with him for 50 years.

History of the Bells and Bellringing By J. D. COOPER

THE VILLAGE OF CASTOR lies about five miles to the west of Peterborough, at present amidst rich farmland, although by 1986 it is expected that it will have been swallowed up by Greater Peterborough—a new town of 180,000.

There has been a settlement at Castor for at least 2,000 years, for when the Romans came there was already a pottery industry. In Roman times the area was very industrial with important pottery and iron works, as well as a large camp on the south bank of the River Nene at Duribrivae.

The church is the only one in the country dedicated to St. Kyneburgha, who came about A.D. 650 with her sister, St. Kyneswitha, and built a nunnery. There are traces of Roman and Saxon materials in the church, which was dedicated in 1124.

The Norman tower has stood aloft above the valley for 800 years, and it is reckoned to be second only to that of Tewkesbury Abbey. The ringing chamber is reached through a curious priest chamber and has a fine oak roof with crude carvings.

The present ring of six bells was cast in 1700 by Henery Bagley, of Ecton, near Wellingborough. The inscriptions are:—

 and 2.—Henricus Bagley nos fecit 1700.
 and 4.—Henry Bagley Of Ecton made me 1700.

5. — Cantate Domine, Canticum Novem Henricus fecit 1700.

 To the Church the living call and to the grave do summon ali. Henry Bagley made me 1700.

Little is known of the ringing before the beginning of the 19th century. In 1795 the ringers had a lucky escape when the tower was struck by lightning just after they had finished ringing for the King's birthday. During the 19th century the ringers received 18s. a year, for the bells were rung for the monarch's official birthday and also on November 5, after which they were given a "hot" supper at the Royal Oak, which consisted of bread, cheese and onions. This practice continued until 1914. New bell ropes were purchased every year from 1812 to 1825 at the cost of 50s, for six. This stock of ropes appears to have lasted well as no more ropes were bought until 1835 and then 1850.

A bell was tolled at Castor on the night of Princess Leopold's funeral and a "dumb" peal was rung on November 18, 1852, on the occasion of the Duke of Wellington's funeral. A peal of 5,040 Bob Minor variations was rung on the bells on January 18, 1853, conducted by Jonathan Shelton, and by the same band who rang the peal of 10,080 changes at Glinton on January 17, 1852

The last national event of the 19th century for which the bells rang was the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria in June, 1897. After June, 1898, the bells were only to be chimed for the morning and evening services on Sundays. In 1900 they were rehung in iron frames with steel girders by Taylor's, of Loughborough, and the opportunity was taken to retune and turn the bells

The rehung bells were rung in December, 1900, for the death of the Bishop of London, but a much more joyful event was the Coronation of King Edward VII in 1902.

In 1908 the face of the clock was renovated and this was followed by repairs to the tower and spire in 1909. The year 1910 brought a Peterborough Association meeting on Easter Monday and muffled ringing for the King's death, May 20. In 1924 the bells rang for the celebrations of the church's 800th anniversary, but in 1932 were pronounced unringable on account of the state of the spire.

In 1948 a new rector brought a change of heart as regards the bells, and Taylor's were requested to inspect them. The report was favourable and ringing commenced in July, 1948. A new local band was formed and the first peal since 1926 took place in 1952 and included three local ringers. It is hoped to ring a local peal this year.

Since 1948 progress has been continuous, although the present band includes few of the 1948 ringers. The bells have been rung regularly twice on Sundays and also at 6.30 a.m. on Easter Day and 5.30 a.m. on Ascension Day.

Although there have been only six peals rung since 1948, quarter peals have proved very popular on a variety of occasions, including the Coronation in 1953. The first quarter by the local band was in 1956. The year 1961 brought a quarter for the enthronement of the Archbishop of Canterbury and a peal to commemorate the century of the village school.

In 1968 the bells were probably rung more than ever before, 13 quarters and one peal being rung. The autumn of 1969 saw the bells being taken down yet again by Taylor's for rehanging, but the advances of the modern world are such that a job which took two months in 1900 now takes six months. It is hoped that 1970 will see great advances in the standard of ringing, the basis of which has already been laid.

SCOTTISH HOSPITALITY

Mr. Alan Carveth, of Truro, Cornwall, writes:—

"I was very interested in the article by R. K. R. on Scottish rings of four, and particularly regarding the visit in 1949 to ring the bells of the Church of the Holy Rood, Stirling. I was serving in the R.A.F. at Dunfermline at the time, and was invited to join the band by Mr. Ranald Clouston. I still have his copy of the ten Minimus methods we rang that afternoon, and the event was notable for the many townspeople who visited the tower during the afternoon's ringing, and these included some of the civic dignitaries.

"At that time I enjoyed a great deal of hospitality amongst the Scottish ringers, particularly in Edinburgh and Paisley. This hospitality was repeated ten years later when my wife and I spent our honeymoon in Scotland. A band of ringers from Edinburgh met us on a Wednesday afternoon to enable my wife and myself to ring at Alloa, Dunblane and Fettes College, towers which had 'eluded' me during my previous stay.

"Perhaps some time in the future we shall have the opportunity to come north again and ring at our 'untouched' towers at Inverness, Inveraray, Dundee and the new six at Stirling."

STINCHCOMBE STILL SUB JUDICE

Dear Sir,-In his letter published on Jan. 16 Mr. Robin Collis asked the Gloucester and Bristol Association to comment on his observations. As the matter of Stinchcombe bells is still sub judice—the Chancellor has not yet given his decision—the Association is unable to reply to his criticism. would point out, however, that the Gloucester and Bristol Association was not alone in opposing the granting of a faculty; the petition was actually filed by the Archdeacon of Gloucester, and the Diocesan Advisory Committee whose chairman gave evidence—was strongly opposed to the application. Had Mr. Collis a full knowledge of the events leading up to the Consistory Court hearing or had he been present in court his opinion would, no doubt, be rather different.

We are aware that within our Association, as in most Associations, there are towers where the bells, for various reasons, are not rung regularly every Sunday. It is the Association's aim to teach ringers wherever and whenever possible. To this end we organise residential and day courses and pay travelling expenses of instructors. To date no request for instruction has ever been turned down.

Recently a band of ringers was trained ready to ring at Maisemore as soon as the bells were rehung after a silence of some 30 years. At the present time three of the Association officers are engaged in teaching bands of ringers in addition to regular practice and Sunday service ringing at their own towers. Mr. Scudamore has regularly been travelling a round distance of 50 miles to help an inexperienced band. Those who know our ringing master know that there is no one keener to teach and foster the interest of young ringers.

As Mr. Collis so obviously has an interest in the Gloucester and Bristol area we shall look forward with pleasure to receiving his donation to the Special Appeal Fund, which has already received support from a wide area.—Yours faithfully,

E. MARY BLISS, Chairman CHARLES ROUSE, Hon, Secretary Gloucester and Bristol Association.

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

"TO mutilate . . . 720's in order to compress an exceptional number of methods within a 5,040 is a procedure which will never commend itself to the Exercise generally."—
A. Percival Heywood ("Bell News," May,

"Just a word more to dismiss as unpracticable the question of producing methods that will interlock without producing false changes. The idea is a pretty one, and it may afford fireside amusement (a pleasant may afford fireside amusement (a pleasant department of our art) for those who have time to go into it, but except as a fancy performance such methods will never be rung, as the better known will necessarily be those chosen for multi-method peals." — William Snowdon ("Belt News," May, 1894).

PART I: THE BEGINNINGS

On Wednesday, November 10th, 1909, the Rev. H. Law James called a peal of Minor at Surfleet, which, when it was reported in "Bell News" a fortnight later, bore the simple footnote:

"First peal in eight methods on the bells, by all the band and by the above Guild," the Guild referred to being the Lincoln
Diocesan. The peal provoked no editorial the Guid Televical Diocesan. The peal provoked no editorial comment and no correspondence, and has seldom been accorded any special credit. Yet it stands as a milestone in the development of change ringing for its first 720 was in two methods—Oxford Bob and Double Bob—and was the first "spliced" 720 ever to be included in a peal.

To understand how and why this peal came To understand how and why this peal came to be rung it is necessary to go back to the closing years of the last century, to the second meeting of the Central Council. This was in 1892, at Birmingham. The Council there laid down that a peal of Minor should consist of not less than 5,040 changes made up of true 720's. A reasonable stipulation, it seems today, but nevertheless one that was to cause considerable argument at the time and for several years to follow several years to follow.

360's AND THE COUNCIL

In order to increase the number of methods In order to increase the number of methods in a peal, some of the best Minor bands had for many years been ringing peals made up of 360's or even 240's. The idea was not, as is sometimes thought, a Yorkshire innovation, the first such peal having in fact been rung in Lancashire, at Prestwich, in April, 1808. The first peal in Yorkshire on this plan was not rung until seven years later, at Darfield, and consisted of 22 240's. Multi-method peals of this type became gradually more frepeals of this type became gradually more frequent, most of them being in the West Riding of Yorkshire, but others as far afield as Braintree (in 1883), Steyning (1889) and Caversham

The idea even spread to higher numbers. At the opening of Galleywood bells in September, 1873, Squire Proctor's band from Benington had rung a 5,060 made up of touches in ten different methods, from Grand-sire Triples to London Surprise Major. And at Rotherham eight years later Charles Hat-tersley called 6,006 changes of Caters and Royal on the same "plan."

In 1883 a record had been set by George Bolland and the Tong band when, on February 17th of that year they had rung at Tong a 6,000 of Minor consisting of no less than 25 240's in as many different Treble Bob

The Council's insistence on true 720's was consequently seen by the best Minor bands as a retrograde step. The Yorkshire men maintained, with some reason, that their peals in 14 or more methods were better performances than those in seven, and they fought hard and persistently against this ruling.

Attempts to amend it were defeated in each of the following four years, the debate at the 1894 meeting in London being of particular interest, for it was here that the possibility of "spliced" ringing was first publicly

The president, Mr. (later Sir) Arthur P. Heywood, who had consistently refused to allow the requirement for complete 720's to be relaxed, said that James Wilde had sent him a true 720 consisting of several methods, while Bankes James pointed out that it was possible to splice 14 plain methods into seven 720's by using singles.

(There can be little doubt that the 720 referred to by Heywood was James Platt's nine-method masterpiece (see "Ringing World," April 18th, 1969, page 300). Its historical and theoretical significance was unfortunately not grasped by Heywood, nor by the normally persipient Bankes James. Indeed. the normal y percipient Bankes James. Indeed, the latter's reference to splicing by singles shows how far his ideas were behind those of Platt, who by this time had been dead for nearly 40 years.)

While the debates continued, multi-method peals of Minor were still being rung in the old manner. Finally, in 1897, the original resolution, which had been generally ignored, was quietly rescinded. Nothing was put in its place, and Minor ringers were once more legally free to ring what they wished.

And there the matter rested until the peal in eight methods at Surfleet in the autumn of 1909.

SPLICED IN LINCOLNSHIRE

The Rev. Law James had played little part in the debates of 1892-7, leaving the chief protagonists—the unbending Percival Hey-wood and the persistent William Snowdon—to argue the pros and cons of the matter. the possibilities of splicing had clearly stayed in the back of his mind, and the 1909 peal was the first practical expression of his thoughts.

It was followed by a peal in nine methods at, Surfleet on March 10th, 1910. This conat Strices on March 16.5., the methods in each—Plain and Double Bob, Single and Double Court—being linked by singles. Two Double Court—being linked by singles. Two more peals in eight methods followed, the first at Edenham in September and the second a month later at Fieet. In November a second peal in nine methods was rung at Sunfleet

Then, on February 15th, 1911, Law James called a 5,000 in 14 methods at Edenham. The first five pairs of methods—Norfolk and Primrose, Cunecastre and London, Beverley and Durham, Ipswich and Cambridge and Sandal and Oxford T.B.—were spliced in whole courses, and the last two—Single and Double Oxford and Piain and Double Bob—by halfway singles. The band stood as follows:

Arthur I. Holmes .. Treble Rev. H. Law James ...
John W. Lake ...
James Osborn ...
Fred Blood ... Fred Blood 5 Rupert Richardson .. Tenor

Of these, the ringer of the treble, second and tenor belonged to Surfleet, while the other three came from Bourne.

This peal is sometimes taken to mark the introduction of spliced ringing, although it was in fact, as we have seen, the culmination of a series of peals rung over the preceding 15 months.

THE COUNCIL'S REACTIONS

Be that as it may, Law James had proved in practical terms the feasibility of splicing methods together within a 720 while yet preserving the truth of the extent. Accordingly, when the Central Council next met, in Leicester in the June of the year, he moved that a peal of Minor should consist of "at least seven true and complete seven hundred and twenties." The proposal was not met very warmly. Mindful of the arguments that had followed the similar resolution 20 years earlier, the Council could not be persuaded to adopt it as a firm rule. Instead a com-promise was reached and, on the proposition of Joseph W. Parker, the resolution was finally passed only as a recommendation.

Obituary

CANON H. T. MOGRIDGE, M.A.

The first mention of Rev. H. T. Mogridge in ringing circles is in the minutes of the Aldrington band's annual general meeting, when on January 25, 1927, he was elected a member.

He learnt to ring at Aldrington, covering for Doubles, and to hunt the treble. It was a favourite story that he promised to treat first 720. This was duly arranged and the rector's success earned his ringers a fine spread! He enjoyed bellringers' outings to the full and was affectionately known as "Moggy." the ringers to a dinner when he scored his

During his incumbency the six at Aldrington were rehung by Taylor's, being rededicated by the Bishop of Chichester on Oct. 10, 1948.

For his silver jubilee at Aldrington he was made a Canon of Chichester Cathedral.

The first non-conducted quarter peal was rung in the tower on July 18, 1954, to commemorate his 28th anniversary in the living and he was made a vice-president of the Sussex County Association the same year.

At one time, six young lady ringers (average age 17½) of the Aldrington band rang a quarter peal and an "all-male" quarter was then arranged, but this could only be attempted if the rector would be one of the ringers. On Palm Sunday, 1955, he rang the tenor for his first quarter peal at the age of 64 (the average age of the band was never disclosed!).

One peal (Grandsire Doubles) has been rung at Aldrington. A local band, on Oct. 15, 1955, paid tribute to Canon Mogridge's 29 years of devoted service. He moved to Thakeham, where his ringing continued, and a quarter of Plain Bob Minor was a compliment to him by Aldrington and Thake-ham ringers. He retired to Steyning, Sussex, in 1962. On December 26 last he suffered a cerebral hæmorrhage and died on December 29 at the age of 78 years.

A man of dignity and devotion, he did much for St. Leonard's and will long be remembered. We are the richer for his example of a life well spent in true service. S. W. B.

THE REV. G. BOWMAN

The Vicar of Newhey, Rev. George Bow-man, died suddenly on January 3. He had been there for 2½ years; his drive and enthusiasm revitalised the parish, particularly in the belfry, to which he was a regular visitor and for which he was responsible for the installation of the new ring (tenor 4) cwt.). He also raised funds for restoring the organ and resurfacing the church road. A peal was rung as an "in memoriam" and mention must be made of the excellent ringing of Miss Kathryn Lawson—her first peal inside.

Three hundred and sixties continued as a result to be rung in peals of Minor for several result to be rung in peals of Minor for several years to come. True, they were not as frequent as in the past, but it was another 13 years before the last such peal was to be recorded. This was rung at Hanley Swan, Worcestershire, on May 18th, 1924, conducted by the late Charles Camm, and consisted of 14 360's in as many methods.

A QUIET YEAR

The annual meeting of the Wimborne Branch of Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Swanage on January 3. Ringing on the eight bells of the parish church took place before the service and after the meeting, and methods attempted were not very complex, about 50 per cent being devoted to rounds and Doubles methods. The guild office was conducted by the newly-inducted rector (Rev. D. Bailey), who was duly elected a member at the meeting which followed. Tea, prepared by the Swanage ringers' wives, was greatly enjoyed.

Officers elected for 1970 were: Chairman, Dr. C. T. Brown (Wareham); vice-chairman, Mr. H. I. Pitman; ringing master, Mr. H. Mitchell (St. John's, Bournemouth); hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Robertson (Wareham); committee members: Mr. C. Bishop (Wimborne), Mr. I. Davis (Poole) and Mrs. M. Howitt (Swanage).

Six new members were elected and the secretary reported a quiet year, with slightly increased membership. An excellent dinner had been held at Wareham, following a quarterly meeting and an enjoyable skittles evening had taken place in February. It was hoped to repeat both these events in 1970. Twenty-six quarter peals had been rung and several younger members had rung their first peal. The winners of the branch's heat for the Blandford ringing festival were also the competition winners, viz., the "Wareham A" band. It was also hoped to arrange a coach outing to the guild A.G.M. at Bridport.

ENTERTAINMENT FOLLOWS MEETING

The annual meeting of the Biggleswade District of Bedfordshire Association was held at Maulden on January 10, with the usual ringing during the afternoon, followed by service, conducted by the rector, Rev. P. G. Oakley. Mr. M. J. Lockey was the organist.

At the business meeting in the church hall an apology was given for the president, Mr. A. E. Rushton, who was ill. Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. S. H. Ashton; secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. H. Smith; ringing masters, Messrs. C. D. Mann and R. Webb; committee: Messrs. K. Fleming, M. Major, R. Sharp, A. S. Smith; belfry fund treasurer, Miss S. Percival; organists, Messrs. M. J. Lockey and P. Rogers; press secretary, Mrs. Mary Mann.

The arrangements for the annual district outing were again left to Mr. P. Rogers, and Mr. M. Major the striking contest. Appreciation was expressed to Mr. K. H. Fleming for his work as secretary.

Ringing continued until 8 p.m., under Mr. C. D. Mann. An excellent buffet supper had been prepared by Mrs. Linda Fleming and helpers, and the social which followed was a new venture. Keith Fleming was M.C. and the entertainment included Chris Hardy (folk songs) and Grandsire Caters on handbells by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ivin, Miss Julia Fellows, Mr. M. Major and Mr. A. H. Smith. St. Andrew's, Biggleswade, ringers gave a sketch. M. L. M.

SILENT TOWERS

Ringing took place at Great Wymondley prior to the annual general meeting of the Northern District of Hertfordshire County Association held at Hitchin on January 3. The Vicar, Rev. R. E. Meredith, conducted the service, which was held in conjunction with a service terminating the North Herts children's choirs course.

After a buffet tea, Geoffrey Dodds was elected to chair the meeting. The district reports were given and the financial position stated. This led to a discussion on how best the money in the voluntary bell fund could be invested yet readily accessible, and it was left to the secretary to make enquiries and report at the next quarterly meeting.

The following new members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. Alan Boyd and Stephen Bedford (Hitchin), Trevor Broom (Stotfold) and Trevor Freer (Baldock). Mrs. Marion Searle (Stevenage) was re-elected, having moved back into the district, and John Leeming was transferred to non-resident membership.

Mrs. Anne Agg resigned her position as district secretary and thanks were accorded her for her efficient two years in office. Geoffrey Horritt (Stevenage) was elected in her place. The district expressed regret at losing its ringing master, John Leeming, whose enthusiasm had helped establish the Surprise practices. Ian Panton was elected ringing master, with Rex Agg as assistant. Other officers were re-elected, with Peter Cranfield elected to fill a vacancy on the committee.

Suggested venues for future meetings were given and it was decided that monthly Surprise practices should be continued. Ringing information for each tower was corrected for the annual report, and in view of the number of silent towers in the district the secretary was asked to compile a list so that occasional Sunday service ringing could be organised at every tower.

A vote of thanks to the chairman, to the Vicars of Hitchin and Great Wymondley, and to the ladies for preparing a very enjoyable tea concluded the business.

Members then returned to the tower for further ringing.

FIRST PRACTICE IN THE 70s

Saturday, January 3, saw the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association hold their first 1970 practice meeting at the Parish Church of St. Mary, Hardington Mandeville.

Over 30 ringers attended, despite the cold weather and illness. Ringing on the pleasant light six (tenor 8 cwt.) was supervised by the ringing master, Mr. Gordon Rendell, and assistant, Mr. Jim Taylor. The branch is grateful to Canon L. Sharland, rector, and Mr. Gilbert Rendell, tower master, for their kindness in making the tower and bells available.

Forthcoming events.—February: Practice, East Coker (8, 13 cwt.); social evening, Fleur-de-Lys, Stoke-sub-Hamdon. May: Branch striking competition, Long Sutton (6, 17 cwt.). Further details from branch hon. secretary or ringing master.

NEW RINGING MASTER

The pleasant village of Writtle, near Chelmsford, will always have a special significance in the history of the Essex Association as it was here that the Association was founded in 1879. Members present on that occasion would no doubt have been surprised had they seen the large number of young people who converged on Writtle and its eight bells for the annual general meeting of the South Eastern District of the Essex Association on January 3. Ringing preceded the service, conducted by the curate (Rev. W. Cummings), who in an amusing address gave his views on certain parts of the human anatomy. The Rev. A. Abbey, of Sandon, was at the organ and carols were sung in place of the traditional ringers' hymns. Tea was served in the hall by Mr. Herbert Edwards and helpers and was again generously provided by Mrs. M. French, of Writtle. At the business meeting which followed, the master (Mr. Andrew Hudson) welcomed Mrs. French and Mr. Frank Lufkin, master of the Association.

The secretary reported that 1969 had been an encouraging year, with good progress being made in many towers. The retiring master did not seek re-election and Philip Rothera was elected master for 1970. Richard Harrison was elected secretary and Jim Towler and Bob Leavett committee representatives. Philip Mark and Robert Palmer, of Terling, were elected ringing members. Mr. Lufkin spoke in appreciation of the warm welcome he had received at Writtle and expressed his pleasure at the large number of young people present. A vote of thanks to all those who had helped to make the meeting a success was proposed by Andrew Hudson, who also thanked members for their support during his term as master. This concluded the business of the meeting, and further ringing continued until 8.30 p.m.

SPECIFIC RESPONSIBILITIES

The A.G.M. of the Rutland Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held at Oakham on January 10. Good use was made of the fine eight bells, over 30 members and visitors taking part. We were pleased to welcome Mr. J. H. Bluff (guild master), who took charge of the ringing.

The tea and meeting were held at the Singing Kettle Cafe. The existing officers and guild committee members were reelected and it was decided to create new positions so that branch committee members have specific responsibilities. The belfry officer is responsible for improving the standard of belfry maintenance in the branch. The press officer will report on branch activities to The Ringing World and guild newsletter.

Officers elected were: President and ringing master, Charles Hudson; vice-president and belfry officer, Lionel Atton; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Scholes; press officer, Cynthia Barnett; guild committee: Lionel Atton and Christopher Groome, branch committee members: Alan Ellis, Ray Richardson and William Taylor.

New members elected were Richard Chantler, Diane Spencer and Diane Stainsby.

Taken at Easter, for the dedication of the "Tower Cross," Mr. Bill Meyers (holding the cross) made the new bell frame and also hand-carved the beautiful processional cross which was made partly from the old bell frame timbers and partly from the new timber: hence the name "Tower Cross."

The small boy (Ian Parry) handles a bell extremely well and is now learning to ring rounds.

RULES DISCUSSED

The Bridgwater Branch of Bath and Wells Association held its A.G.M. on January 4 at its home tower and its only ring of eight—St. Mary's, Bridgwater. The bells rang out soon after 2.30, there being some 30 members and visitors present, and the service was conducted by the curate, the Rev. C. Andrews.

Tea was taken in a nearby cafe, and at the business meeting the members received with regret the resignation of the hon, secretary. John Aldridge. The meeting extended its appreciation to him for the work he had done over the past five years. The following officers were elected: Mr. C. Herniman (chairman). Mrs. S. Beck (vice-chairman), Mr. M. J. Stone (secretary); Mr. K. Lane was re-elected ringing master and the silent towers committee was re-elected en bloc.

Seven new members were elected, following which the general secretary explained to the meeting amendments to the rules drawn up by the standing committee. On his there was some discussion, together with the arrangements for the A.G.M.

Ringing continued until 9 p.m.

NEW SECRETARY ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Northern District of the Essex Association was held at St. Peter's Church, Coggeshall, on Jan.

3. The service was conducted by the vicar and tea was provided by the parishioners in the Church Hall.

At the business meeting which followed, Mr. C. Gillingham, of Braintree, was elected secretary in place of Mr. R. Threadgold, of Wethersfield, who for business reasons was unable to continue. Mr. Threadgold was thanked for his services over the past three years and promised to continue his activities among the younger ringers in the district.

The master, Mr. Roper, of Finchingfield, gave an encouraging report, but reminded members of the need to revitalise a number of towers in the district where the sound of bells is no longer heard.

The retiring secretary reported an increase in numbers, and after the meeting had been reminded of the present qualifications expected of members, new members and probationers were sponsored and elected from Black Notley, Coggeshall and Wethersfield. A variety of ringing continued during the evening.

PLACE NOTATIONS

Stuart I. Bamforth writes:-

"May I ask through your columns if anybody possesses the place notation for the method Oxford Surprise Major? It was rung at Brighton on Dec. 31, 1897, composed by G. Williams, and the method by J. W. Washbrook. I suspect that it is irregular.

"I would also like to point out that the method rung as Sheppey in a peal of spliced in 1963 had, in fact, been rung previously. It was rung at Burton-on-Trent as Superlative Surprise Major, Burton variation, as early as April 29, 1886, composed by A. P. Heywood. I would like to see this method renamed Burton or New Superlative, the name Sheppey now being inappropriate."

CHEERS!

Dear Sir,—I would like to congratulate you on your new Ringing World cover. It is quite obvious, however, that this is a West Country sales drive as the colour scheme has particular significance for the Cornish. For the last three years we have had the colours of the Cornwall rugby team (the R.W. came in very handy for waving at the county championship final last year) and now, as any regular visitor to the Duchy will know, we have superimposed the colour scheme used for many years by the Devenish Rudruth Brewery.-Yours cheersfully, ANTHONY J. DAVIDSON.

Truro, Cornwall,

NOT DIRTY WORDS

Dear Sir,-Since Mr. Marsh's condemnation of peal ringers a few weeks ago two people have written to you supporting him. It seems most significant that both of these people are residents of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association - firstly, Mr. Cribley, of Stroud, then Mr. Taylor, of Cheltenham.

For several years I would make a point of loyally attending the Association's annual general meeting, but one of the reasons I now do not attend is because the Association seems to be plagued with antipealites. One tires of hearing the expression 'peal ringer" being used as if they were dirty words.

For Mr. Taylor's education I can inform him that peal ringers are the backbone of Bristol ringing. Without them the bells of St. Ambrose's Cathedral, St. Stephen's (when ringable) and Christ Church would be silent each Sunday. It is mainly the peal ringers who attend the fortnightly practice St. John's to ring Grandsire Doubles and call-changes on a rota basis with the lessexperienced.

I can only put their attitude down to icalousy of the opportunity or ability to participate in peal ringing. — Yours faithfully.

D. JOHN HUNT. Bristol.

FALSE COMPOSITION

Dear Sir. — On checking the figures for Easingwold Surprise Major rung at Easingwold on July 26, 1969, I find the composition used is false and would accordingly like to withdraw it.

I would like to apologise to the band for not checking the falseness thoroughly enough and to the Methods and Analysis Committees for this late withdrawal.

It would appear that there is no composition for the falseness b. d, g: perhaps one of our leading composers could confirm this.—Yours faithfully,

Leeds, Yorks.

C. B. DOVE.

STINCHCOMBE'S BELLS

Dear Sir.-While Mr. Collis (R.W., page 30) has a very valid point regarding lack of ringers in the Stinchcombe area, the fact still remains that if Stinchcombe bells are not rehung for ringing the possibility of getting ringers there is lost forever.

It is high time that all Associations, both territorial and non-territorial, realised that there is, due to lack of ringers, a great number of bells not being rung regularly, and it is their prime duty both to the Exercise and the Church to take immediate steps to remedy this situation.—Yours faithfully, Rochford, Essex. PETER SLOMAN.

CENTRAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATION

Dear Sir,—I refer to Mr. Camp's eloquent letter on page 19. I would agree with him that representation on the Council is, or should be, of societies and not of individuals. However, there is a proportional aspect of representation that should be considered, otherwise all societies should be equal with one representative and the smallest will have equal influence with the largest.

Mr. Camp, however, having buried the false "one man one vote" promise in a manner befitting a representative of the Oxford University Society fighting to keep his place on the C.C., goes on to put forward two other equally false premises.

Firstly, that the "individual and distinct that non-territorial societies contributions" make to the Exercise are made at C.C. meetings. Secondly, that C.C. membership has effect on the work and effectiveness of

For the smaller societies C.C. member-ship means recognition and "official status," especially in the peal ringing field. It would appear, therefore, that if non-territorial societies could affiliate to the C.C. by paying an annual fee so that they become "recognised" for peal purposes, this would go a long way to satisfy their requirements. Arrangements could be made for such affiliated societies to present motions to the Council either through a "territorial" representative or through the president.

Another point concerning representation is that although there is a laid down number of society members to a representative, many societies have differing rules for membership. Most territorial societies have resident and non-resident members, the residents only being counted for representation. Perhaps the Council could consider some method of imposing uniformity and also checking that societies are observing the rules. The University Societies, for example, do have the equivalent of resident and nonresidents though I doubt that they will admit it. The London County Association as a territorial society also has only one level of membership and four representatives on the strength of it!

Whatever the arrangements made for territorial and non-territorial societies, it would be a step in the right direction if all the C.C. representatives were there on the same basis!—Yours faithfully,

ANDREW W. R. WILBY. Harpenden, Herts.

Dear Sir,-John Camp's letter (page 19, Jan. 9) displays splendid emotion and a vested interest. I prefer to look at university representation in the wider context of the argument that the Council would function more efficiently if it were smaller.

My suggestions for achieving a reduction have been extensively, if not always accurately, reported. They include a reduction in honorary membership and all classes of elected representatives. As Mr. Camp has isolated non-territorial societies I will restrict my present remarks to them.

All non-territorial societies perform some function, or they would not exist. One would like them all to have a voice on the Council, but if one accepts, as many apparently do. that the Council is too large. they inevitably receive early attention because all their members are able to be resident members of a territorial society. The university societies are heavily represented there are eight members from the six societies affiliated—and many other members of these societies represent territorial societies, e.g., London University has about a dozen. Surely it would be sufficient for the universities to be jointly represented, per-haps through the U.A.? The other societies with restricted membership, such as those for doctors and railwaymen, merit no representation in my view because their activities are merely social; which leaves the C.Y. societies. These two provide the "further education" which most territorial societies cannot provide. They are national organisations open to all who reach an acceptable entry standard; it would be a pity if room could not be found for their representatives.

I see nothing illogical in differentiating between the university societies and the College Youths and Cumberlands. And why should the university societies be singled out as having raised standards? Most of the societies affiliated to the Council have played their part at all levels, not just with the more proficient.—Yours faithfully,

DOUGLAS A. R. MAY.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MINUTES

Dear Sir.-I wonder whether Mr. Exton has written to you rather than to me because he thinks you are responsible for writing the Minutes, or because he thinks you may have tampered with my copy?

Those who care to follow up Mr. Exton's point could perhaps refer to a good dictionary. The "considerable difference" between "vary" and "revise and bring up to date" is that the former is rather more succinct.—Yours faithfully,

VERNON BOTTOMLEY.

SIXTEEN IN HAND

Dear Sir,-Probably the first mention of changes on 16 bells in hand was from the records of the famous Samuel Lawrence, of Shifnal. After the 7,200 Kent Treble Bob Maximus at St. Martin's, Birmingham, on April 17, 1820, he informs us: "At the same meeting several courses of Treble Bob Maximus were rung on the handbells, and one course of 16, in the Grandsire method. The ringer named Powell, mentioned by E. Barnett, would no doubt be Thomas Powell. He was not one of the band that rang the first peal of Stedman Cinques in hand on February 10, 1854. We find he rang 3-4 to what would have been (?) the first of Stedman Triples, December 19, 1853. John Cox conducted from 1-2. William Cooter. 2 noted ringer of his day, was among those that heard the ringing, and afterwards as-serted that Cox "changed hands" for nearly a course and put them right just before the part end. Grandsire Triples (Holt's Original) was rung in hand.

"June 22, 1854. Thomas Powell ringing An interesting item which may refer to the same person. On Dec. 12, 1848. at St. Martin's, Birmingham, a Thomas Powell rang the 2nd to 7,392 Stedman Cinques. Composed and conducted by Henry Johnson, it was the longest length of Stedman Cinques to that date.—Yours faithfully, JOHN G. NASH.

A BIG PROGRAMME

The attendance at the first meeting of 1970 of the Maidstone District, K.C.A., held at Staplehurst on January 10, was exceptionally good, there being many new faces amidst the collection of ringers, and over 50 consumed the excellent tea provided by the local ringers.

The chairman opened the meeting by welcoming the visitor (yes, there was only one!), and seven new members and four life members were elected. Mr. Tester, the secretary, briefly detailed the programme for 1970, in which there are 29 meetings or practices. Programme cards were made available. Matters discussed at the November committee meeting were then outlined by Mr. Garner and mention was made of the four recently-rehung bells at Addington, rededicated during evensong on Jan. 18.

Ringing, under the guidance of Mr. Muchlinski continued until 8.45 p.m. and ranged from rounds to Spliced Surprise Major. The evening was suitably rounded off in the nearest alehouse (not inappropriately called The Bell).

TEN WAYS

in which you can stop the ringing in your tower:

1. Come on Sunday, but never for more than five minutes before ringing stops. 2. Don't ring when it is (a) too hot, (b) too cold, (c) too wet, (d) too windy.

3. Only turn up for practice nights for the last 15 minutes' ringing, and—

4. Keep away on practice night for the slightest excuse.

5. Moan that the learners are not ringing properly, but do nothing to help.

6. Offer to stand by a beginner and say nothing, then complain to the others for speaking when the beginner goes

Always be critical and complain at the first blow out of place; never give the ringer a chance to correct himself on his own.

Talk too much and say nothing that helps ringing.

Never attend special practice meetings for learners.

Always take the attitude: "I can ring and you can't." A. R. BRIDGES.

URANGWOT-9

The Stalcentre ringers enjoyed their outing this year, ending with a quarter peal at Strikethe year, ending with a quarter pear at Strike where the bells are perfect in every way. (For the purpose of this problem this means a normal rope circle, regular weight increases from the conductor, only one conductor, from the treble to tenor, only one conductor, and no funny business in the definitions.)

After the bells were rung down, the follow-

g statements were made.

Man: Carol conducted it. Harry rang the Ann: I rang next to Richard. Carol rang a lighter bell than Duncan.

Duscan: I conducted it. Alan rang the Harry: I rang the third. Duncan rang the Richard: Duncan rang the fourth. I rang

The ringing was better than their truthfulness, for each ringer made only one true

ANDOVER DISTRICT'S KEENNESS

"A Happy New Year" was the theme of the address of Canon K. W. H. Felstead at the A.G.M. of the Andover District held at Highclere on Jan. 10. Happiness, he pointed out, came from a sense of service to others. The Rev. T. H. Lewis conducted the service, which was attended by the guild master (Mr. R. E. Savory) and many visitors.

Following tea, provided by Highclere ladies, Mr. Murdock, branch chairman, presided at the business meeting and gave a special word of welcome to Mr. C. Kippin.

Mr. M. Goss (hon, secretary) in his report stated that service ringing was well supported. There had been an increase in peals and quarter peals rung during the year and the district was now tackling peals of Surprise Minor. The treasurer's report was not quite so hopeful. The number of full members had dropped and there had been a decrease in the balance in hand, mainly due to the purchase of the 40th anniversary peal book, junior members were elected.

A combined striking competition and quarterly meeting is to be held at Longparish and Barton Stacey on October 3, and the A.G.M. will be at Andover on January 9, 1971. A donation of £2 was voted to the T. W. White testimonial fund, the ringing master (Mr. G. N. Dodd) calling attention to the then Editor's assistance at the time of the district's 40th anniversary.

After the votes of thanks ringing took place at Highclere and Burghclere.

ONE RADICAL CHANGE

The Society of Sherwood Youths held their A.G.M. at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on Saturday, December 27. Ringing on the fine ten commenced at 3 p.m. and the service was conducted by the Vicar. the Rev. Canon D. R. Feaver, Mrs. J. Dawson and Misses S. Anthony, D. Hol'and aind S. O'Neil kindly prepared tea in St. Mary's Church Hall. At the meeting the secretary reported a fairly successful year and the treasurer's report showed a balance of over £60. The main item on the agenda was the new constitution and was agreed to. The only radical change is that subscriptions now consist of a life membership fee of five shillings with sixpence steepleage at all meetings and practices. The officers were re-elected.

HENRY BAGLEY, OF CHACOMBE

Jane Brown, a pupil of Chacombe C. of E. School, contributed this article which was published in the Peterborough Newsletter, 1969.

The Bagley family are amongst the oldest of Northamptonshire's bellfounders. Between 1600 and 1785, when Matthew Bagley died, hundreds of bells were cast at Chacombe, and they are to be found in church towers all over Northamptonshire and neighbouring counties.

We were especially interested in one of the several "Henry Bagleys" because his restored tombstone is in Chacombe churchyard, within a few yards of the tower which contains some of the bells his family cast. The headstone is inscribed:-

Here lyeth the body of Henery Bagley who departed this life the 1 day of january 1683

To perpetuate ye memory of an ingenious bell-founder this stone was restored A.D. 1794.

The restoration of the stone was paid for by Briant, of Hertford, after he recast the fifth bell at Chacombe in 1790. No doubt he was impressed by the Bagley workmanship.

All six of Chacombe's bells were originally cast by the Bagleys though two have since been recast.

The first three are inscribed: William Bagley made mee 1694. The fourth is inscribed: Canticum Novum Cantate Domine 1694 (this was a favourite Bagley inscription).

"Our" Henry had three sons -- Henry, Matthew and William-and three daughters -Esther, Mary and Sarah. We have a copy of his will in which he left half his messuage and land to his wife, a house in Chacombe and 20 acres of land to his son Henry, and half of his messuage and land to Matthew. He gave William £200 at 21 in 1679 and in the same year Esther (then married) was given £5 and her sisters, Mary and Sarah, £100 each. Henry must have been a man of substance. A detailed inventory of his estate totalled £1,123 8s. 2d.

The fact that Chacombe's fifth bell was recast in 1790 by Briant indicates clearly that with the death of Matthew Bagley in 1785 the bell foundry came to an end. It is thought that Matthew died tragically from burns sustained in a bell casting accident.

There are no Bagleys in Chacombe now. A good deal of information is available about other members of the Bagley family. Another Henry Bagley, of Ecton (perhaps 'our" Henry's son?), recast the ten bells of Lichfield Cathedral in 1687. Among local churches most of the bells of Banbury Parish Church and those at Middleton Cheney are Bagley-cast.

POLITENESS COSTS NOTHING

"Last year a certain party was to visit our 'fishing village,' and as I had plenty of time to 'stand and stare' I volunteered to meet the visitors," writes "Plain Bob." "I was at the tower at the appointed time, but one hour the company of the control of the co and 20 minutes later I decided to call it a day. Knowing what the district is like in the summer months for traffic jams, etc., anything could happen, but our Vicar wrote to those concerned, wondering what had gone wrong, but up to now has received no reply." He asks tower secretaries and others arranging outings to endeavour to keep to a timetable, and if anything goes wrong to cause can cl-lation or delay to let those concerned know immediately.

OBITUARY

MR. H. S. BALL

The funeral of Mr. Harry S. Ball, of the New Inn, Haw Bridge, Tirley, Glos, took place at Tirley, Rev. L. Mann officiating, with the interment at Hasfield. Mrs. Dudfield was at the organ. Harry learned to ring at the age of 15 at Tirley and joined the Tewkesbury Branch of the Bristol and Gloucester Association in 1927, and did a considerable amount of visiting, including London, where he once rang at St. Martinin-the-Fields, a fact of which he was very proud. He had a fund of good ringing stories of his early days. On the day of the funeral the bells of Tirley were rung half-muffled.

SAM WARNE

Mr. Ron Suckling writes:-

"It was my very good fortune to have reached a certain standard of ringing just prior to the Second World War and also to have been able to associate with the band of Lew Wiffen, of Braintree, a band which prided itself not only on reaching Spliced Surprise Major but also on a very high standard of striking. One of the men who helped so much was our regular treble ringer, Sam Warne, whose action was a joy to see. I rang many peals with Sam and I never once remember him making a mistake or a bad blow. He took great pride in his ringing and it was good to have known him. This last year or two he had not been able to do much ringing, having been ill and suffering much pain; none the less his passing last week leaves another gap in the Exercise, I am thankful for all the pleasure I received ringing in peals with him and pray that his soul rests in peace.'

LONG LENGTH ATTEMPT

Dear Sir, —I wish to give notice of an attempt to ring 10,080 Spliced Surprise Major in 45 methods (composition as published in The Ringing World, 1969, p. 988) at Harrow Weald, Middlesex, on Saturday, February 21, starting at 1 p.m. — Yours faithfully,

ANTHONY R. PEAKE.

Stratton St. Margaret, Swindon, Wilts.

Belfry Gossip

The photograph reproduced on page 47 was by Thames Television.

Surely a record never before attained in ringing circles—400 peals together! by Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay and Daniel T. Matkin.

Quarter peal copy should be written as the style used in our journal, otherwise rewriting or altering can cause mistakes.

To celebrate the 1,200th anniversary of Henfield Parish Church the ringers have been invited to take part during June 27-July 4.

Holloway S. Maximus (page 15) is not an extension of Holloway S. Minor, writes A. J. Cox, of Bristol, and suggests a new name is necessary.

A letter to his local paper in Swanage by O. H. Scott complained of "man's inhumanity to man" when on Boxing Day the bells rang continuously from 10.30-1.30 "without a single break."

The efforts of Marcus C. W. Sherwood and his team to be the first peal ringers of the '70s were successful with a handbell peal of P.B. Major, starting soon after midnight on December 31-January 1.

Taking part in the peal of Plain Bob Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne on Jan. 17 were eight of the present service band of All Saints, Marple. The peal was conducted by a former member of the local band, Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis.

An appeal for Titchfield Parish Church will be broadcast on B.B.C. Radio 4 by Martin Muncaster on Sunday. February 1, between 7.55 and 8 p.m., and the bells will be heard at the beginning and end of the appeal. Method: Cambridge Surprise Minor.

The peal of Bob Royal at Wakefield Cathedral on December 27 was rung as a farewell to Rev. Nicholas Webb, who has been precentor there for three-and-a-half vears. He is moving to become Vicar of Thornbill Brought up on Part II of the new Tutor's Handbook, four lads (aged 14) who rang in a quarter peal at Market Weighton have a 100 per cent attendance record for service ringing and practices during the year since they "broke into change-ringing." — Comment by Mr. N. Chaddock.

G. Stedman Morris marked 50 years of peal ringing with one at Lyme Regis on January 10. His first was Grandsire Doubles in hand with his father and brother on Dec. 20, 1919, just before his twelfth birthday. He rang in Cambridge Maximus at Bow on the old 12 when only 17 and was also in the second peal of Maximus at Exeter.

It is not always possible to know accurately the number of peals rung on the bells of a church, but Mr. Ray Bath, of Yorktown, Camberley, has spent considerable time, written many letters and travelled some distance to ascertain and record those of his local church, St. Michael's, The 50th, he found, was rung on December 12 last.

For the fifth anniversary of the rededication of the bells and in memory of Godfrey G. Walpole, late ringing master, a peal was rung at Norton Subcourse, Norfolk, in December. The band was afterwards entertained to refreshments at Low Road, the home of the present ringing master and his parents.

The letter (c) at the end of the quarter peals and peals published indicates a contribution has been sent with the copy. An (a) indicates an annual amount is subscribed. Many ringers feel that the R.W. should not need these contributions, but they have kept the price per copy stable when the price of every other commodity has gone up.

"Bless the Bride!" The local band at Blaby, Leicester, are grateful to a bride who arrived late for her wedding on Dec. 13 as it enabled them to complete a quarter peal. In this, three young ringers scored their first quarter. The ringing also celebrated the birth of Samantha Jane Chapman. Ron Chapman was, before joining the Navy, a member of the local band.

There are not many weeks in the year in which we do not record a quarter peal or peal which bears a footnote stating that it was rung in honour of 50 years or more service as a ringer. We feel these worthy members of the Exercise deserve recognition and invite short contributions with a photograph (black and white) of the person, for possible publication from time to time.

First peal congratulations to John Shepheard, Glynis Poppleton, David Wilson, Vivienne West, Susan A. Faull, William B. Booth, Paul Butler, Steven Capper, Anthony A. Boden, Desmond P. J. Harrold, Philip J. Harrold (11), Geoffrey D. A. Long, Geraldine J. Flook, Stephen F. White, David J. Edmonds, Nesta Rosen, Brian Crouch, Margaret H. Read, Jane Moore, Jonathan A. Coar, J. Michael Humphrey.

In his 98th vear, Mr. Ernest Weatherby, of P.O. Box 2085. Plumb Hall 16, Alhambra, California 91803, has written enclosing his subscription and sending greetings to all ringers. He rang in the Guildford area. Mr. Weatherby finds both peals and editorial items of great interest and feels he must be one of the R.W.'s oldest readers. [We give his full address in the hope that some ringers may like to write to Mr. Weatherby.—Ed.]

The first response to our request for photos of Sunday service bands for publication has been from Grosmont, Monmouth, which we print on page 69. Is 7-year-old Ian Parry the youngest to handle a bell on his own? Send vour tower photo (black and white) with details of individuals (captain, secretary, etc.) and a few items of general interest (Sunday ringing, practices and so forth). Please state if photo is to be returned.

RINGING AND CONDUCTING STANDARD METHODS

Conducting and Peal Compositions CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MINOR

Tips for conducting

It is very useful to check that the bells are working correctly at the half-lead as well as the lead-end, i.e., when the 3rds place bell is making 5ths under the treble. This can easily be done if one remembers that the 4th and 6th place bells from the Previous lead-end dodge together in 3-4. (Note that these are a "coursing pair" and this feature of coursing pairs dodging together in 3-4 is carried through on to higher numbers although it does not occur at the half-lead.) The bells dodging in 1-2 are those which were in 2nds place and 5ths place at the previous lead-end. (Note that these are the bells coursing either side of the bell doing its full backwork. This feature is also carried through on to higher numbers, not in 1-2 but in the same relative position counted from the back, e.g., in Major this pair of bells dodge in 3-4, in Royal it becomes a dodge in 5-6 and in Maximus 7-8.)

The two most commonly used extents of Cambridge Surprise Minor are as follows, the tenor generally being used as the obser-

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAJOR Tips for conducting

Checking of the bells dodging at the halflead when ringing Cambridge Surprise Major is not quite so easy to see as when ringing Minor, but it is a worthwhile exercise for those who wish to become proficiert conductors. At the first half-lead the bells dodging in 1-2 are 4 and 7: in 3-4, 2 and 5: and in 5-6, 6 and 8. Notice here that the bells dodging in 5-6 are those on the way into or out of slow. Also note that the 6th place bell is dodging in the section adiacent to the treble and the bell ringing full backwork. This is true of that bell on all numbers, i.e., for Minor, the 6th is dodging 3-4 up followed by places in that section: in Maximus, the 6th is dodging 9-10 up followed by places in that section.

There are one or two more interesting guides which appear in Cambridge Major which are also useful on higher numbers. One example is that when working from being a 5ths place bell to a 2nds place bell, there is a "regular pattern" for meeting bells after double dodging in 7-8 down and passing the treble in 7-6. The first bell one dodges with is the "after bell" of the bell to the bell to the pattern of the pattern you have just left to do the full backwork with the treble, e.g., if you are ringing the tenor and (presumably) have left the 7th at the back then the bell you will dodge with in 3-4 will be the 5th. This will be followed by dodging with the 3rd in 1-2 down and the 4th in 1-2 up This sequence is continued on to higher numbers and follows the rule explained below.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ON HIGHER NUMBERS

Tips for conducting

For ease of explanation consider that you are conducting from the tenor (although the idea is applicable from any bell and any coursing order: you will probably appreciate the significance of using the tenor as an example is necessary for the mathematical model only). By giving the tenor the number n, the bells will be dodged with in the following order.

At the back (n-1), 1st bell after passing the treble on the way into slow (n-3), followed by (n-5): after this the order becomes regular but on a different pattern because from (n-5) it becomes (n-9), (n-13), (n-17), (n-21), etc. ie., for ringing Cambridge on 24 bells the order after dodging 23-24 down would way to slow: 21, 19, 15, 11, be dodge with the following bells on the Having passed the smallest odd bell in the sequence picks up from the smallest even bell and increases 4 at a time to the largest even bell. This might appear to be quite complicated but a few examples will show that the practical application is not so difficult. I have gone to this trouble to show that there is a coursing in Cambridge below the treble, despite the fact that most people refuse to believe it. In fact the coursing order is the same as for Stedman and is a direct result of alternate bells stopping four places: in Stedman it is a result of alternate bells going in slow. In fact alternate bells in the coursing order have a constant relationship throughout a

Returning to examples of the above rule. which continues until the bell concerned makes 2nds in the slow-work:

(i) The 4th working into slow in Cambridge Royal (in the plain course) dodges 9-10 down with the 6th, dodges 5-6 down with the 8th, 3-4 down with the 10th, 1-2 down with the 7th, 1-2 up with the 3rd then makes 2nds.

(ii) The 4th working into slow in Cambridge Maximus (in the plain course) dodges 11-12 down with the 6th, dodges 7-8 down with the 8th, 5-6 down with the 10th, 3-4 down with the 11th, 1-2 down with the 7th, 1-2 up with the 3rd then makes 2nds.

(iii) The 10th working into slow in Cambridge Maximus (in the plain course) dodges 11-12 down with the tenor, 7-8 down with the 11th, 5-6 down with the 9th, 3-4 down with the 5th, 1-2 down with the 2nd, 1-2 up with the 6th then makes 2nds.

You may like to try the above rule for different coursing orders.

Note also that the bells one dodges with on the wav into slow are all the bells which are going to run through and pass the treble without making places. It is also useful to know that if you dodge with the bell going into slow that this is the last dodge you do before passing the treble on your way to the back. The bells that are passed without dodging are those that will stop for places up. The reverse of the above rule is of course true for the bells working out of slow.

I feel that in this particular article I may have become a little too technical in my explanations, but it should be appreciated that this section is addressed to those who wish to be able to conduct the method: there is no easy way to success in this field although some people are quicker to learn than others.

PEAL COMPOSITIONS

with conducting Cambridge Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus without mentioning a few well-known compositions. There is very little scope for composition in the field of Cambridge Surprise Major without parting the tenors, because of internal falseness. In fact Middleton's peal and variations of it is the only one using bobs only. A number of compositions have the tenors parted for a few leads only, and at least two compositions have the tenors together but require the use of singles as well as bobs (not that I consider that this is undesirable, but I feel that when learning to conduct it is better to use simple compositions and by using bobs only the number of possible coursing orders is reduced to 50% of the total number available).

Four times repeated.

This composition may be reduced to 5,152 by omitting three homes in any one part. This is generally done in the part when the 2nd is in 6ths place. By calling one part Before followed by three homes and four parts as above, the composition is reduced to 5,056 changes. This modification was introduced by Henry Johnson, and therefore is known as Johnson's Variation, i.e., all 5,056 peals by Middleton may be given the sub-title Johnson's Variation, if desired. If the composition is started by calling two homes, the coursing orders at part-ends are cyclical, i.e., 65432, 26543. 32654, 43265, 54326. Note that the peal comes round after one bob at home in the last part.

It is a pity that Middleton's is really the only composition generally used as it is not appreciated by many ringers who take it for granted. Some good music is produced below the treble. e.g., 6578 roll-ups off the front for a coursing order such as 53462 which compensates for the fact that the 2nd and 3rd spend a number of courses in 6ths place.

5.040 CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ROYAL By WILLIAM PYE

23456 M W 43652 26354 52364 35426 2A 23456

This composition was probably the most popular composition of Cambridge Surprise Royal before the introduction of singles. produces some good roll-ups on the little bells and only has one course with the 2nd in 6ths.

In the past five or six years there has been a revolution in compositions of Surprise Maximus. mainly due to the activities of the Birmingham St. Martin's band and the composing of Roderick W. Pipe and Peter Border. It was quite normal for bands to ring ten courses of Surprise Maximus (5,280 changes) instead of the (5,042) 92-course compositions which are now accepted as being the most desirable. The loss of five leads off the end of a peal, particularly in an evening, usually means ten minutes' less ringing, which in many cases avoids exceeding time limits.

[To be continued] It would be very remiss of me to deal See page 84 for R. W. Pipe composition.

MRS. SHARPES FUNERAL

The funeral of Mrs. Sharpe, whose death was reported last week, took place on Jan. 10 at St. Mary's Church, Launton, and was conducted by the rector, Rev. J. Goddard, assisted by Rev. P. Vernon Jones. Family mourners were Mr. F. Sharpe and Miss Marjorie L. Sharpe (son and daughter), Miss W. M. Elizabeth Sharpe (grand-daughter), Mrs. J. Tattersall (niece), Mrs. E. J. M. Sharpe, Miss G. Evans and Mr. H. Buckingham. Launton Church was represented by Mr. Sharpe's co-churchwarden, Mr. J. Marriott (who is 85 and took part in the muffled ringing afterwards), and Mr. S. M. B. Gilpin, secretary of the Bicester Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, represented the ringers of the diocese. After the service a half-muffled 720 of Grandsire Doubles was rung by Daphne Bellman 1, J. W. Ancil 2, James Marriott 3, George Gregory 4, Herbert A. Massey (cond.) 5, Phillip Clarke tenor. All are members of the Launton band. Mrs. Sharpe was presiding member of the Launton M.U. branch.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE

A total of 40 members of the Chertsey District of Guildford Guild attended the A.G.M. at St. Peter's, Hersham, on January 10.

The master reported several experiments had been tried regarding practices and meetings last year. Some had been successful but others a failure, and this year he looked for improvement. Mr. R. Caporn was thanked for the work he had carried out during his years as secretary.

The membership had increased by ten and it was hoped there would be an increased attendance at meetings and practices also. Officers elected were: Ringing master, Mr. D. Parsons; assistants, Mr. J. J. Bailey, Mr. J. P. Ladd; secretary, Mrs. P. A. Bird; auditor, Mr. R. Pashley.

It was agreed that the secretary should

It was agreed that the secretary should write to the Editor, congratulating him on the new style Ringing World.

80th ANNIVERSARY PEAL

To mark the 80th anniversary of the founding of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association the first peal was on the five at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Chilton Trinity, Somerset. Earlier in the week, despite the bitter cold weather, Mike Stone spent a whole day in the tower checking the fittings and ropes and, thanks to his efforts, the bells went far better than had been anticipated

The villagers were prepared for the long period the bells would be ringing. A good peal of Reverse Canterbury Doubles was rung. Two members of the team, Ronald Short and Cecil Clarke, had learnt to ring in this tower.

The conductor (a brass band enthusiast) had forgone attending a band contest that day and was delighted that the peal was successful. Sincere thanks to Preb. Swan for allowing the use of the bells.

ANOTHER RECORD?

On Saturday last (Jan. 24), at Wonersh, Surrey, eight resident members of the Guildford Guild rang Norman Smith's composition of 27 Spliced Surprise Major, conducted by Michael Church. In this method all the bells ring one lead of each method in every part.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for JANUARY 26, 1945

It was reported in the leader that of the 619 peals rung during the year 466 had been on tower bells, Grandsire being the most popular and Plain Bob next. Three peals of Spliced Surprise in the four standard methods was a good step forward as "spliced ringing is likely to be one of the great features of change-ringing."

A peal at Leicester Cathedral was rung on the "Stelfox Eight" — London Surprise.

The peal columns reported six peals on 8, ten on 5 or 6 and three on handbells.

One of the peals at Darlington was the first in seven Surprise Minor for Jack L. Millhouse, conducted by Roland Park.

Only 14 attended the annual meeting of the Luton District of the Bedfordshire Association when Miss D. E. Lidbetter was elected secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Charles H. Wickens, of Henfield, wrote regarding the time taken to ring peals of Doubles and stated that a 5-bell tower with 7 cwt. tenor should not get through 42 six-scores under 2 hours 40 minutes.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston held a new year's dance for their staff and workpeople at which the mayor and mayoress of Croydon, the town clerk and the colonel of the 59th Bn. Home Guard were present.

50 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 30, 1920

A muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Aston - juxta - Birmingham for the vicar, Canon Hodgson, who died following a bicycle accident.

Fylingdales' eight bells, recast in 1914, had their first peal rung on them—Grand-sire Triples, conducted by W. A. Breckton.

In the 350th year of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, work recently completed included the augmentation of Westminster Abbey and the rehanging of St. Clement Danes' ring of ten.

Ald. J. S. Pritchett, M.A., the ringing master, presided at the annual meeting of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

By a plebiscite, Loughborough citizens decided upon the erection of a tower to contain a 45-bell carillon, the heaviest bell to weigh 3 tons.

In a peal of Bob Triples at Framlingham, Suffolk, Harold Mayhew rang his first peal and the conductor was George E. Symonds.

Christ Church, Bristol

AN 18th CENTURY SOUND

FIRST-TIME VISITORS to Christ Church, Bristol, are sometimes heard to compare the sound of the bells unfavourably with utensils not usually found in a tower. Yet Bristol ringers down the ages have been extremely fond of their sound. I have known quite a few of the first-time detractors join the ranks of the admirers later. An ear accustomed to the richer fullness of modern tuning needs a little while to adjust, just as one does on hearing familiar Bach played on a harpsichord instead of a Bechstein grand. The sounds are not to be compared but each enjoyed in its own right.

It must be admitted that Christ Church bells are not the easiest to ring well. They are rather odd-struck and must be rung briskly with absolute precision. They are not the bells to flatter indifferent striking, but how well they satisfy when the right rhythm is obtained and the striking is clean!

Christ Church bells are the authentic 18th century sound. It must be rare to find a whole ten in which not a single bell has been recast or retuned since 1789. It may be unique. The back eight were cast by Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester, as the fourth proudly proclaims: "Abr. Rudhall of Gloucester cast us all 1716." All are dated and most bear the well-known founder's mark flanked by the initials "A. R." The lettering on the crowns is a model of even, clear and artistic casting; so too is the moulding which embellishes the crown staples.

Rudhall's eight were hung in an older church and tower which were completely replaced by a lovely Wren-style church in the 1780s. It is in a style developed by two or three generations of architects since Wren, and if less grandiose than the great London churches has an intimacy and wholeness which are quite delightful. The Harris organ is another 18th century masterpiece which is justly famous and has only this year been restored to full working order.

Christ Church stands on a crossroads which was the centre of the mediæval city of Bristol, and in the 18th century two other churches, St. Werburgh's and All Saints', stood at the same crossing. St. Werburgh's was removed stone by stone to the suburbs in the 1880s, but All Saints' is still there. All three churches had bells: St. Werburgh's a six and All Saints' an eight, also by Rudhall. The rebuilders of Christ Church were not going to have their close neighbours outdo their bells so they decided to add two more. William Bilbie, of Chewstoke, near Bristol, was commissioned to cast two trebles and rehang the ten in the new tower. Local legend has it that Bilbie was a perfectionist, and no one who has been privileged to see one of his exquisite clocks can doubt that. His two bells, cast in 1789, are longer-waisted than Rudhall's, and having cast them and tuned them he must have decided that they did not match the other eight to his complete satisfaction. So he proceeded to retune each of Rudhall's bells with a hammer and chisel until he had all ten perfectly tonally balanced. The neat radial chisel marks inside the sound bow of each bell are quite a work of art in themselves. Standing outside the tower it is impossible to detect that the trebles have been added to an eight, and there are not so many eights augmented to ten in this age or any other of which that is true.

Not only did Bilbie adapt Rudhall's bells to his needs; he seems to have done the same with the frame. I do not know how else to account for the deep gouging-out of the upper members to allow the bells to swing through. It seems improbable that Rudhall would have done this for a custom built frame for his eight, nor that Bilbie would have done this if he had supplied sompletely new frame for the ten. However it came about, the frame today is as sound, square and steady as it ever was.

Christ Church bells have always been popular with Bristol ringers, and in a city with 25 rings they have plenty of choice. Many peals have been rung on them but perhaps the most notable was the 10,133 Grandsire Caters on March 14, 1837, in 5 hours and 44 minutes, conducted by William Smith. It is known that this was a Bristol band but otherwise very little about any of the ringers. Extant records of 19th century ringing in Bristol are regrettably meagre.

For the past few years Christ Church has again become the unofficial headquarters of Bristol ringing. The City Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association look after the Sunday ringing there. On the second and fourth Mondays of each month the branch practises its Caters and Surprise Royal and welcomes regular visitors from North Somerset, South Gloucestershire and South Wales. Fortunately the attendances are now so good that one is not missed for ten minutes if you slip down the stairs into Broad Street and listen to a touch of Caters. London or Bristol Royal from there. This is a well-worth-while experience.

PHILIP GRAY.

"WHEN A PEAL DOESN'T APPEAL"

Under this heading a journalist writes in The Swanage Times, giving the pros and cons of bells and bellringing as he finds them in this delightful Dorset town. It followed a letter from an irate lady who had complained about man's inhumanity to man (R.W., page 79). Mr. Hugh Falkner, of Swanage, sends us the following letter.

Dear Sir,—A peal at Swanage on Boxing Day has caused a furore locally. The tower is in the midst of a built-up area, and in the past peals have been few and far between. On this particular occasion the peal was to welcome a new incumbent. But a letter in the local press (The Swanage Times) quickly followed the peal. The wording was, to say the least of it, extreme . . "man's inhumanity to man," etc.

Whilst one person thought fit to write such a letter it is, of course, not known what others think. Accordingly I set myself the task of carrying out a sort of Gallup poll, and called on 20 people at random; all but one proved to be strangers to me and all living within about as many yards of the church as the lady who wrote the irate letter. As a matter of fact, I called on 21 people, but the odd one said she was no ordinary person, having had an intense dislike for bells from youth upwards. was all the same to her and her dislike whether they rang for three minutes or three hours . . . and she begged not to be included in my survey. However, even she said that if anything was legal she had to put up with it!

All 20 people liked to hear the bells, but as many as five out of the 20 thought that non-stop ringing for three hours was too long. But none of the five were hot enough under the collar to want to protest, other than to me in consequence of my enquiry.

Only one out of the 20 had any idea why the bells were ringing for three hours, i.e., for a "peal"—5,040 different changes meant nothing whatever to them!

Practice night ringing is usually for about an hour or slightly more. And recently there have been some quarter peals in Swanage. No mention of protest has been made of such ringing, and I think it safe to assume that there are very few (like the lady above) who object or even dislike bells ringing for that length of time. I wonder my little survey is representative of people all over the country, namely that 25% of the population have no sympathy for peal ringing?

£50 LEGACY

The Yorktown (Camberley) ring of eight has a very long draught, and the P.C.C. want to put a new floor in to make the ringing chamber up in the tower and to use the present space for a choir vestry. This alteration, when carried out, will benefit everyone, but the costs will be rather heavy.

The ringers at St. Michael's have promised £25 from their funds and the late Mr. Fred Farr left £50 in his will for the tower and this also will help towards the cost of the work. A faculty has yet to be applied for, but it is not anticipated that it will be refused.

PUBLISHED ARTICLES HELPED

Bob Smith's articles on Kent and Oxford T.B. in The Ringing World gave Derek M. Sawyer many tips which makes the method far easier. Derek, who writes from Clarkson, Ontario, "with tremendous pleasure, sends a handbell peal report of Oxford Treble Bob Major rung at McMaster University on January 6. It was the first in the method by all and in North America. [Congratulations to you, Derek, and your team.—Ed.]

About the Central Council

2.—THE SECRETARY (MR. VERNON BOTTOMLEY)

THERE must be few people who do not experience some thrill of expectation when the postman calls. The secretary of the Council has this pleasure almost every working day. The packages come in all shapes and sizes and there is even more variety in the contents. There are inquiries from members of the public as well as from ringers, and dealing with these is very much a public relations exercise. There has been a spate of inquiries in relation to The Noise Abatement Act, which indicates that people generally are taking the trouble to inform tnemselves about their "rights."

I am one of those impatient individuals who cannot live with arrears of work and I try to reply to letters by return, or at any rate to dictate my letters without de.ay. Implementation of this policy means that almost every day some duty is performed on behalf of the Council. I suppose the job must be well above average in size in the voluntary category. A postage oill of over £11 on day to day correspondence in 1969 is an indication of the volume. (I rarely take a fivepenny gamble!) The Central Council is not entirely free from Government interference and my duties include attending to S.E.T. and P.A.Y.E. returns, Insurance of the Council's property and investment of its funds are other matters which concern me.

Accountancy responsibilities are not onerous and nearly all the work is concentrated in the first three months of the year. It is certainly desirable to have the accounts complete before the increase in work which comes with the preparations for the annual meeting. The local arrangements are the responsibility of the host association, fortunately, but we in Haifax have to attend to the committee reports—cutting and checking stencils (at least four for the Peals Analysis Committee) and printing on a rotary duplicator. We have free use of a temperamental old machine and we have learned a few hard lessons from it. First of all, it is courting disaster to try to print on both sides of the paper, and, worse, that if I dare to interfere in its manipulation it will exact a terrib'e revenge by chewing the stencil to bits only about 30 copies from the end of the run. My typist does not like cutting stencils!! Fortunately, the old thing (the duplicator) responds very well to the feminine touch, so Jeanne (my wife) has the job which she does at two or three visits.

we learned another lesson the lirst time we made up the sets of reports, agendas, etc. We arranged them in order round a large beardroom table and then walked round and round, 115 times each, bending to pick up each safet in the set. We were still, for days, the only disability now following this operation is a sole hand with thumping the stapier. For the record we each make up a set of 30 papers in two minutes and we complete the joo of making 230 sets in one session.

The "Wilsoniae" week-end is quite hectic and there is always the turking tear of something forgotten. In the early days of my tenure 1 dreamed quite regularity of turning up without the attendance rou and of sitting up ail night typing another with one linger. And of course it was never ready in time for the meeting.

Inevitably the job has its irritations. There are the treasurers who will not send the ambiliation fees until they have been asked three or four times. I know they are not half as busy as I am; but then I must be mistaken. There are the Council members who will not be persuaded, cajoied or kicked into the meeting when it is past starting time. Then there are the secretaries who will not notify the names of representatives. (I am still without one for 1969.)

But these are more than compensated by the many sources of pleasure. There is the delight of the occasional abusive letter from Jafus and the satisfaction of replying in similar vein. There is the friendship of a countless number of ringers, some of whom we haven't even met. There is the enjoyment of a quiet dinner on the Tuesday evening after it is all over.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

The first general meeting of the Yorkshire Association for the year drew an attendance of 150 members to Wakefield on January 17. After ringing at several churches during the morning and afternoon they filled the nave of the Cathedral for a short service, conducted by two clergy who are ringers—Rev. P. Brothwell, sacrist at the Cathedral, and Rev. N. Webb, who only that week had given up his precentorship to become Rector of Thornhill. A buffet tea was provided in the Youth Centre by the ladies of the local band, with valuable help from some of the new Wragby ringers.

At the business meeting, with Mr. Vernon Bottomley presiding, seven members were elected: Mrs. Mollie Toy, of York (formerly of Bridstow, Herefords); Anthea Cryer (Walkley), Susan Brown (St. Marie's, Sheffield), Estha Sharp (Dewsbury), Fred Shaw (Thornhill), Ian Bell (Handsworth) and Simon Fisher (Rotherham).

The proposed alterations to the rules was the item on the agenda for which some had been waiting anxiously. These resulted from the suggestion made by the Leeds and District Society 14 months earlier for fusion with the Association. The most controversial point, introducing associate membership so that ringers not qualified by a 720 might belong to the Association, and be entitled to vote, but with a subscription of 3s., was accepted by a very large majority. So, for the first time since being established in 1875 the Y.A.C.R. is to have ringing members who have not "rung at least 720 changes." (Y.A.C.R. Rules, 1876.) Several associate members were elected during the meeting.

The other alterations were also accepted, with very little or no opposition. In future districts will be called "branches" and the chief officer of the branch will be its "chairman" rather than its vice-president. Branches may decide the size of their own committees, but representation on the general committee is not changed.

Immediately following these important changes Mr. Robin Brown proposed that the Western District be divided into two branches, one of these roughly coinciding with the Leeds and District Society's area, the other being the remainder of the old district. This was accepted enthusiastically, as were the new members who formerly belonged only to the Leeds and District Society.

The fusion of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association with the Northern District was also agreed; the branch in the north will be called "The Cleveland and North Yorkshire Branch of the Yorkshire Association." Elections for the officers and committees of the new branches will be held within the next few weeks.

Mr. William Barton gave notice of a proposal to retain the office of vice-president, not as the chief officer of a branch but as a position to be given to members the Association might wish to honour. There will be voting on this at the A.G.M. at Ormesby in May.

In conclusion, the president gave members some details of the plans being made for the Central Council meeting at Ilkley. Members of the Association would be asked to assist with ringing on the tours on both the Saturday and Monday, and were invited to go to the welcome extended to the Council on the Monday evening as well as to the events on the Tuesday.

RINGERS IN KILIFI, AFRICA

Over 60 members and friends attended a very successful quarterly meeting of the Rochester District of Kent County Association at Shorne on January 17. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., under the direction of the ringing masters and the service at 4.30 p.m. included an amusing address given by the vicar, Rev. G. Taylor. Tea was served in the nearby village hall.

An interesting business meeting ensued, with the district chairman, Rev. S. M. Evans, presiding. Members were distressed to hear of the death of Mrs. Dorothy Dunk, the wife of the late Albert J. Dunk, who had been a very active member of the district until his death in 1964. All stood in silent remembrance.

A good start to the new year was made with the election of 15 new members, many of whom come under the definition of "young people," and Mr. Trevor A. Cross gave a report on the business transacted at the November meeting of the general committee. Members were interested to hear of the application by the ringers at Kilifi (Africa) for non-resident membership of the Association. A decision on this matter was to be left for a period to see how things progressed in Kilifi before membership was granted. At the suggestion of the Rochester District, a county striking competition is to be organised, but another proposal from the district re the printing of reports in a cheaper form was defeated. An application by Newington-next-Sittingbourne for a grant from the Association's belfry repair fund had been rewarded by the promise of £15 upon the satisfactory completion of the work on the bells.

Miscellaneous items under Any Other Business were discussed before adjournment to the tower for further ringing. L. M.

MAKE OR BREAK

A rather colourless year was reviewed by Mr. D. J. Tubbs, district ringing master, at the annual meeting of the Guildford District at Holy Trinity Hall on January 17. Membership at 110 was approximately the same and the new band of five at St. Peter's, Hascombe, under the leadership of Mr. B. Burnett, had joined.

The striking competition, continued Mr. Tubbs, was disappointing, with only three entries compared with five the previous year. Two were from the Cathedral and the other from Stoke. Of tower captains, he said, they could either make or break the district. He urged them to persuade young people to go out and get more experience and to support the district's combined practices and meetings.

Miss Y. Eloie, district secretary, said an appeal for help had been received from Dunsfold. Losses by death included Mr. C. Ernest Smith, of Godalming, and Mr. Hagley, of Witley. The accounts showed a balance of £70 16s. 10d., an increase of £4.

Because of pressure on his leisure, Mr. Tubbs resigned the mastership and was succeeded by Mr. D. Struckett (Haslemere). Mr. Tubbs, however, is holding office as assistant ringing master and treasurer. Miss Eloie was re-elected secretary, Mr. J. Horsman (Shalford) auditor and Mrs. Carolyn Tubbs to the committee.

The meeting was attended by the guild master (Mr. Douglas May) and the hon. secretary (Mr. Charles Munday), both of whom were renominated for office.

The district attended evensong at Holy Trinity Church, conducted by Rev. Warren Sellers, and tea for 54, provided by Mrs. Tubbs and her helpers, was much enjoyed.

SUPPORT LACKING

The recent North West District of Suffolk Guild quarterly meeting at Mildenhall on January 10 attracted ringers from the adjoining counties, even though it was a rather unfavourable day. Good use was made of the bells and there was some excellent ringing. Members were sorry to hear that both the ringing master and chairman were ill and it was disappointing to see that guild support was so lacking, considering that the meeting was at a 10-bell tower.

District practices were arranged at the Norman Tower in February and at Brandon in March, and the next quarterly meeting is at Lakenheath in April.

PROVING THEMSELVES

The quarter peal rung by the regular Sunday service band at Hoddesdon, Herts, on January 25, was a notable achievement in that it was the first quarter for all the band, except the conductor. Ringing has been at a low ebb for some time at Hoddesdon, but there is now a band of ringers keen to learn. For the last few months Sunday service ringing has been regular (alternating matins and evensong) and Grandsire Doubles has been mastered. The practice night is on Tuesday, 7.30 to 9 p.m., and all ringers are welcome, especially those who can help with teaching the band R. L. H. more method ringing.

MODERN STYLE

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, was held in the parish hall of St. Martin's Church on January 3.

Miss Muriel Reay was re-elected master and Mr. Roderick W. Pipe was elected as ringing master and Central Council representative. Mr. Henry H. Fearn retired from the office of auditor, in which capacity he served the guild for 28 years, and Mr. Ray Aldington was elected to that office. Mr. Richard J. Tipbetts was elected as secretary on a more permanent basis.

One item in the balance sheet raised observations from Mr. Bryan Woolley, who suggested that a modern style of peal writing be adopted. A committee was formed to review the subject.

Mr. Eric Cole informed the meeting of the proposed augmentation of Hampton-in-Arden bells to an octave. It was decided to plan for a donation of £100 from the guild's bell fund in 1975, the 250th anniversary of the present bells.

The secretary informed members of arrangements for the Henry Johnson memorial dinner and Bishop Sinker, the Provost of Birmingham Cathedral, was elected as chairman for this year's dinner. R. J. T.

FREE PARKING!

"Welcome to Aldershot! If you see in this 'Home of the British Army' men in dark blue uniforms with yellow badges, they are traffic wardens, not a new brigade of Guards, but by the way they pop up when you have parked in the wrong place there must be enough to form a platoon. However, whatever traffic problems there are in the town, you can come to St. Michael's and park free, without the fear of a parking ticket, and enjoy a comfortable ground floor ring of eight.'

This was the unusual opening written by Mr. Tom Page for the ringing master's report at the A.G.M. of the Farnham District held recently. The meeting, usually in Farnham, was this year transferred to Aldershot and about 100 attended.

NEW YEAR'S EVE AT HART STREET

After ringing a peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street, E.C., on New Year's Eve, 1968, the rector invited the same band to make an attempt in 1969.

Unfortunately, for various reasons, the same band could not be assembled, but an attempt for Yorkshire, to be conducted by lan Dear, one of the band that rang Rutland in 1968, was arranged to commence at 8.30 p.m. At 5 p.m. a 'phone call to the organiser informed him that Ian had 'flu and couldn't ring. After several 'phone calls a substitute was found and the band met as arranged. At 9 p.m. Andrew Slade, another of last year's band, hadn't arrived and at 9.15 it was decided to attempt a peal of Minor, but this failed after two-and-abit extents. After an interval the New Year was duly rung in and the band entertained by the rector and his wife. The mulled wine made up for the loss of the peal, and we are very grateful to Norman Summer-hayes for going out of his way to ensure hayes for going out of his way, that everyone arrived home safely.

INTEREST ABOUNDING

The Monmouth Branch held a very enjoyable annual meeting at Chepstow on January 10. The ten bells were well used throughout the afternoon and evening by members and friends from Gloucestershire,

The vicar, Rev. J. Barrie-Evans, took the service, Mr. Richard Owen read the lesson and Mrs. John Sims kindly played the

Despite the miserable, wet day some 85 persons sat down to tea in the Cavill Hall. New members were again elected, being Rev. Hoyle (Vicar of Trellech), Mr. Gwil-lam Hayes, of Bassaleg, together with David and Steven Everett and Pau! Phillips, of All Saints, Newport.

Meeting places for the year were chosen to be held on the second Saturdays in May, July, October and in January, 1971, at Caerleon, Ebbw Vale, Mathern and Marsh-

It was reported that Mathern bells had gone to Taylor's for rehanging as a memorial to the wife of Brig. Vaughan-Hughes, and that interest abounded at Trellech, where a handbell team had been formed by the vicar in anticipation of a ring of bells in his tower...

THREE TOWERS IN EAST NORFOLK

A few weeks ago Rev. Peter Bond mentioned Blofield, Ludham and Ranworth as being towers where beginners have been assisted by Mr. Kenneth Brown, who reports as under.

Blofield ringers have the help of Mr. Jim Morley and are capable of ringing Bob Doubles. The very enthusiastic band at Ludham, helped initially by Rev. P. Bond, David Ralls from Great Yarmouth and Derek Platford from Catfield, is now under the leadership of Mr. Neville Gower. The bells are being well looked after by Mr. Ray Osborne, whose son is also ringing. The band must go from strength to strength and the practice that would help them, I think, would be a quarter peal of Bob Doubles.

Two members from Thorpe Grammar School can now handle a bell at Ranworth and another student has recently been cycling over from Coltishall. Unfortunately the rector, Rev. E. D. Everard, who is so keen to have his bells rung, cannot get any recruits so practices have been abandoned for the winter. Some readers in this district may remember Mr. George Allen, who has promised to come back when more beginners start in the spring, on Wednesday evenings at this "Cathedral of the Broads."

NOT "OPENING TIME"

When the St. Albans District members made arrangements for social visits in 1970 these included a request for a district outing and a trip to the TV studios as last year. There was also a request for an outing to one of the local breweries, but on enquiry it was found that "not even for their best customers" (ringers?) would the brewers open their doors to parties on Saturdays!

Obituary

MR. MAURICE KEARNEY

At one time known as tenor king of Drogheda, Maurice (Moss) Kearney died in Lourdes Hospital, Drogheda, on December 3, aged 76. He learned to ring at St. Peter's, Drogheda, about 1940 and had been a member of the Irish Association since 1945.

MR. S. E. WRIGHT

The death occurred on January 9, 1970 of Sidney Ernest Wright, at the age of 82. Sid learned to ring at St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, about 1910, and came to St. John's, Peterborough, in 1911, serving this church faithfully as a Sunday service ringer for 52 years. He was born on January 21, 1887, and was married in June, 1924. He was a foundry moulder and worked for British Railways. He rang a few peals and many quarters and his name appears on the peal boards in St. John's belfry, including his first of Grandsire Triples in 1920. Belfry records show that he rang a peal of Kent T.B. Major in 1923 and that his next was Grandsire Triples in 1948 — a gap of 25 years. At one time he was the tower cap-Sid's last recorded quarter peal was in 1959, at the age of 72, and he retired from ringing in September, 1963. As a memorial token a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the day of the funeral.

MR, K. D. ESSAM

A former tower captain at St. Mary's Warmington, near Peterberough, from 1958 to 1966, Kenneth Douglas Essam collapsed and died at his home at School House, Warmington, just after noon on Jan. 17. Although he never did master changeringing he was a regular Sunday service ringer and rarely missed a branch meeting. He held the office of branch auditor from 1963 to the time of his death. Mr. Essam was 56.

The funeral service was on January 22 at Warmington Church, followed by cremation. The church was filled with fellow school teachers, friends and bellringers.

A half-muffled quarter peal was rung in his memory at Warmington on January 23 by members of the branch. A. H. H.

MR. E. J. BLOWER

Jack Blower, who died on January 8, aged 79, was a loyal member of the Rayleigh band for nearly 60 years. He started his ringing career at Great Dunmow and came to Rayleigh as a young man,

For many years his ringing ability was restricted to the plain standard methods, but the development of the Rayleigh area in the 1950s brought with it a dozen experienced ringers, and he took up the challenge and learned new methods. St. Clement's Triples was his favourite and he participated in a peal in this method rung on June 7, 1960, to mark his 50 years of service in Rayleigh tower, which gave him great pleasure, and in the same year the Essex Association honoured him with life

Jack Blower's loyalty to his band was an example to all, he being regular in attendance at all times. Jack was a very humble man who realised his limitations, and was secretary to the local band for many years until ill-health limited his appearances. M. J. H.

THE PEAL DISEASE

Dear Sir,-I have read with interest the recent correspondence concerning peal ringing, mainly by active peal ringers, and would like to put forward my views as a former peal ringer

Until a short time ago I was what is usually termed a "peal-grabber," ringing one, sometimes two peals, Saturday after Saturday and an occasional weekday one as well. Although I enjoyed it at first, it degenerated into a habit and one I just could not get out of. I rang the same methods over and over again, with two or three different bands. And what a lot of "firers" they were, I regret to say! Time and time again (and here I disagree entirely with one correspondent) it came home to me that taking part in lots of peals does not necessarily make one a good ringer. In the course of my travels I have met prolific peal ringers who are shocking strikers, poor bell handlers and who, after two or three hundred peals, cannot even ring a bell down properly.

Inevitably, I gave up peal ringing for more worthwhile activities, much to my later satisfaction. I think I am now leading a far fuller life, having taken up a variety of interests, from cycling and nature rambling to keeping budgerigars. True, I ring the occasional peal, but only for special occasions or to help someone along.

The peal disease seems to have two main drawbacks. First, it is so time-consuming. Secondly, it takes so great a hold on the system that, although the actual business of ringing the peal is such a bore, the patient is compelled to go on attempting even more. So many of the victims (with obvious not-able exceptions!) seem to be of the weaker, insecure personality type -- perhaps they crave the satisfaction of seeing their name in print. In this respect, I am all in favour of the reduced peal format and hope that it will, to some extent, eliminate this element in peal ringing.

Fortunately the disease is not permanent, usually giving immunity to further attacks (often the former sufferer is allergic to the word "peal" itself), but owing to its very contagious nature soon infects a fresh generation.

In conclusion, I might say that there are many people in this area alone who have shared my experience. Close examination of the R.W. over a period of two or three years will show any number of individuals who ring a vast number of peals and then fade out altogether, as dramatically as they began. Many give up ringing completely. Not a desirable state of affairs at a time when more and more towers are silent on Sundays.-Yours faithfully,

PETER E. THOMPKINS.

Crowborough, Sussex.

P.S. - I would be very happy to correspond with any other young ringer, peal ringer or not, who is interested in cycling or stamp collecting .-- P. E. T.

MR. C. W. RIGBY

Known to his many friends as "Rig," the death occurred recently of Mr. Clayson W. Rigby, at the age of 64. He was not a peal ringer but regularly rang at Greens Norton, Northants, and visited Towcester Branch meetings regularly. All his life he was a faithful servant at his own church.

IN DEFENCE OF PEAL RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Following the latest instalment in the anti-peal ringers' saga (Mr. Taylor, page 30), may I be permitted to put the case for the defence?

What is the definition of a peal ringer? I don't think your correspondents know. The old dividing line between peal ringers and Sunday service ringers is hard to determine because the majority of the former are in fact the backbone of the latter. So who, then, is criticising who?

Mr. Taylor says the majority of peal ringers are of little service to the Exercise. I agree with Mr. Wycherley on the same page-without them the Exercise would collapse and so too would the R.W. Mr. Taylor comments about the enormous expenditure on bells, etc. If this is unjustified then one could extend the argument to other ecclesiastical furniture and indeed to church buildings. He concludes by suggesting four rules under which peals should be rung:—
(1) "One or more firsts." First in what?

may I ask-first pealers or first in 100

Spliced Surprise Maximus?
(2) "Special occasions should be observed, preferably connected with the Church." There are hundreds of saints' days to choose from, so that should not be difficult.

(3) "A tower fee of 2s. 6d. per head." This practice is fairly widespread today anyway, but why the refund?

(4) "A 2s. levy to R.W. news." The R.W. exists for the purpose of recording news, and peals are news. Surely the privilege of printing news should be paid for by the newspaper not by the contributors. The publication of peals is governed by the rules of the Central Council. Quarter peals, on the other hand, are not controlled and the necessity of having them published does not arise. Thus peal ringers should not be asked or expected to contribute to help pay for the printing of news, whereas quarter pealers should.

The circulation, I believe, of the R.W. is approximately 6,000. There are approximately 40,000 ringers in existence, of which about 3,000-4,000 ring peals each year. Given that the majority of the latter purchase the R.W., it cannot fall upon them to support it more than they do at present.

A certain Mr. Marsh's letter (R.W., Dec. 12, 1969) did not contribute much towards Christian unity. He asks: "How many peal ringers are committed Christians?" I have experienced during the past five years the humiliation of being prevented from ringing at my local tower for Sunday services. reason for this is the fact that I ring peals and enjoy a higher standard of ringing elsewhere. The clergyman involved in the above case is now. I understand, a bishop!

Finally, Mr. Marsh complains of the leading peal ringers' list. Has anyone read of complaints in the national newspapers about the publication of county cricket averages and football league goal scorers, and a volume of other statistical data? No, sir!—Yours faithfully, Cambridge. G. E. THODAY. Note.—There are numerous cases where items regarded as news have to be paid for, such as lists of names at many functions. Even the Football League makes a charge for its fixtures to certain bodies dealing with news! Ed.

ACCEPTED

Mr. Gerald Moorhouse, of Prestbury, Macclesfield, Cheshire, expresses thanks to Mr. Jonathan Porter for his generous apology, which is gladly accepted.

NOT RESCUED

We the undersigned wish to refute the statement made under the heading "Handbell Enthusiasts" (R.W., page 20) that pupils of Clere Secondary School "rescued" a set of handbells from the local tower, where they had lain idle and neglected. This statement suggests that the bells have not been looked after by succeeding rectors and tower captains to which their care has been entrusted, and we hope the following facts will help to prove this has not been the case.

No one would claim that al! 37 bells have been in use at any one time, but single octaves have been used over the years for tune ringing by the local band and by several parishes who have handbell teams.

Concerning the claim of neglect, we are of the opinion that the bells were in no worse condition than any to be found in the average tower where handbell ringing is not the first preoccupation of the band. The bells for many years hung behind the seat along one side of the belfry. This was a perfectly safe position when the tower was not so active in district functions, but due to increased participation in these activities it was decided to move the bells to a position under the clock case, the necessary fittings being made by the ringers. It was from here that the music master collected 24 of the bells, the other 13 being collected from the home of a ringer where they were in use by four members of the band

We would also like to make it clear that the bells are the property of the church and as such are freely available to Burghclere Church organisations and to other bodies at the discretion of the rector.

In conclusion, we would like to congratulate the pupils of Clere School on their achievements with the bells.

CLOCK DIALS

Dear Sir,—May I comment on items appearing in the R.W. of January 23?

In partial reply to John Holloway's letter, the use of IV rather than IIII was not common in Augustan Rome, and I believe it was only with the Christian monks of the Middle Ages that it took precedence. I imagine that while the Renaissance took its orthography from the monks, the various timekeeping devices retained their longer-standing tradition in this respect.

Secondly, I am sure that the London University Minor ringers will be delighted to see the Professor's work on page 62 took precedence in this field some months ago with his suggestion of Major spliced at the cross-section. "Very satirical, but I pity the tiger."—Yours faithfully.

HANDBELLS WANTED

Dear Sir.—As a former member of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers I still retain my love for bellringing. I have here at the University of Buffalo a group of students who upon hearing tales of my bellringing days expressed a desire to ring also. There are only three or four towers here in the States and none in our area; we thus hope to set up a band of handbell ringers. To obtain a set of bells is now our problem. I would like to ask the readers of The Ringing World for their help in locating a suitable set of handbells. I can arrange for them to be brought back to the States. I have given the group my copies of The Ringing World to give them some idea of the atmosphere of bellringing, and this has increased their interest. — Yours this has increased their interest. faithfully,

GRANDSIRE SIXTEEN

Dear Sir.—When I was making a study of old peal boards in Hertfordshire I came across the name of Thomas Powell on a board at St. Peter's, St. Albans. It recorded a peal of Stedman Caters by the College Youths in 1865, composed and conducted by Henry W. Haley, with many famous London ringers in the band.

I discovered that Powell came from Waltham Abbey and kept the Three Tuns there. Now, thanks to Mr. J. E. G. Roast's very interesting letter. I find that both Powell and Britten rang in the first Stedman Triples in hand but that Powell rang 5-6 in the first Holt's Original in hand.

The information that he came from Birmingham soon led me to Samuel Lawrence's statement that after the long peal of 7.200 Kent Treble Bob Maximus, April 17, 1820, several courses of Treble Bob Maximus were rung on the handbells and one course of 16 in the Grandsire method: James Jarvis 1-2, Thomas Chapman 3-4. Henry Cooper 5-6, Thomas Thurstans 7-8, Joseph Riley 9-10. Thomas Worrall 11-12, Samuel Lawrence 13-14, Alexander Sanders 15-16. I shall not be surprised if other letters are sent in containing this information as it can easily be found in Ernest Morris's book The History and Art of Change Ringing, published in 1931.

Thomas Powell may have rung in courses of Grandsire Sixteen or heard his father talking about such activities. It all goes to show that we should never underestimate the ringers of long ago.

Such letters as those of Messrs. Barnett and Roast do provide us with some names to conjure with. We started at the Three Tuns, then to the Whittington and Cat. Rethnal Green (not Whittington Hat, Mr. W. G. W.), and finished up at Birmingham. Perhaps Mr. E. C. Shepherd can give us the name of the tavern? Before leaving the subject of "Sixteen." Elijah Roberts could tap courses of anything up to Treble Boh on 16 bells in 1824 when he was in his 17th year.—Yours faithfully.

MULTI-SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—Mr. Drew's band have scored again — Artaxerxes! Who do they think they're kidding? Surely this is only Xerxes, rung earlier last year, with Kent places in 3-4 at the half lead. Of the other dozen or so new methods rung by the same band last year, Elmore, Jonah and Bromyard are only variations of Turramurra, together with Papanui, Lathkill, Easingwold and Aswarby rung by other bands during the same year. Tuffley and Bedwardine are simple variations of Grundisburgh, only the places made in the last section when the treble is behind being different. Omega, Florence, Mr. Rusty and Zebedee (rung in 1968) are all closely related and little different from the Turramurra variations.

I do not wish to single out Mr. Drew's band as being the only offenders in this matter—indeed they are not; nor do I wish to seem over-critical of what appears to be a very keen peal ringing band, some of whom I know personally. But please, with at least a million new Surprise Major methods still to be rung, many with very interesting "blue-lines," let us stop ringing methods which are only "variations on an old theme," and some of them poorer variations at that. If Mr. Drew or any other interested ringer would like a thousand or so tailor-made methods, right and wrong place, with or without adjacent place making (34, 56, 1234, etc.), please let me know and I and a sympathetic computer will be only too pleased to be of assistance.—Yours faithfully.

STEPHEN W. BARTON.

"GLORIOUS VICTORY"

Dear Sir.—Being rather surprised to read (R.W., page 46) that the ringers of Farnham rang a peal of Grandsire Triples to celebrate the "Glorious Victorv at Cape Trafalgar" on the very day of the battle. I went to my bookshelves to check when the news arrived at Falmouth in the Pickle. The first book I laid hands on was A Personal Study of Admiral Lord Nelson. by Carola Oman, and the first paragraph of the Notes reads:

"In January, 1946, at the village of Maidwell, in Northamptonshire, at five minutes to eight in the evening, a curfew rang out from the little church, and in its ringing carried us back a hundred and forty years; for this peal was last heard in 1805, when the ringer was turned out of the belfry for becoming too merry after hearing the news of the battle of Trafalgar. This man must have been one of the few to greet the tidings with rejoicing, and it is probable that his offence was not the natural one of indulging in a celebration, to honour an event in which all his fellow-countrymen iubilated, but rather considered to be the ill-taste of a drunkard at a funeral. The victory was nothing, the loss everything. When, on November the sixth, the newspapers appeared, headed:

GLORIOUS VICTORY

OVER THE

COMBINED FLEETS.

DEATH OF LORD NELSON. the nation knew a sorrow in inverse ratio to the size of the print."

Were the ringers of Farnham at one with the unfortunate ringer of Maidwell, or are we suffering from an excess of author's licence?—Yours faithfully.

TAKE PEALS SERIOUSLY

Dear Sir, - My main hobby-horse, and one that I have "ridden" for some years, is the fact that people do not take peal ringing seriously enough. Over the last 20 years I have yet to go for a peal with five, seven or nine other people that I am sure really wanted to attempt it. One arrives at the church to find people bewailing the fact that they have had to get up at some ungodly hour. One person thinks it is too hot or too cold to ring a peal. Another feels too ill. Someone else says he could think of far better things to do—watch football, for instance. Yet all these people agreed to "stand in" in the first place and would probably become offensive if they were being missed out. That doesn't alter the fact that before and during the peal attempt they have a "couldn't care less" attitude to the whole proceedings.

The primary concern in present day peal ringing seems to be to get the bells round at all costs, regardless of what happens be-tween "Go next" and "That's all." Although there are notable exceptions, one must lament a definite drop in standards between peal ringing now and 50 years ago.

I can remember the odd peal I rang with the regular weekly band at Crayford, Kent. The slightest clip, the slightest hesitation, the slightest misblow and all eyes were upon you. Today there are those who seem to think that most peals have rough patches-and I would hazard a guess there are certain of our brethren who regard a peal as very dull indeed unless it contains "fire-up.

We took peals seriously years ago. Travel was much more difficult, opportunities to ring peals were less frequent, there was less leisure time, fewer ringers were advanced enough (we certainly did not have the beneht of the knowledge and experience of previous ringing generations as the youngsters nave today). But one could be sure on arrival at the tower that everyone really wanted to ring a peal and would put his very best into it. One thing that sticks in my mind is the fact that people always used to turn up in their "Sunday best," a significant indication of how seriously they were taking the thing.

No, Mr. Marsh, it is not time to stop ringing peals: it is time to start taking them seriously.

At the risk of incurring the scorn of our less-Christian brethren, may I offer, in con-clusion, the text of II Timothy ii, 15: "Do your best to present yourself to God as approved, a workman who has no need to be ashamed, rightly handling the word of God "-Yours faithfully, New Milton. CHARLES DENTON.

Barry F. Peachey, of Lyndhurst, Hants, comments on Mr. E. Taylor's letter—

.. To have rung a good peal is an achievement and everyone like to achieve something; even having done it several times before doesn't quite take the spice out of it.

If the Central Council were to condemn peal ringing as 'stunts of strength and en-durance' (the opinion of a neighbouring tower captain), it is a certainty that many young people such as myself (I'm 14) would decline to take up the exercise as they would have nothing to aim for In my opinion a peal provides this aim.

QUARTER PEAL MONTH

When the idea of ringing a quarter peal in each tower in the branch during the last month of the decade was put forward at the autumn meeting of the South Oxfordshire Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild it received the full approval of members present. It was felt that a large number of people ringing the simpler methods would be of far greater benefit to the branch as a whole than a small number ringing more advanced methods, so towers were asked to arrange the quarters between themselves and ask for additional help if needed. By the end of November well over half the quarters had been arranged, and branch officers arranged the remainder. The intertower co-operation had been very high at this point, for the branch has a large proportion of young ringers who, in many cases, had only previously rung the treble to a quarter peal, so a certain amount of exchange was needed. Snow and bad weather had been anticipated, but sudden widespread 'flu in the area caused havoc to welllaid plans. Often frantic phone calls were made to replace ringers struck down the day before a quarter! To a certain extent this curtailed the variety of methods rung and, together with some lost quarters early in the month, meant that there was quite a rush after Christmas.

The benefits to the branch and to ringing in the area were very great. Actually 54 ringers were involved, whereas others unable to ring methods gave their support by helping with arrangements and sometimes waiting in the tower to hear and benefit from the ringing. Altogether 31 "firsts" of varying kinds were achieved, and younger ringers in particular gained valuable experience. Some villages with "silent" towers heard their bells ringing again and the in-terest of incumbents and "lapsed" ringers was aroused. Generally, branch affairs benented considerably. Two towers asked for help in starting new bands; the bells of Aston Rowant, which will not now be available for ringing until after rehanging, were rung for a carol service, special permission being given. This was the hardest quarter that any had ever rung, and although because of the cold their breath could be seen in the ringing chamber before starting, there were no complaints of cold when they had finished!

It would be inadvisable to thank any one particular person for the work during this month because the event was a corporate effort. In looking over the past ten years, however, the branch members realise that the quarter peal month would not have been possible had it not been for the work of the officers during the 1960s, particularly Frank Absolom, the ringing master, and Jim Godman, secretary until May, 1969. Off to Sydney. Australia, shortly will be Mr. and Mrs. William Page and their two small sons. Bill, who learned to ring at his home on the Isle of Wight, joined the Police Force as a cadet and was in Farnham for a time before moving to Guildford, Godalming and finally Haslemere. Whilst at Farnham he met Miss June Whittaker who was learning to ring, and they were married when he become a constable.

"We feel there are far better opportuni-ties there than in this country," said Bill, who when he leaves the Force will train for the probation service.

More Letters . . . SPLICED MAXIMUS

Dear Sir. - Having just rung a peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus in 12 methods on handbells in the Watford area. I would like to offer congratulations to the Marple band on the rapidity with which they outstripped us to this goal. I am sure the other members of our band will join me in this.

Obviously a race was on when they knew we had rung a peal of 4-Spliced in July, a few days after them, and they beat us to 12 methods by almost three months! must be disappointed that Bernard Groves had to move away and thus prevent their further progress, as it means, I expect, that they will soon lose their record. Had he remained in Cheshire one wonders how far behind we would now be! We would like to think we would have caught up ulti-mately, but I wonder.—Yours faithfully. JOHN R. MAYNE St. Albans,

"READING" SURPRISE MINOR

Dear Sir. - The correct name for the method rung to a quarter peal at Highclere on December 14 and to a 5,000 at Burgh-clere on December 29 is Redding Surprise and not Reading as published in page 57 of The Ringing World for January 23

The method first appeared in print in the 1677 Campanalogia as Redding Bob: Beniamin Annable mistranscribed the name as Reading Bob 60 years later. It is, of course, possible that Redding was in fact an error for Reading in the first place. However. this is now a fairly academic point, since the inclusion of Reading Surprise Maximus in a peal at Walsall earlier in 1969 means that the name is no longer available for any Surprise Minor method.

Incidentally, the method was included (as Redding) for the first time in a peal at Church Lawford, Warwicks, on July 21. 1969. Yours faithfully.

CYRIL A WRATTEN.

In the Ministry of Public Building and Works staff journal is reproduced a picture of Robert Tregillus, a 17-years-old fitter appren-tice at Stonehouse Depot, Plymouth. He is being congratulated by the area officer on his workmanship of a brass model of an American Civil War cannon. He is a regular ringer at Plymstock Church, taking part in competition striking) bellringing.

Progress is being maintained, although rather more slowly with the father than the son, we hear from Mrs. E. Barnett, of Crayford, Another victim of the ice and snow was Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd, of Warminster, Wilts. The day before his 72nd birthday (January 6) has fall and juried his spine and it is ceilled. he fell and jarred his some and it is still very painful—and no ringing! All his friends will wish him a quick and complete recovery.

There is no doubt at all that the success of a district meeting depends largely on its officers and their enthusiasm. The ringing should have a wide range of methods and business side be well prepared. Miss S. Tate-Mitchell. Farnham District secretary, has just completed her first year in office and the many and various duplicated sheets distributed giving details from agenda to proposed towers for the district's outing were a credit to her capabilities. The wise choice of the members reflects on the district as a whole.

"London Bells and Bellringers" was the title of a talk and demonstration given to members of the London Appreciation Society on January 15. Members of the Ancient Society of College Youths explained to an interested audience the basic principles of bell-handling and change ringing, and demonstrated the art with courses of Stedman Triples and Grand-sire Caters on handbells. The evening concluded with a selection of tunes rung on the handbells.

We apologise to correspondents who have sent peal reports in promptly and that have sent pear reports in promptly and that have not yet heen published. Unfortunately we have recently had many "late" neals come in—some as far back as August last, and these have had to receive publication priority to help association peal recorders—but to the detriment of others. We feel this is unfair those who do send peal reports promptly and wonder if these late peals ought not to be printed in smaller type and perhaps in quarter peal style. This would enable us to keep faith with peal ringers genera'ly by printing their peals nearer the date of the events.

He is flat on his back and seems likely to remain so for some weeks, we Letters would be welcomed by Charles and all his ringing friends and acquaintances will wish him a complete recovery.

OBITUARY

MR, GORDON MELVILLE

The death is announced of Gordon Melville, brother of Rev. Malcolm Melville, after a short illness, on January 24. As a cadet on the P. & O. Barrabool he accompanied the Great Adventure I ringers to Australia in 1934. He learnt to ring as a boy at Exhall, near Coventry, and rang three peals.

PURBECK YOUTHS CELEBRATE

THE first car load of visiting Purbeck Youths arrived at Wareham on Boxing Day, so a bright start was made on Saturday morning with a peal of Rutland at Whitchurch Canonicorum. More P.Y.'s arrived over lunch, and the week started off well when Yorkshire Royal was scored at Yeovil. making up for the one lost by several of the same band in the summer.

Sunday morning was spent locally. The Wareham "regulars" scored Plain Bob Major in the afternoon, a wedding compliment to Philip Keogh, of the Wareham band and a P.Y. The first loss was at Kingston, where "the rest" lost London Major. Both bands rang for Evensong at Wareham and all returned to the Scott Arms at Kingston, Here a telephone message told us that David Wilson had 'flu, and arrangements had to be made for a replacement.

Monday saw the week begin in earnest. One morning peal was scored at Bridport, where we were joined by Fred Collins, but there was a message waiting for the second band at Litton Cheney. John Longridge had mumps and neither he nor the replacement he was bringing for David Wilson would be coming! Undaunted, the keen souls drove through the falling snow to ring in the darkness at Long Bredy (5) and Burton Bradstock (6) before joining the rest at Bridport for lunch, and it was decided to cancel one of the afternoon peal attempts. The cars set off for Martock, the roads having turned very icv and giving rise to hair-raising episodes en route. Eight were left adiusting ropes and the remainder set off for Dravton to have a short ring warm up over coffee and return in time to hear the end of the successful Martock neal. A merry evening was spent at Winfrith, where the "outsiders" were really nicking up the Dorset accent! On arrival back at the Red Lion at Warcham, blow number three fell—David Massey had gone down with "ful! More late-night phone calls and replanning

A bitterly cold Tuesday morning saw the convoy moving cast to Hampshire. An attempt was lost at St. Mary's, Southampton, but a quarter of Yorkshire Royal was rung. A peal of Yorkshire Major was scored at East Tytherley. Winchester for lunch—the full company now being assembled. Twin Ruth was talked into ringing her second peal in two years and both afternoon peals were scored, the other twin. Mary, ringing her first of London (at long last!).

Wednesday morning saw blow number four! At an early hour Ross Robertson phoned to say he also had you-know-what! More rearranging of bands and transport and we set off in more snow. Sadly the peal at Shedfield never really started. "Londin" didn't go and time was limited, but a peal of Cambridge Major was enjoyed on the back eight at North Stoneham. One of the planned peals, at St. Paul's, Sarum, was then cancelled as numbers were slowly dwindling but a peal was scored at Wimborne St. Giles, giving George Bonham his 250th and an excuse for celebrating.

The highlight of the week arrived when everyone, still fighting fit, arrived at the Red Lion at Wareham for the annual dinner. The meal was excellent and Philip Mehew welcomed those returning for the first time since marriage and new faces, particularly Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collins, Fred proposed a toast to Marv Elmes for making the usual excellent job of the organisation and afterwards everyone made their way to the New Inn. Lewis Cobb soon got busy at the piano, and celebrations were especially in order as Graham and Tim had both rung over 100 peals in 1969. and Mary will be high in the list.

Most managed to make their way to the tower. Fortunately Tim was able to tackle the third without a stay and the New Year was rung in with a "long length" of spliced.

RULES DISCUSSED

The Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association A.G.M. was held on Jan. 10 at St. John's, Frome. Attendance at the business meeting and evensong was disappointing, but the ringing was distinctly better than average.

The two main items on the agenda were the proposed revision of the Association's rules and the retirement of Mr. Ted Chivers, branch secretary for 20 years. Several of the proposed rule alterations were controversial and involved much discussion. Members' views were also sought on their preference of date for future A.G.M.s of the Association and probable increase in annual subscription. It was proposed that P.C.C.s affiliating their towers to the Association should all be asked in future to contribute £1.

Tributes were paid to the retiring branch secretary and it was announced that in his honour a peal of Wye Surprise Major had been rung at Beckington that morning by branch members from Frome, Midsomer Norton, Chilcompton and Farmborough. The peal was conducted by the new branch secretary, Philip Jones, of Midsomer Norton

Meetings in 1970 were arranged for High Littleton, Mells and Bathwick (with Bath Branch), and the annual Corporate Communion will be at Farmborough. The general secretary requested as many towers as possible to attempt a quarter peal on or near May 31, which is the Association's 80th anniversary. A vote of thanks to the rector of St. John's, the organist and the Frome ringers who arranged an excellent tea was proposed by Mr. Ted Chivers.

New Year's Day saw the convoy moving west to Devon. The day was somewhat marred by funerals, at St. Mark's, Exeter, cancel'ed because of three, and at Littleham. Exmouth, stopped right at the beginning while a funeral finished. However, it restarted and a peal of four-spliced was scored. On arrival at the Trood House Hotel that evening we were met by John Longridge, who assured us his mumps were just after-effects of 'flu!

On Sunday, at Silverton, Tim shamefacedly miscalled Heywood's Double Norwich, even after his confidence the previous evening. The band then went to Thorverton, where Lincolnshire seemed to be going very well, but the latter band arrived in the pub after 5.000 changes to announce that on correcting one of the band Philip had miscalled it right before the end. The afternoon attempt was at Culmstock, where Willy Perrins managed to cross two bells over and had to set up eight-spliced. The remainder rang a' Uffculme (8) and then back to Warcham, where Julia joined them, having scored the only peal of the day—on handbells.

Saturday was slow to start. A bandbell peal lost at Durweston 14 Minor methods lost at Milborne St. Andrew. and Cambridge Maior stood up at Cattistock. Everyone made their way to Ruckland Newton for lunch. all very tired. Piddlehinton was cancelled due to loss of numbers, and no one could decide what to ring in the afternoon at Thorncombe. All was not lost. Tim redeemed himself by successfully calling Double Norwich. All were reunited in Dorchester and the past and future discussed.

Thanks were extended to John Longridge for arranging the Devon ringing and a gift to Marv from everyone for the hard work she did in the face of extreme difficulties. Twentynine towers were involved, 12 peals scored out of 20 attempts with 28 ringers taking part and everyone scoring one peal. Tim had the highest individual score with 10.

May the Purbeck Youths wish everyone a good year ahead.

A RELUCTANT RINGER

PURITON DINNER

The Puriton ringers held their second annual supper at the Crooked Chimney Restaurant on January 15. Ringers and friends were present with the Vicar. After an excellent dinner, Louis Pope, tower captain, gave an account of the achievements during the last 12 months, stating that the bells had been rung for every morning and evening service and a regular practice maintained. A sponsored peal had brought in £38 towards the church roof restoration fund, and 1st and 4th places were gained in the striking competition. It was hoped to have the bells rehung and retuned later.

The vicar, Rev. A. Beck, replying thanked the ringers for their services; in particular Louis and Elaine, his wife. Mrs. Beck then presented Clare Evans with a ringers' diary for the best attendance: Leslie Bawden was a close second and Louis Pope had attended on all 154 occasions. G. N.

VICTORIAN GARB

The annual dinner of the East Grinstead and District Guild was held at Tunbridge Wells on January 10, and following the meal and the loyal toast Mr. R. J. Everest proposed "The Church," to which the president (Rev. J. R. Missen) responded. The toast of "The Guild" was honoured on the call of Mr. B. E. Jeffrey (chairman) and Mr. R. V. Johnson replied.

For the entertainment Mr. K. Game was M.C. and was attired in Victorian garb.

INTERESTING EXHIBITION

The annual meeting of the Preston Branch, L.A.C.R., was held on January 17 at Leyland Parish Church. The ten were put to good use during the afternoon with ringing from rounds to Cambridge Royal. At the meeting, which followed an excellent "het pot" tea (provided by the Leyland ringers), branch officers were elected, viz.: Crossthwaite (ringing master). R. Barnes (assistant secretary) and R. Palmer (committee member). New members were admitted from Brindle, Leyland, Higher Walton and Samlesbury, and Mr. J. Jackson, of Bamber Bridge, was proposed for life membership of the Association. The Vicar of Leyland and the local ringers were thanked for the use of the bells and supplying the tea. Later those present were able to inspect an exhibition of photographs and books on belifounding and change-ringing which had been arranged by the local tower D.L.M. captain (Mr. G. Cunliffe).

YORKSHIRE SOCIETIES

The Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies held a striking contest at Sprotborough in November. The ten affiliated Societies had entered for the contest in which bands were permitted to ring on either six or eight bells. First to ring were the Halifax and District Society band, who rang Oxford Treble Bob Minor. The last team to compete was that from the Leeds and District Society with Little Bob Maior.

Mr. Ernest Short and assistants provided tea for over 100. The judges, Harold Chant and Jim Thorley, gave a detailed commentary on each performance, and the Halifax and District Society band were worth winners. The Leeds and District Society band were second, and last year's winners the Yorkshire Association, were third. The winners' certificate was presented to Arthur Farrand E. H.

TWENTY-FIVE PRESENT

The A.G.M. of the Elloe Deaneries Branch of Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Spalding (8) on January 17, when the service was conducted by the curate (Rev. J. Crust) and tea was served in the church hall. The meeting was attended by about 25 members, including the guild secretary, Mr. J. Millhouse. Ringing continued until 9 p.m. under the supervision of the ringing master, Mr. F. Taylor.

The next quarterly meeting will be a joint one with the Eastern Branch at Bicker in April.

YOUTHFUL QUARTER

The young members of the Mitcheldean Sunday service band had intended to ring a quarter peal for Christmas, but unfortunately the 'flu epidemic incapacitated one member of the band after another, and it was not until January 18 that the full team could assemble. A well-struck quarter of Plain Bob Doubles was rung by a band of average age 13 years, at their first attempt.

All are regular Sunday service ringers at Mitcheldean and are full of enthusiasm for A. A. P. future achievements.

DEATH OF MRS. G. FRANKLIN

We learn, as we go to press, of the death of Mrs. G. Franklin, of Staverton. A report will appear next week.

TWELVE SPLICED IN HAND

Watford team has now equalled the Cheshire record by ringing an excellent peal on Jan. 19 and the friendly rivalry is "on" again.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for February 2, 1945

A peal of Bob Royal at Southover was rung to commemorate the foundation of the Sussex County Association on January 24, 1885.

The proposed Southwell Guild and the future of the Midland Counties Association was the subject of the leading article and at a meeting held at Sutton-on-Trent a resolution was adopted favouring the formation of a Southwell Diocesan Guild.

At St. Ebbe's Church, Oxford a peal of St. Clement's College Bob Major was rung for the University Guild, conducted by J. E. Spice, it being the first in the method by all.

The Oxford Society held their annual lunch at the Town Hall and Mr. F. Sharpe spoke about the age of the Society and said many prominent men of the Exercise learned to ring in their undergraduate days at Oxford.

Sgt. K. Arthur, R.A.F., commended Mr. D. Bayles' suggestion for a school of

At a meeting of the Leicester District of the Midland Counties Association it was reported by Mr. H. W. Perkins, hon. secretary, that 57 new members had joined during the year and six old members had rejoined. The total membership was 275.

Mr. G. E. Symonds wrote regarding calling peals of Treble B. Maximus and stated he had called Oxford T.B. with 60 bobs—the greatest number ever called in T.B. Maximus.

At Queensbury, Bradford, a peal of Bob Major was composed and conducted by Vernon Bottomley, it being his first as conductor.

50 YEARS AGO

February 6, 1920

Two handbell peals of Bob Minor at Longstanton, Cambs, were rung by J. B. Woolley 1-2, Rev. H. B. Woolley 3-4, C. W. Woolley 5-6. In one J. B. conducted his first peal and Rev. H. B. first Minor in hand and in the other C. W. (aged 13) conducted his first peal.

Mr. R. F. Deal wrote regarding the youngest ringer, stating that J. W. Washbrook raised and tolled the bell for Queen Victoria's death and had rung a peal shortly after his 8th birthday.

At the Cumberlands' A.G.M. during the proceedings it was stated that some members, in common with other Societies, felt that the benefits derived from the Central Council were hardly worth the expense. It was also decided to revive the annual

At the quarterly meeting of the Midland County Association at N. Wingfield it was proposed to raise the yearly subscription from 1s. to 1s. 6d.

At Harborne, Staffs, W. B. Cartwright rang the treble to Stedman Triples for his first peal, conducted by George Pigott, whilst at Barton-on-Humber Miss M. L. Mobbs was the first Barton lady to score

At a meeting of the Middlesex County Association at Southgate, the hon, secretary, Mr. C. T. Coles, said the district was recovering quickly from wartime losses. A bcb course of Stedman Cinques was rung by J. B. Williamson, J. Thomas, W. Pye, G. R. Pye, W. Hewett and G. M. Kilby.

Holy Trinity, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex

By JOHN NORRIS

HURSTPIERPOINT is a large but still attractive village nine miles north of Brighton. Recorded merely as Hurst in the Domesday Book, the suffix was derived from its Norman "lords of the manor," who also gave their name to Holme Pierrepont in Nottinghamshire. Of the church mentioned in Domesday, all but the tower was rebuilt in the 15th century and in 1843 the whole building was razed to the ground to be replaced by the present building in the Early Pointed style. While contemporary sources deny the old Church of St. Lawrence almost any merit, it is clear from pictures that it was a building of considerable charm and would certainly be considered worthy of preservation today. Nevertheless the present church, designed by Sir Charles Barry, the architect of the House of Commons, is a fine building and a "remarkable example of the Gothic Revivel"

When bells were first hung in the old church is not known. However, in the surrounding parishes there were pre-Reformation bells at Clayton, Preston and Poynings and bells of about 1530 at Keymer and Twineham. It seems quite likely, therefore, that Hurstpierpoint, a place of comparative importance, would have possessed a bell or bells from an early date. Evidently if there were bells in the church in ancient times they were not held in very high esteem by the people, for in the records of Sussex wills up to 1560 there were no bequests to churches possessing bells were not uncommon. For example, Robert Umfrey, of Petworth, in his will dated 1544, bequeathed "to the Reparacons and mayteunce of the belles of the Church of Petworth Twentie shillinges."

Certainly there were bells at Hurst by 1685, for one of the first entries in the Churchwardens' Accounts, which date from that year, is "For a set of Bell Ropes 19s 6d." Thereafter frequent entries for ropes, minor repairs and "oyle for the bels" occur, together with entries for payment for ringing on special occasions, such "Gave ye Ringers on Gunpouder Treson 5s."

By 1717 more than minor repairs were needed, for Thomas Marchant, a local yeoman and noted Sussex diarist, wrote for March 5: "I met Mr. Whitpaine at the Church to consult about mending a bell." Evidently this was a fruitless meeting for Bishop Bowyer's Visitation of 1724 records "Six bells, one a little cracked."

Little further seems to have been done until 1775, when Messrs. Pack and Chapman cast a new ring of six bells. These were in the key of A major, the tenor weighing about 9 cwt.. and were hung by Robert Turner of the foundry, evidently in the existing frame. The total cost was £110. Even two of these bells, the 5th and tenor, were unsatisfactory and the accounts state: "Spent on the men from Cuckfeld that come to know the fault of the bells 2s" and "paid Mr. Wilson 19s 6d."

From the surviving letters from Wm. Chapman to Wm. Borrer, churchwarden, it seems clear that Chapman's intention was, to quote his own words, "to give full satisfaction." However, before the Parish was satisfied Chapman had to write letters promising to cast two new bells in place of those complained of, to pay for the carriage of the defective bells to the foundry and of the new bells to the Parish, and to do the bellhanging, all at his own expense. He also promised to sign a deed guaranteeing his work for a year.

Finally, when the two bells had been cast, in 1784, Chapman requested the Parish to "appoint some Person to come and try them before they go out of the foundry have no objection to any Person you are to appoint Except Mr. Willson." The Please to appoint Except Mr. Willson. mysterious Mr. Willson, very probably a Cuckfield ringer, had evidently previously visited the foundry on the Parish's behalf, making himself thoroughly objectionable to Mr. Chapman in the process. On his final letter Chapman's signature was very shaky and it is sad to record that he died of consumption only a few months afterwards, aged 52. One hopes that his death was not hastened by Mr. Willson and the demands of the Parish.

Of this ring of six bells, three—the treble, 2nd and 4th—were retained when the old church was demolished in 1843, becoming the 2nd, 3rd and 5th in the ring of eight hung in the new church. The notes of these bells were originally F sharp, E and C sharp, and to fit these into the new octave in the key of G it would have been necessary to flatten the C sharp to C, presumably by chip-tuning, for five of the bells still show evidence of this method of tuning.

CHIP-TUNING MARKS

The remaining three bells were discarded, although the reason is not apparent. There is no record that they were unsatisfactory and they had notes needed for the new octave. One would have expected them, if unsatisfactory, to have been returned to the foundry for recasting. Apparently only the old tenor was sent back, and where the other bells went is not known.

To complete the new octave five bells were cast by C. and G. Mears in 1846, the tenor weighing 13 cwt. 2 lb. The invoice for the bells, bearing brasses, gudgeons and clappers, amounting to £150, was sent to the rector, Rev. Carey Hampton Borrer. The foundry neither made the bell frame nor did any of the hanging. The frame bears the inscription "M. Harmes" and it is possible that he was responsible for the work. However, he was one of the local ringers, and the inscription, which appears elsewhere in the tower, may have been just exhibitionism.

Four of the new bells bore Latin inscriptions. The Parish evidently contributed at least to the tenor, since the inscription on it runs, when translated: "The generous people of Hurstpierpoint caused me to be made." That on the treble was: "Deo Cari Nihilo Carent," which may be translated as "The beloved of God lack nothing." It was possibly the personal motto of the rector, since it appears on the shield surmounting his memorial in the church. Possibly Canon Borrer or his family contributed to this bell, for when it was replaced in 1868 the new one was again associated with him, bearing his initials C. H. B. It also bore the motto "Robore et Labore" (By strength and endeavour), which appears on the hatchment of his father, Nathaniel Borrer. Again it seems that the old bell was not sent back, full cost being charged for the new one, which was cast by Robert Stainbank.

From 1868 the bells rang merrily on until 1901, when the 5th cracked. This might have been expected since it must have been weakened by the considerable removal of metal necessary when it was tuned down from C sharp to C. It was recast by Thomas Blackbourn, of Salisbury, and all the bells rehung. Little further attention was required until the cracking of the 7th in 1950, a few years after it had been rehung by local craftsmen on ball bearings. It was recast and all the bells rehung on ball bearings by Gillett and Johnston in time for the bells to ring out for the Coronation in 1953, the total cost (£641) being raised in the village by public subscription in barely two months. Since then the only work required has been the fitting of a new gudgeon pin to the tenor in 1959 after the clapper had flown out and subsequently repairs to the clapper

As can be seen, the bells are a mixed lotbeing the work of four different founders. However, although only mediocre in tone, they go well and fit well together, reminding one of the inscription on the 4th: "Ecce Quam Bonum et Quam Iucundum Habitare Fratres in Unum" (Behold how good and joyful a thing it is Brethren, to dwell together in unity).

Hurstpierpoint has a keen band of twodozen ringers covering all ages, from George Mansbridge in his 60th year as a ringer to an abundance of youthful talent, with enthusiasm being stimulated by friendly rivalry between two families of four ringers each. Considerable progress is being made

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

PART II: THE IDEA SPREADS . . .

LAW JAMES called another peal at Surfleet on November 7th, 1911. Although this was in only 12 methods it marked a further advance, for the first extent contained three methods-Hereward, Double Oxford and Single Oxford. Eleven days later he called yet another peal on the same bells to create a new record. The peal contained 16 methods, four of them (Sandal, Oxford, London Scholars and Kingston) being spliced into the first 720.

Several more peals in eight, nine and ten methods were rung at various towers in South by virtually the same band but conducted variously by Law James himself, John W. Lake and Rupert Richardson. Richardson had rung the tenor to all of James' peals of spliced to date, while Lake's first spliced peal had been that in eight methods at Flancher in September 1982. that in eight methods at Edenham in September, 1910, and his first of spliced as conductor that at Fleet the following month.

. . . TO DERBYSHIRE

The first peal of spliced by a non-Lincolnshire company was rung at Newhall in Derbyshire on September 23, 1912, and was conducted by Albert P. Wakley of the famous Burton-on-Trent band. Thereafter peals of Spliced Minor slowly began to appear more frequently in the columns of The Bell News and The Ringing World.

Peals in 14 Surprise methods were scored at Tibenham, Nortoik, on January 23, 1913, conducted by Frederick R. Manser, and at St. Ignatius', Sunderland, three weeks later, conducted by Joseph W. Parker. Although these two bands appeared on the "spliced" stage almost simultaneously, their backgrounds were quite different. The first peal of spliced by a non-Lincoln-were quite different.

. . TO NORFOLK

The Tibenham company had rung their first peal in 1905. Over the next five years they rang a few more, and during the summer of 1910 they had succeeded in bringing round 14 360s in a mixture of Plain and Treble Bob methods; in January, 1912, they scored their first peals in seven Treble Bob and seven Surprise methods.

In February that year they rang 14 360s of Treble Bob, and, in March, 21 240s. There followed a 7,200 of Surprise in ten methods in October. Thus, although the 14-method peal the following January was their first of spliced, they had considerable previous experience of multi-method ringing.

. . . AND TO CO. DURHAM

Unlike their Norfolk rivals, the Sunderland band had never previously rung anything over seven methods. But Surprise Minor had been firmly established in this north-east corner of the country for a number of years.

The Durham and Newcastle Association could at this period boast of three excellent Minor companies—at Whitley Bay (consisting almost entities of the brothers Gofton), at Darlington under George W. Park, and Joseph Parker's band at St. Ignatius', Bishops-Joseph Parker's band at St. Ignatius, Bisnops-wearmouth. The former had rung the first peal of seven Surprise for the Association as long ago as 1903; the Darlington men had rung the first of their many peals of seven Surprise in 1908, and the Suaderland company followed them a year later. Joseph Parker, who had learned to ring at St. Ignatius about who had learned to ring at St. Ignatius about 12 years earlier, had caited that peal, as he called most of the later peals by the band. Both Whitley Bay and Sunderland bells were augmented to eight at about this time, and although Parker did a great deal of original work on Minor composition in the years that followed, both bands soon dis-appeared from Minor ringing.

... AND TO CHESHIRE

The year 1913 also marked the arrival of The year 1913 also marked the arrival of the Chesnire men upon the scene. The history of the band at Hazel Grove, Norbury, is similar to that of the Tibenham company. They had rung the first peal in 14 methods for the Chester Guild in 1903, conducted by Samuel Fernley, and eight years later James Fernley had called the Guild's first peal of 14 Treble Bob there. Both peals had been made up of 360s.

14 Ireble Bob there. Both peals had been made up of 360s.

The ringer of the third in the 1911 peal had been the Rev. A. T. Beeston, priest-incharge of New Mills, some five miles from Norbury. On July 12th, 1913, he and the Norbury band set up a new record by ringing a peal in 19 Treble Bob methods at Hazel Grove, the Rev. A. T. Beeston conducting the ringing. ringing.

Artnur Beeston had rung his first peal at Wirksworth in March, 1900, and his first as conductor—one in four Minor methods with four first-pealers in the band—on his new bells at New Mills that October. He soon bells at New Mills that October. He soon became a regular visitor at the Norbury practices, where, following the spliced peals in Lincolnshire, he interested James Fernley and his band in the possibilities of this new idea. They soon set themselves a target of a peal in 28 methods, made up of four sevenmethod extents, and the 19-method peal in the July of 1913, marked the first significant step in this direction.

But then came the Great War, and all thoughts of record peals had perforce to be set aside. The Norbury band, in common with others throughout the country, was depletted as its members were one by one called to the colours, and further peal-ringing was out of the question. More than eight years were to elapse before their record was to be surpassed.

A total of 400 peals together is not a record (see Belfry Gossip) but worthy of note. Mrs. F. J. Mar-shallsay and Mr. D. T. Matkin, photographed by Matkin, photographed by The R.W. at a ringing meeting at Christchurch, Hants, on January 31.

DISTRICT TO SPLIT?

The 12th annual meeting of the Bingham District of Southwell Diocesan Guild was held at St. Mary's, Bingham, on January 10.

Ringing was from 3 p.m. and evensong was conducted by the vicar, Rev. H. A. Kirton, with tea following in the W.I. Hut.

At the meeting the statement of accounts was read and passed and the secretary's report stated the progress among members and the increased subscriptions from P.C.C. to the belfry repair fund. Nine new members were elected. The meetings at Orston for February and Whatton for March were confirmed. Thanks to Miss O'Neill, a further £2 4s. 6d. was put in the belfry repair fund from a raffle.

Mr. D. Clarke (chairman), Miss R. Blackshaw (secretary) and Mr. M. W. Harrison (committee member) were re-elected for 1970, and Miss O'Neill, Mr. B. Bull and Mr. H. G. Wells were elected ringing masters. A proposal that Mr. A. Foster (Orston) and Mr. W. Walker (Cropwell Bishop) be made honorary members was passed, subject to the committee meeting at North Muskham in February.

The proposed splitting of the Nottingham District was discussed at length and was followed by ringing to suit all until 8 p.m. R. B.

THE EARL APPROVED

The ringing of the quarter peal at St. Martin's Church, Stamford, for morning service on January 25 was very much appreciated, particularly by Lord and Lady Exeter, who came to church much earlier than usual to listen.

When it was completed Lord Exeter stood at the bottom of the tower and shook hands with each of the ringers as they came out and thanked them for their effort.

It was rung to commemorate the christening of their grand-daughter in the chapel at Burghley House earlier in January.

and achievements in the last 12 months have included the first all-local peal, of Plain Bob Major, since 1890, and 14 quar-ter peals with six firsts inside to Bob Major and five to Grandsire Triples. Cambridge Major is now being tackled. The ringers enjoy supporting Association meetings and ringing at other towers and welcome visitors to Hurstpierpoint.

MR. A. YORK-BRAMBLE HONOURED

TWO YEARS AGO, at the annual general meeting of the Portsmouth Cathedral Ringers' Guild, the chairman (A. York-Bramble) said he did not wish to stand for re-election. The president (Very Rev. E. N. Porter Goff, Provost of Portsmouth) said this would be accepted with regret, and outlined the work Mr, York-Bramble had done for ringing at the Cathedral. The Provost said that he would ask the Cathedral Council to provide some tangible form of commemorative recognition of all the voluntary effort that had been made. He thought that the Cathedral Ringers' Guild might wish to do likewise.

At the annual general meeting on January 19 those proposals were carried into effect. The Provost, on behalf of his Council and with expression of appreciation and thanks, handed over to Mr. York-Bramble a framed portrait of himself, with inscription, to be hung in the ringing chamber of the Cathedral belfry. The inscription reads:—

Albert York-Bramble (1894-19)

Portrait given by the Portsmouth Cathedral Council in commemoration of the Subject's services to Cathedral ringing:— Instituted, (1956) the Cathedral School of Ringing: Prime mover in the augmentation (1957) to 10 bells: Co-founder and inaugural Chairman of the Cathedral Guild of Ringers (1957): Sometime acting Tower Captain: Life Vice-President of the Guild.

At the same time Mr. Alan Buswell, the tower captain, handed over, on behalf of the members of the Cathedral Ringers' Guild and with cordial words of thanks, a completely detailed working model bell, properly hung in its frame, the mechanism of which he had himself made and assembled. The model, to be kept on display in the ringing chamber and used in tuition, bears the inscription:—

"Constructed by Alan A. J. Buswell on behalf of this Tower Guild to commemorate the Services of Albert E. C. York-Bramble to Cathedral ringing, especially in the teaching of beginners."

ENGROSSING SPARE-TIME CAREER

Mr. York-Bramble, on receiving these commemorative tokens, thanked the Cathedral authorities for their efforts to foster and extend ringing in the tower during the past 14 or 15 years. He also expressed his thanks for the warm regard shown by fellow ringers and mentioned that this was virtual closing down of the practical side of what had been one of his most engrossing spare-time careers.

In a résumé of his ringing career, Mr. York-Bramble confessed to a long-term disappointment in that he was no brilliant ringer of advanced methods although he had rung a few, his modest achievements in practical ringing being about 50 peals up to Caters and Surprise Royal.

His introduction to the art came when Surprise Major was something of a feat, and then for about 20 years he went out of practical ringing. His high spots were his first peal (June, 1914) of Grandsire Minor at St. John's-in-the-Wall, Bristol, and the only peals by officers of H.M. Forces—Kent T.B. Major at Putney and Grandsire Caters at South Croydon, both in 1919 for the Ancient Society of College Youths. A most satisfactory recollection was the performance for the B.B.C. recording unit at St. Mary's, Portsea, of Double Norwich Court Bob Major and London Surprise Major.

CATALOGUE OF BELLS

The annual general meeting of the N.E. District of the Essex Association was held at St. Mary the Virgin, Ardleigh, on Jan. 17. It was quite a happy gathering since the district had had a good year. One member, Geoff Isgar, had alone launched an Association Christmas card after the Association's committee had scorned the idea and £11 12s. 6d. profit had been made for the district bell restoration fund. Another bright spot was the election of eight new members from Great Bentley, the first since 1943. The thanks of the district were extended to the Thorington ringers who had been responsible for training the Bentley band.

The secretary warned that there was still a lot to be done. There were many unringable towers and many towers without ringers in the district, and one ring of four bells at Little Oakley had been stolen. The master reported that in this connection a catalogue of bells in Essex was to be made by an Association sub-committee to safeguard against such occurrences in future. The district officers for 1970 are Bernard W. Fairhead, master; John A. Avis, secretary; Peter G. Pitt and Brian J. Vaughan, committee members.

SPONSORED PEAL

A "sponsored peal" will be attempted at the Church of St. James, Birch-in-Rusholme, Manchester, on Easter Monday. Some time ago dry rot was discovered in the roof of this lovely church, and parishioners set to work to pay off the bill of £1,600. With the end in sight at approximately £1,400, another part of the roof was discovered to be infected, and a further £800 was needed.

Sponsors will pledge to pay so much for each thousand changes rung, and if the peal is unsuccessful it will be taken to the nearest thousand. A sponsored peal for the fund was rung on the bells in December, 1968 (Lincolnshire S. Major), and £12 los. was raised for the "Beat the Rotter" fund. This time it is hoped to improve considerably on this sum. Perhaps readers will be willing to sponsor and should contact P. Boucher, c/o the Vicar of Birch-in-Rusholme.

DISCOVERIES

On the instructional and theoretical sides of campanology he could modestly claim to have made in 20 years certain discoveries from which was derived new knowledge or at least new forms of approach. These were described in two books—Bell Ringing and Control in the Elements of Change Ringing and Method Structure in Change Ringing. He was convinced that the theory of ringing needed a technology or at least a logical glossary—a view supported by three of the foremost authorities in the past—Shipway, Snowdon and C. D. P. Davies.

Mr. York-Bramble recalled 14 years ago when ten young people of both sexes rang rounds for the first time as a group on the rehung and augmented bells of the Cathedral. They were part of the 16 members of the Young Cathedral Members' Association who had been trained on the system planned in the books. He owed much to the facilities afforded in the Cathedral and the help of members of the Guild and particularly in recent times to their tower captain. Alan Buswell, who had now shouldered this responsibility. "I think that we may have planted in the Cathedral Ringers' Guild a seed that is growing into a tree of accomplishment that should live far into the future."

CENTENARY-1972

At its meeting on January 20 the Oxford University Society decided to elect a general secretary to be responsible for liaison with old members. Although the Society was the first University Society to create such an office (in 1947) the post has since lapsed. It is hoped, especially in view of the Society's forthcoming centenary celebrations in 1972, that all members of the Society will in future be kept fully informed about the Society's activities. If any member did not receive a circular at Christmas the new general secretary, J. E. Camp, Jesus College, would be pleased to send him or her one.

PRESENTATION TO MR. B. ASHFORD

The Northern Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association held a very successful quarterly meeting at St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge, on January 17, over 80 members being present. Ringing was under the direction of Mr. Morley P. Tobin, the branch ringing master, and the recently-augmented ten were enjoyed by all.

The choral service was conducted by the vicar, Rev. B. H. T. Trevor-Morgan, who also chaired the business meeting which followed the tea. The meeting was told of the courses of instruction which the branch officers had arranged, and all members were asked to give the venture their best support. It was also agreed that the branch should hold an extra striking competition in each year, and early May was accepted for this.

year, and early May was accepted for this. The highlight of the meeting was the presentation of an oak writing desk to Mr. B. C. Ashford, who retired as branch secretary at the end of 1969 after 30 years in the office. The presentation was made by the Association master, Mr. W. B. Cartwright, who asked Bernard to accept the gift as a mark of the esteem in which he was held by all the members. Mr. Ashford suitably replied, Ringing included Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Bob Royal, Cambridge Royal and rounds for beginners.

REPAIRS IN HAND

The bells of Emmanuel Church, Plymouth, are having a very thorough overhaul, with some work to be done by Mr. Fidler. The 3rd, however, is to go to Messrs. Taylor. The work was commenced on January 19 and is expected to take about six weeks, after which visitors to Emmanuel will again be given a very warm welcome. There are five very keen young ringers, one being Philip Harris, the Vicar's son, and during the time the bells are out of action an evening visit elsewhere will be made and several invitations have been received, which is greatly appreciated.

MOVING

Mr. Graham Newman, of Old Whitting ton, is moving out of the Chesterfield area and as well as being missed by members of his own tower will be greatly missed by the Chesterfield District of the Derby Diocesal Association.

In addition to being a peal ringer he has been an active member on the committee of which he has served as ringing master. He has taken a keen interest on the social side and has acted as M.C. for functions aid of the Derby Cathedral Extension Funorganised by the district. Amongst othe duties he was architectural adviser to include the social social Everyone wishes him "all the best" in his new post.

ENCOURAGING REPORT

The annual meeting of the St. Albans District of the Hertford County Association was held on January 17 at St. Peter's, St. Albans, when the ringing ranged from rounds to Spliced Surprise Royal.

Rev. Andrew Bradley, of St. Peter's, conducted an unusual and amusing service, during which he compared the ingredients of a cake to the church and all ringers. The organ added spice when it temperamentally refused to play more than half a hymn at a time. A handbell "voluntary" was rung at the end of the service, much to the relief of the organist.

Seventy sat down in the Abbey Institute for the unusual tea of sausages and baked potatoes, which was a welcome change.

In the absence of the president (Mr. W. Ayre) Mr. A. R. Agg took the chair for the business meetine. All stood in memory of a member Mr. W. T. Holmes, and of a good friend, Canon Douglas Harpur, of St. Michael's. Probationers and full members, who included a number of the St. Albans Girls' Grammar School Society, were elected.

The secretary gave a very encouraging report of the year's activities. The Voluntary Bell Fund is in a healthy state, and as at least one church was to receive a grant members were asked to continue their support of the fund.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. R. E. Hardy not wishing to be renominated as hon. district secretary, Mr. F. W. Ellis was elected in his place, and Mr. A. W. R. Wilby continues as district ringing master. Miss H. Dodds was elected as Ringing World representative.

A. R. W. Wilby. E. Edmondson, G. Dodds. R. E. Hardy, K. J. Darvill and J. E. Ewer, with Mr. G. Dodds and Mr. R. E. Hardy on the general committee. Mr. K. J. Darvill is now district peal book writer.

The secretary said that Batchwood Hall had been booked for the district dinner in December.

It was announced that because the 2nd at sandridge was out of action the meeting in February had been changed to Kimpton.

The peals secretary, Mr. G. Penney, expressed thanks to conductors who had sent peals rung promptly, and Mr. G. Dodds poke appreciatively of all concerned in the arrangements that day.

For evening ringing at the Abbey rounds up to Yorkshire Maximus were rung.

LINKINCHESTERBRIDGE GUILD OF STRANGE RINGERS

Bob Myner had a motor-car, Twould cough and squeal and sob. and when he took n down the street Twould dodge like Treble Bob.

The people hunted left and right And sought to make a place, And gladly would have missed a bob For any vacant place.

The car it made no inside place, Close to the kerb it flies. Now was this merely a Delight Or was it a Surprise?

This conundrum was given in The Ringing world on February 6, 1920. and Mr. R. Cauler collected 3d. stamps with the answers seat, and the funds thus collected would be utilised in making bobs at home, one of our older readers remembers the answer.

The band that rang 27-Spliced S. Major at Wonersh on January 24. Left to right: M. Church (Cond.), Mrs. B. Simpson, A. Elsmore, P. J. Munday, R. Bradley, S. Ponting, W. J. Couperthwaite, T. Page.

FULL AGENDA

Youth predominated at the A.G.M. of the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held at Aldershot on January 24. Nearly 100 attended and they came mainly from the towers in the district, and the light, musical ring of eight at St. Michael's was well used and good practice enjoyed, under the ringing master and his assistant,

Mr. Ray Bath (a Yorktown ringer) was at the organ for the service, conducted by the Vicar of Aldershot (Rev. S. Zeal), and Maj. Jack Bragg read the lesson. The "locals" had a plentiful tea laid out in the hall nearby and obviously had anticipated big appetites, and the younger element certainly did full justice to the repast.

The items dealt with in the full agenda included the ringing master's report, giving details of meetings and practices, peals (a record number of 21) and first pealers, and the district's outing to the Isle of Wight: the hon. secretary's analysis of events and membership, and the accounts, clearly portrayed on a duplicated sheet and circulated to all. All three items were adopted.

OFFICERS IN 1970

The following were declared elected to serve in the coming year, there being no other nominations: ringing master, Mr. T. Page; assistant, Mr. A. Elsmore; secretary, Miss S. J. Tate-Mitchell: assistant secretary and treasurer. Mr. B. White; auditor, Mr. W. Viggers; Ringing World reporters, Mr. A. Elsmore and Miss Marilyn Reay; committee member, Mr. R. Collins, and the guild officers were renominated.

New members elected were Aileen Freeman and Julie Phelps (Ash), Alison Silverthorne and Gillian Futcher (Farnham), Sally Howarth and Jennifer Spry (Grayshott) and Mrs. E. Hiscock and Ian Hiscock (Seale).

The district outing into Wiltshire and the list of meetings arranged (and circulated) were accepted and a full discussion followed on the programme of "advanced" practices proposed, it being explained that the "advanced" did not necessarily mean Surprise but methods in advance of what those attending had previously rung.

PEAL CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations were extended to the band who had that morning rung a peal of 27-Spliced Surprise and were present at the meeting. Six of the team are district members. A number of other interesting items were also discussed, including the new layout of The Ringing World, and although accused of "blackmail' where peals and quarter peals were concerned, the editor (who was present) pointed out that any amounts, small or large, helped towards making improvements and possible extra pages as well as keeping the price stable. It was all very well to say that many would pay more for the paper. The majority would not do so, and without a R.W. where would the Exercise be? The present cor-respondence about the two sides among ringers-peal ringers and others-failed to appreciate that both were essential, for neither would survive without the other, and least of all The Ringing World,

A comprehensive vote of thanks to all who had helped arrange the meeting was received with applause, and the usual ringing then followed.

ROPE SPLICING AT A.G.M.

The Northampton Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild held their A.G.M. at Kingsthorpe on January 24. Sixty ringers and friends were present and these included visitors from the Towcester, Daventry and Wellingborough Branches.

At the meeting, which followed an excellent tea, the following members were elected to offices in the branch: President, Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner; vice-president, Dennis Isaacs: secretary/treasurer, Raymond Henman: auditor, R. A. Eldridge; guild liaison officers. Jack C. Chapman and Barry R. Care: ringing master, David J. Morgan; ringing instructors, David Robinson, Julian C. Parker and Christopher G. Chiplin, and public relations officer. Anne Henman.

New members elected were A. Harmer, Miss S. Wootton, F. Green, A. Chater, A. Twelftree, Mrs. R. Dent, Mrs. R. Horton and Miss B. Bates.

During the evening a demonstration of rope splicing was given in the church by Mr. Leleux.

BEST SUPPORT FOR MANY YEARS

The Salisbury Branch annual meeting at St. Thomas' Church on January 24 was one of the best-supported meetings for many years. The guild service, conducted by Rev. W. Hargrave, with Mr. E. Boulter as organist and Rev. Roger Keeley reading the lesson, preceded the tea, attended by over 50 members and visitors.

Mr. N. Skelton, branch chairman, presided and Mr. G. A. Trimby, secretary, presented the report and financial statement, which showed a satisfactory balance in hand. Officers elected were Messrs. N. Skelton, chairman; D. Kerly, vice-chairman; G. A. Trimby, secretary and treasurer; A. Newman, auditor; Rev. R. Keeley, A. Haines, R. Jones and L. Page, ringing masters: E. Butler and R. Wilson, committee.

New members were elected from St. Paul's, St. Thomas' and St. Martin's (Salisbury), Downton and Wilton.

Ringing continued afterwards at St Thomas' and St. Paul's. G. A. T.

COUNCIL MINUTES

Dear Sir, - I was very surprised at the tone of Mr. Bottomley's reply to Mr. Exton's comment on the Central Council minutes. I would have thought that in his responsible position as secretary a more constructive approach was warranted than just to play with dictionaries. It is perhaps the fact that there was any difference in the minutes that is disturbing since it would seem constitutionally wrong that they should be anything but a "true and correct record of the meeting." Whilst it is true that the motion in question was reported in The Ringing World in full on page 480 (1969), no one could infer from reading the official minutes on page 967 the bad feeling that was created by the deliberate exclusion of the motion from the agenda nor of its unceremonious dismissal at the meeting. Perhaps if such a high-handed attitude had not been taken by the secretary in the first place then there would not have been this, nor indeed some of the other queries that have arisen over last year's meeting. — Yours faithfully.

ROMAN IIII

Dear Sir,-While Britten in Old Clecks and Watches and their Makers calls the use of IIII "strictly incorrect" and assumes that it is purely an æsthetic device to balance the somewhat heavy VIII on the opposite side of the dial, it is clear that IIII is in fact of earlier usage.

The origin of Etrusco-Roman numerals from 5 on is obscure, but 1-4 were simple vertical strokes (I, II, III, IIII).

In Roman reckoning "numerals ... were expressed either by the method of addition, in which the higher figure comes first, or by that of subtraction, in which it comes last. Of these methods the former is the earlier, and the more usual. Thus IIII is earlier and more frequent that IV, while the latter belongs to the writing of the lower class and is first found in the seventh century of Rome. VIII is commoner than IIX. and XXVIII than XXIIX." (Sandys.)

The first recorded use of IV on a clock face is by Joseph Knibb (1640-c, 1712), who used it to make the face consistent with his curious system of "Roman striking".—
Yours faithfully,
DIANA J. HANDLEY.

Nuneaton.

Kendal, Westmorland.

Dear Sir,-In reply to the letter from Mr. John Holloway, of Crewe (R.W., page 50), according to Edward Wenham, in his book Old Clocks, Chapter XIII, "the hours were almost invariably marked in Roman numerals I-XII, the fourth hour being indicated by the more ancient four strokes. IIII. This peculiarity persisted in modern times with clock dials where the hours are in Roman numerals, though the IV was often adopted after the end of the 18th century."

Long ago I read that a certain English monarch was unable to distinguish IV from VI on clock faces, so he decreed that IIII should take the place of IV. After much research I cannot, unfortunately, verify this, but it would be interesting if any other reader could throw more light on the subject.—Yours faithfully.

GEOFFREY EDMANDS.

RATHER NARROW VIEW

Dear Sir,—After reading various letters in The Ringing World for and against peal ringing, it seems to me that both sides take rather a narrow view. Nevertheless I am not convinced by anything I have read that peal ringing is any substitute for being attached to a regular Sunday service band.

I think it is probably true to say that the most enthusiastic members of any Guild are usually peal ringers. But the Exercise is obviously based on the Sunday service bands (to which most peal ringers belong anyway), so it seems a pity to exaggerate the divergence of opinion on the importance of peal ringing. The aim should be to unite in the maintenance and encouragement of Sunday service ringing.

A welcome development in this respect is the increasing popularity of striking competitions, which offer an attraction to the peal ringer while not discouraging those with lesser aspirations, as the results are by no means a forgone conclusion. If such competitions are more fully supported they can do much to create interest and improve standards of performance generally,-Yours

M. L. MANN.

Lincoln.

Dear Sir,-On reading the many controversial letters concerning the differences between Sunday service ringers and peal ringers ("goodies and baddies"?) it occurs to me that most correspondents do not appear to consider one very fundamental asnect of all ringing, namely that church bells being a traditional implement of the church do provide a valuable service to the church whenever they ring out, be it for a peal or as an invitation to surrounding Christians to come along and join in an act of worship at the church.

I believe that all bellringers, whether they be prolific peal ringers or stalwart service ringers, have been given this wonderful talent in order that the Gospel may be preached in this particular fashion. I am certain that all bellringers would profess to call themselves Christians, and as such, therefore, whilst some may not be regular attenders at services, do in fact worship in a much more energetic fashion than many of those non-ringers who do attend services regularly.

I also feel that this point of view could be applied to some of those occasions where tower-grabbers ring at churches without first seeking permission, although I would hasten to add that this behaviour is to be deprecated, but it does mean that the Gospel has been spread a little in an area that perhaps has not heard it this way for a good many Bellringing on the whole is a fascinating. eniovable and absorbing occupation, and bellringers are surely a unique breed, so why not turn our energies away from internal squabbles which can destroy our fellowship and direct them instead towards strengthening and building this fellowship and towards presenting a unified image to the outside world. We may then be a step nearer to being true Christians. - Yours faithfully, MALCOLM J. V. CHOWN. Nether Heyford, Northants.

. . . AND

The dials on Big Ben use the IV instead of IIII, and as these numbers are so slender and well-proportioned the IV is almost unnoticeable.—Yours faithfully. S. SAYER.

POSITIVE ACTION?

Dear Sir.-There may well be some, but I have yet to meet a ringer who does not wish to have full details of peals in which he rings published in The Ringing World. Whilst it is probably reasonable to assume that most peal ringers buy our magazine, it is extraordinary that so very many consider it unnecessary to make any further contribution, however small, towards the additional costs of setting up and printing their peal details. This is indicated by the reference to a day's post which included details of 42 peals without a single contribution from, altogether, possibly 300 or more ringers! A few of these might make personal contributions but they will no doubt represent a very small minority, and some may make an annual donation.

In these circumstances, and especially if peal ringing continues to expand, it will certainly be difficult, if not impossible, to maintain the present Ringing World standards or to introduce further improvements, that is, not without increasing prices.

There is apparently no comparable problem relative to Association neal booking fees, presumably because non-payment means non-recognition of peals rung. This fact leads me to believe the following suggestions are worth consideration by yourself and others concerned:-

(1) All Associations should agree to apply the same peal booking fee.

(2) Booking fees should be sent to The Ringing World with peal details—no neal should be published if the correct fee is not paid.

(3) Associations should recognise only those peals which are published.

- (4) The Ringing World would remit booking fees to Associations at appropriate intervals, retaining a percentage of the total for its own general use. The percentage might best be fixed and reviewed from time to time by the General Council but should not be less than 10%.
- (5) Non-Association peals would attract the same booking fee and would be fully retained by The Ringing World.
- (6) Overseas need special consideration. It would appear that appeals over the vears for voluntary contributions have very little real effect and that some more positive action is required if the necessary funds are to be obtained. In present day terms the amounts involved are hardly significant and only the unreasonable among us could regard what is proposed as an unwarranted imposition.—Yours faithfully.

From Derby, Mr. M. J. Fellows writes:-"I feel quite unable to let some of Mr. Taylor's remarks in the R.W. of January 16 go by without comment. He asserts that his second category of peal ringers is of little real service to the Exercise. They do little for the church in the majority of cases and seem to forget that without the church, bells and campanology would never have existed.' Could Mr. Taylor please inform the Exercise how and when he obtained the necessary information to make such sweeping statements?

For the past three years I have resided in Derby, and before that all my ringing took place in the West Midlands. I would not hesitate to say that in both areas peal ringers are among the 'servants of the Exercise, and the Church,' and that without them Sunday service ringing, recruitment and attendances at meetings would suffer... His assertions are quite unfounded." WHITECHAPEL

THE ARTS OF THE CHURCH —

Mr. P. R. Johnson of Codsall, Staffs, sends the following, which are extracts from "The Arts of the Church" by H. B. Walters, M.A., F.S.A. This book was first published in 1908.

Much of what was written, nearly 100 years ago, is relevant today.

"Some 50 years ago the Rev. W. C. Lukis called attention to the disgraceful condition of many belfries, in words which were by no means too strong for the occasion. He pointed out that the neglect of bells not only led to them becoming useless but also endangered the whole fabric of the tower and eventually did mischief to the parishioners also, who either had to do without their bells or pay for the repairs. Many of the towers were in so dangerous a state that the bells were forbidden to be rung, and though this may have been partly due to the vibration caused by change-ringing, for which, of course, the towers were not originally built, the evils were, in his opinion, due much more to neglect on the part of the churchwardens who were responsible for the care of the bells.

"'Bells,' he says, 'require very constant attention to keep them in ringing order.' Therefore it is not the use of the bells, nor even change-ringing of the most violent description, which destroys the bells and endangers the belfries, but simply neglect or carelessness.

"There is another matter to which the same writer calls attention, which if not a source of danger to the bells may often be so to those who visit them, and which in any case is a disgrace to those who have the House of God in their care. I allude to the condition of the staircases or ladders by which the bells are approached. 'Generally speaking, says Mr. Lukis, 'the dark, winding stone staircases (when they have any) leading to them are dirty, worn and difficult to tread; and when you have secured your footing you suddenly come upon a huge heap of sticks, straws, feathers and other rubbish, the patient and laborious work of indefatigable jackdaws. When the towers have no stone staircases, the bells have to be reached by a succession of crazy ladders, planted on equally crazy floors. Why should towers be so desecrated? Are they not as much a portion of the church as any other part?'

"These words, at the time they were written, were doubtless true of the majority of belfries in the country; but I fear there are still not a few of which the same may be said. I have been into many a belfry in which, on raising the trapdoor admitting me to the bells, I have been forcibly convinced, by the showers of accumulated filth descending upon me, that they have literally not been visited for years! In justice it may be said that where proper access to the bells exists this is seldom the case. At the worst, the bottom of the staircase is made the receptacle for brushes, dustpans and candlesticks, or suchlike necessary articles. But why should not proper access be provided in every case . . ? And even if the casual visitor to a belfry must not always expect to be considered, it is surely reasonable that the parish official whose duty it is to care for the bells should not find obstacles placed in the way of reaching them."

In the same chapter the remarks of Mr. A. H. Cocks may be of interest:—

"If all incumbents," he says, "would remember that bell-hangings are machines ... and that all machines want a little attention, the lamentable and disgraceful state of many of the belfries would cease; and we bell-hunters would no longer get the almost stereotyped, semi-apologetic statement, on making our request for the key, 'I'm afraid you will find a great mess up there, but, to tell you the truth, I have never been up to them.'

"Let every incumbent, then, who 'has never been up' determine to visit his bells. He will doubtless find his trouble repaid, if they bear inscriptions or devices; or if he finds the attempt attended by risk of life or limb let him be persuaded to renew worn steps or broken ladder rungs. If he finds the belfry or staircase full of animal or vegetable rubbish, let him take the simple but necessary step of fixing wire netting over the windows, and cleanliness, once attained, should be easily preserved."

He finishes the book with: "I plead, therefore, in conclusion, first for clean and accessible belfries; secondly for orderly ringing chambers; thirdly for due care and attention to the bells and their fittings; and last, but not least, for the preservation of all old and interesting bells, not only to earn the gratitude of the casual antiquary but to show that their historical value and the services that they have so long and faithfully rendered receive due appreciation."

Mr. Johnson adds his own comment:-

I feel I must add my thoughts to this. Quite recently I visited two towers I had never been to before. The bells in the first (a Shropshire five) were literally hanging loose from the frame. I would think, just to look at them, that any attempt to ring them would have had disastrous consequences. Furthermore the bells were two floors above the choir vestry and might well some day drop from the frame and go straight through the unsafe and almost useless floor beneath them into the vestry. second tower contained a five in Staffordshire, where we found the ringing chamber crammed with rubbish ranging from large items left over from some long-forgotten harvest festival to old metal trunks and pictures so covered in dust that they must have been there for years.

61 YEARS A RINGER

J. H. Brittan, of Burton-on-Trent, writes:—
"I am uncertain if this will be my final R.W. subscription, chiefly on account of age (78 plus), and I find difficulty in obtaining recruits, mainly because most of the dwelling places in the vicinity of our church are being demolished and all our young people are going to live on the outskirts of the town. Of my present band I am the nearest and a mile away. I cannot say how much longer I can carry on. At the end of this month it will be 61 years since I rang my first bell and the two wars have played havoc with our ringers. Anyhow, good luck to those who are able to carry on."

THE FOURS OF BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

Bow Brickhill. Treble by James Keene, 1634; 2 Anthony Chandler, 1670; 3 unknown 16th century founder; tenor Henry Bagley, 1649. These are hung in slightly antiquated fittings. The front three are swing-chimed but the tenor is unringable due to a damaged wheel.

Broughton. Treble Anthony Chandler, 1655; 2 and tenor Henry Jordan, circa 1460; 3 James Keene, 1622. These bells are unringable due to the condition of the frame and supporting beams. A new floor below the bells has been installed which has no rope holes. At present the bells are chimed by an Ellacombe apparatus.

Dorney. This ring of four was augmented to six by the Whitechapel Foundry.

Halton. A complete ring by Bryants, of Hertford, in 1815. These bells are fully ringable and permission is readily obtained.

Moulsoe. Treble by James Keene, 1640; back three by Taylors, 1839. These are also fully ringable and the vicar is always pleased to hear them rung.

Radnage. Treble by Lester and Pack, 1763, 2 and tenor Ellis Knight, 1634; 3 Richard Phelps, 1729. A major restoration of the church includes rehanging the bells, but the faculty did not make it clear whether the bells were to be rehung for ringing or chiming.

Towersey. Some editions of Dove give Towersey under Bucks and Oxon, but according to the Ordnance Survey map the church is in Oxfordshire. These bells are ringable and there was a local band in existence in 1968.

For those ringers interested in 3-bell towers there are ringable threes at Ashendon, Buckland, Chilton, Chearsley, Dorton, Little Brickhill, Newton Blossomville, Oakley, Pitchcott, Ravenstone and Upper Winchendon; but ropes may be needed at some of these towers.

[Intending visitors should make certain from the proper authority before any ringing is commenced.—Ed.]

FRAME REBUILT

For the recently-augmented bells at All Saints', Haslingfield, the task of rebuilding the existing timber frame to take the extra bell was successfully undertaken by local ringers. The bell was cast by Mears and Stainbank, who gave valuable assistance and guidance. The new treble was dedicated by the Archdeacon of Ely, Ven. M. S. Carey, on October 12.

FRIENDLINESS OF RINGERS

"It is exactly three years now since I rejoined the ranks of ringers after a break of 20 years, and I have been amazed at the progress made in the art during that break, with the multiplicity of methods and variations. But one thing has remained constant—the warm friendliness of ringers. I have been made to feel welcome in every tower I have visited in the past three years, and this has undoubtedly helped to stimulate me in my efforts and contributed to the pleasure I have experienced in reviving an almost-forgotten hobby."—A. Adams, of Bath.

Obituary

MR. W. T. TURNER

With deep regret we record the passing of William Thomas Turner, at the early age of 49 years. A ringer at St. Mary's, Daltonin-Furness, Tommy started ringing about 1933 whilst still at school. Some years after, returning from the Army, he went to Africa for a few years. Returning to Dalton he rejoined the tower until his health began to fail. He rang about 25 peals, the last being in 1967 for the 40th anniversary of the recasting of the bells. His last illness was very rapid and he passed away on January 15. A half-muffled quarter peal of Bob Royal was rung on the bells of St. Mary's, Dalton-in-Furness, on the Tuesday after the funeral.

STAVERTON'S LOSS

The death of Mrs. G. Franklin, of Staverton, Northants, at the age of 72, which was briefly reported last week, came suddenly on January 21.

Mrs. Franklin was one of many taught to ring by the late Rev. E. S. Powell, Vicar of Staverton and master of the Peterborough Guild at that time. A life member of the Peterborough Guild, she was a loyal and faithful Sunday service ringer during her active life, but on medical advice was forced to give up ringing several years ago.

The funeral service at Staverton Church was conducted by the vicar (Rev. A. W. H. Cooke) on January 26, and interment in the churchyard followed. In the evening the bells were rung half-muffled to a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor in memoriam by branch members.

MR. F. PRIESTLEY

Mr. Fred (Freddie) Priestley was interred at Felkirk, Yorks, on January 28. On the previous evening Felkirk bells were rung in his memory by members of the Barnsley and District Society.

As Freddie had been ill and took no active part in ringing since 1930 it is hardly surprising that many ringers have never heard of him. Those of us who knew him remember a quiet and inoffensive man who was a consistent ringer and regular attender.

He was one of the band who gathered round J. T. White in the early 1920s to try to create a change-ringing band, something that, so far as is known, had never existed at Felkirk.

Freddie rang the 4th in the first 720 (Bob Minor) ever rung by a local band, in 1921. He learnt Treble Bob and in 1929 rang in 146 of the 253 720s rung in 12 months by the local band. He never aspired to multimethods and most of his Treble Bob ringing was done on the treble, upon which he scored his only two peals.

SAD YEAR AT COALBROOKDALE

The year 1969 was indeed a sad one for the ringers of the belfry of Holv Trinity. naving lost three of their oldest friends and ellow Sunday service ringers. On April 22 Walter S. Crawford died very suddenly at age of 75. and on June 25 Robert Evans died after a short illness at the age of 67, and a month later Joseph Hanley died at he age of 75. All had been regular Sunday service ringers and each had over 55 ears of faithful service, and this has been a terrible blow to our band.

Belfry Gossip

Impatient to be around among ringing friends is Mr. John Faithfull, sen., of Southampton, who is making progress following his accident some weeks ago.

The peal at St. Philip's, Birmingham, on January 22 was Mr. George E. Fearn's 600th on the bells. This is certainly the most peals rung by one man in a single tower we feel sure.

This week we record: Gordon A. Halls, 500 peals: Stanley Jenner, 400; Timothy A. Pett. 250; Terence J. Hester and Derek C. Jackson, 100; and Canon A. S. Roberts, 250th for Truro Guild.

During the removal of the old floor in St. Michael's, Southampton, tower, various relics of bygone days were unearthed and Canon Felstead, the vicar, has made a collection of them. One—of a meeting in 1912—we hope to print next week.

A Shore Leave Memory.—David King, a Merchant Navy officer, of Grimsby, scored his first peal at nearby Ulceby on January 21, the opportunity arising through a cancellation. Within 24 hours he was back again on the high seas.

A complaint that bells on a weekday keep young children awake is made in a well-known daily paper, but this attitude has a habit of being "aired" at regular intervals and no doubt will receive a suitable reply.

Mr. Dyson Scarei'l, of Thornhill, Yorkshire, rang his first neal on January 24, at the age of 67: Plain Bob Major at Guiseley. Ringing alongside him was a member of the Guiseley band, Mr. William Dixon, who is now in his 70th year.

Tune ringing leads to tower bell ringing at Ecclesfield Comprehensive School, Sheffield, Of 13 pupils who took part in a 6-hour concert, four take an interest in church bells. All four are at least nominal Methodists, writes Michael King.

Long Crendon. Bucks.—A quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung as a wedding compliment to June Pearce and Michael Wilkins on January 17. Michael is the eldest of three brothers who ring at Long Crendon.

HOLLOWAY SURPRISE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir.—It has been pointed out to me by Mr. Derek Sibson that "Holloway", which was the name given to a new method (R.W. No. 3063, page 15), has already been used as a method name.

I therefore wish to rename this method "Barford" and I anologise for any inconvenience that may have been inadvertently caused.—Yours faithfully,

RODERICK W. PIPE

Birmingham.

SIDCUP BELLS

Dear Sir.--While I agree with Mr. G. P. Huckstep that the policy of recasting old bells solely to obtain "iust another modern eight" is undesirable, this does not appear to be the case with Sidcup. Perhaps in the four years since Mr. Huckstep rang there the bells have deteriorated considerably, and people with far more knowledge than I agree with the idea in this case. They, like me, applaud Mr. Lewis' initiative both in trying to encourage more recruits and gaining the money.--Yours faithfully.

West Wickham, Kent.

Non-conducted (or silent) peals are not so regularly rung now as they were a few years ago, but this week we print one rung at Deene (Northants) — Minor in seven methods.

Steeplekeepers—are they required by law or insurance companies? enquires W. E. Hubbard, of Burgess. The answer is "No," but the efficiency of a tower revolves around a diligent and knowledgeable steeplekeeper.

"A Pair of Old Codgers," writes George E. Symonds (94), of Ipswich. He refers to himself and his senior ringer, Ernest Weatherby (97), of whom news was given last week. [We all hope both "old codgers" will make the century.—Ed.]

Veteran Jim Bennett, of Grundisburgh, has surpassed the "togetherness" of 400 peals by Mrs. Marshallsay and Mr. D. T. Matkin. With the late G. R. Pye he rang 460: the last, which Jim called, was Superlative at Romford on September 15, 1939.

First Peal Congratulations to Marianne Baker, Raymond East (14), Ian Peacock (14), David Smith (14), Andrew Kneeshaw (14), Alan Hackett, Gordon W. Hawkes, Barry F. Peachey, A. Christine Turner, Andrew R. Naylor, Hilary J. Atkinson (last week).

A Course in Bellringing for beginners is to be held at Everton on February 7, from 2 to 6 p.m., and will include bell handling and control, instruction in elementary change-ringing and all are invited to attend, so says a leaflet (complete with map) sent to our office.

Fifty years of service to the Church as bellringers is marked by peals printed this week as compliments to Mr. Fred Pigott (Bawtry) and Mr. William Cheater (Ringwood). [If friends will send us a photo (black and white) of any ringer who has completed 50 years we will be pleased to reproduce it.—Ed.]

"Coming of age" has aways been recognised as 21 years, although with new legislation this may change to 18. Mr. Alan Carveth quoted this expression for himself in a quarter, but alas, he will not see his 40th birthday again, he says, but he considers his 40th birthday as his "coming of age." [Congratulations!—Ed.]

Congratulations to Mr. F. Hagenbuch on ringing his first quarter peal, in his retirement at Petersfield. Fred is one of those enthusiasts who took up ringing late in life some ten years ago at Carbis Bay, Cornwall, where he was also a sidesman. His old vicar will be on the lookout for greater feats yet and is delighted to know this bell-pulling continues!

The peculiar expressions used by bell-ringers caused some amusement recently when the Vicar of Christchurch, Hants, said that he often wondered why his bellringers were always late coming into their pew after ringing. "I understand they are having a 'cater' or playing a 'cinque'," he quipped. "although I haven't a notion what a 'cater' or 'cinque' may be or why it causes lateness."

Following a farewell quarter peal at Malvern Link on January 25. Mr. and Mrs. P. Wood were presented with a set of kitchen ware by the local band. They both have been faithful Sunday service ringers and for the past year Marion has been assistant ringing master and Peter the steeplekeeper. Among other parish activities Peter was organist and Marion a chorister. The parish will miss them, but none more than the Sunday service band.

A YEAR "DOWN UNDER"

By Dermot Roaf

EVERY SEVEN YEARS Oxford University pays its lecturers to go away. I was invited by Monash University in Australia to spend my year's leave there. This is a new university on the outskirts of Melbourne which opened in 1961 and already has 9,000 students (and riots to match).

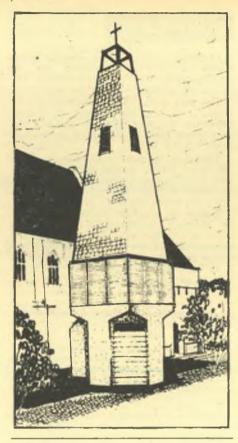

My wife was not at all certain that she liked the idea of a year in Australia with, no doubt, kangaroos bounding about eating the vegetables in the back garden and bush-fires burning down our wooden bungalow every few weeks: so, in an attempt to dissuade me from carrying her and three children down under, pointed out that I would not get any ringing. However, we consulted Dove's Guide and Joan Gray and felt reassured.

We arrived at Monash in August, 1968, and I saw that the next door to mine in the Physics Department bore the inscription "R. G. Turner"—a familiar name from the Oxford University Society peal book, though we had only met once in England. Soon I paid my first visit to St. Paul's (Anglican) Cathedral, which has 13 bells (including a sharp second). The other ringing tower in Melbourne is St. Patrick's (R.C.) Cathedral. The Irish influence in this cathedral is shown by the only statue outside the west door - which is of Daniel O'Connell — and by the bells, which were cast by Murphy, of Dublin. They are now in need of attention though they are still ringable. They are a counter-clockwise eight rung by ringers from St. Paul's (hopefully, fortnightly).

St. Paul's belfry is large and wellequipped with tea making facilities and is often crowded on Wednesdays with visitors from other Australian towers (the nearest being 70 miles away). The local band is half Australian and half recent migrants ("Pommies"). Even the Australians have often soent some time ringing in England.
There is a large quarter peal book and it was interesting to look back a few years and see what changes there have been in the composition of the band. Ringers leave (the latest being Andrew and Shirley Bolton returning to England) but more are always arriving from England (recent arrivals include Michael Scowen. David Taylor.
Michael Lawrence, Jeff and Joyce Bills and Flizabeth Rossell), while Henry Rossell and Lennifer Murphy returned from visits to England.

While I was there about 30 quarter peals were rung with four conductors and about 20 ringers (not counting visitors) in various methods, including Stedman Doubles. Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples, Yorkshire Surorise Maior, Stedman Caters. Spliced Plain and Little Bob Royal and Plain Bob Maximus. We attempted Rutland and failed, but we rang a couple of simple touches of Spliced Cambridge, Yorkshire and Rutland. We also rang occasional courses of Stedman Cinques. We would have made more progress at Major if the back ten had not sounded so much nicer than the front eight so we concentrated on Caters when the band was strong enough.

Philin Grav paid us his annual visit in November, 1968, and we failed in a peal attempt of Grandsire Caters. After another unsuccessful attempt in June, 1969, we were finally successful in August. This was a personal triumph for Henry Rossell, whose first peal it was as conductor. There were various sets of handbells and peals were also rung in hand.

I did almost all my ringing in Melbourne but attended the centenary celebrations at Bendigo. The bells there, like many others in Australia, have recently been rehung at enormous expense and are now a very pleasant light eight. I also visited Yass (6) in New South Wales. Ballarat in Victoria (eight at the Town Hall and eight at St. Peter's) and Adelaide (a very good, heavy eight at St. Peter's Cathedral and a six in the suburb of Walkerville). We met many Australian ringers in these visits and at the ANZAB annual meeting in June in Melbourne. The tradition of friendliness to visiting ringers, which is so important a part of English ringing, is carried even further in Australia and we were treated magnificently.

On the belfry wall in St. Paul's, Melbourne, is a photograph taken during the first "Great Adventure" showing the tourists and their hosts. Most of the people in the photograph are now only known to younger ringers as heroic figures from a past age, but up at the back there is Jack Roper, the one unchanging feature of Melbourne ringing. Jack is now president of ANZAB, and whoever else may welcome newcomers to Melbourne in future, one can safely predict that Jack will still be there and that his welcome will be the warmest; certainly there is one family in Oxford who will always look back happily to the thought of their year down under.

A little learning is a dangerous thing: Drink deep—or taste not the Pierian spring. POPE

ST. CUTHBERT'S, PROSPECT, AUSTRALIA

A drawing by Dean Perry and Partners, the architects supervising the design and construction of the new tower at St. Cuthbert's, Prospect (a suburb of Adelaide).

The design has been approved by the bishop, some soil testing has been carried out and tenders have been called for. The tower is to stand separate from the church.

The body of the tower is to be constructed of steel and concrete, while the conical section, to be built of wood and aluminium, will be constructed separately. The idea is that the frame and the bells will be assembled outside the tower and then lowered into the tower by crane. When this has been done, and the frame secured, the spire will be put into place.

Several ringers are already learning at St. Andrew's, Walkerville.

From Ringing Towers.

NOT IN VAIN

Ann Gardner writes from Washington, D.C.:—

"The Washington ringers are still trying very hard! The Christmas holidays, which brought several old ringers home to the tower, provided an opportunity for almost continuous ringing of one kind or another and the efforts were not in vain.

Two quarters were rung at 4929 Hillbrook Lane, Marj, Batchelor's house. The first was rung on Joan Hutchinson's beloved new handbells, the second on the bells given to the Whitechapel Guild long ago by the ten who came over for the dedication of the tower. All of us enjoy The Ringing World immensely and are inspired by hearing of other madmen all over the world to keep on bashing away."

FIRST FOR 45 YEARS

The recent peal at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Beetham, Westmorland, was the first on the bells since 1925. The bells, though in good order, are not rung regularly and have not been available to ringers generally.

They are a six, hung on ball-bearings in a wooden frame (tenor 11 cwt.). Before the peal three of the team spent the morning fixing ropes, tightening fittings, etc.

The peal marked the renovation of the church interior and the ringing attracted Mr. W. G. Clark, of The Westmorland Gazette, who invited the ringers to his home for tea.

The bells went exceptionally well, details of which are as follows:—

Treble. — Mears and Stainbank, Whitechapel Foundry, London, 1889 [also on 2nd and 3rd]. God bless the hands united, God bless the hearts made one. The gift of Lord Stanley of Preston, Governor General of Canada, May 31st, 1889.

2nd. Deum Cole, benignam serva. Given by G. W. Cole, Vicar, 1888.

3rd.—Queen Victoria's Jubilee, 1887.
May all in truth and harmony rejoice.
To honour Church and Queen with heart and voice. 1890.

4th and 5th.—J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough. In memoriam G. E. W. Recast 1880.

Tenor.—Abraham Rudhall, 1748. Daniel Wilson Esqr., lames Smyth,

CUMBERLANDS AT DINNER

A happy evening was experienced last saturday when 233 attended the Society of Royal Cumberlands' dinner in London. A full report will appear in our next issue.

ONLY LOCAL

Mr. Iames R. Taylor, of Backwell, Bristol writes in regard to our heading "Another Record?", pointing out that 32 Spliced S. Major methods were rung at overton on June 21st last, and informs us 127 Spliced S.M. were also rung at longney, Glos, on January 17, one week before the Wonersh peal. It is, however, a ecord for the Guildford Guild, particularly a all were resident members, six coming rom the Farnham District. We thank Mr. Taylor and others who have written on the subject.

TO BE AFFILIATED

The A.G.M. of St. Mary-at-Finchley Guild was held on December 30 and the meeting was chaired by Rev. R. Sentance.

Application has been made to the Middlesex County Association for the Finchley band to be reconstituted with them. Mrs. Mary Blades is the hon. secretary and treasurer.

N.S.W. VISITOR WELCOMED

Edmonton, which has an association with a trinity of poets—Cowper, Keats and Lamb—was a small country town in the days of these famous men; but it was as a well-populated, thriving suburb of North London that members of the North and East District of the Middlesex Association made their way on January 17, with the Church of All Saints as the focal point.

From 3 to 4.30 p.m. the bells rang out to a variety of methods, under the guidance of the ringing master. This was followed by the Association form of service, conducted by Rev. Maxwell Parker, with Mr. F. Platt accompanying at the organ. Everyone was ready to partake of tea, prepared by Miss Trudy Newcombe, Mrs. Burden and others, in the Lamb Institute.

A short business meeting was held, a special welcome being extended to Carol Adams, from St. Jude's, Randwick, N.S.W., attending her first ringing meeting in this country.

Four new ringing members were elected, viz.: T. A. Getty, of St. Augustine's, Kilburn, and R. O'Connell, of Christ Church, Southgate, together with Denise Hewitt and Susan East, of the local band.

Thanks to all who had contributed to a pleasant and successful meeting were proposed by the secretary and the bells were put to good use until 8.30 p.m. E. H. K.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for FEBRUARY 9, 1945

The men especially valuable are those of broad and independent minds, who can pay attention to the opinions of others, but do not let themselves be tyrannised by them, men who can command the respect and confidence of their fellows.—The leader on Central Council representation.

The Cumberland Youths' annual meeting, after some hesitation, decided to pay the usual affiliation fee to the C. Council, so as to take part in discussion about the running and management of The Ringing World.

New members elected at the Farnham District A.G.M. included Master K. Williamson and Mrs. Pepler.

A presentation was made at Christchurch to Mr. George Preston to mark 40 years as secretary of the district of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild.

In a touch of Stedman five members rang whose ages totalled 400 years, viz.: George Williams 87, Charles Forfit 82, Eli Wates 79, Robert Hinton 78 and George Preston 75.

Two sets of handbells had been offered for use by Service personnel in S.H.A.E.F. H.Q., F.P.O., c/o B.L.A.

A long discourse on the origin of the Oxford Society and the similarity and otherwise of its history as compared with the College and Cumberland Youths was written by J. A. Trollope.

50 YEARS AGO FEBRUARY 13, 1920

The five bells at Bere Regis, Dorset, were rehung and a treble added and put in an iron frame. The rural dean dedicated the new bell.

A social evening was held at Hoyles Café, Accrington, for three ringers from St. James', who had each completed 50 years of service.

Notice was given of a long peal attempt at Painswick on February 14 by the Painswick Youths. The method was Grandsire Cinques.

At Oatlands Park Mr. William Shepherd conducted a peal of Stedman Triples as a birthday compliment to Miss Edna Woodrow. Albert A. Hughes rang the tenor.

Out of 19 peals recorded, seven were Stedman and five Grandsire.

The Essex Association had been divided into five instead of four districts, and at the meeting at Colchester the chairman stated that they had built up a large reserve fund during the war.

At the Yorkshire Association A.G.M. Mr. Clement Glenn was re-elected hon. secretary, Mr. P. J. Johnson acting pro tem until Mr. Glenn was at liberty to resume duties.

The new style peal forms which are available (stamped addressed (4×9) envelope to us at Seven Corners Press, Guildford) are proving time-saving in the office as well as in the composing room of the printers. Would those who send in peals not on these forms please word their copy as laid out in our peal columns.

One Shilling (weekly)

St. James', Clerkenwell, E.C.

Cover Picture

St. James', Clerkenwell, E.C.

IN THE TIME of Henry II the monk Fitz-Stephen wrote: "There are also round London, on the northern side, in the suburbs, excellent springs, the water of which is sweet, clear and salubrious—

'Mid glistening pebbles gliding playfully. Amongst which Holywell. Clerkenwell and St. Clement's Well are of the most note and most frequently visited, as well by the scholars from the schools as by the youth of the City, when they go out to take air in the summer evenings."

The parish in early times acquired some degree of celebrity on account of its having been selected by the parish clerks of London for exhibition of sacred dramas. Hence Clerkenwell takes its name from the fons clericorum or Clerks' Well, -en being the Saxon plural.

It was this most agreeable and salubrious spot which was chosen in the early 12th century for the site of St. Mary's Nunnery, a religious house for Benedictine nuns, founded by a Norman baron named Jordan Briset. It had a place of pilgrimage at Muswell Hill and the parish had an outlying tract of territory there until the 19th century. It is not known when the church first acquired a second dedication to St. James, but at the Dissolution of the nunnery in 1539 the Church of St. James was taken into use by the parishioners although they had been using a part of it for a considerable time.

SPIRE COLLAPSED

The freehold of the church passed through various hands until it was conveyed in 1656 from one Edward Drake, gentleman, to trustees on behalf of the parishioners, who at the same time obtained the right to appoint the vicar. Unlike other parishes they retained this right after the Restoration in 1660, and elections for this purpose were held, with all the excitement of parliamentary elections, right down to the early years of this century. The most noteworthy vicar of the 19th century was Rev. Robert Maguire, a prolific writer of Protestant pamphlets, who had enjoyed a peculiarly stormy and exciting election.

About 1623 the spire of the old church had collapsed, and the following year a 8d. rate was levied for rebuilding, but before it was finished it again collapsed due to faulty workmanship.

By 1788 the old church was a mixture of 17th and 18th century bits and pieces in various styles, engrafted on the remains of the mediæval nunnery church, and presented an appearance of picturesque and dilapidated muddle. In that year an Act of Parliament was passed for the rebuilding. The architect was James Carr and the design is very old-fashioned for its date, showing the obvious influence of Wren and Gibbs. The tower at the western end is of stone, surmounted by a balustrade with vases at the angles, and is in the Tuscan style of architecture. It was restored in 1849.

At the time of the Edwardian inventory it is recorded that there were "iiij bells in ye steple one saunce bell without clapper and iij small sackeunge bells." Osborne, from the inscriptions, gives the founders as 1681 James Bartlet, 1615 William Carter, 1621 Thomas Bartlet and no date William Fownder (apparently William Dawe, a 14th century founder).

When William Laughton and the Rambling Ringers visited the tower in 1734 they rang on five bells. Subsequently a treble bell was added for, when the old church was demolished in 1788, there was a ring of six which was recast into a new ring of eight by Thomas Mears in 1791 for the new church. The tenor of this ring weighed 21 cwt. 3 qr. 26 lb.

The new church was, in fact, not consecrated until 1792, but the first peal on the bells was rung on September 26, 1791, by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and consisted of 5120 Bob Major, conducted by William Jones. No peals are known to have been rung on the old six but the new eight were used quite regularly and in all 84 peals were rung on them, the last one being Stedman Triples by the London County Association on August 30, 1913. Four peal boards were in the ringing chamber in the middle of the 18th century, recording 5040 Grandsire Triples on October 8th, 1800, by the Westminster Youths, and three peals by the Cumberlands—5040 Grandsire Triples on October 6, 1829, 5040 Double Norwich Court Bob Major and 5040 Stedman Triples on January 21, 1858. This last peal was the first to be rung during Rev. Robert Maguire's incumbency.

For some 50 years in the first half of the 18th century the Cumberland Society practised there regularly on Thursday evenings, and indeed the church is the second one depicted on the Society's certificate of membership along with St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.

Thomas Mears recast the second in 1801 and the fourth in 1837, and Mears and Stainbank recast the third in 1904. By the 1920s these bells had obtained an unenviable reputation for some years. The fittings were old-fashioned and out of repair and the oak frame had lacked attention. It is recorded that the tone of the bells was very poor and their harmonics so false that retuning was out of the question.

Accordingly, in 1928, work was put in hand to recast the bells and rehang them. It was carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who had a special interest in Clerkenwell, for it was in the borough that Mr. William Gillett, founder of the firm, first set up his factory, before moving to Croydon in 1844. The old inscriptions were reproduced on the new bells, with the added inscription round the crown "Recast by Gillett and Johnston 1928," and the tenor weighs 24 cwt. 2 qr. 21 lb. in E flat. The bells were the first ringing peal in the county of London to be Simpson tuned and they are very fine indeed. The new ring was dedicated on April 28, 1929.

Only four peals have been rung on the bells—Bristol on August 3, 1929, by the Middlesex County Association, Stedman Triples on January 18, 1930, by the College Youths, Cambridge on July 11, 1930, by the Surrey Association and Grandsire Triples on May 9, 1935, by the Middlesex County Association. Unfortunately these fine bells are very noisy outside and this precludes regular open practices and peals at the present time.

BELLS IN QUEBEC CITY

An interesting snippet of information has reached us of Quebec city's two rings of bells. Bill Jackson. who emigrated to Toronto from England a year ago, made a 1,200-mile exploratory round trip to Quebec and writes: "Both eights—the Cathedral and St. Matthew's—appear in good shape. The Cathedral band has just been re-formed by Chris Wilson, and I joined them in rounds on the back five for morning service, with three young learners in evidence. St. Matthew's, although not rung regularly for many years, are clean and seem to lack only lubrication for their (plain) bearings and pulleys." It is therefore hoped to take a North American band to Quebec this summer to confirm this "one-man survey and perhaps ring a peal at the Cathedral.

[We wish them every success.—Ed.]

An Illustrious Past — The Present Meritorious

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS' DINNER

"YOU HAVE an illustrious past, the present is meritorious and I wish you well for the future," said Mr. John Freeman, president of the Central Council, in proposing the toast of "The Society" at its annual dinner on February 7th.

A change of venue, from Church House, Westminster, to the Victory Ex-Services Club in Seymour Street, was a wise move and the unusually large attendance of 233 were delighted with and appreciative of the attractive, high-ceilinged hall with its excellent appointments. If, however, numbers continue to grow, a still larger hall will be

The meal was plentiful and well served and was followed by a break before the speeches. The master, Dr. D. E. Sibson, welcomed the company and introduced Mr. C. J. Groome, who proposed the toast of "The Church."

Mr. Groome spoke of the vast changes taking place everywhere since the last war, and particularly in the Church universal, where the move towards Church Unity was very much to the fore. There was also the problem of bells being concentrated in areas where churches were becoming redundant and the newly-developed parts where new churches were planned, no rings of bells being included in these plans. In addition there was the problem of the cost of upkeep of existing churches, and he instanced one village where the inhabitants numbered 46 persons and were unable to maintain their church.

Ringers, went on the speaker, generally wanted their hobby on the cheap. At one church, where the restoration of the bells was costing £2,000-£3,000, the local Association had contributed £25! And the petty quarrels which filled the correspondence columns of The Ringing World as to who was right—the peal ringer, the Sunday service ringer or the ringer who tripped around to get as many towers as possible; this wrangling went on whilst a much more serious problem was present, namely, that the numbers of rings available were declining.

SHOULD SHOULDER RESPONSIBILITIES

Restoration was not keeping pace with the bells needing work and consequently, whatever our part, we all had a contribution to make. There were many ringers who were reluctant to pay an increased subscription from 3s. to 3s. 6d., and would protest loudly if asked to pay 5s. to a restoration fund but who would cheerfully go across the road to a pub and buy a round of drinks and pay out a pound note for it!

"I don't believe in little postal orders being sent for peals and quarter peals," said Mr. Groome. "I think we should shoulder our responsibilities in a much more manly way, or we shall see a diminution in the things we have inherited—and the number of rings of bells." He went on to suggest that the Central Council and the territorial Associations should seriously look into their responsibilities and the changing policies which were taking place, and all ringers should rededicate themselves and carry out the tremendous task which these responsibilities entailed with renewed

Preb. G. B. Timms, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Holborn, said that he supposed the Church today could not be called a wildly popular institution if judged by numbers. It was encouraging, however, that in a recent poll as to whether or not religion should be taught in State schools the result was astonishingly high in the affirmative—some 80-90 per cent. A similar poll of professions put clergy almost at the top of the list. He thought that deep in the hearts of the majority of people was a feeling that the Church and the Christian tradition did preserve some values that were essential for the community, and the hope that at some future time they would again become part of the accepted values of the community at better will come," he concluded, "if the faithful remnant will continue faithful to Him who said 'Behold, I make all things new'." "Out of the present confusion something

SAFEGUARDING OF BELLS

Proposing the toast of "The Society," Mr. John Freeman, president of the Central Council, entertained the company with a continuous flow of wit, humour and amus-ing stories, which are always a delight to his listeners. He continued with a resumé of the Society's activities over the centuries and its rivalry with the Ancient Society of College Youths. It was today, he added, as active and as full of achievement as ever its predecessors were.

Of paramount importance for Guilds and Societies today, went on Mr. Freeman, was the safeguarding and safe keeping of bells in churches which might be redundant. He suggested a catalogue of these bells as a "stock list" so that augmentations and newbuilt churches would be able to have existing bells and so make use of those already available. The Central Council were aware of this nationwide problem, but it was essential for diocesan authorities and bodies at local level to help solve it.

Another point which Mr. Freeman made was for Associations to set up ringing schools to train young ringers and so re-vive enthusiasm, and this would lead to his third suggestion. He recommended Associations to encourage peal ringing, which he considered to be a measure of success for any body of ringers. He complimented the master and the Cumberlands on their successes in this field and dismissed as entirely false the suggestion that peal ringers were the principal seats were occupied by the master (Dr. D. E. Sibson) and Mrs. Sibson, Preb. G. B. limms, Mr. John Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. Edwin Barnett and Mrs. Barnett, Mr. A. R. Kench, Mr. C. not Sunday service ringers. [Loud applause.] He was convinced that if ringers were restricted to Sunday ringing and teaching of beginners the standards of the individual and the Exercise would tall considerably. "If you care for bells," he went on, "if you care for teaching beginners and if you encourage peal ringing, Sunday service ringing will follow from that." The Royal Society were well to the fore in such matters. "You have an illustrious past, the present is meritorious and I wish you well for the ruture," concluded Mr. Freeman.

The toast was received enthusiastically.

MASTER'S RESPONSE

Rising to respond, the master said the Society futfilled largely what the president of the C.C. had said, and went on to review tne activities of the past year. These included large attendances at meetings and at the dinner and proved that the Society was not exclusive in its membership, for over 100 had attended the country meeting at Oxford and meetings outside London were equally well supported.

Of peal ringing it was a fact that more had been rung during the past year than in any one year before—50 in all—and 107 members had taken part. Nine peals of Maximus (including Newgate and Littleport Little S.), two of Cinques, six of Royal, 32 Major and one Triples were rung. Of peals outside London, those at Thorburton, Tenterden and Southampton were of especial interest. Two 12-bell peals were rung on May 31 at St. Martin's and at Shoreditch, two separate bands ringing Bristol S. Maximus. In November 86 members rang in 11 Spliced S. Major attempts, and all were regular Sunday service ringers, said the master. In addition to this the Society had first performances of 4-Spliced S. Royal, 20- and 24-Spliced S. Major and Lewisham S. Major.

Three members - Messrs. George Fletcher, George Marriner and Bert Audsley—had attained 50 years' membership of the Society.

Mr. E. A. Barnett, in proposing "The Visitors" said he had a great deal up his sleeve (his arm is in plaster) and commenced by enumerating the many qualities, both in ringing circles and in his private life, of Mr. John Freeman. He also wel-comed Mrs. Freeman and their son and daughter, Stephen and Jenny.

Of the clergy present he spoke of Preb. Timms, Rev. Austen Williams (Vicar of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields) and Rev. R. Smith, curate at Shoreditch, soon leaving with Mrs. Smith to go into the mission fields in South America.

Sir Trenchard Cox and Mr. Devereux (churchwardens at St. Martin's) and Mr. Tony Kench (master of the Ancient Society of College Youths) were also welcomed, the latter receiving an ovation on his recently-announced engagement.

The Ringing World editor (Mr. C. Denyer) was also mentioned—"whose task we all can do much better, but which none of us has any wish to attain!", added Mr. Barnett. Visitors from afar were given a special greeting-those from Truro, Westonsuper-Mare, Chepstow, Wales, Bristol, Bir-mingham, Southport, Grundisburgh, Cambridge, Lincoln and Southampton

Mr. Tony Kench responded on behalf of the guests and was glad the Cumberlands had revived their dinner as had been decided 50 years ago (according to the R.W.). He urged ringers not to be so inward-looking and entreated them to pay more attention to the importance of good relations both with the clergy and the public as a whole, and endeavour to improve the understanding of ringing to people outside the Exercise.

He said that when the popular press got hold of a story it was usually exaggerated and out of all proportion to the true facts, and it was in such cases that the ringers must create the true picture.

He thanked the Society for their hospitality to all the visitors.

The master concluded the formal side of the function by thanking all who had helped with the organisation of the dinner and announced the arrangements for the next day's ringing. Between speeches three leads of Treble Bob Sixteen were rung by the invited team which was introduced as the "Bushey-cum-Watford-cum-St. Albans" band, under Mr. John Mayne. It was well executed and deservedly received tremendous applause.

A BREAK WITH TRADITION

Breaking with the tradition of holding their annual meeting in the city of Hereford, the Hereford District of Hereford Diocesan Guild met at Burghill on January 31.

Thirty-six members and friends were there and the bells were rung during the afternoon, the service being conducted by Rev. R. J. Coombs (vicar).

Tea was served in the Simpson Hall by the ringers and ladies of the village, and Miss Valerie Edge, diocesan guild master, took the chair for the business. Membership, slightly down on last year, was 65.

The ringing master, Mr. Peter Hughes, of Holme Lacy, had covered some 8,000 miles, mostly in the county, helping ringing and ringers. New bands were now being taught at Lyde, Much and Little Dewchurch, Ewyas Harold, Lugwardine and Burghill.

Officers elected were: Mr. P. Hughes, ringing master; Mr. Reginald Powell, assistant; Mrs. Edna Pannell, secretary/treasurer and Mr. Norman Mattingley, committee member; Mr. D. H. Jones, auditor.

Twenty-four new junior members were elected from Burghill, Lugwardine, Peterchurch, All Saints' (Hereford) and Holme Lacy, and Mr. M. C. W. Sherwood was made a non-resident life member.

It is proposed to hold combined practices at Wythington in February and Kingstone (March), with the quarterly meeting at All Saints', Hereford, in April. Mr. Michael Powell congratulated Miss Edge on her leadership as master of the guild. Mr. Michael Powell is social secretary. Mr. Norman Mattingley expressed thanks for the work of the ringing master and secretary/treasurer and to the vicar; also to the Burghill ringers and ladies for the enjoyable tea.

Evening ringing continued at Hereford Cathedral, the break with tradition being very encouraging. E. G. P.

TIME, GENTLEMEN, PLEASE!

There was little to complain about at the Cumberlands dinner on February 7, but it was unfortunate that the time 6 for 6.30 was not adhered to. It was 6.50 before the meal was served and the 15-minute interval allowed by the master extended to nearly 30. In consequence before the final toast and its reply a number had to leave to catch trains home—which is irritating both to the speakers, the organisers, the other guests, but above all to those who are compelled to leave.

We do not suggest that the Cumberlands are alone in this, for many functions suffer to a greater or lesser degree, but time is a factor which should be adhered to. The bar closed at 11 p.m., which gave barely 40 minutes for those who wanted to (after the speeches) "get together" for a beer and a chat, whereas it could have been an hour or more.

DISTRICT'S DISAPPOINTING YEAR

In his annual report for 1969 Mr. Ron Hughes, Leicester District secretary, reported to the A.G.M. at Wigston Magna on January 3 a disappointing year in many directions. Membership figures were badly down, 152 being the total inclusive number. A high number of subscriptions remain outstanding or have lapsed. New or rejoined members amount to six.

At the eight business meetings the average attendance was just over 20 district members, although a good number of visitors were present. The district striking competition, with only two entries, was highly discouraging. St. Margaret's were (practically) walk-over winers, Markfield having scraped a band together in order to achieve plurality of competitors. The district Surprise Major practices, which were a successful feature of activities, fell towards the middle of the year and were discontinued, but one at the Cathedral of December 1 was well attended and successful.

"Next year it has been decided to try full meetings at quarterly periods only, the interm months to be used as evening meetings," concludes the report.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. John Bramley (St. Margaret's); secretary, Mr. Ron D. Hughes (Markfield): committee members, Messrs. J. P. Kesterton (Belgrave) and Alec R. Jones (Markfield). Messrs. John M. Jelley and John E. Harrold were elected ringing master and deputy ringing master respectively.

Let not the sun go down upon your wrath.

FEWER ATTENDED

The Salisbury Diocesan Guild (Dorchester Branch) annual general meeting took place at St. Peter's, Dorchester, on January 10, when the fine ring of eight bells was rung during the afternoon and evening.

The guild service was conducted by the rector, Rev. K. W. Meiklejohn, and Mr. F. J. Waite was at the organ. A smaller gathering than usual, due mainly to illness, enjoyed the tea in All Saints' Church House, which had been prepared by Mrs. R. H.

Duke and helpers.

In the absence of the branch chairman, Rev. J. L. Woods, who was indisposed, the vice-chairman, Canon E. B. Brooks, presided at the business meeting. A report for the year 1969 was presented, together with statement of account showing a satisfactory balance in hand. Some changes were made in branch offices for 1970. The Rev. K. W. Meikleighn was elected vice chairman in place of Canon Brooks, who will be leaving Dorchester later this year. The retiring ringing master, Mr. E. H. Amey, was thanked for his work during the past three vears, and Mr. D. L. Cull (Preston) is the new ringing master, with Mr. C. Tidwell (Charminster) the deputy ringing master. Mr. R. H. Duke agreed to serve on the committee and Mr. H. House will be hon. auditor in addition to being a committee The branch chairman, secretary member. and assistant secretary were all re-elected.

A suggestion that future annual meetings should be held in the spring is to be considered at the next quarterly meeting, provisionally arranged to be held at Fordington (St. George's). Towers represented at the meeting were Cattistock, Charminster, Dor-(St. Peter's). Fordington George's), Preston, Wool, Wyke Regis and Yetminster.

A KENT RECORD

Members of the Kent County Association rang a peal of 17-Spliced Surprise Major on January 24. This broke the existing record of spliced for Kent, which was previously set up by Philip Corby's band in 1962. The recent peal, rung at Edenbridge, Kent, was conducted by 17-years-old Simon A B. Wigg. of Maidstone. It was also his 100th peal, 25 of which he has conducted. The same band improved their performance still further by ringing 20 methods at Salehurst, Sussex. on January 31.

RECTOR'S WELCOME PEALS

Andover District ringers have set up a new precedent when, to welcome the new rector (Rev. J. R. S. Mitchell) to the living of Longstock with Leckford, they set out to ring two peals simultaneously on the rector's two rings of five bells.

The Rev. J. R. S. Mitchell was formerly priest-in-charge at Woolton Hill, where he became well known to the Woolton Hill ringers, even handling a bell during the six months of his incumbency there.

He was inducted to the living of Longstock with Leckford on January 8. and a week later two bands assembled at both churches to attempt welcome peals, both being successful, the Longstock peal being rung in 2 hours 38 minutes while that at Leckford was a little longer in 2 hours 43 minutes.

We afterwards joined forces at the Rectory, where there was a splendid repast prepared for us and a convivial evening was spent with Rev. J. R. S. Mitchell and his wife. We think this might be the first time hat any incumbent has been welcomed to his new parish with two peals on his own

A PROGRESSIVE DISTRICT

The officers of a guild or district, as has The officers of a guild or district, as has been written before, can decide the success or otherwise of the body which it serves, and the Christchurch District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild need have no qualms about its future or doubt of its success. The choice of officers and their enthusiasm is undoubtedly the reason for the good attendances and excellent organisation. and on January 31 at Christchurch a very happy and successful A.G.M. was held.

The 12 bells were not used continuously. Triples, Caters and Major being the "main course" during the afternoon and evening in course" during the afternoon and evening in order that all might ring what was conducive to good striking. The service at 4.30 was bright, and the address by the Rev. C. H. Bostock. Vicar of Lymington, was very amusing, consisting mainly of quotations from old rules and ancient bells. The Vicar of Christchurch (the Rev. H. Yorke) conducted the service and the Rev. W. Godfrey read the lesson

A buffet tea of great variety and proportions was enjoyed by nearly 100 persons, and the district chairman (Mr. A. V. Davis) welcomed the visitors, including The Ringing World editor. He then conceded the chair to the Vicar.

An apparently long agenda of minutes, reports, balance sheet and future activities was disposed of most efficiently by the gathering, the credit for which must be given to Mrs. Gilian Davis, the very capable hon secretary. The membership has increased by 17 to 194. and the balance in hand has also gone up from £20 16s. 2d. to £22 8s. 3d. The striking competitition was won by Ringwood (again!) and Southampton University are keeping the bells ringing at North Stoneham and St. Michael's. Southampton. Mr. D. Canon K W. H. Felstead announced that work on the tower and interior at St. Michael's, Southampton, would prevent ringing for a time but suitable announcements would be made in due course.

The guild master, Mr. Roger Savory, who was present, mentioned several pertinent items of the wild's activities including of the guild's and district's activities, including the rule regarding lapsed members, a possible increase in subscriptions of the "ringers' paper."

PILGRIM FATHERS' ANNIVERSARY

The bells of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, rang throughout the afternoon and evening of January 24 for the annual meeting of the South West Branch of the Guild of Devon-shire Ringers. Many came from as far afield as Exeter, Truro and North Cornwall for an opportunity to ring on this majestic ring of ten. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire Doubles and rounds on the ten bells, for the less experienced, to Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Kent Royal by way of Cambridge Major.
Preb. J. K. Cavell, vicar and rural dean, conducted a service and gave the address. He regarded the appeal of ringing as a result of the human quest for perfection.

The business meeting, chaired by George Mudge, of Whitchurch, proceeded in a straightforward manner, with George Mudge being re-elected chairman, J. P. Sims vicechairman, Robert Southwood secretary and freasurer and Roy Bould ringing master. John Mitchelmore retired as deputy ringing master and his place was taken by Norman Mallett, until recently ringing master of the Exeter Branch of the Guild.

Provisional dates and venues for 1970 meetings were decided.

A suggestion that a team representing the city of Plymouth should enter a call-change competition held to mark the 350th anniversary of the departure of the Pilgrim Fathers for the New World was not greeted with enthusiasm. The meeting felt that although "Mayflower '70" (as the celebrations are termed) is worthy of our attention, both call-changes and competition conflict with the aims and traditions of the Guild. After some spirited words in favour of method ringing the meeting closed.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual general meeting of the Newark District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild took place at Balderton on January 17, when a towerful of ringers enjoyed a good afternoon and evening's ringing at St. Giles' under the watchful eye of Mr. Colin W. Reed, the local and joint district ringing master.

At Evensong the vicar, the Rev. G. Springett. extended a warm welcome to the visitors, and the organ was played by Mr. Paul Curtis (Coddington) An excellent meal was taken in the church hall, provided by Mrs. C. W. Read and a band of ringers' wives.

In the Newark District there are 15 towers with five or more ringable bells and 77 ringing members of the guild attached to ten of them.

There were 35 at the business meeting representing four towers and they certainly spoke up for the 42 absent members. They took 1 hour and 30 minutes in their deliberations but a feeling of good humour prevailed throughout.

The retiring district secretary, Mr. D. J. The retiring district secretary, Mr. D. J. Tysoe, did not seek re-election and officers elected were: F. W. Midwinter (chairman). Paul Raithby (hon. secretary) and C. W. Reed (committee member) and will serve on the general committee of the guild. Mrs. M. E. Snyder was elected Ringing World correspondent, and C. W. Reed and D. J. Tysoe are joint ringing masters.

It was announced that Mrs. V. Briggs had sent a donation of £20 to the bell repair fund in memory of her husband, Clarence F. Briggs. of Newark, who died in June.

Members were reminded that the A.G.M. of the Southwell Guild would be at Southwell Minster in April. The final round for the Crawford Cup would be held in the Newark district in September, and the next meeting is at Newark Parish Church in March.

STINCHCOMBE BELLS

Dear Sir.—We were interested to read of the Consistory Court proceedings regarding the Stinchcombe bells, and whilst Mr. Collis has the advantage over us in knowing the area and the local towers we do feel that we can-and should-comment on the passage in that article referring to the bells at Coaley.

A letter to the incumbent (Rev. R. Hibbs) asking permission to ring his bells for evensong on February 1 brought a favourable reply and a warm welcome was extended. We arrived at 5.30 p.m. and were welcomed by Mr. G. Brown who, although in his 70s, had oiled the bearings and fitted two new ropes especially for the visit. A look at the bells showed that they were all cast by Mears in 1845 and hung in a new frame by Jacques, of Gloucester, in the same year. Whilst much of the gear was clearly still of that date, the installation appeared to be very sound and well maintained.

On raising the bells we were amazed how well they went, and even the yourgest members of our band had no difficulty whatever in ringing touches. Yet, quoting from the R.W., "Mr. W. F. Scudamore, ringing master of the G. and B. Association, ... pointed out that at Coaley, one of the churches claimed by Stinchcombe to have difficulty in finding ringers, the bells were virtually unringable and ought to be condemned. He himself was terrified when attempting to ring there some years ago. We could only conclude, after our ringing, that either the wrong tower was quoted— in which case we feel that an apology is due to Rev. Mr. Hibbs and Mr. Brown-or that the oil applied and ropes fitted before our visit improved the "go" 1,000 per cent.

Perhaps Mr. Scudamore could throw some light on this matter, as his reported comments reflect badly on the friendly people of Coaley, their love of bells being shown in the interest in our visit, with an invitation to come again in the summer. -Yours faithfully.

> GEOFFREY K. DODD. RICHARD L. JONES. CHRISTOPHER DALTON.

Dear Sir,-The reply to my letter about Stinchcombe bells from Miss Bliss and Mr. Raus does nothing to assuage my doubts as to capabilities of the Gloucester and Bristol Association to revitalise ringing in the Stinchcombe area.

Instead of giving answers to my questions the authors have adopted the politicians' method of giving bland general assurances that all will be well, thus avoiding either admitting fault in the matter or committing themselves to any definite course of action that they could later be held to. If the officers of the G. and B. wish to convince ringers of their effectiveness then they should answer the questions in my first letter and also do something about organising ringing in the silent towers in their area instead of waiting for the request for help to arrive.

I heartily endorse the sentiments of the last paragraph of Mr. Sloman's letter and hope that every reader of The Ringing World will take it to heart and act upon it. In my opinion it is the most important thing that has been published in The Ring-World for some years. - Yours faithfully,

Twickenham, ROBIN J. COLLIS.

PLACE NOTATIONS

In answer to Mr. Bamforth's request for place notations for Oxford S. Major, Rev. Malcolm Melville writes from Bedford:-

"Oxford Surprise Major may be found in Corrigan's Collection of 370 Surprise Major Methods, first published in 1948, as follows:

-36-6-58-36-14-3-4ths pl. at l.h. gives 17258463.

"The other method, Sheppey, is not the same as Superlative, Burton variation. The latter is also given in Corrigan's Collection as an irregular method because it involves bells lying still in 7-8. It is a 'double' method, and Sheppey is merely the Burton variation with the places in 7-8 removed."

Mr. A. H. Hinton, of Warmington, also writes:-This is listed in Part C of the second edition of 370 Surprise Major Methods, by the late Andrew J. Corrigan. "On page 31, under irregular, uppealable and obsolete methods, it is No. 367 with l.h. 17258463. The place notation is:

-36-6-58-36-14-5-16- with h.l. 5."

And Mr. D. Kay Adkins, of Witney,

"The collection by the late Mr. F. W.

Tipler gives the following:

A-36-16-58-36-14-38-36-18. "As this method has falseness e, g, l, k, it would be interesting to see the composi-tion used. The Tipler reference number is

"With regard to Superlative Surprise Major, Burton variation, the same collection gives B, 78, 36, 78, 14—58—36—14—58, 12, 36, 12, 78 (reference B1/M), which method is the same as Sheppey but for the 78s. It has the doubtful advantage of being a c.p.s. method.

SPLICED

Dear Sir.—On page 83, R.W., under the item "25 Years Ago," it was recalled that three peals of Spliced Surprise Major in the four standard methods were rung during 1944. On referring to my peal records I find that in company with Maurice F. R. Hibbert, Edwin Jennings and Harold Cashmore I was privileged to ring in all three peals. All were rung at Bushey for the Hertford County Association. Others taking part were John E. Spice, John E. Rootes, Frederick W. Brinklow, Ernest C. S. Turner, who all rang in two peals, and George M. Kilby, Frederick E. Collins, Walter Ayre and Charles H. Kippin, who each rang in one peal. Two were conducted by Harold Cashmore and the other by Ernest C. S. Turner.—Yours faithfully, FRANCIS KIRK. Hemel Hempstead, Herts.

[Mr. Kirk, in his covering letter, writes: "Despite the forecast that 'spliced ringing is likely to be one of the great features of change-ringing, made 25 years ago, none of us could have visualised the heights to which it has now reached, and I am full of admiration and wonder for those who ring in the 'multies'."—Ed.]

DIAL IIII

Dear Sir, — Surely the reason for using IIII rather than IV is that the former makes a better balance with the figure VIII on the other side than the latter.

The Great Clock at Westminster is, however another example where the more correct IV was used.—Yours faithfully, DOUGLAS HUGHES.

London, E.

WINSFORD PEAL ACCEPTED

Dear Sir,-In the issue of November 21 last you published a letter from Mr. G. Baldam (page 907) requesting withdrawal of a peal rung at Winsford for the Bath and Wells Association. The allegations made by Mr. Baldam have been investigated by the standing committee of the Association. We have received from the conductor a detailed rebuttal of the various points alleged by Mr. Baldam and the remainder of the band support the conductor. Therefore we accept that the peal was rung in accordance with the Central Council Decisions and that the extents were true. This finding has been accepted by the general committee of the Association and the peal will be included in our records,

As a general comment on this matter we feel strongly that such complaints should never arise since a member of the band can always set his bell if dissatisfied.— Yours faithfully,

JOHN H. GILBERT, General Secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association.

YAXLEY AND LITTLE BOB

Dear Sir,-Having very little knowledge of method splicing and composition, it is with diffidence that I draw attention to the handbell peal of Yaxley Alliance and Little Bob Minor published on page 38, as I am completely puzzled as to how it is possible to splice any method with Little Bob Minor to form a true 720.

It is axiomatic that in a true 720 the treble, in common with all the other bells, will have to strike 120 times in fifths place and sixths place. If, say, 480 changes of Yaxley were rung in a 720 the treble would strike in 5ths and 6ths 80 times. In the Little Bob it would not strike at all in these positions.

Perhaps Mr. Price will explain how this difficulty is overcome.—Yours faithfully.

OTHER RINGING ENJOYMENTS

Dear Sir. - I disagree with Barry F. Peachey when he states that many voung people would leave the Exercise if peal ringing was condemned. I am 16 and have now been ringing for one year. When I took up ringing I hadn't the slightest notion what a peal was, let alone any thoughts of ringing one. I took up ringing for the eniovment I could get out of it. I've made many new friends, visited many new towers and enjoyed myself a great deal. The joy doesn't come through the thought of ringing a peal but the thought of being able to ring well for practice and service ringing. -Yours faithfully, A. WEEKS.

Tonbridge, Kent.

APPRECIATION

Mr. T. A. Whitehead, Chailey, Sussex. writes:-

"In Sentember we formed a new band at St. Peter's. Chailey, and with two exceptions the band were teenagers, the eldest being 16. At Christmas we managed to ring for our first service, and this would not have been possible had it not been for all the time and help given by the Barcombe ringers and the use of their tower (sorry about the two stays!).

"We thank Mr. and Mrs. McAdam, Bert. Fred and Stephen for their assistance.

NON-TERRITORIAL?

Dear Sir,—In this year's Ringers' Note-book and Diary there is innovation in having Territorial, Non-Territorial, and University and College Societies classified separately. There is, however, one mistake—the classification of the London County Association as territorial. Surely it should be non-territorial?

The L.C.A. was formed out of the St. James' Society, the purpose of which was to enable members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and the College Youths to ring peals together. These two Societies are non-territorial, therefore it follows that the L.C.A. is also.

It is not as if the activity of the L.C.A. at the present time is territorial, except perhaps at Chelsea, Kensington and Isleworth. Members are elected for life and therefore have a vote at any meeting. Theoretically, a member living in the depths of Africa could be elected master at the annual general meeting!

Let us hope that the London County will take its rightful place of honour with the other non-territorial Societies both in the Diary and in its representation on the Central Council. Such an anomaly hardly fits into the Association's policy of a new look in London ringing!—Yours faithfully,

PAGE-ING MR. MARSH

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, Graham Reynolds, is not alone in his wish to trace Edward Marsh. As secretary to St. John's, the only tower in the town with a ring of bells, I extend an invitation to both gentlemen to meet in our ringing chamber, where we will gladly accord them the opportunity of assisting a struggling band.—Yours faith-

G. A. WEST.

GIFT TO COALBROOKDALE

Holy Trinity Church, Coalbrookdale, Salop, has just had the ten clappers of the bells rebushed and overhauled at the Whitechapel Foundry. All the arrangements and transport were organised by Mr. E. S. But-ler, of Billingsley, Bridgnorth, who also pro-vided the cheque to meet the account. "Our thanks are due to him with gratitude,' writes A. S. Bayley.

WORK IN HAND

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. report the Ingoldmells, Lincs.—Installation of a new ring of six starts shortly. Full details given after dedication.

Whatton-in-the-Vale, Notts. - The two new trebles to complete the octave are being installed by Mr. W. Exton and other local ringers. All work to frame has been done locally with parts supplied by John Taylor

Chellaston, Derbys. - Here there is a mixed three in a Taylor frame for six. Mr. Willows, local ringing master, is installing two new trebles. This will make a minor five; the tenor is to follow as funds

SHEFFIELD CATHEDRAL BELLS

The old ring of 12 was rung for the last time on March 3, 1968, for evensong. The following week work commenced to put the bells into better order by replacing the timber headstocks with metal ones, fitting new clappers, etc. However, it was found that time had taken a much greater toll than was at first thought—the 3rd, 8th and 11th bells were found to be cracked and the timber frame to be very much decayed and in places cut away in order to give clearance.

The architect wanted the bells to be placed as low as possible in the tower to reduce the strain. The Cathedral ringers held a meeting and considered a number of suggested schemes, finally recommending the authorities to have a new frame for 13 bells, have all the bells recast into a new ring of 12 (tenor 34½ cwt. in D flat), also a new flat 6th ($8\frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), giving a light octave of $14\frac{1}{2}$ cwt., this being the heaviest ring that the tower can accommodate on one level.

As a considerable amount of cash was required for other work to be done on the fabric in the near future, the ringers thought it best to have a full frame for 13 bells to be installed, were it only possible to have ten or 12 bells, the others being added at a later date. However, the authorities decided to have the scheme carried out in full, also to raise the belfry ceiling about four feet, but leaving a clock room reduced in height, fix a new timber floor under the bells, install a new chiming clock, brick-up the sound openings to a suitable height, face the inside of the bell chamber with acoustic plaster, and other repair work.

The bells will have no inscriptions, but a tablet cast in bell metal, bearing all the inscriptions, will be fixed to one of the belfry walls. The Cathedral ringers have agreed to bear the cost of the flat 6th bell (£543), most of which has been subscribed. The work on the bells is in the hands of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and the builders, Messrs. Longdon, of Sheffield, who made an excellent job of the recently-completed

Cathedral enlargement.

Many ringers have had the pleasure of ringing on the fine old 12. Any donations towards the cost of the new bells will be gratefully received and should be sent to me (Herbert O. Chaddock, 1 Hemsworth Road, Sheffield, 8) or direct to the Provost, c/o The Cathedral. An official receipt will be supplied.

"GRANTHAM AT LEISURE"

Over 11,000 people attended a three-day exhibition at The Guildhall, Grantham, Lincs, in which over 50 exhibitors of various activities staged their view of "Grantham at Leisure." At the opening ceremony on January 23 the Mayor said: "I now have an answer to all those who say to me 'There is nothing to do in Grantham.'" those who say to me 'There is nothing to do in Grantham.'"

The St. Wulfram's band of ringers provided an interesting display of charts, books (including The Ringing World), competition trophies, handbells and photographs of past and present ringers. The main feature— a working wooden replica of a tower bell, made by Mr. Denis Frith—provided many members of the public with an opportunity to try their hand at ringing a "bell."

Several recruits were found as a result of this venture, and thanks are due to the members of the St. Wulfram's band, whose enthusiastic help made the exhibition a success.

WHITSTABLE'S OTHER BELFRIES
A leading article last year dealt with the new ring of six at St. Alphege's Church, Seasalter, but, excluding the old Seasalter church, there are three other places of worship in Whitstable, and one other noteworthy bell, a Burmese one of 1845, at the Castle.

Pride of place must go to the beautiful Parish Church of All Saints with St. Andrew. The tower is the oldest part, dating from c.1220, but the church was only completed when the present south aisle was added in 1962, built in the Perpendicular style to match the rest of the building. Here were formerly three large bells, though they were reported as being "greatly decayed" as far back as 1594. In 1729 the tenor was cracked and all three were removed and recast into the present ring of six by Samuell Knight, of Holborn. They were rehung in 1844, but for many years were chimed by a barrel-like machine; further repairs were done in 1895 by S. B. Goslin, and in 1919. The bells were taken down, tuned, quarter-turned and rehung in new fittings and framework by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank in 1930, a new clock by Messrs, W. Joyce, of Whitchurch, being installed at he Church of All Saints with St. Andrew. The Stainbank in 1930, a new clock by Messrs, W. Joyce, of Whitchurch, being installed at he same time. Since the last war the bells have been rung by one of the most able of North Kent's six-bell bands. The front five bells are inscribed: SAMUELL KNIGHT MADE ME 1730, while the tenor bears: IAMES MARCH IOHN ANDREUS MICHAEL GOAIHAM C W 1730, the notes, weights and diameters being as follows:—

1rebie: 25 1/8 in., F, 3 cwt. 2 qr. 10lb. Second: 26 3/16in., D sharp, 3-2-8.

1hird: 28 1/8in., C sharp, 4-0-23.

Fourth: 29½in., C, 4-2-13.

Fifth: 32 9-16in., A sharp, 5-3-6.

Tenor: 35½in., G sharp, 7-2-6.

The new daughter church of S. Andrew has not even one bell, but the magnificent Church of St. Peter, in the poorer area near the har-ot St. Peter, in the poorer area near the harbour, began as an offshoot of All Saints' in 1911, completed in 1929, and independent since 1935, now lacks only the 150-feet high tower and spire originally designed by the architect, the late Mr. G. H. Fellowes Prynne. This is one of his finest churches, but the possibility of the tower ever rising seems infinitesimal. The church was first equipped infinitesimal. The church was first equipped with the oid mission bell, a tinny 12-inch brassfoundry casting. In 1937 a very sweet-toned 14in, sanctus bell was hung over the lady chapel by the Whitechapel Foundry, which in 1963 supplied a new bell for the new bell gable built in memory of a former assistant priest, the Rev. R. Wimbush, who was a great lover of bells before an accident forced him to give up ringing. The bell has the same note as the new St. Alphege's tenor, G; it is also 24in, in diameter and weighs 3 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lb., being simply inscribed: MEARS / 19 (M) 63 / LONDON.

To the east of the town and now a part of

To the east of the town and now a part of To the east of the town and now a part of it is the old village of Swalecliffe, mentioned in Domesday Book. The old church possessed two bells, one of which was sold in 1744 for £5. In 1875 the church was entirely rebuilt on the old site, and, apart from the plate, nothing old seems to have survived. A visual examination of the bell through a telescope (it hangs in an open spirelet) by the writer and Mr. Ranald Clouston in 1968 revealed a bell of modern shape.

two sixes, with a big welcome for all visitors

IS IT REALLY SIMPSON TUNING?

A RECENT ARTICLE in The Foundry Trade Journal (December 18/25, 1969) seems to go a long way to answering this question, which must often have arisen in the minds of those listening to a modern ring of bells accurately tuned on the five-tone system. This article describes the Taylor Bell Foundry at Loughborough and makes the following comments on bell tuning:—

The Taylor family claim to have made a substantial contribution to the evolution of Western bellfounding through the outstanding ability of John William Taylor and his son, John William II. It is said that British bells before the second half of the 19th century were, by and large, very deficient in quality of tone. If an old bell had a good sound then it was probably accidental. On the Continent of Europe, development was along different lines. Dutch bellfounders, by the 17th century, had brought their art to a state of perfection unattained in earlier times. Although the founders had based their work on some of the practices of previous craftsmen they had excellent commercial acumen. There was an insistence on obtaining what they believed to be optimum quality and it is thought that some founders would go to the extent of casting several bells until they secured the note they were after. This skill and knowledge was lost upon the death of Peter van den Geyn and his successors, Francis and Peter Hemony, who had been the first bellfounders able to guarantee a set of bells being in tune. Later bells cast in Holland are said to have been very poor indeed. Nevertheless there were a few British founders who managed to secure a good reputation although it was suspicious that one of these was centred on Colchester with its comparative easy access to the Continent. This was the foundry of the Grayes, of whom Miles Graye was the most famous. Is it by accident that until recent times the tenor bell at Lavenham, cast by Miles Graye, was thought to be the most beautiful bell in the land?

John William Taylor, father and son, had realised the deficiencies in the traditional form of bell and set about to evolve a bell which would produce the best obtainable tone. This they did by altering the shape and wall thickness. Having keen musical ears they had always been troubled by their inability to produce bells in which a'l the tones were correctly in tune. They were within sight of their objective when they were staggered to receive a visit from an English parson called Arthur B. Simpson who had apparently reached the same conclusions as themselves. The Taylors had previously no idea about any bells on the Continent being "in tune." They were amazed to find that what they had found out for themselves about the notes of bells had partially been found out 200 years before by some Dutchman! Thereafter the Taylors toured the Continent listening to bells and taking their notes. By and large they discovered that few Continental bells were better than their English counterparts.

Canon Simpson had gone about his researches in a very rational manner. Comparing the tones of British and Dutch bells, he realised that the discrepancy was accounted for by a radical difference in design. He took up residence in Holland and set about a systematic study of 17th century bells. At the same time he dug out monographs on bells of the period. Despite the fact that most of the written records were wrapped up in mystery he noted that all the pleasant-sounding bells gave forth octaves and that an optimum shape and tuning technique was required to reproduce such notes. What he had done was to rediscover the harmonic principles practised by the Hemony brothers.

Bringing his findings with him, he approached the London bellfounders, only to be immediately shown the door—what could a parson know about bells! It was some time later he turned up on the doorstep at Loughborough to the consternation of the Taylors. After overcoming their natural animosity to an outsider they discovered a tower of strength in Canon Simpson. Their friendship ripened and during their subsequent joint endeavours to discover the perfect bell, it was Canon Simpson who kept going when the Taylors got depressed and lost heart. But progress they did and by 1896 J. Taylor and Co had produced their first carillon.

Further proof of all this is evidenced by a letter sent to John Taylor and Co and subsequently printed and widely distributed over the country. It reads as follows:—

Copy of letter sent to John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, by the Rev. Canon Simpson, Rector of Fittleworth, after testing the new ring of eight bells (tenor 14½ cwt.) for Werrington Church, Devonshire.

> Fittleworth Rectory, Sussex. July 9th 1898.

To Messrs, John Taylor and Co., Bell Founders, Loughborough.

Dear Sirs .-

I cannot let my visit to your Foundry, on Tuesday last, pass without a written word to you expressive of the great satisfaction and pleasure which I experienced.

It is no small thing to have witnessed the realisation of an idea which has occupied no inconsiderable part of my time and attention for above 20 years. For this I have now to thank you.

The peal of eight bells which you invited me to test, scientifically, is simply perfect. You may have made others as good; but, as far as my experience goes, this is the first and only peal in England of which I could say this much—

Each bell has its several tones in absolute harmony.

And the several bells are in perfect tune with each other.

The purity of tone is not only remarkable as compared with the ordinary run of bells. It is perfect.

Habit and prejudice are powerful hindrances to the appreciation of a novel excellence. But I am certain that no one who has once experienced the musical satisfaction of such a peal as this could ever be content with the very incomplete tuning which has hitherto passed muster.

I will not enlarge here on the share which I have taken in producing this result. You will, I am sure, acknowledge this to yourselves, and to others. I would rather speak of my admiration of the intelligence, skill and perseverance on your part, which has enabled you to carry out these ideas to a so eminently successful practical result.

I heartily wish you all the commercial success which you deserve; and it shall not be my fault if you do not attain it.

I am, Dear Sirs,
Yours faithfully,
A. B. SIMPSON,
Rector of Fittleworth and Canon and Prebendary of Chichester.

P.S.—Please to make any use you can of this letter.

TONBRIDGE PLAN QUARTERS

As a further step towards trying to rekindle interest in district activities, the quarterly meeting of the Fonbridge District, K.C.A., held at Sevenoaks on January 3, followed a slightly different pattern. A programme of quarter peal attempts took place in the early afternoon, designed to enable any member to ring or conduct a method of his choice. Of the four attempts arranged three were brought round, the fourth band meeting again (successfully) on the following Saturday. Two members rang their first quarter and several others a "first in the method."

Later all converged on Sevenoaks where, after a service and a more-than-ample tea (very kindly provided by the local band), a business meeting was held. Association chairman, Mr. E. A. Barnett, was in the chair and future activities of the district were discussed. It was felt by the secretary that the most important functions of the Association were to provide (a) opportunities for ringing which were not otherwise available, and (b) a means of social contact between members. Meetings in their present form, he considered, were far from ideal on both counts.

It was agreed that quarter peals filled a need, and in 1970 meetings should include this additional feature, with special provision for ringers yet to reach quarter peal standard. It was also agreed that further "district" peals should be attempted.

Discussion took place on the question of social activities, and on the premise that ringers like nothing better than to get together for an informal chat over a drink it was decided that a "cheese and drinks" party be held.

A GOOD TURN-OUT

On January 17 the A.G.M. of Manchester Branch of the Lancashire Association was held at Manchester Town Hall. Ringing was suited to all tastes and capabilities and it was very encouraging to see a good turnout, particularly learners.

At the business meeting the ringing master gave a brief account of ringing over the past year and said some meetings had been very well attended but others not so well. The following were elected as officers for the coming year: ringing master, Mr. Alan Ward; deputy ringing master, Miss Christine Andrews; secretary, Miss Betty Ormrod; committee member, Mr. Roland Eccles. Mr. Neil Bennett continues as chairman for another year. Thanks were expressed to retiring members and ringing continued until 9 p.m.

So it seems that Canon Simpson did much of the spadework and provided the very necessary encouragement—the Taylors carried the results of their combined endeavours into successful practice. Is it really the Simpson Principle or the Taylor True-Harmonic Principle which we hear in all modern bells, both English and foreign? Let the reader judge for himself!

SAMUEL WARNE

The death of Samuel Warne, on January 6 was a sad introduction to the seventies for St. Michael's Guild, Braintree. At 78 Sam was our oldest member and had rung with us over 40 years. Always cheerful, punctual and good-natured, a careful striker, Sam could be relied on to do his best. He had not climbed the belfry ladder much after ringing in a "Remembrance" quarter in 1967 (one of his sons was lost in the last war). A visit to his home, or to see him in hospital, was always a pleasure. He has now rejoined his wife, whose loss was such a grief to him.
"Mine be a cot beside the hill,

A beehive's hum shall soothe my ear; A willowy brook that turns a mill

With many a fall shall linger near. . . The rest of Samuel Rogers' wish sums up the content and quiet attitude to life that Sam brought from Suffolk to Braintree and never lost. Sam rang a number of peals, mostly on the treble. Ringing was his joy, next to his family, who were his pride. C. H. G.

WILLIAM CUTMORE

The Northern District of the Essex Association has suffered another loss in the death of William Cutmore, of Belchamp St. Paul. Aged well over 70, Mr. Cutmore had been prevented from ringing in recent years by illness; but he rang there for over 60 years, having taught many in that period, and rang a number of peals in Essex and Suffolk. Three local ringers and two Suffolk ringers joined the writer in attempting a half-muffled quarter peal on the Sunday following the funeral, which took place on January 12. Unfortunately this did not come round, but the Association stands to gain three new members—two participants and one spectator - and it should not be long before the attempt is repeated with C. H. G.

MR. S. B. CAREY

Mr. Samuel Bogdale Carey, of Stock-bridge Hants, died on January 25 at the age of 89. He had been a ringer for about 70 years and was elected to the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild in 1906. In recent years he was made an honorary life member of the guild. He had been Stockbridge tower captain for over 40 years, but had not rung for the last few years, being unable to climb the belfry steps.

MR. JACK COOK

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Jack Cook, of Saxmundham, Suffolk, who passed away on January 29 at the age of 71. Jack was at one time a ringer at Rendham and Saxmundham. A loyal and conscientious member of St. Peter's, Kelsale, company of ringers for many years, he regular and loyal to Sunday service ringing. A proud moment in his life was when he cycled to Sweffling to ring for Mrs. Rhoda Harris' 106th birthday, then the oldest lady in Britain. Ringing friends in Saxmundham District have many pleasant memories spent in his company.

The funeral was on February 3 at St. onn's, Saxmundham. Among the floral ributes was one from his fellow ringers at Peter's, Kelsale. Saxmundham and Kelsale bells were rung half-muffled by friends and members of the Suffolk Guild. Our sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

58 YEARS AGO

The old meeting card found under the belfry floor at St. Michael's, Southampton, Winchester Diocesan Guild of Change-Ringers (Winchester District).—A meeting for business and combined practice will be held on Sat. Feb. 10, 1912, at Alton. Bells available from 2.30 and Froyle. Tea to be followed by Business Meeting will take place at Church Room at 5.30. It is hoped that some of your company will attend. Kindly let me know before Tues. Feb. 6 how many will require tea.—Jas. W. Elkins, Dis. Sec.

The card, bearing a George V halfpenny stamp, is addressed to Mr. Gladdin, 203 Derby Road, Southampton. It would be interesting to know how ringers got to Alton and Froyle - six miles apart and 25 miles from Winchester-with no public transport; presumably on cycles and walking.

"VIVE LE VAUXHALL"

It was discovered that among the many thousands of employees of Vauxhall Motors Ltd. at the Luton and Dunstable plants 11 were practising members of either the Bed-fordshire Association or the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Interest was aroused and it was tentatively agreed that meetings of a few hours' duration could be arranged at towers and times to suit the majority.

Three very successful gatherings have been held at Maulden, Stoke Goldington and Emberton and Woburn, which culminated in a very creditable quarter of Grandsire Triples on January 31.

It is hoped that this venture will be continued in the same spirit in which it began, and that new members will be welcomed after a report is published in the Plant magazines, which includes the Merseyside Plant at Elles-mere Port. C. D. M. Mr. Frank Osbaldiston, of 11 Willow Grove.

Mr. Frank Osbaldiston, of 11 Willow Grove, Marple, is the new tower captain in place of Mr. R. B. Smith, who is moving to Loughborough. and Mr. Alan McFall, 71 Woodville Drive, Marple, is the hon. secretary.

What better reason for ringing a quarter peal than as a "send-off" to a young lady taking up missionary work. At Hever, Kent. the rector's daughter, Rachel Collins, has left for Peru, and all will wish her well in her work. work

Similarly at Irthlingborough a quarter "send-off" to Eileen Chatterley, leaving for V.S.O. work in the Pacific, and Pamela Court, now in Pakistan.

We appeal to conductors and senders of peals and quarter peals to write on one side of the sheet only and to follow the style used in our columns. For peals, we have specia'ly printed sheets available free on receipt of a (9 x 4) stamped addressed envelope.

Mrs. N. M. Randle's 400th peal was fittingly rung at her home tower and the band congratulated her on this achievement, which we feel sure must rank high among the per-formances of lady ringers. Others recorded week are Michael Maughan (300) and Michael J. Platt (100).

We have just received a report of a handbell peal, where the four ringers each picked the numbers of two bells from under a coat. The order of ringing was 1-8, 3-5, 7-4, 2-6, and must have been a "teaser"—at least for the first course or so. (See next week's R.W.) first course or so. (See next week's R.W.)

A peal of Doubles was recently rung

Newbold-on-Avon on a sponsored basis, each ringer inviting friends to sponsor him at rates varying from a penny to sixpence per extent rung (i.e. 42 for the complete peal). This raised over £39 for Biafra relief. Peal ringers will, we trust, be pleased to see the improved spacing of peal pages, made possible by the clearing of the "backlog," which necessitated "squashing" and abbreviations. We have in addition put the name of the place before the church dedication-one of the many constructive criticisms made and which we accept.

"How very agreeable it is to be able to distinguish easily the sexes," said Preb. Timms at the Cumberlands Dinner. "The ladies are "The ladies are beautifully attired and I do not see any gentle-men with flowing locks. Quite refreshing!" [Many ladies had spent considerable time in the cloakrooms changing from male-type attire into their truly feminine garments, we understand.]

This week we give a photograph of another "local" team—Lyndhurst, Hampshire. Although the print was an awkward shape we have adapted it to our columns and apologise to the ringer who has been "inserted" as an inset. We invite other towers to send us a photograph (oblong and black and white) of their ringers together with brief details of their ringers, together with brief details of officers and capabilities.

The "Tom White" subscription list is still open. The response has been good so far. but it is realised that some associations, in addition to individuals and towers, have not had sufficient opportunity of sending a donation, Mrs. J. Staniforth, of 150 Narborough Road South, Leicester, will acknowledge all cheques and postal orders (made out to the Tom White Testimonial Fund) received before February 28.

At the recent A.G.M. of the Barnsley and District Society Mr. Peter Carbutt was elected as the new treasurer and Mr. Philip Charlesworth is now secretary.

A quarter peal of Bob Minor with 7-8 covering was rung as a 65th birthday com-pliment to Mr. S. H. Young, deputy captain of the tower and a ringer there for over 50 years. Taking part were his grandchildren, Julie and Adrian Tyler, and their father, Mr. G. Tyler.

Leaving Marple at the end of April is Mr. Robert B. Smith, as he has been appointed Head of Department of Mechanical and Production Engineering at Loughborough Technical College. Leicestershire ringers will be delighted with this news, but it is sad for Marple!

A FRAGRANCE OF POLISH

The South Wales District of the Ladies' Guild held a very enjoyable and well-attended annual district meeting at Usk on January 24.

Members, as usual, attended from a very wide area-Tewkesbury in the east to Pembroke in the west.

Ringing was brisk and enjoyable on the pleasant ring of eight bells, and the ladies certainly appreciated the shining ringing room, the fragrance of polish and the lovely oak table with its tasteful decoration of daffodils and ivy.

The service was conducted by the vicar, Rev. L. Rendle-Davies, and Mrs. Audrey Bruten read the lesson. Another member, Miss Gillian Clench, was at the organ.

An excellent tea waited in the Usk Memorial Hall, given and prepared by the Usk ringers. Mrs. Kear, Mrs. Clench, Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Powell were thanked by Mr. Philip Rogers, of Pembroke.

When the gentlemen had returned to enjoy the bells the ladies settled down to a long business meeting involving much discussion, and it was decided to re-elect most of the district officers, viz.: vice-president, Mrs Beryl Paton (Mitcheldean); secretary, Mrs. Jacqueline King (Chepstow): committee: Mrs. E. Hughes (Usk). Miss G. Colleypriest (Newport), Mrs. A. Bruten (Ebbw Vale) and Mrs. B. Rogers (Pembroke). Central committee: Mrs. Stella Clench and Mrs. Audrey Bruten. One new member—Miss Jill Meyrick, of Mitcheldean—was elected

The next meeting is in May at Pembroke, and it was decided to try to hold a meeting at Aberdare in September.

Many members are hoping to attend the annual meeting of the guild at Leicester.

A PHELPS EIGHT

The first meeting of the year of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held on January 24 in the Collegiate Church of St. Mary Wingham The church possesses a complete ring of eight by Richard Phelps (1720), the tenor being about 19 cwt.

It was a large gathering which sat down to tea with Mr. B. J. Luck in the chair. Mr. D. C. Chaffield (district representative) gave a resume of the committee meeting. In particular it was mentioned that the new prayer cards would soon be ready for use, that a sub-committee to look into the question of a sub-committee to look into the question of a county striking competition had been appointed, that grants had been made to five churches, and the repair of the tomb of James Barham (conductor of 40,320 changes in 1761) considered. A large part of the evening had been devoted to the higher points of finance, but particular mention must be made of the smooth and excellent hand-over from Mr. Corby to Mr. Berry, which in itself was a tribute to Mr. Corby's high standard of work.

The financial statement was accepted and new members were elected from St. Stephen's and from Elham. The competition secretary. Mr. Cawley, gave a report on the result of the Tidy Towers Competition, which had re-sulted in a general improvement in belfries throughout the district. The joint winners. Dover and Walmer, could hardly share a bellrope, but they shared its cost and, together with Barham, the runners-up, receive a certificate. Mr. Cawley mentioned that the tificate. Mr. Cawley mentioned that the District Striking Contest was to be held at Birchington in March. Mr. Keeler mentioned that a practice meeting had been fixed for Chilham (evening) and Chartham (afternoon) in February.

Thanks were expressed to the ladies for their preparations: to Mr. Kemp, the senior local ringer, who has been at it over 60 years: and to the rector, Rev. H. Voller, who con-ducted a "sermonless" service but promised "double dose" next time! D. L. C.

Ringers of St. Michael and All Angels, Lyndhurst, Hampshire.

The two smaller boys on the steps are the sons of Mr. Keith Tatt, the vice-captain. who unfortunately is soon leaving to go to South Africa. Lyndhurst is basically a callchange band but three are method ringers. Visitors are always very welcome and would help us in this respect.

Ringing: Practice. Friday, 7.30-9 p.m.; Sunday ringing, 9.30-10 a.m. Lyndhurst has a good ring of eight but the bells are difficult to handle due to a great draught of rope. Tenor 11 cwt.

CHAIRMAN CONDUCTED SERVICE

A successful and progressive year was reported by the chairman at the annual meeting of the Eastern branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association held at Gorleston-on-Sea on cesan Association held at Gorleston-on-Sea on December 6, 1969.

Officers elected to serve for 1970 were: Chairman, Rev. P., N. Bond: secretary, Mr. N. P. J. Cossey: Press secretary, Miss M. Kindred; ringing master, Mr. W. S. Girling: standing committee, Mr. T. J. Brock and Mr. A. E. Crowe: branch committee, Mr. J. M. Clarke, Mr. D. C. Ely, Mr. J. W. Forder, Mr. F. C. Gunton and Mr. D. R. McLean.

It was proposed to hold Surprise practices on the third Wednesdey in each month at Great Yarmouth and Beccles alternately. Miss C. C. Keaisley, of Lowestoft, and Mr. R. Malle, of Gorleston-on-Sea, were elected ringing members of the association.

Maile, of Gorieston-on-sea, were elected ringing members of the association.

Votes of thanks were accorded by Mr. P. G. W. Newstead, a vice-president of the association, to the chairman, Rev. P. N. Bond. for conducting the service at short notice due to the illness of the Vicar of Gorleston, and to the local ladies who served a splendid tea.

A MEAT TEA

The Cary Branch of Bath and Wells Diocesan Association annual meeting was held at Ditcheat on January 24.

The service was conducted by the rector (Preb. L. E. Walsh), assisted by the branch chairman (Rev. G. S. Robinson).

Over 50 ringers sat down to a meat tea in the hall, and among the visitors to the branch were Mr. E. Naylor (Association treasurer) and Mr. Wilfred Williams, of London.

At the business meeting officers elected were: chairman, Rev. G. S. Robinson; vice-chairman, Preb. O. H. Skipwith; ringing master, Mr. R. G. Field; assistant ringing master, Mr. K. L. Laver and secretary, Mr. L. McCreadie.

Provisional meeting places for 1970 were: Quarterly, West Lydford, Henstridge and Charlton Horethorne; practices at Babcary, Marston Magna, Barton St. David and Bruton, with the corporate Communion in October at Bruton and the next annual meeting at Evercreech.

Four new members were elected: Miss J. A. Bennett (Castle Cary), I. Woodborne and D. Stembridge (Evercreech), P. Harvey (Milborne Port). The draft copy of the proposed Association rules revision was studied and several amendments suggested.

Thanks were accorded to the rector, organist, local ringers, and to the ladies who had provided tea.

Twenty-one towers were represented at the business meeting and many more during the evening.

"OFF-THE-CUFF"

On January 24, members and friends of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild assembled at the Masonic Hall, Witney, for the annual dinner. This year the arrangements had been ably executed by Mr. E. D. Patching.

Almost 100 people sat down to enjoy roast turkey, and although no official speeches had been planned several short "off-the-cuff" speeches were made. Mr. E. R. Venn (branch secretary) thanked those he thanked Canon C. E. Wigg (guild master). Mrs. Wigg and Miss M. R. Cross (guild secretary) for attending, and Mr. Patching for his hard work arranging the dinner.

Rev. P. Wilkins (branch chairman) endorsed the secretary's remarks and Canon C. E. Wigg mentioned his voung bands at Hook Norton (average age 11) and at Swerford (average age 13). He said it was good to see so many young ringers together with those who had given many years of devoted service. Finally, Mr. N. I. Bridges (branch ringing master) asked for more support for branch activities. He concluded by saying that without the support of the more experienced ringers progress in the branch would be very slow.

The remainder of the evening was spent under the direction of (bouncing) Bob Clow. who was the M.C., and the dancing went on until midnight, everyone taking part. E.R.V.

FEAST OF ST. UNY

For the third successive year a peal has been rung for the Feast of St. Uny. who is the patron saint of the church at Lelant. Cornwall In 1968 it was Plain Bob Minor. 1969 Stedman Doubles and this year Kent Treble Bob Minor. Five ringers have rung in all three peals. We hope the 100 per cent record will be maintained in future years for what has become an annual event. F. M. B.

INCREASED MEMBERSHIP

The Axbridge branch of the Bath and Wells Association assembled at Churchill for an afternoon's ringing and service before their annual meeting held at Congresbury. At the business meeting Mr. J. Gilbert explained the revision of rules. The secretary announced a slight rise in membership (now nearly 200). Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. J. Walton; vice-chairman, Mr. J. Lambard; ringing master, Mr. G. Hebden; deputy ringing master, Mr. B. Mills; secretary/treasurer, Miss M. Legg. Four new members were elected from Brent Knoll. The next quarterly meeting was provisionally arranged for Burnham-on-Sea, with practices at Wedmore in February and Brent Knoll in March. Congresbury bells were rung under the direction of G. Hebden until 9 p.m. M. L.

EAST PENNARD BELLS

Great speculation is raised in the Bath and Wells Diocese after a party of ringers from London and Highclere raised the 28 cwt. ring of five bells and rang them to rounds and two extents of Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles on January 24.

The bells, originally a ring of three, were augmented to five in 1740 when the fourth and tenor were added, and in 1893 all five bells were rehung.

In 1912 all ringing ceased. The exact reason is not known, but various reasons circulated include the stonework being bad and the bells unsafe.

The Rev. Mr. Francis was very keen the bells should be rung and said that the architect could not understand why it was not possible to ring them. He welcomed our efforts to try them out.

A new floor had been installed 12 years ago but no provision had been made for bell ropes. We had the tools for the job, holes were made, ropes fitted, bells oiled and, for the first time for 58 years, the bells were rung

What a glorious sound they made! Work was needed to ring them, even to rounds, and in changes one extent was sufficient for any tenor man.

A week later we were back again and the whole village knew that the bells would be rung for the 11 a.m. service. Word had been rung for the 11 a.m. service. Word had been passed round among the ringing fraternity, as live of the band from Wells Cathedral came unexpectedly and were able to try the bells themselves. They had difficulty in believing the bells could be rung. There were plenty of listeners and later we joined them for morning service in the ancient church.

But what of the future? A visit is to be made by Mr. H. Sanger, belfry representative of the Bath and Wells Association, and his report will decide the future of the bells. To anyone visiting the tower after this we would warm them—great care must be taken in all warn them—great care must be taken in dis-connecting the chiming hammers and clock weights. For us the moment of that first ring at East Pennard will last a lifetime.

Details on East Pennard bells:-

Treble and third 1649; founder unknown-second 1607; Purdue. Fourth and tenor 1740;

Hung in two tiers, 1, 2, 3 above, and 4 and tenor below; both frames 1740. Fittings, Llewellin and James, 1893.

The diameter of the tenor bell when measured proved to be 55½ inches against 56½ inches for the tenor at Peterborough, so there is only an inch between the two.

"IN ABSENTIA"

Some "questions and answers" in the report of the "Campingologists" peal tour (August, 1969, and just received!) and which is complementary to the peals recorded elsewhere in this issue:

A large irregular polygon of wet canvas sagged baggily over a jungle of tent poles tethered uncertainly to a matsh, the very highest and marginally driest part of Warmersley, Lancs, and Fairbrother said to Hughes.

"Are you sure you brought all the poles?"

The Campingologists were erecting their tent. Rather they were erecting what they thought was their tent but, as Wylde said to his wife, as he watched from the Eden of his caravan.

"What an unusual tent."

Limp lines of damp twine condensed their own rain out of a grey Lancashire mist contained by a ruinous dry-stone wall whose hideous form sprawled around the dismal field. Damp shadows struggled in procrustean labour with the amoebic canvas, then Beech said to Friend

"Eh, what's this 'ere in this bag?"

Silently the chosen seed first taught by the shepherd, Warrilow, in the beginning how to make a shelter from canvas and stick took the new find and worked whilst others watched wondering until out of the chaos of mud, wood and barrage balloon fabric rose a proud twelve by six ridge tent. The discarded sheet became first a sort of auditorium, then a leantog garage, finally the fly-sheet, and Ruth said to Jenny

"Thank goodness."

The Bilston boys arrived. Davies constructed his own strange tent resembling an umbrella with greenstick fracture of most of its spokes and pondered on how he would sleep in it. Others, too, pondered on how he would sleep in it until Davenport said to Nelson

"Where's the pub?"

So began a peal tour with the peal total not worth the price of an apple if you collect totals. A near barren week from the black and grey grained towers of a technicolour green Lancashire promising all on Monday at Whittle-le-Woods and Samlesbury but giving nothing more until Oswaldtwistle on Thursday and nothing after for ever. But the pints were there and the darts and Davenport's, alas uncollected anecdotes of Robinson. Just up a tipsy lane over the hill's bunkered brow there was shove-ha'penny in the country's most hospitable golf club, which dished out an annual dinner on a long table, with speeches and toccata and fugue for piano and handbells. Bennett called two handbell peals sans splutter for the honour of "joint leading conductor" and for Bates to tell Yates

"He's the greatest."

The annual meeting delved deep, sounding out, examining itself as never before. Once ringing for enjoyment and only ringing whilst it was enjoyable and ringing peals; now ringing for peals in a futile effort to find enjoyment but ringing no peals and only away from the ringing is there enjoyment. Peal-greedy keepers of vain totals you have become destroyers of enjoyment. The destroyers of Campingology you will be.

Campingology could be finished and next year will be the test. Robinson was voted "in absentia" the organiser for 1970. As one said to another:

"Shall I see you in Yorkshire, Campanologist?"

"TOMBSTONE."

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for February 16, 1945

Handbells were rung at a Works Wonder programme on the Home Service of the B.B.C.

Mr. Norman Chaddock wrote from India about "The Bells of Suez"—the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception; and when chimed the sound of the four bells was disappointing.

At a meeting of Doncaster and District Society Mr. E. Stacey was elected ringing master and the Walker Cup for the best attendance (? at meetings) was won by St. Peter's, Felkirk, Miss D. Grange receiving the trophy.

Mr. G. Newton, of the provisional com-

Mr. G. Newton, of the provisional committee for the proposed Leicester Diocesan Guild, gave an explanation of the position to a meeting at Earl Shilton.

At Trull (Somerset) James Coles, Reginald Perry and Douglas Fear rang their first peal.

Mr. B. T. Jeanes, of Riverside, Bridgwater, wrote defending unattached ringers and told of the work they did around the area.

50 YEARS AGO

February 20, 1920

13001 changes of Grandsire Cinques, in 8 hours 45 minutes, were rung at Painswick, conducted by Albert Wright, it being the longest peal on the bells.

Mr. John A. Freeman conducted the first peal ever rung solely by the Cathedral band at Lincoln—Stedman Triples—and Mr. Isaac Vickers rang his first peal.

L. & N.W. Railwaymen rang 5056 Plain Bob Major at Bletchley, Bucks, conducted by Harry Sear.

Mr. A. Morris tapped Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples on handbells in 2 hours 42 minutes at Harwich, Essex.

The order was placed with Whitechapel Foundry for the recasting and rehanging of Epsom Parish Church bells.

Mr. T. Hervey Beams, of Bradpole, Dorset, wrote suggesting that the social side of the meetings of the Central Council should be developed and peal bands and impromptu concerts might be arranged.

St. Johnthe-Evangelist Sidcup, Kent

St. John-the-Evangelist, Sidcup

ST. JOHN'S PARISH CHURCH, Sidcup, will not be found in any books on architecture, neither are its bells of any great historic interest. The foundation stone of the first St. John's was laid on November 27, 1841. This building was the daughter church of St. Nicholas, Chislehurst. Unfortunately it was too small for the community, and with the exception of the chancel and sanctuary was pulled down in 1898. In 1901 the present nave was completed, and with the population of Sidcup still growing fast the church is being used more and more for Sunday and civic services.

THE BELLS

Originally the bells hung in one of the twin towers in the old building and were transferred to their new home in the new uncompleted tower in 1901, when John Warner and Sons hung them in a new steel frame. The five and six must have been of poor tone as they were recast the same year. No further work was carried out on them until 1950, when Mears and Stainbank rehung them on ball bearings in their original fitments and also retuned them. Since the bells were cast in 1843 there have only been seven peals on them, the first in 1904 and the last in 1959. St. John's cannot boast of being a great peal tower, but at least the bells have been rung for many thousands of services.

NEW BELLS

Unfortunately, owing to the old fit-ments, the "go" of the bells is once more causing concern, and on October 5, 1969, our vicar, Canon Dennis Oldaker, launched an appeal for £3,000, this being the amount needed to recast the poor-toned bells and augment them to eight, plus a sound floor. The Whitechapel Bell Foundry have given us an estimate for eight bells, which has been accepted; the tenor of the eight will weigh 7½ cwt. in the key of B flat. These bells will hang on one level in a new steel frame.

SOUND CONTROL

The tower, being so short creates a considerable problem regarding sound control. Recently the lower louvres were completely boarded up, thus allowing the sound to escape via the top four louvres. When the new eight are installed we hope to have a wooden floor above the bells. This floor will have two trapdoors which will be closed for practice nights and peals and opened for service ringing and weddings. With the trapdoors closed the bells will be almost inaudible from outside.

FUND RAISING

The ringers themselves have undertaken to raise the whole amount. The activities so far have included a sponsored walk from Rochester Cathedral to Sidcup, raising approximately £250. We are also collecting Green Shield stamps, and the company who produce them have agreed to recast one bell on the surrender of approximately 117 books. At Christmas we raised £15 6s. by playing carols on our handbells. Other fund-raising activities include the sale of ballpoint pens (suitably inscribed), wastepaper, and in the early part of May we hope to have a sum-

St. John's ringers are all very much looking forward to the day when Sidcup will possess the new octave of bells, and if you would like to help us a donation, however small, will be most gratefully received. Please send your donation to the address belowthank you.

URANGWOT-9. THE WINNER

No. 9 in the Urangwot series attracted the largest entry so far with 71 replies. Of these, 64 were completely correct, including the conductor's name; four placed the band correctly but omitted the conductor and three were incorrect. The last three gave solutions which made both statements true or false for one of the ringers instead of one true and one false as specified.

The puzzle was not difficult and may be worked out by a process of trial and error, taking a certain statement to be true and following through its implications. Starting with Alan and taking his "Carol conducted" as true, it follows that Harry did not ring 4. Duncan's claim to have conducted must be false and his "Alan rang 2" must be true, and so on

The correct solution is: 1 Richard, 2 Alan, 3 Harry, 4 Ann, 5 Carol (conductor) and 6 Duncan.

Of the correct entries, the first drawn out of the hat came from: Jas. S. Croft, 29 Hanley Road, Shirley, Southampton.

DOUBLE PROGRAMME

The Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association have held two very successful functions recently.

On February 7, at an evening practice meeting at the Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels, East Coker, they were welcomed by the vicar (Rev. G. Mullard), and it was one of the branch's best supported evening meetings, over 50 attending. It gave great pleasure to see so many young people present and it augurs well for the future of change-ringing in this area. The well-going, musical, light eight (tenor 13 cwt.), under the direction of the assistant ringing master, Mr. Jim Taylor, included rounds and well-known methods.

The branch is grateful to the vicar and the tower master (Mr. Frank Foot) and the East Coker ringers for their kindness and co-operation.

A SOCIAL EVENING

On Shrove Tuesday, February 11, the day for the branch's annual social evening, held this year at the Fleur de Lis, Stoke-sub-Hamdon, an excellent buffet supper was enjoyed by the 50 present.

Skittling for the Gordon Rendell trophy and other prizes proved exciting and hilarious, with teams competing from Chiselborough, Hardington Mandeville, Ilchester, Long Sutton, Montacute, Preston Plucknett Somerton and Stoke-sub-Hamdon. Chisel-borough were the winners of the trophy (duly filled and emptied!) and other prizes went to Hardington and Montacute. Chiselborough thereupon were challenged by the "clergy" to drinks all round for the winners, and again Chiselborough proved unbeatable and the clergy had to faith beatable and the clergy had to fork out.

For the various competitions and mystery prizes the awards were presented by the chairman's lady, Mrs. C. J. B. Marshall.

Flaming youth has become a flaming question. And youth comes to us wanting to know what we may propose to do about society that hurts so many of them.

Derby Association Welcomes its Bishop

SIR A, P. HEYWOOD MEMORIAL DINNER

The annual Sir A. P. Heywood Memorial Dinner proved again to be a most popular event as about 190 were present at this year's Derbyshire Association's dinner, held at the Station Hotel, Chesterfield, on February 7. Ringing during the afternoon took place on the 25 cwt. ring of ten in the famous "Crooked Spire" Church of St. Mary and All Saints, and members of the press were present and watched the proceedings with great interest.

Following the loyal toast the Association's president, Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes, Provost of Derby, said how privileged they were to have their newly-consecrated bishop, Rt. Rev. Cyril Bowles, present. They were grateful that despite many other engagements that befell a new bishop he and Mrs. Bowles had been able to join them, and he hoped it would be the first of many happy meetings between the bishop and his ringers in the diocese.

The provost paid tribute to Mr. Harold Taylor, who recently had been presented with a silver salver to mark his retirement after 21 years as ringing master of the cathedral, with which he had been associated for over 40 years. This was a remarkable period of distinguished service to the Church and ringing and was typical of many of the ringers in the county and explained the reason for the Association's healthy state.

Thanking the Association for the honour of asking him to propose the principal toast at their dinner, that of "The Church and the Exercise," Mr. Paul Taylor, of Loughborough, said he could never understand why people spoke of the Church and the Exercise as if they were two entirely different subjects, when in fact nothing was farther from the truth. Surely both were one and the same, as either without the other would be unthinkable even in this day and age. As the son of a bellfounder, he had a vested interest in ringing as he made his living by making bells and as a result was constantly meeting ringers from all parts of the world.

BORED WITH PLAIN BOB

Apart from one or two places in the States, Australia and Canada, most of the ringing which took place abroad was on carillons and was mostly tunes and not change-ringing. He was most intrigued to receive a letter from Canberra recently asking for more diagrams of methods, as the carillonneur there was bored with ringing Plain Bob! He, the speaker, was amazed to learn that this gentleman and a friend of his were ringing changes on the manual by means of a kind of Venetian blind affair. In fact they had sent a tape-recording of a quarter peal of Cambridge S. Major they had rung on the carillon to mark the visit of Prince Philip to Canberra, the striking of which had to be heard to be believed, as it was faultless! In a few weeks' time, when in Australia on business, he was very much looking forward to seeing how this was done.

Mr. Taylor urged the company to think less of the Church and the Exercise, as it led many people to divorce ringing from the Church, when in fact ringers and bell-ringing probably played as vital a role as the clergy—if only ringers realised it.

Responding, the Bishop of Derby said how exciting and refreshing it was to meet ringers both here and in Wiltshire, his previous archdeaconry. It was inevitable, he supposed, that bishops should be regarded as The Church, not the ordinary folk in the congregation, although in many cases when people asked why didn't the Church do something over a particular matter they really meant why didn't the bishop do something.

FIRST AND LAST TIME

He was perhaps obviously qualified to reply to the toast on behalf of the Church, but he certainly was not as well qualified to reply on behalf of the Exercise as he had only tried to ring a bell once. That was when he had rather more spare time and had started to learn ringing only to discover one evening that the distance between the soles of his feet and the ground was rapidly increasing! Whilst he managed to let go in time that was the first and last time he had tried to share in the Association's most distinguished art.

The bishop did believe that certain qualities of mind were necessary for someone to become an accomplished ringer, and he offered his felicitations to all those who had rung peals or quarters in honour of his enthronement last November, both in Wilteshire and in Derbyshire, a gesture which was very much appreciated by both his wife and himself.

In addition to having his sympathy with regard both to the complexity of ringing nowadays and also the dedication necessary to become proficient at their art—although he thought it better for him to have swung and fallen rather than not to have swung at all!—ringers had the bishop's sympathy, most particularly for the conditions in which they had to ring, particularly as in many churches the ringing chamber was regarded as a very convenient storehouse and the very last place any self-respecting verger would think of cleaning. This was something that was very much in his mind, as no choir or servers would be expected to work under such conditions. If he could help in any way at all to improve the general conditions of belfries in the diocese he would be only too pleased to do so.

The bishop said that the work of bellringers was really of great importance as it was of value for its own sake, and he hoped that the company would continue to maintain their ancient and peculiarly English art. It was immensely valuable to the Church as a constant witness to the Christian faith and an essential part of the Church's ministry.

SUBSCRIPTION REDUCED

The toast of "The Visitors" was proposed by the Association's general treasurer, Mr. J. C. Woolley. Ringers in Derbyshire, he said, were always pleased to welcome visitors to towers and belfries, whether for meetings, peals or just practices, and he was proud of the fact that this was made clear by the Association's gesture of reducing non-resident life membership subscriptions by 50% to 2s. 6d., probably one of the cheapest in the country.

The speaker also welcomed the Mayor and Mavoress of Chesterfield (Cclr. and Mrs. Allen), the Archdeacon of Chesterfield (Ven. T. W. Ingram-Cleasby), Mr. P. Saltmarsh (general secretary of the Essex Association) and also Mr. Arnold Morley, of Belper, who whilst a member of the Association was still a guest, as he had not yet paid his subscription. [Laughter.]

Replying, the mayor said he was happy to be present and very glad that his wife and he were able to attend. In what was known as a "swinging world," Cclr. Allen said he was glad to be among a real group of swingers—if they would pardon the expression—and in particular congratulated the company on having so many ladies in their midst. He was sure they added a great deal to the art of campanology, and he urged the company to be very proud of their ancient art as the sound of bells pealing out from a church tower was one of the loveliest sounds he knew. In this respect Chesterfield was very fortunate as they had a very fine ring of bells, which he and his wife enjoyed hearing on many

Later there was dancing and during a short interlude Mr. A. Lockett, of Bolsover, entertained, and the evening ended at 11.30 p.m. M. P. P.

LONG LENGTH IN TUNE RINGING

The handbell ringers of Ecclesfield Comprehensive School who figured in a recent article have introduced long lengths to tune ringing. On January 24 nine girls and four boys from this school, known as the Hunshelf Ringers, succeeded in ringing 81 tunes in a session lasting six hours. Altogether 57 of the 61 bells were rung in a tune during the session. Between each tune there was a break of about one minute for the changeover of tunes and at the end of each hour a compulsory five-minute halt for refreshments. The ringers, whose ages ranged from 14 to 16 years, were thus on their feet for 4½ hours in the six-hour period. The ringers believe that this was the longest ever session of tune ringing by one team.

The long length was sponsored at the minimum rate of 1d. per quarter hour. Thus by completing six hours they earned 2s. towards the complete overhaul of the five-chromatic octave 61-bell set which they ring. The performance created much interest and there was an excellent TV and press coverage. The repertoire included 63 individual tunes, of which 17 were rung

FOR AMERICAN VISITORS

Mrs. G. Melloan, an American journalist in England, was recently interviewed by Mr. T. W. White (our former editor) about bells and bellringing, in order to write an article for well-known American papers and journals, One question posed: "Where can visiting Americans see a typically English village within 50 miles of London, preferably just off main roads, and where bellringing for morning and evening services is part of the scene?"

A list is to be compiled, and if secretaries of village towers will send a postcard with details of Sunday ringing (must be both services) we will forward the information to our American journalist friend and await the influx of American visitors.

WILL YOU HELP?

We are now able to give our peals section better spacing, for we have cleared our backlog. Several have asked that the place name should come before the dedication and that more space be given either side of the Association titles, and this has been done, with a generally improved appearance. The little (c) has also disappeared (by popular request) but brought the desired result—an appreciation of the relative £ s. d. percentage response in peals and quarters published.

We are grateful to those who have recently become subscribers to our fully Acknowledged" paragraph, and while this is considered by some as "begging," this is considered by some as "begg "passing the cap round" or "charity, would point out that the amount contributed each week helps maintain the standard -poor though it is in quality—that we have today. Many have written to say that they are prepared to pay double for their Ringing World, and we invite them to do so. We have never refused any double subscription vet, but then we have only ever had three. The R.W. staff do not work on commission and do not make a profit from the extras received. They are all ploughed back in the hope that one day we may be able to enlarge and improve the journal.

The only way that this can be done, however, is by increasing the circulation. We have no promotion team and must rely on you, our readers.

We have been accused of sharp practice, of Americanism in sales technique, of bribery and blackmail—all this because we are endeavouring to build up a circulation worthy of the only national ringing paper in the world. When many other weekly papers with more advertising and wider appeal have ceased publication The Ringing World is still serving the ringing community after nearly 60 years. What is done is done for the Exercise as a whole and not for any one section of it. If the Journal is to improve and continue to serve the Exercise you must play your part by making The Ringing World known to all ringers everywhere and persuade others to become regular subscribers.

PLEASE DO SOMETHING THIS WEEK, WE NEED YOUR HELP IN PROMOTING OUR SALES DRIVE.

A PARTY AT BARNES

On Saturday evening, January 31, the Barnes ringers held their first party, which was a great success. The ringing master, John Ketteringham, welcomed the rector and Mr. P. H. Coley, churchwarden, and said they were also pleased to have present many of those who had helped at practices and with wedding ringing. He was pleased to see the masters of the London County Association and University of London Society and the senior steward of the Ancient Society of College Youths. It was very pleasing that regular Sunday ringing now took place and gratitude was expressed to the rector for his unfailing support. The recent engagement of two local ringers. Hilary Whitworth (the rector's daughter) and Carl Price, was evidence that the band was now well established! A peal attempt that afternoon to celebrate this event unfortunately failed, but the local ringers and some of their regular supporters made a presentation to Carl and Hilary.

The antics of some of the Exercise's leading peal ringers in attempting to demonstrate handbell ringing to the uninitiated caused considerable amusement.

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

PART III: DIFFICULT TIMES

AFTER the Armistice was signed, it was appropriate that the first two peals of Spliced Minor to be rung, in November, 1919, and February, 1920, should have been conducted by John Lake and the Rev. A. T. Beeston respectively. While the former can be seen as representing the pre-war Lincolnshire band, the latter led the up-and-coming Cheshire

By now Spliced Minor had become well-established in these two widely separated areas. In 1922 a second South Lincolnshire band, under Horace Day, joined this select company with a peal in ten methods at Market Deeping.

During the ensuing nine years nearly all peals of Spliced Minor to be rung were the work of one or other of these three bands. And although it was the Cheshire men who were to set up new records during this period, was Horace Day who was to call more als of spliced than any other conductor. Indeed, between 1922 and the outbreak of the Second World War he called no less than 66 such peals-more than a fifth of all that were rung

Aithough he had been born in 1881, it was not until about 1911 that Horace M. Day started to ring. His first peal had been one in five Minor methods at Edenham in February, 1914, and his second was Stedman Caters at Christ Church, Bristol, in November, 1918the first peal to be rung in the city after the Armistice.

After demobilisation from the Army and his return to Market Deeping, he had soon built up a band, and, before long, peals conducted by him at or near Market Deeping, Deeping St. James and Deeping St. Nicholas became a regular feature of Lincolnshire ringing.

A high point was reached in June, 1936, when he called 32 Spliced Surprise at Folkingham. Although this did not constitute a record, it did equal the record that had been set up at Lamberhurst the previous year. all, Horace Day called this peal no less than five times over the next couple of years, and there seems little doubt that, had the necessary there seems little doubt that, had the necessary figures been available, he could easily have surpassed the Lamberhurst performance. Horace Day's ringing career extended until well after the end of the Second World War. Throughout his 60s and 70s he conducted his own birthday peal each year, the last occasion being on October 3, 1959, when, at the grand age of 78, he called 17-Spliced Surprise Minor from the second at Rippingale. This proved to be his last peal, and he died on April 30, 1961.

The Norbury band had meanwhile been

The Norbury band had meanwhile been going from strength to strength. With the assistance of John P. Fidler, the Rev. A. T. Beeston arranged many of the extents they rang, and in December, 1921, they finally control and the state of the scored a peal in 24 Treble Bob methods at Grove, conducted by James Fernley.

About this time it became apparent that it as possible to include five methods in each atent, rather than the four which had hitherto security rather than the rour which had mitted occur thought the maximum. The goal consequently became a peal in 35 methods.

To attempts for a peal of 30 Treble Bob.

December 23 and December 27, 1922, were ooin iosi in the fourth extent, but brought round. This was on New Year's Day, 1923, the ringing again being conducted by James Fernley. Four of the extents were in five methods.

A fifth five-method extent was included in in 29 methods at Hazel Grove in March, and on December 4 the 35-method peal was last rung. The band was made up as 1—James Fernley, jun.

2—John P. Fidler
3—William Fernley

W. W. Wolstencroft
5—James Fernley, sen. (Cond.)
6—John W. Hartley

The Rev. A. T. Beeston had had to give up ringing early in 1922 on medical advice, but he had not lost his interest and was the first to greet the band after the successful completion of the peal.

A NEW BOOK

There then followed a virtual lull for five years. During this time Hazel Grove bells were augmented to eight, four or five peals of Spliced Minor were rung in Northamptonshire Spliced Minor were rung in Northamptonshire and rather more in Lincolnshire, and John Fidler wrote a series of articles on "Method Splicing." These appeared originally in The Ringing World between August and October, 1925, and in January, 1926, they were published in booklet form. They contained a clear and detailed explanation of how the 35-method real head here held to the state of the series of the ser and detailed explanation of how the 33-method peal had been built up by the use of lead- and course-splicers, and ended by remarking that it was possible to include a sixth method in each extent and thus ring no less than 42 methods in a 5,000.

The articles caused a great deal of interest. At the Central Council meeting in Ipswich that year the hon librarian, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, was able to report that the last remaining copies of the 1907 Collection of Minor Methods had been quickly sold,

'the demand, which is always considerable. being increased by the issue of the book on Method Splicing by Mr. J. P. Fidler."
Spliced 720s began to be reported from various parts of the country almost immediately. But strangely there was no upsurge in peals of Spliced Minor. Why was this?

DIFFICULTIES

The reasons seem to have been two-fold. The first was the opposition to this "new-fangled" (albeit now 18-year-old) idea of "splicing" from some of the more conservative members of the Exercise. They contive members of the Exercise. They considered that it was only a stunt, a passing craze that would not stand the test of time. There was consequently little point in wasting time or effort on it. Attempts to sell copies of the "Method Splicing" book at certain Yorkshire meetings were as a result strongly attacked, and Mr. Fidler was warned not to

The second was the lack of a suitable col-lection of methods for Minor ringers to refer

A controversy over the names of Minor methods had now been raging for some years. In a belated attempt to reduce to some form of order the chaos that had arisen during recent years, the Central Council had in 1921 authorised its Peals Analysis Committee to determine what names had been given to those methods from the 1907 Collection that those methods from the 1907 Collection that had already been rung, and to allocate names to those that remained. The committee's report, although accepted without comment at the 1922 meeting in Lincoln, soon became the focus of growing criticism in the editorial and correspondence columns of The Ringing

Two years later a Nomenclature Committee was set up "to review existing method nomenclature." This fared little better than its predecessor, and by the time Fidler's book appeared the storm was at its height.

It did not quieten down until 1928, after yet another committee—this time the Methods Committee— had taken a hand in producing a report. A further three years were to elapse before more arguments about the contents and layout of a new Minor Collection were finally settled, and it was not until August 28, 1931. that the new book appeared.

The editor of The Ringing World, John S Goldsmith, was by now a strong advocate of splicing, and he lost no time in drawing the attention of Minor ringers to the fields now opened up. As he pointed out, "Method Splicing" had shown how to splice as many as six methods into a 720, and now the new Collection gave the methods that ringers had been waiting for

SPLICED CATCHES ON

The result was startling. A glance at the peal-ringing statistics for the years between 1918 and 1939 shows how profound was the 1918 and 1939 shows how protound was the combined impact of these two books. In the 13 years between the end of the Great War and September, 1931, 55 peals of Spliced Minor had been rung; in the eight years that remained before the outbreak of a second war, there were no less than 247 such peals—something approaching a peight fold, increase something approaching an eight-fold increase.

As we shall see, it was the Cheshire and Lincolnshire men who continued to set up Linconshire men who continued to set up new records during this second period, just as they had in the first. But no longer could these two Guilds boast of being the only ones regularly to ring Spliced Minor. Even the Yorkshiremen, who had seemingly lost nearly all interest in multi-Minor after their unsuccessful campaign in the 1890s to retain 360s in their peals, began to practise spliced. In June, 1933, Daniel Smith, a native of Gloucestershire, who had moved as a young man to Felkirk and there learned to ring, called a peal in 14 Spliced Treble Bob methods—the first peal of Minor in more than seven methods to be rung in Yorkshire for nearly a quarter of a century. During the next 18 months this band progressed to ringing a peal in 35 methods, and so laid the founda-tion stone on which later Yorkshire bands were to build.

80 YEARS A RINGER!

Grand old man of Northampton ringing is Mr. Thomas Jennings, of 61 Queen's Park Parade, Northampton, who celebrated his 90th birthday on January 22.

It was 80 years ago, at the age of 10, he started ringing at Kingsthorpe, and on the evening of January 24 he visited this church, where he was married 68 years ago, to have a ring at the Northampton Branch A.G.M. After this some 20 ringers and friends joined him at his home to celebrate the occasion.

For ringing, his church is the Holy Sepulchre, and for between 60 and 70 years he has rung there twice every Sunday. quarter in honour of the occasion, however. did not take place at St. Sepulchre's because of the long pull, but at St. Giles on January 24. Mr. Jennings rang the third. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings have five daughters, two sons, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mr. Jennings only retired from business as a master butcher in Barrack Road three years ago. The great family of ringers send their best wishes to this happy couple.

TEESSIDE INTERNATIONAL EISTEDDFOD

Mr. P. Sotheran sends us a syllabus for the Teesside International Eisteddfod and says there is a section for handbell ringers, with prizes of up to £50. The organising secretary states handbell ringers should ring changes, being the "traditional music" for the instrument, but tune ringing would be acceptable. The rules state that a copy of the piece to be "played" should be forwar-ded to the organisers (the methods and composition would suffice), but it must be intelligible to a non-ringing judge who will judge the ringing on its musical qualities.

Any enquiry should be addressed to the Secretary, Inter-TIE, Middlesbrough, Teesside, but Mr. Sotheran would be pleased to forward anything which comes to him.

Entries to date total over 1,500 and the attendance figures last time exceeded 50,000 during the week. All overseas competitors appear in national dress, which all adds to the colour of the spectacle.

It is hoped that this will be of interest to readers, but the closing date for entries is April 1, so do not delay if you want to try making money for your belfry.

Letters

COUNCIL MINUTES, ETC.

Dear Sir, - I had always hoped that I should be able to avoid dealing with a scurrilous letter, but I must defend myself against the wild accusations of Mr. Mew. His statement that there was a deliberate exclusion of a certain motion is nothing more than a lie, and I should like Mr. Mew to withdraw this and apologise. It ought not to be necessary for me to repeat my statement to the Council at St. Albans that the omission was due to a misunderstanding, but this was indeed the case.

When the omission became apparent I advised the proposer of three ways in which the motion could be brought before the Council, and in the event one of these was used. I think this could be regarded as helpful rather than high-handed.

It might interest the Council (and it is certainly relevant) to learn that I received a letter from Mr. Mew on March 23 last appending two motions. Here is the text of my reply of March 24:-

"Dear Mr. Mew,—I thank you for your letter of 21st March appending two motions for inclusion on the agenda of the next Council meeting. I am sorry to say that motion (a) has already been forestalled by that proposed by the Guildford representatives which published in this week's Ringing World. Your motion is so nearly like that from Guildford that it would be out of order in the same agenda. Your remedy therefore is to move an appropriate amendment to the Guildford motion in an attempt to achieve the result you desire.

'As regards motion (b) would it not be better to confine it to the simple sentence 'that a booklet containing a glossary of technical terms be com-piled'? The remainder of your motion would follow naturally from the passing of a resolution in these terms and you would deal with these points in making your speech.—Yours sincerely."

Perhaps in Mr. Mew's mind this was high-handed, too, because I did not have the courtesy of a reply. Consequently motion (b) appeared unexpurgated and I was asked by several members of the Council whatever was I doing to publish it in that form.—Yours faithfully, VERNON BOTTOMLEY. Halifax, Yorks.

IN PUNNING MOOD

Dear Sir,—The amusing observations of the Vicar of Christchurch (page 119) on the lateness of ringers getting to their pews (quote): "They are having a Cater, or playing a Cinque" prompts me to add, in punning mood:-

They have a Triple need to avoid a Major shuffle, to Double down the belfry steps, causing the Minimus of noise at a time when even the most Minor distraction can be a Maximus annoyance! - Yours faithfully,

G. H. ISGAR.

Holland-on-Sea, Essex.

"Then I heard in my dream that all the bells in the city rang again for joy and that it was said unto him: 'Enter thou into the joy of the Lord'."—PILGRIM'S PROGRESS.

CENTRAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATION

Dear Sir,-I hope you will allow me to reply to Mr. Wilby and Mr. May (page 70), whose comments on my earlier letter (page 19) seem to miss my point almost entirely. It is, moreover, a pity that neither correspondent is able to dissociate an argument from the person making it. Is it in any way relevant to the validity of what I said that I am supposedly "fighting to keep my place on the Central Council

One hopes that in any further debate on this matter participants will be rather more accurate in their references to previous contributions. Mr. Wilby, for example, says that I put forward two false premises. Perhaps he would reread my letter and let me know where I do so. Nor did I single out university societies as having raised standards as Mr. May claims.

My contention was that if membership of the Central Council is to be reduced (a questionable assumption) it is illogical to do it by discriminating against non-territorial societies. Mr. May takes this illogicality to its limits. His theory that university societies need no, or insignificant, representation since many of their members represent other societies on the Council can, of course, be reduced to the absurdity of a Council consisting of two membersone for the Ladies' Guild and one for everyone else. Most, probably all, Council members are members of more than one society, but this does not prevent the societies in question from wanting their full representation. I agree with Mr. May that some social organisations possibly do not merit a place on the Council, but I have great difficulty in thinking of clear criteria which would differentiate between such bodies and ringing societies. The extremes are obvious; the dividing line is not.

Mr. Wilby's suggestion that the Council should exercise greater control over the membership rules of affiliated societies has much to be said for it. One knows of university societies which admit members who have no connection with the university, for instance. But why does he think that the university societies will not admit to having non-resident members? If he thinks that these societies should be reclassified as territorial let him say so.

I trust that the great difficulties of defini-tion will not deter the Council, and particularly the Standing Committee, from attempting to bring some order to the present confused state of affairs, and that objectivity will be used in considering any suggestions put forward for improving matters. Yours faithfully,

JOHN CAMP.

Oxford.

PEALS TOGETHER

Dear Sir, - The famous Pye brothers, Ernest and William, rang 890 peals together. Another partnership which accumulated a large number was Isaac G. Shade and William Pye, 875 peals. There is no and William Pye, or peans.

doubt that the greatest number of peals ther would be by William peals ever rung together would be by Willia and George R. Pye.—Yours faithfully, JOHN G. NASH.

London, N.

We are informed that the twins, Misses Grace and Katharine Burchnall, of Sutton-on-Trent, Notts, each rang their 400th peal and their 400th together at Sutton last June 14th, and all were on tower bells. This surely constitutes a unique re-cord and they have since increased this number.

PEAL REPORTS

Dear Sir, -In answer to Mr. R. B. Smith, the long peal of Superlative has not been published because it did not comply with the Central Council conditions for record length peals, in that the figures were not checked throughout by a competent umpire. I have written to Ronald Edwards to ask him exactly how much was checked but have been unable to obtain any reply. I should point out that owing to a misunderstanding the official umpire did not arrive and Mr. Edwards umpired for part of the time only as a substitute. At last year's Council meeting the Council agreed that peals not rung in full compliance with the conditions for record length peals should not be published in The Ringing World, and therefore this peal will not appear.

Section (D) C. 4 of the same Decisions, as published on page 988 of The Ringing World, states that "peal reports shall state the number and names of all methods and variations separately. For peals of Spliced the number of changes of method at lead-head and at half-lead shall be stated separately, and for peals of Triples and above the number of changes rung in each method shall be stated." There has been a very pronounced tendency recently to publish peals in a manner which does not comply with this. and even in the interests of saving space is not to be encouraged.

The report of the minutes published on page 988 is incorrect in Section E, second paragraph, where the wording passed by the Council was "In the case of peals not strictly complying with parts A to C above not "parts A to D above.

Finally, may I make a plea to all conductors of new methods rung for the first time to publish the composition or alternatively make some positive identification of the composition used in the peal report. A reference to a previous publication in The Ringing World or to a collection is sufficient to enable the records to be kept, and to save me from writing a large number of letters every year!—Yours faithfully,

Putney, London, S.W. D. E. SIBSON. [Peals of Minor and Major will not. in future, be condensed.-Ed.]

ALL RINGERS INVITED

Dear Sir, - I would be very grateful if you would publish the following information for the benefit of the thousands of ringers who, now that the £50 currency restriction has been lifted, will be hurrying to get in an overseas vacation before entry into the E.E.C. imposes a more stringent restriction on the family budget.
Ringing at Washington Cathedral.—Address: Mount Saint Alban, Washington. D.C., 20016. Phone: (202) 966-3500. Tuesdays, 7.30-9.30 p.m. Sundays: variable-either 11.30 a.m.-2.30 p.m. or 1.30-4 p.m.

For specific information, write: Mr. Richard S. Dirksen, Ringing Master, c/o Washington Cathedral (address above); or, upon arrival in the States, telephone either Mr. Dirksen or Mr. Jack Fanfani, daily, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. at the Cathedral; or call, evenings and Saturdays, Mr. Dirksen (703) 521-9338, or Mr. Fanfani, (301) 652-1064.

We are always very anxious to welcome visiting ringers. It is most helpful if we can be informed in advance of an impending visit, but the Cathedral staff—aides, ushers, vergers and guards—has been informed to assist any ringer presenting himwith either myself or Mr. Fanfani.
Yours faithfully,
RICHARD S. DIRKSEN,
Washington, D.C. Ringing Master.

OLD PRINTS

The recent letter (page 30) from Jim Hedgcock about old prints and tower bells in London has brought the following from Mr. A. Clayton, of Loughborough Bell Foundry:

St. Clement, Eastcheap (Clement Lane).

One bell: T. Mears II, 1829, 33\frac{1}{2}''.

St. Bene't, Fink. — Six bells, 1708; three bells, 1824. Church demolished in 1844. No record of the bells.

St. Peter-le-Poor. — Three bells and a clock bell, all cast by John Warner 1791. The sizes and notes of the ring were: $33\frac{1}{2}$ (B), $35\frac{1}{2}$ (A), $38\frac{1}{2}$ (G), clock bell 22". There was once a ring of five here in a frame for six. Demolished 1908 and the three bells given to St. Mary's, Willesden, where they were recast to complete the octave.

St. James, Piccadilly.—Before the 1939-45 war there were: service bell, by Philip Wightman, 1686, 49½", 21 cwt. (this bell survived the war); three clock bells—Mears 1815 (17½"), Mears 1815 (20½") and Robert Catlin 1749 (23½"), the latter weighing 2½

All Hallows, Bread Street.—Service bell, Richard Phelps, 1733, 41", F sharp (lower); small bell, Lester and Pack, 1761, 24", F sharp (upper). Church demolished 1877. Bells said to have gone to All Hallows, East India Dock, but this may be confused with All Hallows, Staining; the plate from the latter church went to All Hallows, East India Dock.

St. James, Garlickhithe.—First, James Bartlett, 1682, 22", G. Second, Philip Wightman, 1700, 31\frac{1}{4}", C sharp. Second from St. Michael, Queenhithe, demolished 1876. I was refused access to this tower and do not know if the bells survived the serious war damage to this church.

St. Mildred, Bread Street.—Thomas Bartlett, 1673, 22½". Although the shell of the tower of this church still stands, the bell was presumably destroyed in the Blitz.

St. Stephen, Walbrook.—Service bell, Robert Mot, 1601, 37½", A. Call bell, Lester and Pack, 1761, 16" (unhung).

St. Mary, Aldermary.—One bell, C. and G. Mears, 1856, 30", C.

St. Margaret Pattens.—Service bell, Lester and Pack, 1768, 31½" (inscription incised). Call bell, Thomas Bartlett, 1624,

It is interesting to note that there are pre-Great Fire bells at St. Margaret Pattens and St. Stephen, Walbrook, both churches rebuilt by Wren after the Great Fire. I am suspicious that both these towers are partly mediæval, and this applies to a number of other City towers I have ascended and which outwardly appear much later in date.

By and large the belfries of the smaller City churches which escaped the Blitz are entirely forgotten and in a quite terrible state. Indeed one steps right back into the 17th and 18th century London in many and even into the Middle Ages at such towers as St. Ethelburga, Bishopsgate. The inscriptions on many bells bear fascinating asso-ciations with London's past. For instance, many City churches have a small bell, and from the inscription on the small bell at St. Edmund the King it can be gleaned that these were probably the apprentice bells for start and finish of work. What a vision this brings to mind of the quiet City streets, unknown to the present daytime population.

Mr. F. E. Collins, Mr. E. J. Whitfield and Mr. W. Cheater.

50 YEARS' SERVICE

On January 15th the vicar, wardens, P.C.C. and ringers at Ringwood, Hants, Parish Church met in the parish hall for a social evening, the main purpose being to pay tribute to Wuliam Cheater, who had completed 50 years as tower

After musical items by members of the choir (to warm things up) the vicar called on Ted Collins, who learned to ring at Ringwood at the same time as Bill Cheater, to propose at the same time as Bill Cheater, to propose the toast. In his speech he gave a retrospect of the activities in Ringwood tower during the 50 years it had been under Bill's leadership, pointing out that in face of many setbacks and difficulties he had always maintained a Sunday service band, usually equal to any in the district. He also gave an account of the days in 1917, when Bill and he had learned to ring, although at that time, owing to war days in 1917, when Bill and he had learned to ring, although at that time, owing to war service, Ringwood tower was very short of ringers. The material for reinforcements was there, in the shape of two 16-year-old boys, but the willingness and ability to teach were completely lacking among the few remaining ringers. Fortunately a soldier, Frederick Yates, from Claines in Worcestershire, was stationed in Ringwood and had attached himself to the tower. He offered to do the teaching and did so very creditably. Ted also stated that Bill and he had rung Ringwood bells to celebrate the Armistice on November 11, 1918, and again 51 years later in 1969.

Bill Cheater's health was drunk with enthusiasm and acclamation.

The vicar, the Rev. R. B. Jones, expressed the thanks of the whole parish to Bill for his valuable services and presented him with a pair of pipes, an ash tray and a substantial cheque. Mrs. Cheater received a bouquet.

In a modest reply Bill thanked everyone and added a few anecdotes on his ringing career. He expressed his regret that another colleague, Ernest Whitfield, whom he taught to ring in 1919 and who is still ringing in the Ringwood band, was unfortunately unable to be present that evening.

The presentation was followed by a sumptuous buffet supper and a happy evening was brought to a close.

A GOOD YEAR FOR GUTHLAXTON

A school bellringing society, the Guthlaxton School Campanological Society at Wigston, Leicester, was founded due to quite a number of pupils being interested in the art, and those who formed it were already tower bell ringers. The Society has now existed for a year and is well established

Last year there were two outings, the first being on a Saturday in February and the second in the summer term during school hours. The ringing was of quite a good standard.

At the beginning of the autumn term new members joined from the intake of pupils. We rang handbells (loaned to the school) in the school Christmas concert, the practices being held twice a week during the dinner hour. For a carol service we rang carols before and after a carol service we rang carols before and after as parents and friends arrived and left. We were also asked to ring at a neighbouring school's assembly, and the pupils and staff were much impressed, and thanks were expressed by the headmaster.

During the Christmas holidays four members of the society joined ringers of St. Thomas' Church, South Wigston, and rang carols around the district. Five guineas was raised and shared between the church and charity. charity.

A member of the staff, Mr. Ian Fraser, is a campanologist and gives his full support.

A former member of the society, John Har-rold (the first ringing master) has this year been appointed deputy ringing master of the Leicester District of the Leicester Diocesan

A GOOD START

Reading University Society got off to a good start in the 1970s with a tour to Oxford, and a good day's ringing was had by all. Sue Taylor made the arrangements for the trip and Martin Seabrook drove the bus. The tour started at South Stoke and went on to Warborough, where full justice was not done to the borough, where full justice was not done to the bells. Great Haseley's six proved popular and were put to good use. After lunch we went to Oxford and rang at many of the towers open that day for the Oxford University ringers' dinner. Highlights of the afternoon were the ringing at Merton and the call changes at Magdalen College. C. H. & W. K.

QUARTERLY AT FRAMSDEN

A quarterly meeting of the Central District of the Suffolk Guild was held at Framsden on January 24, when between 40 and 50 attended. Tea, organised by Mrs. M. R. Page, the hon secretary, was followed by a business meeting and later the executive committee also met.

The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to a wide variety of methods.

Sweet are the uses of adversity Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous, Wears yet a precious jewel in his head.

IN THE ARMS OF THE LAW

The appointment for the inspection of the ring of six bells of St. Nicholas', Abingdon, had been fixed several weeks ahead, then the Vicar had written to say he would be away that day but had arranged for Mr. Albert Locke to meet me.

I arrived at the church a little before time but there was no sign of Mr. Locke and as the tower stair door was open I decided to proceed with the inspection and after donning my overalls I went up to the bell chamber, pulling the door behind me. About two hours later I completed my task. Mr. Locke still had not put in an appearance so I made myself respectable with the intention of calling upon him.

As I left the church two policemen converged on me from different directions; one of them requested to know what I had been doing in the church and when I said "inspecting the bells," they looked at one another, smiled, and said "Well! that's a new one". The next request: "Would you mind opening your case". To this I had no objection, so out came overalls, a cold chisel, a wood chisel, screwdriver, brace and bit, and when asked what these were for I replied they were the tools I needed. They were not satisfied and asked me to accompany them to the police station. I could not refrain from saying that they were doing their job but this time they had backed the wrong horse, but they answered "That remains to be seen".

Before we reached the police station however we met Mr. Locke who looked surprised and asked "Well, Mr. Fidler, what have you been up to?" I replied "Only inspecting the bells" and laughingly the policemen said "That's what he told us and it's a new one to us". Their faces were a picture when Mr. Locke said "Well it's right; he has been inspecting the bells. I should have met him at the church but was delayed".

Both gentlemen in blue said they would have to put in a report, and explained why they had acted as they did. The previous week the "poor box" had been broken open and when someone saw me go into the church with my case they phoned the police. The two officers who were sent to investigate had gone all round the church, looked under the pews but found nothing. On their arrival at the church they had been told that the intruder was still in the church, and so decided to wait. It was a two hour wait for them! After explanations the searchers' comments were "No wonder we did not find anyone in the church. When you were up in the tower, the door was shut and we presumed it was locked and we never thought of trying it or looking J. P. F. up the tower."

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY GUILD OUTING

The amazing feature of the Manchester University Guild's Lent term outing on January 31 was its smooth running and punctuality. It seems that the Guild's old transport bogey may have passed away and we can now rely on private cars.

Meeting before sunrise at the Union was considered optimistic, but there was only one late arrival. The race to the first tower, Swinton, setting the pace for the day, was won by Hamish McNaughton, the organiser, in his A35. The somewhat heavy and toneful eight has an unjustifiably bad reputation for "go," which we discounted with our usual superbringing. After ringing at Walkden we continued to Leigh, where we attempted to ring at two Roman Catholic churches and a factory before finding the eight at St. Mary's Church. Our ringing deteriorated here so we went promptly, to the delight of the motorist whom we had boxed in.

The 75-minute lunch break was profitably employed in searching for the elusive eight at St. Helen's. Eccleston, stopping only at a fish 'n chip shop, where the local delicacy named "split" turned out to be chips and peas. However, we were amply rewarded in our search by the kind hospitality of Mr. Hurst and his ladies, who provided us with cups of tea and biscuits. This red-brick church hides a strikingly clean and pleasant interior, and an example by Mears of how a light eight should sound.

Having so far scored four Surprise Major methods, we now turned to the ten bells at St. Helen's, St. Helens, a fairly pleasant but unfortunately inaudible ring. After restringing the second, we were able to practise our famous Caters, and some members had their first taste of Royal. A brief contrasting visit to Upholland followed—a moderate six in a very pleasant setting. Our suspicions were aroused when Godfrey Foat and crew arrived at the next tower. St. James, Poolstock, long before the rest of the party, and were confirmed when he confessed that he had been using a map I As we were becoming more weary now, and this fine-toned eight is over 25 cwt., ringing here fell below standard.

A brief period for refreshment was allowed before our big treat of the day—the splendid 29 cwt. ten at All Saints', Wigan. Goodness knows why it took three of us to ring the tenor up wrong, but the well-balanced bells succumbed delightfully to our Caters, which now sounded even better, and some rather lessgood Royal. Our final tower, Hindley, has a very precise, though surprisingly odd-struck light eight, similar to the ring in our home tower.

LEEDS SOCIETY DISSOLVED

The Leeds and District Society of Change Ringers was formally dissolved on January 31 and a new branch of the Yorkshire Association brought into being. The meeting was held at Birstall (the tower at which the Yorkshire Association itself was formed) and over 70 ringers were present. Batley and Cleckheaton bells were available, as well as those at Birstall.

Before the commencement of the business the company stood in silence in memory of Douglas Thorp, a past president of the Leeds Society, who died recently.

The members then unanimously supported the following resolution, put by the president, which formally dissolved the Society: "That whereas agreement has been

"That whereas agreement has been reached between the Yorkshire Association and this Society to merge their functions in the common interest of ringing in the county, the Leeds and District Amalgamated Society of Change Ringers be forthwith dissolved, in order that the projected Leeds Branch of the Yorkshire Association be properly inaugurated."

RECORDS DEPOSITED

In his report the secretary of the Leeds Society stated that the progressive trends which developed in the Society in 1968 have been continued during the past year; the attendance at meetings had increased, the Society had started weekday practice meetings to help individual towers and the general standard of ringing had further improved. With respect to the Society's funds, which stand at about £25, it was agreed to donate £5 to the Yorkshire Association to cover costs in setting up the new branch and to put the remainder towards the cost of a farewell dinner for the Society. The Society's records are to be deposited in the Leeds Library's archives for safe keeping.

When the Society's business was completed Mr. Vernon Bottomley, president of the Yorkshire Association, took the chair and brought the new branch into being. His first action involved a decision on the name of the new branch, and the "Leeds and District Branch of the Yorkshire Association".

ciation" was agreed upon.

The president of the Leeds Society,
Robin Brown, the secretary, Robert Cater, and the ringing master, Ronald Warford, were all elected to equivalent positions in the new branch. Four committee members were elected—Alfie Johnson, Martin North, Ronald Snack and Guy Cox.

It had been previously agreed that new branches in the Association should, to a large extent, be self-governing, and the new officers proposed various activities for the branch. Full meetings at two-monthly intervals were agreed upon, with Saturday evening practice meetings in the intervening months. The weekday assistance to towers and the annual striking competition are to be continued.

One new qualified member and 16 new associate members were elected to the Association, seven of the associate members coming from Woodlesford and six from Tong, both having recently-revitalised 6-bell towers in the area.

SPLICED MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,—I would like to thank John Mayne for his letter in the R.W. of Feb. 6, and on behalf of the Marple band send our sincere congratulations on achieving the 12-Spliced Surprise Maximus on handbells.

It is true that a race was on when it was realised that the Hertfordshire band were also turning to the sphere of Spliced Surprise Maximus. I am certain that it is this spirit of competition between the two bands that was instrumental in both bands' successes in this field.

When Bernard Groves moved to Reading this imposed a temporary setback on us, although we had already decided to stand still, having reached 12-spliced, and concentrate for a while on regaining our sanity. Alas, our plans for continuing the chase have been dealt another blow. Robert Smith is leaving us at the end of April to take up a post in Loughborough.

For the time being I regret that we will not be a serious threat to John Mayne and his band, but I sincerely hope that this does not deter them from carrying on with this most worthwhile branch of handbell ring-

Having offered our congratulations, may we at Marple offer our encouragement and best wishes to our Hertfordshire rivals, and we look forward to seeing the publication of their success in ringing 14-spliced and more besides.—Yours faithfully, Marple, Cheshire.

A. McFALL.

JAMES BARHAM HEADSTONE

The name of James Barham, of Leeds, Kent, will be familiar to many readers as that of a famous ringer of the 18th and early 19th centuries, probably the first man ever to take part in 100 peals. His first was at Harrietsham in 1744 and his last at Leeds in 1813, 69 years later. Among them were seven peals of over 10.000 changes, the most famous being 40,320 of Bob Major, rung in 27 hours by 14 men on April 7 and 8, 1761. Of an earlier attempt, when a clapper broke after 24,800 changes, it is recorded that "James Barham stood 14 hours and 44 minutes under the 7th bell, drank two glasses of wine and called all the bobs."

Barham died on January 14, 1818, 2ged 93. A headstone to his memory in Leeds Churchyard was restored in 1913 by the Kent County Association at a cost of £3 10s. and again in 1948 at a cost of £7 10s. This is now urgently in need of further renovation. With the agreement of the Vicar of Leeds, Rev. J. Ellis Robinson, a quotation has been obtained to take down the memorial, remove to works and machine clean the face, recut and paint the letters and subsequently to refix the headstone and two footstones in new concrete notches. The cost will be £90 8s.

The Kent County Association feels that it has a moral responsibility to ensure that the headstone is properly restored again and will be asking its members to contribute to a fund to raise this amount. It also invites any former residents of Kent, now living elsewhere, who would like to be associated with the project, to make a donation to the fund; and needless to say, if any other ringer would like to contribute, this and all other moneys received will be gratefully acknowledged by the hon. general secretary.

E. A. BARNETT, Chairman,
ALAN P. S. BERRY, Hon. Secretary,
Kent County Association of Change Ringers.

Belfry Gossip

This week Stanley Anderton and Simon A. B. Wigg complete 100 peals each.

Fourteen-year old Stephen Smith, of Aylsham, rang his first peal at Holt with a band which included his mother and father.

"It was good to see Walter Ayre ringing again," writes the R.W. correspondent from Watford. "A half-course of Cambridge Royal gave him (and us) great satisfaction."

There was an arrangement made for a peal at Walberton, Sussex, to enable Rev. N. J. Smith to ring with one of his pupils, R. M. Cox, who conducted.

The name Walter F. Judge has been in the columns of the R.W. for many years, and we read that he has been a member of the Oxford Guild for 60 years. Thank you for your long service, Walter.

The conductor of a peal of Grandsire Doubles at North Cerney, Glos, assisted four to get a first peal and the other member of the band a first inside. Very creditable.

Tea in church—not in the Church Hall, as stated in the West Coker (Som.) report recently. "We haven't a hall, but if anyone likes to give us one it is badly needed," writes our correspondent.

One-third of the 198 membership figures of the Llandaff Branch of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association are juniors, and this youthful element is greatly valued and a cause for pride in the area.

FIRST 10-BELL PEAL

Since last September the Andover ringers have contemplated ringing a peal of Caters, but having no 10-bell towers in the district an approach was made to ring it at St. Mary's, Southampton.

Permission was readily given and we travelled to Southampton on February 7, and despite the fact that we had not rung ten together as a band immediately settled down to a good beat which was maintained for two hours, when the ninth's rope started disintegrating below the sally. A slower pace was then set and it was a tense band that heard "That's all" called.

There were seven "firsts" on ten, and at least four of these had only ever before rung a plain course. Another interesting point is that there were three fathers and three sons taking part in the peal. And now for Royal!

G. K. D.

CANADA'S HEAVIEST RING

The Victoria Daily Times, British Columbia, gave a very interesting article and photograph on 81-year-old Edward Izard, master of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, ringers, who for 33 years has "climbed the 72-step bell tower to ring out the old year and ring in the new."

"The bells," it goes on. "are replicas of Westminster Abbey and the heaviest ring in Canada. Cast in 1936 at Whitechapel, the eight bells weigh from 75 to 3.185 lbs."

A retired naval architect who learned to ring in England over 60 years ago, Mr. Izard has taught many generations of ringers and has a band of some 15 with him now.

Mr. Izard told the story of a ringer at whose funeral the bells were rung half-muffled and the muffle came off the bell which the deceased always rang—a mystery which was never solved.

Youth again has excelled by ringing a peal at Dunholme of P.B. Minor, where three ringers are 17, one 16 and two 14, and it was rung as a golden wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hallam.

A regular Sunday service ringer at both Burghclere and Highclere, Hants, David Goss is starting his second quarter century in peals. He rang his 25th two weeks before his 14th birthday.

A special request to print a 25th together footnote (which is not our policy but which we make as an exception!): Marcus C. W. Sherwood and Margaret L. Ellwood. We trust this gives the anticipated pleasure to both.

A letter from Christopher Corby, of St. Neots, gives his opinion that peal ringing is far superior in improving standards than striking competitions, and it helps teams to win striking competitions—as his own experience has proved.

And Barry Peachey, of Lyndhurst, draws attention to the number of quarter peals reported where odd bells cover to minor or lead, and he considers that such quarters should not be recorded.

Sedgley Surprise Major, as can be seen in our peal columns, was rung at Grundisburgh to celebrate the 83rd and 81st birthdays of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sedgley, and all readers will extend good wishes to both.

First peal congratulations to J. Margaret Chappell, Roger Peters, Trevor Hughes, Stephen T. Smith, David Bounds (14 years), P. Ann Plaster, Susan Johnson, Alan Strickland, Christine Barrett, David Dinnell and Alan French.

There is often dissension between the verger and the ringers, although both do sterling service for the Church. When, after 19 years of such service, Mr. C. E. Girling, of Tuddenham St. Martin, Suffolk, died, the local ringers rang a half-muffled quarter in memoriam.

Four young ringers from Kingsbury, Warwickshire, have rung their first quarter peal—Julie Latham at Little Aston, Alison Moore, Yvonne Nicklin and Ian Crofts at Atherstone. They are making good progress, having learned to ring since September.

Doctors and nurses are always deserving of thanks and appreciation, and none more so than those who operated on and cared for Julie Amos when a "hole-in-the-heart" operation was performed recently. The ringers at Bures, Suffolk, rang a "thank you" quarter of D. Norwich on February 8, which we all endorse.

"Is there an unwritten law in bellringing that when a mistake is made the ensuing cacophony is prolonged by the call 'go rounds,' and further din has to be endured by anyone unfortunate enough to be within hearing distance outside before 'Stand' brings relief?" asks E. M. B., of Saxilby. "Why cannot 'Stand' be called immediately it becomes obvious that the muddle can only be sorted out by beginning again?" she adds.

Our 25 years ago paragraph regarding a suggestion by K. Arthur, then serving with the R.A.F. in S. Italy, for a school of ringing has brought the comment from Mr. Arthur, now of Newcastle-on-Tyne, that he and Denis Bayles, who were then not acquainted but had similar ideas. closely co-operated in promoting a successful series of ringing courses at Lumley Castle, Chester-le-Street. "It would appear that our earlier sentiments were not flights of fancy," he concludes.

INDUSTRIAL ARCHAEOLOGY

Mr. Forbes Jackson, of Reading, in an article on industrial archæology states when in 1844 the Whitechapel Foundry took over the business of Rudhall's, of Gloucester, it brought to London a tuning machine, first used in about 1770 to replace the system of hand chipping. At Gloucester this rather crude lathe had been driven by a donkey on a treadmill, but on its arrival at Whitechapel it was driven by a steam engine which was also used to supply power to other machinery in the foundry.

This steam engine remained in use until 1908, when the crankshaft broke. The firm then decided to go in for electricity, and a 15 h.p. d.c. motor, manufactured by Newtons, of Taunton, was installed and remained in use for 50 years until the electricity supply was changed to alternating current.

Meanwhile in 1957 Mr. D. Hughes had acquired from a rectory in Suffolk a handsome turret clock of about 1725. But this needed a new bell and so, to perpetuate the memory of what the foundry regarded as a faithful friend as well as a faithful servant, he decided to cast the necessary bell from the copper in the commutator and winding of the now-superseded d.c. motor. This bell is 1 ft. 7 in. in diameter.

Following an old tradition, he cast into it an inscription, which reads:-

The copper alloyed in this bell Came from a motor that served us well: For fifty years it turned our wheels Assisting us in making peals That went to places far and wide; But now its task is laid aside.

The metal, mixed with Cornish tin, Vibrates with new life from within, And by God's grace we hope will sound For years, to mark our daily round, And thus continue in this place, Content, beneath our clock's fair face.

NEWLY-TRAINED BAND

The first meeting of the Northern District of Hertfordshire County Association at Royston for over three years, held on Feb. 7, attracted nearly 100 from a wide area and this enabled the newly-trained local band to take full advantage of their first meeting in their own tower, which is the most northerly of the district. There were plenty of rounds on this easy-going eight for the benefit of the learners, and ringing up to London Surprise was enjoyed, under the direction of Geoff Horritt, deputising as ringing master. M. M. R.

MIDWEEK PRACTICES

The first-ever meeting of the Southern Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Associa-tion, held at Alburgh on February 5, proved a great success, with over 50 attend-The service was conducted by the rector (Rev. R. Close) and the address given by Rev. P. Bond, of Gt. Yarmouth, chairman of the Eastern Branch of the Association. Tea was provided at the Rectory, prepared by Mrs. Close and helpers, for which they were warmly thanked, and at the business meeting, presided over by Mr. C. F. W. Phil-lippo, it was decided to reintroduce monthly mid-week practice meetings, the first of these in March at South Lopham, Good use was made of the pleasant, light eight, under the direction of Mr. H. Fuller, branch ringing master, and ringing ranged from rounds and call-changes to Surprise Major. Next quarterly meeting, Attle-borough (6), in April. F. C. A.

FRIENDS-WHO NEVER MEET

Writing from Brisbane, Australia, to Mr. and Mrs. C. Lucas, of Guildford, Mr. Tom Roache sends the following interesting details:

. all the R.W.s have come along regularly without one missing, and I enjoy them very much, though I never had the opportunity to learn ringing. Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford, often writes us lovely letters. We are old pen friends but have never met each other. What a pleasure it is to have a few friends around the London area to keep us in touch with the Mother Country

"We are so pleased with the R.W. frontispieces of churches at home. How good it is to see that the Church is so dear to the hearts of all who are believers.

St. Paul's, Maryborough.

"Australia is a vast country and we have been here since 1909-just 60 years!-and have seen much of the land in that time. I would have to write a book on our travels and experiences, and then I could only give a general description. I am enclosing a snap photo of the tower of St. Paul's, Maryborough, a fair-sized town 167 miles north of Brisbane. This beautiful church stands in the main shopping street and is the only church in all Queensland to have a fine ring of eight. The English ringers who were on tour some time ago came up from Sydney (600 miles south) just to have a peal on the bells. The people of Mary-borough said they had never heard anything like it, and those bells had been there since about 1877! Nobody knew anything of peal ringing. . . .

"I was born in Camberwell, London, in 1891, so now I am 79 and my wife 75. 1 have just one relative in London who is at Clapham and one old school pal, still living at Catford. . . .

All is change and only change is change--HERACLITUS

Obituary

MR. JOSEPH S. CARTER

The funeral of Mr. Joe Carter, of Wigston Magna, took place at All Saints Church, Wigston Magna, on February 13, the bells he loved so much being rung half-muffled during the interment at the local cemetery. Joe was a faithful and regular ringer at All Saints' for over 50 years until his health finally prevented him.

He joined the M.C.A. in 1922 and travelled extensively to meetings, making friends and helping many a learner. His legendary "barbed-wire whip" was often threatened but never seen. He was a regular visitor to the annual meetings of the National Police Guild and often regarded as an honorary member of that guild.

Peal ringing was not a prominent feature his life. The total he rang for the of his life. The total he rang for the M.C.A. was 42, many of these with the late F. H. Dexter and friends of Leicester Cathedral.

With the late Harold J. Poole he had long discussions with the Central Council over method extensions, and was successful in ensuring that the first peal of Bristol Maximus at Leicester Cathedral retained the name Bristol. He was a prolific producer of methods and would never acknowledge any adjacent places other than in 12. as perfection was his target both in method construction and the ringing of them.

On the local level, the Coronation peal at Wigston in 1937 was one of 7-spliced methods, all the methods from his pencil.

For the Leicester Diocesan Guild he rang only eight peals, making his peal total, including others not known, some 55 to 60. Whatever the commemoration or event of a peal he insisted that it be rung "to the glory of God."

As a man he was of a retiring nature. taking no credit but often the driving force helping others to the forefront, yet not afraid to voice his opinion, even if in the minority. His one aim and ambition was to maintain a good Sunday service band at Wigston, and in his latter days he evinced a keen interest in the progress of junior members at Wigston.

"Life's work well done." T. E. H.

MR. FREDERICK MESSENGER

"Freddie," as he was affectionately known, died (aged 81) on January 21, the day before he and his wife were to celebrate their diamond wedding.

Born at Shrivenham, Berks, Freddie's ringing career started when he was one of a new band trained by John Monk, of Witney, to ring the newly-augmented octave at Clanfield, Oxon. He served in the Royal Flying Corps during the Great War and in 1920 moved to Cumnor, Berks, and became a loyal member of the Appleton band. Following the 1939-45 war, he and Richard White trained a band at Cumnor, and Freddie became tower captain, ringing at Cumnor and Appleton every Sunday until ill-health forced him six years ago to give up ringing. He rang about 60 peals, mainly at Appleton, and was in one of the last rung by the late F. E. Robinson.

The funeral service was at Cumnor on January 24, after which a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung by F. Sharpe (cond.) I, W. F. Judge 2. R. Mitty 3, B. R. White 4, F. A. White 5, F. C. White 6.

He leaves a widow who is in hospital and a son, to whom we extend our sympathy.

ELEVEN NEW MEMBERS

The annual meeting of the Mansfield District of the Southwell Guild was held at Mansfield on January 24. Ringing on the eight at the parish church took place as usual before the service and after the meeting. An excellent tea was prepared by the local ladies and at the business officers elected for 1970 were: chairman, Mr. S. W. Fossey; secretary, Mr. F. Cooke; ringing master, Mr. H. T. Rooke; committee member, Mr. E. Sollis; assistant ringing master, Mr. F. Adcock.

Eleven new members were elected and the meetings for 1970 were arranged for Warsop (March), Selston (May), Sutton-in-Ashfield (July), Kirkby (September), Edwinstowa (November). F. C.

PRESENTATION TO MR. C. K. LEWIS

At the annual meeting of the Stockport Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis was presented with a Parker presentation pen set to mark his 35 years as branch secretary. Mrs. Lewis was also presented with flowers for the assistance she has given to her husband in his work in connection with the Guild. Mr. Tom Wilde, of Hyde, and Mrs. Francis Hibbert, of Chapel-en-le-Frith, made the presentations. About 60 were present, and at the business meeting which followed the following officers were elected for 1970: chairman, Mr. Basil Jones; secretary and treasurer, Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis; ringing masters, Mr. Alan F. Scholfield and Mr. Frank Osbaldiston.

In addition to other matters it was agreed to hold a quarterly branch practice, the first of which will be at Stockport St. George's in March.

CARE OF CHURCH TREASURES

The Council for the Care of Churches has appointed a conservation committee to assist in preservation of treasures in the guardianship of the Church of England. A sub-committee dealing with bells consists of Messrs. T. A. Bailey, lately senior architect in charge of ancient monuments; J. E. M. Macgregor, chairman of the technical panel of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings; Ranald Clouston, Radlett, Herts; George Elphick, Lewes; Frederick Sharpe, Central Council of Church Bell Ringers: and ex-officio G. H. S. Bushnell, curator of Cambridge University Museum of Archæology and Ethnology.

The work of sub-committees is to help in giving advice on the care of vauable works and channelling grants for preservation, the investigation of techniques and the definition of principles of conservation, and the training of conservators.

A PROUD PLANTAGENET

The finest of all the monuments in Christchurch Priory is the Salisbury Chapel, a chantry set up in her lifetime by the tragic Countess of Salisbury, Margaret, lady of the manor here. Of all the tragic stories of the ever-changing fortunes of the White and Red Roses hers is one of the saddest, touching the depths of poignancy. At the Battle of Wakefield her grandfather fell, and her father, Duke of Clarence, was killed by the treachery of his brother. Richard Crookback.

Her brother and her first-born son perished at the block, and when the last and most brilliant of her race, her young son, Reginald Pole, Dean of Wimborne at 17 and later Archbishop of Canterbury, roused the anger of Henry VIII, the king avenged himself on the remaining members of his family. The aged countess was condemned to death after two years of imprisonment, and in the Tower, when she, the last of the proud Plantagenets, refused to bow her head before the axe of the executioner, the head was severed from her body as she stood and her poor corpse was laid to rest in the burying ground for traitors.

So it is that this lovely chapel in Christchurch Priory, which she had meant to be her grave, is tenantless. Well might Macaulay write that the Salisbury Chantry "still pleads in its empty grandeur for the stately lady whose bones be in unhonoured burial."

THE LATE MRS. D. CATHERALL

Mrs. Doris Catherall, of Padstock Road, Reading, died on December 30, aged about 0 years. She was a member of St. Laurence's band for over 40 years and for a period was tower secretary. She rang some peals, including Grandsire Cinques at Reading, and she also did considerable work locally for the blind and other social work during her lifetime. On the day of the funeral and during cremation the bells were rung half-muffled by members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, of which Mrs. Catherall was a member.

AMENDMENT NOTIFIED

TERRITORIAL

Regarding the letter signed "Exile" (page 131), we are informed that an Association which has the word London in its title cannot be non-territorial. In addition, the London County Association has a rule which reads: "That its area of operation and influence shall embrace the whole of the administrative County of London area or a radius of ten miles from St. Clement Danes' in the Strand."

NEW DISTRICT SECRETARY

The Watford District of the Herts County Association held their A.G.M. at Watford on February 7, the fine ten being made good use of during the afternoon and evening.

The Vicar of Watford (Rev. J. G. Downward) conducted a short service and in the course of his address stressed the need for all to be in tune with God and so get the right message over, likening ringers to the bells. A cracked bell in the tower, or in the ringing chamber, was of no use.

The president, Mr. Walter Ayre, took the chair for the business, which followed a very satisfying tea.

Mr. Geoffrey W. Seaman resigned as secretary and was thanked for five years of service. His successor is Mr. Andrew Mayes, of St. Michael's Vicarage, Watford.

Others elected were: district ringing master, Mr. T. H. Norris (Bushey Heath); committee, Messrs. K. R. Dunstan (Langleybury), D. Carpenter and R. Baldwin (Bushey), D. M. Hibbert (Rickmansworth), J. Southey (Aldenham) and R. G. Bell (Watford), the last-named also R.W. correspondent. Several new members were also elected.

District meetings, outings and a striking competition were among matters discussed, and the St. Albans District was thanked for an invitation to join them at a meeting later in the year.

Votes of thanks were accorded the ladies (Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Laud and Mrs. Ling) for preparing tea. R. G. B.

Brynley A. Richards informs us that the following Minor methods were rung and named at Warsop, as follows:—

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for February 23, 1945

The leading article and a long letter from the president of the Midland Counties Association (R, F, Wilkinson) dealt with the proposed new guilds to be taken from the M.C.A.

At the A.G.M. of Basingstoke District Mr. C. Kippin was in the chair, Mr. J. Chesterman was elected secretary and Mr. C. Ostler ringing master.

At Isleworth a quarter of Grandsire Triples, conducted by H. W. Rogers, allowed P. Thirst to ring his first quarter.

George W. Pipe rang his first 720 (Bob Minor) at Grundisburgh.

The Oxford Society and its Influence was the subject of a letter from Mr. Frederick Sharpe.

Writing from Los Angeles, Mr. E. Weatherby wrote of the bells in America and of having rung handbells with Mr. Charles Wilsher and Tony Price.

At St. Matthew's Parish Church, Walsall, Mr. G. E. Fearn rang his 100th peal of Stedman—one of Cinques.

50 YEARS AGO

February 27, 1920

The first peal by a Selby Abbey band (Grandsire Triples) was recorded, and three rang a first peal with a first as conductor by H. Fairlam.

At Bucknall, Staffs, two ladies rang in a peal of Bob Minor, the first ever in the tower and also for the Stoke-on-Trent Archidiaconal Association.

At a record meeting of London County Association at St. Clement Danes' Mr. A. D. Barker was elected hon, general secre-

The death was announced of Canon A. W. Boulden, of Christ Church, Erith. He gave a new tower and spire and a ring of eight bells to complete the church, where he was incumbent for 28 years.

Contributions were invited in an advert to erect a suitable memorial to Mr. Henry White, of St. Michael's, Basingstoke.

At Hereford the first annual meeting was held and it was stated that Mr. C. Edwards had covered 1,470 miles on a pushbike for the good of ringers and ringing. He was re-elected secretary.

Two trebles—for the blessing of peace—were added to the octave at Llandaff Cathedral and were dedicated by the Lord Bishop.

45-SPLICED S. MAJOR

At Harrow Weald, Middlesex, last Saturday (21st), a peal of 10,080 Spliced S. Major in 45 methods, "all the work," was successfully brought round in 5 hours 36 minutes. It was rung for the Middlesex County Association and conducted by Anthony R. Peake. [Well done!—Ed.]

HIS LAST YEAR!

Elected hon, secretary and treasurer for the 28th time, Mr. Bernard Castle, of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, warned the members last Saturday that this was definitely his last year in that office.

All Saints,
Benhilton,
Sutton, Surrey

Cover Picture All Saints, Benhilton, Surrey

IN THE YEAR 1863 the parish of St. Nicholas, Sutton, was divided into two parishes, the new parish being designated Benhilton. The church was endowed by the once Lord of the Manor of Sutton, Thomas Alcock, and of the Manor of Sutton, Thomas Alecek, and the architect was J. S. Teulon, a well known church designer of the period. Today, All Saints' is considered a very good example of Victorian architecture, and is now on the list of scheduled buildings.

All Saints was consecrated in 1866, and in that year Thomas Alcock presented the church with the tenor bell. A period of 11 years elapsed before anything further was done to increase the number of bells. In 1877 the framework to take a ring of eight was erected in the tower and in the same year the seventh bell was installed. In the succeeding three years the sixth, fifth and fourth bells were added and the third was cast and hung in 1882, but a further 11 years elapsed before the ringers of that time decided to try to raise the money for another bell. A fund was started by the local band and other ringers from the Surrey area. They were very successful and raised enough for the second (which is known as the ringers' bell) and most of the money for the treble. The whole ring was com-pleted in 1893 and is as follows:—

Tenor: 19 cwt. 3 qr., cast by Warner, in E. Seventh: 16 cwt., cast by Warner.
Sixth: 12 cwt., cast by Warner. Fifth: 10 cwt. 1 qr., cast by Gillet & Bland.

Fourth: 8 cwt. 1 qr., cast by Gillet & Bland. Third: 7 cwt. 2 qr., cast by Gillet & Bland. Second: 7 cwt., cast by Warner.
Treble: 6 cwt. 1qr., cast by Warner.

The first peal on the bells was rung in 1895, and the most recent in 1966, but this, unfortunately, not by the local company.

EXTENSIVE SURVEYS

During the last war a number of bombs fell in a complete circle round the church, causing considerable damage. The tower causing considerable damage. The tower itself (built of brick with flint facing) developed several cracks and was considerable weakened, and the movement of the tower during ringing became quite pronounced. In 1948 there were two extensive surveys of the tower, one being by the late Edwin H. Lewis. Various methods of reducing the movement of the tower were suggested, the cost of which, for a permanent job, was between three and five thousand pounds, so, as a temporary measure, and because of the lack of funds. tie-bars were fixed across the tower. cracks were then kept under observation, and were found to be opening, though slowly.

Three years ago, at their annual meeting, the ringers formed a fund-raising committee, in view of the fact that the "go" of the bells was becoming increasingly difficult. From then on a much greater effort was made to increase the bell restoration fund, which had been started in a small way some years before. By the beginning of 1969 the sum required for the restoration was still insufficient, and then a member of the band suggested that a part "do-it-yourself" restoration of the bells might be possible This would save a considerable sum of money, the ringers doing some of the work, and the amount needed might then be within reach.

Reports and estimates were obtained from both bellfounders, and the movement of the tower measured. The reports obtained gave the following points which were carefully considered :-

- 1. Use the existing oak frame, or replace with a new steel frame.
- 2. Lower the bells 7 or 16 feet, the latter requiring the erection of a ringing gallery
- 3. Have a concrete or steel foundation.
- 4. Retune the present ring, or recast into a lighter ring.
- The effect of 1, 2, 3 and 4 on the movement of the tower, which was found to be almost to the limits for safety.

After much discussion between the Vicar and the ringers, it was decided that the following work be carried out:-

Recast into eight, tenor 14 cwt, in F sharp,

Install a new steel frame, which will rest on a reinforced concrete foundation.

Lower the bells seven feet.

The ringers to undertake the lowering of the old bells and deliver to the founders; make the concrete foundation; collect and erect the new steel frame; collect the recast bells and assist the founders with rehanging; replace two timber floors; refit the chiming apparatus.

APPROVED BY P.C.C.

All this was fully approved by the P.C.C. and the ringers went ahead with their plans for the "tower" work. The structural engineering member of the band has designed the concrete foundation, and a full work schedule is planned.

A committee has been formed, and an appeal for £3,000 has been launched. The bells will ring for the last time in their present form on Easter Sunday, and it is hoped they will only be out of action for four months, for the ringers are all set to give their spare time to the work necessary in the tower during the Donations, please, to Rev. P. Penwarden, Benhilton Vicarage, All Saints' Road, Sutton, Surrey, will be most gratefully received.

[We commend this appeal to all ringers and congratulate the organisers on their enthusiasm.—Editor.]

IN THE ARMS OF THE LAW

Mr. John Fidler, of Bow, Devon, phoned us to report that St. Edmund's Church, Exeter, derelict for 20 years, had a ring of eight bells—until February 26, when the four trebles were stolen. They had apparently been carefully removed and lowered by ropes into the crypt and later taken

The Rev. John Scott, Mr. Fidler and the police immediately started an investigation and on Saturday last four men were in the arms of the law for theft and a scrap merchant charged with receiving. Some of the bell metal has been recovered.

"The Year of the Peal" was the comment of the master of the Guildford Guild at the annual dinner on Friday last. A report, with pictures, will appear next week.

A "loving cup" was circulated at the London County Association dinner at the George, London, on Saturday and will be reported in our next issue.

THE VICAR'S TWENTY FIRST

When the Vicar of Hillingdon (Preb. F. C When the Vicar of Hillingdon (Preb. F. C. Tyler) rose to propose the toast to his ringers, the St. John's Guild of Church Bellringers, he stated that this was the 21st occasion he had had the great pleasure of doing so, and he hoped that he would be able to join them on many future gatherings. The occasion was the annual Hillingdon supper, which has been a happy event for many years, each year growing more and more popular.

This year's supper was held at the Masonic Hall at Uxbridge, a company of over 80 sitting down to a four-course meal, well served and much enjoyed. Following the loyal toast the Vicar, who was accompanied by Mrs. Tyler, spoke appreciatively and enthusiastically about the work of his ringers and punctuated his remarks with several well-chosen stories, to the amusement of his audience. audience.

The captain of the guild, a very popular ringer, Mr. Fred Goodfellow, responded to the toast and gave details of the past year's work, which was of a high standard, and he thanked everyone for the support and encouragement extended to him in his leadership.

GUESTS WELCOMED

That cheery and well-loved ringer, Bill Coles (Uncle Bill), in a witty and happy manner welcomed the guests to the Hillingdon supper, and reminisced on similar functions in the past. Some of the amusing stories he told were, he assured the company, absolutely true—although the majority of those present were scentical. sceptical.

Replying for visiting ringers present, the editor of The Ringing World (Mr. C. W. Denyer) expressed suitable thanks and told of the pitfalls into which anyone connected with newspaper work could fall—and he had had well over 40 years' experience in this line.

The curate at Hillingdon (the Rev. Michael Gabriel) responded for the non-ringing guests, and this was followed by a social "get-together which all enjoyed. During an interval in the speeches handbells were rung, and later a taper recording of Treble Bob Sixteen was heard.

The man who has not anything to boast of but his illustrious ancestors is like a potato—the only good belonging to him is underground.—OVERBURY.

About the Central Council

3.—BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

(Messrs. T. J. Lock, D. A. R. May and W. H. Viggers. Mrs. J. Dodds, writer) THIS COMMITTEE is one of the nontechnical committees of the Council. It was formed in 1935 when the Council wished that a record be prepared of past members. giving a short account of their work and, where possible, a photograph. The original committee was Messrs, J. S. Goldsmith, W. A. Cave and Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, and in 1939 Mr. A. C. Hazeldine was added. In 1944 the committee was revived, and in developing the work to include present members of Council much compilation of information has been done by those already mentioned and by Messrs. L. Stilwell, J. Willis and W. H. Viggers in addition, all being at some period members of the committee. So the work of the committee at present is to provide, on specially designed and printed sheets, all known biographical details of all members of Council since its formation in the year 1891. There are some 420 completed biography sheets contained in three ledgers, and from time to time one or other of these ledgers is taken for display at a Council meeting.

TRUE AND FACTUAL

Each elected member of Council receives a sheet requesting full name and informa-tion as to date of birth, when and where ringing was commenced, any Association offices held, date and place of first peal, number of peals rung to date, etc. (They have not yet been asked their means of central heating!) This sheet forms the basis of the biographical record and from this point the committee adds such relevant information as becomes available. Some such information is not always easy to come by, and certain items are definitely withheld, but the committee is always reluctant to include in records any unsubstantiated or hearsay matter until confirmation is forth-This is mentioned to indicate the desire of the committee that all entries in the records are true and factual.

Except perhaps for one's own special personal interests—be it sport, or finance, or politics, etc.—it is generally agreed that the most appreciated section of a newspaper is that which prints readers' letters. In local papers we read the views of people we know, about matters of which we have personal knowledge. In the national press we read the views of well-known people about matters of national concern. In The Ringing World we can have the best of both worlds. The Exercise is by its special interest such a closely-knit community that events and opinions of ringers everywhere are followed with close interest by almost all of us.

It is, therefore, evident that the Editor, supported by the R.W. Committee, will encourage the use of these columns to the greatest possible extent. But there are certain conventions which our correspondents must please bear in mind when writing to us, if they wish to be reasonably sure that their letters will be published. We now that letter writers have made an anort, usually for the intended good of the xercise and, therefore, of The Ringing World, and the last thing the Editor or the committee would wish is that they should then be disappointed.

Some 12 months ago, before I became convener, the Committee decided that scurious letters were not to be published. At meeting last August this decision was

Mr. T. J. Lock (convener)

The committee work is divided into four sections, and it is being done by three elected members of Council and one non-member who has been co-opted because of her special talents in handwriting. One member retains the ledgers, all the biography sheets, photographs, a Council attendance book, etc., and receives and files press cuttings and other papers pertaining to the work of the committee. The second member's main task is to collect these press cuttings—chiefly from the pages of The Ringing World—and the other cuttings and pass them on. The third member has the duty of preparing the draft of the final biography sheets after a member of the Council has died. At this point it is, of course, hoped that all the biographical details of the deceased member have been recorded, but in practice this is not always so and the collection of such missing information is all too often a painstaking and time-consuming effort, let alone sometimes fruitless. As the committee is given no financial allocation, a visit to Somerset House, for example, is out of the question. The reader could be reminded here of merely one instance—a representative has been a member of Council for one or two triennial sessions and after some unspecified period resigns or retires from ringing, moves his place of residence or otherwise breaks his contact with the ringing Exercise and so becomes "lost" In the years following, when death is eventually presumed although no record may have been published, the committee starts making some further enquiries, and sifts out whatever information has been gathered.

When all available information is entered on the draft biography sheet it is forwarded to the calligrapher to prepare the final sheet, which is then placed alphabetically in one of the ledgers.

The work of the committee is continuous. even day to day, because a casual conversation can lead to finding out directly or indirectly some missing information. committee, of course, cannot carry all this desired information in their heads, but a mental or written retainer and then reference to the biography sheets is the obvious method of procedure. Much care has to be taken with nomenclatures as Mr. A. C. could be, for example, either Alfred Cecil or Arthur Charles—two quite different persons. Even the letter "e" at the end of a surname needs to be scrutinised. So it might now be appreciated that to assist the committee in its work an unlimited number of agents in all quarters would be most useful, but the information supplied must be reliable and factual. The committee would certainly appreciate news, of any Council member, which normally would go no further than the parish magazine or the local paper.

OUR LETTER COLUMNS

confirmed and, as reported in the R.W. of August 29, 1969 (page 667), the Editor was requested to continue to refer doubtful letters to the Committee before publication. The Editor is the first judge of what is doubtful, so this in no way detracts from his position as Editor, but it protects him from any readers who object to nonpublication. I believe that our new Editor has been and is glad to have this support and help.

THE BLUE PENCIL

The following facts about readers' letters have become more apparent to me during the last few months, when I have been more closely concerned and incidentally have made me more aware of the debt the Exercise owes to my predecessors. I hope that mention of them will help our correspondents and save them disappointment.

Many readers complain about the Editor's blue pencil. They accept this, willingly or not, for articles and reports, but feel that letters must be published as written, or not at all. At the moment of going to press, however, the Editor has, and must have, full say in what is printed and what is omitted. He will not wittingly alter the sense of a letter, but if a paragraph or sentence is, in his opinion, better left unsaid, then he must have the authority to delete it. If you are not prepared to accept this will you please te!l the Editor "All or None" and then leave it to his judgment.

Many readers complain that the Editor is fettered by the Committee and it has even been suggested that he has been the subject of disciplinary action by the Committee. This of course is completely untrue good editors who might be willing to do the job we want for the return we can give them are too precious to discipline like that. And the whole success of our paper depends on the close and friendly collaboration of Editor and Committee. The only instruction to the Editor has been as indicated above. A clause in the contract which has recently been signed by me on behalf of the Committee and by the Editor himself, each advised by our legal representatives, gives the Editor "full power to invite, accept or reject any contribution on any subject relating to bells, bellringing or ringers or otherwise suitable for publication." This is the standard form of clause usual in such contracts and is binding on both parties. In case of doubt the Editor naturally consults the Committee or their convener. Whatever the Editor prints, the Committee will support him, even though, on subsequent reflection, they may decide as a matter of policy that certain things shall not be printed in future.

By another clause in the contract the Editor must "take all reasonable precautions to prevent the insertion in any issue of the newspaper of any libellous . . . matter . . . " Both the writer and the pubmatter... Both the writer and the publisher of a libel are equally liable in law. The R.W., is of course insured against damages for libel, but it is most unlikely that the letter writer is. So this precaution is clearly for your protection as well as for the good name of the R.W. I can imagine the average reader saying that such a clause must be quite unnecessary and that surely in a body like the Exercise people do not write libellous letters for publication. I can assure you that they do and that in the last few weeks the Editor has had several letters which, if published, would most certainly have been libellous. I personally regret to think that any member of our Exercise would allow himself to write them.

READ BY NON-RINGERS

We must always remember that the prime reason for the ringing Exercise is in the service of the Church, and that our newspaper should contain nothing that will detract from that service. The R.W. is read by many people, clergy as well as laity, who will judge us by what they read. Does not Lord Arran say it is his favourite paper—or something like that? Such readers will not know enough about the person or subject written about to be able to make allowances. So we should remember that however critical our comments may be about a performance, or an event, or a technical subject, or even another ringer or band, there must be no doubt in the reader's mind that the letter is written without malice, or jealousy, or intention to be hurtful. We have all read letters which left a nasty taste behind them. Sometimes they are followed by an apology—a welcome sign. Unfortunately a correction never catches up—the damage is done.

Please try to make your letters brief: readable as well as legible; to the point yet polite; avoid unpleasant personalities; and when you write in anger don't post your letter until you have read it through some 24 hours later. You will often, I am sure, not then post it, saving yourself postage

MEETINGS REARRANGED

The February meeting of Biggleswade District of Bedfordshire Association was held at Potton on Saturday, 14th. The at-tendance was lower than of late, possibly due to the prevailing weather conditions. Mr. R. V. Webb was ringing master during the afternoon, after which a most welcome tea was partaken of in the nearby hall, which had been prepared by the local ladies.

Mr. S. Ashton was in the chair for the business meeting which followed, during which the new secretary (Mr A. H. Smith) stated that he had received a letter from the Association president, Mr. A. E. Rushton, expressing his thanks for the "get well" wishes which had been conveyed to him after the annual meeting. The towers for the next three monthly meetings were rearranged, resulting from problems which had arisen with regard to tea provision. The chairman reported that Mr. P. Rogers hoped to be able to publish the details of the proposed district outing at the March meeting.

Further ringing continued until the bells were lowered at 8.45 p.m., and Mr. C. D. Mann was ringing master for the evening M.L.M. session.

and disappointment and the Editor much worry. I know that he does not like rejecting contributions from our readers.

A while back the Exercise was plagued with reports of hoax peals. Now it seems to be the turn of the correspondence columns. Letters sent to stir things up; letters perhaps to take advantage of the new Editor before he gets to know all the ropes; letters sometimes with names or addresses which do not bear full investigation, or making unsupported implications. all add to our burdens and difficulties, reducing the service we are able to give to you all. And if they get through unsuspected they will cause distress to the people concerned and harm to the R.W. and the

A LIMITED BUDGET

Finally, do please remember that the aim of the Editor is to produce the best possible paper for you, its readers. It can never be easy to go on producing, on a limited budget, a full size newspaper every week. year by year, maintaining the quality and interest, while almost completely dependent on the material sent in by members of the Exercise. If you work out the proportion of reading matter to advertisements you will find that it greatly exceeds the corresponding proportion of many other weeklies, even those which are much larger and much more expensive. The aim of the R.W. Committee is equally to serve the readers of the paper; to ensure by careful management that it can continue to appear in spite of all the difficulties of rising costs; to try to increase its circulation and therefore its viability; and to support the Editor in his difficult task. Thanks to the completely voluntary work of the Committee and its predecessors, and to the unselfish help of many of our readers, the R.W. has almost reached its Diamond Jubilee and has outlived many other weeklies which have had much greater financial backing. This, to me, is proof of the fundamental soundness of heart of the large majority of our readers.

We therefore ask all our correspondents to help the Editor and the Committee in their task—not, please, to make it more difficult. WILFRID G. WILSON.

A WORTHWHILE EFFORT

An organised campaign for fund raising. using our Journal as a medium, is being carried out this coming weekend at Benhilton, Surrey, whose tower is depicted on our front cover. An extra 500 copies of The Ringing World have been printed and these, with additional suitable literature inserted, will be distributed in and around the area. appealing for funds to recast and rehang the ring of eight. Details can be read on page 166.

RHODESIAN GUILD

Writing to thank Tom White for his services to the Exercise as Editor of the R.W., Mr. Roger Thomson, of Salisbury, C.5, adds: "We are so far away from the centre of ringing that we are glad to see so much about overseas ringers and ringing in the R.W. Having only two towers in Rhodesia, we feel a little left out, but the promptness with which any article about ringing ir. Rhodesia is printed shows that we have not been forgotten.'

[Why not send us a black and white photo of your ringers and details, Roger. We all would like to see it.-Ed.]

Obituary

YOUNG RINGER'S DEATH

One is always saddened by the news of the death of a fellow ringer, but never more so than when the one concerned is so young. Amanda Bray started ringing at St. Mary-le-Wigford Church, Lincoln, about a year ago, shortly before her 12th birthday. After learning to handle a bell she came regularly to the weekly practices and Sunday service ringing. Some weeks ago she was admitted to Sheffield Royal Infirmary, where she had to undergo an operation on her brain, and she passed away early on Friday morning, February 13. The funeral service was on the following Tuesday at St. Giles Methodist Church, Lincoln, and on the same evening St. Mary's ringers paid their tribute to her memory with a half-muffled quarter peal. In her short ringing career Mandy was not able to reach even her first quarter - time, for her, ran out too soon; but her cheery smile and contribution to our ringing will long be remembered

A. W. F.

BERNICE HYDE

"She was a wonderfully happy girl and her happiness somehow never left her. She lived for only 17½ years, but she lived them to the full. I think we at St. John's have had someone in our midst the like of whom we may never see again.

So wrote Canon D. Oldaker, Vicar of St. John's, Sidcup, about Bernice Hyde, who died recently after a long illness. A Queen's Guide and an assistant Guider, she was a regular ringer at St. John's and could plain hunt, having started ringing a year or so ago. It was last September that she was taken seriously ill whilst on holiday and leukæmia was diagnosed. Bernice spent most of her remaining life in Queen Mary's Hospital, Sidcup.

An only child, she was to have taken her "A" levels this year and hoped to have joined the W.R.A.F., her father having served in the R.A.F. On the day of the funeral the local ringers rang a half-muffled quarter peal. The sympathy of all will be extended to her parents.

PROGRESS AT ROCHFORD

Philip Bedford has been training a young team at Rochford since 1967, originally on the old three and later on the lively little Taylor eight installed in 1968. His tuition enabled the tower to conquer the basic Doubles methods and the youngsters are venturing towards methods on higher numbers of bells, which are attempted when outside help is available

Unfortunately for Rochford, Phil's career has taken him to Birmingham, and a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on his last day in Essex as an au revoir.

It has been his ambition for some years to ring two bells to a quarter, an ambition which was successful in the Rochford quarter at the first attempt, for he rang the second and third bells.

The quarter was conducted by Peter Sloman, late of Prittlewell, who recently moved into the Rochford area, and he has been elected captain in place of Phil, and his enthusiasm will maintain the progress being made at Rochford.

Recent interest among the local Boy Scouts group has provided an unusual number of beginners and two extra weekly practices on silenced bells to cope with the influx are being held.

D. A. B.

THE LATE MR. J. S. CARTER

(An Appreciation)

The characters in our society are rarely the products of conformity. They are the colourful, odd-shaped pegs in a dull world of monotonous round holes. Their strength of character is the strength of individuality and seldom are they found drifting along on the currents that carry the masses.

Such a man was Joe Carter, of Wigston Magna. For nearly 40 years this slight, passionate man was the driving force behind Wigston Magna's great reputation for advanced method ringing. Both his physical movements and delicately hatched features Possessed a sensitive brittleness that suggested something of the man. So also did the kind and generous eyes.

As a ringer he was a perfection and there were many who found it impossible to attain his standards. Outwardly, his manner was clipped and tense, and the visitor to Wigston was left in no doubt that ringing at All Saints was a serious affair. To those who really knew him, however, his sometimes turbulent façade concealed a deep faith, emotion and compassion, together with a delightful humour.

There was nothing devious about him. His opinions were directly expressed—sometimes devastatingly so. He had no time for humbug, and his unique brand of integrity was known to arouse no little uneasiness among some of the more political members of the Exercise.

As a composer he was a purist with a strong distaste for messy method construction. The God Whose glory he composed and rang for was very real to him, and only the best was good enough. The strong influence of the methods he loved is evident in his own Surprise and Delight compositions which, however complex, are remarkable for their clean construction and great musical virtues.

who enjoyed the privilege of his company and teaching he will remain an unforget-table personality. To others his name will live on wherever the music of his methods it head. The immense contribution he made to the art of change-ringing must assure him of an honoured place in its history.

C. P. W.

THE RECORD AT HARROW WEALD (February 21, 1970)

Mr. C. W. Woolley, of Bushey Heath, writes:

Being privileged to act as an umpire for this peal, I can testify that it was well and truly rung. Apart from checking lead-ends, I had provided myself with a list of the methods in place-notation, and checked all but a very few leads row by row. I am quite certain that the composition was adhered to and the methods listed were correctly performed.

After a false start of just over two leads, the band went into changes at 1.25 p.m. The striking was excellent. The speed, which quickened slightly during the first two parts, thereafter kept very constant at just over 30 changes to the minute. Trips were few and were corrected within a whole pull or two. Most, I think, would have passed unnoticed had the striking been less perfect. The peal came round just after 7 p.m. in just under 5 hours 36 minutes. Altogether a thoroughly competent performance.

The composition, on the plan first devised by Norman Smith, contained 45 Surprise methods, varying in difficulty from Cambridge up to such methods as Glasgow and Belfast. Each bell performed all the work of each method. Further, the tenors were often parted at the lead-ends, which makes any method rather more tricky. At one point only—and this within three leads of the finish—the tenors came together behind for a single dodge the "wrong" way.

The general air of quiet confidence in the calling, the steadiness of the ringing and lack of any signs of nerves near the end (when there was surely more anxiety outside the tower than in), all made it hard to realise that one had been listening to the greatest performance ever in Surprise Major Hearty congratulations to the composer and conductor, Tony Peake; to the other members of the band and, in particular, to John Mayne, who thus crowns his achievements in his old home tower.

A WELDING JOB!

The Leicester Mercury published a report on the damage caused to a 15th century bell when it was dropped outside the Parish Church at Ingoldmells, Lincoln, recently. It says:—

It says:—
"The village church's bells had cost £3.000 to be restored at the Loughborough Foundry and had just arrived back at the village after travelling on a lorry belonging to haulage contractors

"A spokesman for the foundry, Mr. A.
E. Clayton, said: 'Our people were inside the church and the driver was outside.

"The next thing we knew was that this 15th century bell had fallen on to the road and it cracked. No one knew how it happened.

"It is only a small bell, about a foot in diameter in the mouth and is not hung in the same way in the belfry as the other bells. It is only used for small services." "He added: 'I do not know how much it

"He added: 'I do not know how much it will cost to repair the bell, but it will be welded.

"There is a research institute at Cambridge which has perfected a technique of welding cracked bells. It is very tricky and takes an expert to do it."

"Will it ever sound the same again? 'It will sound just the same as it did before,' said Mr. Clayton said Mr. Clayton.

"And it will not cost the villagers a penny more? 'The cost of repairing it will just have to be sorted out elsewhere,' said Mr. Clayton."

MR. H. MITCHELL

"Bert," as he is known, learned to ring at Romsey but moved to Bournemouth in the early '20s. He took over the captaincy of St. John's, Surrey Road, 25 years ago and has cared for the bells and belfry ever since. He has taught innumerable young people and some are well-known personalities in ringing circles today.

Unfortunately several of his present band are leaving for university this year, but no doubt Bert will find others and continue teaching, which he enjoys as much as ringing peals and advanced methods,

In his early days at Romsey he was paid to ring the knell (passing bell) and also the curfew. He also rang for the wedding of Lord and Lady Mountbatten, whose home is at Romsey.

THE BELLS OF PARIS

If you would receive from the old city an impression which the modern one is quite incapable of giving you, ascend, on the morning of some great holiday, at sun-rise, on Easter or Whitsunday, to some elevated point from which your eye can command the whole capital, and attend the awakening of the chimes. Behold, at a signal from heaven - for it is the sun that gives it-those thousand churches starting from their sleep. At first you hear only scattered tinklings going from church to church, as when musicians are giving one another notice to begin. Then, all on a sudden, behold—for there are moments when the ear itself seems to see-behold, ascending at the same moment from every steeple a column of sound, as it were, a cloud of harmony. At first the vibration of each bell mounts up direct, clear and, as it were, isolated from the rest into the splendid morning sky. Then by degrees as they expand they mingle, unite, are lost in each other, and confounded in one magnificent concert. Then it is all one mass of sonorous vibrations, incessantly sent forth from the innumerable steeples — floating, undulating, bounding and eddying over the town, and extending far beyond the horizon the deafening circle of its oscillations. . . Here, certainly, is an opera worth hearing. Ordinarily, the murmur that escapes from Paris in the daytime is the city talking; in the night it is the city breathing; but here it is the city singing.—VICTOR HUGO.

PEALS—AN OBSESSION?

Dear Sir, - I venture to apply pen to paper in the knowledge that reams of newsprint have already been utilised for the use of bolts by those for and against the ringing of peals. Having rung a mere 40-odd peals in the course of 25 years, I have read correspondence with interest and, until now, had no intention of presenting my views.

However, on reading Mr. Freeman's remarks on the occasion of the Royal Cumberland Youths' annual dinner, I feel 1mpelled towards the field of events pertaining to the subject. In his speech it is recorded of Mr. Freeman ... if you care for teaching beginners and if you encourage peal ringing. Sunday service ringing will follow from that."

With respect to the speaker, I cannot help feeling that in this particular remark Mr. Freeman misjudges priority. that Sunday service ringing follows peals indicates that the science of changes-hours of continuous ringing-supersedes all other activities.

I fear that the embryo of the art has waxed into an obsession relevant to a mundane creature of powerful hypnotic influ-Many of its disciples are so wholly and irrecoverably immersed in its mysteries. the original purpose of bells is surely being trodden into unrecognisable forms. In many instances Sunday service ringing becomes another excuse for extending practices.

Let me add that I am not against the ringing of peals, but never have I accepted peals as the be-all and end-all of a bellringer's career. Obsession, like over-eating. is a bad master; moderation, like a balanced diet. and occasional fast, clears and extends the inner vision.

From my own experience in ringing peals and from observing others, peal ringing is motivated to a large degree by the amassing of personal records. Accomplishment of a peal is a positive tonic for one's ego. Furthermore, to qualify for the entry of those magic figures of 25, 50, 100, etc., elevates the successful exponent to the upper rungs of the ladder. A good round figure can well place a ringer fairly and squarely in the social standing of campanological spheres.

Peal ringing affords certain fascinations ... Sunday service ringing, to many, is rather less rewarding, but there are those who prefer to "choose that better part. They have their priorities in correct se-

During the last 23 years I have taught 140 young people the rudiments of bellringing. To each aspirant I have explained at the outset that his or her first duty is participation in Sunday service ringing. If they are not willing then out they go! All else, according to the aspirants' degree of enthusiasm, follows that privileged duty. At March we have had ringers who have not been too careful in bell handling. There have also been ringers whose action and effect has been inspiring to behold and

MERIT OR PATRONAGE

Dear Sir, The committee now engaged in examining the constitution of the Central Council would do well to enquire into the patronage and favouritism which abound in the appointment of honorary members from amongst the Council's friends and relations.

That I have been banned is of little importance either to me personally or to the Exercise in general, and whether or not I deserved honorary membership is not only a matter of opinion but entirely beside the

What, however, is of the utmost importance is that a member of the Council put forward my name, and I hasten to add that I only learned of this some years later, but an officer of the Council turned down the suggestion out of hand and forbade my 'sponsor' to proceed with his intention.

What happened in my case could well happen again, and there are ringers more deserving of recognition. I was glad to note that, perhaps a little belatedly, the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild has recently honoured one of them whom the Council would be pleased to count amongst its number were it to elect and not select its members.-Yours faithfully.

R. H. DOVE.

It cannot be said that those elected by the Council as honorary members have no special qualification for election.—Ed.]

though a full team existed during that time. March bells have been continually manned since the time they were installed in 1802. In 168 years approximately 12 ringers from this tower have taken part in peals, and of the 140 people who have learned to ring here since 1947 only six have actually dis-played some sort of interest in the local Association. All have taken part in outings by the local team—over 60 excursions in all. Sixty-five quarter peals have been rung on the six bells by the local ringers, 62 prior to morning prayer. Two peals have been rung on the bells by Sunday service teams.

Sunday service ringing is always rated first and practice second. This is usually accepted by our young folk. Association activities are advertised and usually transport is available, but most of the ringers prefer to devote their additional time to other interests. They certainly have no use for peals. This follows the pattern over the last 17 decades. But rarely have we looked Like most towers, we have our problems: but through all those decades special emphasis underlines the importance of Sunday service ringing. As yet it has not failed. This, I think, is creditable. It has been achieved without the incentive of peal ringing, and by this I believe a more worthwhile satisfaction prevails. Personal achievement is set aside in the knowledge that obsession and faith, like grease and water, are opposed. One ought to approach these matters with a clear understanding and allow the important and original conception a free rein.

Personal achievement with particular relationship to Church activities is undesirable. It needs to be played down. It can and does give rise to selfish motives. Peal ringing before Sunday service ringing is to begin at the top. How many are truly able to "descend" to the simple and dutiful task and testify to that act as priority? Science blinds! Must we place self-satisfaction first? I think not. If I did I would certainly have endeavoured in the last decade to ring three or four peals that I might reach my first round figure of 50.—Yours faithfully, March, Cambs. TREVOR A. BEVIS.

MR. TAYLOR REPLIES

Dear Sir,-It is obvious that the subject of peals has raised so many issues that they cannot be adequately dealt with in the R.W May I be permitted a little space to reply to those who mentioned my name in these columns?

I am sorry that several of them did not read what I wrote. I expressly said that I was not against all peal ringing. The point I wished to make is that peal ringing is essentially a hobby which serves many useful ends, particularly that of providing a goal to aim at. But it is carried on by courtesy of the church. Ringers seem forget very often that they are using £4,000worth of equipment or more, and this is a great privilege. Steeplekeeping, training of learners and Sunday service ringing all must come first. Who will rehang the bells when they are worn out? The job inevitably falls to those who love the church and its bells.

Mr. Hunt: I am very glad that the peal ringers of Bristol are the backbone of Sunday service ringing. I am sorry that you consider me uneducated (uninformed would have done). I am not jealous of peal ringing and have rung several. If I gave up other more important activities I could ring peals most weekends.

Mr. Thoday: I did not say that the majority of peal ringers were of little service to the Exercise. I said there was a minority who rang for purely selfish reasons.

Mr. Fellows: I obviously cannot say in public where I formed my impressions of the selfishness of a small minority of peal collectors. I can only assure him that I met several during the '40s and '50s. It is clear that conditions vary widely over the country. It is good news that those who ring the peals in Derby and the West Midlands are loyal servants of the Church. I found the same when I visited East Anglia recently. I am glad that my letter brought these facts to light.

Finally, may I say that I believe the ringing of peals to be interesting, in fact fascinating, that they improve your ringing like nothing else, and that they are a real challenge in these days of "spectatoritis," but they should not be the chief aim of either individual ringers or the Exercise as a whole.—Yours faithfully,

Cheltenham. ERIC J. TAYLOR.

YAXLEY ALLIANCE

Dear Sir, - If Mr. Pashley invests in a C.C.C.B. Minor Book he will find that in Yaxley Alliance the treble dodges only in 5/6, thereby making up the required extra changes with the treble in 5/6, in a spliced 720 with Little Bob Minor.—Yours faith-

GEOFFREY R. DREW Tewkesbury, Glos.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Dear Sir,-The reference on page 123 of The Ringing World to two sets of hand-bells offered for use to Service personnel in S.H.A.E.F. interested me very much.

If anyone can shed further light on the whereabouts of these bells and can let me know whether either of the sets is available for use in a school run for the children of Servicemen in the British N.A.T.O. forces in Europe I shall be pleased to receive information.—Yours faithfully,

J. R. WORRALL. Deputy Headmaster.

HANDBELLS AND REPAIRS

Mr. Michael King, of Wentworth Vicarage, Rotherham, Yorks, has written re handbells and their repair:—

Are we witnessing some new heavy handbell ringing peal efforts or a printer's error, repeated quite frequently? Recently I have noticed the tenor handbell as 27 in A in some peal reports. This surely should read as 17 in A. The heaviest handbell size (Mears/Stainbank and Taylor numbering) is 29 C/C sharp (or have they now resorted to an even heavier bell, 30 B?). No 27 is the E note: 17 in A is an octave above the 25 A size.

If, however, it is the 25 A size that these ringers are using as their tenor bell then they must be near to setting up a record for the heaviest "ring" of handbells rung to a full peal. Incidentally, has a full peal ever been rung on the octave, in C, from 22 C (as treble) to 29 C (tenor)?

To another matter—that of cracked handbells. The school at where I teach has a very skilled metalwork master who has very successfully restored two of the school's set of 61 handbells (28 D and 26 F sharp bells, these two being large bass bells, costing over £25 to have recast). Both bells are now once more back in the set. I thought it might be of use to let all handbell ringers know of our way in restoring these bells.

First, locate the full extent of the crack.

Secondly, clean the area around the crack either with metal polish or on the buffer.

Thirdly, drill a small hole (not to exceed \(\frac{1}{6}\)\", if that) through the side of the bell about \(\frac{1}{6}\)\" up from the crack (this will have the effect of preventing the crack from spreading, a likely problem during the next two stages). Clean away all the chippings from the drilling.

Fourthly, using a fine metal saw, cut down the crack. This is the hardest and longest part of the "operation" and requires skill, care and patience. Cut until the drilled-out hole has been reached. The bell should be fixed in the vice for this job.

Fifthly, taking care not to apply excessive heat, apply a silver solder to the crack (that is, after making sure it is clean after the fourth stage). A soft solder, although of a lower melting point, is not suitable for this lob. During the soldering the leather handle may become a casualty.

Sixthly, after soldering allow the bell to cool and then proceed to clean the bell, preferably on the buffer (we have found that using the buffing machine is not detrimental to the bells). If the handle has become a casualty either obtain fresh leather or, as we have done, fix a wooden handle to the bell. Finally, reinsert the clapper which, naturally, had been removed in the first place.

Result: your bell should still be in tune and ringable again. If the crack was in line with the clapper try to align the clapper to hit away from the former crack, especially at the initial try-outs.

It is obvious, I hope, that the above can only be undertaken by someone skilled in silver soldering and general metalwork as

Cathedral Master Retires

The Provost of Derby (Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes) on left with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Mr. John Stennit (right).

If Harold Taylor, ringing master at Derby Cathedral for 21 years, had had any notion of what was in store when he decided to retire at the end of 1969 he would bave changed his mind and continued in office, for the Cathedral ringers decided that this event could not go unmarked. Together with the Cathedral authorities plans were made to pay tribute to Harold and to make a presentation at a reception in the Chapter House. This took place on Sunday, February 1st, about 50 friends and members of the Cathedral staff being gathered together.

MAYOR WAS GUEST

The annual meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch of the Hereford Guild took place at Bridgnorth on February 7. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was at St. Leonard's and St. Mary's, with the service at St. Leonard's, which was taken by the rector (Rev. D. Philipott), who gave an address. Tea, provided by the wives of St. Leonard's ringers, was served in the Old Grammar School. A guest at tea was the Mayor of Bridgnorth, Cclr. Michael Ridley, who expressed pleasure at being present. At the meeting which followed the officers elected were: ringing master, Mr. Harold Thomas; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Joan Bennett; committee representative for the Hereford Guild, Mr. Alec Osbaldiston, who was also elected deputy ringing master; auditor, Mr. Alan Elsmore. The retiring ringing master, Mr. Alan Jones, was thanked for his past services. Thanks were also expressed to the rector, Dr. David Davies (organist), the ladies for providing tea, and Rev. G. Abel, Vicar of St. Mary's, for use of his bells.

well; at my school, I will admit, we do have the facilities for such a repair job and also the skilled craftsman to execute the moneysaving repair. To have had the two bass bells recast would have cost us over £50. Now, for nothing, Ecclesfield Comprehensive School has a full, complete 61-bell set from 29 C up to 01 C.

I'll be interested to hear if any other handbell ringers have been able to repair their cracked bells in the manner described above, rather than having to go through the expense of recasting.

The Provost of Derby, in making the presentation of a beautiful silver salver, paid tribute to Mr. Taylor's loyalty and devotion. Thanking everyone for the gift, Harold was more brief in his reply than he had intended, being overcome by the occasion.

On behalf of Cathedral ringers, past and present, Mr. Gordon Halls told of Harold's achievements as ringing master. He learned to ring at St. Alkmund's, Derby, 40 years ago, but soon afterwards moved to the Cathedral where, with three brothers, he formed the nucleus of the band. After the wartime ban was lifted he resumed bellringing, under the leadership of Mr. James Paget, but the band had become depleted and it was only on rare occasions that all ten bells were rung.

In 1948 Harold became ringing master.

and since that time the band has increased in both numbers and capabilities. Nor has this improvement been confined to the Cathedral: other ringers outside Derby have advanced their capabilities and the diocese has benefited.

Mr. Taylor, in his early sixties, is employed by Bemrose and Son Ltd., printers, of Derby, and is married and has two sons and three grandchildren. He has rung about 300 peals—about 230 for the Derby Diocesan Association—and has held many offices in the Association, He led the Cathedral team in the diocesan bellringing competition—the Horsley Cup—which they have won three times since 1961.

The retirement of a popular ringing master is a sad occasion but the band is thriving and has many enthusiasts. He is handing over to one of the young enthusiasts, Mr. David Friend, and we hope that for many years to come Harold will continue to be one of the band. Later in the same week Mr. Taylor was interviewed by "Radio Nottingham" for the programme "All People."

ATTENDANCE IMPROVED

The attendance at meetings of Llandaff Branch of Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association continue to improve, and at St. Augustine's, Penarth, on February 14, 57 "signed the book" at the A.G.M. This figure has been beaten on few occasions by the branch since its formation in 1953, but we still have a long haul to better the 78 at a "quarterly" at Cowbridge in September, 1957, or to equal the numbers regularly notched up by the Monmouth Branch. Of our 21 towers, 13 were represented: Bridgend, Cadoxton, Cardiff (St. John's), Coity, Llanbleddian, Llandaff Cathedral, Llantwit Major, Merthyr Tydfil, Neath, Newton Nottage, Penarth, Porthkerry and Whitchurch.

Ringing on the pleasant, light octave (tenor 12-2-9 in F sharp) commenced at 2.15 p.m., with the Association and branch master, Mr. W. T. Petty (Bridgend), in charge. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. L. Griffiths, and the lessons were read by Mr. D. J. Godfrey (Coity) and the branch hon, secretary. Tea was served by Mrs. Y. Apsitis and other ladies of the tower and congregation, after which the rector presided over the business meeting.

Mr. E. Morris (Neath) reported on progress made towards the initiation of a branch ringing competition, and it was decided to set up a sub-committee from towers which have signified their intention to enter.

The branch hon, secretary, presenting his report, stated that membership showed a pleasing increase on the year, paid-up members numbering 198 as against 155.

Peals rung totalled 44, including seven of Caters and three of Royal. Leading pealers were Mr. S. Fenwick (28) and Mr. N. W. H. Simon (27) (Llandaff Cathedral) and leading conductors were Mr. N. W. H. Simon (10) and Mr. T. P. Edwards (Pentre) (9). Peal "milestones" for the Association included: 200, Mr. T. T. Yeomans (Cardiff); 175, Mr. N. W. H. Simon; 150, Mr. W. T. Petty and Mr. D. Llewellyn (Porthkerry); 100, Mr. T. P. Edwards. Special congratulations were accorded Mr. W. Dare (Whitchurch), ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples at Caerphilly on July 19, the 50th anniversary of his first peal, in the same tower.

This year's first-pealers were: Miss Lynne Parker (Llandaff), Mr. M. J. Clarke (Llantwit Major), Mr. C. F. Cooke (Penmark) and Mr. P. Johnson (Whitchurch), and Mr. S. Fenwick scored his "first as conductor." Peals had been rung for the Investiture of the Prince of Wales, at Bridgend, Cardiff. Llandaff, Radyr and Whitchurch.

The hon. secretary commented with approval on the implementation (with the active co-operation of the Dean, the Very Rev. G. L. Phillips) of the scheme to invite individual towers in the diocese to ring for Cathedral evensong at Llandaff on the first Saturday of each month, and he also thanked the Association's general secretary, Mr. M. J. Pryor (Cardiff), and peal recorder, Mr. D. Llewellyn, for their hard work.

Eight new members were accepted. Mr. Nevil James (Llandaff) was elected branch master, and the branch hon. secretary and the auditor, Mr. T. M. Roderick (Newton Nottage), were re-elected, the latter as C.C. representative for a further three years from 1971.

It was agreed to hold quarterly meetings at Caerphilly, Porthkerry and Radyr and the 1971 A.G.M. at Cowbridge, After the meeting closed ringing continued at St. Augustine's and at Sully.

45-Year Record

Forty-five years ago the East Shilton, Leics, Parish Church Handbell Ringers were formed. Now all 65 years of age, the same four — Messrs. E. Chesterton, P. Coe, W. Sturgess and G. Newton (captain for 40 years)—are still ringing together.

They entered the East Shilton belfry in 1922 and were taught to handle bells by the late Mr. C. Belton. Two years later they were introduced at Croft to handbell ringing by the late Mr. Webb. In 1924 the East Shilton Church of England Men's Society was presented with a set of handbells and these have never been used by anyone else but the present quartet.

The object of the band is to help people less fortunate than themselves, and their large repertoire consists of hymns, carols and old time favourites. They give their services to play for hospital patients, old people's groups, bazaars and fetes. According to Mr. Newton, if the organisation which invites them provides transport they never charge for their services. On two occasions they have given programmes in Leicester Prison. It is the music of this band that introduces the Sunday morning programme on Radio Leicester.

Only two of the men read music and in consequence the number system of notation is employed. For many years Mr. Sturgess has been partly deaf and cannot properly hear what he is playing, but by constant practice this difficulty has been overcome.

For 45 years they have been shedding happiness around the district, and a special service of tape-recordings of their playing has been provided by Mr. Newton for the entertainment of the sick and infirm in their village.

IN THE FIELD

A well-illustrated article on bellringing appeared in the Christmas number of The Field and had been well prepared before publication. Explaining to the layman the preliminaries to ringing, the writer continues: "We are about to pour out over the countryside the loudest man-made sound which goes in praise of God. . . . all over Britain ringers have gathered week by week and the purpose is the same whether from ancient rural towers, from silvery steeples as in the cities, from red raw-brick belfries in new towns or from sooty spires above crowded streets in northern valleys."

The writer goes on to tell the story known so well to ringers—of the mixed team of young and old, of ringing up the bells and the methods that are rung. It endeavours to explain change-ringing, "the coloured sallies leaping and falling like a chorus of rhythmic snakes."

It mentions the swaying towers and solid ones and of Chewton Mendip as a "grand, steady old tower as solid as any in the west . . ." The dangers which beset the uninitiated are explained and such Societies as the Ancient Society of College Youths and its library in St. Paul's Cathedral are given special place. The Clerical Guild and the mixture of persons and personalities, the variety of civil and military callings, are all spoken of, and the Central Council as the authoritative body. The article was probably written some time ago as Canon Thurlow is given as president. although Mr. John Freeman now holds that exalted office,

The illustrations are excellent, depicting Mr. Harry Preece, aged 90, of Stoke Lacy. Hereford—a ringer for 77 years—and the ringers' gallery of Maids Moreton, Bucks. Another picture shows four ringers performing in the belfry at Shoreditch. A most delightful and attractive illustration of 9-years-old Catherine Davis, of Christchurch Priory, shows her handling a rope whilst her father, Arthur Davis, stands nearby ready to help if required—and with a proud expression on his face!

Altogether these $2\frac{1}{2}$ pages make interesting and informative reading.

AGE AND YOUTH

Mr. George (Tom) Wigmore, of All Saints, Wokingham, who is 80 and has been ringing for 70 years, photographed by the R.W. at the Sonning Deanery meeting recently, together with 10-years-old Judith Burkey. who was elected a member at the meeting. Mr. Wigmore joined the Oxford Guild in 1905, having taught himself to ring at Thatcham in 1899 by pulling the bell up and letting it down again. He rang for the victory of the Boer War and Ted Wills was then foreman. Later he and George went to Bucklebury and helped there. After World War I Mr. Wigmore moved around a lot and finally settled in 1925 at Wokingham. He has had an interesting life, he says, and ringing has been a real enjoyment at all times.

Judith Burkey is one of a family of ringers, both mother, father and sister belonging to All Saints, Wokingham.

A PROMISING YOUNGSTER

Five years ago, at the age of 10. Peter Furness, of Highelere, rang his first peal, Plain Bob Minor, on an inside bell at East Woodhay, Hants; on Feb. 17, aged 15, he returned to the same tower and conducted his first peal. Plain Bob Minor, without fault.

During Peter's five years he has rung many peals up to Double Norwich on eight bells and seven Surprise Minor on x. and also includes the first peals of Reading Surprise Minor and King Charles and London Delight Minor. He also regards one with great pride—Plain Bob Caters by an Andover District band.

A member of the choir and regular Sunday service ringer, we trust the next five very of peal ringing in more advanced methods will be as fruitful as the first.

G. K. D.

When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen;
Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

Belfry Gossip

The St. John's Guild, Hillingdon, hon. secretary is now Mr. J. Walters, 16 Iverdale Close, Iver, Bucks.

The new secretary for the Beverley and District Society is Mr. Robert Sherriff, Sicey Cottage, Thearne, Beverley.

Harry Tomlinson's 84th birthday was marked by a peal in seven Surprise Minor at Elsham, Lincs.

Work of reinstalling the bells at Castor. Northants, has commenced, well in advance of the time anticipated.

New Methods: Westhill Delight Major, Easingwold Surprise Major and Aynho Surprise Major recorded this week.

Easthampstead ringers have scored their first quarter of Royal, which is also the first in the Sonning Deanery by a branch band.

Overhaul of the bells at St. Matthew's Church, Blackmoor, Hants, will necessitate cessation of ringing for two months or so. Work starts on March 6.

Mrs. Gratton and her helpers ran a successful bring and buy stall at a recent social evening of the Ilchester Branch and which was very well attended.

Rector of Leckhampton from 1966-70, and previously from 1959-66 of Digswell, Herts (Rev. G. C. Ford), died recently, and a quarter was rung in memoriam.

An eminent ringer, asked what he thought of the new-look R.W., replied: "It's not bad: it's a cross between a parish magazine and Exchange and Mart."

Progress by the local band at Northfleet, Kent, is being made for they have rung a quarter—the first for many years by the local company.

Personal Records by George E. Thoday (700), Terry R. Hampton (400), Raymond J. Ballard and Ronald Chafer (200), Ivor R. Nicholls (150) and James E. Andrews (100).

Susan Yates, of Chatteris, Cambs, has been presented with her bellringer's badge and no doubt wears it proudly, as well she may, for she is a regular Sunday service ringer and quarter peal ringer as well as being a Guide.

To mark 50 years' membership of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers a quarter was rung for Mr. A. L. Bennett, and Mr. F. G. Bingham's 50 years' service to Limerick Cathedral was similarly honoured.

First peal congratulations to Janet L. Wright, Margery D. Tawn, Stephen Sudbury, Alan S. Comer, Janice M. Faithfull, Geoffrey M. Soul, Pauline Hopkinson, Rosemary Urban, Stephen D. Chandler.

St. Paul's, Wokingham, expect to have work carried out on the bells in the near future. Access to the bells is difficult (if not dangerous) and in view of this the proper attention may not have been given to the bells since the rehanging 21 years ago. (From an annual district report.)

The Index.—Again we are indebted to Mr. R. L. Roper for the 1969 Ringing World Index. Unfortunately we are not able to add another six pages to our issue owing to the high cost of setting. The Index is available at our office, price 1s plus postage.

Eighty-three years a ringer, Mr. George E. Symonds (Ipswich) ("No need to put my photo in again!") tells us that he has been 73 years a peal ringer, having rung his first peal (of Kent T.B. Royal) at St. Giles, Camberwell, in February, 1897. It was conducted by Harold N. Davis, and the second bell had no slider!

Leading Peal Ringers for 1969.—Details of those who have rung 25 or more peals should be sent without delay to Mr. D. E. House, Flat 5, 43 The Chase, Clapham Common, S.W.4.

An amusing cartoon appeared in the South Wales Echo on February 19 and sent to us by Mr. M. J. Pryor. It showed the Concord with all its windows broken and the pilot shouting: "It was those darned Cathedral bells over St. David's!".

Mr. H. T. Miller, hon. secretary at Buxton, Norfolk, writes: "An hour's ringing of Doubles by Buxton and Lammas ringers on February 16 was in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. C. Duffield. Mr. Duffield, who has rung 145 peals, was bell master at Buxton for about 30 years."

Mr. Harold Denman, of Gamston, Notts, has taken part in two peals at Brant Broughton, Lincs. In 1963 he got his peal but on the way home lost his cap—in Feb., 1970, he rang another peal and lost his gloves! What he will lose next?—we hope that it will not be his next peal!

A tower captain who is blind is Mr. George Hurst, of Eccleston, and who rang the tenor to a quarter of Grandsire Triples on February 8. Six of the ringers were Liverpool University Society members. Mr. Hurst has rung one other quarter and some years ago a peal. His timing is perfect, we are told.

We are revising our Address Book of Secretaries of Societies and Associations and would appreciate co-operation from these very worthy people. Please send amendments to us, if different from that in the Diary. Also, would secretaries please forward for reference purposes the most up-to-date issue of annual report. Thank you!

The peal of Westmill Delight Major rung at Aspenden on February 14 was so named after the nearby village of Westmill, near Buntingford, Herts. This village, one of the most attractive villages in Hertfordshire. once boasted one of the earliest, if not the earliest, ring of eight in the county. However, the back three bells were removed some years ago and the remaining five are reputed to be unringable.

At St. Helen's, Wheathampstead, Herts, work will be starting shortly on the strengthening of the tower. Ringing has been severely restricted during the past year because of a crack in the central tower. It is also hoped that two trebles may soon be added to this excellent Taylor six. The bells are well-known for having a long draught of unguided rope, making them difficult to handle for the not-so-experienced ringers.

Appreciation of the little quotations and "fillers" we put at the foot of columns is expressed by John H. Gilbert, of Long Ashton, who says: "These encourage me to read every corner of the R.W. in case I find a snippet tucked away there." [We would welcome any such quotations and snippets for possible use.—Ed.]

Mr. Gilbert also expressed pleasure at the picture of Lyndhurst ringers—his old tower (page 140).

The ancient custom of ringing the pancake bell was observed at Newark, Notts, on Shrove Tuesday, when the youngest member of the Parish Church band, Robert W. Midwinter (13), rang the 2nd bell for five minutes at 11 a.m. This was a warning to local housewives to start preparing pancakes and the signal for certain charity money to be paid to the poor in Newark Parish Church. Robert received the traditional shilling from the ringing master, Mr. J. W. Raithby.

A CROYDON CENTENARY

During 1970 Croydon Parish Church is celebrating the centenary of the rededication following the rebuilding after the disastrous fire of 1867. Details of the fire and a background to the history of the church were portrayed in a Ringing World edition of July 14, 1967.

The various bodies connected with the church and its activities are contributing to the celebrations to ensure that 1970 will be an historic and memorable year. The bellringers, whose Society was established in 1730, have decided to play their part by holding a ringing festival on September 12. Arrangements have been made with the nearby 10-bell towers of St. Peter's, South Croydon, and St. Mary's, Beddington, for them to be open at certain times during the day. Also it is hoped to arrange for towers on routes to Croydon to open, and details will be circulated to those who apply for tickets to the festival service. Three or four routes starting from towers bordering the Surrey and nearby county boundaries are envisaged. Provided there is sufficient response a luncheon will be available in the church halls between 12 noon and 2.30

Everyone who is interested in supporting the festival should write to K. Taber, 17 Birdhurst Rise, South Croydon, CR2 7EG, Surrey, for tickets as soon as possible so as to have some idea of the possible success of the event. A separate advertisement is published in our Notices columns and further advertisements will appear during the next few months. There is no charge for tickets and the collection at the service will be donated to the centenary fund and will go to help the work of the Croydon Churches Housing Association Ltd.

Peal attempts at the Parish Church during the year are to be made by invited bands on the following dates: April 4, Surrey Association; June 20, College Youths; November 14, Cumberland Youths; ringing to commence at approximately 2.30 p.m.

80th BIRTHDAY-50th QUARTER

Arthur Garbett, who came to Torquay on retirement from Broseley, Staffordshire, joined the change-ringing band at Babba-combe early in 1958. He rang the tenor at Highweek to a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples in memory of J. Lilley on April 24, 1958, and since then he has been a regular and faithful member of the band. At 78 he scored his first quarter of Stedman Triples, which gave him much pleasure. It was fitting that he should ring the treble for his 50th quarter peal on his 80th birthday, having been with the Babbacombe band for 12 years. The 1280 of Bob Major took 50 minutes to ring and Arthur rang faultlessly throughout. After the quarter peal a celebration cake, baked by two lady members, was enjoyed by the band and D. R. other friends.

HISTORICAL RECORD

A little booklet giving the History of Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Guild, compiled by the then secretary (W. J. Paice) and printed 40 years ago gives the names of officers of the branch from its foundation in 1880 and the details of the jubilee celebrations which took place at Wokingham on May 24, 1930. The address at the church service was given by the Archdeacon of Berkshire, Ven. R. Wickham Legg, and the tea for the occasion was by invitation of the rector (Rev. H. M. Walter).

BRISTOL UNIVERSITY DINNER

While the Bristol University's dinner was not held until January 24, proceedings started in the traditional manner with ringers from many areas assembling at the Naval Volunteer on the previous evening. "Not very full yet, still room to fall over," commented one on entering, a reference no doubt to leaving! Thirteen towers in the suburbs were available during the morning and three routes were arranged, all meeting at St. John-on-the-Wall just before lunch. In the afternoon ringing ended at St. Michael's, the ringers' own church, where a short service was led by the vicar and president of the Society, Rev. Vyvyan-Jones, and the annual meeting followed.

During the day there were two peal attempts of London Surprise Major. That at the Cathedral was successful, but the attempt at SS. Philip and Jacob's Church was lost after two courses.

At the dinner a company of 160 sat down at the Arms Court Hotel to a very enjoyable meal. A feature was the taking of wine by present officers with past holders.

A bright and witty speech by Mr. Andrew Brock introduced the toast of "The Visitors." The arch-visitor, Mr. Cyril Wratten, was introduced by the president as "Gloucester and Bristol treasurer and C.C. representative—whatever that may mean." Mr. Wratten mentioned the Society's record Minor peal, commenting on the subtleties of the names given to some Delight methods—"Turkish Delight and Turnon" (especially suited for ringing in dark and dingy belfries).

Mr. Anthony Kench, master of the Ancient Society of College Youths and a former member of the Society, entertained with an excellent speech. Being a member of the Society himself he created a precedent by inviting all those present to drink to the future well-being of the Society. Mr. Anthony Cox (the master) rose and acknowledged the cheers of his supporters and spoke with great confidence, outlining the achievements of the Society during the past year. He foresaw further success during 1970, including skittles matches with nonresidents and the city branch.

With the added attraction of the filmed highlights of last summer's tour, a convivial evening was enjoyed by all until the bar closed at 1 a.m., the company then dispersing to various beds, floors and railway benches throughout Bristol.

A MAGNIFICENT RESULT

Mr. T. Ogden, of Oldham, writes:—
"This morning I have had word from their correspondent that the handbell ringers at the Malabar Home for the Blind, Truro, Cornwall, have collected the magnificent sum of over £1,500 by their ringing over the Christmas period, 1969.

"To do this entailed travelling all over the Duchy, and for a small band of blind ringers who have to memorise all their music, and who also have only a small set of handbells and are therefore very limited in what they can play. I think this is a marvellous achievement, and well worthy of mention.

"Certainly it puts to shame those of our sighted ringers who 'haven't time' or 'can't be bothered' to go round their own parishes and districts, let alone visit their local hospitals, with seasonal music at Christmastime."

THREESCORE YEARS AND TEN

It was nice to have a drink with my old friend Bert Audsley on his 70th birthday (January 31). We attempted a peal at Dartford but alas, it went the way of the great majority; not that it mattered because we were ringing a touch afterwards and the light went out. The conductor uttered a superfluous "Stand" and no harm was done but it turned out that the vicar was being kind, and in switching on the light on the belfry staircase for a visitor from Cornwall who had heard the bells he turned the wrong switch, Still, it enabled our young Cornish friend. now living in the district, to be introduced to some ringing history. We could tell him with pride of our old friend's birthday and we could draw his attention to the peal boards in the tower: "The conductor's 1,000th peal"—Herbert E. Audsley; Double Norwich silent and non-conducted; Groombridges, Barnetts, George Cross and —Herbert E. Audsley, Grandsire Triples: 200th anniversary of the first peal on the bells, conductor Herbert E. Audsley.

I wish I could record all that this most modest of men told us in the pub afterwards. How A. G. Driver, who used to write to The Ringing World as the "Mad Hatter," was a genius destined in life to be a tram driver, who knew as much if not more than any composer of his day but cauld not be taught to handle a bell; who came to the tower and said: "Ring Grandsire Triples with the hunt bell coursing in front of the treble instead of behind it." How Bert said to old Harry (his great friend, Harry Hoverd, beloved of North Kent ringers, who died so prematurely): "Call a touch by when you are 'before', and after they had started Harry said: "How can I ever be before if the hunt bell is in front of the treble?"

How the College Youths and the Cumberlands rang peals at Northfleet and Swanscombe one year and reversed towers the next year, and how old Jim Bennett, then in the Marines but long since retired to his native Suffolk, finished up in Northfleet Station in the early hours of Sunday morning and never did get back to Chalham Barracks that night!

What did Bert think about Stedman?—wouldn't care if it was the only method there was. The other week he went down to see old Ted Beer at Shorne, heard tapes of some of the handbell peals they are ringing down there—first-class ringing, a credit to them. What about 12-bell ringing these days?—most of it much too fast; can't get the best out of the bells like that. Evening peals the cause of all this rushing the bells along.

In North Kent everyone knows Bert. Most of his ringing has been done there—he rang his 1,300th peal at Erith a month or two ago. Most people can claim vast numbers of towers for their peals. I bet few people have rung 1,300 peals in as few towers—Erith and Crayford over 200 each, Dartford over 100, large numbers at Christ Church, Erith, Gravesend, Swanscombe, Northfleet, etc. Over 100 peals on the 5th at Crayford. Known to succeeding generations of ringers as a candid friend—outspoken and fearless but never offensive.

May his shadow never grow less.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for March 2, 1945

At Guildford William J. Robinson conducted a peal of Grandsire in which Harold A. May rang his first peal at the first attempt.

The first peal on the bells (Grandsire Doubles) was rung at Ludgvan, Cornwall, conducted by Rev. A. S. Roberts from the treble.

Three doctors rang in a peal of Kent Minor at Stoke Mandeville, conducted by Walter Ayre,

Miss Jill Poole received a copy of Time, an American publication, which included an article of her ringing in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus

Rev. K. W. H. Felstead (Southampton) performed the marriage ceremony between Miss Joan Wheeler, of Bishopstoke, and Petty Officer Ernest Salmon, of Hereford Cathedral.

"Battle Axes" was the venue for tea when the Ladies' Guild held a meeting at Wraxall.

The Editor apologised for not answering letters as he had been confined to bed for three weeks

50 YEARS AGO

March 5, 1920

The Basingstoke Combined Society appealed for subscriptions towards a memorial for Mr. Henry White.

Five members of the Pitstow family took part in a peal of Stedman Caters at Saffron Walden Parish Church, conducted by H. N. Pitstow. In addition to it being the first peal on the bells, L. E. Pitstow rang his first peal.

At Guildford, A. H. Pulling conducted the first peal of Little St. Lawrence Major, which was composed by Rev. E. Bankes James.

At Leiston, Suffolk, the eight Bailey brothers rang a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major as a welcome home to Wilfred Bailey (who rang treble), he being the last of six of the brothers to be demobilised.

At a meeting in the tower of St. Mary's. Taunton, it was hoped to raise sufficient money to rehang the bells and to increase the ring from 10 to 12 bells.

The new ring of eight at Tunbridge Wells was much enjoyed when the Tonbridge District held a meeting there. The recasting and rehanging by Gillett and Johnston had cost nearly £500, all of which had been paid.

At Benhilton a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung as a 68th birthday compliment to Mr. A. J. Perkins, who conducted.

St. Mary's, Watford, Herts

ALTHOUGH the beginnings of ringing in Watford are somewhat obscure, we know that there were bells here in the year 1415 for in a Watford will of that date one Thomas bequeathed "to the bells of the same Church X11d"; from an inventory, 1553, "5 bells in the steeple and a market bell"; in 1638, "6 bells with the furniture." The six bells may or may not have included the Market Bell, which was rung at the opening of the market, when a "lecture" was delivered by a clergyman appointed for the purpose. In 1613 he was provided with a house close by the market and church and he probably assisted at St. Mary's for to this day the senior curate is known as "The Lecturer." (The house was recently demolished to make way for a new ring road.)

From a vestry book, June, 1704: "The great bell have broken down and all her crown cannon broken off and that she cannot be hung up without being new cast and the Fifth bell being not tuneable to the rest of the said bells, we do agree the said two bells be not runn at the public charge."

The following September a special meeting reversed this decision, for "Thomas Ewin having paid £74 17s. for new casting two of the bells, he shall be paid the same and receive the approbation of the inhabitants of the town."

A vestry book of 1750 tells us: "Whereas the great bell of this parish is broke and the other bells are very bad and out of tune we do hereby consent that the six bells shall be taken down and new run and that there shall be an addition of metal to make a complete peal of 8 bells the tenor to weigh 22 cwt."

OLD PEAL BOARDS

The new bells were cast by Thomas Lester at Whitechapel.

The tower contains several old peal boards and from the earliest we learn that on May 25, 1751, 5040 Plain Bob Trebles was rung by the Society of Eastern Youths "in 3 hours & 30 minuets."

Some curiosity has been expressed from time to time as to the identity of this band, so for interest we quote:—

"Thos. Rudd treble, Thos. Shepherd 2nd, James Coxon 3rd, Thos. Dobinfon 4th, Saml. Debart 5th, Willm. Thorpe 6th, Stephen Green 7th, John Green, jun. and John Goodwin tenor."

No conductor is named.

The first peal by the Society of Watford Youths was 5040 Bob Major on April 30, 1780, conducted by Daniel Pope, who, with other members of his family, did much to establish change-ringing in the locality. In 1876 the 7th bell of Lester's ring was recast by John Briant, of Hertford.

The last peal on these bells, 5040 Stedman Triples, was rung on May 7, 1907 (from the ground floor), conducted by George N. Price. In 1919, at the initiative of the vicar, the late Rev. Cecil F. Ayerst, himself a ringer of some ability, the bells were recast and tuned on the five harmonic principle by Gillett and Johnston. The weight of the tenor was increased to 24½ cwt., its note, at the request of the churchwardens, remaining at E flat. A massive frame, with provision for ten bells, was installed and a new ringing chamber constructed at the level of the fine west window.

The first peal on the recast ring — 5040 Grandsire Triples—on December 10, 1921, was conducted by Frederick Edwards, while in the 1930s several Surprise Major peals were rung by the resident band, conducted by Harold G. Cashmore.

In September, 1946, two memorial bells, from the Croydon foundry, were added, and the first peal on the ten—5039 Grandsire Caters on March 15, 1947—was conducted by G. W. Debenham. On May 25, 1951, a bicentenary peal of 5040 Plain Bob Royal was conducted by Geoffrey W. Seaman.

No account of Watford ringing would be complete without mention of Stephen H. Hoare who for over 40 years, as a good ringer and conductor and one-time master, rendered the tower great service.

The longest-serving member of the present band is the writer who, starting in 1925, was master from 1931 to 1952, and again from 1965 onwards. Another who has held the reins of office is Ray Smith. whilst second, in length of service, is Walter Paul, who came from East Anglia in 1931.

The Watford ringers of today are an amiable blend of youth and experience. Service ringing is well maintained and Surprise Royal is sometimes heard on Sundays.

In the early days of Simpson tuning controversy was rife on this subject and Watford bells came in for their share of criticism; now, listening to this grand ring, 50 years later, one wonders what it was all about.

RICHARD G. BELL.

BELLS SCRAPPED

The ring of eight bells at St. James' Church, Bolton, Bradford, has been sold by the church authorities for the scrap value of the metal. They were a complete ring of eight cast in 1878 by Shaw, of Bradford, but had not been rung for many years. The ring was given to the church by a former parishioner and was opened in October. 1878.

The bells have already been removed by the Whitechapel Foundry and transported to London for breaking up.

AN EARLY START

A picture of 7-years-old Ian Parry, complete with box, ready to pull-off at his local tower, St. Nicholas, Grosmont, Mon, where he has been taught to handle by his parent his mother being leader of the local band.

THE YEAR OF THE PEAL

"1969 must be regarded as the Year of the Peal as far as our Guild is concerned. The average rung is 35-40, but last year 93 were accomplished, nearly 40 above the previous best in 1931—in Alf Pulling's heyday—when 55 were rung."

So said Mr. D. A. R. May (master) at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, commemorating the name of John S. Goldsmith and held at Harvey's Restaurant, Guildford, on February 27. The attendance was 174. Mr. May was replying to the toast "Continued prosperity of the Guildford Diocesan Guild," which had been proposed by Mr. Derek Sibson (master of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths).

Continuing, Mr. May said that of the 93 rung, 42 were by one band, and Michael Church had conducted more in 1969 than the Guild as a whole had rung in 1968 and now held the Guild record for the greatest number rung and conducted in any one year. Enumerating the other activities connected with the Guild, he said that an increase in quarter peals also indicated the life and energy which prevailed, and he had no doubt that directly and indirectly peals and quarters did improve the standard of Sunday service ringing. "All this expertise and much that I have not detailed," continued the speaker, "are due to two factors: the determination and effort by the ringer concerned and the firm base supplied by our predecessors."

Mentioning those vice-presidents living today and who had helped with the building up of the Guild, Mr. May named Alfred Winch, Bill Shepherd, George Marriner, Jack Bragg and Charles Denyer (now in an active role as R.W. editor), and of the past John Goldsmith, Charles Hazelden, Major Hesse and Alf Pulling. He went on to pay particular tribute to George Grover, of Clandon, who died last year and who, in his (the speaker's) opinion, was the "ideal ringer" for he lived a life of service and as a true Christian gentleman.

"May we continue to build on what all our illustrious past officers and members nave left behind," he concluded, and then proposed "The memory of John Goldsmith and other officers and members of the Guild."

BELLRINGERS ARE "SQUARES"?

The Dean of Guildford (Very Rev. A. C. Bridge) had previously proposed, in jocular terms, "The Church and the Ringing Exercise. He confessed he knew nothing of bellringing but had read that the first bells made were square, and he had no doubt many ringers today were also considered squares" because of their work for the Church. Bellringers, in some ways, typified its best what the Church is about—being in a community and enjoying being together in that had love. If only other sections of young and old in a well-knit service and did something worth doing we would all eenefit, said the Dean. It gave him the greatest possible pleasure to propose the loast of "The Church," of which they were part, and of "The Ringing Exercise" which welded them together.

GUILD "OBJECTS" QUOTED

Replying to the toast, Mr. Sibson said he as the son of a clergyman, and his wife at the daughter of one also; both, therefore, had a specialist knowledge of the hurch. He was in entire agreement with hat the Dean had said about the part bellingers played in the work of the Church, continued by proposing the toast of "The Guildford Guild" and referred to the "historical speech" made by Canon Felstead at the 40th anniversary dinner two years ago. Mr. Sibson then quoted the "objects" of the Guild, which had not been published since 1964, and said that only two of the Guild's 63 towers did not have regular Sunday service ringing and one of those was because the bells were unringable. This record of service ringing was a fine achievement, as were the well-attended practices, striking competitions and social functions held within the diocese and which made for a thriving society of bellringers. A belfry repair fund recently inaugurated was also a very worthwhile proposition for it would greatly assist in restoration work to be carried out in future years.

ALLEGATION DENIED

Mr. Sibson then deliberated on the importance of quarter peal ringing by local bands which so often marked a step of some achievement, not always fully appreciated. Equally peals did the same, and he strongly denied the allegation that peal ringers, generally, were not Sunday service ringers. "It just is not true," he emphasised, and went on to speak of the number of Spliced Major peals rung by Guild members during 1969. He mentioned particularly the 17-spliced method peal rung nonconducted and silent recently, and the Cambridge Maximus by a resident band at Reading and, addressing the Dean, he added: "This Guild is capable of ringing 12 bells and [amidst laughter] although last Saturday 20 ringers turned up to ring a peal of Royal, I wonder if two more bells in the Cathedral will be enough! A Guild without a ring of 12 has a real handicap," concluded Mr. Sibson.

The master acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers during the formal proceedings. During an interval Mr. David Parsons and his handbell team from Egham delighted the company with Bach's chorale "Jesu, joy" and a well-struck course of Grandsire Caters.

The remainder of the evening was spent dancing and concluded at 1 a.m.

SPLICED!

A copy of The Ringing World was put beside the plate of the Dean of Guildford at the Guild Annual Dinner, and during his speech the Dean said: "I see there is an article in your journal on 'The History of a Spliced Minor,' and the two very young ladies in front of me have some large glasses of a very suspicious looking liquid. I fear they are in danger of becoming two spliced minors—but I hope I shall not in turn become a plastered major."

MASTER'S CASTING VOTE DECIDES

AT THE London County Association A.G.M. on February 14 the ballot for mastership resulted in a tie and the retiring master, Mr. Harold Rogers, had, in consequence of the rules, to give his casting vote. Mrs. Rogers is the new master.

The meeting was at the old headquarters at St. Clement Danes' and ringing took place at St. Andrew's, Holborn, St. Maryle-Bow and St. Clement Danes'. The resident chaplain conducted a service based on the Association's own pre-war service plan, which was originally in booklet form, but all except one copy was destroyed when St. Clement Danes' was gutted by fire during the blitz. Tea followed the service at the Waldorf Hotel.

After dealing with the business routines and the election of new members the meeting stood in silence for those who had "passed on" during the year. Among these were Mr. Robert C. Heazel, Mrs. F. Hairs and Mr. Joseph Marks.

MASTER'S REPORT

The master, Mr. Harold Rogers, reviewed the continuing steady work of the Association, and said the usual pattern of meetings had been followed, eight being held in London and the traditional joint meeting with the Middlesex Association. The annual dinner had been successfully held at The George, and members were well represented at the Richmond-upon-Thames Music Festival in March. A team won the handbell challenge shield for method ringing and another came a close second for tower bell ringing.

The meeting activities entailed visits to some 22 towers and it was a great joy to be invited to the Roman Catholic Church at Clapham Common for a true "Christian Unity" service.

Regular monthly practices had been held at St. Mary Abbott's, Kensington, and it was a pity that adequate support was not forthcoming for the beginners' lectures arranged to precede the practices. Another activity had been the Sunday evening ringing organised by Mr. Meyer and encompassing a rota of some six churches. During the year 24 members had been elected. Eight tower bell peals (all of Caters and Royal) had been rung, and six on handbells. Six Surprise Royal methods were rung—Yorkshire, Evesham, Christchurch, Isleworth, London and Ewerby.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEMBER

A new member to the Central Council—Mr. William Shanks—is one of the Association's four representatives. Mr. Wilfrid Wilson had the honour of the "hot seat" as convener of the Ringing World Committee. The meeting wished him well and said that he and his committee, together with the new editor, would, they felt sure, look after the interests of all ringers.

The peal book had been written up in illuminated style by Mrs. Elaine Wycherley, and the association expressed its appreciation to her. The master thanked the officers and members who had supported him during his three-year term and extended his good wishes to his successor. He gave his advice to those present on the qualities required in a successor as master.

The meeting congratulated the oldest established member present — Mr. Bert Turner, elected in 1907 and still going strong.

ST. JAMES', CLERKENWELL

St. James', Clerkenwell, which was featured recently, has brought comment from different sources. Mr. A. D. Barker points out that it was the original headquarters of the St. James' Society, now the London County Association. Mr. David Gough states that there are regular Wednesday evening practices, and recently there were 19 present and methods were rung. Mr. Michael Wycher'ey has worked hard to establish a band and on alternate Sunday mornings there is ringing by the local team. Sound control is under consideration and will no doubt be carried out effectively at some future date. Members between the wars included Ken Gough, Dicky Rickson and Bill Prockson.

He finishes by saying that the spirit is good in the tower and there is also a new recruit—an 8 lb. baby son to the captain and his wife.

SOUTHAMPTON RINGERS VISIT EXETER

Recently a peal of Plain Bob Major was scored at Exminster by a combined band of Southampton and Exeter Universities and the Southampton members enjoyed ringing at many other local towers whilst on a week-end visit to Exeter. The miniature rings owned by Mr. Frank Mack were particularly enjoyed. Exeter members won a skittles match.

At the Southampton U.G. A.G.M. on Feb. 4 the officers elected were: Master, Phillip A. Butler; vice-master, Richard Weeks; secretary/treasurer, Steven J. Coleman; steeplekeeper, Mark R. Hutcheson.

ALTON (HAMPSHIRE) ANNIVERSARY

The ambitious programme planned to celebrate the church's dedication is progressing well, with concerts, quarter peals and visiting ringers for Sunday evening on exchange principle. A quarter peal tour resulted in one of three being successful, but a peal attempt for Stedman Triples failed after an hour's good ringing. Further attempts are being made, however, by the Alton and Petersfield District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Two popular nominees for the office of master were Mr. Jack Phillips, a hardworking and co-operative London ringer (the retiring deputy master) and Mrs. Olive Rogers, who has held various offices in the association since 1938. The result of a paper ballot was a tie. With gentlemanly gesture Mr. Phillips offered to stand down but Mrs. Rogers wanted the decision by a draw from the hat or the toss of a coin. The meeting was adamant that the election must be by the rules, and the chairman (the retiring master) must give a casting vote. This, the chairman said, placed him in an impossible position but as the members insisted he would seize on to Mr. Phillips' offer to withdraw and he announced Mrs. Rogers as the new master.

Mr. Phillips was unanimously elected as deputy master. Others elected were: Senior steward, Mr. Alan Patterson; junior steward, David Woodward; secretary, Robin Collis; assistant secretaries, Mr. John Scott and Mrs. Deborah Bishop; treasurer and librarian, Mr. Wilfrid Wilson; trustees, Miss Veronica Dupre and Mr. Tony Bishop. After announcements, the retiring master invested the new master with her badge of office and Mrs. Rogers briefly addressed the meeting.

Obituary

MR. JOSEPH PIGOTT

Mr. Joseph Pigott, of 10 Londonderry Lane. Smethwick, died on February 15 at the advanced age of 90. "Joe" was in the frontrank of ringers at the turn of the century and a collection of his compositions (Plain and Surprise methods) is in the Worcestershire Association Library. He rang a number of handbell peals with Albert Walker and his band in Birmingham.

During the First World War he suffered severe injuries to one hand, and had a leather glove with tapes attached, and with this was able to have a handbell fastened to his hand and so could ring a pair as good as the others. He did most of his ringing with the Worcestershire Association and had been in the company of such people as Robert Matthews and Bill Short. It was said that with Bob Matthews calling and Bill Short on the treble it was impossible to lose London, Bristol or anything else unless a rope broke or someone fainted. He had two sisters, Sarah and Kate, both good ringers, and for many years they all rang at the Old Church, Smethwick, near which they all lived. D. T. M.

MR. FRANK ATTRILL

A ringer for 67 years, a member of the Winchester Guild for more than 50 and the church clock winder for the same period, Mr Frank Attrill died on February 21 at Caristrooke, Isle of Wight, at the age of 82. He started ringing when 15 years old and only gave up last year through failing health.

Ringers who attended the funeral included Messrs. S. Moody, H. Long, C. Denness. F. Cheverton and Mesdames E. Wyatt and Guy, and in the evening the bells were rung half-muffled.

THE SENTINEL WITHDRAWN

Much to be deplored is the decision of Mr. Trevor A. Bevis to discontinue the publication of The Sentinel, the colourful news sheet of the Ely Diocesan Association after the March issue. Those who keep ringing papers should not fail to contact Mr. Bevis, 150 Burrowmoor Road, March, Cambs (price 10 new pence!).

The coloured picture on the front page is of St. Peter's Church, Walpole, often referred to as "Queen of the Marshes." Comments the Editor in his article about the church with its easy-handling bells (tenor 12 cwt.): "To ring at this spectacular church in the heart of rural tranquillity does something to an Englishman. Any man who regularly serves God in these surroundings can well be excused for saying with justifiable pride, 'I ring at the Queen of the Marshes.'

"The Sentinel has had a life of four years, and were it not for a generous subsidy would have perished long ago. Enthusiasm, although evident in the early issues, declined when the novelty wore off, and too many towers received a single copy between the ringers. Ironically, The Sentinel has inspired at least three guilds to produce newsletters. Correspondence has been received from complete strangers, praising the newsletter. It has been an interesting, if frustrating experiment, and I, for one, regret its demise. Attention must be turned to more worthwhile matters.

"Apathy is a malignancy most difficult to erase. It is a sour thing and its bitterness invades the palate of many!" Thus concludes the Editor.

A pat on the back is just as easy to give as a dig in the ribs.

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

PART IV: THE RECORD GROWS

THE Norbury record of 35 methods, set up in 1923, survived for another two years, and then, in the August of 1933, another Cheshire band rang 38 T.B. at Knutsford. The eightmethod extent which enabled them to pass the Norbury total was the work of Joseph W. Parker, and the peal was conducted by Ernest Report. The hand was: Bennett. The band was:

1 Sidney Hough 2 James Fernley, jun. 3 James A. Milner 4 Wilfred Stevenson

John Worth

6 Ernest Bennett

A year later, on December 29, 1934, what was substantially the same band, but with C. Kenneth Lewis ringing the treble and Walter W. Wolstencroft in place of Ernest Bennett, added a 39th method at Chapel-en-le-Frith. A 40th was added at Sutton, near Macclesfield, three weeks later, and a further two at Disley on February 2, 1935. The composition had been arranged by A. G. Driver, a virtual non-ringer, who was during the next three years to carry the composition of Spliced Minor to a stage far beyond anything hitherto thought possible.

After this sudden burst of activity, culminating in the 42-method peal that Fidler had forecast nine years previously, there was a momentary pause.

LINCOLNSHIRE AGAIN

But over in East Anglia a young Lincoln-shire band had begun to gird its loins for a series of peals that was before long to recover the record.

That spring Messrs. Mears and Stainbank had rehung an old ring of five at Algarkirk, a village some 20 miles from Horace Day and village some 20 miles from Horace Day and the Deepings, and had added a treble to make it into a six. On May 6, 1935, the day after the dedication of the belts, the local band, assisted by Arthur Young from nearby Frampton, scored a peal of seven Minor in their own tower. Consisting as it did of four Plain and three Treble Bob methods, it was what might be called a "typical" East Anglian peal, just as seven Treble Bob methods constituted a "typical" Cheshire peal.

In August the same band rang 20 methods at Freiston. The ringing was conducted by Vernon Taylor, whose early peals of spliced had been rung under the ægis of Horace Day.

By the end of the year they had reached 27 methods, and 30 methods followed in February, of Spliced Algarkirk Alliance and Bastow Little

ALLIANCE METHODS

The first Alliance method to see the light day had been published as long ago as 1671, in Stedman's Campanalogia, and had riginated at Nottingham. Then, for 250 yers, the idea lay dormant.

In July, 1920, the Rev. E. Bankes James
The Ringing World, pointing out the possibility of joining certain Little and Alliance methods by splicing them together with the aid of singles. The idea, he wrote, the composition of C. W. Woolley, and he first brought it to my notice before he turned 12 years old."

The letter provoked little response at the time, although Armiger Trollope later tooks up the idea when one or two 720s on this plan were as a result rung on handbells at Lammas Road, Ealing, during 1928 The 1931 Collection contained a selection of these method, and one or two extents and peals Contained a selection of these method, and one or two extents and peals including them had been rung by the local band at Lamberhurst, in Kent, during the course of the next two or three years. The Algarkirk company had rung a peal of Spliced Algarkirk and Bastow on their bells in January, 1936, and thereafter such extents appeared regularly in their performances.

In April that year they scored first 38 and then 42 methods, and on May 16 the record once more returned to Lincolnshire with a peal in 48 Plain, Little, Alliance and Treble Bob methods at Algarkirk. Vernon Taylor conducted and, once again, the peal was an arrangement of A. G. Driver's.

ANNUS MIRABILIS

There then ensued a most exciting six months—perhaps one of the most exciting periods in the history of six-bell ringing—as the record went to and fro between the rival bands. One has only to flip through the browning pages of The Ringing World for the latter part of that year to feel the tension and excitement that must have built up.

Although they varied occasionally, the teams were basically as follows:

In Cheshire-

1 James A Milner 2 James Fernley 3 C. Kenneth Kenneth Lewis

C. Kenneth Lewis Wilfred Stevenson Walter W. Wolstencroft (Conductor)

6 John Worth (Conductor).

1 George W. Burrell
2 Arthur Young
3 Vernon Taylor (Conductor)
4 Harvey E. Burrell
5 Harold Barsley 6 Cyril R. Burrell.

While the Lincolnshire men had been building up their repertoire, in Cheshire Kenneth Lewis had been busy rearranging Driver's 42-method peal to include a further ten methods. Only a week after the Algarkirk peal John Worth called this new arrangement at Marple to regain the record.

Undeterred by this prompt reply to their challenge, the Lincolnshire band rang 57 methods at Algarkirk on June 13, following it with a peal in 60 methods at Whaplode on August 3, and, as though to dispel any last lingering doubts about the matter, 61 methods five days later at Freiston. The ball had been well and truly returned to the Cheshire court.

It did not stay there for long. 22 John Worth called 66 Treble Bob at Marple and on September 5 added a further two methods at Disley. This apparently gave the Lincolnshire men something to think about, for a pause ensued.

Or perhaps it was Driver who now had to think. For it was he who was providing the new extents for both series of peals—Treble Bob to Cheshire, Little and Alliance to Lincolnshire. But that he had not yet reached the limit of his genius soon became apparent.

On December 5 the Lincolnshire company once more regained the lead, this time with an arrangement of his in no less than 70 methods.

By now the pace was really beginning to tell. It was another six months before Kenneth Lewis was able to call 73 Treble Bob with the Cheshire band to regain the record. This was at Fairfield, Buxton, on June 12,

On December 4, almost exactly a year after is last great performance, Vernon Taylor his last replied with a peal in 80 methods at Algarkirk. It was a magnificent achievement, and as month followed month it seemed that East Anglia had indeed won the day. January, February, March passed, April came and went. May followed, and still there was no sign of any answering peal from Cheshire.

CHESHIRE REGAINS THE RECORD

Then, on July 16, 1938, the Cheshire band returned to Disley where they had first rung

Middlesex County Association.

RINGING CHAMBER REDEDICATED

A warm welcome awaited the North and East District of the Middlesex Association at their annual meeting at St. John at Hackney on February 21.

Prior to ringing, an interesting ceremony took place when the Rector (Rev. G. H. Mc-Kinley) rededicated the ringing chamber and offered prayers for those who had so willingly given their time to decorate and beautify that part of the church in which ringers worship God in their own particular way. It had received no major attention since a disastrous fire some years ago. The work had been done by Mr. and Mrs. David Smith assisted by the ringing master. They are working hard at St. John's to encourage recruits and maintain a Sunday service band.

After tea the secretary gave a report on a satisfactory year, with four full and five evening meetings and an average attendance of 42 and 31 respectively. Ringing was still maintained for the Thursday mid-week service at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, and Mr. T. H. Hawkins would welcome any ringers able to assist at this tower. Thirty-four peals had been rung within the boundaries of the district (31 tower and three in hand), Hendon recording its first for some 20 years. Highlights of ringing included the achievement of Mr. Alick Cutler in being the first to ring 300 different Surprise Major methods to a peal and the accomplishment of John Mayne and his band in ringing the first peal of Kent Treble Bob 14 in hand for the association. Congratulations also to John Mayne on completing 1,000 peals during the year.

The statement of accounts was approved.

Officers elected were: Chairman, Miss G. E Newcombe; master, Mrs. H. G. Hart; deputy master, Mr. T. G. Hawkins; secretary, Mr. E. H. Kilby; assistant secretary, Mr. D. T. C. Smith; auditor, Miss Valerie Ware; committee, Messrs, H. G. Hart, D. E. R. Knights, and B. C. Watson.

Twenty-five new ringing members were elected: Holloway (1), Monken Hadley (3), Harrow Weald (1), Enfield (2), Hendon (4), Finchley (11) and Hackney (3). Miss Ruth Foreman expressed pleasure that the Finchley ringers were to be reconstituted with the association. The captain of this band is Mr. Michael Carter, and the secretary Mrs. Mary Blades.

A very sincere welcome was extended to Mr. Alec Richardson, who, although blind, is very enthusiastic and a regular Sunday service ringer. The chairman proposed thanks to the Rev. G. H. McKinley for taking the service and to Mr. Withers for accompanying at the organ and to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and members of the local band for making the necessary arrangements.

42 methods three years before. With Ernest Bennett taking the place of Wilfred Stevenson, they scored a peal in 84 methods.

Kenneth Lewis again conducted the ringing, as well as being responsible for adding the extra methods. To do this he had managed to insert four new Alliance methods into one of Driver's 720s, and had also put together what is now the "standard" extent in 13 Plain methods. It was the first peal to be rung in Cheshire containing Alliance methods.

In the seven years since the appearance of the Minor Collection the record had thus been the Minor Collection the record had thus been raised from 35 methods to 84, and in so doing had changed hands eight times. But there remained something over a year before the outbreak of another war. And although the Algarkirk band had by now dispersed, Lincolnshire was not yet out of the race.

TERRITORIAL?

Dear Sir,-In The Ringing World (page 131) "Exile" states that the London County Association is a non-territorial association. behalf of all members of the association I would point out that Rule 2 of the L.C.A. states: "Territory. That its area of operation and influence shall embrace the whole of the Administrative County of London, or a radius of ten miles from St. Clement Danes' in the Strand.

The L.C.A. also provides ringers for Southwark Cathedral one Sunday a month, and a band organised by Mr. C. Montague Meyer, a stalwart of the association, rings on Sunday evenings at many otherwise silent towers. Yours faithfully, ROBIN J. COLLIS, Sec., London County Association.

Dear Sir,-In the reply to "Exile" (page 163) we are informed that an association which has the word London in its title cannot be non-territorial. Is this statement from an officer of the Central Council? If so, it would seem that all the University societies have changed their status to territorial. Thus the recent discussion regarding Central Council representation is solved: all the societies at present affiliated are territorial except the five listed as non-territorial in the Diary and also the Universities Association. By keeping the ratio for representation the same as at present everyone will have the same chance of representation. If a smaller Council is required it can merely change these ratios. faithfully,

T. SKILTON.

CHURCH CLOCKS

Dear Sir,-In your interesting report of Sheffield Cathedral bells (Ringing World, page 131), you mention that a new chiming clock is to be installed. This is rather misleading, as fortunately the old chiming clock, which has served for 103 years, is at present being overhauled by Messrs. William Potts and Sons of Leeds. Their manager is reported in The Morning Telegraph as saying: "Although it was old, it would have been criminal to scrap the clock, which was marvellously made."

Further to the instances given in previous letters of clock dials having the Roman IV. another is the clock a. Sheffield.—Yours faithfully,
S. L. MARSHALL. another is the clock at Wadsley Parish Church, Sheffield.

YAXLEY ALLIANCE

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. A. Pashley's letter (R.W., page 130), I would recom-mend to him the Central Council Collection of Minor Methods, particularly page 127, which explains how an Alliance method can be spliced with a Little method.

I think Mr. Pashley is treating Yaxley as a Plain method, as he states: "If 480 changes were rung in a 720 the treble would strike in 5ths and 6ths 80 times." This is untrue. In 480 changes of Yaxley the treble would strike 120 times in 5ths and 6ths, as this is an Alliance method; 240 Little Bob is rung in the 720, thereby making the true extent. 720 is given in the aforementioned publication. -Yours faithfully,

KEVIN M. PRICE.

THE OFFICIAL JOURNAL

Dear Sir,-There have been a number of letters recently proposing that peal ringers should pay extra money to The Ringing World. In my view The Ringing World is not an ordinary newspaper but "the official journal of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers," and therefore has a duty to publish all it can regarding what happens in the Exer-Peal ringing is just part of this.

I should like to see a system whereby every association and guild subsidises The Ringing World according to the number of members they have. This would then mean that all ringers would share in the costs of their paper, not only peal ringers or those who buy it.

This would probably mean that most annual subscriptions would have to go up, probably by as much as 2s. 6d., but would this really hurt anybody? We ringers get away with things very cheaply.

This could even encourage more ringers to subscribe to The Ringing World, since they would all have an indirect financial interest

I should like to think this letter might encourage some "serious" thinking.—Yours faith-

ECCLESTON, St. HELENS

Dear Sir,-I was pleased to read Mr. Marcus C. W. Sherwood's pleasant comments concerning the bells of St. Thomas', Eccleston, St. Helens. (Ringing World, page 158, Manchester University outing.)

The difficulty in finding the church is experienced by many-as I have found in having to wait for parties when I held the post of tower captain before my departure for "foreign The church is not in the rural disparts " trict of Eccleston, but in the electoral ward of Eccleston. In fact it is only 300 yards or so from the town centre.

The bells are a lovely light eight, rehung in 1962, but with no local band as such. They are not available for peal ringing because of complaints, but are well worth a visit. Since 1934, when they were augmented, they have been pealed six or seven times and they have not been pealed to Major!

I urge anyone in the area to keep these bells ringing if possible because in 1962, at the time of the large-scale restoration, the two trebles were nearly scrapped, and the back six hung dead !- Yours faithfully,

ST, JOHN'S, SIDCUP

Dear Sir, - I was very interested in Mr. Lewis' account of the above in your issue of February 27 and wish him every success in his effort to restore and increase the bells to a ring of eight.

It reminded me of the time when they hung in one of the twin towers of the old church and that I must be the only person now living who rang on them when they were there.

It was on Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee day in 1897, when I was 12 years old, that my father had been invited in a band to ring the bells in honour of the occasion. Father, however, decided he would go to London and see the procession and sent me instead.

We rang for most of the afternoon and then adjourned to the Black Horse, where I was given a couple of ginger beers. I found out some time afterwards it had been a paid job and the others had stuck to my share of the money!!-Yours faithfully,

E. BARNETT.

OXFORD AND SHEPPEY SURPRISE

Dear Sir,-On page 69 of your issue of January 30 you published a request and comments from Mr. Bamforth regarding certain Surprise methods. The notation of Oxford Surprise Major will be found on page 32 of Corrigan's Collection and it is:-

-36-16-58-36-14-38-36-7. 4ths place. l.e. 17258463.

Mr. Bamforth's statement regarding Burton Superlative is incorrect. The notation of Sheppey is:-

b-36-14-58-36-14-58.12.36.12.7. while that of Burton version of Superlative b-78,36,78.14-58-36-14-58.12,36.12.7.

This latter will also be found, among other places, on the same page of Corrigan referred to above.-Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

Watford, Herts.

Dear Sir,-I thank the three people who replied to my request. In rereading the article by A. P. Heywood, which contained Superlative Surprise Major, Burton variation, I discovered that, although only the places in 1-2 were given, the places of 7-8 were implied in the text. I thus withdraw my earlier statement on page 69 of The Ringing World. See also page 130.

With regard to Oxford Surprise Major it is interesting to note that all three notations are different. Taking the one given by Tipler, this. although regular, does not fit in with the composition for the peal in which the Middle comes before the Wrong. The two methods given by Corrigan unfortunately do not give the lead-heads, which they are claimed to do. Since the lead-head 17258463 fits in with the peal composition, I have taken the liberty of altering the first notation at the half-lead to give this lead-head. This is what I think it must be:-

-36-16-58-36-14-38-36-58. I.h. 4ths. 17258463. 2nds place bobs.

Yours faithfully.

STUART I. BAMFORTH.

EAST PENNARD BELLS

Dear Sir,-I was most interested in the account of East Pennard bells and would like to congratulate the band who got them going after such a long silence. It seems that in many cases when a band dies out and the bells are not appreciated in the parish an easy solution is to say they are unsafe or, better still, the tower is unsafe.

While I was at Hurley I tried to teach a band in a nearby tower which had no ringers but first-class bells. On returning after Christmas we were told by the lady churchwarden. who was not a lover of bells, that the tower was unsafe and therefore no further ringing was permitted. Since her death the bells have been augmented to six (possibly to her memory?) and are still fully ringable.

It is a pity the 22 cwt, octave in the parish church of the county town of Buckinghamshire has lain silent for over a century. again one hears rumours as to why they cannot be rung. Nothing is ever done, and the late Sir G. G. Scott had the belfry floor removed, making rather a long draught. Pamber Priory has about the same draught, which makes change ringing difficult but not impossible. So how about knocking the cobwebs off Aylesbury?--Yours faithfully,

A. K. FORTIN.

Amersham, Bucks.

TOMORROW'S CLERGY

Mr. Royston Grosvenor, of King's College Hostel, sends us the following report by one of a party of 16 who visited Whitechapel Bell Foundry. The majority are ordinands who knowledge of bellringing was very limited, and as many will one day be the clergy in parishes where bells may be hung, it is important that they have some idea of what bellringing entails.

On January 31 a group of 16 students from King's College, London, and some friends were shown round the Whitechapel Bell Foundry by Mr. John Slater. He was able to show us the various stages in the making of a tower bell and we were also shown examples of other kinds of bell made there, including the handbells, which are gaining so much in popularity, "muffin" bells, and gongs for sanctuary and clock. The first process we were shown was that of building up the double mould with bricks and a strange mixture of elay, dung and hair. It was interesting to hear Mr. Slater describe how this particular mixture, which has been used since mediæval times for this purpose, acted to allow gases to exhaust in a way that no modern substitute would.

We were then shown how the bell was cleaned, mounted on its headstock and tuned. This latter process is now carried out with electronic equipment to a quite incredible degree of fineness and precision.

degree of fineness and precision.

At this point we were shown part of the largest order the bellfoundry has ever had. It was a batch of replicas of the American "Liberty Bell," the original of which had come from Whitechapel. We were also shown the steel clapper from the largest bell in Liverpool Cathedral. We were told that because of the difficulty of obtaining such a large cast iron clapper this steel one had to be substituted. It was the replacement for the original clapper which had fatigued and broken in use.

Those of us in the party who are training for the ministry were interested to hear how economically bells could be incorporated into a new church building, compared with the price of some architectural "decorations." In all we spent an enjoyable morning, learning more about the mysteries of how a bellfoundry worts. For instance, we were shown how the wheels (for turning the bells) were constructed in an upper room, with no opening large enough to allow the largest wheels to be taken out in one piece. In the room where handbells are tuned and finished we were shown an antique (literally!) lathe, which the foundry obtained when it acquired its present premises, and which is still in use!

For many of us, to whom the world of

For many of us, to whom the world of bells is new territory, the visit afforded great insights into a whole new area of fascination. To those who had had some experience of these things before, many of the details were truly interesting. To all of us the fact that such craftsmanship is still alive and flourishing is greatly heartening.

ALAN MAYER.

ADDICTION?

"The ringing men must reach stages of exultation which are on a par with that of cannibis, but if this is so there is no outward evidence to prove it.

"Ringing is an addiction from which few small Ringing is an addiction from which few escape once they have ventured into the small ortress-like room beneath the bells, and the sally (the soft, tufted end grip of the rope) leaps to life in their hands like an animal. Their shirt-sleeved arms fly with the ropes, and because their whole personality bends to the arcering mass of metal above, they often look as if they had lost their will, as if the bells were in charge of them." (From Ronald Blythe's book Akenfield and quoted by the vicar of Hillingdon at the annual supper.)

A SECOND EDITION

Mr. Frederick Sharpe announced to a meeting in the Oxford Guild recently that he had been asked to revise and submit the copy to the publishers by the end of April for a reprint of his book Berkshire Bells, which was first produced in 1939. It is anticipated that the second edition will be on sale later this year.

BELLS IN WADDESDON DEANERY

Mr. G. J. Tyler sends us the following useful information:—

The 3-bell towers at Ashendon and Upper Winchendon are unringable and have cracked bells. At Worminghall the frame and floor are very decayed. On a more cheerful note, Ickford bells are rung for services by three young ladies, who also ring at Shabbington (6) with the vicar, Rev. R. H. Collier, R.D., and the Long Crendon Congers. Chearsley, Chilton, Dorton and Oakley bells are rung for special services; these are in quite good condition. A monthly practice for ringers in the Waddesdon Deanery is held in the other towers to encourage and assist ringing in the deanery, which has towers in three branches of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

SONGS AND DITTIES

It is generally known among ringers that there are certain songs about ringers which are sung on all sorts of occasions, writes Mr. Royston Grosvenor, As far as I know no collection of these exists; this I consider to be a great pity, since it is probable that many of these ancient (and some modern) songs will be lost to posterity. I would like to make a collection, possibly with a view to publication, if this should prove to be feasible, certainly with a view to the preservation of these songs. Obviously, if I am to make such a collection, I need the co-operation of other ringers, as these are the people who know these songs. If my fellow ringers are concerned to preserve their well-loved "chants" for future generations, perhaps they would like to send me the words (and, if possible, the music), and, if it should be known, the composer, of any ringers' song they might know. The address to which this should be sent is: King's College Hostel. 71 Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.1.

The St. Albans District of the Hertford County Association are running a tower captains' conference on Easter Saturday in St. Albans. The district has decided to open the conference to all tower captains in the Association. Two of the discussion leaders are the Vicar of St. Peter's, St. Albans, and Mr. Dennis Beresford (past master of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths).

157 YEARS' SERVICE

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT LIDDINGTON?

Mr. Derek J. Carr, who gives an address at 32 Bridge Down, Bridge, Canterbury, writes inquiring what has happened to the five bells at Liddington, near Swindon. This was brought up at the A.G.M. of the Swindon District, when a request to visit the tower as part of a meeting was defeated.

Some time previously a party of ringers from Swindon were enthusiastically received by the incumbent and churchwarden. were found to be in good order and went very well.

At the meeting, writes Mr. Carr, it was pointed out that the following points should be noted:-

(i). The chairman of the Gloucester and Bristol emphatically stated that since the bells were "unringable" it was impossible to hold a meeting there, despite the fact that the chairman had never visited the tower.

(ii). The belfry adviser said that he was not going to visit the tower until he had an official letter from the G. and B. secretary giving him permission to examine the tower. This again despite requests from the churchwarden and officers of the branch.

(iii). The request made was only for an examination of the situation with recommendations required for work (if any) to be done.

EVERY MEMBER TO HAVE A REPORT?

On February 4th the annual meeting of the Reading District of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was preceded by afternoon ringing at St. Mary's and St. Giles' and followed by the service at St. Giles' conducted by the Rev. D. Stoter, assisted by the guild master, Canon C. E. Wigg. Tea was provided in St. Giles' Hall.

Mr. D. Drayton, branch chairman, presiding, warmly welcomed the visitors, with special reference to the master (Canon Wigg), the general secretary (Miss M. R. Cross), the general treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker), the editor of The Ringing World (Mr. C. Denyer) and members of neighbouring branches. Some 50 branch members were present.

The secretary gave his report for 1969, which was adopted, and the balance sheet, which had been circulated to all towers, was presented by the treasurer and also adopted. Officers elected for 1970 were: Chairman, Officers elected for 1970 were: Chairman, Mr. D. H. A. Drayton (Tilehurst); deputy, Mr. F. W. Lewis (St. Mary's, Reading); joint ringing masters, Mr. Jim Diserens (St. Mary's. Reading) and Mr. W. Irving (Goring); hon. secretary/treasurer, Mr. B. J. Gatward (Theale); hon. auditors, Mr. C. D. Everett (Tilehurst) and Mr. A. D. Smith (Pangbourne); branch representatives, Messrs. Drayton and Everett Everett.

The proposed list of practices and meetings was accepted. Jane Ruel, Harry Ruel and Colin Tombs were elected members of the guild. It was agreed, after discussion, to guild. It was agreed, after discussion, to donate £25 to Padworth bell restoration.

Mr. Everett said Tilehurst ringers had closed their restoration fund, amounting to £515, and they had been promised £85 from the branch and guild.

Mr. Allen reported that Swallowfield had received four estimates for the lowering of the bells and rehanging with a bed for a sixth. He hoped that this would be the successful conclusion of a 40-year fight.

Mr. K. Vernon reported that St. Giles',

Wokingham, had started a fund.

On the question of an annual report, the following resolution to be taken by the branch representatives to the guild meeting—"This branch recommends that an object of the guild is to provide every member with a report, paid for by the subscription," was carried.

A comprehensive vote of thanks closed the business, and evening ringing continued until 9 p.m. at St. Laurence's.

The collection at the beautiful for the restoration fund totalled £2.1958, seent na no Bellig.

Three ringers at Biddulph St. Lawrence, Staffs, with more than 50 years' service. They are (left to right): William Hazeldine (50 years), former miner but mostly sexton. ringer, gravedigger and general pillar of the church, one-time ringing master of the North Staffs Association and conductor of the Biddulph band; James Stanway, sen. (54 years), miner, long service as people's warden, tower captain and mainstay of the church, a born leader of men (was deputy down the pit)-but now no longer able to ring for more than a few minutes due to pneumoconeosis; Leslie Higgs (53 years), an engineer fitter, of quiet disposition and a good and steadfast ringer. All are Surprise Minor ringers.

Biddulph Church ringers were founder members of the North Staffs Association and have maintained a continuous membership all through. These three have known some famous ringers, such as J. W. Washbrook who had a milk round in the next town (Tunstall), the Pye brothers, the Page brothers and C. Severn, of Sheffield, who composed Biddulph (or Double London as it is sometimes called). They are not ardent peal ringers, but have been exceptionally diligent in Sunday service ringing and in maintaining good striking and a repertoire of advanced methods; Bill Hazeldine has only 20 peals in W. S. D. his book, Leslie Higgs eight and Jim Stanway about 11.

The Guild master (Canon C. E. Wigg), general secretary (Miss M. Cross) and the district secretary (Mr. B. Gatward) with others the meeting at at Reading.

Belfry Gossip

Samuel Thurstans' birthday (February 19, 1789) was marked by two peals—both of Stedman Triples—at Salford and Old Swinford.

Personal records for W. E. Critchley (800 peals), J. E. Cawser (600), F. R. Morton (350), and K. G. Game and E. G. Mould (50).

The Girl Guide movement is well known for its good work, and ringers at Wootton (Oxford) showed appreciation by ringing a quarter for their "Thinking Day."

No doubt the tower was locked when a peal at West Didsbury was in progress for the Manchester and Salford Students' Rag Day on February 10.

An "In Memoriam" quarter at Felkirk was rung by members of Barnsley and District Society for one of their colleagues, Mr. Freddie Priestly, who died recently.

The tenor clapper at Battle, Sussex, snapped when a district meeting was nearly finished on February 28, but, undaunted, the ringers continued with Triples.

Devonshire Ringers' Guild complimented Mr. A. L. Bennett on his 50 years' service with a peal of Bob Major at Plympton on February 21.

The conductor, Dennis Ellisdon, did well in conducting a peal of Minor at Fyfield, Essex, for the remainder of the band were all "firsts" in one way or another.

Rung on February 22, the quarter of Doubles at Pattingham is believed to be the first rung by a local band, all Sunday service ringers.

First peal congratulations to Ian Bell, John F. Roebuck, Christine P. Murray, Jillian Turcan, Susan Turcan, David Gower, Louise G. Powell.

The first ringer in his tower to ring a quarter peal, Mr. W. J. Beckenham, of Ripe, Sussex, rang the treble to Doubles, the ringing being arranged as a compliment to Mr. W. E. Beckenham, a local ringer for 50 years.

New methods: Bradford Delight Major—Privett, Romsey, Ringwood, Fordingbridge, Aldershot, Wantage, Cholsey, and Goring Surprise Major and Newton Nottage Surprise Major.

Mr. Alan Buswell, of Portsmouth, who is compiling the 1969 quarter peal analysis, tells us that Somerset rang 259 quarters and Addington is the leading tower in the country with 39.

The 45-Spliced Major — 10080 changes—which was the subject of a report last week is outstanding, and the very thought of the concentration needed makes one's mind boggle. But what a record!

Installation of the fine heavy octave in a new frame with new fittings at Pilton, Barnstaple, Devon, starts in early March. Dedication by the Bishop of Crediton is on March 20.

A-begging.—Regarding that heavy ring of eight for which Mr. D. A. R. May is anxious to find a home, preferably in the Diocese of Guildford and the county of Surrey—one lady thought he was advertising handbells.

"The three Surprise Minor methods rung in the University of London Society's peal at Addington on February 4th (Ringing World, page 155) had indeed not been previously rung," writes Mr. Cyril A. Wratten, of Charlton Kings, Glos. Complete your files for 1969.—Most back copies available (1s.) from R.W. office: a limited quantity of other years available.

Marlborough Grammar School pupils are still ringing quarter peals. One at Chilton Foliat of Grandsire Doubles was rung on February 16, whilst at Thorne four of those ringing in a quarter were from the local Grammar School.

To ensure publication of advertisement notices for Easter, would secretaries please get copy to The Ringing World Office by Wednesday, March 18. The office and works will be closed from Thursday, March 26, until Tuesday, March 31.

Evening practices do not improve attendances the Wisbech District was told at its A,G.M. by Mr. T. A. Bevis, Two important aspects were eliminated—ringers' services and the traditional ringers' tea which gave the necessary social atmosphere.

What (we hope) will be the last of the 1969 peals is reported this week. It makes the work of the Analysis Committee doubly hard when delays are experienced in printing peals, and we ask all correspondents to help them by reporting peals promptly.

According to a report in a national daily a complaint is to be made to the Bishop of Guildford by some of the students at Surrey University because of the excessive noise from the bells, which ring "for hours on end" and prevent the students from working and sleeping.

Another member of the Croft family (John) has succeeded in conducting a handbell peal (Bob Major) on February 22. Brother James rang 7-8 (his first peal on handbells), and father and another brother (William) made up the remainder of the band. No doubt mother will join in next time—for Royal.

The silent, non-conducted 17-Spliced Sur prise Major peal at Hawkley for the Guildford Guild on February 21 is a great achievement. It was the first "silent" for six of the band and the first for the Guild. Team work in peals is always an essential qualification, but in a non-conducted effort it is vital!

Only the front six at St. Albans Abbey have been ringing recently because the water tank which counterbalances the bells sprang a leak The leak was discovered when water was found to be dripping through the painted ceiling on to the floor of the church. The tank has now been filled with sand and all 12 bells can be rung again.

Writing about record numbers of peals together, Mr. John R. Mayne adds: "I am a little disappointed sometimes at the frequency and naiveté of claims for possible records. So many recollections seem to extend no farther back in time than last year and no farther away than their own area. I think that in spite of superficial appearances to the contrary, this era scarcely equals and certainly does not surpass previous times. An example of this is surely the course of Grandsire Sixteen referred to in recent correspondence. I have seen Samuel Lawrence's peal book which, if I recollect correctly, is in a library at Wellington, Shropshire. It is well worth a perusal."

[&]quot;Lukewarmness I account a sin as great in love as in religion."—A, Cowley,

ST. JOHN OF BEVERLEY WHATTON-IN-THE-VALE

Readers of this journal will recall the previous articles on the "Do it yourself" restoration and augmentation of our bells, November 11, 1966, which described the rehanging of the existing six bells; December 2, 1966, the rededication; and January 17, 1969, the arrangement of the existing six-bell frame to take all eight bells on one level.

Following the augmentation of the frame at the end of 1968, we were left with just over £200 towards the estimated cost of £730 for our two new bells. Fund raising continued during the year, but luck was on our side. The Barron Bell Trust kindly made us a most welcome donation of £250 and the Southwell Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers promised us £75. Together, this would cover the cost of the treble bell and we had only to find another £215.

By midsummer sufficient money was in hand to place the order for the bells and on September 24, 1969, the casting of the two new bells at Messrs, John Taylor and Co.'s Foundry, Loughborough, was witnessed by a large party of ringers and villagers.

Delivery to Whatton was arranged for 10 a.m. on January 14, 1970, but a phone call the previous Monday amended this time to 8.30 a.m., despite the fact that it would still be dark. (Mr. Walker, who was to deliver the bells, had to be on the other side of Worcester by lunch time.)

ARRIVED LATE

The lorry in fact arrived some 10 minutes late, but the two bell hangers and the local ringers had the bells and fittings inside the church and beneath the central tower in double quick time. A hoist was fixed to a convenient oak beam in the ringing chamber, and by 10 o'clock the bells and the rest of the equipment were resting on the ringing chamber floor. The church had been cleaned and the carpets replaced, the trap doors had been put back in position and Messrs, Taylors' men had departed.

We were now on our own and reduced to three local ringers for the rest of the day. The treble bell was first hoisted through the newlyenlarged hole above the ladder, swung across the belfry and placed above its pit on two timber joists. (The hoisting tackle had been left in position from our previous work.) The headstock was next raised and fitted, the bell was lowered into its pit and the bearings bolted to the side frame. The clapper wheel and stay followed, and by one o'clock we were ready to give it a trial swing. In fact it did not swing entirely freely, and a check on the level of the bearings revealed that packing was required under one bearing, and this was rectified and lunch was taken.

During the afternoon the second bell was similarly placed in position and checked, and by five o'clock we could have rung the bells if only we had had the necessary holes in the floor for the ropes.

It was in the evening, whilst cutting the rope hole for the second bell that our luck ran out. Beneath the belfry floor was yet another solid oak beam.

The following day we returned all the borrowed equipment to Loughborough and borrowed their spare 21in, auger. Practice night consisted of proving that the oak beam was in fact only 17½in. deep. The holes through the floor were completed, using 2½in. Marley rainwater down pipe, and the fitting of wooden bosses to the top and bottom. (Wood ceiling bosses are no longer used by the bell foundry, and ours were made by the local joiner, himself a ringer, on his treadle lathe.)

CHRIST CHURCH COLLEGE IN SLUMBERLAND

On January 16 a small band of ringers from the Canterbury area, and notably from Christ Church College, set off on a week-end pirgrimage to Slumberland, the Lincolnshire home of Anne "Sleeper" Dawson, who must be thanked for making the arrangements,

An early start was made on Saturday with vain attempts to milk the bullocks. Attempts vain attempts to milk the bullocks. Attempts to produce good ringing were, however, not so vain, probably due to the excellent belis, and an edifying morning was spent visiting Horbling, Billingborough, Sempringham and Edenham, although Morton provided little more than entertainment, with stiff clappers and a high degree of "odd-struckness."

We were joined for lunch by a reveller from We were joined for lunch by a reveiler from the college ball the previous evening, then pro-ceeded to sample the delights of Spalding, Pinchbeck, Gosberton and Quadring. Suffice to say that Donington bells were difficult to strike and that we did not do full justice to Heckington bells because tiredness was set-ting in Spirits were revived a little for the Spirits were revived a little for the light ten at Ewerby, where we were surprised to bring round a course of Grandsire Caters with a band not used to ten bells, especially when the sound inside the tower could poslikened to bagpipes! The day's ringing finished at Sleaford, where an excellent repast was arranged at the King's Arms Hotel. And so back to the farm for refreshments and handbells and other forms of entertainment.

Sunday morning saw us with the local band for service ringing at Boston, and then an enormous turkey meal à la Dawson. This seemed to induce more than the usual urge for bed upon the assembled company, so that our chances of scoring a quarter for the afternoon service at Heydour seemed remote. arrival, however, these beautiful bells inspired us to great things, and an excellent quarter of 1280 Plain Bob Major was rung by: Jacqueline Cullwick 1, P. S. Philpott 2. Anne Dawson 3. J. Hedgcock 4, M. L. Haigh 5, G. Dawson 6, Keeler (first on eight as conductor) 7. lton 8. The equally pleasant six at Silk T. Skilton 8. The equally pleasant six at Silk Willoughby preceded tea and a small presentation ceremony back at the farm H.Q. before service ringing and farewells at Grantham.

Our grateful thanks must go to all the tower making us so captains and incumbents for making us so welcome, to British Rail and Rabbi Hedgeock us so for their benevolence in transportation, to all those locals who boosted our numbers, and all to Mr. and Mrs. Dawson for accommodating, feeding and tolerating us on this first sober week-end of the academic year. A DOER.

Work then began in earnest on the complete repainting of the frame, despite the fact that it was only painted some three years ago; it was felt that repainting now would save work in a few years' time. The new wheels and stays were sealed and painted blue to match the rest of our fittings.

In raising the bells we had enlarged the ladder access to the belfry in the corner of the ringing room ceiling rather than move two of the existing bells and part of the frame in order to get them through. The ceiling was now repaired and replastered, and the whole of the ringing chamber redecorated and refurnished.

A considerable amount of the work has been filmed on 8 mm, colour film, and it is hoped to produce a short film that will not only be of interest to our own ringers and villagers but will also be of some use to any other ringers contemplating undertaking a similar project.

It is with eager anticipation that we now look forward to the dedication by the Bishop of Sherwood on Saturday, March 14, 1970, and we hope that as many as possible of our friends and ringers will be with us on that

Note. - The result of the competition to guess the total weight of the two new bells will be made known after the service.

WAS THE SEED SOWN THEN?

The Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild is 90 years old this year and was formerly known as the Sonning Deanery Society of Change Ringers. Its first general meeting was at Wokingham on May 26, 1880, and the affiliated towers were Arborfield, and the affiliated towers were Arborheld, Hurst, Sonning, Wargrave and the two Wokingham towers. The late Canon G. F. Coleridge was convinced that this society was the forerunner of the Oxford Guild and that the seed was thus sown at that meeting, and if this was so, that grain of mustard seed has certainly attained the proportions of a gigantic tree in which ringers of all ages, sizes and ability now reside, and 70 to 80 of these attended the district annual meeting at Wokingham on February 21.

Ringing before and after the tea and melting was at All Saints', and choral evensong was at 4 p.m., which the Rector (the Rev. K. R. Martin) conducted. Canon C. E. Wigg (guild master) led in prayer, and Mr. Fred Sharp (deputy master) read the first lesson, the second being read by the branch chairman (the Rev. F. E. Harcourt-Trevor).

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Following tea, Canon Wigg first presented certificates to the branch striking competition winners, who were: 1 Sonning, 2 Hurst, 3 Wargrave. The other business of the branch was dealt with smoothly by the chairman (the Rev. F. E. Harcourt-Trevor) and the balance sheet, ringing master's report (presented by the deputy, Mr. S. Scott) and secretary's (Mr. B. Castle) all being adopted with acclamation.

The officers were re-elected with the ringing master (Mr. H. Smith) and deputy (Mr. Scott) changing offices. The branch striking com-petition was fixed and the contest is to be controlled mainly by the rules laid down by the guild. A lively discussion took place on the monthly branch practices, agreement even-tually being reached that at four of the practices the first period be allocated to advanced (Surprise) methods.

Thirteen new members were elected, Diane Deakin, Judith Burkey, Wynford Clarke, Miss A. J. McWilliam, E. N. Thomas. D. Lane, Miss J. McLean, M. E. Goom, L. Brown, Mrs. J. Ellis, Kevin Dave, Richard West and William Theedon.

Mr. D. C. Willis, of Sonning, following his own suggestion, agreed to organise an inter-branch competition for better striking, and he will be assisted by Mr. W. B. Burkey.

Canon Wigg, Mr. Sharp and Miss Marie Cross (guild secretary) addressed remarks to the meeting one interesting point being the resumption of providing hot meat pies at the branch annual meeting, as was the custom between the two wars. (Perhaps next year?)

A comprehensive vote of thanks was accorded all who had contributed to the success of the meeting, and the chairman was ap-plauded for his expeditious handling of the

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The ringers of Buckingham and Maids Moreton would like to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yates on their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Yates is a loyal service ringer at both towers, while Mrs. Yates has been a keen supporter of her husband's activities.

To mark this special occasion a quarter peal of Doubles was rung at Maids Moreton, and Mr. Yates took part, and another of Stedman R. W. Y. Triples was rung at Buckingham,

BELLS IN SCRAPYARD

"While walking through a scrapyard in Tunbridge Wells this week I spotted four bells, cast by Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, in 1890. They were bought for scrap a few years ago, but the firm have no recollection from where they came. I wonder if any readers can help?" writes A. G. Bassett, of Wadhurst, Sussex.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for MARCH 9, 1945

Mr. Bayles' suggestion of holding a summer school for ringing was not practical, said the leader, and B. D. Price, of Cambridge, suggested a correspondence course in place of it.

A suggestion that five-bell ringers were bored was scorned by Nolan Golden, who said that the record of 21 methods rung in 1883 remained unequalled.

At a meeting at Draycott, N. Staffs, Mr. R. S. Anderson was elected chairman in place of Mr. W. A. Lloyd as the latter was leaving for Leeds.

The Editor was taken to task by T. Groombridge jun. for "unburdening himself extensively on the Midland Counties Association proposals."

A quarter at Basford, Notts, was arranged specially for T. Groombridge sen. on becoming a great-grandfather.

The engagement was announced between John Pelloe, of Ely, and Kathleen Jeffrey, of Fordham.

Mrs. B. C. Castle rang her first quarter on tower beils at Hurst, conducted by her husband.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 12, 1920

St. Martin's Guild, established 1755, advertised the 32nd Annual Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner. Tickets free to fully qualified members, and to others 4s. 6d. each; all full members to be clear on the books,

"Demobilised Artillery officer, five years in France, desires to obtain job of some kind . . ."—Advt.

A peal board was unveiled in the ringing chamber of St. John's, Cardiff, recording Grandsire Caters rung as a compliment to Mr. John Clutterbuck, one of the originators of the Llandaff Diocesan Association.

It was reported that the Loughborough Foundry was supplying a carillon of 56 bells, the heaviest and finest in the world, for the War Memorial at Washington-a great triumph for British bellfounding.

"The day when young men are content to live and die in the village in which they were born is long past."—Letter from A. Allan Bennett, of Gloucester, giving suggestions on recruitment to towers.

At Ranmore Common Church, Surrey, a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was conducted by Alfred H. Winch, and two other members of the band were George Marriner and Albert Harman.

The composition of a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Nicholas' Cathedral, Newcastle, was rung for the first time and contained the 6th 17 courses wrong and 20 courses right.

Southwell Diocesan Guild.—Newark District. Bi-monthly meeting to be held at Newark on Sat., March 21. Bells (10) 3 p.m. Service 4.30, followed by tea. Names for tea, please, to Mr. F. W. Midwinter, 70 Valley Prospect, Newark.—P. Raithby.

RELATIONSHIPS between ringers and the Church up to the late 19th century were often strained, and the situation at Hayes appears to have been no exception. We learn from church records that some 150 years ago the ringers had a terrible row with the vicar, and when asked to stay to service they used to sit in the back pew shouting and swearing. Ringing was then from a balcony and the ringers used to spit on the congregation entering through the west door under the balcony. It has even been said that the south porch was added solely to allow access to the church to be unhindered by these awful ringers! Misbehaviour was still rife only 90 years ago, when a code of rules was drawn up for the six regular and two extra ringers then appointed. The following fines were enforced:

(1)	For absence at marriages or special occasions	1/
(2)	For absence at fixed occasions
	and practice	20
(3)	Bringing beer and spirits into the belfry	20
(4)	Swearing or using foul language	. 20
(5)	Smoking in belfry	. 20

However, the new breed of Hayes ringers have no need of fines for they are endowed with a spirit of enthusiasm and dedication second to none, from the shining example set by Percy Venn in master-minding the restoration of the tower and bells where all was once rot and decay. Percy may not rank among the leading lights of the Exercise—he is essentially a tenor man—yet no parish could wish for a more faithful and devoted ringer. This story is his; one of sweat, toil, grit and determination, a story of endless evenings and weekends spent in the tower over the past 18 months, firstly with his two sons, Christopher and Tony, but later with an ever-increasing army of voluntary helpers who became infected with his enthusiasm. The names of John Rey-nolds, Clive Hammond and Peter Mason may not yet be known to the Exercise, but these three among others have made a valu-able contribution to ringing with their untiring help. Needless to say, all three are now learning to ring. Teaching up to the time of dedication has gone on at Hillingdon under the expert guidance of Fred Goodfellow. It was of great credit to every-one concerned that an all-Hayes band was able to ring the opening rounds at the dedication of the new octave, which took place last Sunday, March 15. This gave great joy to Percy, it being his birthday,

It all began about four years ago when the rector (Preb. A. A. Gorbold) and his churchwardens launched a fund for the complete restoration of the church, including the tower and bells. One of the first tasks undertaken was repointing of the tower exterior. Percy Venn (who although a plastering contractor by trade has some building work experience) was then invited to inspect the inside of the tower. A figure of £2,500 had been quoted as cost of work but this did not include a new roof, a necessity not then foreseen.

VOLUNTARY LABOUR

After inspection Percy agreed to carry out the work using voluntary labour and paying material costs himself. A job which turns out to be worth more like £10,000 has now been completed at no cost to the church.

While faculties were being obtained louvres were wired up and rubbish cleared out. After what seemed an age, the inside of the tower was at Percy's mercy. He had facing him three rotten floors under a roof that was so bad you could put your fist through the beams at point of bearing.

Firstly, floorboards were ripped up and replaced with scaffold board to reduce risk of anyone falling through the ringing chamber and clock chamber floors. A 21-feetlong mediæval staircase employing split logs as treads (believed to be one of only six left in the country) was also dismantled, though it is now hoped to reinstall this above the new bell frame as a museum piece.

After this the clock chamber floor was removed. The beams are said to have come from a previous wooden church and were thus probably nearly 1,000 years old, the tower itself being 15th century. of these beams could be crumbled in the hand while the centres were still rock hard. A new floor was inserted three feet below the old one, employing six beams of jarrah. West Australian eucalyptus redwood which is rock hard and virtually rotproof. Each beam weighed 3 cwt. and was pulled up by block and tackle to its position 25 feet above the floor. John Reynolds, quite by chance, appeared to see what was going on and was promptly given a pair of over-

By now it was March, 1969, and before the bells were dismantled they were rung for the first time since 1923 (a report appeared in R.W., April 11, 1969). After dismantling, the frame was found to be so good that parts of it were given to the little church at Ickenham for repairs there, and some quite good wheels are still going begging!

The works of the organ were occupying a part of what was to be the new ringing chamber and so it was decided to move the organ further through the arch into the church, supported by three rolled steel joistixed horizontally to the ringing chamber floor. The arch was then bricked up, a small access door being provided for the organ works.

SPIRE IN THIN AIR

Next came the tower roof, which was found to be in far worse condition than when first viewed. It was in such a state that birds had nested in the heart of the main support beam gouged out by centuries of rot and beetle attack; replacement was imperative. It proved the most difficult and dangerous operation of the whole project, since on the roof stood a conical spirelet, 4' 6" wide at the base and 13 feet high, weighing about 25 cwt. The church wished to retain the spirelet (made of tapered oak beams and lead sheet), so dismantling was out of the question. Somehow it had to be supported while a new roof was constructed. To accomplish this the lead was peeled slightly like an orange and two wooden beams passed through. These were nitched and supported by two rolled steel joists at right angles, which in turn were supported by H-frame scaffolding erected on the 4ft. wide tower walls. It worked, and the spire stood in thin air! Below it kerbstones were used to strengthen bearing ledges and Bison reinforced concrete beams, each weighing nearly half a ton, were pulled up by block and tackle through the now-hollow tower. The clock chamber floor was specially designed to allow for this, but one slip would have spelt disaster! There followed 1½ tons of concrete and three tons of cement/sand screed (all mixed and pulled up in buckets by hand), topped with asphalt tiles.

When the roof was finished and the spirelet replaced, the Rev. G. Connock, the present rector, performed a "topping-out" ceremony, an old tradition in which he gave his blessing to the work already done.

Meanwhile decisions had been taken about the new ring. The old six, tenor found to be 14-0-7 with an approximate note of F sharp, were first to be replaced by an 8 cwt. bell hung only a few feet below the old ones, but Percy Venn had had second thoughts. As a tenor man he wanted a more meaty ring, and so it was agreed to put the new bells on two tiers and drop them 26 feet down the 61ft. tower, making the new clock chamber floor into the bell chamber floor, with the clock to be installed above the bells. Throughout last summer much money was raised for the new bells, all with great enthusiasm, while Percy stood guarantor for their total cost.

On January 8 he took a party to Whitechapel to see the new bells cast, his own bell (the tenor) being over 3 cwt. heavier than her predecessor and in the key of F. Redundant metal from Sheffield Cathedral was used to make up the weight.

Despite some of the steels for the frame being stolen one night from outside the church, the whole job was completed on time. Trevor Bailey supervised the hanging of 1, 2, 4, 6 and 8 in the lower tier with the other three on top, and a well-appointed ringing chamber has been created.

THE CHURCH AND ITS RINGERS

A MASTERLY SPEECH AT HENRY JOHNSON DINNER

The majority of Associations and Guilds at their dinners give a toast of "The Church" and many and varied are the ways in which it is proposed. At the St. Martin's Guild annual Henry Johnson dinner, held in the Civic Hall, Solihull, on March 7, the master (Miss Muriel Reay) gave an exposition on the subject which held the assembly enthralled throughout, and her pleasant voice and ease of manner helped to emphasise the points which she desired to make. Miss Reay knows her subject and had obviously spent considerable time in research.

Because of the uncertainty of the weather (there was heavy snow a few days before the dinner) the attendance was perhaps smaller than is usually expected for this very popular function, but the 90 who assembled, after ringing at various towers during the day, not only enjoyed a very excellent meal but were regaled with good company and speeches which were both interesting and amusing.

The master was supported at the top table by the Provost of Birmingham (Rt. Rev. George Sinker), chairman of the guild, who was accompanied by Mrs. Sinker, the Lord Bishop of Birmingham (Rt. Rev. L. A. Brown) and Mrs. Brown, the Archdeacon of Birmingham (Ven. V. S. Nicholls) and Mrs. Nicholls, the Rector of Solihull (Canon H. Hartley) and Mrs. Hartley, the president of the Central Council (Mr. John Freeman), the guild secretary (Mr. R. Tibbetts) and Mrs. Tibbetts and the editor of The Ringing World (Mr. C. W. Denyer).

CHURCH HISTORY

The loyal toast was followed by that of "Henry Johnson," proposed by the chairman. Following a short interval the master proposed "The Church." She said: "This once appeared on the menu as 'Church and State." and if we look back into history we see that the Church and State were once very closely linked, and that a churchman was sometimes a chancellor or an adviser to the King. The Church was responsible for education and medicine, both now in the hands of the State. The Church also encouraged drama in those days, when not everyone could read and write, and was a patron of the arts. Beautifully illuminated books were written out by hand in the monasteries and the artist painted altar pieces and frescoes. Craftsmen in gold and silver made their loveliest things for use in the Church. The blacksmith also played his part, and so did the wood carver in adorning the Church, whose influence was strong on the lives of the people. This influence can be seen if we compare some of the buildings. The Norman barons had their castles, cold, cheerless buildings in which to live; they served their function as a fortress in troubled times. When inspired by the Church, the same skills which made the castles raised a really magnificent cathedral on a rock some 40 feet above the River Wear at Durham, and this cathedral is a part of our national heritage.

INFLUENCE OF THE CHURCH

"The influence of the Church on people was also noteworthy and many of us remember the stories of Canute rebuking the waves and Alfred burning cakes. Apart from these it is chiefly the men of the Church whose names and deeds have come down to us; men such as St. Cuthbert, buried in Durham; St. Chad, who has connections with Lichfield; or St. Alphege, patron saint of Solihull, who is rather an interesting person. He was born in 954, possibly in or near Solihull, and may have been educated by the priest at Ulverley. While still a boy he went to the Saxon monastery at Deerhurst and trained to become a monk, but wishing for a stricter life than the one he had at Deerhurst he went to Bath and lived as an anchorite in a cell. Later he became Abbot of Bath and enlarged the Abbey, and at the age of 30 was consecrated Bishop of Winchester, where he remained for 22 years. He served both Church and State, for he became an adviser to King Ethelred the Unready, and during these years there was trouble with the Danes. The treacherous King tried to buy them off, using danegeld, but broke his promises, and Canterbury was besieged and fell and the people massacred. Alphege offered himself as a hostage and was imprisoned at Greenwich, where he later died as a martyr. Several churches are dedicated to him but not all spelt the same way. Like that of the modern child, the Saxons' spelling was variable.

"Prior to the Reformation there was only one Church in this country, the Roman Catholic Church, but 16th century Rome could not accept the new ideas and learning of the Reformation. For political reasons Henry VIII broke away from the Roman Church and declared himself the head of the Church in England, but there was considerable unrest on the Continent. In the dissolution of the monasteries the Church lost much of her wealth and power but at the same time she was, in another way, stronger than before. A man must be very sure of his faith before he will give his life for what he believes, and there were many martyrs, both Roman Catholic and Anglican. With the growth of the Nonconformist churches there were further divisions in the Church. The 20th century, however, is seeing a change in the position, and discussions have taken place between people of different faiths, which are bringing about a better understanding and a gradual breaking down of barriers. For the first time in history the Churches are drawing together.

BELLRINGERS' PART

"As bellringers, where do we fit into the picture? Our craft is an ancient one and has long been sponsored by the Church. We use one of the more expensive possessions of the Church and have considerable pleasure from our ringing, but are we doing enough? At a dinner I attended recently it was said that ringers get their hobby far too cheaply, that they pay about 2s. 6d. yearly subscription and there would be a great outcry if this was raised to 3s. Just over two years ago we increased our subscription to 10s.; there was a protest but it was a very mild one. At the same time we set money aside to form a bell restoration fund, and add about one-third of our income to it each year. The sum of £100 has been promised to Perry Barr when their bells are recast and rehung, and a similar sum will go to Hampton-in-Arden in a few years' time when they add two trebles to their ring

"A good towerkeeper will see the bells are kept in good order. We have a duty to train new ringers and to see that the bells are rung regularly for services. I believe that the ringers who know the discipline of peal ringing, who can stand for three hours or more concentrating on a method and ring well, will have more to offer on Sunday than the man who only rings for 20 minutes on Sunday morning. I believe the challenge of a peal and the conditions under which it is rung make for better ringing. It gives the individual ringer confidence in himself and in his fellow ringers.

"Of course we could do nothing without the co-operation of the clergy. In Birmingham the relationship between the ringers and clergy is a happy one. The Provost is well known up and down the country as a man who likes to hear bells and one who encourages his ringers and he is one of the leading members of what may be called our 'Supporters' Club.' It is our pleasure each year to welcome at our dinner some of our friends and supporters among the clergy.

"Tonight it is also our pleasure to welcome as our guest the new Bishop of Birmingham," and, turning to the Bishop, Miss Reay said: "We all hope you will have a very happy time here and that your ministry will be very rewarding."

The toast was well received.

Replying to the toast, the Archdeacon thanked the guild for electing him a vice-president, and Miss Reay for her wonderful speech. In it she had looked back over history and reminded them of their own part in this day and generation as Christians and members of that Church. He spoke of his own ringing days as a lad in a delightful tower five miles from Truro, and of the excitement and bewilderment of handling a bell alone and for the first time. The speaker likened the ringers' part within the Christian Church to that which happens to anyone learning to ring, going through the various stages until becoming a full member of the team and encouraging others to learn the art.

750th ANNIVERSARY

"We all rejoice that the parish church at Solihull will be celebrating the 750th anniversary of its consecration this year," continued the Archdeacon. "Let us be proud of our calling and faithful to our Leader; let us go out and call people to worship and remind all that the worship of God goes on," he concluded.

The chairman, in proposing "Continued Prosperity to St. Martin's Guild," spoke of his experiences in the mission field and in jocular manner mentioned the history of the guild. "Your ancestors were a rum lot," said the Provost amidst laughter, "but there is no doubt the present members represent the brightest period of the 200 years' history of the guild."

Mr. Richard Tibbetts (hon. secretary), before replying, gave apologies from several "regulars" who usually attended the dinner, and spoke of the fashions today in various spheres. There was the periodic correspondence which appeared in The Ringing World about peal ringing on one side and Sunday service ringing on the other and which after a while petered out, nothing conclusive being The St. Martin's Guild ringers did not take part in this recurring futility because it was the stated aim of the guild that "the guild shall be here for the practice and encouragement of change ringing and the maintenance of ringing for church services." All members of St Martin's who took part in peals were also Sunday service ringers, went on the speaker.

SURPRISE MAXIMUS

He also suggested that those who complained about bellringing should only do so when they became members of the Church. The fashion of methods had also changed and in place of Stedman Cinques at the Cathedral the emphasis was now on Surprise Maximus, and recently of Bristol-type methods, and he hoped that these would match the calibre to which the guild had been accustomed. A paragraph was then read by the secretary from Mr. Edgar Shepherd's letter in which he apologised for absence. It spoke of the pleasure and privilege of hearing the splendid Stedman Cinques which the guild presented for the Christmas Day broadcast—"as high an example of 12-bell ringing that could be afforded," it stated.

Thanking the Provost for the toast, Mr. Tibbetts pledged the present members to maintain and uphold the fine tradition of their predecessors and they looked forward with great confidence to the future and prosperity of St. Martin's Guild.

The Bishop, on being asked to speak, said if it were a peal it would be "Chairman's Surprise." He thanked the ringers for their fraternity and particularly for the Christmas bells. He and his wife counted themselves fortunate indeed to be in—and increasingly of—their company.

Fatal Car Crash

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS FRANCIS KILLED

Returning to Southampton from London late on Saturday night, March 7, after attending a swimming gala in which their 13-years-old son, David, took part, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis were both killed when their Cortina was in collision with an Austin Westminster at Chawton End, Four Marks, Alton, Hants, at 12.45 a.m. on Sunday. Their son was not in the car but was travelling with the swimming club members in a coach.

Born at Paston, Norfolk, 55 years ago, Tom went to the local grammar school and learned to ring in his early 'teens. He came to London in the 1930s and was employed in Covent Garden Fruit Market and in 1939 joined the R.A.S.C., later being commissioned in the Pioneer Corps. Before and after the war he was an active member of the Cumberland Youths, ringing at St. Martin-in-the-Fields. He served a term as master of the Society and had represented them on the Central Council for over 20 years.

Both he and his wife, Margaret, who was 47 and a native of Durham, rang a number of peals, Tom being a very capable conductor. He was to have taken part in a multi-method peal of Spliced Surprise two days after the accident, and this was cancelled. Seven years ago the family moved to Southampton and were members of the North Stoneham tower, where the double funeral took place on March 10.

The bells were rung half-muffled before the service, which was conducted by the priest-in-charge (Rev. C. Rudd), and the hymn "Jesus lives" was sung. As the cortege left the church a band of Cumberland Youths rang a course of Stedman Triples on handbells. Cremation was at South Stoneham.

Among the many ringers who attended were Mr. R. Savory (master, Winchester and Portsmouth Guild), Mr. D. Sibson (master, S. of R. Cumberland Youths) and Mr. D. G. Forder (hon, secretary, W. and P. D.G., and captain at N. Stoneham). Included in the profusion of floral tributes were those from the Winchester and Portsmouth D. Guild, the Winchester District of the W. and P.D.G., the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, the N. Stoneham band and St. Martin-in-the-Fields ringers.

Several memorial peals have been arranged and an appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Francis will appear in our next issue.

Inquests into the deaths were opened by Winchester City Coroner, Mr. B. L. Bremridge, at the Royal Hampshire County Hospital and adjourned until April 7.

Evidence of identification was given by Mr. Grant Carman, of Bassett Green Close. Pathologist Dr. Peter Pullar said Mr. Francis died from laceration of the heart and the death of Mrs. Francis was caused by contusion of the chest and other multiple injuries.

VISITORS WELCOMED

The Rector of Solihull, in proposing the toast to the visitors extended a warm welcome to the Bishop and Mrs. Brown, the Archaecon and Mrs. Nicholls, the president of the Central Council, the editor of The Ringing World, who had succeeded "their old friend Mr. Tom White," and he also gave a list of others who had come that evening for the dinner.

Replying, Mr. John Freeman, in his well-known, capable and humorous manner, had the assembly rocking with laughter as he delivered story after story from his fund of "after dinner specials." He singled out George Fearn for particular reference, mentioning several instances of personal episodes which they had enjoyed together—particularly the visit to America and the Washington peal. The record, said Mr. Freeman, included interviews which each had had, and in which George Fearn spoke of his being in charge of "12 two-bell towers in Birmingham."

Mr. Freeman concluded by saying that the Birmingham Dinner was always well supported, tradition being partly responsible, but character was also important. He mentioned well-known characters of the past—including Albert Walker and Alderman Paddon Smith—and the standards of the past were being maintained today. "Long may the guild flourish and the characters in it flourish, too," said Mr. Freeman.

HANDBELL ENTERTAINMENT,

The final toast "The Chairman" was ably proposed by Mr. Eric Cole, who mentioned the Provost's love of bells and his great interest in the St. Martin's Guild.

Handbell ringing between speeches included three leads of Littleport Little Surprise Maximus, and the King's Norton team, led by Mr. Raymond Aldington, entertained with some excellent tune ringing which received tremendous applause.

The evening continued in a social round of friendly interchange and with continuous handbell ringing. The full programme of tower bell ringing which had been arranged for the day was continued on Sunday at the various churches for services.

"TAKEN TO HEART"

Our recent paragraph entitled "Time, Gentlemen, please," has brought comment from a correspondent that it was discourteous to the Cumberlands, as the writer was their guest and should not criticise his hosts. No discourtesy was intended and it is an editor's prerogativenay, duty-to express what he feels is worthy of comment, be it praise or otherwise. In the case of the Cumberlands' dinner there was (quote) "little to complain of." It was well organised throughout, and although the reason for the late start was, we learn, caused by the unfortunate delay of one of the principal guests, this did not exonerate those who were discourteous to the master and extended his "fifteen minute" interval into 25 minutes. However, at four similar functions since that day, the company assembled on each occasion has been "on time" and at one a speaker said he was "quite disappointed" to find that not only did the meal start on time but that a ten-minute interval was of only ten minutes' duration! So maybe the seed sown has already borne fruit fourfold.

"LOVING CUP" INNOVATION

Informality and a refreshing spirit of friendliness and good humour pervaded the atmosphere at the London County Association Dinner held on February 28 at The George, Strand, W. For a territorial association with a membership of probably between 600 and 700, the gathering of 60 was small, but those who did attend were rewarded with a well-served and plentiful meal, excellent organisation and cheery encouraging speeches delivered with sincerity and spiced with a modicum of fun.

An innovation introduced by the newlyelected master (Mrs. Olive Rogers) was the passing of the "loving cup," whereby each person drank the health of his neighbour, passing the cup from hand to hand. The Francis Dawe handbell trophy was used and handbell ringing was carried out during the ceremony.

BOUQUET PRESENTED

The master took her place amidst the customary applause and was presented with a magnificent bouquet. She briefly addressed the gathering, expressing her thanks, and extending a welcome to all, especially the guests. After the meal, the ceremony of the loving cup and the loyal toast, Mr. Stephen Darvill, with humour and levity, extended a hearty wel-come to the guests which he described as "three-fold." First, Mr. Tom White and Mr. Charles Denyer, past and present editors of The Ringing World, who-were invited and had to take part in the speech-making; the second, the wives, sweethearts and girl friends who, because of their suspicious nature, wanted to find out what really took place at these ringers' gatherings; and third, those who always supported the social functions of the London County Association. Mr. Darvill's references to and asides about university dinners and his various ringing experiences were greeted with much laughter and amusement, but the toast was drunk with great enthusiasm.

Mr. Tom White in a brief but very sincere reply thanked the association on behalf of all the guests for their hospitality and great kindness.

AN UPHILL STRUGGLE

The Editor of The Ringing World (Mr. Charles Denyer), in proposing the toast to the association, congratulated the master on her election and the immediate past master (Mr. Harold Rogers) on his three-year term of office just completed. Both had served the Exercise as a whole, and the London County Association in particular, for many years. The speaker then briefly outlined the life of the association from its early days up to the present, as he understood it, and said the officers and members of yesteryear had laid the solid foundation which supported the present administration. In spite of many setbacks and the uphill struggle which had to be overcome, the present officers would, with the support of the loyal members, continue to build for the future.

Mr. Alex Young designed and gave the master's badge for the centenary in 1924. It replaced the original one which was lost.

It was very encouraging to learn that a new band at St. James'. Clerkenwell, was progressing so well under Mr. Michael Wycherley, and the gathering applauded when Mr. Denyer congratulated Michael and wished him continued success in his efforts. Finally the speaker spoke appreciatively of the tremendous help given to him by the treasurer of the London County Association, Mr. Wilfrid Wilson. As convener (horrible word)—chairman of The Ringing World Committee Mr. Wilson had advised, consoled, guided and encouraged him, he said, in the task of taking over as Editor, which was not easy when following a man who had a lifetime of experience in journalism. He had received many letters of support and encouragement, but there were also the "arm chair critics," always ready to find fault and to take offence when none was intended. Arm chair critics would find themselves sat uponhard—unless they were prepared to help and not hinder the progress of The Ringing World, he said.

Concluding, Mr. Denyer extended the best wishes of the visitors to the master, the officers and members of the London County Association and the toast was well received.

After a brief expression of thanks, the master gave details of the proposed programme for the year ahead, which is to include an outing in July. The remainder of the evening was given over to individual discussion and social intercourse.

AN OUTING—WITH RIVER TRIP?

The St. Albans District held their meeting at SS. Peter and Paul, Kimpton, on Feb. 21, when a large number of beginners were present and a high standard of ringing was maintained. The service, conducted by Rev. R. Meredith, was followed by an excellent tea in the nearby hall, when 32s. 3d. was collected for the voluntary bell fund.

collected for the voluntary bell fund.

The secretary (Mr. F. W. Ellis) read the minutes, after which Miss M. J. Sheppard and Miss F. M. Barker were elected probationers and Mr. J. Andrews a non-resident life member. The tower captains' conference is to be held at the end of March at the Cavalier Hall, St. Albans.

The district outing, proposed for July 4, is to be to London and it is hoped this will include a river trip. The next meeting will be held as a joint meeting with the Watford District at Radlett and Elstree and the April meeting at St. Michael's instead of Harpenden.

Mr. R. E. Hardy thanked the vicar, the local ringers and the ladies for the tea, and he in turn was thanked for playing the organ. Both handbells and tower bells were rung in the evening.

DISTRICT RINGING COURSE

A ringing course was held by the St. Albans District on January 24 and was attended by about 20 people, including a number of beginners. Mr. J. D. Painter gave a useful talk on "Learning a Method," Mr. K. J. Walpole spoke about "Conducting" and Mr. C. W. Woolley gave a constructive talk and demonstration of handbells and finally Mr. F. W. Ellis gave a practical lesson on "Bell Control."

Open ringing followed in the evening.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

Mr. Edwin Barnett, sen., of Crayford, Kent, who broke a hip when he slipped on the ice on January 6, has left hospital and is now in a nursing home at Heathfield, Sussex, for physiotherapic treatment. He has written a letter about the Sidcup bells and related an amusing experience. In addition we learn that he completed 75 years' membership at Crayford Church tower in January, and it would have been celebrated with a quarter but for his accident with a quarter but for his accident.

We all wish Mr. Barnett a full recovery to as active a life as his age will allow, and certainly a return to his beloved bells.

Letters

Dear Sir,—I regret having upset Mr. Bottomley, but it is with a sense of justice and not "sour grapes," as he infers in his letter, that I have to tread on a few corns. I must insist that the record be put straight on this matter and I therefore wish to elucidate as follows.

The Southwell Guild's motion was submitted in accordance with the Council's regulations some two months before the meeting. The Towers and Belfries Committee subsequently advised that the motion should be withdrawn for reasons which were, in all fairness, explained at the Council's meeting in May. The representatives of the Guild co-operated throughout in meeting members of the Towers and Belfries and, at a later stage, the Standing committees.

Having heard, in advance as it were, the arguments for and against the motion, the Guild decided to affirm their proposal, and this was confirmed at the Guild's A.G.M. on April 12, this date still being before the closing date for motions (This confirmation was reported on page 414 of the R.W., 1969.) The right to proceed should have been recognised!

When the agenda was published without the motion the secretary was asked to rectify the matter but declined, leaving the motion to be raised under the rule which allows the introduction of subjects at the meeting. In the interim period various contacts were made between members of the Council and the Guild representatives.

It is little wonder, therefore, if the Guild's representatives seemed somewhat abrupt at the meeting, and I am sure that many members would have felt more sympathetic if they had realised the "stonewalling" that the Guild had to face; as it was they were treated as naughty boys.

Mr. Bottomley claims that the omission was an error, but to any but the greenest members it must be inconceivable that such a mistake could have taken place on a motion that had already provoked so much prediscussion. I state all the foregoing to stress that the Exercise will not tolerate manipulation by any members of the Council. Let us hope that a fresh wind will blow at the meeting this year.—Yours faithfully, CHRISTOPHER F. MEW.

SCHOOL HANDBELL RINGERS

Dear Sir, — It has been brought to my notice that letters have been published in The Ringing World regarding the Clere School Handbell Ringers.

These letters appear to suggest an uncharitable attitude on the part of the school ringers towards the rector and ringers of Burghclere Parish Church.

May I refute any suggestion of this kind. The school ringers and myself are most grateful to the rector and ringers of Burghclere for the loan of their 37 handbells, a loan which was generously extended several times

These bells have now been returned as they are understandably required by the church ringers.

The Clere ringers are continuing with other borrowed bells until their new set arrives.—Yours faithfully, GRAHAM PAGE.

FROM ZAMBIA

Writing to Mr. Frank Perrens from P.O. Box 241, Kalulushi, Zambia, Mr. R. W. Booth asks for information about books published, etc., connected with ringing. He writes:—

"I'm sure you'll be interested to learn that about three months ago we started a band of handbell ringers here in Kalulushi. There are eight members of varying proficiency including a Canadian and a Dutchman. The bells (we have two sets, in fact) are privately owned. Only two of us had had any previous experience in changeringing—and that was rather scanty and in the tower as opposed to 'in hand'—but there is certainly no lack of enthusiasm! The nearest tower bells are at Salisbury Cathedral in Rhodesia—a good 550 miles away—so all our ringing will have to be in hand."

"We have concentrated on Plain Bob Minor to date, and our best efforts so far have been touches of 180 (three courses with a bob at the end of each) and a 120 (four bobs).

"We will let you know when we manage our first peal and can call ourselves true members of the Exercise."

INFORMATION WANTED

Mr. Keith J. Walpole, of 13 Tudor Road, Wheathampstead, Herts, would like all the information possible about all the Delight Major methods which have been rung to peals. If anyone has a list and can supply these details please write direct: Mr. K. J. W. would be grateful.

"TWENTY WERE CALLED—TEN CHOSEN"

Outside Guildford Cathedral at 08.45 hours on February 21 were found ten ringers from Essex ready for a peal attempt. But wait, a strange ringer is present! At 08.55 hours there were a further nine, making a band for the Cumberlands' peal attempt! All were in good time for 09.00 hours start! The Essex men held the belfry keys! It appeared that both bands had had the bells booked since May, 1969! The organiser from each band depart together to sort out something; the rest of the ringers talk about many interesting ringers' happenings—the merits between Bristol Royal and Grandsire Caters were not mentioned.

The organisers return—no result! Well, no good looking at each other; let someone get going. Let's toss a coin for it. Don't like gambling, but good idea. But wait, one of the Cumberlands says it is getting late and must leave by a certain time. No need to toss the coin—Cumberlands suggest that the Essex men should peal the bells. They have come the farthest. Good luck!—ring a good peal. Not a cross word or moan heard—all very gentlemanly.

The Essex men enjoyed themselves very much and rang a peal of Grandsire Caters and thank the following for the privilege: the Cathedral authorities, the Surrey Association and the courtesy of the Cumberlands. After the peal an Essex man said he would very much like to ring a peal or so of Bristol Royal but expected he would come back to Grandsire Caters for the best music! Could the Essex men ring the peal for the Cumberlands? No! some belonged elsewhere. F. B. L.

WEDDING

MR. JOHN GIBBONS—MISS SUSAN BATTERSBY

The marriage took place at St. Martin's Church, Ruislip, on February 28, 1970, between Mr. John Gibbons, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gibbons, of Goostrey, Cheshire, and Miss Susan Battersby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Battersby, of Ruislip.

The bridegroom's father is tower captain at St. Luke's, Goostrey, and John is a member of the Oxford University Guild. The couple met in Oxford where both obtained their degrees. Since the ringing of tower bells for weddings is not allowed at Ruislip during Lent, the bride was greeted with handbells when she arrived, escorted by her father.

Susan wore a beautiful white velvet dress with a lace-trimmed bodice and a long train and a lace-trimmed velvet hood to match, all of which she had made herself, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, lilies, freesias and real orange blossom. She was attended by two adult bridesmaids, school and college friends and by two little cousins as flower girls. All wore long velvet dresses of crushed raspberry colour and carried mixed freesias.

The bridegroom's brother, a medical student at Oxford, was the best man and the bride's brother, together with mutual friends from student days, were ushers. During the reception in the New Church Hall, Ruislip. John and his father, with Mr. Hector Bennett, entertained the guests with handbell ringing. After their honeymoon in Portugal Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons will live in Paddock Wood, Kent.

We wish them every happiness. E.S.

200 PEALS AT SOUTHGATE

The first peal at Christ Church, Southgate, N.—Grandsire Triples—was rung on April 21, 1880, and the 200th on January 24. 1970. This was the first of Plain Bob Royal on the bells. So the peals have been spread over almost 90 years.

By 1910 154 peals had been rung, the most prolific period being 1901–1910, when no fewer than 67 peals were scored. This large total was due to the fact that in those days Southgate was largely undeveloped, few houses being in the vicinity of the church. In fact the records of the Christ Church Society state that ringing often took place after Evensong on the first Sunday in the month, sometimes until 10 p.m., ringers from other churches joining the Southgate band in a kind of miniature "Association"

Since 1911 only 46 peals have been rungfor Southgate rapidly became "built up" and because of the gradual disappearance of the accomplished Southgate band. There have been 38 peals of Grandsire Triples, 32 Plain Bob Major, 26 Stedman Triples, 23 Superlative S. Major, 18 Double Norwich C.B.M. and 17 Kent T.B. Major. Other methods include Grandsire Major, Canterbury Major, Cambridge Major and Royal, Bristol Major and London Major and Royal.

Two "firsts in the method" were the Rochester variation of Superlative, now renamed Southgate, and Bedminster S. Royal. The bells were augmented to ten in 1920 and so far 19 peals of Caters and Royal have been rung on them.

VICAR'S RETIREMENT

A presentation to mark his retirement was made recently to the Rev. G. Moule, Vicar of St. George's, Damerham, by the ringers of Damerham and Martin. A very keen member of the band, he always attended weekly practice, and is proud to be the only vicar to have rung a peal on the bells. The Vicar is seen in the pnotograph holding the inscribed pewter mug with which he was presented, and others

Hertford County Association

INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE

The Eastern District A.G.M. on February 21 was held at All Saints (10), Hertford, and ringing was enjoyed in a variety of methods before the service, which was conducted by Rev. G. Haw. Tea, which had been prepared at short notice by the ringers and their wives, was in the church hall, and at the business which followed the president (Mr. Walter Ayre), general secretary (Mr. Rex Agg) and treasurer (Mr. Howard Collins) were welcomed.

Owing to the absence of the district secretary (Mr. S. James) the minutes and accounts could not be presented. Officers for 1970 are: Mr. D. Harris (ringing master), Mr. E. Newman (deputy), Mr. S. James (hon. secretary) and Mr. B. J. W. Foley (R.W. correspondent). New members elected were: Valerie Hart, Elaine Kimming, Ray Hart (Cheshunt); Peter Walters, Ann Walters, Alan Walters (Tewin); Rodney Harder ters, Alan Walters (Tewin); Rodney Horder (Hoddesdon); Rev. R. F. Law (Bengeo); Margaret Croysdill, Jill Carter, Richard Ellis (Northaw).

The district ringing master stated that interest was being aroused in the possibility of restoration work being done where bells were thought to be unringable. It was intended that investigation should be made into this matter, particularly where only minor repair work was considered necessary. The meeting concurred.

The usual thanks were extended to the organisers and it was announced that the next meeting would be at Amwell, the details to be advertised in due course. B. J. W. F.

Sussex County Association

IMPROVEMENT ALL ROUND

The annual divisional meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Battle on February 28, when ringing in standard methods was enioved.

The Dean of Battle (Very Rev. F. H. Outram) conducted a short service, and after a good tea, prepared by the Mothers' Union, the business meeting was presided over by the master (Mr. R. V. Johnson). There were 44 members present. The secretary reported that Chiddingly bells were out of action due to a structural fault in the tower but Hooe bells were now ringable after a silence of five years. average attendance at meetings had in-creased from 24 to 36 and the number of new members, peals rung by resident bands in the division and quarter peals were also up. The accounts showed an increased balance on the previous year.

Twenty-eight new members were elected at the meeting and the following officers are to serve for the coming year: Mrs. Christine Baldock (Linden Cottage, Peelings Lane, Westham, Pevensey), divisional secretary; Mr. Alan Baldock, divisional ringing master; Miss Janet Percy and Mr. Thomas Barlow, committee members; Mr. Charles Bassett, auditor.

Ringing continued in the evening, when a very good course of London S. Major was the highlight. Unfortunately, thirty minutes before "time" the tenor clapper broke, but use was made of the remaining seven bells to rounds and triples.

Yorkshire Association

JOINT MEETING AT PENISTONE

Continuing the trend of the last six months, the Southern Branch of the Yorkshire Association held a successful meeting at Penistone on February 21. The Barnsley and District Society acted as the host society, but Sheffield and District members were well in evidence. Ringing got off to a good start and before the service had included the standard methods up to London Surprise. Particularly worthy of note was a well-struck touch of closed-lead Oxford Treble Bob Minor, in which 90-years-old Mr. John William Moxon took part—much to his and everyone else's satisfaction.

After a short service in the parish church, conducted by the curate, members adjourned to the National School, where the local ladies, under the watchful eye of Jack Whitehead (Penistone tower captain), had prepared a very satisfying tea, which was enjoyed by about 50 members.

A short business meeting was held, at which four new members were elected, including one from Wortley—until recently a "silent" tower. Mr. John Laughton was elected to the branch committee. Mention was made that the committee are seriously considering the question of practice meetings in the area, and the secretary announced that it was hoped to hold the March practice at Wortley, followed by Ranmoor in April. A comprehensive vote of thanks was then proposed by Mr. Harold Chant and endorsed by all present.

After the meeting members adjourned to the tower, where ringing continued until 9

OLD PRINTS

Mr. J. Hedgcock, of Folkestone, sends us the following discoveries, which have been collected by Messrs. Cawley, Hancock, Clouston and Skilton, who were interested in "Old Prints" (page 151):—

Rambling Club of Ringers, 1733-35, visiting St. Bene't and St. Peier.

"Then first—stay let me think
Why first of all at Bene't Fink
Seven hundred and twenty of Plain Bob,
Ay, true, my muse, a noble job."

They had difficulty in obtaining access to St. Peter.

By a saucy sexton vexed A nasty fat-arsed bitch, God damn her, With legs as big as a pavior's rammer, But brought her haughty stomach down By getting keys from the warden."

St. James', Garlickhythe.—Three bells all damaged by blast, ready to fall and quite unringable.

St. Mildred, Bread Street. — The bottom three stages of the tower stand complete, with a recently sealed off spiral. The top of the tower removed 1966, spire went with the church (bombed) and the one bell, April 17, 1941.

St. Stephen, Walbrook. — Parts of tower pre-Reformation.

St. Mary, Aldermary.—One bell hung for ringing.

St. Margaret Pattens. — Bells rehung c.1896 and in ringing order.

St. Magnus the Martyr.—One small bed in cupola, clocked, of bad tone. Below is the massive oak frame of the 10 bells removed in 1939, the tenor headstock still swinging on its bearings. The ringing room very filthy and meiancholy, with ropes hanging up, peal boards on walls terribly neglected.

All Hallows, Staining.—No bells now. Five were recast for Homerton in 1870s and the recently welded pre-Reformation Flemish bell is still at Whitechapel awaiting the completion of its home—The Grocers' Hall—after fire of 1966.

Tower of London.—St. Peter ad Vincula—Ring of three bells, tenor 8 cwt.

SILENT TOWERS OF THE CITY

St. Sepulchre.—Tower unsafe. The 10 could probably be rung but the ringing would probably affect the tower. In 1962 old treble rehung to make a sanctus.

St. Andrew, Undershaft.—Bells hang dead in ringing frame. Old fittings remain in a heap. Rung until approx. 1937.

St. Katharine Cree. — All fittings removed except stocks. Even sanctus and clock bell unused.

All Hallows-by-the-Tower. — Eighteen magnificent Taylor (1947) bells; tenor 41 cwt. O.d, unringable, eight totally destroyed, though one peal board rescued and restored.

Lewisham District

STRIKING COMPETITION

On February 14 seven bands, representing many parts of the Lewisham District, gathered at St. Mary's, Bexley, the event being the first striking competition to be held in the district.

After tea, prepared by the local band, the judges, Mr. Walter Dobbie and Mr. Stan Jenner, announced the results and congratulated the competing bands on the high standard of striking. The winners (St. Mary's, Bexley) and the runners-up (West Wickham "A" team) will enter for the Kent County competition which is to be held later in the year.

P. M. F.

At a monthly Girl Guide parade service recently at Aughton St. Michael's, Lancashire, preceded by bellringing, six of the Guide company rang. They are photographed here with the tower captain, Mr. R. Larkey, who tells us they are very promising young ringers. Left to right: Susan Lloyd (12), Angela Parr (15), Susan Howe (12), Linda Rothwell (11), Sarah Pierce (13) and Elizabeth Woodcock (17).

LEARN WITH LEN

Mr. J. Rank, of Machakos, Kenya, supplies the following problem:—

Recently eight enthusiastic ringers organised an outing, and Len Learner was invited to join them. Len's progress in ringing enabled him to cover on the tenor, hunt the treble to any plain method and to ring Plain Bob inside. During the outing two touches were rung at each of the towers visited, and all the ringers rang at least once in every tower.

At Firstchurch a touch of Spliced Beverley and Surfleet was followed by two courses of St. Clement's.

At Bichurch a quarter peal of Duffield was successfully brought round, and the ringing here was concluded with a short touch of Plain Bob Major. Len gathered that this was the shortest touch possible containing both bobs and singles.

The next tower had five bells and all the ringers who rang in the Duffield rang only once here. Len was asked if he would call a touch and he succeeded in calling a touch of Grandsire with only one call. A bob course of St. Simon's was also rung.

On arrival at Fenchurch some of the ringers were studying a method new to most of them. Its place notation is 36.14—14 l.h. 12. After raising the bells a course of this method was rung with Len on the treble. Len stayed on the treble for the next touch, which kept the conductor busy—it contained 15 plain methods. Afterwards Len copied the details from the conductor's notebook and noticed that there was only one lead of most methods, although there were two leads of three of the methods and three leads of Plain Bob. No Little methods were rung.

The ringing at Lastchurch opened with a bob course of Stedman Triples. The ringer who did not take part asked afterwards if someone would stand behind him for a touch of Double Norwich to advise him about his near places with which he always

OLD NEWSPAPER CUTTINGS

DISCORDANT BELLS

"Dear Bells! How sweet the sound of village bells when on the undulating air they swim!

"It seems that Hood was hardly accurate in saying this. The lamentable truth appears to be that practically all the bells in the country are out of tune.

"This distressing revelation was made by Mr. Cyril F. Johnston of Messrs, Gillett & Johnston the famous bell founders to a 'Daily News' representative yesterday.

"A practical demonstration of what the public have to suffer in old Cathedral cities was given at the bell foundry yesterday. Old bells from Rochester Cathedral, which the Dean and Chapter have at last consented to have re-cast, were first rung. The result was distressing. Then a peal which has already been re-cast for the Royal Exchange, and tuned on a new system reverberated through the foundry.

"The difference was obvious to the most un-musical. The peal had all the harmony of an organ. Even Mr. Johnston listened without discomfort.

"The result of the new method is that there is practically no discord, as the bell modulates from one key to another in the rendering of tunes."—The Daily News, Dec. 18, 1920; the Daily Sketch, Dec. 18, 1920.

experienced difficulty. In the touch which followed the sixth made all the three bobs and at least one member of the band was relieved that there were no singles.

During the journey home Len calculated, with the help of his Ringers' Diary, the number of changes he had rung during the day (including covering on the tenor).

By the way, exactly how many changes did he ring?

(Solution next week)

Obituary

MR. HENRY A. PRICE

Harry Price, a ringer at Hope Church, Flintshire, for over 25 years, died suddenly on February 23. As local towerkeeper and treasurer for the past ten years, he had been a faithful Sunday service ringer and had also trained many young ringers.

He was auditor of the North Wales Association, members of which rang Hope bells half-muffled for the funeral.

He leaves a wife, son and daughter, to whom we extend our sympathy. E. V. W.

FREDERICK J. CRAPNELL

An appreciation of the life and work of Frederick J. Crapnell, of Grundisburgh, has been received from Mr. J. Bennett. He writes:—

"Fred was admitted to hospital on Feb. 20 and died four days later, just 14 days before his 89th birthday. There was a large congregation at the funeral service in the church he had served so loyally for well over half a century."

MRS. W. TATE

It was with regret that the death of Mrs. W. Tate was announced at the annual general meeting of the Portsmouth District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild. Mrs. Tate passed away on February 6. She was a life associate member of the Guild for very many years. To Bill we extend our very deep sympathy. L. D. D.

VICTOR GRIFFIN

We have received the following appreciation from Rev. D. H. Sansum, of Stechford Vicarage, Birmingham:—

In February, 1959, as a diffident new curate reluctantly obeying vicar's orders, I walked into the ringing practice at Stratton St. Margaret and for the first time viewed the puzzling sight of ringers in action. The young man in charge said: "The only way to understand this is to do it. Let me teach you." Little knowing what assent would entail. I blithely agreed. So it was that Victor Griffin took on the tough task of teaching a clumsy cleric to ring a bell. With amazing patience and perseverance he at length managed it. He also managed to communicate his own enthusiasm for this strange pursuit to an astonishing degree.

Our ways soon parted. I left for Bristol and later Birmingham, and he for Oxford. We always kept in touch and met from time to time. He always seemed glad to learn of my continuing interest in ringing and was particularly pleased (if surprised!) to hear that I had taken part in the first clerical peal of Bob Royal at Magdalen College last year. It was then already evident that he was a sick man, and now we have received the sad shock of his untimely death.

The warmest sympathy of all their friends will be with his wife, Barbara, and their children, and I should like to express it on behalf of all his pupils. I shall always remember Victor gratefully as my first teacher in the art in which he excelled and which I have come to love. I shall also remember his devoted churchmanship, happy family life, his success, the reward of energy and ability in his career. The book of Wisdom has something appropriate to say: "A righteous man, though he die

Belfry Gossip

At Benhall in Suffolk there is a new band of Sunday service ringers and in February they rang their first quarter—P.B. Doubles.

New Methods. — Knotty Ash Delight Major (at Southport) and Checkendon Surprise Major (at Checkendon).

Mrs. Jessie Kippin was recently elected chairman of the Winchester District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.

Thinking Day, 1970.—Six girls from the Bramford area rang Sproughton bells prior to the Bramford and Bosmere District Girl Guides thinking day service on Feb. 22.

His century. — Michael Hallett rang the 9th at Guildford Cathedral to Grandsire Caters and so completed a personal record of 100 peals.

To mark the occasion of his 50 years of ringing Mr. J. E. Cawser conducted a peal of Maximus (Quex Surprise) at St. Philip's, Birmingham.

Seven Surprise Minor methods were rung at Longparish as a token of respect to the late verger of the church, who died after 30 years' service.

A youthful conductor at St. Andrew's, Scole, Norfolk, is Katharine Thorley, for at 13 years of age she has conducted a peal of Minor in three methods.

Sixty years a ringer at Uppingham (Rutland), Mr. R. Berridge rang the tenor for a quarter of Triples on February 22 for this special event.

Bradpole Ringers had a quarter peal tour of Somerset on February 28. Quarters were scored at South Cadbury and Ash-in-Martock but one was lost at Bruton. The party also rang at Castle Cary and Babcary.

before his time, shall be at rest.... Being made perfect in a little while he fulfilled long years, for his soul was pleasing unto the Lord."

And from Alan Ward:--

We in Manchester were grieved to hear the sad news of the death of Victor Griffin. In the mid-50s, as a young aircraftman on National Service, Victor was posted to R.A.F., Kirkham. During his stay he made many visits to Manchester and soon became part of a group of young ringers who went to meetings, on outings and for peal attempts. It was in Manchester where Victor met Barbara, his wife-to-be, and he also joined the band at Christ Church, West Didsbury, where he rang until being posted to R.A.F., Ballykelly.

On demobilisation from the R.A.F. Victor returned to his former job with British Railways at Swindon, where he worked as a draughtsman, but he later left the railways to work in the drawing office of Vickers. The year 1958 proved a memorable one in Manchester, when eight of the group of young ringers were married—Barbara Kay and Victor Griffin, Sybil Higham and John Somers, Joyce Halliday and Derek Ogden, and Joan Cordwell and Alan Ward. After their honeymoon in Ireland, Barbara and Victor went to live at Stratton St. Margaret (Swindon). Some four or five years ago Victor took up an appointment with the Pressed Steel Company and left Stratton for Oxford.

In the columns of the R.W. six years ago was recorded the death of Derek Ogden at the early age of 30. Now at 37 we sorrowfully record the death of another friend and companion. To his wife, Barbara, and three young children we offer our deepest sympathy.

First peal congratulations to David Garner, Patricia Bates, Linda Merrall, Michael E. Pickering, Geoffrey Kelham, Christopher J. Lucas, Shelagh Dennis, Ian McCallion, Ronald S. Barclay, Martin Petchey.

His eightieth.—Leonard Stilwell, that popular ringer who is well known in many areas, reached his 80th birthday in February and a peal of Pudsey S.M. was rung at Ambrosden, Oxford, for the anniversary.

The villagers of Shipbourne, Kent, no doubt all joined in when the verger and his wife (Mr. and Mrs. C. Fairbrass) celebrated their golden wedding last month. The local ringers helped with 1260 of Doubles.

A singular occasion on St. Valentine's Day: Six single ringers rang a single method (P.B. Minor) to a peal which contained all singles, although two members of the band celebrated a double event—100 peals together.

Mr. C. V. Cade, of Scothern, Lincs, did not realise he had scored his 50th peal until Mr. A. C. A. Hopkins checked for him. It was P.B. Minor last August for the Lincoln Guild, and Mr. Walter S. Smith also rang his 50th at the same time.

For 70 years John Newbold sang in the choir and rang the bells at Little Aston, Staffs, and when after this long service he died at the advanced age of 90, 1440 of Surprise Minor, half-muffled, was rung in memoriam.

The Guildford Diocesan Advisory Committee has invited Mr. Douglas A. R. May, master of the Guildford Guild, to be a member of the committee and to attend its monthly meetings. Mr. May's special concern will be to investigate matters concerning bells before they are taken in committee.

Because of the celebrations to be held at Cockermouth (both ringing and otherwise) to mark the centenary of the birth of William Wordsworth, the A.G.M. of the Cumberland and N. Westmorland Association will take place two weeks later (April 18) and not the date shown in the Bellringers Diary.

At Woodborough housewives were given the signal to start mixing the batter by the pancake bell of St. Swithun's Church. The vicar (Rev. Alfred Ross Hayward) performs this yearly task on one of the church's four bells. The custom, explained the vicar, was originally to bring people to church to be "shriven" or forgiven. Shrove Tuesday is a day of prayer in preparation for Lent, but nowadays the 416-years-old bell is used as a "begin baking" signal.

THE SON WHO IS LEFT

The whole Exercise has been shocked by the tragedy which has left David Francis, of Bassett Green Close, Southampton, an orphan at the age of 13, and the sympathy of all has been extended to him and to his relatives.

David is a very enthusiastic and capable swimmer and his parents encouraged him in every way. At the gala in London on Saturday (March 14) before the accident he was Southampton's only winner in the under-14 boys' age group, and in addition to taking the butterfly event he finished third in the backstroke.

Unfortunately he will now have to move away from Southampton and the future of his swimming prowess will depend largely upon the area in which his new home will be. But we all wish him well.

HANDBELL RINGERS OF GREAT BRITAIN

The fifth edition of Reverberations, the magazine of the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain, reports that on November 1 there were 69 registered teams. These were spread over 27 English counties with 535 individual members, 441 of whom belong to teams. There are 114 life members. This current issue contains a list of registered teams and their secretaries, and copies can be obtained from the hon. secretary and editor, Mr. John P. Partington, I Bankfield Lane. Rochdale, Lancs, price 1s. 6d. post free.

The sub-committee have had a long session making arrangements for the next annual rally to be held at Leicester, which will be in two parts—general ringing in the afternoon and a concert in the evening. That all teams, except those ringing in the concert, should ring in the afternoon, every team is to ring one piece only before any team rings for a second time. Teams are to be invited to play in the concert and to be varied from year to year.

Among the articles, Edward Cribley writes on "Beginning the Archives." He has about 300 pieces played by almost 60 teams, recorded at the national rallies or at Randwick. It is mostly on half-track stereo, occupying about 20,000 feet of tape.

Plans are in hand for producing a "Society tie" to be sold at about £1. A minimum of 100 is necessary for the Society to go ahead and those interested are asked to pay in advance.

Norwich Diocesan Association

VISIT TO FOUNDRY PLANNED

A very successful quarterly meeting of the Eastern Branch was held at Carlton Colville on February 21. Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m., followed by the service, which was taken by Rev. Peter N. Bond, chairman of the branch, the preacher being the rector of Carlton Colville (Rev. D. G. Blyth). Fifty sat down and enjoyed the tea, served in the Village Hall. During the business meeting which followed thanks were extended to the rector, Miss Susan Hubbard who played the organ, and the ladies who had prepared and served the tea. Two new ringing members were elected—Miss Linda Cox and Miss Sally Neale, both of Carlton Colville. It is hoped to hold a branch outing to the bell foundry at Loughborough in July and a branch dinner in October. Members were reminded that the Association annual general meeting would this year be held at Great Yarmouth in May, this being the first time that the meeting has moved from Norwich. The next quarterly meeting will be held at Somerleyton in May, and other meetings arranged are a Surprise practice at Great Yarmouth, a practice meeting at Norton Subcourse in March, and a practice meeting at South Walsham in April. It is also hoped to hold a branch striking competition at Gorleston in June.

After the business Carlton Colville bells were rung until 8 p.m., and then on to Pakefield to ring until 9 p.m. M. K.

JOE BURGESS

A pupil of octogenarian Joe Burgess, of Friezland, sends us the following about Joe:

He was born on March 12, 1890, and his father died when Joe was nine, leaving his mother with five sons. Joe became the mainstay of the family, running errands for neighbours. Conditions were so bad that he was admonished for entering Christ Church, Friezland, in ragged clothes, so he entered by the back door with the ringers, and so commenced a lifetime of bellringing.

At Friezland the rules were strict in observing good striking, and instilled in Joe the necessity to become as proficient in the art as they. At contests held in various places in the surrounding counties, the old ringers won many. These contests consisted of test pieces of quarter peal length and usually took all day. 'Travel was by waggonette.

During the 1920's, after Friezland bells had been quarter-turned and rehung, through the generosity of a local cotton manufacturer, the mill owner approached Joe Burgess and said he had been challenged by a Yorkshire landowner to prove Friezland ringers were better than his. At the contest Friezland won!

The first Halifax contest the team won was at Sowerby in 1929. Since then they have won the Halifax cup more times than any other team in the association. The previous best were Liversedge and Earlsheaton.

other team in the association. The previous best were Liversedge and Earlsheaton.

When Joe resigned as a ringer at Friezland. because of pressure of work, he was presented with a writing bureau, but he never lost interest in the Friezland team. When, on the day before the Shelley Challenge Cup contest, in 1949, one of the team was taken ill suddenly, Joe rang with the team and they won the cup for the first time.

When a team of ringers was re-formed at St. John's, Roughtown, Mossley, several years ago, he commenced to attend practices and encouraged the ringers to improve their striking, with the result that they have now taken over the role of Friezland and have won, during 1969, the Oswy Street Memorial Cup, the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies Certificate, and the Halifax Cup at Sowerby.

During 1968 the bells of St. John's were quarter-turned and hung on ball bearings, with a generous loan to the P.C.C. by Joe. His comment at the time being "I am only trying to give back some of the pleasure I have been given by ringers and ringing."

STOOLBALL IN JUNE

The meeting on February 14 of the East Grinstead and District Guild was held at Fletching. No service was held and after ringing tea was taken in the Griffin nearby. Two new members were elected and it was announced that the stoolball match against the Northern Division of the Kent County Association would be in June.

The chairman announced that the A.G.M. in March would be at Chiddingstone (see R.W. notices) and it was suggested that for the April meeting approaches should be made to Buckland and Reigate, but there would be no May meeting. The usual votes of thanks were expressed and ringing continued until 8.30 p.m. R.J.E.

Until recently he went to Holy Trinity. Stalybridge, on Tuesday nights, Saddleworth on Wednesdays, St. Paul's, Stalybridge, on Thursdays, and St. John's on Fridays, to help train learners, and attended as many association meetings on Saturdays as he could.

Joe is a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Yorkshire Association, the Lancashire Association, the Couthwell Diocesan Guild, the Halifax Association and the Barnsley and District Society. He is now recovering from a severe attack of anæmia, and has consequently had to curtail his ringing activities

We pray God he may be spared to ring with us all for many more years, in contests and on ringing trips.

WHEN ALL THE WORLD . . .

"God willing, I shall attain my 77th birthday on Easter Day this year!", writes Mr. John Holloway, of Crewe. He adds: "On page 179 of the R.W. I noted the verse by Kingsley 'When all the world is young. lad.' Perhaps you might like to print the second verse:-

When all the world is old, lad, And all the trees are brown,

And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels run down;

Creep home and take your place there, The halt and lamed among,

God grant you find one face there. You loved when you were young.

The dedication of Hayes tower and bells on Sunday by the Archdeacon of Middlesex was before a crowded church. Warnham (Sussex) handbell ringers gave Bach's chorale "Jesu, joy" during the service.

The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings.

—R. L. STEVENSON

THE NEW RING

All bells bear the Whitechapel Foundry mark with the years 1570-1970 either side, denoting bells cast in the foundry's fourth centenary year.

Treble. — 4 cwt. 2 qr. L. Walton, restoration organiser. (Mr. Walton is organiser of the whole church restoration. RKR, CV.)

Second.—4 cwt, 3 qr. Churchwardens A. M. Smith and A. Farr 1964-1967.

Third.—5 cwt. 1 qr. 10 lb. In memoriam Prebendary A. A. Gorbold.

Fourth.—5 cwt. 3 qr. 20 lb. Rector Rev. G. R. Connock, Churchwardens D. Saunders and A. B. Walton

•Fifth.—6 cwt. 3 qr. 24 lb. This bell is donated in loving memory of Alfred Venn by his wife Margaret, March 1970. "Unkind thoughts to him were few, his kindnesses were many."

Sixth.—8 cwt, 3 qr, 5 lb. This bell is donated in loving memory of a dear wife and mother Annie Jessie Venn, by her husband Philip, and daughters Sylvia and Valerie. She rests within sound of this bell.

Seventh.—11 cwt. 3 qr. 10 lb. This bell is donated in loving memory of a dear husband and father Ronald Thomas Venn who died so tragically on September 27th, 1968, by his wife Vera and daughters Monica, Sheila and Joan. "Deep in our Hearts you will always stay, Loved and remembered every day."

Tenor.—17 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lb. (note F).—Presented by Percival S. Venn, his wife and family to commemorate the dedication of this peal of bells and restoration of this tower, March 1970. Long may they ring for worship, fellowship, peace and posterity.

The bells, then on the church floor, were blessed on February 22, and Hayes heard its lovely new eight for the first time when they were tried out on March 2 prior to the full service of rededication last Sunday. Practice night is Wednesday, everyone welcome. Perhaps some of Percy's enthusiasm will rub off on you. He has shown what can be done if you have what it takes.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS, 1969

Mr. David House has sent us the list of peal ringers for 1969: C. Barrie Dove again leads with 123 and Mary Elmes for the ladies with 86.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for March 16, 1945

Mr. W. L. Duffield presided at the annual meeting of the South Norfolk Branch of Norwich Association held at Saxlingham.

There were 65 members at Devizes when the Salisbury Guild held a meeting, over which Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, vice-president, presided.

At Milford-on-Sea, Hampshire, a peal of Grandsire Triples was conducted by Arthur V. Davis, and Kathleen Brayshaw (aged 13) rang her first peal, Bruce Rogers his first on tower bells and John V. Davis his first of Triples.

The first peal on the five bells at Shalstone, Bucks (Grandsire Doubles), was conducted by H. H. Alexander, and George Jay rang his first peal.

First peal in hand by Dennis Hall, Alan G. Hall, Alfred Williams and Norman Summerhayes—Grandsire Caters—at Dartford, Kent; Mr. J. E. Bailey conducted.

The proposed new rules were discussed at a meeting of the Southern District of the Sussex County Association at Southover, when Mr. F. I. Hairs presided.

The 57th Henry Johnson celebrations consisted of a luncheon at the Imperial Hotel which lasted until 5 p.m., followed by "other relaxation" at the Tamworth Arms. It was one of the most representative and enjoyable held for many years; 150 attended.

Speaking at the luncheon, Mr. C. H. Kippin advocated again the formation of a national Association, which he had supported strongly some years before.

50 YEARS AGO March 19, 1920

Forty new members were elected at the meeting of the Eastern Branch of Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

The father of the College Youths, Ted Horrex, rang the treble to a peal of Treble Twelve on his 82nd birthday.

Rochester District of Kent C. Association unanimously carried "That the decision of the central committee altering the date of the annual meeting from Whitsun to Easter be referred back."

Peal of 54 Musical Handbells, size G 25; price £25 the lot.—Advt.

Hertford County Association advertised their A.G.M. and added the notice of motion by the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake: "That this Association is of opinion that the time has come for the Central Council to have powers, other than merely deliberations."

A peal of Norfolk S. Major rung at Lenton, Notts, was composed by Edgar Shepherd and conducted by Albert Coppock.

At Silverdale, Staffs, Miss Alice Wheeldon rang the treble to a peal of Grandsire Triples, she being the first lady to ring an 8-bell peal for the Stoke Archidiaconal Association.

Composed on the Rhine by T. E. Sone whilst with the Army of Occupation, a peal of Bob Major was rung at Staplehurst, and Leonard Mannering rang the 3rd, his first with a bob bell.

A handbell peal at Walthamstow—Stedman Caters—was conducted by William Pye, and Edward P. Duffield rang his first handbell peal on 7-8.

At Guildford, Alfred H. Pulling rang his 500th peal—Grandsire Triples on handbells.

St. Mary and St. Eanswythe, Folkestone, Kent

"Folkestone has long been known to valetudinarians as affording the conveniences of bathing, combined with salubrious air, tranquillity and cheerful scenery in the neighbouring district."—L. Fussell, 1818.

THUS WAS THE DESCRIPTION by an eccentric author of a contemporary topography, throwing a delightful atavism to the days when Folkestone gained the fame of the aristocracy as a spa and seaport. Folkestone today is known better as a large and busy centre, one of the many gateways to the Continent and an ideal spot for holidays, conferences, etc. The careful observer, however, can still trace much of the Regency splendour of the earlier façades which, in their turn, have replaced the remnants of a considerably older town.

A church and settlement was established as early as the 7th century by Eanswith, grand-daughter of King Ethelbert of Kent. This pious woman was esteemed with saintly veneration and her oratory was built on the cliff face above the sea. Contemporary writers have described how the saint, requiring a fresh water supply, located a spring about a mile inland and-'carrying a stick before her, she drew, as it were by the sound of her voice, a stream from the depths to the heights, over cliffs and rocky summits, to her oratory; thus by the prayers of this holy virgin, water ascended contrary to its very nature, and, what is still more wonderful, it passed through another stream of water on its way, and yet it continued its course uncon-taminated and unmingled." All traces of the oratory have, not unnaturally, disappeared, but the spring was rediscovered over ten centuries later, as will be explained. Eanswith's remains are still retained in a leaden casket in the church, having been brought to light in 1885, and survived two translations from previous chapels claimed by the sea.

PILLAGED AND BURNED

In the Middle Ages Folkestone never attained quite the importance of the neighbouring Cinque Ports, although it was chosen to be pillaged and burned by Louis of France in 1216. In 1338 a royal proclamation forbade the ringing of more than one bell in any church within seven leagues of the sea, except to warn of an approaching enemy, an event that would doubtless have been remembered in 1378 when the town was again besieged by the French and Scots. Until the 18th century Folkestone, although a municipal borough, remained a relatively small fishing town and seaport, but the rediscovery of the "Chalybeate spring," alluded to above, established the town's fame as a spa and was the advent of the development of the present centre.

The church, on the edge of the cliffs, is of cruciform design, with a ponderous central tower, being originally founded in 1137. By the turn of the 18th century the fabric appears to have fallen into a dilapidated state, and following a severe storm in 1705 a portion of the nave and aisles collapsed. At this time the tower contained a heavy ring of six bells, the treble and third by Lester and Pack, 1759, second, fourth and fifth by Richard Phelps, 1707 and 1737, and the tenor by John Waylett, an itinerant founder, 1724. These were replaced in 1778 by a new ring of eight (tenor 22 cwt.), cast by Pack and Chapman, of White-chapel; these bells bore many of the rhyming couplets associated with these founders. By 1813 the 3rd and 6th required recasting and shortly following this the "maiden peal" of Bob Major was rung on the bells, 5040 changes in 3 hours 5 minutes, conducted by Wm. Greensted, of Canterbury, on December 18, 1815.

In the meantime the west end of the church, which had collapsed in 1705, was partly demolished and replaced by a tawdry structure in the worst possible taste. Antagonism rapidly arose over this new nave, not only because of its unsympathetic style but also over its inadequacy of size, it being actually smaller than the chancel. Accordingly, in 1860, a new nave was built, largely as it remains today, although a new porch and south aisle were added some 12 years later.

RESTORATION

In 1879 it was the turn of the tower and bells to undergo restoration, the latter not having been rung for some years, four of them being cracked. The bells were removed to Loughborough for recasting; the new ring, cast to the specification of Lord Grimthorpe, has a tenor of 25½ cwt. in E and was invoiced at just over £1,000. A peal in 1880 was the third to be rung for the newly-formed Kent County Association. In 1935 the bells were rehung in the 1879 frame in new gudgeons and ball bearings, and more recently the local band have done much work in renovating the ringing chamber. The bells today are regarded as a "beefy" Taylor ring that respond well to careful ringing: many Grimthorpe-designed bells present a strange metamorphosis in tuning between old style and new, but this appears to have succeeded at Folkestone to a greater degree than usual.

On Easter Monday the Kent County Association will again be returning to Folkestone for its A.G.M. Last year the previous general secretary, Philip Corby, bowed out at a meeting at his own tower—Sevenoaks—and it is surely a good omen that our new man, Alan Berry, should have the pleasure of welcoming the Association to his home tower and district for his first A.G.M. as secretary.

Winchester and Portsmouth D.G.

The first quarterly meeting of 1970 of the Christchurch and Southampton District was held at Milford-on-Sea on March 7. The Rev. Ff. Powell, a ringing member of the Milford band, conducted the Guild office, at which Rev. Alan Gordon gave an interesting and thought-provoking address. Mr. Dewhurst, also a member of the Milford band, presided at the organ.

About 50 members attended tea, which was served by the ladies in the church hall, followed by a short business meeting, at which six new members were elected. Ringing masters W. E. Cheater and K. S. B. Croft kept the bells of Milford and Hordle going during the afternoon and evening in methods up to London Surprise, with plenty of rounds and simple methods for the beginners.

AN EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Leonard Stilwell, now living at Windsor, has had long associations with Pulborough and indeed it was there that he rang his first peal in October, 1904. Over the years a number of celebration peals have been rung at Pulborough, and it was therefore a very great pleasure to arrange yet another one. This took place on his 80th birthday, February 20, and the whole band were very kindly entertained afterwards at Old Place by Joyce and Leslie Weller. We hope that we shall be able to celebrate many more of Len's anniversaries.

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY

The Nottingham University Society held its tenth annual dinner in Cavendish Hall on February 28. There were 70 people present, including an encouraging number of past members as well as many friends and local ringers. The meal was concluded with speeches from Mr. John Freeman, the president of the Central Council, Mr. Roger Baldwin, a past master of the Society, and also from the present master, Peter Mackley, and secretary, M. Rice. P. N. M.

EASTER MESSAGE

"AND THE THIRD DAY . . ."

HAVE YOU, after reading a good thriller, been taken completely by surprise by the way it ended? I expect you have. And when you have read it over again you will have discovered how all the way along little clues were given to prepare you for the sudden and dramatic ending, clues which you never noticed at the time.

The Resurrection of Our Lord after His death on Good Friday was like that. It was something His followers were not expecting. They were taken completely by surprise. The women who went to the tomb early on Easter Day were not expecting what they found. St. Peter, after looking at the linen clothes in the tomb, "departed wondering in himself at that which was come to pass" (Luke 24, 12). Thomas doubted and the two disciples on the road to Emmaus were puzzled by the strange things they had heard.

Yet they all came to believe, St. John first ("He saw, and believed"—intuitively without an actual vision of the risen Christ) and then all the others, including doubting Thomas.

Then they realised how blind they had been, how all the time God had been preparing them for this. They ought to have expected something to have happened on the third day. In the Bible things happened on that day. The Ten Commandments were given on the third day. "Be ready against the third day," said the Lord to Moses (Exodus 19, 11). The dreams of Pharaoh's butler and baker were fulfilled as Joseph foretold on "the third day" (Genesis 40, 20). When Our Lord as a boy got left behind in Jerusalem, He was found in the temple "after three days." His first miracle at Cana of Galilee took place on "the third day" (John 2, 1) and when He prepared His disciples for His coming death in fulfilment of what the prophets had written concerning the Son of Man He went on to say: "And the third day He shall rise again" (Luke 18, 33).

Another series of clues leading to the Resurrection is on the theme "Life from the dead." God is the one who steps in and brings life from that which was dead. Abraham and Sarah were past the age for having children, but from her dead womb God brought forth a son, Isaac. Joseph was put into a pit by his brothers but God was with him and raised him up to a new life in Egypt. Moses should have died at birth with other Jewish boys, but God raised him up from the bulrushes to a new life in Pharaoh's house. The Israelites should have died at the Red Sea but God delivered them and led them to a new life in the Promised Land. David should have died many a time but God was with him. He was also with Elijah and Elisha and through them raised the sons of the widows of Zarephath and Shunem to life (1 Kings 17 and 2 Kings 4). The Temple of King Solomon, which was destroyed when Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians, was rebuilt and restored to life when the Jews returned from their captivity in Babylon. It was to this temple, beautified and adorned by King Herod, that Our Lord came. He continued the "Life from the dead" theme, raising children first of all and finally Lazarus. The raising of Lazarus led to His words: "I am the resurrection and the life," and to His own triumph over death. The theme is continued in the lesson for Matins on Easter Day, in which He says: "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore" (Revelation 1, 18).

It is because He is alive and able to raise us to new life with Him, to a life which transcends death, that our bells ring out at Easter and on the weekly remembrance of Easter on the first day of the week. This knowledge that He is alive and that we are ringing for Him makes all the difference to our ringing. It transforms it into a joy and a delight. Even rounds and simple call-changes can be transformed in this way when they are rung for Him.

This knowledge that He is alive is something which needs strengthening today. It can be and will be strengthened for us all this Easter, when we meet as He commanded for the Breaking of Bread in remembrance of Him and draw near with faith to receive His life into ours, through the outward signs of Bread and Wine

Then, strengthened by His Body and Blood, we can rise renewed and invigorated for the work to which we have been specially called, namely, the pealing of His praises.

STANLEY EVANS.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS

As briefly announced last week, Mr. Charles Barrie Dove, of Leeds, heads the list of peal ringers for 1969 (with 123) for the second year running. He was taught to ring by his father, Mr. Ronald H. Dove (author of the Bellringers' Guide to the Church Bells of Britain), his first peal being in 1959 and his first as conductor in the following year. He is also the leading conductor for 1969 (with 118).

For the ladies, Miss Mary Elmes, of Wareham, Dorset, with 86 peals to her credit, is closely followed by Christine L. J. Mills, of East Bridgford, Notts, with 78, whilst Katherine Thorley (at 13) rang 35!

A full report and further details will be given next week.

50 YEARS' MEMBERSHIP OF LINCOLN GUILD

Mr. George R. G. Butler, of Lutton. Lincolnshire, has completed 50 years as a member of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. To mark the occasion a peal was rung at Lutton on February 21 by the Sunday service band, all of whom George taught to ring. It was conducted by George Campling, one of his latest pupils. During the first week of March six quarter peals were rung at the local towers with which George has been associated since he started ringing 53 years ago. His wife, Florence, has been ringing for 43 years and their son. Peter, for 20 years.

George did much of his ringing with the late J. B. Halifax, of Fleet, who was a founder member of the Lincoln Guild and died last November, aged 95. He has always preferred teaching learners, but he has rung several peals and quarters and he has rung in over 400 churches.

Obituary

VICTOR GRIFFIN

Although his ringing friends realised he was very ill, the passing of Victor Griffin, of Oxford, came as a great shock, and sincere sympathy is felt for his wife, Barbara, and the three small children so tragically bereaved. His ringing career started at Purton, Wiltshire, in 1946, and he was a very keen and apt pupil. He regularly attended the Rodbourne Cheney practices and rang his first peal there in 1947. Other peals soon followed and he called his first peal (Bob Minor) at Lydiard Millicent in 1951. Victor was an excellent ringer and striker and took part in a number of multi-method peals of Surprise Major with Tony Peake's band, culminating in the 165-method peal. He had rung about 220 peals and it is thought that his last peal was at Stratton St. Margaret in December, 1968. Soon afterwards he was taken ill and was unable to do any ringing. On his marriage he went to live at Stratton St. Margaret and both he and Barbara were members of the band there and fully entered into the life of the church. moving to Oxford he became attached to the Cathedral and St. Aldate's Church. The funeral took place at St. Swithun's Church, Kennington, on March 4th and a number of ringers attended to pay their last respects to a fine ringer and good companion. Oxford University Society was represented by R. A. Yeates, J. R. Pratt and Misses J. and S. Unsworth, and the Oxford Guild by C. Coles, L. H. Busby and P. J. Heritage. Ringers from the Swindon area were Miss A. D. O'Brien, B. Mrs. Kynaston. A half-muffled peal was rung in memoriam at Stratford St. Mar-W. B. K.

MR. HERBERT W. KNIGHT

The Bath and Wells Diocesan Association has lost one of its stalwarts by the passing of Mr. Herbert W. Knight, of Wrington, whose funeral at Redhill Church on March 3 was attended by about 40 ringers among the large congregation.

For 36 years he was captain at Wrington Parish Church and from 1929 to 1968 was ringing master of the Chew Deanery Branch. He was also chairman of the branch until his death. Life membership was conferred upon him by the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association in 1964 in recognition of his outstanding services.

A memoir by J. B. will appear in our next issue.

MR. LEONARD OFFORD

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Leonard Offord, of Lavenham, Suffolk, who died in the West Suffolk General Hospital on March 5 at the age of 65 years.

Len was taught to ring in 1930 by the late Mr. Arthur Symonds and continued to be a regular member of the local band until 1965, when acute arthritis prevented him from climbing the tower.

On the evening of the funeral service, which was followed by cremation, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung on the bells with half-muffled clappers.

M. T. S.

MR. FREDERICK J. CRAPNELL

Fred Crapnell, who died on February 24, 1970, aged 88 years, was laid to rest in the churchyard by the side of his wife, who predeceased him by 34 years. Among the very many beautiful floral tributes was one from the local band and another from the Suffolk Guild of Ringers. The bells were rung by the local band before the service with the clappers half-muffled and again after the committal by others of the Suffolk Guild. The next day a half-muffled quarter of Grandsire Triples was rung for morning service by the local band.

Fred's list of peals is not a long one. He rang 47 for the Suffolk Guild and a few for the Norwich Diocesan Association. Neither did he aspire to advanced methods, being content to ring the standard methods of his time. He was always punctual to ring for Sunday service and practice. His last ringing was a few weeks before Christmas.

To mention Fred's many good deeds one hardly knows where to begin and certainly not where to finish. He was the clockwinder and churchwarden years, and later churchwarden until his death. When he came to Grundisburgh a local wag told him he would not remain six months, but he was here until his passing, 57 years later.

Among the family mourners were his brother Harry, now over 90, and his sister, who, although elderly, had of late nursed who, although elderly, had of late nursed him so lovingly. As a blacksmith, he had been a hard-working man and owned and worked the village smithy until two years ago, when his health began to deteriorate. It will never be known how many thousands of horses he had shod before those noble animals were replaced with mechanical contrivances, but it is known that if occasionally one of an unruly nature came along he always got the right side of it with kindness, yes, kindness to all God's creations, human beings and dumb creatures alike. To the writer, kindness seemed to be the keynote of Fred's life.

Included in his many other interests were working his allotment and the garden at his sister's residence and playing bowls for the local team.

Fred was never seen ruffled but he always had a cheery word for everybody and was part and parcel of the village, a friend of all, enemy of none.

May he rest in eternal peace.

MR. JOSEPH PIGOTT

Mr. Joseph Pigott, who was living in Smethwick, died on February 15 in his 90th year. He had been a ringer for about 70 years and rang in the Worcester Diocese. Between 1900 and 1920 seven members of the Pigott family were ringers at Smethwick old church (now without bells), and Joseph conducted many peals, including 5040 "mixed minor" (according to a newspaper cutting). Further details will be published later.

The year's at the spring,
And day's at the morn,
Morning's at seven;
The hillside's dew-pearled;
The lark's on the wing;
The snail's on the thorn;
God's in his heaven—
All's right with the world.

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

PART V: THE HUNDRED AND BEYOND

IN October, 1937, while Cheshire still held the record with the 73-method peal at Fairfield, a peal had been rung in 21 methods at Dunholme by

1 Harold Marcon 2 Mrs. J. Bray 3 Charles McGuiness

5 Jack Bray 5 Jack L. Millhouse 6 George E. Feirn (Conductor)

Then, while Vernon Taylor's and John Worth's bands were pushing the number of methods ever higher, this third band slowly built up its total. A month after the 84-method peal at Disley they scored 43 methods at Elsham, Frank Lord now ringing the treble in place of Harold Marcon.

One of the extents was a new arrangement by A. G. Driver in 12 plain methods. Further new extents from the same composer were included in peals in 49 methods at Elsham in November, 1938, and in 53 methods at Bassingham in December.

Sixty methods followed in April, 1939, and 70 (with yet another new extent by Driver) a month later. The record was now in sight, and it seemed that it needed only two or three more peals for it to be reached.

100 METHODS

It turned out to need only one. On June 16, 1939, George Feirn called a peal in no fewer than 100 methods at Bassingham: 102 methods followed eight days later, at Leadenham, and on July 17 104 methods were brought round at Bigby.

It was not, however, simply a question of learning two new methods on each occasion for these last two peals. In each case a familiar 720 had to be dropped and a new one substituted; the first "substitute" was in 12 methods, and the second in 13. Four of the extents in the final peal were the work of Driver, while the remaining three had been arranged from Driver's tables by Kenneth Lewis.

But now even Driver and the hardly less resourceful Lewis had reached their limits. Within the arbitrary but universally accepted limitations whereby only "regular" methods were included, it did not seem possible to add even one method to this wonderful performance. Once again the practical ringers had caught up with the composers, on the results of whose labours they must always ultimately depend.

There remained only one thing to be done, and the Lincolnshire company did it. On July 26 they met once again at Bigby and proceeded to repeat the 104-method peal they had rung just over a week earlier. But this time there was a modification, for in the middle they rang the two extents they had earlier been forced to drop. The result was a 6480 in 125 methods, rung in three hours and twenty-six minutes.

Barely a month later German troops marched into Poland. Britain and France mobilised and, on September 3, war was declared. There could scarcely have been a more dramatic curtain.

AFTER THE WAR

When the Second World War finally ended in 1945 peal-ringing was slow in building up to its former level. However, three of the prewar North Lincolnshire band—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bray and George Feirn—started to meet at Burton-on-Stather and Cleatham to ring handbells. In May, 1938, they had rung the first peal of Spliced Minor in hand, a 5000 in 19 methods conducted by George Feirn, and on this foundation they began to build.

Kenneth Lewis had already produced a new extent in 16 Little and Alliance methods, making it possible to include 105 methods in seven extents. This was one more than had been rung at Bigby in July, 1939, and it naturally became a target.

A tentative peal in 14 plain methods was rung at Cleatham at the end of September. 1946, but the band did not really get down to business until the following year. Once they did start, however, their progress was determined and rapid. Gone were the small steps of the past, when an extra five or ten methods would have been added to each successful peal. Instead it took only three gigantic leaps to achieve the goal.

In January, 1947, George Feirn called 53 methods Four months later a peal was recorded in 91 methods. And finally on June 30th a new record of 105 methods in seven extents was set up by

The concept of the Blitzkrieg seemed to have been adopted in ringing, at least by this band. Eight years later they were to demonstrate it once more.

THE COPT OAK RECORD

But before that occurred the centre of interest was to move, for the first time, away from the traditional rivals of Lincolnshire and Cheshire.

Leicestershire had long had a tradition of peal ringing on the higher numbers, but its six-bell men had never made much of a mark in the Exercise. The first peal of Minor in more than seven methods in the county had not been rung until 1936, and even that had been by the Algarkirk band, conducted on that occasion by Cyril Burrell, During 1938 John Bluff had called pea's in 12 and 14 methods, but there had otherwise been little of note.

However, late in 1949, the local band at Copt Oak, consisting of

6 Roland Beniston (Conductor) began to practise Spliced Minor. In the course of seven peals during 1950 they increased their total from 25 methods to 80. In March, 1951, they rang 94 methods, and on April 26
(at the fourth attempt within a week) they became the first band to ring 105 methods in a 5000 on tower bells.

Then, just as the Lincolnshire company had done 12 years earlier at Bigby, they added the two "extra" extents to give a 6480. But on this occasion it was of course in 126 methods. rather than 125, and thus constituted a new record. It was rung at Copt Oak, where all the previous peals by this band had been rung, on June 30. One of the extra extents was actually a new one, composed by George Feirn and consisting of 11 Little and Alliance methods.

The Society of Rambling Ringers

REUNION AND DINNER

This year's reunion was held in the Burton-on-Trent/Derby area on February 14. Although the weather was extremely cold about 40 members enjoyed ringing at Burton-on-Trent (St. Paul's, St. Modwen's, All Saints') and Winshill, Horninglow, Rolleston, finishing at Repton, and we thank the local incumbents and ringing masters who arranged the towers, and the ringers who were kind enough to meet us.

The dinner was at the Coppice Hotel. Littleover, and a very good meal was enjoyed by 35 members. The annual meeting was presided over by Mr. D. Frith, who welcomed the members. The balance sheet was adopted and in the ringing master's report Mr. R. H. Cook said the 1969 tour had gone quite well, in spite of the large number of ringers present. The method sheets had produced an increase in the variety of methods rung. During the year one peal (of Minor) has been rung for the Society at Branston.

An alteration in the Society's rules was debated and on being put to the vote was passed. The election of officers for 1970 resulted as follows: president, Mr. D. Frith: ringing master, Mr. D. Mottershead; secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. B. Mills; peal secretary, Mr. M. Vernon; committee member, Mr. F. Jackson.

For the 1971 reunion Nottingham was chosen and Mr. Mottershead pointed out that this will occur in the 21st year of the Society's existence. It is hoped that many people will make the effort to attend.

Salisbury Guild

MEMORIAL MEETING

The West Dorset Branch "Langford-Beams-Cox" memorial meeting was held at Bradpole on February 21, when seven towers were represented and many visitors welcomed. Ringing was supervised by the masters and the choral Guild service was conducted by Mr. T. Andrews, the Rev. J. Barrington-Wood giving the address, in which he paid tribute to the memory of the three ringers who had done so much to lift the standard of change-ringing in the branch.

Following the tea, which had been prepared and served by the local ringers and other lady helpers, the chairman (Mr. C. W. Powell) gave details of future meetings, which included the Guild festival at Bridport in May. Beaminster and Stoke Abbott are to be visited in April.

The branch officers expressed thanks to the Bradpole ringers for arranging this the annual memorial meeting. J. D.

REPEATED CHANGES

Dear Sir,-On page 985 of The Ringing World of December 19, 1969, David Parsons went into the question of repeated changes not being allowed in peals. fully expected a flood of correspondence on the subject from some of the more eminent members of the peal ringing fra-ternity, and I was looking forward to some interesting reading. As the point raised by David seems to have gone unnoticed, I take it upon myself to bring it back into circulation.

I would say that composers produce compositions because they feel that they are creating something with a difference (i.e. they consider their newly-produced composition has a point or points which is new or produced in a different way, whether it be musical or calling simplified). One usually sees a smile or two in the belfry when musical changes such as Queens, Whittingtons and Tittums occur. Well, if they are so musical and enjoyable, is there any reason why we should not enjoy a composition whereby the composer can produce them as often as he wishes? This would surely produce peals the last paragraph of his letter.

He also says, and I quote: "It might present an even harder task than the present one if bells were required to be static whilst watching their cue from other work to resume movement. One could also envisage fast and slow movements, repeated themes and other musical forms.

of artistic merit rather than mathematical padding to which Mr. Parsons refers in

I have read this paragraph several times but am not quite sure what he had in mind. Perhaps he would like to expand his thoughts and create a clearer picture of his ideas.

I also hope that others will take up the subject, whether they be in favour or against. I am sure this topic will produce some most interesting reading, and in time perhaps we will have much greater scope, with some most pleasing compositions for peal ringers.—Yours faithfully,

R. C. STEVENS

A PROUD PLANTAGENET

Dear Sir. - With reference to the interesting article on page 162 of The Ringing World on the tragic life and death of the Countess of Salisbury, I must point out that Richard, Duke of Gloucester, was death of his brother, the Duke of Clarence, whose death was ordered by Edward IV because of Clarence not, in all probability, responsible for the treason. Most authors on the subject, including some who were biased against Richard, admit that he tried to prevent his brother's death. Incidentally, the use of the word 'Crookback" or "Crouchback" is probably incorrect, as there is no contemporary evidence to suggest that Richard III was a hunchback.

The story of the Countess of Salisbury is certainly a tragic one, but this cannot be blamed on Richard III, who treated her generously during his short reign, and even made her brother Edward his heir when his own son died. Her fate was similar to that of the other Yorkist heirs, who were systematically eliminated by Henry VII and Henry VIII.—Yours faithfully, Leeds, Yorkshire.

M. G. DODSON.

KIDDERMINSTER S. MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,-I was surprised to see a peal of Kidderminster Surprise Maximus in March 13 Ringing World which consisted of only 5042 changes. Surely it is simpler and more musical to ring ten full courses than to fiddle about with courses of unfamiliar length and sound just to ring as little as possible. Furthermore, since to bring this method round at a backstroke snap would mean calling it round after the course-end, I see no obvious way of obtaining this particular length.—Yours faith-

GRAHAM POLLARD.

THE PEAL RINGER

Dear Sir,-I am becoming rather tired of the continual stream of letters deni-grating "the peal ringer." I cannot agree that a person must either be a peal ringer or be a Sunday service ringer. Most peal ringers are able to combine the two quite successfully and often the peal ringers will be among the most regular attenders for Sunday service ringing at their towers. Surely there is nothing wrong in gaining pleasure from a personal achievement, whether or not it is connected with a Church activity. We would be very discontented and dull people if we never allowed ourselves to get any sense of satisfaction from our own achievements in life. It seems quite obvious to me, from his letter, that Mr. Bevis gets a great deal of satisfaction from the fact that he has taught many people to ring over the last 23 years and that the majority of these have shown no interest in either peal ringing or in their local association. This is no less a personal achievement than is the ringing of a peal.

Personally, I feel it is a great pity that so few ringers from March, over the last 168 years, have taken part in peal ringing. In fact I would be ashamed if so few of the people who learn at our tower progressed to a sufficiently high standard to be able to ring peals. Our own learners must have rung a quarter peal on an inside bell before even being made full members of the band. This is to ensure a good standard of service ringing on Sundays.

I am unable to see the virtue in the fact that so few of the ringers from March have taken an interest in their local association. Surely this is a very inward-looking and "I'm all right, Jack" sort of attitude. Apart from the pleasure to be gained from meeting other ringers in the area and ringing with them, active members of associations do a lot of work to help other towers in their area. Perhaps, Mr. Bevis, your band might just be able to give this help in your area.

May I end by saying that there are hundreds of people up and down the country who regularly give of their time to teach others to ring, to encourage Sunday service ringing and at the same time enjoy peal ringing. Surely it is the duty of every single one of us to put to the best possible use the abilities with which we have been blessed, whether they lie in the field of peal ringing, gardening, stamp collecting or whatever hobby Mr. Bevis enjoys. We would only be less than complete people if we did not.—Yours faithfully, KATHERINE S. HARDY. St. Albans, Herts.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir,-Mr. Wratten, in his article on Spliced Minor (Ringing World, page 189), quotes from a letter from the Rev. E. Bankes James to The Ringing World (July, 1920), in which I am given credit for the idea of splicing Alliance and Little methods together to obtain 720s. All I did, in fact, was to write out a lead of a method (subsequently named "Yaxley Alliance" in the C.C. Collection) and show it to him; he explained to me why it would not produce a 720, then promptly had the idea of splicing it with Little Bob. It was very generous of my old schoolmaster and tutor to credit me with the disto him. Perhaps you will find room for my somewhat belated disclaimer!—Yours faithfully, C. W. WOOLLEY.

Bushev Heath, Herts.

GRANDSIRE CATERS

Dear Sir,-All who are fond of ringing Grandsire Caters must be grateful for the publication, in your issue of March 13, of the interesting quarter peals. These com-positions help to remind us, once again, of the great variety of musical possibility provided by this very simple but most rewarding method.

A quick glance at the figures shows two small typographical errors. The opening course of No. 2 should be 1.4.5., while in the 1313 the first course-end comes by 1.5. and not by 1s.

These quarter peals are well worth preserving, and it might add to their interest if we could be told their sources. To me each of them is quite new. -Yours faith-

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD Warminster, Wilts.

PROGRESS AT ROCHFORD

Miss L. P. Woodcock, of Rochford, Essex, writes concerning the article printed in The Ringing World entitled "Rochford's Progress":—

"I would like to point out that Mr. Philip Bedford first joined Rochford's ringing band during 1969, after we acquired the new ring of eight bells. Mr. Eric Lucas had been the tower captain from 1966 and was responsible for teaching the present band but left the county in September last, and Mr. Bedford was then elected."

Dear Sir, — It was very kind of the author of "Progress at Rochford" (page 168, March 6) to write such a glowing account of my activities at that tower. However, I think it only fair to point out that the real pioneering work was put in by the first captain, Eric Lucas, who broke the back of the job by training a young Sunday service band on the original three bells. I only came into the picture after the light eight were installed in October. 1968, and then only in a method-teaching capacity. I did not become captain unti Eric left the district in September, 1969.— I did not become captain until Yours faithfully,

The people we meet . . .

Travelling by Roya! Blue to and from Birmingham (six hours each way) for the Henry Johnson dinner, the editor was well looked after by the drivers of the coaches, and in consequence of a conversation over a sandwich it was evinced that one of the drivers ("30 years with the company, the oldest-but-one of its drivers and a medallion to prove it") had learnt to ring 44 years ago at Collaton St. Mary, Devon. Driver L. P. Parnell rang call-changes and Doubles on the lovely ring of five and did so for four years—till he was 18.

Why did he give it up? Well, shift work prevented regular attendance. "Twopence a week to the fund for outings and meetings—and we did enjoy ourselves!" Why not have another go? "Maybe when retirement comes along, but I always listen whenever I hear bells ringing even now. I know a good bit of striking when I hear it."

Also travelling—a very attractive trainee nurse (Pat Longhurst), age 20 and complete with maxi-coat, en route to Emsworth for Mothers Day and carrying a large box of fudge "which Mother enjoys!" "Bells? Oh no! Well, they're all right at home and outside London, but when I go on duty at Fulham Hospital in the morning and the bells start we all could scream! We don't appreciate them then, but maybe it's after the late night parties."

The second driver: "Mothers Day? That's for my kids to see to. I don't get anything for Fathers Day. Still, I've got a couple of Mars bars

CUP WINNERS

On February 14 the Beverley and District Ringing Society held its annual meeting at Beverley and about 90 attended. The vicar (Canon S. Walker) conducted the service, and at the meeting the Society's chaplain, Rev. G. C. Galley, Vicar of St. Michael and All Angels, North Hull, presented the Albert Sellers memorial cup to Mr. Norman Chaddock, captain of the Market Weighton ringers, who won the trophy as the most improved team during the year.

Peterborough Diocesan Guild

TWO TO ONE

In spite of the snow 17 ringers attended the quarterly meeting of the Rutland Branch held at Gretton on March 7.

At the business meeting it was decided to continue the custom of having a branch outing on August Bank Holiday Monday. It was also decided to hold a branch dinner later in the year. A proposal that the Guild dinner should be held every year again after last year's lapse was carried by two votes for to one against, something of a Pyrrhic victory for the Guild dinner!

Looking forward to 1971, it was unanimously agreed to invite the Guild to hold its A.G.M. at Uppingham. Next meeting, Ashwell and Whissendine in May. C.E.B.

NOW NON-ASSOCIATION

We have been informed that as a result of a decision made at a recent committee meeting of the Lancashire Association the peal of 5120 Spliced Surprise Major (four methods) rung at St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne, on March 8, 1969, conducted by C. L. D. Munday and appearing in the R.W. (April 11, 1969), is not accepted as being rung for the Lancashire Association, as no peal booking fee has been received.

BIRMINGHAM DINNER

Those attending the 82nd Henry Johnson commemoration dinner were: Rt. Rev. George Sinker (Provost of Birmingham Cathedral, chairman) and Mrs. Sinker, Rt. Rev. Ringing and Conducting Standard Methods

By ROBERT B. SMITH PART III: CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE Continued.

(c) The Method on Handbells.

ONE OF THE most pleasing features of ring-ONE OF THE most pleasing features of ringing trends in the past four or five years has been the revival of change ringing on handbells. I was reading a letter in a Ringing World of not many years ago which forecast that handbell ringing would be extinct by now. At this point in time there are probably more ringers taking part in handbell peals than at any other time in history, and for this reason I do not feel that dealing with Surprise methods on handbells is inappropriate. It should be understood, however, that there is no "magic" formula for ringing Surprise methods on handbells. Each member of the band must do his or her homework on the method(s) in question and regular practice as method(s) in question and regular practice as a band becomes necessary; hesitancy leads to mistakes being made by other members of the Basically there are two methods employed for ringing Surprise methods on handbells.

1. By "two blue lines."

2. By "place notation." Which method one decides to use will probwhich method one decides to use will probably depend on those who are giving instruction to the band (if anybody) or perhaps the method employed by the individual when ringing tower bells. It is difficult to say which method is the better as some of the finest handbell ringers in the country ring by opposite methods. It is helpful to have a knowledge of both customs and as in instance.

ledge of both systems and so ring from what I would call the "construction" or "pattern" of the method. One point I would make at this stage is that if a ringer is ringing entirely by place notation there is little point in giving an instruction such as "dodge 3-4" should he (or she) make a mistage, the general instruction (or she) make a mistake; the correct instruc-tion should be, for example, 5ths.

Cambridge Surprise can be rung by the "construction" of the method more easily than most other methods, so that in effect there are three ways of ringing it. It would be superfluous to deal with each method on all numbers of bells, but I will deal with each method on a number of bells where it would appear to be most appropriate to be used. to be most appropriate to be used.

Place Notation Method:

When learning the place notation of a method it is customary to remember the internal places only, because they automatically internal places only, because they automatically determine whether a place is going to be made by the bells at the front and the back. For example, if 3rds is the only internal place to be made, the bells in 1–2 must cross, the bells in 4–5 must also cross, which means that 6ths must be made. In addition, because all the places are right (i.e. made at handstroke then backstroke), it is really unnecessary to remember that every alternate row is X. Further, it is only necessary to learn the place notation up to the half-lead and then reverse it for the second half of the lead, which means that for multi-method ringing, place notation learning is an extremely economical way of remembering a method. (Theoretically it does not matter which pair of bells one is ringing, either.) The place notation for Cambridge Surprise Minor now becomes 3rds, 4ths, 2nds, 3rds, 4ths, 5ths, at half-lead, 2nds at lead-end.

Note.—By altering the half-lead and lead-

3rds, 4ths, 5ths, at half-lead, 2nds at lead-end.

Note.—By altering the half-lead and lead-end places, Surprise methods with completely different "b'ue lines" and names are produced. Using the place notation method no further learning is necessary.

It is useful for "blue line" ringers to know the half-lead and lead-end places in any method they ring on handbells as an additional guide. For Surprise Minor and Maior ringing one tends to ring the method in half-leads.

The basic idea of ringing by place notation

The basic idea of ringing by place notation is that one dodges below an odd place and plain hunts above it. Conversely, one plain hunts below an even place and dodges above it. Evidence that this is true can be obtained by superimposing the blue lines for a course of Cambridge Surprise Minor into one lead on a piece of graph paper, so revealing the "pattern" of the method to which I referred earlier.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAJOR

"Blue Line" Method:

When learning the "blue line" for handbell ringing it is customary to draw the lines of two bells on one diagram, so that the relationship between the two bells concerned lationship between the two bells concerned can be observed. Apart from ringing the trebles, which tend to be a "specialist" pair. there are only three positions possible when ringing Major. These are 3-4, 5-6 and 7-8, i.e., by writing out the work of these three pairs of bells all the possible combinations of positions are obtained. Without wishing to become "bogged down" with details, the kind of things that one observes from these diagrams are as follows: grams are as follows:-

- Coursing bells dodge together in 3-4 and 5-6 below the treble, but never in 1-2
- 2. In certain leads the bells in the 3-4 position make places in adjacent positions, i.e. 3-4 and 5-6 down or 5-6 and 3-4 places up.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ROYAL AND MAXIMUS

I mentioned earlier that Cambridge Surprise could be rung by the "construction" of the method. This becomes more obvious on the higher numbers, although the "ropesight," if we may call it that, becomes more difficult.

In the first part of this article on Cambridge Surprise I mentioned that the construction of the method was based on the principle that when the treble is plain hunting the other bells are dodging, and when the treble is dodging the semicing bells are plain hunting. The are dodging, and when the treble is dodging the remaining bells are plain hunting. The method can be rung almost exclusively by this rule on handbells, provided that a bell making a place is counted as plain hunting or dodging, as will be explained below. One important observation one can make from this rule is that if one bell is dodging, then the other bell you have must also be dodging somewhere, deciding just where may present the difficulty. the difficulty.

Consider the start of a lead of Cambridge Surprise Royal as shown below.

DYLAN THOMAS

"Snow grew overnight on the roofs of the houses, its white-ivied walls and settled on the postman. Were there postmen then, too? With sprinkling eyes and wind-cherried noses -on frozen feet they crunched up to the doors and mittened manfully on them. But all that the children could hear was a ringing of bells in the bat-black, snow-white belfries tugged by bishops and storks. They rang their tidings over the bandaged town, over the frozen foam of the powder and ice-cream hills, over the crackling sea.

Get back to the postmen "

WINTRY CONDITIONS

Despite wintry conditions, over 45 members attended the Northern Branch meeting at Marsham on March 7. Due to a prior engagement of the rector, the Rev. C. B. Morgan (rector of Hevingham) conducted the service and gave an interesting address, Mr. J. H. Tinsey read the lesson and Mr. D. Bird kindly played the organ.

Mr. F. N. Golden congratulated Steven Smith (Aylsham) on a peal of Minor in seven methods, and also congratulated Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duffield (Lammas) on their golden wedding.

Mary Purvis (Wroxham), Maxine Bulli-more and John Purslow (Cromer), Mr. C. P. Coe (Holt), Mr. Andrew and Ruth Kett (St. George, Colegate) were elected members. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wiveton in May and it was hoped to hold the branch striking competition at Garveston in July.

Members were pleased that Mrs. A. G. Bason was making progress after being in hospital and to see Mrs. J. Steadman, who also had a spell in hospital. The chairman (Mr. G. Sayer) proposed a vote of thanks to Rev. M. McLean for allowing the meet-ing, to Rev. C. B. Morgan, to Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Carter and members of the Mothers' Union for preparing and serving tea.

The Belfry Repair Fund collection was £2 13s. 6d. Ringing before and after the service in various methods was under the ringing master, Mr. T. E. Spight.

SPETCHLEY BELLS

The bells are all mediæval and were the subject of an R.W. article about two years ago. They were rehung by Barwell, of Birmingham, in 1904 and restored in 1967. The tower was fitted with sound control before the peal, which was achieved only with difficulty. All the bells tend to drop, the tenor being very odd-struck. The peal (recorded) was to have been in four methods, but ten extents of Double Bob dissuaded us.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

When the bells of Medbourne Parish Church, Leicestershire, were rededicated after restoration the vicar decided that the music should be led by an orchestra made up of musical friends and as Mr. Paul Taylor was a violinist he was persuaded to take part. However, on the day prior to the service, Mr. Taylor had to go to London and asked me to represent him at Medbourne. He telephoned the vicar, apologising for his inability to be present at the service, and said that I would deputise for him. Apparently the reverend gentlemen did not get the message clear, for when I arrived at the church he wanted to know where my violin was, as Mr. Taylor said he was sending another "fiddler" to take his place. I had to explain that I was "Fidler" by name and not by nature. Poor vicar, he was quite upset, and I do believe he thought we had played a joke on him.

Belfry Gossip

First Peal congratulations to Ian Messinger, Jennifer A. Unsworth, Richard M. Ragsdell, Ian Earl (13), Steven J. Coleman (handbells).

Sapcote, Leics, on March 8 put two different bands in for quarter peals of Cambridge Minor before morning and afternoon services.

Alan Coombs rang his 25th quarter at Marksbury on March 3, and so did his friend, Robert Perry.

The theory that the mini-skirt was designed by a male and the maxi by a female as a countermeasure was put forward at the recent M.U.G. dinner.

The remarkable capacity during the past year for producing marriages—and babies—was an observation made by the master of the Manchester University Guild at a social function.

Personal Records.—Murray A. Coleman (200 peals), Peter L. Furniss (50), Gordon K. Green (50), George T. Cousins (200).

His 18th peal on his 18th birthday. Chris Hims had this distinction at Hanbury, and the method was Erdington Surprise Major.

Senior members of the Chertsey District who find difficulty in attending meetings for any reason should contact the district secretary, who will arrange transport.

WALTER JUDGE - 60 YEARS' MEMBERSHIP O.D.G.

The band who rang a peal of Stedman Caters at Magdalen College, Oxford, to welcome the new president (in 1968), Dr. H. F. Griffiths. On the left is Walter Judge, who has completed 60 years' membership of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, having joined in 1910.

Walter was born at Kidlington in November, 1895, and was taught to ring by his father (who was tower captain) in 1908. Mr. Judge, senior, died three years later and did not see the results of his tuition, but Walter scored his first peal in 1912 at Kidlington and has since rung 61 more at this tower. His peals total is 661, but he is now more interested in quarters, he tells us.

Are the doors of belfries locked when peal attempts are made? One correspondent suggests it is advisable—because of the "standard of some of the ringing."

After 13 years as tower captain at Brayon-Thames, Mr. John Norsworthy has resigned and his place has been taken by Mr. Derek Fowles, 10 Lynden Close, Holyport, Maidenhead, Berks, to whom correspondence should be addressed.

Front Page Covers.—The Ringing World Committee has sanctioned tinted covers for August. We have vacancies for the following dates: July 31, August 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31. All other weeks before these dates are booked.

New methods this week include Llandaff Surprise Royal (at Llandaff), Cheddar Surprise Major (at Tottenham), Burghclere Surprise Major (at Highclere), and Perry Barr Surprise Major (at Handsworth).

Lanchester, Durham (6), has been included in two broadcasts recently. B.B.C. Radio Durham broadcast various bells on Christmas Day and the I.T.A. network broadcast a Holy Communion service live on the first Sunday in Lent.

The tower captain at Thrapston, Northants, Sally Diamond, recently invited a band to ring a peal on her birthday. It was the first for many years as the bells are not easily available for peal attempts.

Samuel Lawrence's peal book: Referring to John Mayne's comment, I worked in Shrewsbury for a few years in the 1920s and at that time Lawrence's peal book was in the public library there, writes W. B. Kynaston.

The Bathing of St. Christopher at Crucis Portae probably means little to the average ringer—and perhaps some above average, but a peal of Spliced Surprise Major commemorating the event was rung at Birstwith, Yorks, on March 9.

The former Northern District of the Yorkshire Association and the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association are now amalgamated and Mr. Edward Hudson is writing an account of the latter, which we hope to publish in due course.

The Leicester Guild A.G.M. at Leicester advertised for April 4 has many towers open at varying times during the day. It is important that names for tea be sent to Mrs. Staniforth by April 2nd as this is a very important and popular meeting.

The dedication of Hayes tower and bells on March 15 coincided with Mr. Percy Venn's birthday. Percy was the mainspring behind the whole venture, and a birthday luncheon was held the same day attended by 40 relatives, friends and helpers. Returning to his car in the evening it was found that his birthday presents had been stolen from his car—but the greetings cards were left!

The "Magpie" television programme gave another period to bellringing on March 12. It showed the preparation, casting and tuning of a bell (the 5th at Hayes) at the Whitechapel Foundry, and a repeat of the Expo tower with the bells being rung to changes—which was previously screened on December 31 last (Ringing World, page 47, 1970).

The first edition of a local newspaper (Honiton and Ottery News) is a real event these days. We wish it every success. In its columns is a paragraph referring to "Pixie Revels" and the annual attempt on Midsummer Day to silence the bells of St. Mary's Church. We shall, no doubt, learn more about this at a later date.

"... Assisting the Police in their enquiries"

A derelict church is always a sad sight, but St. Edmund's looked the more forlorn for being surrounded by a derelict town-scape, for this part of Exeter—first riverside meadow, then slummy housing, then industrial bleakness is now all being re modelled as part of the new Exe Bridge scheme. Across the road the site of the Tannery is a waste of rubble; behind the church the City Brewery is partly demolished, partly standing but derelict, beer labels swirling in wind eddies like the fallen leaves of some insane 20th century tree. In between, the church, its red sandstone walls pierced by sightless windows shuttered with rough deal boards.

Down on the wasteland a detective-constable is waiting for us, the church keys in his hand, and in we go. St. Edmund's had a gallery at the west end and below it a vestibule and what was once a handsome flight of stairs, but in the floor a large square hole shows where the trap-hatch to the crypt has been roughly enlarged, and scarred plaster and shattered treads on the stairs show that at least one bell has taken charge on its way down, while on the landing above several banister rails are broken out. Says Jack: "If somebody didn't get hurt on this job I'll eat my hat."

The ringing room, its doorway stripped of its jambs, is a rubbish heap of wormy chairs and disembowelled hassocks, music books and filth, the old peal boards on the walls illegible under their dust. Above, the 18th century clock has been robbed of its brass wheels and the clock room littered with splintered wood from the belfry floor: a clapper lies behind the clock-perhaps used to smash it.

Enough of the belfry floor has been broken up to allow some of the bells to be lowered-and to make it awkward to get on to the frame from the top of the ladder. The frame had the 2nd, 3rd and 4th hung in a top tier, but of these only the 3rd remains, protected by a difficult access to her pit. The 2nd headstock hangs empty, upside-down; the 5th also empty, one gudgeon out of its bearing; the 2nd and 4th thrown into the 6th pit, their wheels shattered. A deep scar on a roof joist shows that a rope was used to lower the treble, 2nd, 4th and 5th of the eight: a risky, foolhardy job, but the bells are gone. The wind whistles cold through the louvres and through the open trap in the roof-yes, they took some of the flashings as well.

Although there seems to be no sign of the bells in the crypt at first sight, the enlarged trap shows that the bells must have gone down that way. It's a strange place: in the middle some mediæval pillars support the massive floor beams of the church; on the north side a narrow doorway and passage lead to the brewery site-too narrow to get a bell through; and on the south we are looking at the north side of the 15th century Exe Bridge, one of the oldest stone bridges in England. The part which spanned the river itself is long since demolished, but here unseen more than half of the bridge still stands, the cutwater of one of its piers projecting into St. Edmund's crypt. arches are partly bricked up, but one can see through holes in the brickwork to where the ancient ribbed arches still carry the road above. Some excavation was done down here a few years back and trenches and heaps of earth make it difficult to search the earthen floor.

How did the bells get out? Not through the doorway, for there isn't room. Were they broken up down here, then? Not a sign of a chip of bell metal anywhere. A broken crowbar, its face unrusted, a splintered wooden top from a T-headed clapper here in this pit, a heap of old mats and carpets, and . . . ves, here right in the corner an iron crown staple, a 19th century one. It must have come from the Mears 1833 treble: pretty conclusive proof that the bells were broken up down here. We show it to the detective-constable and say what it means: "They must have been pretty tidy about it, then," he says doubtfully, but finally agrees that it makes sense.

We take a last sad look round the desolation of the church—it has been used by "dossers" for some years, and last year much of the woodwork was damaged by a fire - and head for home. The bells are gone, and nobody knows just when; church is visited only rarely by any officer of the parish, and it may have been robbed of its bells any time since December. But on Saturday evening the detective-constable is on the phone: they've charged three men with the theft of the bells: 9 cwt. of metal has been found in a scrap dealer's yard and the dealer has been charged with receiving. Yes, he says, the bells were broken up in the crypt; the men have made statements admitting it. Could I come in some time and see if I can identify the bits?

It's Monday morning when I call at the station and the detective takes me to a locked store in the yard. Nine small sacks are dragged out, astonishingly heavy, still tied up and labelled: we open the first and start to sort out the pieces of metal.

Pieces of soundbow come first, their music broken for ever; then a large lump of head with its canons still intact. Then a piece of inscription band with a couple of letters and a scrap of ornament which we put on the top before turning to the next. By the time we've sorted through five of the sacks we have a dozen or so pieces of inscription to fit together: in the fourth was a chunk with "W.E." flanking Evans' bell foundry mark, and in the fifth the date 1731; the other pieces can now be fitted together roughly to make a consecutive line of inscription-that of St. Edmund's fourth bell. An inspector and the superintendent come in to ask some questions, looking over my shoulder at the broken words on the concrete floor, and William Evans seems to look sadly, too, at a generation that robs churches and smashes his work for the sake of scrap metal—GOODWILL TOWARDS MEN W.E. 1731. J. G. M. S. MEN W.E. 1731.

SAVING FOR TWO MORE BELLS

Writing from Waltham, near Grimsby, Christine Molendo sends a photograph of Waltham ringers and choir dinner, and informs us: "We pay for it with our funds and by selling raffle tickets. We are saving for two more bells to add to our six, but have a long way to go yet. Apart from the money from the raffles, last year we held a sponsored walk, organised by two ringers (Ronald Carrotte and Steve Haines), and raised about £120, the ringers and a few others walking 20 miles! Some of the money went to Shelter, some to the church and the rest to the bell funds.

"Other outings are an afternoon at Harmston, to ring on their 'seldom-rung' bells, and a day at Whitby. We are all young people who ring at Waltham, and are a sort of 'exclusive youth club' as there is none in the village."

THE GENTLE GIANT

On March 12 Peter Border recorded his 200th peal on the tenor of St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham. It is interesting to speculate how many ergs of energy have been expended in the process and, in the way of physicists, to calculate how many pints of water (or beer) could have been raised from room temperature to boiling point by this energy!

[We recently met Peter and admired his quiet strength (and genial personality) and saw the huge hands with which he con-trols the ropes appended to the heavy tenors he rings to peals.—Ed.]

"TO HUNT OR NOT TO HUNT"

"As a family of apprentice ringers, we constantly talk about the origins of ringing," writes Mr. Botting, of Holmer Green, Bucks. "One of our children suggested that Esau and Jacob were both ringers. Esau being a Surprise ringer, while Jacob was a rounds and call changes man.

"When asked to explain this he produced his copy of A Child's Bible and quoted 'Esau had thick red hair and loved to hunt, while Jacob was a plain man who did not like to hunt." "(!)

BELFRY IN THE GROUNDS

Hampshire, the county features in its March issue the little village of Quartley, on the Hampshire border with Wiltshire, which consists of a few houses, one or two farms and the Parish Church of St. Michael the Archangel.

The church has no bell tower; the tower and belfry were removed in 1882, when a porch and vestry were added. Since then its three ancient bells have been hung in a little frame standing on the ground to the north of the church. The ropes lead through the wall to the vestry, from where they are rung as occasion demands.

Two of the bells are pre-Reformation and bear the inscriptions: "Sancta Maria, ora pro nobis" and "God is Love." The third is dated 1636. "It is said," writes Michael Kennett, "that this bell was cracked during a wedding service in those distant days; it was recast in 1905 at the expense of Henry Paulet, the 16th Marquess of Winchester."

ACTIVITIES OF A COUNTRY TOWER

Porthkerry Tower (Glamorgan) has something to look forward to—wedding ringing and a preliminary checkover of the bells by a representative of the Whitechapel Foundry in March, ringers' dinner in April, ringing for Cathedral evensong at Llandaff on May 2, ringers' service on May 10 to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the augmentation and restoration, and farther ahead a quarterly meeting of the Llandaff Branch in September.

Several youngsters have recently been recruited and are making good progress; there are often 12 or 14 at practices, while on Sundays the ringers often comprise one-third of the congregation at this small country church

A new hazard is the arrival of jet planes on the recently extended runway at Glamorgan (Rhoose) Airport in a direct line with the church. The planes pass low over the church and the noise is deafening.

L. J. M.

Grow up as soon as you can, the only time you really live fully is from thirty to sixty.—Hervey Allen.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for March 23, 1945

At a Salisbury Guild meeting at Bridport a unanimous vote against holding a competition was recorded on the grounds that it would not engender good fellowship or serve to advance the art of ringing or the objects of the Guild.

The leading article was devoted to footnotes to peals and the general layout of the R.W. to suit all ringers. [It is proposed to reprint part of this article in the near future.—Ed.]

Anthony Humphrey (aged 13) rang his first peal (Bob Major) at Brighton and William Coppard his first of Major.

The National Police Guild rang Stedman Triples to a peal on the front eight at Manchester Town Hall and P.-Sgt. T. R. Butler was the conductor.

At Chedzoy, Som., three first pealers—Ronald Short, Mervyn Farthing and George Burge. John T. Locke conducted.

A local band, the first ever, rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Abbotsbury, John Pitman and Rev. W. G. Squires ringing their first.

Sgt. Sydney Holloway sent details of bells in Calcutta Cathedral and mentioned a clock made by Valliamy, of London, in 1844.

50 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1920

From the Oxford Guild meeting:

The publication of the annual report of the Oxford Guild would cost 9d. per copy but would be sold at 6d. to permit every-one to have a copy. A course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was brought to a lead end by Messrs. Mayne, Barker, Williamson, Martin and Welling.

'The Middlesex Association and London Diocesan Guild (S. and W.) view with regret the absence of quarter peals, elemen-tary touches and other matter beneficial to young ringers in the Ringing World." From a report.

A well-known resident of N. Mymms, Herts, had promised to present two more bells to the Church of St. Mary.

H. Law James wrote asking for support to raise money to add four more bells to the eight in Lincoln Cathedral as a memorial to the fallen.

A 720 of No. 20 of the Thirds Place Delight methods, C.C. Collection, was rung at Denton and named "Pevril Castle."

The heavy-going bells (Rudhall, 1726), the long draught of rope which slips wheel and no sally guides made the ringing difficult when Salop Guild met at Cound.

A peal of Erin Cinques on handbells was rung at the residence of Mr. A. Walker in Sparkhill, Birmingham, it being only the second peal of Erin Cinques ever rung.

Arthur T. Morris tapped Holt's Ten Part of Grandsire Triples on handbells in 2 hours 33 minutes.

Four of the Allred family—Herbert, Harry, Benjamin and Robert, sen.—took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples in memory of James Allred, a ringer for 45 vears.

a year and three days later.

This is the story of Lympne, a Kentish village which helped itself and proudly saved something of its past for future generations. Lympne is a mile away from the busy A20 trunk road, midway between Ashford and Folkestone. Its "main street" is the Romans' ancient Stone Street. To walk beyond the new houses and bungalows at the end of Stone Street is to step back into the past of centuries. centuries.

Church, castle, inn, manor house, school. farm and cottages stand, mellow in their years.

amid trees and pastures

Not even the activity of the nearby airport-

Not even the activity of the nearby airport—known world-wide to pioneers of aviation as the starting point of many historic route-blazing expeditions—reduces the air of serenity of the "old village."

The Church of St. Stephen stands next to the castle, on the banks of a grassy "cliff" which commands one of the finest views in southern England—the great expanse of Romney Marsh, the shoreline sweening from Fairney Marsh, the shoreline sweeping from Fair-light in the west to the white cliffs of Dover the east, and a vast seascape to the coast

Down the ages, the steep escarpment of the "cliff" has been one of the defence lines of has been one of the defence lines of England.

The Romans built their harbour of Portus Lemanus at the foot of it, long before the sea receded by many miles to the present

Saxons, Jutes, Normans, Danes, Frenchmen, Saxons, Jules, Normans, Danes, Frenchmen, Spaniards, Dutchmen, Germans—invaders and would-be invaders—knew this land. So did pirates and smugglers. Kings held court here and for more recent royalty Lympne was a leisure retreat. For statesmen, after World War I, it was a venue to deliberate the peace. Here the Fair Maid of Kent saw her visions and (so the story goes) it was down Lympne Hill that Jack and Jill came to grief.

PLACE IN HISTORY

So Lympne has its place in part of the story of England. And for 900 years its church has seen the comings and goings of Kentish history. St. Stephen's was built by Lanfranc, from stones from the Roman remains of Stutfall stones from the Roman remains of Stutfall Castle, below the cliff. The earliest record of its bells is in an "inventory of church goods" of 1552 and refers to the "first iiij bells in the stepell." In 1580 the churchwardens of Lympne made application in the court of the Archdeacon of Canterbury "... to take from the Parish Church of Westhythe ... now desolate and decayed ... two little bells." They promised that the same weight of metal would be cast again "in like bells ... and redelivered ... when they shall be lawfully required." It is probable that some. if not all, of the bells were recast in the same year. all, of the bells were recast in the same year.

In 1742-43 the bells were recast into a ring

In 1742-43 the bells were recast into a ring of five by Robert Catlin at a cost of £50. The frame was also partly rebuilt. Regular ringing continued at Lympne until at least 1808. From this date onwards there are a few mentions of bell ropes or ringers in churchwardens' accounts. In the middle of the last century the church fell into a "very damp and bad condition," in which it appeared to remain for some years. Not until December. 1879 is it recorded that "the 5 December, 1879, is it recorded that "the bells rang out" for the reopening services.

bells rang out" for the reopening services. Again, in the early years of this century, the church became in need of considerable restoration. In 1921 the Archdeacon of Maidstone reported that "the belfry's condition does not allow of the bells being pealed, and the birds have been allowed to get into the belfry." In 1928 under the direction of Mr. Rowland Harman, who has done much in the last 40 years to restore and maintain the church, the bell frame was lowered and strengthened and the bells and fittings renaired strengthened and the bells and fittings repaired and rehung In 1951 the bells were rehung on ball bearings and a treble bell was added by Mears and Stainbank.

The inscriptions on the six bells read:—
Treble: 1959 M & S. 2: Tho 1 am but small I will be heard amongst you all, R. Catlin, Fecit, 1742, 3: Robert Catlin cast us all, 1742. 4: John Bridger — John Firminger — Robert Catlin, Fecit, 1742, 5: R.C. Fecit, 1744, Tenor: Henry Bagnal Vicar — Thomas Greenland — Richard Howard Churchwardens, R.C. Fecit, 1742.

Howard Churchwardens, R.C. Fecit. 1742.
The weight of the tenor bell is 111 cwt.
In recent years considerable work has been done to the exterior and interior fabric of St. Stephen's and today it is one of the best pre-served churches of its period in South-East England. Despite dedicated maintenance by the bellringing team however it became clear in 1968 that the bells and frame were in need of major and urgent repair. The cost was estimated at £1,800, the sum reducible by several hundred pounds by the undertaking of the ringers to carry out some of the work themselves. The Parochial Church Council set themselves. The Parochial Church Council set up a small committee to raise money. From many meetings during the latter half of the year emerged a master plan of fund-raising ventures—ranging from an appeal letter delivered to every household in the village on New Year's Day, 1969, to coffee mornings and jumble sales to the most ambitious single event ever staged in Lympne—a three-day Festival of Flowers, Music and Bells in April. In this almost the entire village community was involved. St. Stephen's, Lympne Castle and the whole area of the "old village" became the venue of events, which included floral art displays, a procession of children carrying garlands, displays of mediæval dancing, exhibitions and demonstrations, handbell ringing, organ and other music. ringing, organ and other music.

PROCEEDS EXCEED TARGET

Thousands of people from all over England attended the festival. For visiting ringers the centre of interest was the Whitechapel Expo Belfry, making its first appearance and erected on a prepared site in a farmyard opposite the church. Proceeds from the festival and other events, together with donations resulting from the general appeal, exceeded the target. And so, in early summer, work began on a carefully prepared schedule which aimed at the completion of the project before the end of the year. The bellringing team undertook a programme considerably bigger than their original one, some members giving up their holidays and mortgaging future ones so that progress could be maintained to

The bells were removed in September and returned from the Whitechapel Bell Foundry in December, the ringers carrying out the manual work of removal and rehanging under the guidance of Mr. Harry Parkes. Flooring was constructed under the bells to enable ringing to be carried out from a belfry instead of from the floor of the church. The bells of from the floor of the church. The bells were rededicated by the Lord Bishop of Dover (Rt. Rev. Antony Tremlett) at a special service on Sunday, January 4, one year to the day after a service to mark the launching of the appeal.

"The bells of St. Stephen's are part of our village life and heritage; surely it is our wish that they may be part of the inheritance we pass on to future generations.

Thus, on January 1, 1969, the Rev. J. W. Neilson, Vicar of Lympne, appealed to his parishioners to be generous in answering his appeal for funds.

They answered not only by donating money and gifts and by organising events to raise revenue, giving pleasure to visitors to their village, but also by back-breaking work in

This is the story of a village which helped itself.

Perhaps somewhere in the belfry of St. Stephen's and in the documents which record the life and times of its bells might be added this dedication:-

1969: To the people of Lympne who showed that they cared for the future as well as the past . . .

Guildford Guild.

A BELFRY REPAIR FUND

A well represented gathering of members attended the A.G.M. of the Guildford Guild on March 14 at the new Congregational Hall, when all the officers were reelected.

The most notable feature of the annual report was the large increase in the number peals rung during 1969. The master, Mr. D. A. R. May, in his comments said that the Guild had been productive both in the field of peal and quarter peal ringing and he expressed the hope that this trend would continue, since he believed that to some extent it represented the health of the Guild.

In presenting the accounts the treasurer (Mr. G. K. Williamson) explained the reason for increasing the subscription and the way in which more money was to be channelled into the Guild General Fund. The master had previously explained that the Executive Committee had set up a Belfry Repair Fund into which the tower affiliation fees were to be paid.

Four new members were elected: Christopher Caryer, Nicholas Mudge and Grant Pyner, of Ewell, and Alan Ure, of Dunsfold. The master welcomed them to the guild and expressed the hope that they would have a long and enjoyable ringing career.

Answering an enquiry about the bells at Ranmore Common, the master explained that a home had not yet been found for them, mainly because they had to be kept as a ring of eight, but he had hopes of successful redeployment of the ring. garding the recent Press reports of com-plaints from the University about ringing at Guildford Cathedral, Mrs. C. Tubbs informed the meeting that no official complaint had been made to the Dean and Chapter and that only one person had complained to the University authorities.

The meeting concluded when Mr. E. Warner thanked the ladies for the tea, the organist, and the Rev. W. Sellars for taking A.E. the service.

About the Central Council

4.—LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE

By E. C. SHEPHERD (convener)

AT THE MEETING of the Central Council at Westminster in 1903 the Rev. (later Canon) Papillon raised the question of the possibility of doing more to educate the public in the matter of change-ringing. Everyone agreed that this ought to be done, although no one had any clear idea of how it might be done. Nevertheless, after much discussion a committee was appointed to look into the question, and Mr. Papillon, Mr. R. A. Daniell and Mr. Maitland Kelly constituted what was called the Press Committee. A number of useful articles were written by Mr. Papillon and others, but the difficulties of educating the public soon be-came apparent, and the main job of the committee resolved itself into the preparation of a catalogue of all the known works on ringing, a task undertaken by Mr. Daniell. Seven years later Mr. Daniell re-ported that the work was in hand; in 1913 it was stated that the catalogue was still unfinished. Meanwhile the name of the committee had been changed to Church Press Committee and then to Literature Committee, and it was doing useful work in encouraging the writing of articles for the Press, in watching what was written and in keeping the ringing Exercise in touch with what was done. The present title of the committee came in 1919, but with the development of radio the word "Broadcastwas added.

FIRST TO BROADCAST

The committee thus dealt with ringing literature and with what bell and bellringing matter was put out on the air. Among the first to broadcast was the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, of Kington Magna, Dorset. This remarkable man was convener of the committee for more than 30 years and his reports were masterpieces of construction. He was a man solid, quiet and convincing, and he commanded great respect. His energy and determination were astonishing, when he was over 80 he travelled 300 miles from Dorset to Newcastle-on-Tyne, where we saw him, after his long day,'s journey, sitting in the smoke room at the Turk's Head calmly sipping his ale.

The difficulties that faced the committee of 1903 have not disappeared with the passing of 67 years. There is no way of educating the public to a correct appreciation of change-ringing except by persuading it to study text books; and this is hardly likely to be done. As was pointed out in 1903, editors have the job of making their papers pay and are not willing to print technical expositions. On the other hand, they are not at all unwilling to publish readable matter concerning bells, their history and legends, and even some comprehensible references to how changes are rung; for there can be little doubt that, apart from a small minority, English people have a love of bells and a desire to hear them.

The present Literature and Press Committee was elected in 1954, and it is a committee of two—myself and Mr. F. E. Dukes. It may at sight appear a small body to be called a committee, but actually it is quite large enough. Throughout the year news cuttings of many kinds are sent in to us from near and far, and it is convenient to have the "gathering points" for all this material limited to two spots. In practice it emerges that Mr. Dukes collects matter from outside England while I assemble most of the remainder.

All references to ringing are read, annotated and then filed under headings-news items, feature articles, technical articles, and so on. At the end of the year these are reviewed and some attempt is made to indicate any special feature of the year's publicity. It is not possible, of course, to mention in our report every item we have received, but each piece, great or small, helps to build up the picture of the ringing literature of the 12 months. Notice is always taken of new publications of works by ringers themselves, and of the very interesting and useful local journals and news sheets produced by enterprising and hardworking enthusiasts.

TIME LAG

In theory the committee stands ready to refute any false, absurd or unfairly derogatory statements on bells and bellringers that may appear in the Press. In practice it is not always easy to be of use in this capacity. This is due partly to the time lag between the appearance of the objectionable article or letter and our awareness of its publication and partly to the actions of editors who ignore our protests or distort them by incomplete presentation. The less reputable journals often resort to the latter device; the better class papers will either ignore us or print us in full; and this, if not satisfactory, is at least honourable.

The report that Mr. Dukes and I present to the Central Council may be said to have three main aims. First, it tries to provide the Exercise with a review of what has been written and said about us during the year; in other words, to help us "to see ourselves as others see us." There can be no question of the value of this to those of us who think at all deeply about our St. David's Guild

A COMMEMORATIVE BOOKLET

A quarterly meeting of the St. David's Diocesan Guild was held at Llanelli on March 14th, with members present from Burry Port, Cardigan, Carmarthen, Llanelli, Pembroke and Tenby. The service was conducted by Canon Howard Williams, the organist was Mr. Alan Morris and the lesson was read by Rev. R. W. Thomas.

Mr. Percy Griffiths expressed thanks for the excellent tea, prepared and served by the ladies of the parish, and at the meeting it was decided to nominate the secretary as C.C. representative, the present representative being unable to attend.

It was proposed that a booklet to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Guild be compiled and that a dinner be held in Carmarthen in October. It was agreed that a peal be attempted in the Cathedral to a peal be attempted in the Cathedral to mark the golden jubilee of the Province.

The Rev. R. W. Thomas (master), who had left the diocese to be Vicar of St. Julian's, Newport, was welcomed.
The meeting was held jointly with the Swansea and Brecon Guild, both joining for some good ringing and for tea, but the business meetings being held separately.

Nottingham University Society

VISITED TWELVE TOWERS

The Nottingham University Society spent a weekend based in Worcester as last term's outing. Travelling by minibus, 12 towers were visited, including Pershore Abbey (quite an experience!) and Worcester Cathedral. Other churches included Elmley Castle, where some of the local inhabitants remarked how pleasant it was to hear the bells rung! On Sunday morning three members rang in a quarter at Stoulton.

Thanks to Paul Cattermole for making the arrangements and to Chris for his navigation.

On March 4 the Society held its A.G.M., when the following officers were elected. chairman and ringing master, Hilary K. Derham (13 Orchard Road, Backwell, Bristol, BS19 3HP); secretary, Margaret H. Mees (Willoughby Hall, University Park, Nottingham, NG7 2QR). and treasurer, John Wright.

art and the work to which it is dedicated. Secondly, we should wish this report to act as an incentive to ringers to write and speak boldly about bellringing, and to educate the public in what we do and, most important of all, why we do it. Thirdly, we all need constant reminders of the tremendous amount that is written for us by our fellow ringers—the articles technical and historical, pamphlets, books, periodicals, all of them for our instruction and entertainment. by year we have evidence of deeply devoted work, and the report tries in some small way to express the gratitude of us all for this constant enlargement of our ringing literature.

Sometimes, on gazing at the report and on the pile of material from which it emerged, one is tempted to think that the mountain (like that of Horace) has with great labour brought forth a mouse. then one is comforted by the thought that even the mouse has its uses, as the lion in the fable of Aesop found to his great benefit.

COMPETITION PLANS

The Devon Association of Ringers has now published its 1970 programme, with details of the six-bell and eight-bell comnetitions.

People who like to combine a visit to a competition with a day in picturesque countryside can make a note of the eight-bell and the final of the six-bell; the former is on April 18th at Revelstoke, overlooking the lovely Yealm estuary near Plymouth, with the South Devon coastline just the other side of the hill; the latter is one of Devon's most dramatically-placed towers, St. Petrox, Dartmouth, the church in the castle at the mouth of the Dart, perched above the rocks at the entrance of one of Britain's loveliest harbours. Both rings are mainly 19th century, but across the water they should sound delightful. The Dart-mouth competition is on June 13.

The two towers selected for the area sixbell competitions are Ide for the South and Black Torrington for the North. Ide (pronounced "Eed") is only a mile or two outside the edge of Exeter (turn left at the top of the first hill out of Exeter on the Okehampton road) and has a Warner six with an 8½ cwt. tenor in a delightful village. The Ide competition is on May 9, and a fortnight later, on the 23rd, comes Black Torrington. Don't be misled by the name; this is quite a long way from Great Torrington and in a rather unexpected direction, because the Torridge makes three-quarters of a circle. Black Torrington is a little way north of the Exeter-Bude road, in a little-known part of the county which is well worth a visit; the bells are a Pennington ring with an 82 cwt. tenor in F sharp; they sound much heavier than their true weight, and very much better inside the church than out, but they are a nice six to ring and there should be some excellent ringing on them with West Down, Down St. Mary and Swymbridge among the entries.

In all these competitions, the service starts events at 2 p.m. and tea is served at 4. Having the service at the beginning is an attempt to get teams to be there on time; one hopes it will be successful, for it can be very frustrating for the organisers, judges and punctual teams if people have to wait about for a long time before the draw can be made and ringing can begin.

COINCIDENCE

Roy Threadgold writes:—
"When sending the quarter in which Rosalind Campbell rang her "first" I came across some interesting coincidences. I discovered that I had rung no quarter of Bob Doubles since her sister, Elizabeth, rang her first in 1966; that was on St. George's Day. Rosalind's was on St. David's Day. With a name like Campbell, we will have to see if their brother, Richard, can ring his on St. Andrew's Day!

"This trio spread their ringing over Yorkshire and Suffolk, but our home tower is Wethersfield, Essex.

"Wethersfield Anglican and Congrega-tional churches have had close ties for many years. We have built up a tradition of ringing for the Congregational Harvest Festival, and the Campbells certainly help this—their father is Congregational organist and their grandfather used to be Congregational minister at Braintree."

MEN WHO STOLE CHURCH BELLS

Three Exeter men who removed bells from the disused St. Edmund's Church and sold them for scrap were given fines totalling £320 and suspended prison sentences.
The men, Colin Michael Bond (30), lorry driver, Ronald William Hannaford (25), unemployed, and his father, William Charles Hannaford (48), lorry driver, pleaded guilty to jointly entering the church as trespassers between January 1 and February 21 and stealing four of the church's eight bells, the property of Rev. Michael J. Morton.

Insp. D. Fowkes said that since the brewery next door became empty the now disused church had virtually no security.

Property still in the building included a ring of eight bells, all irreplaceable and of great historic value.

In February four of the bells were found to be missing, and it was discovered that they must have been dragged into the crypt and broken into pieces before being taken away.

Press publicity resulted in information leading to the recovery, in pieces, of two of the bells from a local scrap metal merchant. But pieces from the other two bells had already gone for smelting. Ronald Hannaford admitted the theft, and after his remand on bail the other two men went to the police and admitted their part.

Statements made by the men revealed that Ronald Hannaford had first noticed the bells in the church and brought the others in to help him steal them. Tackle taken from a building site was used to lower one of the bells into the crypt where it was broken up and sold to a scrap metal merchant. At the beginning of February they stole the second bell in the same manner and on February 21 took the other two.

Visits to the scrap metal merchants were always made at night, and the men profited by £180 from the sale of the metal.

Ronald Hannaford said in his statement that the scrap metal merchant knew the metal was stolen. All three men apologised from the dock.

The chairman of the inagistrates told them: "Not only were these bells of great historic value and of value to the church. but you stole them for your own greed and sold them for an enormous amount of Ronald Hannaford was fined £120 and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, suspended for two years; William Hannaford and Colin Bond were each fined £100 and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, suspended for two years. Each of the men was ordered to pay the fine at £2 a week.

INTER-SCHOOL SOCIETY

Writing from King's School, Worcester, Christopher J. Pickford tells us:-

'The Worcester Schools Change-ringing Society has only been in existence since September, and weekly term-time practices are held on the ten at All Saints' Church on Thursday afternoons. As far as I know this is the only inter-school Society in exist-

"The people who attend our practices form the main part of the Sunday service band at St. John's, Worcester, though others hail from Stoulton and Whitbourne and Pershore. We also teach anyone who is interested to handle a bell, and the attendance at these practices has grown considerably since last September.

Appleton Week-End

"THE CUP OF JOY" "When Friendship, Love and Truth abound

Among a band of brothers, The cup of joy goes gaily round, Each shares the bliss of others."

So runs a verse on an old loving cup made in 1820 A.D., about the time that the foundations of the Appleton Society of Ringers were being laid. Without much doubt "the cup of joy" still goes gaily round on the nearest Saturday to March 4 of every year at Appleton, Berkshire. This year's gathering saw about 130 ringers and friends sit down to dinner, and was the absolute limit of the village hall.

The function was supported by a large majority of the younger generation, who seemed to join most enthusiastically in this traditional entertainment. Fred Sharpe proposed "The Appleton Society" and ably gave the history and some details of the worthies of the past. Frank White, who was given an ovation as he rose to reply, spoke of his pleasure at the continued support of ringers from so many societies, and properly added a sad touch in mentioning the loss sustained by the passing of Fred Messinger and Cyril Hibbert.
"The Church" was toasted at the call of Frank White's co-churchwarden and replied to in happy vein by the rector, who said he wished all sections of church workers like ringers could find the same pleasure and enthusiasm in their work.

"Young Brian," as he is affectionately known, welcomed the visitors, and this was acknowledged by Rodney Yates (master, Oxford University Society), and Bill Hibbert was well received as he voiced the thanks of all for the party.

Earlier in the day the usual peal at-tempt got under way at 10.15 a.m. Tony Kench, master of the College Youths, was delayed so Charlie Sangwyn, from Stratton, joined the band and the peal was duly rung. For Bill Hibbert it was a special occasion, for on March 4, 50 years ago, he rang his first peal on the Appleton bells.

The whole week-end was, as usual, made doubly pleasant by the wonderful service and attention to everyone's comfort and refreshment by Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, hosts at the Plough. Mention must be made of the hospitality of Frank's sister, Phyllis, and Fred (her husband) year by year to the delight of the peal band and their friends; also the cosy reception afforded to all who found their way to the Thatched Tavern, where many years ago the dinner was held.

Despite the severe weather on Sunday there were many who were up and ready to ring at Christ Church, Oxford, at 9 a.m. and at All Saints' later on.

And so it seems, to use a verse from Troyte's Change Ringing, March 4 at Appleton is "Ever the same yet ever new." May it long continue to be one of the highlights of our ringing calendar. W. H. C.

INJURED BY FALL

The sexton and verger at Pilton Parish Church, Barnstaple, Mr. A. Griffiths, of Church Cottage, was taken to hospital recently with a broken leg and back injuries after falling down the bell tower of the church.

Mr. Griffiths, himself a former ringer, was in the tower where the ring of eight was rehung early in March.

WHAT A (LEGAL) NUISANCE!

By ALAN PATTERSON

WHEN Fabian Stedman was introducing the concept of change ringing to English bell-ringers there was probably at least one person living within earshot of the tower who found frequent cause to curse the day that either he or Stedman was born. Times have changed immeasurably since those early days but the problem of the conflicting interests of ringers and those who neither love nor understand the cacophony which issues from the tower is still with us.

It seems that whilst both the Exercise and the Church have gone through a considerable change of attitude in many respects, both have been either wilfully blind or asleep when the problem of nuisance to the inhabitants of a parish caused by bells has presented itself. We, as ringers, have no divine right to persecute our neighbours with the clamour of our chosen instruments. Nor do we have any such right at law. Many ringers are any such right at law. Many ringers are unsure about their legal standing in this matter and it is hoped that this article might provoke some thought upon the subject. It must be stressed that the propositions of law in this article are my own interpretation of the cases and should the reader require legal advice he should consult a solicitor.

Let us assume that a Mr. Grouch has recently moved into a house near the church at Anyparish and has instituted proceedings against the Vicar, Rev. Dogood, and the ringers, headed by their tower captain, Mr. Clanger, alleging that the ringing of the bells of the church is a nuisance and claiming an injunction and damages.

TWO KINDS OF NUISANCE

First, it must be established what the nature of a nuisance is at law in this context. There are two kinds of nuisance—public nuisance and private nuisance. Paradoxical though it may seem. the likelihood of proceedings being taken against Dogood and Clanger in public nuisance is a good deal less likely than proceedings in private nuisance. A public nuisance would be perpetrated by Clanger and his band if it could be established that the ringing endangered (amongst other things) the comfort of the public or prejudiced the members of the public in the exercise of a common right (e.g. the quiet enjoyment of their property). At least a section of the public must be prejudiced by the act complained of and whilst there is no hard and fast rule as to how many people must be affected, it was held to be sufficient that the inhabitants of quite a small locality would be enough in Att.-Gen. v. P.Y.A. Quarries Ltd. [1957] 2 Q.B. 169. However, the prospect of an action being brought in public nuisance is, as I have said, a little remote. This is mainly because Grouch would have to show that he had suffered damage different in kind from that suffered by the public at large.

As to private nuisance, the prospect of some Grouch taking proceedings against some Dogood and Clanger is almost so likely as to be probable. Here, Grouch is much more likely to make out a case than he is even under the Noise Abatement Act, 1960, which (for reasons I shall not go into here) is quite likely to be a red herring in many cases. No, Grouch would do well to stick to the old common law of private nuisance.

At common law private nuisance can comprise either injury to property or interference with comfort. Grouch will be complaining of interference with comfort. The question before the court will be whether it was reasonable in such a place as Anyparish for Grouch to have to endure the noise made by Clanger and his band. The standards of the plain man living in such a locality will be taken as the acid test. Who can deny that in most parishes Grouch would have an easy case? Our bells are often hung so that the mouths of the bells swing right up into the louvres and this, together with the total lack of sound-control. has the obvious result that the din of reverberating metal beats down unmercifully on the neighbouring houses.

What could Clanger and his band say in their defence? Could they say that it was not their fault that Grouch recently moved into the house and that, anyway, he should have expected to hear bells if he moved so close to a tower? It is well-settled law that this is no defence at all. Even if Grouch had built the house near the church on a previously vacant plot, no defence of this sort would be available to Clanger. No one but a churl would deliberately take proceedings because of some petty annoyance (and such a churl would lose, at least as to costs). But often the annoyance is more than petty. Not only this, most ringers are aware that the bells are in most cases far too loud to allow the nearneighbours of the church anything remotely resembling peace and quiet whilst ringing is in progress. Is it not then pertinent to ask who but a churl would deliberately persecute his neighbours with a noise which he well knows they cannot abide?

Just in case those self-righteous beings who never ring any peals and take an inordinate pride in ringing their limited repertoire badly on Sundays feel that I am only inviting peal ringers to think long and hard about their position, it must be stated that the case most directly in point concerned service ringing. This is the case of Soltau v. De Held (1851) 2 Sim (N.S.) 133. The church in question was the Roman Catholic church on Clapham Common, which at that time had a 9 cwt, ring of six. Much to the plaintiff's annoyance these bells were rung frequently either by chiming one or more of the bells or by the ring being rung for various services and festivals. An injunction was granted restraining the ringing of the bells, which was considered to be unreasonable in the circumstances.

EXTREME NUISANCE

Whilst I do not maintain that the decision in Soltau v. De Held is entirely satisfactory in every respect (for example Kindersley, V.C. regarded a 9 cwt, six as an exceptionally heavy ring) the whole tenor of the judgment is expressed in this passage: "A peal of bells may be, and no doubt is, an extreme nuisance and, perhaps, an intolerable nuisance to a person who lives within a very few feet or yards of them; but to a person who lives at a distance from them, although he is within distance of their sound, so far from its being a nuisance or an inconvenience, it may be a positive pleasure; for I cannot assent to the proposition of the plaintiff's counsel that in all circumstances and under all conditions the sound of bells must be a nuisance."

The position, then, seems to be that whilst the sound of bells is not of itself necessarily a nuisance, more often than not it is a nuisance because the bells are being used in an unreasonable manner. What are we, as ringersto do? There are three courses of action open to us. First, we can carry on as before in the fond hope that no one will take any action beyond telephoning the incumbent (if the telephone is not "off the hook"). If this course is adopted, a rude and amply justified shock must surely await us before the earthly seat of judgment in court.

Secondly, we can stop ringing altogether for fear that someone who knows a little too much of his rights might decide to act accordingly. This seems to be the course most readily adopted by too many incumbents once they find trouble (or the possibility of trouble) on their hands. This, too, must surely be wrong, for change ringing is a valuable subculture of Christianity and well worthy of preservation.

Thirdly, we can do our best to see that our bells are not capable of constituting a nuisance by means of installing effective (and, it need be, adjustable) sound-control. This method of solving the problem is to be preferred because it keeps both ringers and inhabitants happy. I would only add one word of warning-it is no use embarking upon a sound-control plan if it is not to be fully effective. Suppose in my example that Dogood and Clanger have made some half-hearted attempt at controlling the sound (perhaps through lack of funds) and Grouch sues. If it is established that the bells in fact constitute a nuisance, it will be no defence to say that everything possible has been done to avoid the nuisance. If there is a nuisance, Grouch will have his remedy no matter how good the intentions of Dogood and

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Soltau v. De Held was decided in the 19th century. Times have changed since then and the implied deference to the Church of England in Kindersley V.C.'s judgment would perhaps not be shown so generously today. Quite apart from this, people are more than ever aware of their rights. The benevolent attitude of the general public towards the Church is in decline and it must only be a matter of time before some real Mr. Grouch decides that enough is enough. The problem may not have been urgent in 1851, but it is urgent now and to ignore it would be to court disaster. If enough publicity were given to a successful plaintiff, a flood of actions might well follow and ringers would be put into a position from which it would be difficult to recover.

If sound-control is to be provided, how is this to be done? The Church is poor and in decline while the expense of work carried out on its buildings rises remorselessly up the spiral of inflation. Surely it is fair that the Exercise should take this burden upon itself at least until the Church is in a better position to afford the cost. The Exercise has benefited for centuries from the presence of the Church and it would be appropriate if the Church could lean a little on the Exercise in this respect.

Is it not ludicrous that the annual subscription of guilds and associations is computed in shillings? There is not one association, guild or society that even asks for one (old) penny a day from its members as an annual subscription. Many associations have bell repair funds and this is indeed commendable. But look at the miserable amounts in them and compare this with the gargantuan task of providing the necessary sound-proofing. Are we to remain in slumber (or wilful blindness) or are we to wake up before it is too late? The Church cannot take the additional burden and unless this is done by the Exercise through the local associations, ringing and therefore we ourselves will be the sufferers.

PEAL UMPIRE

Dear Sir,-I confirm that on September 13 I checked all the calls and the coursing orders throughout the peal of 16,128 Superlative at the Bell Foundry.

It was rung in accordance with the Central Council regulations and was up to the standard required for record peals.—Yours

BERNARD GROVES (umpire). Reading, Berks.

TRAINING NEW BANDS

Dear Sir,-I wonder if I may comment on the keenness of those who are struggling to form and train new bands of ringers at churches where the bells have been silent for some years (or, at best, have only been chimed by perhaps one or two faithful members).

There are several churches within the Coventry and Leicester Dioceses where this is the case, but one in particular I would like to mention, namely Croft, near Leicester. Mr. Fred Watson, a devoted ringer of many years' standing, has an infectious enthusiasm which deserves the highest praise. He has gathered together six or seven youngsters (average age about 11 years old) and they are progressing very well indeed.

How grand it would be if more ringers of experience would give these struggling bands a helping hand—even once a month. The resultant gratitude would, I am certain, more than compensate for giving up an evening in this way.—Yours faithfully G. EDMANDS.

Chilvers Coton, Warwicks.

COUNCIL MATTERS

Dear Sir, — The Exercise will no doubt take heart from the knowledge that Mr. Mew has assumed the mantle of Ombuds-

The minority of malcontents should appreciate, however, that there is a limit to the amount of this brand of humbug which will be taken by voluntary officers.—Yours faithfully,

VERNON BOTTOMLEY, Hon. Secretary.

Northowram, Halifax.

As to the future, sound-control should be regarded as a necessary part of the fittings of a ring of bells. Who amongst us would expect to find a silencer quoted as an optional extra on a motor-car? If both of the foundries would include effective sound-control in their estimates, I feel that a great step would be taken towards a more tolerant attitude to bells by the general public. Inevitably, this would add to the cost, but what is the sense of paying £10,000 for a ring of bells when they cannot be used for the want of a further £200? (These figures are just "plucked out of the air" but I am sure that the point will be taken.)

I urge every ringer who cares for the future of the Exercise to lobby his association officers so that an effective programme can be worked out now (not at the next A.G.M.). names may not be Dogood, or Clanger, or Soltau or De Held, but the principle and precedent established in 1851 is ever more likely to be applied, if not expounded. To continue to ignore the problem even for one week longer is to connive at a great abuse of privilege.

If it is felt to be impossible to set up a scheme on the above lines, perhaps it would be possible to set up a legal defence fund.]

SCRAPYARD BELLS

Dear Sir,—Further to your correspondent Mr. Bassett's news of the bells in a Tunbridge Wells scrapyard, I cannot offer any conclusive evidence of their origin, but think they may be four out of the five chiming bells from the Roman Catholic church there. I read that this was to be demolished some short while ago, and assume that this has now happened. If it is so, the bells would be four out of a fixed chime of five (tenor 6 cwt. 24lb. in B), the others forming the Cambridge Quarters, notes A sharp, G sharp, F sharp and C sharp, which I know were cast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

Anyone would sympathise with Mr. Fortin's wish that the ring of eight bells (quite incorrectly given by Dove as a chime, as they retain their ringing fittings) at Aylesbury, Bucks, should ring again. The late Sir G. Scott, who removed the ringing room floor, did say that he considered the floor unsafe (perhaps this was in order to get his way and to have the glorious Norman lantern stage exposed). Surely welldesigned rope guides would be part of the answer there, or even a Merton College type gallery. But before this is done, presumably the question of tower safety would have to be carefully looked at; and, at the same time, it must be accepted that the bells would probably have to have at least new fittings and possibly framework as well. They sound fine chimed; what a grand sound they must have made when swung!

—Yours faithfully,

DAVID L. CAWLEY.

Canterbury, Kent.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL

Dear Sir,-The suggestion of your correspondent, Mr. Drew, page 190, on "The Official Journal," of asking associations and guilds to support The Ringing World by financial contribution is in my opinion a sound one. Indeed, I had the intention of suggesting this.

However. I would not grade this contribution according to number of membership as this would be tantamount to penalising the more enthusiastically supported guilds and associations.

I feel that we, as ringers, enjoying the pleasure and fellowship of ringing, ought to try all feasible measures to improve the circulation of our paper and thus make it a more lucrative commercial undertaking. It is a good bob's worth. It keeps us abreast of events, helps to further the fellowship of ringers and engenders interest in the Exercise among young and old.

This provides me with the opportunity of suggesting that we might find a page or two devoted to junior ringers to be a means of bringing in new readers. This junior section could be in the middle of The Ringing World and could deal with the achievements of young ringers, their opinions of ringing, and their towers, hobbies, outings and other items of interest. By putting it into the middle pages the rest of the paper, or at least certain pages, might also be read where they are not at present.

It would seem that our numbers are made up of something like a third of young ringers whose enthusiasm for ringing could spread among their school-fellows; potential replacements to the ringing Exercise which in many areas is in need of new recruits.-Yours faithfully,

GEOFFREY H. ISGAR.

Holland-on-Sea, Essex.

LONG PEAL

Dear Sir. - I would like to thank Mr. Sibson for clarifying the situation with regard to the long peal of Superlative. I note that he has the common sense to appreciate that it is a peal, even though the rule passed at the last Central Council meeting says "Any such performance not rung in full compliance with these conditions shall not be recognised as a peal and shall not be published in the Ringing World." Mr. Sibson states that Mr. Edwards did not reply to his letter enquiring about the peal. I am not saving that I agree with Mr. Edwards on this point, but on a previous occasion he gave evidence that a long peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major had been well rung, by Stephen Ivin's band, only to have the Records Committee turn down the request that it be accepted as a record peal, so why bother now?

The intentions of the band who rang the recent peal of Superlative were obviously good and it was not their fault that the umpire did not turn up. Do the Records Committee expect that having travelled hundreds of miles the band should not attempt to ring the peal because the umpire does not appear? The notice to the Exercise at large in the columns of the Ringing World is there as a precaution for this rea-The conductor of the peal had previously called round an attempt for this peal earlier in the year, even though the umpire had not at that point complained about the standard of striking. Are we to expect that he then lets the peal run its full length with poorer ringing? Who is to decide whether an umpire is competent to check the ringing in a record peal anyway? If the band appoint an umpire he may be just as biased as if he were a member of the band, and they wished to be fraudulent! The rules do not state that the umpire cannot be a member of the band! Had the band wished to pull the wool over the eyes of the Exercise at large they could have sent in the peal with Ronald Edwards as umpire and no more would have been said about it!

I believe that the peal should be published in the Ringing World so that the next generation of ringers will know that that length of peal of Superlative had been rung. The strict letter of the law says that it should not be, but then "the law is an ass."—Yours faithfully,
ROBERT B. SMITH.

Marple, Cheshire.

KIDDERMINSTER S. MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,-Your issue of March 13 (page 196) contains the report of a peal of Kidderminster Surprise Maximus rung at Aston. The length is 5042, and in view of the places occurring in the first section of this method, such a peal must be quite in-dividual. On behalf of those who keep records, could I ask for the figures, please? -Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

St. Albans, Herts.

SPRING?

Dear Sir,- Was there something in the Sussex air the other week, as we read in The Ringing World that the tenor clapper broke at Battle?

The following day the 7th clapper at Wadhurst broke and on the following Wednesday the 7th clapper at East Grinstead also.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES A. BASSETT.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS, 1969

By JANET AND DAVID HOUSE

A total of 297 people rang 25 peals or more last year, leaving out of consideration any peals not published by March 6. This is 60 more than the average number over the last five years (252, 232, 252, 205 and 250), so 1969 must be reckoned a year of progress in that respect. Clearly a simple numerical list does not make any assessment of quality in peal ringing, but most would agree that 1969 has had its highlights Spliced Surprise Royal and Maximus from Cheshire and Hertfordshire have aroused more interest in handbell ringing on the part of the average ringer than has been felt for a good many years, not to mention fourteen and sixteen-in. Fine achievements in the field of Spliced Surprise Maximus have come from the Lancashire/ Cheshire band, where they even manage to find people to stand in peals of 60-Spliced at 48 hours' notice! The Treble Bob Minor record was broken several times over by the Nottinghamshire band, who finally managed to squeeze 210 methods into a Leading the list for the second year running is C. Barrie Dove, of Leeds Parish Church, who received a great deal of support from other members of the band at Leeds. Besides Barrie, with his 123 peals, six of the Leeds ringers appear in the list with totals ranging from 35 to 88. There was strong competition throughout the year between Barrie Dove and R. Kingsley Mason, of Leicester; so strong, in fact, that on Boxing Day Kingsley was still ahead. Having been fed false information by Yorkshire "friends," however, he believed himself to be behind and cancelled a number of attempts in the last few days of the year, finishing with 119.

Thirty-one ladies rang more than 25 peals, led by Mary Elmes, of Wareham, with 86 and Christine L. J. Mills, of East Bridgford, with 78. Of particular note, we feel, is the achievement of Katherine M. Thorley, who took part in 35 peals whilst still only 13 years old. Leading conductor was C. Barrie Dove, who called 118 of his 123 peals, including 12 in a peal week which he arranged and on which he called every peal. Kingsley Mason and Tim Collins, who are second and third in the list, were equally happy to ring with others calling, and were both fortunate enough to have other good conductors around them; nevertheless they called 54 and 56 respectively. Michael J. Church, who conducted 46 peals last year, had only called one peal of Major previously (and that on December 30, 1968!); included in his 46 were 17 peals of Spliced Surprise Major.

The handbell scene was dominated, in number as well as quality, by two bands. Bob Smith and Bernard Groves lead the field, with both of them ringing over 40 each on both tower- and handbells, a balance which was also achieved by Roger and Kath Baldwin and John Mayne.

We have received a large number of interesting letters over the past few weeks in connection with the records. Pat Cannon once again managed to ring all his peals in different towers and has now rung peals in over 920 towers. Over the border in Cornwall things are stirring; last year Tony Davidson was thought to be the first Cornishman to ring 25 peals in a year, while this year four of the resident members are to be found in the list.

Finally, our apologies to any whose names appear against their will—we know of two—and to those whose totals appear incorrectly. Judging from the large number of totals sent in for checking, for which we are most grateful, there will be a considerable number of minor inaccuracies.

C. BARRIE DOVE

Details of Barrie Dove's ringing career appeared in this position last year. In 1969 he added 123 peals to his total, bringing him close to his 500th peal, almost half of which have been rung in the last two years. Most of his peals (101) were of Surprise Major, including 34 single methods. Nineteen of these peals were of Spliced, from four to 24 methods, all of which he conducted. Eight peals of Royal, two of Cambridge Maximus and 12 6-bell peals were also amongst the 123.

Peals which gave him particular pleasure in 1969 included one at Sherborne, in which he turned in the 46 cwt. tenor to Bristol Surprise Major, one of Cambridge Maximus at Leeds, which included ten members of the local band, and that of 24-Spliced Surprise Major, which was rung at the first attempt. Disappointments there were, too; two peals were lost which had passed the 5,000 change mark—one with a broken clapper and the other with a broken rope.

Only two of his peals were not rung for his local Association, the Yorkshire, these being one each for the Salisbury Guild and the Lancashire Association.

MARY E. ELMES

Mary Elmes, this year's leading lady, learnt to ring at the Parish Church of Lady St. Mary, Wareham, Dorset, in 1963, A three-year stay at Exmouth, whilst training as a teacher, enabled her to continue her ringing at Withycombe Raleigh during term time, with the help of Frank Mack. After two years' teaching in Southampton she returned to Dorset to teach at Dorchester County Primary School.

returned to Dorset to teach at Dorchester County Primary School.

Mary rang her first peal in 1965 and her interest grew rapidly that same year when she and her brother, Graham, joined a peal tour arranged by George E. Bonham through an advert in the R.W. At that time peal ringing was the only way to progress as opportunities for ringing advanced methods were otherwise limited. By the end of 1969 her peal total was 153, and included in this number are four peals with an entirely local hand.

with an entirely local band.

Mary's peals in 1969 ranged from Doubles to Maximus, 41 of them being of Surprise Major. Many of them were rung with two other members of the Wareham band—her brother, Graham, and Timothy
F. Collins—who both rang over a hundred peals last year. She has recently become interested in handbell ringing and hopes to ring a peal in hand before too long.

OLD TOM

The Guardian Country Diary gave the following, by W. D. Campbell, and sent to us by a correspondent in Copmanthorpe,

"Berkshire.—The measured tolling of the death-knell or passing-bell is a custom long fallen into disuse in this parish; but, moved by some sense of occasion which seems to be quite arbitrary, from time to time the bell-ringers decide that the tribute of a muffled peal is called for. A few nights ago this poignant but soothing requiem was rung for my neighbour and friend for the last 21 years, Old Tom. The grounds for the honour this time were pretty clear-cut -for Tom was not only the oldest inhabitant, but, more to the point, he was a former bell-ringer. The loud clear peal through the darkness, followed at the appropriate interval by what seemed to be a muted echo from the Downs, I heard from the brook-bridge which used to be our half-way rendezvous. Tom was over 70 when we first met, and then, and for the next 14 vears, was gardener, keeper, and general handyman around the farmhouse, sometimes, on social evening gatherings, reappearing transformed into an efficient butler. My happiest recollections, apart from the almost daily gossips, are of the hard winter of 1962-3, when for many weeks, morning and night, I carried a ration of five gallons of water to the cottages. What began as an altruistic neighbourly duty soon became an enjoyable form of barter-water swapped for a wealth of rural reminiscence, to say nothing of the hot elderberry wine which enlivened some evening sessions. I picture him, on one such occasion, decorating one of 'the Missus's' old hats, and declaiming the lines of King George, The Doctor, Beelzebub, and other worthies in preparation for a revival of The Mummers, which alas, came to naught."

Lancashire Association

SOCIAL EVENING

The venue for this year's Preston Branch social "get together" was the magnificently-appointed St. Mary's Parish Hall, Penwor-tham. About 70 branch members and their friends assembled on February 27, looking forward to a full evening's entertainment. We were pleased to welcome the Lancashire Association general secretary (Frank Reynolds) and Mrs. Reynolds. John Nixon did a first-class job as M.C. and by popular demand we commenced with a short whist drive, under the aegis of Frank Stead (win-Cyril Crossthwaite and Elizabeth Gardner, of Preston). There was dancing to suit all tastes, to the accompaniment of Rev. "disc jockey" Kingsley Jones, team games and a very interesting picture quiz using Ringing World covers.

The inner needs of those present were amply satisfied by a really tasty hot-pot and apple pie supper, after which we were entertained to a number of folk songs by our resident group. Roger and Dennis. The resident group, Roger and Dennis. other member of this trio has reluctantly decided that perhaps it is better for him to ring badly than to sing badly! We are indeed indebted to the hard-working committee and to everyone present for helping to ensure such a successful evening. Here's to J.D. the next time!
