Even conducting 5,040 Bob Minor I shall need to transpose for about 150 calls if I am to keep a safe check on the ringing, but in J. Pritchard's well-known 5.056 of Major the figure is only 68. In my view, therefore, there is more conducting merit in the Minor. Is the inevitable repetition of having to ring seven extents in the process to be so weighty in the view of the theorists that they cannot regard the Minor as worthy of the 'peal' title? —Yours faithfully,

D. P. JONES.

MECHANICAL GRANDSIRE TRIPLES IN HOLLAND

Dear Sir,—While in Holland recently on a short holiday, I visited the English Church at Rotterdam (St. Mary's). The chaplain, the Rev. W. Popham Hosford, who is also Rural Dean of the Netherlands, very kindly told me all about the new ring of bells installed in his church.

In November, 1957, a ring of eight bells made by a Dutch firm—Messrs. Eijsbouts Lips of Asten—and costing about £1,500, was blessed by the Bishop of Fulham. As the present tower is very small the bells were hung dead and a mechanism fitted so that, at the push of a switch, three leads of Grandsire Triples could be rung, preceded and followed by two whole pulls of rounds. By means of another switch the tenor can be swung and chimed for services.

The chaplain made them ring for our benefit and the effect is very pleasant. The bells, made of cement basically, and lined with metal, are the finest of this kind to be made by the Dutch. They sound very musical, especially outside, being tuned electronically.

The tenor is probably about three to four cwt. The mechanism was arranged so as to

TWO LEAD METHODS OF DOUBLES AND RECOGNITION

Dear Sir,— Regarding the late controversy about 120 Treble Bob Doubles, this is not completely impossible, but unfortunately we have to go against another rule, that no method should have less than three leads. The method I have composed has two leads. We could have a three-lead method by changing the P.L. with the B.L., but this would mean having an unsymmetrical method. However, looking through the preface of the 'Collection of Doubles' I find no mention of the fact that a method must be symmetrical.

To come to Saturn Treble Bob Doubles and all the false sheep following it. How one can possibly claim that they are methods I cannot understand. I always understood that the idea of change ringing was that we rang all the extent of a method without repeating a single change. If one writes out a list of changes and finds one cannot produce a six-score one will in all probability find a 240 is possible Imagine all the stupid 'methods' coming up to the Central Council, the smallest extent being a 240 or 360. Just because a method looks pretty you cannot accept it ignoring the fact that is is false. Why not write a method on this principle:—

12345

It is no worse than Saturn Treble Bob Doubles because 240's can be made from it. Surely the only time a 12-score should be made is when a six-score can also be made from the same method, even then I am not in favour of it because I see no art in ringing a 240.

However, back to a method where a six-score is possible. I find no reason why this method should be turned down just because it is a two-lead. One can understand when the Central Council turns down methods with ten changes in a plain lead, but this is a method which is already one-third the changes of the full extent.

On studying the two-lead method it will be found that there are two courses, both the same except reversed, two bells having one course, two the other. I should think that the effect of the bob in this method would be more interesting to ring than a four-lead method, because one has to know whether they are in reverse course or plain course.

Is it possible the Central Council can accept a two-lead method with 40 changes or over, or accept an unsymmetrical three-lead method?

As our own little tower has not been named and holds a Doubles record, may I suggest the method be called 'Stanwell Treble Bob Doubles'?—Yours sincerely, produce some well-struck changes, and it should certainly create a good impression of change ringing on the Continent. They rang for H.M. the Queen's visit to Holland a few weeks ago.

C. B. FYNES.

In addition, in the adjoining Missions to Seamen, there is a set of eight tubular bells, which are rung for prayers every evening.—Yours sincerely,

ISOBEL INMAN.

LEICESTER CHURCHWARDENS OBJECT TO BELLS

The bells of St. Mark's, Leicester, a ring of eight (tenor 22 cwt. 3 qr. 24 lb. in E flat), had not been rung since 1927 until February 15th this year.

The notion to get them ringing again came to Mr. John B. Bennett, Ringing Master of Cosby, and former ringer of St. Margaret's, Leicester. The Vicar of St. Mark's (Canon Stevenson) gave permission to inspect the bells, and on the first visit the fourth was pulled up, only three bells having ropes on them. The bell loft has been taken over by the pigeons, so one is left to imagine its condition.

Arrangements were duly made to visit and patch up the bells on Saturday, February 15th. Ringers from Wigston, Sapcote, Anstey, Stoney Stanton, Cosby, Loughborough and Leicester were recruited.

The wooden frame is in very good condition, but the wheels on the second, fifth, sixth and seventh had little or no flange, so hard-board was nailed on. Most of the wooden sliders were in the floor (amongst the pigeon droppings), the sixth was missing altogether, but the treble was the only bell without a stay. The bearings (and John E. Cooke) were washed with paraffin, oiled, and fitted with ropes (the latter doesn't apply to Cooke), after which they were pulled up one by one, while the writer stood on the frame, which proved to be very firm.

Half a course of Bob Major was rung before the sixth rope slipped wheel, taking our temporary flange with it. Darkness having descended, making further work impossible, we had to content ourselves with Triples on the remaining seven.

Taking things into account, the bells went well and are of good tone. Perhaps not up to St. John's standard, but certainly better than St. Mary's. The tower itself is perfect, with about 25 to 30 feet draught of rope.

While all this work was going on aloft, some of our party were having trouble below with the vicar's warden, who was making known his dislike of bells in general and ringers in particular, in no uncertain terms. Arrangements had been made to continue our work there the following week, but after the churchwarden had conferred with the Vicar, a halt was called.

A meeting was arranged between ourselves and the churchwardens the following Thursday. No further progress was made; both wardens were against the bells being rung but would offer no reason for their objection.

Our intention had been to ring the bells on the occasion of the visit to Leicester of H.M. the Queen on May 9th, the royal route having been scheduled to pass immediately by the tower.

We had also hoped it would be possible to teach a Sunday service band there, drawing our recruits from St. Mark's flourishing youth club.

A Guild of Ringers Without Bells

The peal of Plain Bob Minor, rung at Brentford on April 12th, is of special interest, as five members of the band taking part were from the Church of St. Matthias, Richmond, and belong to its Guild of Ringers. This may not sound very unusual until it is made known that there are no bells at St. Matthias' (although the very fine tower was designed for a ring of 12), and the ringers believe they are the only band in the country attached to a church with no bells. It is particularly significant that this is the centenary year of the church, and if moves going on to secure a ring for the church are ultimately successful, the old objection of 'no one to ring the bells if we get them' would be invalid.

With no bells, the Guild have had to rely on the kindness of other churches for the use of their towers, and they have been fortunate in securing the use of Brentford tower for 6-bell practice, and Mortlake for eight bells. It is hoped to celebrate this centenary year with a peal of Major (there are actually ten ringing members in the Guild), but it is not likely that it will be possible to ring it at Richmond, the mother church of the parish.

All the ringers in the St. Matthias' Guild take part regularly in Sunday service ringing at other churches.

DEDICATION

Hucknall Torkard

Hucknall Torkard is rather a drab urban district of some 23,000 people in the Nottinghamshire coal field but it has two things of which it is justly proud—its association with the poet, Lord Byron, and its ancient Parish Church of St. Mary Magdalene.

And it is to the latter that our thoughts and footsteps turned on April 5th, when a new ring of eight bells was dedicated by the Venerable H. L. Phillips, Archdeacon of Nottingham.

The site of the church has been hallowed for 12 centuries, the first Early Saxon church being founded in the eighth century. A fine 14th century porch with massive weather-beaten roughly-hewn oak timbers from Sherwood Forest is a feature of the church. Lovers of Byron see in the church a shrine to the great poet, who is buried in the family vault beneath the chancel.

But on April 5th this lovely church put on its festive garb for Easter and for the dedication of the new ring of eight bells given in memory of Henry Morley Raynor by his widow. A huge congregation consisting of parishioners, the chairman and members of the Urban District Council and scores of ringers from many different counties, with Mr. Paul Taylor and members of the Loughborough Foundry, joined in a cheerful service of praise and thanksgiving, conducted by the Vicar of Hucknall Torkard, Canon Kenneth Thompson. During the service the bells were dedicated by the Archdeacon of Nottingham.

In his address the Archdeacon took as his theme 'To the Glory of God,' and reminded his congregation that everything in the church was dedicated to the glory of God, as also was the ringing of the bells.

The bells are a light ring with a tenor of 12¼ cwt in F sharp by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., and the 'go' and tone are both excellent. The ringing chamber has been tastefully decorated in pastel shades and has been much improved by boarding in the roughcast walls. Too late, many of the entrants to the ringing chamber must have thought of the couplet:—

'Each entering mortal
Beware this low portal!'

The dedication rounds were rung by the new band recently recruited by Mr. Herbert Lewin and his family.

After the service, tea was provided for the congregation in the commodious Church Hall and the bells were then thrown open to visiting ringers, who put them to excellent use until late in the evening. The only criticism that can be made is that the bells are rather noisy in the vicinity of the church, but judicious boarding-up will mitigate any nuisance.

The new local band is fortunate in having a nucleus of experienced ringers, and under the leadership of Mr. Herbert Lewin rapid progress should be made.

The three previous bells, which have all been recast, were founded by George Oldfield and Thomas Hedderley, of Nottingham.

Let this brief report end in a note of praise from one of the hymns used in the service:—

'All ye who ring in England
Rejoice with us this day,
Our bells shall ring through Hucknall
In sad times and in gay.
So let us ring together
As one united band,
That we may swell the praises
In that Eternal Land'

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

Joint Meeting With College Youths To Be Arranged

A meeting of the Society was held on April 12th at St. Mary-the-Virgin's, Bexley, and though not so well attended as expected, ringing on this delightful octave was well up to standard. Tea was provided by Miss Mary Andrews and the local band.

At the meeting which followed, the Master, Mr. F. J. Cullum, welcomed Mr. E. A. Barnett.

There was a financial loss on the annual dinner, and the treasurer, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, said a small increase in the price of tickets would have covered this. However, since it was a successful and great event, the dinner had served its purpose and done a good job. Questions as to some overcrowding elicited the fact that a fortnight beforehand only 80 applications for tickets had been received and then there was a last-minute rush. It was recommended that in future numbers should be limited to 100. You have been warned!

Arising out of the Master's remarks at the dinner that he would like to see a meeting held between the Cumberlands and the College Youths, a letter had been received from the Ancient Society of College Youths intimating that they were prepared to hold a joint meeting if a date and meeting place acceptable to both Societies could be arranged. This was warmly welcomed, and the secretary was instructed to make the necessary arrangements with the secretary of the Ancient Society.

Ratification of the election of Mr. John Ball, of Wickham, Hants, prior to a peal, was made, and the following new members elected:—Miss Doreen Deverill (Holloway), Miss Margaret Harte (Kensington) and Miss Elizabeth Yeld (Milford-on-Sea).

The next meeting, a joint one with the Essex Association, will be held at Prittlewell on June 7th, and a good attended is expected

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Miss Andrews and her helpers for providing a welcome tea, and Mr. F. E. Hawthorne said he was sorry there were not more there to enjoy it.

Ringing continued after the meeting in a variety of methods.

MELTON DISTRICT OUTING

Thirty ringers, wives and friends of the Melton District had a splendid outing on Easter Monday, leaving Melton at 8.20 and picking up eight of the party at Long Clawson.

First bells sampled were the handy six at Copt Oak, where Mr. W. Hall met the party. The grand eight at Whitwick followed, and it was a pleasure to have Roland Beniston and John Underwood joining in Stedman and Bob Major.

David Manton led the way across country with his car to Ibstock. Here the Guild treasurer had arranged a welcome lunch at the Oak, and the Vicar was also present to greet the visitors. Some good ringing was afterwards heard on the bells, including Kent, St. Clement's and Double Court.

At Sheepstone ringing commenced with a good touch of Cambridge. A cup of tea was awaiting the party at Measham and at the church the Vicar (the Rev. A. J. Day) delighted the ladies with a short recital on his beautiful organ whilst the rest of the party enjoyed the bells.

The tower captain at Packington greeted the party with the news that there was no stay on the fifth: still, we had a very good ring in a number of methods. Coleorton, the last tower, was voted to be the best eight of the day and it was a pleasure to meet the tower captain, Mr. Lord. Home was reached by 11 p.m. J. H. C.

OBITUARY

VEN. H. E. FITZHERBERT

We regret to announce the death of the Ven. Henry Edward FitzHerbert, Archdeacon Emeritus of Derby and president of the Midland Counties Guild since 1949. He was also president of the Midland Counties Association 1939-41, when, owing to war restrictions of the 'black-out' and suspension of ringing, he was most helpful in keeping things going by his enthusiasm and encouragement.

During the last two years illness and infirmity prevented him from taking an active part in the affairs of the Guild, but his interest continued until he died at his home, the Old Vicarage, Quarndon, on April 3rd, aged 75 years.

Archdeacon FitzHerbert was a member of one of the oldest county families of Derbyshire and for many years a prominent personality in the Derby Diocese. He was the fourth son of the Rev Sir Richard FitzHerbert, fifth baronet, of Tissington Hall, Ashbourne, who was Rector of Warsop.

After holding several appointments he became Rector of Netherseale with Overseale on 1930 and remained there eight years, during which time he was responsible for the restoration of the church and rehanging of the bells at St. Peter's, Netherseale, and did much to encourage the art of ringing by his kindliness and enthusiastic interest in his ringers. Whilst at Netherseale he was appointed an Honorary Canon of Derby Cathedral—1936—and was Archdeacon of Derby from 1943 to 1952. His wife, the Hon. Mrs. Margaret Elinor FitzHerbert, was the only child of the third Baron Heytesbury, and she died suddenly in March last year.

Hundreds of mourners, in every walk of life, including the Bishop of Derby and the Lord Lieutenant of Derbyshire, paid tribute to a 'beloved friend' at the funeral service at Derby Cathedral. In his address the Bishop paid a deep tribute to the Archdeacon's memory and said he was devoted and selfless and ready to help in any good cause.

As a last tribute to his respected memory the bells of St. Matthew's, Overseale, were rung muffled on Sunday following the funeral to a quarter peal of Doubles in five methods by: N. Cotton 1, Joan Cotton 2, J. W. Cotton 3, P. W. Grice 4, W. H. Carson (conductor) 5, H. Shaw 6, and it was regrettable that a muffled peal arranged at St. Peter's, Netherseale, was lost after two hours' good ringing.

HERTFORDSHIRE SIX-BELL TOWER LOST BY INCENDIARISM

At 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 17th, villagers at Aston, Herts, noticed smoke and flames issuing from the 12th century tower of the Parish Church of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Several fire brigades rushed to the scene but were unable to prevent the timbers in the interior of the tower from being completely gutted, together with part of the nave roof.

It appears that vestments in the base of the tower had been deliberately ignited by a person as yet unknown to the police, and the flames quickly seized the wooden gallery and spread up the tower.

That it was a case of fire-raising was borne out by what Mr. John Welch, of Walkern, president of the Hertford County Association, discovered when he arrived with his daughter, Frances, at the neighbouring Church of St. Peter, Benington, at 5.45 p.m., followed shortly by the remainder of a peal band. He found lighted candles and burnt hymn books and linen in various parts of the church placed so as to start a further conflagration. The timely arrival of the peal ringers may well have saved Benington Church. The peal was postponed.

At Aston, however, a scene of destruction was revealed. Broken fragments of two smaller bells were found at the foot of the tower, forming part of an inscription 'Miles . . . . Made Me. 162 . . .' The crown and clapper of the other bell were still attached to the charred headstock aloft, where two other bells lodged as they began to fall. It appears that the four bells still in the tower are cracked or otherwise damaged by the intense heat, and a complete recasting and restoration is almost certainly necessary. The stonework of the tower appears comparatively unscathed.

Aston bells were a six with a tenor of 11 cwt., which were restored, and augmented by the addition of a tenor, many years ago, by the Whitechapel Foundry. In 'Church Bells of Hertfordshire, 1886,' the details are as follows:

Second, third and fifth: 'Miles Graye Made Me. 1629.'

A large tenor was later added, which tended to overpower the lighter bells. They were rung from a curious, stepped gallery, the tenor ringer standing well below the others. This has now been destroyed.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

Northern District

About 120 members and friends attended the District annual meeting held in St. Mark's Church, Dundela, Belfast, on Easter Monday. On arrival the visitors were entertained to tea by the local ringers. The Adamson Cup was rung off first with three teams competing; the judges were Messrs. J. M. Benn and W. L. Douglas. This was followed by a Holy Communion service with an address given by the Rev. E. G. Parke, the District chairman.

The business meeting followed, when it was reported that the ringing in the District was still progressing with enthusiasm. Ten new members were elected. Hillsborough was chosen as the venue for next year's meeting, with Canon Barry as the new chairman. All the other outgoing officers were re-elected as follows: Hon secretary, Mr. John T. Dunwoody; hon. assistant secretary, Miss Jean Stewart; hon. treasurer, the Rev. J. J. Fielding; Ringing Master, Mr. H. Brown. Details of the arrangements proposed for the Central Council visit were explained to the members. Visitors to the District included Messrs. H. Ellis, Mr. C. Foster (Limerick) and Mr. and Mrs. V. Griffin (Swindon).

Lunch, at which about 120 sat down, was followed by the Cunningham Cup competition, for which ten teams competed; the judges for which were Messrs. H. Ellis and V. Griffin. Mr. H. Brown acted as Ringing Master throughout the competitions. Before tea, the results were announced as follows:—

Adamson Cup: 1 St. Donard's, Belfast (39 faults); 2 St. Thomas', Belfast (117).

Cunningham Cup: 1 St. Mark's, Dundela (27 faults); 2 St. Donard's, Belfast (34½); 3 St. Comgall's, Bangor (47).

The Adamson Cup was presented by Mrs. Adamson to Miss J. Stewart, of St. Donard's, and the Cunningham Cup was presented by Canon Barry to the Misses R. Thompson and E. Bushe, of St. Mark's. About 70 later sat down to tea. Votes of thanks were passed unanimously to the chairman, Mr. Douglas and the local ringers for their hospitality and to the judges.

After tea the bells were put to good use by mixed bands ringing various methods. J. T. D.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN

A quarterly meeting of the Kettering Branch was held on April 12th at the five-bell tower of Pytchley, with an attendance of about 30. A set of new ropes was hung in honour (?) of the occasion and many Doubles methods were rung. St. Vedast Doubles was looked up, rung to a plain course and triumphed over: an extent was later rung. Stedman, Grandsire, Plain, Spliced St. Martin's and St. Senior, yes, even original Doubles were heard.

As there is at present no incumbent at Pytchley the Guild president (Canon G. F. Turner) read the Office and gave an address. Mrs. Middleton played the organ.

An enjoyable tea was served in the school and full justice was done. A vote of thanks to the ladies who prepared it was most heartily supported at the business meeting which followed.

David Coleman, of Rothwell, was elected to membership and Jennifer Giles and Keith Bradshaw received certificates for ringing their first peal. Keith also accepted certificates on behalf of Robert Shaw and David Urquhart, who were unable to be present.

Members were reminded of the annual general meeting at Northampton on May 17th, and the summer festival at Oakham on September 6th, for which a coach would run if sufficient support was forthcoming.

After tea, Orlingbury and Pytchley bells were rung again until about 8.30 p.m.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Thirteen towers were represented at the monthly meeting, held at Sandal, near Wakefield, on April 12th. The afternoon's ringing was followed by an excellent tea in the new Church Hall. The Rev. F. H. Outram, who was voted to the chair, started on a happy note by giving everyone a hearty welcome.

Details of the District's outing, on July 5th, were announced, with ringing at Clowne, Bolsover (lunch), Fairfield, Buxton (tea) and Hayfield. Tony Coldwell, of Ecclesfield, was elected a new member. The next meeting will be at South Kirby, and the shield contest at Silkstone on June 14th, which would be open to all ringers. Mr. Frank Brunt proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens, to Mr. Christopher Morris and the local company, and the ladies for the tea. This was supported by Miss Claire Green and acknowledged by Mr. John W. Moxon on behalf of the local company. Further ringing followed.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2457 Vol. LIV. FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

HANDBELL RINGING

STRICTLY speaking, the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers is not concerned with tune ringing on handbells; it is an activity outside the ambit of the Council's committees and in a sense is foreign to the art of change ringing. But tune ringing is a popular pastime among many change ringers, and there are not a few companies who, especially at Christmas time, play carols and other tunes. Some of the well-known personalities of the Exercise are noted for this side of bell music; the president of the Central Council, Mr. Frederick Sharpe, has for years been a leading exponent of this art, and his wonderful set of handbells, all tuned by him, have given their music not only on radio and television but in many of the cathedrals of our land. The Launton ringers have established for themselves a fine reputation.

There are other companies largely composed of church bell ringers who are equally well known. Rotherham knows full well the skill of the High School girls, trained by Mr. Norman Chaddock; at Leicester Mr. S. Harrison and his young people frequently perform, and there are good companies in Cheshire (the Norbury Handbell Ringers' Association) and in Essex. Some years back 'The Ringing World' circulated in manuscript form Christmas carols on eight bells, prepared by Miss J. Armstrong, of Morpeth, and the applications for these came from far and wide.

Today there is an increasing demand from schools and youth clubs for handbells. Invariably these requests to the Editor are accompanied by advice on publications—a simple book of instructions with methods of setting tunes to music seems to be in great demand. To our knowledge, the only publication in print on the subject, an American one, is too costly at 25s. for the average applicant. There is a definite market for the handbell enthusiast who will produce such a text book.

In America, handbell ringing of tunes is on an organised basis under the direction of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, which was founded in 1954. The Guild publishes an interesting quarterly, 'Overtones.' At one of their recent festivals Mrs. A. Hughes, during the last American tour of Mr. Hughes, gave a recital which was a great delight. The American companies invariably wear a uniform at their public performances, and a number of these are associated with Congregational and Methodist churches.

Attention is being given in America to the therapeutic value of handbell ringing to those who are mentally ill. In the March issue of 'Overtones' a report is given on the value of handbells as music therapy from experiments with the patients at Westwood Lodge Sanatorium. Dr. Martha Brunner-Orne, the superintendent, writes:—

> 'We have been looking for a long time for a musical medium which shows all the advantages of music-making in a group without the disadvantages for the mental patient . . . . We think we have found such a medium in handbells . . . . The bells have a very strong appeal for most patients, even the very retarded ones . . . . Even listeners show remarkable response to handbells.
> 'Many of our patients are satisfied with the easy and simple production of melodies and songs under the direction of the therapist. Some, however, show a deeper interest in music. This gives an opportunity to form smaller groups to whom the basis of harmonics can be taught with the help of the bells. Some of them get so interested that they adapt familiar pieces for the use of our bell-ringers.
> 'We do not attempt to heal psychoses or neuroses by the use of music, but we are able to observe the beneficial effects of this form of therapy in many cases . . . . We think that the necessity to adjust to the requirements of the group itself represents progress. Although the musical requirements are minimal, the musical success depends on the responsibility that the individual player takes upon himself as a member of the group . . . . The feeling of satisfaction in accomplishment aroused by a successful performance is frequently of great therapeutic value. We are highly satisfied with handbell ringing as a therapeutic tool.'

With the public, handbell ringing is popular. Many bands perform at ringers' and other services, and the pleasure they give is a full reward for their practising. While for ringers probably there is no finer music than a well-struck course of Stedman Cinques 'in hand,' the wide field opened in tune ringing is one which many companies have explored with profit and infinite pleasure.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Bells will be heard prior to an act of worship for Rogation Sunday to be broadcast from Lyme Regis Parish Church, Dorset, on Sunday, May 11th, at 7.45 p.m. in the West and Midland Home Services, and conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Geoffrey Tiarks). It will include recordings made that morning of Rogationtide ceremonies at Coleford Parish Church, in the Forest of Dean, and Shotesham Parish Church, Norfolk.

Enford's (Wilts) self-taught band rang their first quarter of Plain Bob Minor on April 10th. Congratulations.

Easter Sunday will be remembered at Bletchley, Bucks, for three first quarters of Grandsire Doubles. Congratulations to Jennifer Emery (13), Sylvia Hurst (14) and R. Sirrett (15).

A peal attempt of Caters at North Stoneham on March 29th, to congratulate the Rev. S. C. Wincott on his appointment to the living of St. Mary Extra, Southampton, was lost through a shift course after an hour's excellent ringing.

After the peal at Dunholme, Lincs, on April 15th, in honour of his 80th birthday, Mr. Joe Cheatham, the local captain, entertained the band and his local ringers. The gesture was much appreciated.

Next Wednesday, the 30 cwt. tenor of the new ring of 13 bells for St. Nicholas', Great Yarmouth, will be cast at the Whitechapel foundry in the presence of the Mayor of Great Yarmouth, the vicar, members of the Coleman family and a number of local ringers.

The quarter peal of Stedman Doubles at Marple, Cheshire, on April 12th, was rung as a farewell to Mr. Michael J. Pryor, who has taught all the band to ring during the past four years. It was rung after a peal attempt in 31 Minor methods by the Sunday service band had been lost.

A peal attempt of Bob Major at Wakefield Cathedral on April 12th, in honour of the marriage of 'Wilf and Jo,' was abandoned after 2 hours 20 minutes owing to the sudden illness of one of the ringers. The band wish to thank Mr. David Atkins, of Batley, for making them up at short notice.

A correspondent suggests that J. E. B. could successfully plead the Statute of Limitations in connection with the claim made for 'pints all round.'

The Society of Bell Ringers of the University of Chicago extend their thanks to Mr. Ernest Weatherby, of Los Angeles, for the gift to their campanological museum of a 'Ringers' Tablet' made by Ernest Morris and for numerous photographs.

In our issue of April 18th we mentioned that a National Serviceman was leaving Stafford for his home town, Hastings. Mr. R. I. Vaughan, who was referred to, writes thanking the ringers of Stafford for all their kindness to him during the time he was stationed in the area.

On Easter Day, Mr. Jim Marriott (74), of Launton, celebrated his 60th year as a bell-ringer and 66th year as a chorister. The happy occasion was celebrated by a peal on Launton bells. Mr. Marriott is the local captain, and his grandson, Desmond Jones, is also a member of the band.

After the peal of Double Norwich at Holy Trinity Church, Horwich, on April 19th, to celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Brownlow, the band were entertained by them to a very good meal and evening's entertainment. Mr. Brownlow is the ringing instructor at this church and has the curate and some girls from the youth section as pupils. His grandfather was a ringer here for over 70 years.

COMMEMORATING 225 YEARS' RINGING AT OXFORD

MEMORABLE GATHERING AT CHRIST CHURCH HALL

AMID the majestic solemnity of Christ Church Hall, with table lamps giving a mellowed, subdued light, members of the Oxford Society of Change Ringers met at dinner on April 19th to celebrate the 225th anniversary of the Society. This was the date of the Society's first peal: the Society undoubtedly existed many years before that date, but the first authentic record is from the peal book. Three of these books were present for visitors' inspection telling the story of the ages.

The proceedings were conducted under the genial chairmanship of the Society's president, Mr. W. G. E. Collett. He was supported by the Mayor and Mayoress of Oxford (Ald. and Mrs. R. F. Knight), Canon R. R. Martin, R.D., and Mrs. Martin, Mr. Frederick Sharpe (president of the Central Council) and Mrs. Sharpe, Mr. Walter Judge, Mr. Harry Miles, Miss Lidgey, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Chaundy, Mr. Philip Walker (secretary of the Society), Miss Cross (secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild) and the editor of 'The Ringing World' (Mr. T. White).

The occasion was made memorable by the beautiful programme of handbell ringing presented by the Launton Handbell Ringers, conducted by Mr. Frederick Sharpe.

The president, who proposed the toast of 'The Church,' said the Church was their best friend. Without the Church there would be no bells, and even if there were bells, without the generosity of the individual clergy they would not be able to ring. Wherever they went, whether they rang for pleasure, peals or any other purpose, they were always welcome. The best thing they could do in return was to remember their duty to the Church and reciprocate by ringing when the Church wanted them and attending services whenever they could.

They could not but admire the clergy, mainly for two things. There was the provision of schools; many thousands of pounds had been spent by the Church and many thousands of children had benefited and were introduced to a life in which religion held a prominent place. He deplored the policy of the Government to deprive the Church of its schools, but the Church was not out of it and was doing a good work through Sunday Schools and youth fellowships. Much of the juvenile delinquency of today was due to the closing of Church Schools. The other great work of the Church was in its missionary activities.

BELLS AND THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE

Canon R. R. Martin, Rural Dean of Oxford, who replied, said most people would not know that a building was a church but for the bells, and ringers drew attention to the church in a beautiful and loving way. Nine out of ten people loved church bells and they did more to spread the message of Christianity than all the clergy had done. 'After all, we preach only to those who come: you preach to those who do not.' When people heard church bells they knew the noise was something different from a motor-cycle; church bells spoke not only of things past but things to come and things eternally present.

In a speech full of reminiscences, Mr. Harry Miles proposed the toast of 'The Oxford Society of Change Ringers.' He said he had come 270 miles to propose the toast. The date they were honouring was 1733, when the Society's first peal was rung. That was two-and-a-quarter centuries—eight reigns—ago, and he had been a member of the Society for half those reigns—54 years. [Applause.]

When he joined the Oxford Society in 1904 they used to ring only in vacations—there was no Sunday ringing—and on special days, for which they were paid. He had been ringing Stedman Triples before he attended his first practice at Christ Church. The Rev. F. E. Robinson was there, and through his good services alone he then rang his first Stedman Caters and Cinques.

NO SLACKNESS IN RINGING

The Society owed its long life to the kindness and efficiency of its officers: when they were slack, down went the Society. Their ringing must be of the best—there must never be any slackness. He remembered ringing at All Saints in a peal of Bristol. Towards the end the conductor, Mr. Walter Judge, called 'Stand.' The ringing was not good enough. There was a lot of softness in ringing today; he saw a lot of slack ringing as he went up and down the country. They must all insist on people being taught to handle a bell properly.

When he came to Oxford most of the ringers were getting on in years. He was 21 when he rang in a peal of Kent Treble Bob at Kidlington, and the average age of that band was 57½ years—without him it would have been 63. It gladdened his heart to see the young ringers of today. It was a mistake for any Society to keep the conducting in one pair of hands—conducting should be shared or the Society would go down.

RINGERS LOOKED DOWN ON

When he joined the Oxford Society there was a rule that no one could serve as Master for longer than one year. It was an excellent rule, and he became Master in 1909 when he was 25. The Society was paid for ringing on special days, and with an artisan's wage at 6d. to 6½d. an hour a man was a little better off for his day's ringing. Then the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church looked down on ringers as paid servants—there was no understanding. The change came between the two great wars, when it was suggested that the University Society and the Oxford Society should join for ringing on Sundays from 9 to 10 a.m. without payment. That shook the Dean and Chapter, and when Ernest Morris wrote his first book they presented a copy to the Society as a mark of their appreciation.

Who were the regular ringers when he joined the Society? He had jotted down a few of their names—W. J. Smith (the conductor), Tom Payne, Bill Finch, Alf Fox, Job Howse, Charlie Hester, Arthur Hawes, Charles Hounslow, Sam Hourshon, Bill Stone, Edwin Hims, Tony Strange, Fred Castle, Alfred Browning, Rev. F. E. Robinson and Bill Jeffery. All those had passed on except Bill Stone and himself.

The headquarters of the Society was 'The Tunnel.' There was a long table on which was a copy of 'The Bell News' and a bench at each side. The first two men on each side put down 6d. for two quarts and the quarts were passed round. As soon as they were done the next two put down sixpence.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who replied, said he was taught to ring partly there and partly at Appleton, and Mr. Miles was one of his tutors—and he frightened him! On an occasion like that he should speak about the Society, take stock and remember what they were celebrating. They were very proud of the City of Oxford, the Society and its bells. They had a wonderful history behind them right back to the 13th century in the Abbey of Osewey. It was there that the shape of the English bell was changed and big bells were cast. Bristol had always claimed to have more rings of bells than any city and Oxford was second.

SCARSBROOK AND DUCKWORTH

That day they were celebrating the 225th anniversary of the first peal rung by the Society, and they had good reason to believe that the Society was very much older. There was an Oxford man named Scarsbrook who wrote what was known as the Oxford Ringers' Register, and that went back another 100 years.

In the 17th century there was living in Oxford a famous man who was a great ringer—Anthony Wood. He learnt to ring at Cassington and rang at Merton when the bells were rung on the ground floor. In his day Christ Church bells increased from six to ten, and Merton and New College from fives to eights. Those augmentations both took place during the Commonwealth.

Another famous man was Richard Duckworth, rector of the city church, who was a friend of Fabian Stedman. He wrote the first book on ringing, 'Tintinnalogia,' which Stedman published in 1668. There were Oxford and Oxford Treble Bob which were composed and first rung in the city.

The year 1733 was the date of the first peal to which Mr. Miles had referred. They also had an account of how 15 London men walked from London to Oxford to enjoy a week's ringing. This week was a great stimulant to the Oxford Society, and they dated their records from that time when they endeavoured to ring a peal to imitate the Londoners. Thomas Hearn wrote: 'The Oxford men ring to imitate the Londoners, but they are poor in comparison.' If, however, Hearn could have heard some of the peals conducted by Walter Judge he would have taken a different view.

The first peal of exceptional length by the Society was 10,008 Grandsire Caters, rung at New College after the Battle of Waterloo. About that time, in 1818, James Newman started instructing the Appleton Society of Change Ringers, which in turn taught Father Robinson, the founder of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

Another man they honoured was Arthur Tyrer, head porter of Pembroke, who was a great instructor and did much missionary work; and then 101 years ago there was the Rev. William C. Lucas, who wrote the first book on 'Comparative Campanology,' which became a standard work. Famous names they remembered were Canon Coleridge and J. W. Washbrook, and coming to the present day they were all thinking of their old friend, Victor Bennett, not so long removed from them, who did a tremendous work as secretary. The Rev. C. Jenkyn wrote: 'I am very glad to notice that Oxford ringing has improved in the last few years thanks to good spade-work by Harry Miles and Victor Bennett.'

MEN OF TODAY

Today they had a most able conductor in Mr. Walter Judge, who amongst many others conducted the peal of 12,663 Stedman Cinques in 1946. In Mr. Bennett's successor they had a very able secretary in Mr. Philip Walker, who had done a tremendous amount of work for the Society and had made the arrangements for that day. With him was Mr. Richard Chaundy, a most able secretary. In the words of Ecclesiasticus: 'Let us now praise famous men and our fathers who begat us.'

Mr. Dermot J. Roaf proposed the toast of 'The Guests,' thanking in particular the Launton ringers for their beautiful tune ringing and welcoming in particular the Mayor and Mayoress of Oxford and the officers of the Oxford Diocesan Guild—Miss Cross (general secretary) and Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer).

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION IN SOUND POSITION

THE annual meeting of the Hertford County Association was held on April 12th at Hemel Hempstead. Ringing during the day took place at Flamstead (6), Redbourn (6), Apsley End (6), Northchurch (8), Berkhamsted (8) and Hemel Hempstead (8).

The meeting was very well attended by members from all parts of the county as well as visitors from Cambridge, Harrow Weald, Overseale, Derby, South Wigston, Ashtead, Flitton and Stotfold (Beds).

The annual service, held at St. Mary's, Hemel Hempstead, was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Dominey (Vicar of Apsley) and the address was given by the Rev. P. K. Walker (curate). During the service a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells, and a collection was taken in aid of the Benevolent Fund. Over 120 members and friends sat down to a 'local' tea in St. Mary's Hall and were joined by more ringers for the business meeting.

The retiring president (Mr. E. G. Buck, of Baldock) thanked the clergy present for the use of the bells and for arranging the service. He also thanked the ringers' wives who had arranged and served the tea. In welcoming the visitors, the president mentioned the young ringers present, and their instructors who had encouraged them to attend the meeting.

The list of members who had passed on to higher service since the last annual meeting was read, and the meeting stood as a mark of respect to Messrs. F. Whiteman and A. Barnes (Stockport), both members of the Cathedral Society; also Mr. W. Miller, an associate member of Baldock. After the minutes were read and confirmed, new members were elected from Standon, Rickmansworth, Cheltenham, Bletchley and Carlisle.

The proposed revision of the Benevolent Fund rules as recommended by the committee was discussed and finally accepted; a proposition from Mr. C. W. Woolley to wind up the Fund was referred to any other business.

ORGANISED ASSISTANCE

The report of the committee stated that the District committees could well turn their attention to ways and means of giving assistance on an organised basis to towers in their areas. Service ringing could be assured by regular and punctual attendance by members at their own individual towers, but at present the only organised opportunities for advancement were District meetings.

The peal secretary's report gave the total number of peals rung as 71 as against 65 last year. There was a total increase of tower bell peals of 12. The leading conductor was Mr. J. R. Mayne (14), with Mr. W. Ayre second with 12. Conducting had been shared between 24 ringers whilst 147 took part in these peals. Eleven people rang their first peal and there was one new conductor. The following peals were rung by Sunday service bands: Minor (seven methods) at Hinxworth by the Baldock band; Bob Major at Watford by the Watford Society.

The accounts showed an excess of income over expenditure on the year of £31 8s. 1d. Assets on the balance sheet were £350 11s. 1d. The Benevolent Fund had a balance of £27 9s. 10d. and the Voluntary Bell Fund £64 0s. 7d. These reports were adopted.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. G. W. Debenham) proposed the transfer of donations to the reserve fund of £4 18s. 2d., also a further transfer of £15 from the general fund to the reserve fund, making a total of £106. The committee's recommendation to invest £100 from the reserve fund in Defence Bonds was agreed.

At the election of officers, Mr. John Welch, of Benington, was elected as president, and the remaining officers were re-elected en bloc.

The arrangements for the summer festival with the Bedfordshire Association at Woburn were discussed. Several members offered their services to form a combined ringers' choir, and it was left to the secretary to arrange that the coach parties were able to ring at all the towers.

It was proposed that a dinner be held in St. Albans on October 31st, 1959, to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the formation of the Association, on the lines of the jubilee dinner held in 1934. The secretary was instructed to book a hall in St. Albans.

After further discussion concerning the Benevolent Fund, it was decided that a committee should meet to discuss the possibility of winding up the Fund, and also to investigate the possibility of increasing the Voluntary Bell Fund and grants made therefrom.

A vote of thanks from the general secretary (Mr. H. V. Frost) to the members of the Western District and all others who had helped towards the success of the meeting concluded the business. Further ringing ensued at Redbourn, Apsley and Hemel Hempstead.

ON THE ICKNIELD WAY

On Easter Monday, in spite of the cold weather, a small party from the St. Albans District enjoyed a day on the Oxfordshire-Buckinghamshire border, where the Icknield Way runs at the foot of the Chiltern Hills.

Lewknor and Chinnor were the first towers of the day: a picnic lunch at Bledlow before ringing on the rather unusual five. Monks Risborough, Great Kimble and Wendover, where the local band were awaiting the party, completed the afternoon. The only eight of the day, Stoke Mandeville, came after tea, and the last tower of the 'Icknield Way tour' was at Weston Turville, whose bells were much enjoyed.

SUFFOLK GUILD REPORT ON RECORD PEAL YEAR

DURING 1957 a record number of 135 peals was rung by the Suffolk Guild of Ringers, it was reported at the annual meeting of the Guild held in the Abbot Anselm Institute, Bury St. Edmunds, on April 12th, at which Mr. C. W. Pipe presided.

In his report, Mr. John W. Blythe (general secretary) stated that the past year had been yet another one of steady progress. Membership had been maintained at a high level and meetings had been held throughout the diocese, although the attendance at some had not been up to the usual standard.

Stressing the need for continuing to get recruits, the secretary stated that they must all back up the efforts of instructors who had been active in teaching recruits so that Sunday service ringing could be maintained and improved.

During the year the Guild rang 135 peals, the highest total ever recorded by the Guild, being eight more than the previous record of 127 peals in 1954. Over 200 members took part in the peals, and although rung on all numbers of bells, no peal of Cinques is recorded.

This year saw the introduction of the Guild badge, which had been well received, and so far over 170 had been sold.

TWO RECORDS

Mr. L. G. Brett (Ringing Master) reported that the 135 peals had been rung in 63 different towers. Stoke-by-Nayland had its first peal since augmentation. Long silences had been broken at Chediston (32 years), Laxfield, Dennington and Weybread (23 years) and Whepstead (24 years). Two records for the Guild came from the 15 Doubles methods peal at Ixworth and the first ladies' peal to be rung in Suffolk. Six firsts of Bob Triples at Elveden, it was hoped would lead to other methods.

Their secretary (Mr. Blythe) was top peal scorer with 40 to his credit, said Mr. Brett, while Mr. E. Chapman, the 'go anywhere' enthusiast, with peals over the border, had also rung 40 peals for the Guild. Mr. Jack Gibson was runner-up with 39 peals.

During 1957 Mr. R. W. M. Clouston (hon. technical adviser) stated that he had inspected and reported on the bells in 51 Suffolk church towers. Of these 13 could be considered to contain rings of bells, though a number were now quite unringable and in one case, at Orford, some of the bells were cracked and unhung.

The technical adviser has now reported on the state of the bells in 113 Suffolk towers, which number some 500. The results so far indicate the very poor state of many of the belfries, and in a number of towers containing up to four bells most unsafe conditions. Far too high a proportion of the bells were unsafely clocked, due to decayed and insecure fittings.

The statement of accounts showed a credit balance of £137 in the general account and £40 in the bell restoration fund.

It was decided that the committee should consider the reorganisation of the Districts as many were felt to be too small in the light of present day requirements.

All the officers were re-elected.

Nearly 60 members attended, and among the visitors were Miss M. Cross, of Oxford, who was elected a non-resident life member, Mr. B. Pattison (Bedford) and Mr. D. H. Rooke (Warsop).

The bells of the Cathedral and St. Mary's were available during the day, and ringing took place in the standard methods up to Cambridge Surprise Royal and Superlative and London Surprise Major. The Guild service in the Cathedral was taken by Canon B. C. Snell, the Canon Residentiary, in the unavoidable absence through illness of the Provost (Very Rev. J. L. White).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STRIFE STOPS SUNDAY RINGING

Dear Sir,—Watchman, what of the night? What is right? We understand night as being darkness, that without the light of the sun. What has this to do with ringing? many may ask. It can be put in this wise. In the case of every team of ringers, however good, there must inevitably come a period of darkness—yes, night. Whether or not this darkness is dispelled depends upon those that remain.

At mine own tower, we are now in the period of deepest night: from being one of the foremost local 6-bell bands we have shrunk to one bell tolling on a Sunday. The ringing of the past was as a whole clockwork in its precision, but through internal strife this has ended: the ringers still remain, but they are torn asunder by endless strife. Is this dark, meridian night to remain? Is this tower to become yet another silent tower?

What can be done to avert it? In the case in question I have tried my best, but have failed, and a once mighty band has ceased to exist. There are no learners, no young ones to follow; what can be done?

The ringers comprising the band are keen and ring many peals; they love ringing, and to a certain extent it is part of their life. They will ring on a Sunday, but not in their own church. It is all very well saying: 'But it is their duty to ring in their own church.' This I agree, but to them, their reason for staying away is justified.

Is it possible to form a new team in a village where for years only the best in striking was good enough? To quote one instance, a touring team visited our tower, and after a few touches a dear old lady came panting up to the tower and to apologise on arrival, for she thought that someone had come into the tower and were pulling the bells ad lib.

The situation does appear hopeless, and if any of those reading this letter could suggest a solution, the faithful few that remain would be more than grateful.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN E. COOK.

Branston, Lincoln.

PEAL FEES

Dear Sir, — Your correspondence columns make it increasingly evident that the ringers who make peal ringing a 'hobby' (it cannot be classed otherwise) expect to pursue their hobby at no expense to themselves.

Recently peal ringers have been compared with those who attend football or cricket matches or pursue similar Saturday pastimes. Surely such folk do not expect free admission to matches, etc.

Five or ten shillings spent once, as a fee for the honour of life membership of an Association, can hardly be considered a crippling amount.

I admit to being neither a peal ringer nor a tower captain but an occasional few shillings would be considered as well spent to encourage a first peal attempt or an enthusiastic young ringer.—Yours faithfully,

A. H. CROSS.

PEALS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—My attention has been drawn to two peals of Eastcote Surprise Major conducted by the late James C. E. Simpson.

The two peals were rung to C. Middleton's composition (2M, 2W, 3H) at Eccles for the Lancashire Association on January 27th, 1951, and at St. Denys for the Truro Diocesan Guild on August 30th, 1951. This composition is false to Eastcote, and on behalf of the two bands I wish to withdraw the peals. — Yours faithfully,

C. KENNETH LEWIS.

PEALS OF DOUBLES

Dear Sir,—There are two letters on page 256 which evoke comment. The first, from Mr. Moreton, concerning Saturn Doubles, seems to indicate that he wishes to change the name of the method. If so, he may come up against another difficulty, i.e., that in the Central Council Decisions, 'Notes on Calls,' it states that the effect of a bob should be to alter the coursing order of three working bells; Mr. Moreton's bob only alters the coursing order of two, and is a single. Later on it states that only one type of single may be used. Even if the method rung need not be a recognised one for recognition as a peal, one should call 240's as (2 (a) (ii)) 'round blocks . . . each of the six-scores which comprise the round block shall be itself a true and complete round block.' Surely, after the recent controversy over Erin Doubles, some alteration should be made to these rulings.

Recently I was sent the following 240 of Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles by Mr. E. F. P. Bryant, of Hastings, who wanted to know if it would be recognised. As it seems to consist of two 120's, one Grandsire, one Plain Bob, presumably it would. I should be very interested to know if anything like this has been rung before.

Regarding the other letter, from Mr. H Millhouse, withdrawing the 5,572 Minor rung at Alford, I can find no rule which does not allow the first seven 720's to stand as a peal. The ruling on what number of changes should be rung seems unnecessarily specific. For instance, why the different limits, 5,040 for Doubles, Minor and Triples, 5,000 for others? Also, why is 5,040 presumably a maximum for Triples?—Yours sincerely,

JOHN L. MORRIS

CARTER'S ODD-BOB ONE-PART

Dear Sir,—Like Mr. E. Jenkins, I have been most interested in the letters concerning Carter's Odd-Bob One-Part peal of Stedman Triples.

I knew my father called the peal in the early 1900's and have now before me the Oxford Diocesan Guild annual report for 1903, which gives the details of that peal. It is Peal No. 1,185, rung at Hughenden, Bucks, on December 31st, 1903, conducted by Frank Boreham. All the members of this band were entirely local and Sunday service ringers. The composition, in full, is also printed after the account of the peal.

I was informed some years ago that this was the second time the composition had been called. Perhaps I could be enlightened on this point.—Yours, etc.

MEMORIES OF 'W. H. B.'

Dear Sir,—May I be allowed to write a brief note on a somewhat distant but very clear memory of that wonderful ringer, the late W. H. Barber? Many years ago, whilst a learner at St. Oswald's, West Hartlepool, and at the stage when 'all the ropes seemed to come down together,' one of the many excellent meetings had been arranged. It was quite early in the afternoon and only six of us had arrived in the belfry, including W. H. B. and Mr. J. E. R. Keene.

Mr. Barber asked me what I could ring and I sheepishly said I was a learner and struggling to master that very intricate method, Bob Minor. 'Take No. 2, son, don't worry, I expect we can manage a touch.' We did, with W. H. B. telling me what to do with every hand- and backstroke I made—it seemed very easy the way he told me. I was afterwards told by one of my own colleagues that I had been under the guiding hand of the greatest ringer ever and should feel honoured. Later I often wondered where I got the nerve to ring in the same belfry, considering I knew nothing of the ancient art.

Some three years later, in the same belfry, I was asked to stand in for a touch of Stedman Caters. When I heard the first bob called I realised who the conductor was—W. H. B. Then I got the jitters, I had an idea if I fluffed a call my name was mud. As it happens we had quite a good touch but somehow I was thankful when I heard him call 'And this is all.'

Rather silly to feel like that in the company of such a great ringer, but at the age of 18 one is inclined to be a little selfconscious in the presence of the great. Looking back, I am rather glad now that I felt like that. — Yours faithfully,

AUSTIN STONE

RINGING AND SKITTLES IN BRIDGWATER AREA

The account of this excursion to Bridgwater and district is a sequel to that which appeared in a December issue of 'The Ringing World'—on that occasion the Nailsea (Somerset) ringers were hosts. On April 12th the return visit was arranged (very ably) by Cecil Clarke. In the morning the programme advertised quarter peal attempts at St. Mary's, Bridgwater, and West Huntspill, and both were successful (as they should have been on such fine bells!). The Cambridge Minor at West Huntspill (6, 22 cwt.) was particularly well struck.

Our numbers were augmented considerably in the afternoon by ringers from Chew and Bridgwater Branches. We rang on three good-going sixes—Puriton, Woolavington and Cossington. At the two last we followed friends from Uphill on their outing and they very kindly left the bells up for us! Eighteen of us enjoyed a wonderful tea at Chilton-upon-Holden—many thanks to our hosts for this—and afterwards rang at North Petherton (6, 21 cwt.). This church has a very fine tower but unfortunately the same adjective cannot be applied to its bells. Our final tower was Goathurst (6, 11 cwt.) and afterwards the convoy (eight cars and two motor-bicycles) hastened to the Enmore Inn for skittles!

The 'Bobs' again played the 'Singles'—unfortunately the 'Bobs' won by a short head (if that is the correct expression?). The winners were C. Clarke and Mary Powell, and Mr. Prime, sen., had the doubtful honour of being presented with a lolly on a stick! The evening ended, as on a previous occasion, with the singing of 'Ye Olde Ringers' Song.'

Very many thanks to our Bridgwater friends, especially Cecil, for another happy day, and our best wishes to Dennis, whose absence was due to H.M. Forces.

The Mayor, in acknowledging the toast, said one of his grandfathers was a keen ringer, being a member of the Middlesex Association, the London County Association, and the Gloucester and Bristol Association. In his family they had seven sets of handbells. He had one set at home which they always brought out at Christmas time.

The evening concluded with the president expressing thanks to the governing body of Christ Church for the use of their beautiful hall and to Mr. Sharpe and his handbell ringers for their delightful entertainment.

WEDDING

MR. E. P. CROWDY — MISS S. M. DAVISON

The wedding took place on April 12th in the presence of a large congregation at St. John's, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, of Mr. E. P. (Ben) Crowdy, Ringing Master of Newcastle Cathedral, and Miss Sheila M. Davison. The Rev. W. Patterson officiated at the choral service.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. C. Page, wore a dress of classic white grosgrain with straight neckline and two panels of velvet at the sides gathered to a bow at the back and flowing into a train. The headdress was a circlet of orange blossom with a long veil. She was attended by the Misses M. Beaton and C. Bell, who wore dresses of azalea nylon organza, and the Misses Caroline, Felicity and Penelope Crowdy, attired in white nylon organza with coloured sashes.

The best man was Mr. M. Pyman, and the groomsmen were Lt. G. Lansbury, R.N.V.R., Lt.-Comdr. S. Hall, R.N.V.R., and Messrs. G. S. Deas and C. Hammond.

As the happy couple left the church they passed under guards of honour of bellringers, officers of the R.N.V.R. and Brownies, while other ringers were busy on the bells that had started it all.

A reception was held at the County Hotel, Newcastle, where the wedding cake was cut with the bridegroom's ceremonial sword as an officer in the R.N.V.R. After the toasts had been honoured the happy couple left for a touring honeymoon, the bride travelling in a blue suit with cream accessories.

In the afternoon St. John's bells rang out again with a peal of Cambridge, a fitting wedding compliment to a 'Cambridge' bridegroom, although it needed two 'London' men to make up the band. D. A. B.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

THE 61st annual general meeting was held at Ealing Parish Church on Saturday, April 19th, and was attended during the day by nearly 100 members and friends.

The Rural Dean of Ealing (Rev. G. H. Perman) officiated at the service, at which the address was given by the president of the Association (Rev. G. C. Taylor, Rector of St. Giles-in-the-Fields).

An excellent tea was prepared and served by Mrs. A. Fulwell and her helpers, it being of suitable quality and quantity to put members in the correct frame of mind for the mostly formal business to follow.

The president occupied the chair at the business meeting and welcomed Mrs. W. Turner and Mr. W. N. Genna. An apology for absence, owing to illness, was received from Mr. C. G. Pitcher, Harrow.

Names of members who had died since the last annual meeting were read, as follows: F. Bennett, J. Fernley, Rev. H. F. Gaster, C. H. Harding, J. B. Hessey, H. Hoverd, P. E. Jones, C. D. Nichols, F. E. Pervin, F. W. Richardson, P. Thrift and F. E. Wilson, and the meeting stood in silent tribute to their memory.

The report for 1957, submitted by the hon. secretary, indicated that three honorary, 48 ringing and 25 non-resident life members had been elected; that 230 quarter peals had been recorded, and that 52 peals (ten methods in peals for the first time) had been rung. Congratulations were offered to Messrs. W. A. Lewis (Heston), F. C. Maynard and H. Rumens (St. Mary's Walthamstow) on the completion of 50 years' continuous membership.

The statement of accounts was presented by the hon. treasurer and showed a slightly reduced balance in hand compared with the previous statement, but some heavy and non-recurring items of expenditure had been met.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow reported on behalf of the 60th anniversary dinner committee and said that the occasion proved to be successful, both socially and financially. It was proposed that an Association dinner be held every third year. An amendment to this was for the dinner to be held every fifth year, but the original motion was carried, and in due course a new committee will be formed.

Election of officers resulted as follows: President, the Rev. G. C. Taylor; active vice-presidents, Messrs. W. H. Coles and H. G. Hart (who each later became District chairmen) Master, Mr. T. Price; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow; hon. secretary, Mr. T. J. Lock; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. J. R. Mayne; trustees, Messrs. A. Cutler, Goodfellow and Lock; hon. auditor, Mr. M. Hodgson.

New members elected were Mr. D. E. Sibson (St. Olave's, Hart Street), unattached, and Miss Pamela Jervis (Slough), non-resident life member. Two five-guinea grants for bell restoration work were voted to Feltham and Upper Clapton towers. On the proposal of Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, seconded by Mr. J. R. Mayne, it was unanimously agreed to alter Rule 4 of the Association. The effect of the alteration is to redesignate two officers from active vice-presidents to District chairmen, to be elected at each District annual meeting, and to make the hon. librarian an officer of the Association. Mr. G. A. Parsons was then elected hon. librarian.

Ringing took place at the three Ealing towers, Christ-the-Saviour's, St. Mary's and St. Stephen's, and at Brentford during the afternoon and evening. Thanks to all incumbents, tower masters and secretaries, the organist, Mrs. Fulwell and her helpers, and everyone concerned in the arrangements made for the occasion were voiced by the president before the meeting closed. THE LADIES' GUILD

North-Eastern District

The fifth annual meeting of the North Eastern District was held at Darlington on Saturday, March 29th. The bells of Holy Trinity (6) were available during the afternoon and those of St. Cuthbert's (8) in the evening. The service was held at Holy Trinity, and an excellent tea was provided by the ladies of that parish. Mrs. McGuiness, on her 'positively last appearance' as a member of this District, proposed votes of thanks to the vicars and churchwardens of both churches for the use of the bells, to the Vicar of Holy Trinity for the service and to the ladies for preparing the tea.

At the business meeting which followed the tea, Mrs. McGuiness resigned as vice-president as she was leaving the district to take up residence in Boston, and Mrs. K. Arthur proposed the election of Miss D. M. Killingley as her successor. This was seconded by Miss E. Softley and carried unanimously. Mrs. C. N. Lea was re-elected as hon. secretary, Mrs. K. Arthur and Mrs. K. Lawson to the central committee, and Mrs. D. Bayles, Miss M. Capey and Miss J. B. Softley to the District committee.

Mrs. McGuiness referred to the tragic death of Mrs. H. Poole, and all members extended their sincere sympathy to Mrs. Staniforth.

Mrs. Lea, in presenting Mrs. McGuiness with a fitted train case, reminded all members that it was due to the efforts of Mrs. McGuiness the North Eastern District had been formed, and whilst regretting her loss, wished her and her husband all happiness in their new home. In replying, Mrs. McGuiness thanked all members for the support she had received, and also for the hospitality they had enjoyed during their brief sojourn in the north.

On termination of the business meeting, members adjourned to St. Cuthbert's belfry, where the 'supporters' club' already had the bells ringing merrily as a welcome.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

West Dorset Branch

The quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch was held at Netherbury on April 19th. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. P. D. May) and the lesson read by Canon C. Carew Cox. Tea was served in the Village Hall by the wives of the Netherbury ringers, to which a company of 23 sat down. Visitors were present from Hampreston.

The meeting was presided over by the Branch chairman (Canon C. Carew Cox). The next meeting was fixed for Chardstock on July 19th, and a by-meeting at Melbury Osmond on June 18th.

Congratulations were extended to Miss Daphne Keeley on her engagement, and to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keeley on their silver wedding anniversary. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar of Netherbury, the organist, and Netherbury ringers and wives for their kind hospitality.

Ringing during the afternoon and evening included Cambridge Minor.

OBITUARY

MR. A. Y. TYLER

Mr. Anderson Yorke Tyler, who died on April 15th, at Irthlingborough, Northants, aged 88 years, was an active ringer at St. Peter's Church up to his death. As recently as Easter Sunday he rang for service, to celebrate his 80th birthday, a peal of 5,376 changes.

'Andy' Tyler, as he was known to his many friends, was also the local blacksmith, and he plied his trade until Christmas, 1956, when an accident prevented him carrying on his work. For many years he was a familiar figure in the Irthlingborough district riding his 'pennyfarthing' bicycle, on which he visited the neighbouring churches and attended the Guild meetings. He was a member of the band of ringers who rang a peal to commemorate the rebuilding of Irthlingborough (St. Peter's) Church tower in 1893. While his list of peals is not yet available, it is known that he scored 200 together with Mr. Walter Perkins, and in most of these they shared the conducting. An active member of the R.A.O.B.. Andy Tyler was a member of the 'John Pyel' Lodge of Buffaloes and was said never to have missed a meeting during his 30 years of membership.

The funeral service, at which the Rector officiated, was held at St. Peter's, Irthlingborough, on April 19th, followed by interment in the churchyard. The church was well filled with his fellow ringers from the Wellingborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and fellow members of the R.A.O.B. 'John Pyel' Lodge, who had gathered to pay their last respects with relatives and friends to a truly Christian gentleman. His familiar smiling face will be much missed at the Branch meetings of the Guild.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the graveside by Messrs. J. J. Mawby, A. Bigley, J. Skerritt and E. Whitmore. The tower bells were also rung with half-muffled clappers.

An Appreciation

Andy hated a loose-rope ringer and was very keen for good striking. He was very thrilled when the old Irthingborough band (only one of whom is left at St. Peter's) rang the first peal of Irthlingborough Surprise Major at Irthlingborough and the first of Irchester Surprise at St. Katherine's Church, Irchester. It was a very fitting funeral service at St. Peter's, Irthlingborough, for a great ringer, faithful towerkeeper and churchman.

THE REV. ERIC S. TARRANT

Oxford Diocesan Guild and the Central Council have lost a good friend by the death on April 12th of the Rev. Eric S. Tarrant, Rector of Launton, aged 68. For the past five years he had provided without charge a home for the Central Council library at Launton Rectory. He took a keen interest in ringing, particularly the activities of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. He had been rector of Launton since 1952.

The funeral service was on April 16th at Launton. The Bishop of Dorchester (Rt. Rev. D. G. Loveday) officiated, assisted by the Archdeacon of Oxford (Ven. C. Witton Davies) and the Rev. J. F. R. Westlake, Rector of Fringford and Hethe.

Following the service two 720's of Plain Bob Minor were rung with the bells half-muffled. The ringers were D. Penn 1, Edgar Smith (conductor) 2, James Marriott 3, Herbert Massey 4, W. Baggett 5, George Gregory 6.

MR. J. E. LILLEY

An Appreciation

I should like to add a few words to the obituary notice which appeared in the issue of 'The Ringing World' of April 11th. Jim Lilley was a very great Ringing Master. He always saw that learners not only had a fair share of the ringing at meetings, but was full of encouragement whether the ringing was rounds, call changes or method. Experienced ringers had to wait until the beginners had had their fair share of the time available.

He ofter referred to the training he had received from his father, Charlie Lilley, and the ringing they did together just before the war when they were members of the band at St. Sidwell's, Exeter. During this period they took part in the first peals of Double Norwich and Oxford Treble Bob Major by a band resident in Devon.

Some two years ago he was approached by the incumbent of Coffinswell, where the bells were silent. Hhe trained a band from scratch, and although most of the ringers have not progressed beyond the call change stage, there is now regular Sunday service ringing in this tower. But we shall miss him most at Teignmouth, where he joined us on most Sunday evenings with his good humour and encouragement, whatever the standard of the ringing.

To his memory a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Newton Abbot on April 24th by Capt. A. R. Poyntz 1, E. M. Atkins (conductor) 2, H. Hood 3, A. Bennett 4, H. C. Spencer 5, D. Roberts 6, W. Simmonds 7, A. J. Garbett 8. Afterwards a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over his grave in the churchyard below the tower. -R.I.P.

E. M. A

May I add my tribute to the memory of Jim Lilley? By his death the Exercise has lost not only a good ringer but also a perfect gentleman. It is now over eight years since I first had the privilege of meeting Jim, and I well remember what an impression was then made on me by the way he carried out his duties of Ringing Master, always ensuring that all ringers, whether learners or Surprise experts, had an opportunity to ring. By the passing of Jim Lilley I have lost a good friend and there will be a gap in Mid-Devon which will be hard to fill.

E. T. PAUL FIELD.

REQUIEM FOR MR. W. DENYER

On Tuesday, April 15th, a Requiem Mass was said in Aldershot Parish Church at 7.30 a.m. by the Vicar (the Rev. T. H. Dart) for the late Mr. William Denyer. Among the congregation of 35 were members of his family and several of the local ringers. In the evening the bells were rung half-muffled, the first touch of Grandsire Triples being rung by three sons, two daughters, two sons-in-law and a daughter-in-law. Later three grandchildren also took part and, in addition, a quarter peal was rung by Nancie Bragg (first quarter) 1, Charles W. Denyer 2, Betty Stewart 3, Thomas E. Denyer 4, William H. Viggers 5, Tom Page 6, Ed. J. Bragg (conductor) 7, Harry Williamson 8.

STANWELL, MIDDLX.—On Mar. 16th, 1,260 Plain Bob Doubles: L. S. Goddard (first away from tenor) 1, C. B. Fynes (cond.) 2-3, Miss K. S. Hawthorn 4, M. C. Lane 5, J. Boyd (first quarter) 6. Also on Mar. 26th, 1,260 Plain Bob Doubles: L. S. Goddard 1, C. B. Fynes (cond.) 2-3, Miss R. Thompson 4, M. G. Lane 5, D. G. Pickett 6. Also on April 2nd, 1,220 Plain Bob Minor: Miss K. S. Hawthorn 1, C. B. Fynes (cond.) 2-3, C. G. V. Burgess 4, M. G. Lane 5, M. J. Palmer 6. First of Minor for all except 6. Rung half-muffled for Holy Week.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The Mid-Devon Branch held a quarterly meeting at Collaton St. Mary, near Paignton, on April 19th; and whilst the attendance was not large, there was a good number of the younger element present. A short service was held in church, conducted by the Rev. H. Hinton, of Babbacombe.

After a sumptuous tea in the Parish Hall, kindly prepared by the members of the Mothers' Union, the usual business meeting followed, when Mr. A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, was voted to the chair.

The chairman referred to the recent death of Mr. J. E. Lilley, the Branch chairman, and pointed out that in addition to the reports having been supplied to the press, Mr. Lilley had taken part in the first resident peals of Double Norwich Court and Oxford Treble Bob Major. It was also reported that the Exeter Branch wished to be associated with the Branch in its tribute, and the meeting stood in silence.

Mr. W. Simmonds, of Torquay, was elected Ringing Master for the remainder of the year, and it was resolved to leave the appointment of a chairman until the next meeting.

The election of five non-resident members prior to the recent peal at Buckfast Abbey was confirmed, and certificates were presented by Mrs. D. E. Hood to two members of All Saints', Babbacombe, ringers.

In connection with the 1958 programme the forthcoming meetings are to be held, subject to permission: Townstal, May 31st; meeting with the South West Branch at Buckfastleigh and Dean Prior, June 28th; and quarterly meeting at Ipplepen, July 26th.

On the suggestion of Mr. Simmonds it was decided to recommend at the annual general meeting that all clergy whose towers are in union with the Guild should be made honorary members without payment.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at Danbury, Essex, on April 19th was a proud occasion for Mr. E. W. Roast, captain of the local ringers. He rang the treble to seven Surprise methods with five of the local band he has taught to ring over the past few years.

A small group of North Herts ringers and a visitor from Yorkshire visited 17 towers in Beds, Herts and Bucks on April 15th and 16th, travelling in a vintage Morris Cowley. At Wavendon they were met by the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

St. George's, Doncaster, has a fine record this year of recruiting for the Yorkshire Association. Stephen Boyes, who rang his first quarter here on April 30th, was the seventh young person to ring a quarter at the tower during the year, thus qualifying for membership of the Y.A.

Miss Diana Ward, formerly of Stanmore and now of Bury St. Edmunds, sailed in the 'Saxonia' on April 25th for a visit to Toronto, Canada. Her ringing friends in this country, while trusting that Diana will enjoy her visit, hope that she will be able to find some ringing in Canada during her stay there.

After ringing in a peal attempt of Plain Bob Maior at Quorn, Leics, for two hours on April 19th, there was an unexpected termination. At 5 p.m. the church clock decided to join in the celebration. The wire which pulls off the hammer had jumped off the rail allowing the clock to strike not five times but what seemed 55. In spite of the efforts of one ringer to stop the clock the peal 'went up in smoke.' It was hard luck for the 15-year-old conductor who had up to then called a perfect peal.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2458 Vol. LIV. FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

GREAT YARMOUTH BELLS

THE Parish Church of St. Nicholas, Great Yarmouth, with its 22,000 square feet of floor space, reputed England's largest parish church, has presumably possessed bells ever since Herbert de Losinga, Bishop of Norwich, built its Norman central tower early in the 12th century.

The Brasyers, of Norwich, may have cast the Yarmouth bells in the 15th century. Palmer's 'History of Great Yarmouth' quotes the old church books as recording in 1468: 'Paid the suffragan for hallowing the bells 6s. 8d.' Other entries record that in 1485 the 'great bell' was new run (i.e., recast) and repairs were done in 1512 to 'the saints bell' (i.e., the Sanctus bell). When in the 16th century the authorities, under the hypocritical guise of doing away with superstition, stole most of the treasures dedicated to the service of the Church, Yarmouth was permitted to keep its bells. But by 1663 two of the bells were cracked, and the Corporation ordered a tax to pay for their recasting. By 1670 the number of bells was six. In 1726 two new bells were cast, bringing the number to eight; this work was done by John Stephens, who was casting bells in Norwich between 1717 and 1727.

Transport was becoming easier, and in 1753 the long tradition of casting bells in Norwich came to an end. Now the great Whitechapel Foundry came on the scene, founded by Robert Doddes in 1567. A few bells from Whitechapel came to Norfolk in the 17th century and the trade increased later. Richard Phelps. the then manager, cast four of the famous Redenhall bells. Everybody has heard Phelps' most famous bell, the 5-ton bell of St. Paul's Cathedral, which is broadcast on occasions when Big Ben's clock is being repaired.

In 1806 the Whitechapel Foundry took away the old bells, recast them with much additional metal to form a ring of ten, and hung them in the tower in 1807. The cost was £1,163 3s. 4d., of which £558 2s. 8d. was defrayed by the sale of the old metal. Each bell was inscribed with the name of the founder, Thomas Mears, and the tenor was also inscribed: 'Wm. Ferrier Junior Esq., E. K. Lacon, Esq., Mayors; Sir Edmd. Lacon Knt., Edmd. Preston, Esq., Robt. Cory, Esq., Isaac Preston, Esq., 1807; churchwardens.'

Later the firm added two more bells to make a full ring of 12. I had the pleasure of ringing on them with the Yarmouth ringers in 1939 and 1940. Then war silenced England's bells, and as the great clock face still dramatically records, it stopped and the bells crashed and clanged to their destruction at 2.35 a.m. on the night of June 24th, 1942. I later inspected in the vestry all that could be recovered of the valuable bell metal. It was taken away to the Whitechapel Foundry, who credited the correct sum of money for it, until life should return to the church and the bells be recast.

The glorious hope is now being realised. Now we shall have a ring of bells far finer than ever before. During the last 50 years an entirely new method of tuning bells has been perfected, with the result that the various notes which make up the sound emitted by a bell are harmonised together more accurately than heretofore, so that each bell sounds far richer and grander. Also methods of hanging have been modernised, so that the new hardwood bell frame should be far stronger than its predecessor. It will be bolted to a reinforced concrete grillage embedded into the tower, which will also strengthen the tower immensely. And instead of the old-fashioned bearings the new bells will be hung on ball-bearings. Altogether we shall have a ring of bells far finer than anything here in the past or in this district today.

The number of bells is being increased by the addition of a semitone bell, in order that we may ring the eight lightest bells to form a proper diatonic scale. The new semitone bell will be a great asset when practising.

The late Russell James Colman left a large sum of money to provide in the church a window or windows illustrative of the old Port of Great Yarmouth with its fishing fleet, or in otherwise furnishing or beautifying the church. At a recent meeting of the trustees it was agreed that in addition to providing windows as described, it would be an appropriate way of interpreting the terms of the Trust to give the bells—a ring of 13 (tenor 30 cwt.).

The tenor was cast at Whitechapel on May 7th, in the presence of the Mayor of Great Yarmouth, the Vicar, members of the Colman family and a number of local ringers. This could be looked on as a national as well as a Yarmouth occasion. for not only will thousands of ringers get to associate these bells with one of our premier holiday resorts, but also the casting of the tenor will fitly celebrate the centenary of Big Ben, cast at Whitechapel.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. J. G. Pudsey, of the Oxford University Society, has had an accident on his bicycle and broken three appendages of his lumbar vertebrae. This has forced the cancellation of the Old Wykehamist peal attempt on Winchester College bells. His friends send him best wishes for an early recovery.

Does any reader know of a book called 'Grand Shire Dougles'?

Mr. George Baker, of Brighton, sails today for New Zealand to join his only daughter, Mrs. Olive Yetman, 82, Mount Pleasant Road, Christchurch, S.E.3.

Harwich, Essex, have three teenagers who are experts at splicing ropes, and delight in oiling and keeping the bells in good condition, writes a correspondent.

We are asked to state that the quarter peal of Cambridge Surprise Major (page 266) was rung at Leyton and not Leytonstone. It was conducted by E. D. Smith.

Taking part in a silver wedding complimentary quarter peal to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chester at Helmdon, Northants, were three ringers who rang for their wedding in 1933, viz.: C. Hinton, M. Saunders and A. Mansfield.

Hawkshead tower, Westmorland, is closed for ringing until after September 29th. The six oak beams supporting the bell frame and bells are completely worn out after more than 500 years' service. They are to be replaced with rolled steel joists and an H-frame to contain a ring of eight bells. Hawkshead has at present a ring of six, but hopes are entertained of the full octave eventually. Without the new bells the cost, which includes a complete overhaul of the clock and chiming gear, will be some £1,400. Donations may be sent to the Rev. R. Lindsay, Hawkshead Vicarage, Ambleside.

Two ringers at Chiseldon, Wilts, have this year become octogenarians. In January, a peal of Doubles was rung for Mr. W. E. Farmer, and recently an attempt was made to ring a peal of Bob Minor for Mr. S. C. Archer. Although this failed, a quarter peal was rung before the band were entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. Archer. Mr. Archer became captain in 1913, a post he has held ever since; he has lived all his life in the village.

The composition of 5,058 Stedman Caters, arranged by Mr. Louis Head, published in this issue, is to commemorate the dedication next Saturday (May 10th) of Maidstone bells. The 5,058 represents the fifth month, 58 and the 0 the tenth day.

The Luton District are holding their first meeting at Flitwick on May 17th, where a new treble was added a few months ago, making a ring of six.

The band who rang in the peal of Caters at Christ Church in memoriam Arthur Allman would like to express their congratulations and thanks to young Michael Allman on the splendid way he rang his first peal.

On Easter Tuesday nine young ringers from Cosby, Leicestershire, had a cycle outing to towers in Leicestershire and Northamptonshire. Between Clipston and Hazelbeech, the navigator, John Bennett, incurred censure for the route he took, which deteriorated into a muddy track that made walking, let alone cycling, difficult.

The Rev. Peter Robbins was baby-sitting at St. Hilda's Vicarage, Prestwich, while his wife (nee Betty Spice) rang her first peal for five years in another room at the Vicarage. As becoming a former Master of the Oxford University Society, she rang the peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major almost faultlessly, shaming some who are reputedly 'in practice'!

CLERICAL GUILD'S WEEK IN DORSET

By GILBERT THURLOW

KNIGHT'S BULL Hotel, Bridport, was the home from April 14th to 18th of members of the Clerical Guild taking part in the annual 'week.' A really charming part of England—rolling hills of chalk and stone, well-wooded valleys, picturesque villages with old stone-built houses and glorious gardens, dignified churches, often cruciform, showing affinities with Somerset and Cornwall in their architecture.

Members met on Monday afternoon at St. Peter's, Dorchester, and then at Fordington St. George. The undersigned was still careering over the Dorset hills after investigating a Norman font he is acquiring for Great Yarmouth Parish Church, so can take neither credit nor blame for the performances at these towers. Later that evening, 'we' (to quote Acts xvi., 10, and for a similar reason) rang on the pleasant eight at Bridport (tenor 21 cwt.), a fine cruciform church, beautifully kept, obviously loved, and with its Easter tomb and flowers delightfully arranged, as in the majority of the churches we visited.

On Tuesday the president (Canon Carew Cox) celebrated Holy Communion at Bridport Church when, as usual, members departed during the previous year were remembered, and God's blessing asked on the Exercise generally. Then to the motor coach which was to give members happy, carefree journeys for the next three days. First to Netherbury, famed for its hills, gardens, cheese and cider. Its church guide book says motor coaches are prohibited to enter the village. Here you can buy the world's largest mint drops from an ex-member of the Palestine Police in the Post Office. A lovely church (1350-1500) with the font from the previous church. On to Beaminster, with a grand eight (tenor 26 cwt.) and a ringing incumbent who, of course, joined our Guild. A nice course of Cambridge here, in a tower enriched with pinnacled buttresses—a pinnacle recently crashed on the church roof. Jackdaws in the bookshop here sing like thrushes.

On to the splendid cruciform church of Crewkerne, where the organist played Bach brilliantly whilst we rang and apparently neither disturbed the other. Much to see in both architecture and memorials in this historic building. Then to the pleasant six at Broadwindsor. A highlight of the tour followed in the shape of tea with the president (Canon Cox) and Mrs. Cox at their lovely residence at Morcombelake. This is delightfully perched on the sunny south side of a hill, from which they can look down on their old home, Lyme Regis, some miles away; the garden extends some way up the hill, and one keeps in good form by frequent climbs to the summit—quite a lakeland fell in miniature, with its fir trees and outcrops of stone.

OSCILLATING TOWER

We sang Evensong at Whitechurch Canonicorum nearby—this has its name not, apparently, because of the church having been white, but because of St. Wita, called Candida by the mediæval Latins, whose shrine in the north transept is reputed still to work miraculous cures in these days. The nave arches here are magnificent transitional Norman, and the north transept elegant 'Early English' as befits such a holy place. This church presents a phenomenon astonishing to non-ringers, and worthy of note by ringers also. The tower oscillates in the usual way during ringing, but the north aisle does not, and if you place your fingers against the mortar joint between the two, you can feel it opening and closing. You can easily see it happening also. By suitable manipulation you could crack a walnut between the two. After dinner at Bridport, a visit to Loders nearby, and following ringing on the pleasant six, a very happy evening with coffee, etc., in the Vicarage, whose vicar and his wife made us very much at home in their drawing room with its 16th century chimney piece, complete with burning logs. He rings, also.

On Wednesday, a course of London Minor at Uplyme; down the ravine again to Lyme Regis, our president's old parish. A pleasant course of Cambridge on a very nice light eight, and—as often—happy contacts with local ringers. Delightful sea view from the churchyard. Into Devon to Colyton, with its fine cruciform church, with tower surmounted by an octagonal lantern reminiscent of Boston and Fotheringhay. A rather lumpy six here, but grand to ring (tenor 24 cwt.). A magnificent mechanical chimer—you turn the handle, and the cams cause rounds to be rung, like the Netherlands carillon clocks simplified. Then to Dalwood, with its small-scale church, whose pillars culminate in decorated capitals at eye level, permitting intimate study. A light six here. Then to Kilmington with another nice light six. The ringing chamber here boasts an impressive contraption with five movable desks for call-change ringers—the tenor presumably takes pot luck. Whilst London was in progress here, the following conversation with a Kilmingtonian is reported: 'Be you a party of ringers?' 'Yes.' 'Thought so.' Then another highlight in the shape of tea with our late secretary (Preb. Cox) and his family, at Hunthay Close. Another delightful house and garden, where a prominent object is the wheelbarrow given by a grateful Guild. Our gratitude to both the Coxes is immense; no boat race ever had two coxes held in higher esteem.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Then to the fine cruciform church at Axminster, with a grand eight. Would the ringers' mats, each inscribed Axminster, rank as 'genuine Axminster' at a carpet sale? After dinner the annual meeting was held at our Bridport hotel—in a ballroom with seats put out for 70. The following were re-elected, each unanimously and with acclamation: President, Canon C. Carew Cox: vice-presidents, Canon Wilkinson and Preb. Cox: hon. secretary, the Rev. J. H. B. Andrews, Chittlehampton Vicarage, Umberleigh, North Devon—who is always delighted to hear from clergy who would like to join the Guild. The Revs. R. St. J. Smith and A. G. G. Thurlow were re-elected, in addition to the committee. It was agreed to hold the 1959 week from April 6th to 10th, probably in West Kent, or nearby, as proves most practicable.

On Thursday, some left for Symondsbury, others for Litton Cheney. After a visit to Abbotsbury, with its rather sad memories of a once great abbey, and where some took the opportunity to see the Chesil Beach and the grand old tithe barn, we all met again at Litton Cheney for lunch in the pub. Some proved almost as adept at darts, etc., etc., as at ringing. Oxford seems to have been generous to Litton Cheney church; its organ came from Magdalen College Chapel, where Stainer once played it, whilst its altar came from Balliol. Then to Wyke Regis for a nice course of Cambridge on a very pleasant eight. The undersigned had to leave the party here, and must now (like the television news reader so often) call on another for his version. It seems that at Upwey the church was described in print as Saxon—a tall story. Then at Winterbourne St. Martin nobody met the party, and when eventually entrance was effected, switching on the light they switched off the clock. Had they met the party, time wouldn't have ceased its march in Winterbourne. Last to Bradpole, whose incumbent described the bells as the Dorset sheep bells because they are so light. Some sheep! (Tenor 13 cwt.)

On Friday, the last morning of the week. Maiden Newton proved elusive but was eventually reached; then to Cattistock where, if I remember rightly, a bomb fell down the tower and wrecked the carillon of 35 bells. There is now a ring of eight (tenor 14 cwt.). A delightful finish at Evershot, a charming village and church, whose incumbent rang and joined the Guild.

How grateful we are to all who helped towards the success of the week in any way—incumbents, tower keepers, tower captains, secretaries, and to the ladies for their wonderful hospitality. At one village the octogenarian incumbent said he had declined 12 livings during his many years there; also that his brother is Mowbray and Co., his brother's son edits the 'Sign,' and that he himself came to the diocese as chaplain to the Bishop of Salisbury. His sole act seems to have been to attest the will of the Bishop, who thereupon died.

Bristol Cathedral To Have Ring Of Eight

For the first time in its history Bristol Cathedral is to have a ring of eight bells. The historic bells of the Temple Church, Bristol, now in store, are to be hung in the Cathedral's north-west tower.

Although the bells will be a gift from the trustees of the Temple Church, the cost of installation, states the Dean (the Very Rev. Douglas Harrison), is likely to be about £3,000. Towards this the Chapter may be able to find £1,000, and the Dean hopes that some of those who love the Cathedral and some of those who love the Temple Church will help in finding the other £2,000 so that the bells will be rung again.

Cambridge University Guild

At the annual general meeting of the Cambridge University Guild on Wednesday, April 23rd, the following elections were made for the coming year:—

President, the Rev. A. C. Blyth; senior treasurer, Dr. C. M. P. Johnson; Master, H. Neill; secretary, M. D. S. Hood; librarian, J. Schofield; auditor, P. H. Langton.

Oxford University Society

Some elections were necessary at the meeting on April 29th, and the officers of the Society are now: Master, R. N. Pittman (Pemb.); secretaries, R. A. Jackson (Ball.) and J. H. Pailing (Keble); treasurer, N. J. Maggs (Keble); steeple-keepers, S. Zvegintzov (New College) and J. A. M. Salter (Magd.).

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

THE 59th annual meeting was held at Lincoln on April 26th. There was a much better attendance than in the previous year, and ringing was enjoyed during the afternoon and evening on the 12 bells of the Cathedral, the eight of St. Giles', and the sixes at St. Peter-at-Gowts' and St. Botolph's.

Tea was served by members' wives and friends in the Chapter House, the first time a meal had been served in this ancient building.

At the business meeting, held in the Consistory Court, the president of the Guild (the Dean of Lincoln) presided. The officers were elected as follows: President, the Dean of Lincoln; Master, Mr. J. A. Freeman; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Bray; hon. peal secretary, Mr. G. E. Feirn; representative on faculties advisory committee, Mr. John Freeman; hon. librarian, Mr. R. F. Smith; hon. auditors, Mr. C. Brown and Mr. W. Tomlinson.

The Master's report stated that 129 peals had been rung in 1957, a marked increase on the previous year's total of 110. This number had only been surpassed twice before by totals of 139 and 172. There were no less than 25 conductors in the 1957 peals, a healthy sign for the continued prosperity of the Guild. Outstanding peals were Immingham Surprise Major, rung for the first time, London Surprise Royal (2) and the first handbell peal in a Surprise method by a resident band.

'While on the subject of peals,' writes Mr. John A. Freeman, 'I would again like to remind some of our members that the Guild officers and I do not look with any favour upon peals being rung by members on the days of their own District meetings, or upon peals rung by members who are in arrears with their subscriptions.'

The meeting approved the suggestion that the Northern Branch be reorganised, making the three existing Districts into Branches.

As 1959 would be the Guild's diamond jubilee year, it was agreed that a dinner be organised as in 1949, and a sub-committee was appointed to proceed with arrangements.

A very pleasing feature of this meeting was the number of young members present, many ringing on 12 bells for the first time.

BRAY'S NEW VICAR

Prior to the induction of the Rev. S. W. Doran as Vicar of Bray on April 18th in the presence of the Bishops of Oxford and Reading, five local ringers, with the help of three from Burnham, rang a quarter peal (reported elsewhere in this issue). After the service the bells were again rung with local ringers not yet change-ringers.

On the following day a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, of which no member taking part need feel ashamed. After the peal a splendid tea was laid on by John Norsworthy and Doreen Hague, which was kindly attended by the Vicar. 'People were singing your praises for the beautiful ringing you have given them on our bells,' said the Vicar.

DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Concern Over Financial Position

THE annual general meeting of the Derbyshire Association was held in Derby on April 12th. The weather was very favourable and approximately 60 ringers responded to an appeal for a good attendance. Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening at the Cathedral and at St. Peter's, and it was encouraging to see a good number of young people at both towers. An informal service in St. Peter's Church was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. C. A. Shaw). A very substantial tea was provided by the wives of the ringers at St. Peter's.

The president of the Association, the Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes (Provost of Derby), was unavoidably prevented from attending the business meeting, and Mr. F. Adams (vice-president) acted as chairman. Reference was made to the presence of Mr. J. F. Smallwood and Mr. B. P. Morris, and they were given a very hearty welcome to Derbyshire. The printed annual reports were available for distribution, and the reports of the general secretary, treasurer and peal secretary were formally approved. Reference was made to the untimely death in August, 1957, of the former vice-president of the Association, Mr. William Lancaster.

The financial position of the Association gave much cause for concern, but it was hoped that there would be some improvement following the effect of increased subscriptions due from January 1st, 1958. Receipts from the sales of Association badges had exceeded the initial cost and further sales would be to the advantage of Association funds.

The report of the peal secretary revealed that a record number of peals—81—was scored during the year, and special reference was made to the individual performances of Derek P. Jones, who conducted 22 peals, and Brian J. Woodruffe with 17. The most noteworthy peals were 10,000 Double Norwich C.B. Major, conducted by B. J. Woodruffe, and 5,184 London Surprise Major, being the first peal in the method by an all-resident band.

The sub-committee responsible for the annual dinner were complimented on the arrangements for a very successful social function. There was some discussion about the possibility of amalgamation with other District Associations, but it was decided not to pursue the matter.

Mr. G. A. Halls and the chairman thanked all those who had in any way contributed to a very successful meeting, and ringing continued until approximately 9 p.m.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The Yorks District A.G.M. at Headingley, Leeds, on March 29th, proved to be a successful occasion. The afternoon was shared with members of the Leeds and District Society, who held their A.G.M., and thanks are due to them for their cheerful co-operation

Mrs. Thorley (vice-president) took the chair at the business meeting. Miss M. V. Copping was elected to the committee in place of the late Miss M. Rhodes. Eight new members were elected, and this was felt to be a very good start for the year.

The next meeting will be held in June in the Sheffield area.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

Do Churches Value Their Ringers?

The Frome Branch had arranged for their quarterly meeting on April 19th to ring at East Harptree for the first time for many years, as the tower has no ringing band of its own. Only a few hours before the ringers began to arrive, the rector's warden, Mr. Arthur Smith (himself a ringer), collapsed and died, and so the ringing was transferred to nearby Hinton Blewett and Litton (by the kindness of the Rev. F. Minnitt and the tower captains), though the service and meeting were held at East Harptree, as arranged.

The Rector (Rev. J. D. Ainger) in his address quoted the inscription on the old treble: 'I am the first of those five cries loud to those that are alive,' and said that as the bells were now silent perhaps the converse might be true, apart from a faithful nucleus of churchpeople. He hoped, with the help of members of the Association, to get a band to ring them again. The collection was earmarked for missionary work in Nigeria, with which the parish has a link.

The Rev. Norman Mitchell, of Radstock, taking the chair for the first time, had some unusual suggestions to put forward; but first he spoke for all the ringers in welcoming back his predecessor, Mr. J. T. Dyke, after his illness, and in congratulating Mr. David Hoare, of Radstock, on his election at the annual Easter meeting of the Association as diocesan secretary in succession to Mr. Roger Fry, of Bath.

The chairman said that the affiliation fee of towers to the Association—a few shillings normally paid by the ringers themselves—should be paid by the P.C.C. (as they pay the equivalent for the choir) to acknowledge the existence of their band of ringers. He also suggested that the fee was ridiculously small, and that parishes in the Branch should voluntarily set an example by paying a guinea (as for the choir), since things paid for are valued more, the money mainly to be used for the Bell Fund assisting parishes with heavy expenses in their belfries. Ringers might be admitted before Evensong, as choirboys are, to put their work in its proper perspective, and some clergy (except those with plural livings) might note that ringers ringing for and attending two services may be in church longer on a Sunday than they are themselves. Even so, ringers should aim at being regular communicants. East Harptree must be regarded as a challenge to the Branch, and when the Rector had collected a band of learners he hoped as many as could would come over and help to teach.

New members elected were Messrs. M. Barton and R. Hawkins, and Miss M. Hawkins, of Kilmersdon, and Mr. Daryl Platt, of Midsomer Norton. After some discussion it was agreed that practice meetings should be held between quarterly meetings, each one to be arranged at the preceding quarterly meeting—a tower inviting others to join in one of its practice nights: thus no notices need be sent out. The next quarterly meeting will be at Norton St. Philip on July 12th, subject to permission, and the Corporate Communion at Nunney on June 8th.

The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the rector, and the ladies who prepared and served the tea. The ringers then adjourned to Litton to enjoy their evening's ringing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHURCHWARDENS AND LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Sir,—I have just read the report in 'The Ringing World' (page 272) of the attitude of two churchwardens towards church bells and the men that ring them.

I think that it should be pointed out to these two wardens that they are legally responsible, together with the Parochial Church Council, for the upkeep, maintenance and repair of all parts of the church building, irrespective of whether they like or dislike any particular part of it or the people that use it.

In 1955, the Inspection of Churches Measure received the Royal Assent, and under this Measure every Diocesan Conference is required to set up a scheme whereby every church in the diocese shall be inspected every five years.

Since the ringers concerned are prepared to give up some of their spare time to specialist repair and maintenance work on bells that obviously need attention, and that the incumbent approved of what they were going to do, I consider that the actions of these churchwardens is definitely contrary to the obligations of the office which they hold, and that the matter should be referred to the Diocesan Conference and to the Central Council for the Care of Churches.—Yours faithfully,

C. J. SHERWOOD.

Stafford.

CO-OPTIONS ON COUNCIL COMMITTEES

Dear Sir,—In Belfry Gossip ('R.W.', April 25th, 1958) it is reported that the 'Ringing World' Committee have co-opted Mr. W. N. Park, following the regretted resignation of Mr. J. T. Dyke, and I note that on page 268 Mr. Park is shown as a member of the Editorial Committee.

While clearly the Committee and the Exercise will be very happy to have Mr. Park's help, and there is no doubt that the Central Council at Whitsun will be very glad to appoint him, I cannot see that the Committee have power to co-opt a member.

Under the rules of the Central Council, the Council appoints its committees, and the only power of co-option is one given specifically to the Standing Committee (Rule 11 (ii)). If this power were given to all committees it would not be necessary to specify in this case. I appreciate that the 'Ringing World' Committee, having a big job to do, has wide executive powers, but it has not this right.

I was pleased to see Miss Overend's letter about the Hillingdon peal tablet. If F. W. G. will look up the preface to 'Grandsire' (1948), by J. A. Trollope, in the Snowdon series, he will see an explanation of this business of the calendar.—Yours faithfully,

WILFRID G. WILSON.

ST. CLEMENT DANES'

Dear Sir,—I think that in view of the article by A. Y.-B. in your issue of April 11th it would be as well to set out the present position with regard to ringing at the church of St. Clement Danes. May I say first of all that I had no real wish to take on any additional ringing commitments, but as a result of certain suggestions which I had offered to the chaplain-in-chief, Canon Giles, very similar to those made by A. Y.-B., he asked me if I would take on the position of belfry master for, at any rate, a limited period while the organisation of the church was being built up. Since the restoration has involved the chaplain-in-chief and his staff in innumerable problems it would, I felt, have been rather ungracious to decline to assist in this small way, particularly as I work in the same department.

So far as ringing at the dedication is concerned (the date has been announced as Sunday, October 19th, and Her Majesty the Queen will be present) this will obviously have to be of as high a standard as possible, and for this reason I feel I can ask to take part only those whose capabilities are known to me personally. In consequence a number of people have been or will shortly be approached. Admission to the dedication will, I understand, be rigidly controlled, so that it will not be possible for more than ten ringers to take part, and these will, I hope, be as representative as possible, including ex-Servicemen from both world wars, and not forgetting the R.N.A.S. and the R.F.C. as well as present-day members of the R.A.F. There are undoubtedly hundreds of other ringers who would have just as good a claim to take part as the ten who will do so, and perhaps I may express my regret that circumstances will make this impossible.

Later on it will not doubt be possible to arrange an 'open day,' but it will be necessary to exercise some caution as to the amount of ringing which takes place at the church, at all events in the early days, since the authorities will naturally wish to avoid any criticism on that score; they are, of course not quite so well placed in this respect as a normal incumbent. However, there seems no reason why evening practices should not take place at reasonable intervals. With regard to peals, my idea also is that the first should be by a representative R.A.F. band, preferably to commemorate one of that service's particular anniversaries.

There remains the question of ringing on such other occasions as is required, and my intention here is to ask the three London Societies—the College Youths, Cumberlands and London County Association—if they would each nominate three members who would undertake to make themselves available when called upon, with myself to make the number up. I have not approached them officially on the matter, but this appeared to me the most equitable solution.

If the R.A.F. Guild of Ringers is revived, it would seem appropriate for St. Clement Danes' to be regarded as its headquarters, but this can be discussed later on. Personally, I share the views expressed by Ian Oram in the same issue as A. Y.-B.'s article, and I must admit to having never had much liking for ringing organisations whose membership is on a selective basis. It must be remembered, too, that with the approaching end of National Service the number of active members in the future is likely to be very few.

I have shown this letter to the chaplain-in-chief, who is in general agreement with it, and who asks me to add that he is well contented with the arrangements which I am making, and that they have his full support.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT.

WARDENS AND BELLS

Dear Sir,—Too many people accept office as churchwarden for the privilege of walking before the bishop carrying their staff without knowing anything at all of their obligations. The wardens are in fact responsible for the material properties of the church. They must keep accounts of all money and maintain all the property in good repair. The wardens can be held personally responsible for any losses during their term of office; on a visitation by an archdeacon they can be obliged to carry out, or cause to be carried out, any necessary repairs, and they are personally responsible for any debts incurred during their term of office. They are not responsible for any debts incurred before their appointment. How the necessary money is to be raised to meet the debts is the concern of the wardens for the time being, and it was once customary to levy a Church Rate.

It is the business of the parishioners to elect the wardens annually at the parish meeting. Should they be unable to agree the incumbent has power to nominate people to the office, and any person so nominated has no option but to fulfil the duties imposed on him. A warden need not be a communicant or even a Christian.

One of the duties specified by the Act of Parliament is that the wardens shall provide a bell and a rope for the purpose of calling people to worship. This implies that the wardens are responsible for keeping the bells in ringable condition, but they are not responsible for the ringing of them—that is outside their office. The ringing of the bells is the responsibility of the incumbent, and there is abundant precedent for that towards the end of the 18th century.

The communication by M. E. B. on page 272 of 'The Ringing World' of April 25th bristles with irregularities. Wardens have no power to obstruct the ringing of the bells, and well-meaning people are in error in parleying with them over the point. They should consult the incumbent if they wish to ring the bells. Guild officials can only effect repairs to the bells by agreement with the wardens, who have obviously neglected their duty in allowing the bells to fall into disrepair.

The obvious remedy is for the parish to appoint new wardens at the next annual meeting. At the same time it must be observed that archdeacons are frequently very negligent in their visitations where the repair of the bells is concerned.—Yours sincerely,

Leamington Spa. HENRY ALLEN.

CUDDESDON FESTIVAL

Dear Sir,—The Principal of Cuddesdon College, Oxford, will be very glad for any old students who are attending the College festival on Tuesday, June 3rd, to help ring for it beforehand. Will any who can do so kindly be at the Parish Church as near as possible to 10.45 a.m. to ring until 11.30.—Yours faithfully,

Great Yarmouth. GILBERT THURLOW.

Attempt At Doubles Record 'In Hand'

An attempt at the Doubles record of 12,600 will in all probability be made on handbells in about 20 methods at St. Peter's Church, Fairfield, Buxton, Derbyshire, on Whit Monday, writes Brian J. Woodruffe. We hope to keep going as long as possible, and for this reason no definite length is given.

Blunsdon, Wilts

Blunsdon ringers, with other local ringers, had a day's outing on Easter Monday in the North Berks and South Oxfordshire area.

All the towers selected had six bells and included Lechlade, Langford, Aston, Standlake, Northmoor, Stanton Harcourt and finally Stanford-in-the-Vale, where the Vicar and members of his band made the visitors very welcome.

THE CENTENARY OF BIG BEN II.

By RANALD CLOUSTON

AT 7.33 p.m. on Saturday, April 10th, 1858, the furnaces were tapped for the casting of the present Big Ben. The centenary was observed by a number of members of the Newcomen Society, together with their president (Mr. L. E. Harris, A.M.I.Mech.E.), visiting the clock tower in the Palace of Westminster within a few hours of the event. The Society has as its aim the study of the history of engineering and technology, and there can be no doubt that this tower contains much of interest.

The first task was to climb the 230-odd feet to the bells. The staircase fortunately fits into a rectangular section shaft so that one does not get quite so dizzy as when going up or down a circular one. It is regrettable that there is no lift.

Once up to the level of the bells one comes out on to a platform which is open to all the winds that blow. On the day of our visit there was a strong north wind blowing, and as there are no louvres in the windows the conditions were far from pleasant. Big Ben and the four quarter bells are hung dead from an arched, riveted iron structure; the large bell hangs in the centre and the others hang round arranged at the corners of a square. In plan the bells are as a 5 on a domino.

None of the bells have clappers, and the clock hammers have pivots by the crowns and long arms which follow the outside profile of the bells and terminate in heavy hammer heads by the soundbows. This system has the unfortunate disadvantage that lubricating the pivots allows all the surplus oil to drip down over the surface of the bell, and frankly they get into a bit of a mess.

The clock struck on a number of occasions during the visit and the noise among the bells was not particularly objectionable, probably due to the fact that the belfry is so open to the atmosphere that the sound easily escapes.

The particulars of the bells are:—

1st Quarter	1	1			44 3/8	4
2nd Quarter	1	6			48 1/16	4 1/8
3rd Quarter	1	15	1	6	53 15/16	4 7/16
4th Quarter	3	17	3	24	72 1/2	6 1/16
Big Ben II	13	10	3	15	108

The writer's calipers were unfortunately not large enough to get the soundbow thickness of Big Ben.

Two members of the Newcomen Society spoke about the objects of interest in the tower: Mr. S. Clutton on the clock and the writer on the bells.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

Historically, of course, these bells and the associated clock are of great interest, and it may not be out of place to trace the history of the bells connected with the Palace of Westminster.

According to the historian Stow, Edward III built a stone-and-timber tower for St. Stephen's Chapel in the Palace in 1347 and put in it three bells. In 1698 William III gave the tower and its contents to St. Margaret's parish, and the great bell, which weighed 4 tons 2 cwt. 2 qr. 21 lb., was sold to St. Paul's Cathedral at 10d. per pound. This bell was first called 'Edward of Westminster' and later 'Westminster Tom.' On New Year's Day, 1699, this bell, while being conveyed to St. Paul's fell off the carriage by Temple Bar and was cracked. Philip Wightman recast the bell in 1708, and as the result was not a success Richard Phelps, of Whitechapel, recast the bell again in 1716. This is the present hour bell in the south-west tower of St. Paul's Cathedral and weighs 5 tons 4 cwt.

In 1834 the Palace of Westminster was very largely destroyed by fire, and it is said that a fine Flemish bell, cast by Peter van den Ghein I, of Mechlin, in 1540, now in the cloisters at Iona Cathedral, was removed from the ruins.

In 1856 Sir Benjamin Hall, chief commissioner of works, appointed Professor Wheatstone, the Rev. W. Taylor and E. B. Denison, Q.C., as referees to deal with the bells for the new clock tower of the Palace then being built to the designs of Sir Charles Barry. By this time the clock had already been made to the designs of E. B. Denison, Q.C., who was later to become Sir Edmund Beckett, and still later Lord Grimthorpe. To save confusion, the writer has referred to him as E. B. Denison throughout.

CLOCK'S ACCURACY

This clock is still, after over 100 years, one of the finest pendulum-controlled clocks in the world, and when originally made achieved a time-keeping accuracy which till then had been unheard of and which was, in the opinion of some clockmakers, unattainable. Today the accuracy is of the order of a second a day. To E. B. Denison, Q.C., must be given the credit for this achievement, as it was mainly due to his development of the dead-beat escapement that the accuracy was possible. As will appear later, Denison had a considerable impact on the bell-founding industry in England in his day, but the results were not so beneficial or as lasting as his work on clocks.

Denison produced a specification for the bells for the Palace, and tenders were invited from the principal bell-founders. George Mears declined to accept the referees as they had spoken badly of his Royal Exchange rings and of his great bells for York and Montreal.

Taylors gave the lowest quotation, but they wanted some money in advance, and this was considered unacceptable by the referees. Warners quoted but 'required the referees to take the responsibility of giving patterns for the bells, i.e., they confessed that they did not know how to make such large bells of the proper notes; they had previously copied all their bells from existing ones.' Warners' quotation was accepted, and Denison designed the bells for them.

Here it may be appropriate to mention that the largest bell in England at that date was the old Great Peter of York, recast 1927, weighing some 10¾ tons, and the projected weight of the new Westminster hour bell was 14 tons. In addition, as will appear later, the overall height of the new bell could not be allowed to exceed 8 ft. otherwise it would not have been possible to get it up the tower. So Denison took on quite a formidable task in having to decide the profiles and thicknesses of all five bells, with the eyes of nearly all England on him.

In those days (1856) the idea of 5-tone tuning was unknown, as it was only in 1890 that Lord Rayleigh, secretary of the Royal Society, published some notes and observations on the various frequencies emitted by bells, and some seven years later still before Canon Simpson published his celebrated paper on the subject. So in 1856 it was vital that the bell as cast should sound musical, as no one, except the Hemony brothers—and they had been dead nearly 200 years—knew what to do with a bell which was unmusical except to recast it to a different shape. This could be rather expensive with 14-ton bells.

THE TENDER

Warners' tender was for 10 gns. per cwt. (usual price 7 gns.), and they were to recast any of them (unless condemned for bad casting, in which case they were to recast for nothing) for £2 per cwt., and also to cast any small experimental bells for the same rate.

Warners cast the great bell first, and from some mismanagement it came out thicker than the pattern and required a clapper twice as heavy as Denison had reckoned on by analogy with other bells. The clapper weighed 13 cwt. and the bell was 2 ft. diameter by 1 ft. thick vertically; the experimental clock hammer also weighed 13 cwt. and was dropped on to the bell with a 'weight and force equal to one-and-a-quarter tons.' Big Ben I was cast in 1856, weighed 15 tons 18 cwt. 1 qr. 22 lb. without the clapper, was 9⅛ in. thick at the soundbow, 9 ft. 5¼ in. diameter and 7 ft. 10½ in. in overall height.

The referees had a right to reject Big Ben I, but as it was generally praised by those who heard it, the bell was brought from the foundry at Norton-on-Tees to London. The first part of the journey was by rail to West Hartlepool on a Sunday: this day being chosen as the size was such that traffic in the other direction was impossible.

At West Hartlepool the schooner 'Wave' was ready to receive the bell, but when still a foot and more off the deck the shear legs broke and the bell dropped on to the vessel. The 'Wave' had to go into a graving dock for repairs and also to have a new foremast fitted.

16 WHITE HORSES

Eventually Big Ben I arrived at Maudsley's Wharf, London, and was from there drawn to the Palace by 16 white horses. The bell was erected in a timber framework on the ground in Palace Yard, and a print shows ten men pulling a rope tied to the 13 cwt. clapper and clocking the bell. After being sounded occasionally for some weeks the bell was cracked. Some said that the cause was the heavy clapper and others that the two streams of molten metal had not united properly when the bell was being cast. This latter theory was confirmed when a large flaw was found in the bell when being broken up for recasting.

By this time Warners had successfully cast the fourth quarter bell, and there was no intention of taking the recasting work out of their hands. However, they demanded a price for recasting enormously beyond the £2 per cwt., which they had agreed to before, presuming that neither of the other two founders would be employed.

George Mears no longer objected to the referees and this time his offer was accepted. So Big Ben I was put on his side and a 24 cwt. ball of iron was dropped on him repeatedly from a height of 30 ft. until the pieces were of suitable size to cart to Whitechapel.

Denison again designed the new bell, and moulding commenced on December 18th, 1857, being completed by the end of March, 1858. The method used included the making of a full-sized clay bell which was broken up when the cope or outer part of the mould had been completed. The furnaces were fired entirely with wood fuel and the larger pieces of metal were heated for as long as 20 hours. Hot air was blown through the mould for a day before casting commenced, an operation which was said to have been performed for the first time in bell-founding but which was then common for large brass and gunmetal castings. This procedure perhaps derives from the disaster which befell the founder Matthew Bagley and 16 others who were killed when a too-damp mould exploded while ordnance was being cast at Moorfields in 1716. Today, moulds would be baked dry in an oven before casting commenced.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

South Norfolk Branch

The South Norfolk Branch held a successful meeting at Redenhall on April 26th with 40 members and friends attending. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon B. M. Pickering), who also gave the address.

The business meeting was presided over by the Branch chairman (Dr. P. H. A. Jonason), supported by Mr. A. G. Harrison (vice-president), Mr. W. G. Saunders (Branch Ringing Master), Mr. C. F. W. Phillippo (Branch secretary), Miss B. Syrett, Messrs. F. C. Arnold, H. Moss, E. Whiting and W. J. Flatt, members of the committee.

For the next meeting, on July 26th, it was decided to visit Mundford, with an interim meeting at East Harling on June 7th. After the usual votes of thanks, ringing in many methods continued until 9 p.m. C. F. W. P.

Northern Branch

Members of the Northern Branch, meeting at Shipdham on April 19th, heard with regret of the illness of the president (Rev. H. G. Lillingston) and wished him a speedy recovery to health.

Mr. A. G. Bason presided over an attendance of 37 members, and the meeting ratified the election prior to peals of the following: Colin Armitage (Mirfield, Yorks), R. C. Noon and S. E. Bennett (Spalding) and J. D. Kape (High Wycombe). Sheila Curson, Jennifer Glister and Paul Evans, of Norwich, were elected ringing members. The next meeting, on July 12th, will be at Aylsham.

The Vicar (Rev. L. T. W. G. Burleigh) conducted the service and the Rev. F. W. Gilpin gave the address. Methods were practised from Plain Minor to London Surprise.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION

The quarterly meeting and 6-bell contest was held at Kirkheaton on April 19th. Six companies competed, and the judge (Mr. George Perrin) commented that the contest was far below the standard for the Association. The winning company, Cawthorne (10 penalties, 82 faults), rang by far the best, but spoilt themselves with a trip half way through and never regained a sustained beat afterwards.

At the quarterly meeting, the votes of thanks included one to the ladies who provided an excellent tea in the best Yorkshire tradition. The president (Mr. E. Earnshaw) welcomed Batley and Thornhill, who had not entered a contest for a long time, and told them not to be downhearted over the result of their first attempt at competitive ringing. Thornhill volunteered the use of their tower, subject to permission, for the annual meeting.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

In the old tower of Holy Trinity, Queenborough, Isle of Sheppey, the Rochester District made excellent use of the very good ring of six on April 19th, under the guidance of Mr. W. A. J. Knight and Mr. George Kenward.

The lady Mayor attended the service, which was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. H. A. Daws), and the collection for the organ fund amounted to £2 12s. 5d. Some 90 members and friends enjoyed an excellent tea given by the Queenborough ringers.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting, at which nine new members were elected. The meeting favoured a suggestion by Mr. W. A. J. Knight, supported by Mr. G. A. Naylor, of the numbers for each District being printed in the annual report of the K.C.A. The votes of thanks included a special one to Mr. S. Rayfield and other local ringers and their ladies for the excellent tea.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Formation of Mansfield District Suggested

The twelfth annual meeting of the Southwell Diocesan Guild was held at East Retford on April 12th. During the afternoon and evening the bells of St. Swithun's, East Retford; St. Michael-the-Archangel, West Retford; and All Hallows', Ordsall, were open for ringing. Evensong was held in St. Swithun's and was attended by upwards of 50 members and friends.

The business meeting was held in Ebsworth Hall, and in the absence of the chairman was presided over by Mr. F. W. Midwinter. A brief silence was observed in memory of the late Mr. J. H. Brothwell, Mr. W. Clarke and the Rev. C. J. Sturton, who had passed away during the past year.

The hon. treasurer's statement of accounts and balance sheet revealed a satisfactory financial position. A surplus of £17 15s. 1d. was made on the year's working with a total income of £57 3s. 10d. The balance of the Bell Repair Fund stood at £103 18s. 7d., and the balance of the capital account was £136 17s. 3d. Out of the Bell Repair Fund grants of £15 each had been promised to Hucknall Torkard and North Wheatley. A donation of £5 5s. to the Bishop's Appeal Fund for 1958 had been authorised by the committee.

The report of the peal committee showed that 27 peals only had been rung, which was the lowest total since the Guild was formed in 1946.

For better working it was resolved to transfer Mansfield and Mansfield Woodhouse from the Nottingham to the North Notts District.

The hon. general secretary put forward the committee's views on the proposed formation of a separate Mansfield District, comprising the following towers: Mansfield, Mansfield Woodhouse, Warsop, Cuckney, Kirkby-in Ashfield, Edwinstowe, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Selston and Teversall.

This proposal evoked considerable interest. Mr. Ernest Preston thought that the proposed District was adequately covered by the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, and that the standard of ringing in the North Notts Oistrict would suffer by the loss of Warsop.

Mr. H. T. Rooke (Warsop) favoured the recommendation of the Committee to hold a meeting at Mansfield on May 31st to explore the possibility of creating a separate Mansfield District when it would then be possible to see whether there was sufficient interest to carry through the project. The meeting finally endorsed the views of Mr. Rooke.

For the committee, it was explained that there was no intention of trying to cut across the East Derbyshire and Notts Association's domains. The Guild nominally covered the whole of the Diocese of Southwell, and it was only right that the Guild should try and further the art of ringing in the diocese, and the Mansfield area being in an isolated part of the diocese in relation to the other Districts could best be served by a small separate District. Much good work had been accomplished in the Newark area since the formation of a separate Newark District.

The possibility of resuming the annual dinner which was abandoned some years ago was put forward by Mr. Walter Nichols. After some indeterminate discussion, during which little desire to hold a dinner was evinced, it was proposed by Mr. H. T. Rooke, seconded by Mr. Allan Simpson and carried unanimously, that the committee be called to discuss the question of a dinner with power to act.

Mr. J. D. Clarke proposed that the Guild hold quarterly meetings as he thought that more progress would be possible and members would meet each other more often. This proposal was supported by Mr. H. T. Rooke. Mr. J. W. Raithby opposed the idea of a quarterly meeting and suggested a half-yearly meeting as in the Lincoln Guild, and this modification was supported by Mr. George Challans. On a show of hands it was by a majority vote resolved to hold quarterly meetings and to treat the general meeting at Mansfield on May 31st as the first of such meetings.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was moved by the chairman, who then declared the meeting closed. J. W. R.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The spring meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Bridlington on April 26th and attended by over 40 members representing 11 towers. The fine ring of eight was kept going in the afternoon and evening and the service was held in the Priory Church, conducted by the rector (Canon Lamb). During the service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by four ringers from York Minster.

The business meeting followed tea in the new schoolroom, with the vice-president (Mr. A. E. Sellers) in the chair. Three new members were elected—T. Ayre (Bridlington), Miss M. James and Miss M. Verity, of Sutton-on-Hull. Selby was selected for the June meeting, and the usual votes of thanks passed.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE A. WIGHTMAN

Surviving his wife by only a fortnight, the death took place on April 20th of Mr. George A. Wightman.

The son of the late Alfred S. Wightman and brother of Leslie C., George started ringing in his teens with the family at Cretingham, and until 1922 took part in some 60 peals for the Norwich Association.

From then on, owing to his business as a blacksmith and a growing family, his peals were few. For several years he had lived at Woodham Ferrars, and only recently moved to Great Baddow to be nearer his work at Chelmsford. His health deteriorated somewhat since the death of his brother, Les, and he was seriously ill last year. Finally, with his wife taken from him, he contracted pneumonia, and with his asthma was too ill to survive. So ends the last of this great ringing family.

A peal of Superlative on the bells he learnt to ring, composed by his uncle, William, was thought to be an appropriate tribute.

REV. G. C. SEYMOUR METFORD

We regret to learn of the death on April 30th of the Rev. G. C. Seymour Metford, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Shrivenham, who was chairman of the Vale of the White Horse Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild for 16 years until an illness three years ago. He was an active ringer.

As noted, the bell was cast on Saturday, April 10th, 1858—apparently no 5-day weeks in those days; and certainly 7.33 p.m. seems an odd time to begin casting, though much work would have had to be done in the previous 12 hours. On cooling, the bell was removed from the mould, and on May 28th, 1858, was drawn by 16 horses to Palace Yard from Whitechapel, via London Bridge, Borough Road and Westminster Bridge.

The annual meeting of the Leeds and District Amalgamated Society was held at Leeds Parish Church on April 26th and was attended by about 50 members. Ringing commenced before 3 o'clock but was confined to the light eight after the first touch, in which the tenor clapper fell out. Although the striking could have been better, the methods ranged from Plain Bob to London and the beginners rang rounds. Tea was taken at the Roxby Café, and further ringing took place until 7.30 p.m. when the business meeting was held.

Three of the rules (those concerning towers for meetings and membership) were amended, and the following were elected as officials of the Society for the year 1959-60: President, Irvin Slack: vice-presidents, Jack Gibson, Cyril F. Sutcliffe and Douglas Thorp: Ringing Master, Leonard Drake: auditors, Roy Bettley-Cooke and Alfred Johnson; secretary and treasurer, J. Martin Thorley.

ROTHERHAM RINGERS VISIT THE EAST RIDING

On their annual outing on April 26th Rotherham ringers, with friends from Harthill, Thrybergh and Sheffield, visited five Yorkshire towers. Once again the party (30 in number) was composed mainly of young people with a good number of the fair sex. Only one non-ringer attended, and before tea he had been initiated and succeeded in ringing treble to Bob Minor on handbells (in four easy lessons).

After leaving the delightful six at Market Weighton and saying goodbye to Mr. Kneeshaw, the local veteran, the party was soon at Beverley Minster to sample this majestic heavy ten. Opening cautiously with a touch of Little Bob Royal, rounds and Bob Major for the youngsters followed, and Mr. Osgerby, the tower captain, kindly conducted about half the party to see Great John in the other tower. After Grandsire Caters, the ringing concluded with Yorkshire Major on the back eight.

After an excellent lunch at the Beverley Arms Hotel, St. Mary's Parish Church was visited and Stedman Caters and other methods rung. During the hour's journey to Norton (North Yorks) the party recuperated sufficiently to really enjoy some good ringing at the Parish Church.

As is often the case, fatigue was beginning to set in by the time the party reached the last tower (Selby Abbey). Nevertheless, good use was made of this melodious ring of bells.

In expressing thanks to the organisers (Mr. F. Fisher and Mr. N. Chaddock), one of the visiting ringers remarked how surprised he was to find the party never more than three minutes off schedule. N. C.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Nine towers were represented at the quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch held at Upwey on April 19th. The Guild service was taken jointly by the Rector (Rev. A. S. Bryant) and the Branch chairman (Rev. S. P. Rowcroft), the address being given by the Rector.

After tea there was the business meeting, conducted by the chairman. Silent tribute was paid to two members who had died since the last meeting — the Rev. E. S. Tarrant (past chairman) and Mr. F. Preecy (past Ringing Master).

The chairman announced that Mr. H. Ford (Ringing Master) had been married earlier in the day, and best wishes were expressed to him.

The hon. secretary (Mr. R. H. Duke) gave the arrangements for the Guild festival at Dorchester on May 17th and appealed for support. The next meeting was arranged for Abbotsbury on July 5th, and Branch practices will be: May 3rd, St. Peter's, Dorchester: 31st, Wool: June 14th, Litton Cheney: 28th, Puddletown: July 12th, Milton Abbey: 26th, Preston.

SNETTISHAM BELLS TO BE HUNG FOR CHIMING

'The Eastern Daily Press' reported recently that a faculty had been granted for the removal of the six bells from the tower at Snettisham, Norfolk, for the recasting of three of them, and for their rehanging in the tower for chiming only.

The Parochial Church Council had earlier decided to recast all six bells and hang them for ringing, but it had since rejected this scheme. Mr. J. H. Ellison, Chancellor of the Consistory Court, said that the financial aspect had made him decide to grant a faculty allowing the bells to be chimed only. Repairs of greater priority would soon have to be done, and he could not tell the parish to spend the bulk of its money on the bells. The faculty would therefore allow the bells to be chimed, provided that the structure was so designed that when more money was to hand it could be altered to allow the bells to be rung.

The Vicar (Rev. W. M. Abernethy) said he supported chiming because ringing would constitute a danger to the structure of the tower spire. Further, the ringers would either have to stand in the chancel almost outside the sanctuary, or would have to use the old belfry, reached by a narrow parapet on the church roof.

Mr. M. B. Hull, the architect, stated that the cost would be £1,500 to £1,700 to hang the six for ringing, whereas only £700 to £800 would be needed to hang them for chiming.

All six bells were, according to L'Estrange, cast by Thomas Newman in 1710, and they have been unringable for some years now. As ringers, we can only hope that sufficient money will be found at some future date to enable these bells to be hung for ringing. T. S. B.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2459 Vol. LIV. FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

HEREFORDSHIRE INTERLUDE

IN the afterglow of Easter, a beneficent fate and an equally kind invitation from a very old friend took us in haste to a far corner of Herefordshire. Here, where the long fertile furrows of Dore and Dulas pour their streams to the Monnow, the village of Ewyas Harold nestles neat and compact beneath the great whaleback of its Common, with the long grey curves of the Black Mountains running as a vast wall to the south-west. Behind these forbidding, melancholy undulations is found the exquisite beauty of the valleys of the Grwyne Fechan and Grwyne Fawr, and the Honddu Valley sheltering Llanthony and leading over the Gospel Pass to the magnificent view beyond Hay and the Wye.

The little church of Ewyas Harold, standing in its trim churchyard bordered by the Dulas Brook running cleanly in its gully, is a pleasant sight, and the sturdy little grey tower, capped with a cheerful spirelet of red tiles, seems to invite the visitor and to hold promise of welcome and good fellowship. And so it proved, indeed, to us as soon as we came to meet Mr. Herbert Kennard and his friendly band at the Thursday evening practice. The bells make a melodious ring of six, and it was our introduction to them to take part in one of the longest 'raisings' we have ever known. Change-ringing, handicapped greatly by the situation of the village and by causes not uncommon in rural areas, has not advanced very far, but we were able to compass some plain courses of Grandsire Doubles, in the mastery of which the band is progressing slowly but with great determination.

To us, who are surrounded with manifold opportunities for ringing practice and with what may be regarded as ample means to extend our change-ringing experience, there must be compassion for these rather lonely holders of the outposts of the Exercise. For them there is no easy transition from village to town belfry, no ready forgathering with companies of more able ringers and, of course, no standards by which to judge their own style and execution. It is verily a matter for marvel that in such difficult and often discouraging circumstances work goes on with determination and incredible patience in the effort to master this elusive art of change-ringing and so minister the better to the service of the church they love so well. And the hearty welcome extended to the visitor is a sobering experience, bringing a tinge of sorrow that we have so much while they have so little.

And yet, have they so little?

It fell out that on the day following we stood among the quiet beauties of the Cathedral of Hereford, and there we fell in with Mr. Gittins who, having expounded for us some unusual features of the famous Mappa Mundi and shown to us some novel brass rubbings, offered us the freedom of the tower, and this at a time when no ordinary visitors were allowed to ascend. And so from the north transept we climbed the stair, traversed the roof vaulting to the triforium, and so aloft to the upper air.

The city lay below us free from smoke, and the spires of All Saints' and St. Nicholas' rose above the roofs. The river wound so peacefully about the fringe of the town that it seemed on this day to be asleep. Far to the east the Malvern Hills were a dim shadow, and the northern distances were lost in haze. But to the south were the great hills of the Wye: the hump of wooded Dinedor, the tricorn of Orcop dotted with the knobs of trees, and the vast symmetrical sweep of Garway crowned with a lonely ruin. This chain of magnificent upland led the eye away and away into the valley of Monnow, to the truncated crest of the Sugar Loaf and that seemingly impenetrable grey bastion of the Black Mountains. Down there, in the quiet loveliness of the Dulas Valley, was our little village, one of many such, living its quiet life out and away from the noise and bustle of industry, and ringing its bells to the best of its ability for the glory of God. They have, indeed, much that we cannot have.

What can we do to help them? Little, perhaps, directly. Our visit may provide encouragement to renewed effort, and there are, of course, books and pamphlets we may introduce them to. But the way is hard and the task formidable. Nevertheless, courage is high, and each hard-won success is greeted with joy. So, on the last night of our stay, as the sound of Ewyas bells comes sweetly to us round the angle of the Common and buffets back to us from the surrounding hills, we seem to hear in the familiar thirty changes a note of defiance, a manifestation, as it were, of indomitable will, a determination to win this struggle and to become change-ringers. May these efforts not go unrewarded.

130 MILES IN LANCASHIRE

Nine ringers had an enjoyable trip in two cars, covering a distance of 130 miles on April 19th. The starting point was Heywood, and one young enthusiast was so eager for the fray that he arrived at one house before the driver of one of the cars had left his bed!

The first tower was the R.C. Church of St. Mary (8), Chorley, and then the main A6 road was followed to Brindle—a completely concealed village and a church containing two bells cast about A.D. 1300 in its ring of six. At Kirkham there are two churches—the Parish Church of St. Michael and the R.C. Church of St. John.

From Kirkham the route led to the heart of the Fylde District; and the delightful eight of St. Anne's, which were only cast about two years ago, were well worth a visit. A short stay at Blackpool allowed sufficient time to ring at Holy Trinity, South Shore, and St. John's, North Shore. At St. Chad's, Poulton-le-Fylde, the ringing from the ground floor drew the attention of a mixed audience.

The six at Singleton and also St. Leonard's, Walton-le-Dale (8), were visited, and at the latter tower a spot of excitement was provided by the rope of the seventh breaking. The best ringing of the day came at All Saints', Higher Walton. Unfortunately, the tourists arrived late at St. Laurence's, Chorley; had they been on time they would have managed the 12 towers.

Ringing included Plain Bob, Little Bob, Duffield, Kent and Oxford Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and various Minor methods including Cambridge. Thanks are accorded to the organiser, drivers and people who gave permission to ring.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

In spite of the College Youths' spring meeting at Cambridge there was a good attendance at the Northern District meeting at Hinxworth on May 3rd. After the ringing, the Rev. V. Roos conducted the service and Mrs. Roos played the harmonium.

They stopped for tea, but not the business meeting, at which Mr. L. Blackburn (Pirton) and Miss J. Harris (St. Ippolyts) were elected ringing members. The election of Mr. I. Oram (Lee, London) was confirmed. Next month's meeting will be at Knebworth. Because of the poor attendance last time, only those who send their names to Mr. Marks will be able to have tea. It is hoped that many will come.

More ringers arrived later, and methods of all kinds were enjoyed, including the special method, Ipswich Surprise Minor. J. S.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

The fine weather brought many visitors from distances to the spring meeting of the Andover District, held at Longparish on April 19th. The Rector (the Rev. Mr. Agg-Sage) conducted the service and presided at the business meeting which followed tea. Eight new honorary members were elected on the proposition of Mr. Wimpey, of Abbot's Ann, bringing his total to 20; surely a record for a small village. Future events are: Meeting at Abbot's Ann on July 19th and practice meeting on May 31st at four towers—St. Marybourne, Whitchurch (tea), Longparish and Hurstbourne Priors. Evening ringing included that on the heavy six at Hurstbourne Priors.

THE VETERAN OF KERESLEY, WARWICKS

Starting to ring in 1899 when 14 years of age, Mr. Walter Ensor rang call-changes until 1937 when the leadership of St. Thomas' Church, Keresley, was given to the late Charles Webb. By no little effort on Mr. Webb's part, the band was taught to ring Grandsire, and Walter became a good treble ringer. His only peal was Grandsire Doubles in 1939, with his brother-in-law, Sid Oughton, and his nephew, Jack Oughton, calling from the tenor.

Because of indifferent health at the end of the war, Walter gave up ringing until six years ago. With his health better he has been a punctual and regular attender twice on Sundays ever since. He despaired of getting beyond the observation bell in Grandsire, but the writing out of whole six-scores and the encouragement of more experienced ringers enabled him to master the method. Unfortunately, an injury to a shoulder prevents his hands rising at back-stroke as of yore.

As his 73rd birthday approached he expressed a wish to ring to mark the occasion. On April 29th a quarter of 1,260 Grandsire Doubles was rung by Miss T. I. Bowcutt 1, W. A. Stote (conductor) 2, W. Ensor 3, H. Folwell 4, R. D. Hart 5. There were only two clips to mar the performance. Well done, Walter! May he be spared for many years to come to carry out the task he loves, of ringing the bells of Keresley on Sundays. W. A. S.

BROMLEY, KENT.—On April 27th, at the Parish Church, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: Patricia Baillie (first quarter) 1, S. Ann Thoday 2, H. M. Williamson 3, Helen M. Thoday 4, M. F. Oakshett 5, D. J. R. Martin 6, B. D. Threlfall (cond.) 7, P. J. Spice 8. For the Scout service.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. C. W. Denyer, of Farnham, is the new Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, succeeding Mr. A. Harman who has held the office for 15 years. The unsuccessful nominee at the Guildford Diocesan Guild annual meeting on Saturday was Mr. Harold Pitstow. In recognition of his services, Mr. Harman was elected a vice-president of the Guild.

The peal of 5,058 Stedman Caters (see page 299) starts at backstroke.

The quarter peal of Undershaft rung at Oxford may well be the first in the method. The calling is confined to 'Go' and 'That's all,' and this is felt to be too small a job to designate anyone as conductor. The initial impetus was given by Mr. J. G. Pusey.

The Ladies' Guild scored another peal last Friday at Ash, Surrey—of Plain Bob Minor, called by Miss Ann N. Cox. It is believed to be the first peal for the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild.

The band who rang 39 Spliced Treble Bob Minor at Chapel-en-le-Frith, Derbyshire, on May 3rd, would like to claim that they are the youngest band to ring a peal of 'Spliced.' The average age was 16¼ years, and the band included three 14-year-olds and a 15-year old!

Secretary of the Guildford Diocesan Guild since 1938, Mr. G. L. Grover retired on Saturday. The new hon. secretary and treasurer is Mr. S. Russell, of Orchard Cottage, Ash Hill Road, Ash. Miss R. Hide replaces Miss W. Oliver as assistant hon. secretary.

In honour of the Festival of Wales a peal of Grandsire Triples was attempted at St. John's Church, Cardiff, on May 3rd, but after the end of the third part someone entered the belfry and attention was diverted, with the resulting loss of concentration and the peal.

Mr. D. Hoare, of 13, Coombend, Radstock, Bath, is the new diocesan secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association. Mr. Roger O. Fry, who had held the office for five years, received honorary life membership as a tribute to his work at the Association's annual meeting at Minehead.

From the latest copy of 'Ringing Towers' to reach our office, Melbourne ringers, after a visit to Ballaarat Town Hall, are confident that a peal could be scored on these bells.

Mr. Brian J. Woodruffe, of 66, Rockfield Road, Fairfield, Buxton, hopes to arrange a young ringers' tour in Oxfordshire this year (with peals). Teenage ringers interested are asked to communicate with him.

We welcome back to our peal columns Mr. C. F. Sargeant, of Burwell, Cambs. He has made a remarkable recovery from his serious road accident last September. His ringing friends wish him many more happy peals.

Mr. Claude Corderoy, who 'completed the circle' when ringing the seventh in the peal at Blewbury, Berks, on May 3rd, is the first Blewbury ringer to do so. The only other ringer ever to 'complete the circle' was the late R. G. (Dick) Rice, who did so in June, 1924, nearly 34 years ago.

Leigh Sinton handbell team by their latest tune ringing performance at the Botanical Gardens, Edgbaston, completed their 150th engagement. The team have been ringing together continuously for nine years. The fine-toned two-octave ring of bells was made by Mr. Frank Barnett, the leader. By the efforts of the team some years ago over £70 was raised towards the rehanging of the bells of Leigh Church, of which they are ringers, and also are members of the Worcestershire and Districts Association.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

1,118 Ringing Members

THE annual general meeting was held at Barrow-in-Furness on April 26th. The day's proceedings commenced with ringing at St. Mary's (10), Dalton-in-Furness, St. Mary's (6), Ulverston, and St. James' (8), Barrow-in-Furness.

The annual service was held in St. James's School and was conducted by the Rev. C. P. Stannard, assisted by his curate. The president (Rev. R. D. St. John Smith) read the lesson.

Tea was enjoyed in St. James's Parish Hall, after which the annual meeting was held. Apologies were received from C. W. Blakey, Peter Crook, the Rev. P. T. Robbins and P. H. Derbyshire.

A comprehensive report on the Woodhouse ringing machine was given by Mr. Cyril Crosthwaite, and was accepted.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS

Mr. P. H. Derbyshire was the successful candidate for vice-president, for a term of two years. There was only one nomination for general secretary—Mr. F. Dunkerley, and the president duly declared him elected. Mr. Dunkerley assured the meeting that he would work for the best interests of the Association, and thanked the members for their renewed confidence.

The report of the committee, which was accepted, stated the matter of the broadcast of Priory Church bells, Lancaster, was left in the hands of the president, the committee voicing their disapproval of bells being rung electrically.

The Association's membership was made up as follows: Hon. life members 66, new 3; non-resident members 572, new 26; ringing members 1,118, new 106.

The ringing secretary's report for 1957 stated that a total of 117 peals had been rung, a slight increase on last year. One peal of Plain Bob Major published was not claimed in the total, reducing the number to 116. Twenty-eight members rang their first peal, 133 their first in some particular method or on higher numbers or 'in hand'; 258 members took part in the total and 39 shared in conducting.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations were offered to Messrs. F. Dunkerley on ringing his 200th peal for the Association, E. C. Birkett his 175th, C. Crosthwaite and T. Barker their 125th, C. Clegg his 100th, B. A. Tomlinson, N. Smith, A. Capstick, G. E. Braithwaite, A. V. Williams and Miss M. Walshaw their 50th.

Firsts in the method for the Association were Huncoat Alliance Bob Major and Hereward Bob Major, St. James's, Accrington; Langley S.M., St. Nicholas', Liverpool; Belgrave S.M. ('in hand'), Yorkshire S.M. ('in hand'), Manchester; Ashbourne College Bob Major, St. James's, Birch-in-Rusholme. The report was accepted. The balance sheet and auditors' report was accepted.

It was resolved that 'Any member with 50 years' unbroken membership in the Association will automatically become a life member.'

The following ringing members were transferred to life membership: Mr. George Staff, Milnrow, Mr. Thomas Johnson, Padiham, and Mr. Herbert Davenport, Walsden.

Mr. Ivan Kay, on behalf of the Rochdale Branch, invited the Association to hold their next annual general meeting at Todmorden on the last Saturday in April, 1959, which was accepted.

A vote of thanks was proposed to all those who had in any way contributed to the success of the meeting.

IRISH ASSOCIATION'S PRESIDENT'S GREETINGS

Mr. William Pratt, of Holywood, Co. Down, the president of the Irish Association of Change Ringers, sends the following message of greeting to Mr. Frederick Sharpe (president) and the members of the Central Council:—

Dear Mr. Sharpe,—As president of the Irish Association of Change Ringers I wish, on behalf of the Executive Council and the members, to extend to you and the Central Council a most hearty welcome to Ireland for your annual meeting. As this is the first of the Central Council, we hope that it will be well attended and that you have a pleasant meeting.

I can assure you that the Irish ringers are looking forward to your visit, and also that they will do all in their power to make this a memorable occasion. You can be sure of an Irish welcome wherever you go.

We hope this visit will give your ringers an opportunity of meeting the ringers of this country and that it may induce more parties to visit us during the summer. The general and District secretaries will be very glad to make arrangements for any bands who decide to have a ringing tour in Ireland.

Except in the cities, the towers for ringing are fairly scattered about, but as some compensation there is very pretty country to see.

Change ringing is not widely practised here, though most towers are interested; the main difficulty is lack of suitable instructors in remote areas: this visit should give greatly increased interest in change ringing.—Yours sincerely,

WM. PRATT.

Funeral Of The Rev. G. C. Seymour Metford

The funeral service for the Rev. G. C. Seymour Metford, Vicar of Shrivenham for 26 years, whose death at the age of 64 was briefly recorded in our last issue, took place on May 3rd. The Lord Bishop of Reading officiated and the congregation of 300 people which filled the church included many ringing friends. Miss M. Cross (general secretary) represented the Oxford Diocesan Guild. The bells were rung muffled as the procession walked to Shrivenham Cemetery for the interment.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

THE final contest in the striking competition for the Murphy Cup took place at Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, on May 3rd, and was won by St. Peter's, Drogheda, with 39 faults, followed by Mount St. Alphonsus, Limerick (the holders), 50 faults, and St. Mark's, Dundela, Belfast, 53 faults. The judges were Messrs. W. Pratt, F. Bogan and H. Johnson, and the Ringing Masters were Miss Jean Stewart and Mr. Cyril Galbraith. The cup was presented by Mrs. F. E. Dukes.

The executive council also met at Christ Church and adopted the annual report and statement of accounts. A reference to the Central Council's visit stated that a Dublin committee consisting of one representative from each Dublin tower was dealing with local arrangements. A good response had been received from various towers by way of promises of financial help and general co-operation. 'The Council's visit coincides with the 60th anniversary of the foundation of the Irish Association, which has never been so strong, and we trust that the Council's visit will result in a resurgence of change-ringing in Ireland and a knitting of friendships which will last for time immemorial.'

The membership of the Association on December 31st was life 31, honorary 4, ringing 351, non-resident 120; total 490.

The report of the 'Irish Bell News' stated that although the Irish circulation dropped the 'foreign' circulation was up. A balance of 4s. 7½d. was carried forward.

The following were elected to the various offices: President, William Pratt, Holywood; vice-presidents, David Benson, Harold Johnson and the Rev. E. G. Parke; Master and librarian, Robert S. F. Bovenizer; editorial committee, 'Irish Bell News,' F. E. Dukes (editor), Miss J Stewart, G. Bingham and Mrs. F. E. Dukes.

Both From Same School

The election of Mr. H. Neill to the Mastership of the Cambridge University Guild, announced last week, would seem to herald a period of unprecedented calm between the two University Societies, since he and the Master of the Oxford University Society (Mr. R. N. Pittman) are both Old Brentwoods and ringing members of the S.W. District of the Essex Association. They hope to organise a 'school' peal this summer, and ask any O.B. ringer, of whom they do not know, to contact either of them.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

Annual Tour, April 5th to 11th

THIS year's tour was based on Bath, and we arrived cold and miserable, especially after Cassandra had disclosed that a peal of 10-spliced Surprise Major rung at the end of the previous term had been proved false. After a visit to the Baths, the evening was taken up by the bridge fiends, who played most nights until after midnight. All praise, however, to the two bridge players who on Easter Sunday attended the 7 a.m. service at Bath Abbey. The Abbey is now having a wash and brush up and looks very fine.

After breakfast we rang at Bathwick, where the lateness of the sixth was impressed on its ringer, and the Abbey, where an ex-Master was seen hanging on the tenor rope unable to pull the bell off. Another group went to Weston and found that Cambridge and London were both after the bells in August, and a further group visited St. Saviour's Church. During the rest of the day long walks over the surrounding hills and visits to the Roman Baths were taken and paid. In the evening most members visited Twerton, where we were welcomed by Roger Fry. He was a great help to the Society and he joined us for other days.

IN PAIRS

On Monday we set off a little late towards Wiltshire. We rang first on the Holy Trinity bells at Bradford-on-Avon. The raise was delayed by a suspected fault in the clock mechanism, and we explored a beautiful Saxon church. It was on leaving Bradford that we realised our organiser could not count, and we arranged ourselves in pairs so that one would prevent the coach leaving the other behind. But even this was not enough. On Wednesday Roger Fry found a lost bus wandering down the London road which had left Colin behind. When Colin was found and the coach came to pick the main party up, it left without our engaged couple. No one noticed until they turned up at the first tower and were asked: 'Why did you stay in the churchyard so long? We wanted you for Spliced.'

To return to Monday: we rang next at Melksham before and after a service. The unexpected service was welcomed by coffee drinkers, but it shortened the available time on the bells, which at 18 cwt. were a weight we were used to (the average weight was 27 cwt.). Later at Trowbridge the 12 Cambridge Maximus ringers looked at one another and insisted on ringing Little Bob. We tried to get lunch in Trowbridge but a Bank Holiday had closed all the cafes. Most of us had sandwiches in a pub with draught cider at 9d. a pint.

In the afternoon we rang at Westbury. The sight of the belfry alone is worth a visit as it is beautifully kept and decorated. The sound of the bells is excellent, too, but they need a good band to ring Cambridge. One member was offered dinner by Roger Fry because he said that he could ring Cambridge better at Twerton. We finished by ringing at Mells and Wellow—another well-kept belfry with a 21 cwt. tenor which goes like 12, except when turning round, as was demonstrated in a course of London.

A WEDDING PEAL

The next day we marked Wilf and Peter's marriages with a peal of Stedman Caters at Evercreech. Bill Jackson, after a mysterious false start, and an attempt to make us ring 5,017 changes, called an excellent 5,019. The band was mainly of old members, but Colin and Dermot scored their first peals on ten bells.

Meanwhile, the coach visited Ditcheat and Shepton Mallet before returning to pick the peal band up. The band was found just starting lunch (and a good lunch, too), so we were rather late at Yeovil. But we scored a course of Cambridge Royal and our usual Stedman Caters. (One girl rang by her own choice nothing in two days but Stedman and a single course of London.) We then moved on to Queen Camel bells, which were greatly enjoyed. Bill Jackson turned the tenor in and we ended with a beautiful lower, except that the ringer of the fourth made ineffectual efforts to chime his bell, saying: 'It's too heavy.'

A DISGRACEFUL EXHIBITION

In the evening we visited Bath Abbey, and another ex-Master was seen vainly hanging on the tenor rope. This tower saw the one disgraceful exhibition of the tour, for when a band for Stedman Caters was assembled they pulled off in the order 12345617238954×61, etc., and even when order was restored and we started changes it was not long before the conductor had to call off the unequal struggle. Even when the peal band took hold the improvement was only slight, and we had the mortification of seeing the local ringers having no difficulty. Fortunately a course of Bristol and a bob course of Grandsire saved our reputation. Later David Hoare entertained us with tape-recordings of the Abbey and other musical rings.

Next day, after a good ring at Twerton, we rang at Chewton Mendip. Here, after two breakdowns in Ealing, we replaced the ringers on 7-8 and went through a course well struck except for the fourth and fifth leads, where the seventh rang Lindum. These bells were excellent but we had to move on. The Wykehamists insisted on culture by seeing a Cheddar cave, taking with them a stooge who is always being asked if he is a Wykehamist (manners makyth man?). The rest of the party went on for lunch in Wells where they found crowded cafes. The result was that the deviationists arrived (after eating bread and Cheddar cheese on the bus) at St. Cuthbert's before the believers in promptitude. We rang next for service in the Cathedral and greatly enjoyed a half-course of Cambridge Royal. We returned via Radstock where the bells were a pleasant reminder of the previous O.U.S. tour of Somerset.

On Thursday, leaving Shirley Rymer behind with a poisoned finger, we rang at Chew Magna and Wrington before going to Yatton, where we admired the tone of the seventh (dated 1451) and the view from the truncated spire. In the afternoon a jaded band attempted a peal of Cambridge at Backwell. They failed. Reunited, we had supper in Bristol and then rang at Corston. Here Ruth How rang the tenor to Oxford Bob Triples, and we were able to re-acclimatise ourselves to light bells.

Even the bridge fiends were too tired to play that night, but your correspondent, in an effort to obtain more spicy copy, swapped gossip until 1 a.m. Unfortunately, he cannot recall any of it. So ended a memorable tour. We would thank Colin Taylor, Roger Fry and all our hosts in Somerset for a wonderful week.

RESTORATION

Orsett, Essex

On April 19th a service of thanksgiving for the restoration of the bells of St. Giles and All Saints', Orsett, was conducted by the Archdeacon of Southend (Ven. W. N. Welch). The large congregation included the Lord Lieutenant of Essex (Sir Francis Whitmore), accompanied by Lady Whitmore, Mr. John Crampion (Master of the S.W. Division of the Essex Association) and Mr. Frank Gant (hon. secretary, Essex Association). The bells were rung both before and after the service, and there were many favourable comments on their handiness.

The work was by Mr. Harry Parkes, of Mears and Stainbank, who has worked miracles with the old, rough-going six.

The sermon was preached by the Archdeacon, who quoted from the last three paragraphs of Mr. Heazel's letter in the Essex Association report, urging ringers to set a living example within the Church. The organist (Mr. L. Shaw) tape-recorded some of the ringing, which was played back to the ringers before they left the church.

About ten young people are at present receiving instruction on a tied bell, and it is hoped soon to be able to ring the bells for Sunday service.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT

One of the most popular fixtures of the year of the Sheffield and District Society was that held at St. Leonard's, Thrybergh, on May 3rd, when several towers competed for the Society's silver cup. The teams assembled in bright sunshine outside the pleasant church, and ringing commenced at 3.30 p.m. A high standard of ringing was maintained by all the bands.

The very refreshing tea provided by the local lady ringers was followed by the business meeting, during which the judges (Mr. J. Thorley and Mr. S. Scattergood) announced the results of the afternoon's contest. The order of the first three was as follows: Handsworth, Rotherham and Sheffield Cathedral. The Vicar (Rev. J. K. Dixon, M.A.) presented the cup to Mr. J. E. Turley, owing to the absence of the Ringing Master (Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert) who had to leave early.

After the meeting the ringing was continued in a variety of methods, and Mr. F. Brunt was congratulated on the ability of his latest recruits who rang rounds and call-changes, the youngest of them being nine years old.

The next meeting will be held at Penistone on June 7th.

POWER OF CO-OPTION

Dear Sir,—Mr. Wilfrid Wilson is mistaken in thinking that 'The Ringing World' Committee has not the power to co-opt members. The minutes of the 1951 meeting held at Chester recorded that 'It was also agreed to appoint a new committee, consisting of J. F. Smallwood, F. I. Hairs, J. T. Dyke and H. J. Poole, with power to co-opt.' Mr. R. S. Anderson was co-opted under this authority in 1954.

The specific mention of this power in Rule 11 (2) relating to the Standing Committee arises from the fact that this rule reproduces part of a standing committee's report made in 1933. It was added to the Council's rules in 1956 as the result of a recommendation of the Handbook Sub-committee in 1955.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT,
Secretary to the Council.

IRISH ASSOCIATION — N.R.L. MEMBERS

Dear Sir,—At the meeting of the Executive Council of the Irish Association of Change Ringers, held in Dublin on May 3rd, it was decided that the names of any non-resident life members whose whereabouts are unknown should be removed from the books at the end of the present year.

Will any person knowing the present whereabouts of the following communicate with me, and at the same time give present address: P. Davis (Lichfield), R. Judd (Gloucester), W. and R. Simpson (Framlingham), G. A. Smith (Tunstall), W. G. Thompson (Tunstall), W. Wakeley (Dawlish) and J. W. Washbrook, jun. (Manchester).—Yours, etc.,

CARTER'S ODD-BOB PEAL

Dear Sir,—With regard to the composition of 5,040 Stedman Triples by J. Carter, published in 'The Ringing World' No. 2,455 (April 18th, 1958, page 255), as part of Mr. E. Jenkins' letter on this subject, prompts me to ask if this is, after all, the real or original odd-bob peal. I do not believe it is, because of its opening course, which contains a run of four calls.

On page 68 of the Davies 'Stedman,' published in the Snowdon series (my copy dated 1903), is an odd-bob peal accompanied by two descriptive paragraphs, the first of which begins: 'Some considerable time after this chapter was written, Mr. Carter sent the following peal . . .' The second begins: 'In this interesting, original and exceedingly able peal there are never more than three calls in succession.'

This composition is repeated in Trollope's 'Stedman' on page 58, and contains 420 calls, the number of calls in the recently-published peal is 421. In the Davies/Trollope peal, there is a course-calling designated 'E,' i.e., bobs at 1, 3, 5, 7, 11, which is not included in the latter peal (the misprint in this having been noted).

So we have by the same composer two distinct and intricate peals, each claiming the title of 'Carter's Odd-Bob.' Which has the soundest claim?—Yours truly,

FRANK E. DARBY.

YOUTH MUST BE TRAINED

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. Cooke, may well ask 'What of the night?' What, indeed! Is it not obvious that any band which for years will tolerate nothing but the best, is undermining the chances of its own existence? I do not advocate the tolerance of inferior ringing, but surely any band that is to survive these periods of darkness, described in Mr. Cooke's letter, must be forever fortifying its ranks with new blood and, as a result, must be prepared to accept a lower standard of performance.

There are, alas, a number of bands of ringers, renowned for their abilities, in whose towers the clappers are never tied. They have no need to teach the rudiments of ringing, drawing their recruits, as they do, from the less accomplished bands in their locality. But for the majority it must always be a question of teaching an endless stream of learners in order to maintain a strong and proficient band. It is, I feel, also very important that several age groups should be represented so that when internal strife besets a band, as it has at Branston, the chances are that only certain sections will be affected.

Therefore, Mr. Cooke, I challenge you, and your few remaining colleagues, to forget the standards of the past, which, in the circumstances, can stand for very little, and train a new band, drawing your recruits from the youth which abounds in all our parishes. Then, and only then, can the darkness be overcome.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN VERNON.

FIRST LADIES' PEAL IN SUFFOLK

Dear Sir,—May I correct the statement made in the report of the Suffolk Guild's annual general meeting concerning the first ladies' peal to be rung in Suffolk—this was rung 20 years ago on July 17th, 1938, at Higham St. Mary in Suffolk and was conducted by Hilda Snowden and myself.

It is correct to say that the peal at Polstead (the one referred to in the report) was the first all-ladies' peal for the Suffolk Guild, ours having been rung for the Ladies' Guild to mark the inauguration of a new Eastern District.—Yours faithfully,

SYLVIA R. E. PIPE.

HILLINGDON PEAL

Dear Sir,—I am much obliged to Miss Overend for her explanation of the curious way in which the date was written on the Hillingdon peal tablet. My friend, Frank Blagrove, had offered a somewhat similar solution. I can assure Miss Overend that the date on the tablet was 1737/8. The original writing has now been cleaned off, the tablet restored and it awaits the signwriter.—Yours sincerely,

FRED W. GOODFELLOW.

BELFRY PRAYERS

Dear Sir,—I have had so many requests for copies of the above that I have had to duplicate extra copies. These contain an additional six prayers, making 15 in all.

I will gladly send copies to anyone who forwards a stamped addressed envelope. —Yours sincerely,

GLOUCESTER GUILD OF RINGERS' OUTING

At the first tower, St. Lawrence's Church, Bidford-on-Avon (8, tenor 14 cwt. 24 lb.), the bells were raised in peal and touches of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were brought round successfully.

Unfortunately the day's worst ringing took place at St. Nicholas' Church, Warwick (8), and we must apologise to the Warwick community for any discomfort which they suffered when our learners were ringing. We hope that the following touch of Major appeased them. Lunch was had at Warwick and then we made our way to Southam (8), where much better ringing took place and Triples and Major were rung quite well.

On then to Banbury, where, after tea, the day's best ringing took place on the ten at St. Mary's Church. Caters, Major and Triples were rung well here, which was quite surprising, as many had not rung on ten before. A very fine lower in peal followed and concluded the day's ringing. Finally, at a very nice country hostelry many members refreshed themselves and joined in a glorious sing-song with one or two of the 'locals.'

Our grateful thanks are due to our secretary (Miss Peggy Clark) and the chairman (Mr. Michael Ling), who made a wonderful job in organising the outing. P. T. H.

Chew Deanery Activities

A well-attended quarterly meeting was held at Kingston Seymour (6) on April 19th, with a service conducted by the Rector (Rev. P. W. R. Rowlands).

Following the usual 'high standard' tea (which we always get in this corner of the Branch), the Rector presided at the business meeting, and his ample store of humorous anecdotes enlivened the proceedings. One new member from Yatton and three from Wrington were elected. Subject to permission, the next quarterly meeting will be at Portishead in July, with practices for May and June at Weston-in-Gordano and Chew Magna respectively. Mr. L. Derrick suggested that a collection should be taken at quarterly meetings to be given to the church visited, and this was agreed.

The Branch Corporate Communion was held at Wrington on April 27th, and the ringing was of a high standard. The large company of ringers joined the parishioners for Communion, when the celebrant was the Rector (Rev. B. Lee). We were joined at an excellent breakfast in the parish room by one of the churchwardens, and a special word of welcome was also accorded to our newly-appointed general secretary. Ringing was afterwards resumed for the 11.15 a.m. service. M. J. H.

SUMMER COURSE WANTED

Dear Sir,—To help those, as myself, who can only ring one method, would it not be possible to run an annual summer course on change ringing? If the course lasted a week and was held in the mornings at the centre of some popular holiday area people would then be able to couple it with their holidays. Of course, it would have to be divided into advanced and elementary methods, at least, but I should think that such a course would prove very popular.—Yours sincerely,

K. G. E. WANNELL.

THE CENTENARY OF BIG BEN II.

Sir Charles Barry, the architect of the new Palace, fixed the weight of Big Ben I, but he did not appear to have realised that a bell of about 14 tons would have a diameter of 9 ft. or so and would thus require a shaft in the tower of at least 9 ft. by 9 ft. The shaft he designed and which had then been built was 11 ft. 4 in. by 8 ft. 2 in., and so Big Ben could not be raised in a normal mouth-downwards position, and worse—the bell had to be specially designed so that the overall height was less than 8 ft. This allowed Big Ben to be put on his side in a timber cradle and with the timber protective lining of the shaft fit into the 8 ft. 2 in. dimension of the latter. This cradle was then hoisted up with a specially made 1,600 ft. chain and a winch at the top of the tower. Each link of the chain was individually tested and the winch was operated by eight men. The hoisting started on October 12th, and in 32 hours the bell had been raised the 190 feet to the clock chamber; there the bell was removed from the cradle and put mouth downwards and then hoisted the further 40 feet to the frame.

The four quarter bells had been tuned by Warners to suit the new Big Ben and had already been mounted in the frame. The third quarter bell, an octave above Big Ben, still shows evidence of being turned in a lathe in the soundbow.

A light clapper was fitted to Big Ben and Denison experimented with the bell. The first trouble encountered was that Barry's bell frame was quite inadequate, and it took five months for it to be altered so that it did not shake every time the bells were struck.

NOVEL FEATURES

Here it may be convenient to discuss one of the novel features of these five bells. They all had central holes through the crowns, which could be used for independent staples, and on each the top of the crown terminated in a horizontal flange with a neck between it and the crown. There was thus no loops of the old type forming the argent and canons and no cast-in crown staples.

These bells were secured to the frame by a central bolt. In addition, other bolts arranged in a circle had heads which gripped the underside of the flange on the crown of the bell. Turning bells so hung is comparatively easy as slackening all the bolts allows the whole bell to be twisted round, so enabling the clapper or clock hammer to strike on unworn zones.

A design similar to that which Denison adopted at Westminster had been originated by W. L. Baker, C.E. This had won a prize medal in Paris in 1855 after being patented by Baker a year earlier. The difference was that in Baker's design the entire weight of the bell was taken by the central bolt. A modification of this latter design was used by the amateur bell-founders Moore, Holmes and Mackenzie, of Weybread, Suffolk, in the period around 1880.

Denison also designed a layout of canons which enabled quarter turning to be more easily accomplished. The difficulty with the old layout with six canons was that before quarter turning there were four canons let into the headstock, and after it only two. Denison's design had only four canons, arranged one on each side of a central stump or modified argent, and it was variously called either after him or after Doncaster where it was first used.

A LIBEL ACTION

Returning now to the story of Big Ben II, the clock was installed in 1859, and on September 29th that year the bell was noted to be cracked on the outside of the soundbow. Denison wrote a letter (one of many) to 'The Times,' which was printed on October 7th. This had some most unfavourable comments on

BIG BEN II., SHOWING THE CLOCK HAMMER

Big Ben II and the Mears foundry. As a result Mears brought a libel action against Denison and obtained an apology and costs from him. This was partly counterbalanced a month later by the Office of Works having a piece of the bell by one of the cracks cut out and analysed by Dr. Percy. The latter found that the metal was unhomogeneous.

For some while the bell was not used, but later it was turned slightly and struck by a lighter hammer. The present hammer weighs some 4¼ cwt., 1¼ cwt. lighter than the original one for the present bell. The writer on his visit noted two vertical cracks in the outside of the soundbow and alongside one a hole where the sample was removed. The cracks extend inwards to about a quarter of the thickness of the bell in this area.

Some would say, as Denison did in 1880, that the bell should be recast again. There are, however, considerable difficulties, one of which is that the very large clock in the room below the bells covers the shaft through which the new bell would have to be hoisted. Another is that the sound of Big Ben and the quarter bells are so well known all over the world that the casting of a new bell tonally different from the present one would probably not have popular approval. Anyway, any new Big Ben would still have to fit in the 8 ft. 2 in. wide shaft.

DENISON'S OTHER BELLS

One feature of Denison's designs for bells is the very considerable metal thickness and corresponding weight for the notes obtained. Consider the first quarter bell at Westminster of 21 cwt. in G sharp: a modern bell for this note would weigh about 10¾ cwt. The fourth quarter bell of 78 cwt. in B would have a modern counterpart of about 50 cwt. The effect of this excessive thickness seems to be to give an extremely doleful sound, especially in the case of lighter bells. This is certainly true of the bell 'Edmund' in St. Albans Cathedral given by Denison, or Lord Grimthorpe as he then was, and cast in 1888.

It must, however, be remembered that many bells cast before his day were too thin by modern standards; so though he was correct in pinpointing one cause of the poorness of bells, his remedy was too drastic and went too far the other way.

Of Denison's other bells which he designed, most appear to have been recast. He designed rings for Doncaster Parish Church, Ossett, Gainford, Coddington, and the old tenor to the ring of eight in St. Nicholas', Aberdeen. This latter was destroyed by fire in 1874. The hour bell at Balmoral Castle, Aberdeenshire, cast by Warners, was scaled from his Westminster bells and still exists.

The writer has in his possession an original sketch by Denison of his design for the bell frame at Doncaster Parish Church, which is understood to be still in use though his bells have been recast. The roping arrangement of the bells as shown is one of the worst possible for causing swaying of the tower. Denison had much to say on the design of the new church after the fire of 1853, and he may have seen to it that the tower was stout enough.

Denison was a millionaire, an eminent Queen's Counsel, an expert on clocks, watches, bells, locks, an amateur architect, a leading churchman, and in his age a well-known writer of letters to 'The Times.' He was regularly getting on the wrong side of those with whom he had dealings, and his life by Peter Ferriday, recently published, is full of interest and well worthy of study. Denison is also recorded as having been a ringer, but the writer has not heard of him having rung a peal.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Membership Over 1,600

THE 68th annual general meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held this year at Minehead, on Easter Monday. The service was held at 12 noon in the Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels, and was attended by a large congregation and was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. C. Mortimer). The sermon was preached by the Association Master (Rev. Henry F. Warren).

Following luncheon in the Dorrien Restaurant, the members and visitors present, numbering some 130 people, attended the annual business meeting. This was opened in prayer by the Master, and the members who had passed away since the last meeting were remembered in silence. Apologies for absence were received from the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, from the Bishop of Taunton and from Mr. Ronald Short (secretary of the Bridgwater Branch)

The Master in his report gave details of his visits to a large number of the Branches in the diocese. He had been most impressed by the vigour and enthusiasm shown, and by the way the young people and older members were united in one common purpose. He noted that on two occasions peals had been rung on the same day as Branch meetings, and he hoped that this would not be the practice in future as the Branches looked to the peal ringers for support on meeting days.

The general secretary (Mr. Roger O. Fry) opened his report with details of progress throughout the diocese as a whole. Once again he was able to report that the membership figures, which had been an all-time record the previous year, had again increased this year and, while he was yet in the process of making the final detailed check, he found that the total membership was now 1,600.

He had offered his resignation last year, but this had not been accepted, and having regard to the fact that the Association was temporarily without a Master, and also that the rules were being revised, he had been prepared to carry on for a further period. However, circumstances beyond his control now made it imperative that he should give up the office, as he would be leaving the diocese at the end of April. Among the items which he had proposed to deal with were the purchase of new badges, the design of a new Association membership certificate, and a survey of the unaffiliated towers in the diocese, coupled with a massive recruiting campaign. The printed report for 1957 would be in the possession of the Branch secretaries by the end of the month.

VISITORS TO MEETINGS

Mr. Fry continued: 'Since this will be my last opportunity of addressing a gathering of ringers, I feel that there are one or two things that I would like to say, and one or two thoughts that I would like to leave with you. The first concerns visitors to our meetings. As I observed at Taunton two years ago, the meetings are primarily for the benefit and use of the members, and the bells are available for their enjoyment. However, we are quite prepared, and indeed pleased, to welcome visitors, but we have a right to expect that they will observe the normal courtesies of visitors, and will remember that they are here on sufferance. At one meeting I had to remind certain visitors of these courtesies as I found them taking more than a fair share of the ringing, although many of our own members were waiting patiently for a ring.

'Last year I was approached by other visitors who, having no interest in our service, our lunch or meeting, asked if they might ring at some of the open towers while we were having our meeting. Another group of people actually took matters into their own hands, and rang at one of these towers while the meeting was in progress. It was some time later that I discovered this, or I would have raised the matter with the Master of the Association of which these people are members, and would have seen to it that they were taken to task for their most discourteous, dangerous and unseemly conduct.'

Another matter of concern was the fact that there was not a handbook available, dealing in clearly-worded and well-written terms with the instructing of ringers who were training others to ring. It had been reported last year that the Central Council had this matter in hand, but another year had gone by, and this urgently-needed book was not yet available. With the ready backing of the committee, Mr. Sanger would go ahead and produce such a manual for the use of the members.

THE IDEAL TOWER

The secretary stated that his idea of the ideal type of tower was that where all the members of the band were communicant or intending-communicant members of the Church of England, where they were churchmen first and ringers second, and where they endeavoured to ring for the Sunday services every Sunday, and for the great feasts of the Church as they occurred. Such a tower had no difficulty in attracting and holding members, and the best possible relationship existed between the clergy and the ringers. This happy state of affairs existed in many churches, but not, unfortunately, in all, and it was to be hoped that as time went on, more and more of those ringers who did not at present extend their activities outside the tower would increasingly realise that their ringing should be a means to an end, and not an end in itself, and also that it did not preclude them from joining fully in the other activities of the Church.

He concluded his report by thanking the members of the committee and the members of the Association generally for their kindness and support during his five years in office.

The treasurer (Mr. Gwilym Salmon) reported a satisfactory year, in which the balance in the current account had been maintained and the actual balance in hand at the end of the year was above that at the beginning of the year. It was to be hoped also that more towers would pay the affiliation fee suggested by the Association. This could help greatly, and could also be a very useful addition for the Bell Repair Fund. This point was taken up by several members who supported Mr. Salmon in his plea for affiliation fees.

HIGHER STANDARD OF PEALS

The peal secretary (Mr. Henry J. Sanger) reported a full year, with a raised standard of peal ringing. There had been very many instances of people ringing a 'first in the method' during the year, and two methods — Gainsborough Little Bob Major, at Twerton-on-Avon, and Braunstone Surprise Major, at South Petherton—had been rung for the Association for the first time. Some of the younger members had shown great promise in their peal ringing, and notable was a peal in 42 Doubles methods by the Radstock band on handbells. He concluded by hoping that more and more young ringers would take care to learn to conduct their peals, and learn to correct mistakes and correct bad striking.

The diocesan adviser on the care of church bells (Mr. W. A. Osborn) also reported a busy year, in which he had inspected and reported on the rings of bells at Sampford Arundel, Yeovilton, Milborne Port, Baltonsborough, Marnhull, Maiden Bradley, Buckland Dinham, Thurlbear and Publow. Surveying the past 15 years, in which he had held this office, he had visited altogether over 100 towers. In 21 towers bells had been rehung, in 30 there had been a complete overhaul, in 24 there had been adjustments, in others single bells had received attention or been recast. In only 11 towers had nothing been done. Mr. Osborn now felt that he must give up some of the more active work, and he commended to the Association the work of Mr. Ronald Gardiner, who had been his assistant, and who he hoped would now take on the work.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP

All the reports were adopted with acclamation, and the meeting passed on to the election of officers. All the officers were re-elected, with the exception of the general secretary and the diocesan adviser on the care of church bells.

Mr. Roger Fry (retiring general secretary), on behalf of the committee, put forward the name of Mr. David Hoare to be his successor, and this was seconded by Mr. E. J. Chivers and carried unanimously, there being no further nomination. The Master paid tribute to the work of the retiring secretary, and on behalf of the Association expressed his good wishes for Mr. Fry's future vocation. Mr. P. Young, of Twerton-on-Avon, paid tribute on behalf of his church council and the band of ringers at Twerton to Mr. Fry's efforts in raising a Sunday service band, which now rang for three services every Sunday. On the proposition of Mr. S. G. Coles, honorary life membership of the Association was conferred on Mr. Fry. Mr. Hoare, in thanking the Association for electing him, promised to carry out the duties to the best of his ability.

Mr. Ronald Gardiner was elected diocesan adviser on the care of church bells, and Mr. Osborn, under general pressure from the whole meeting, agreed to act as deputy adviser, many members joining in the expression of gratitude for his past work and delightfully-worded annual reports.

Mr. Percy Yeo, of Long Ashton, who had been Branch secretary of the Chew Deanery Branch for 35 years, and Mr. S. Woodburn, of Bath, were also elected honorary life members of the Association.

Mr. Fry was asked by the meeting to send the good wishes of the Association to Mr. J. T. Dyke, former secretary of the Association for 28 years, hoping for his speedy recovery from illness, and return to ringing.

After votes of thanks had been accorded to Mr. Mortimer for permitting and conducting the service, to Mr. Tudball, the Dunster Branch secretary, for his work in arranging the meeting, and to the organist, the meeting was closed in prayer, and the members adjourned to the many towers which were open for ringing.

LAST OF DERITEND BELLS

The brothers Fearn, who learnt to ring on the eight bells at St. John's Church, Deritend, Birmingham, which was demolished about ten years ago, witnessed the breaking up of two of these bells at the Loughborough Bell Foundry on April 30th and saw the metal run to make the new seventh and tenor of the new ring of eight for the Bishop Latimer Memorial Church, Birmingham. With them was Mr. Ralph Edwards.

Deritend bells were a complete ring of eight, cast in 1776 by Robert Wells, of Aldbourne, Wiltshire. Their inscriptions are unusual: for instance, the fourth has: 'May the town of Birm[m] be ever held in esteem for its manufact.'; the sixth: 'Wisdom to the council of the state and success to the British fleet'; the seventh: 'May Great Britain ever stand unrivalled in her commerce.' Complete rings of eight from this foundry must be very rare—even the complimentary inscription on the fourth failed to bring Robert Wells any further business in Birmingham!

THE RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

THE annual meeting of the Guild of Railwaymen Church Bell Ringers was held at York on May 3rd. under the chairmanship of the Master (Mr. Harold Walker), who is also president of the Minster Society of Ringers.

Supporting the Master (North Eastern Region) were the regional representatives and Ringing Masters—Mr. W. Bertram Kynaston (Western Region), Mr. Sydney Foskett (London Midland Region), Mr. Charles A. Bassett (Southern Region), Mr. M. G. Burrows, C.M. and E. egpineer (designate) (North Eastern Region), formerly assistant works manager, Crewe; Mr. O. J. F. Whitaker, secretary, joint committee, British Railways Staff Association; the Rev. A. John McMullen (chaplain, York Minster), the Guild hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. Frank Stenson (Crewe), and some 40 members.

The magnificent Minster ring of 12 bells (tenor 59 cwt.) was at the disposal of the railwaymen during the day, and was much appreciated and greatly enjoyed, the Minster ringers joining in. At 4 p.m. the ringers attended Evensong in the choir where, after the anthem, they joined the clergy and choir in procession to the bell-founder's window in the north aisle of the nave. Here the Dean (Very Rev. E. Milner White) said the usual ringers' prayers, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells.

Further bells available after tea were at the Institute of Architectural Study (formerly St. John-the-Evangelist's, Micklegate) and St. Stephen's, Acombe.

Tea was served in the Railway Institute, after which the Master welcomed all present. To assist Mr. Whitaker, of the Staff Association, the Master deviated from the agenda to discuss the constitution and rules, as suggested by the Staff Association, which, apart from the name of the Guild, differed little from the original constitution but was more generous and advantageous to the Guild.

The new draft constitution and rules were unanimously accepted: copies will be circulated in due course.

The financial statement and auditors' report showed an adverse balance, two contributory causes being non-recurring printing expenditure and outstanding subscriptions. These were accepted, with a proviso that subscriptions should be paid before December 31st, in conformity with the constitution.

All the officers were re-elected and also seven new members. The next annual meeting will be held at London in the middle Saturday between Easter and Whitsun, and the autumn meeting at Newport, Mon.

An omnibus vote of thanks included the Dean and Minster ringers and the hon. secretary of the Guild for the tremendous amount of work he had put in during the past year.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The Unseen Tenor Man

The quarterly meeting of the S.W. Branch of the Guild was held at Kelly on April 26th, and although not largely attended, due to the lack of transport to this lovely old village, was most successful and of a very cordial nature. There was good ringing on the very light six—Grandsire, Stedman, Bob Minor and rounds. The first touch of rounds was by six young ladies—two from Lifton, two Plympton and two Emmanuel.

Mr. T. G. Myers said it was hoped the meeting would create interest, as unfortunately owing to the passing of older ringers and departure from the District of several younger ringers, ringing at Kelly was now rare. He thought this a great pity as there was change-ringing here before the Guild was formed.

A short service and an encouraging address was given by the Rector, who expressed pleasure that the Branch had come to Kelly for this meeting. He said he felt very gratified when one ringer told him the text of his address at our visit in 1947, a few months after he came to the parish, and another was able to tell him the text he took at the last visit in 1952.

An excellent tea was provided by the ladies of the church.

Before the commencement of the meeting the chairman remarked on the very severe loss the Guild, and in particular the Mid-Devon Branch, had sustained by the death of their chairman, Mr. J. Lilley, and the gathering stood in sympathy. The secretary reported a wreath had been sent from the Branch and he had written to the widow and received a letter of thanks.

A number of certificates were presented and this pleasant duty was performed by the Rector. The recipients were from Lifton and Plympton St. Maurice, amongst them being Mr. and Mrs. Manning and their daughter and son.

Pleasure was expressed at the progress towards recovery being made by Mr. Bill Harvey.

At the close of the meeting there was more ringing at Kelly, then a number went on to Bradstone, another church where it is regretted there is little or no ringing. The birds have taken over the bell chamber and the ropes are not improving—the tenor rope was broken on arrival and an old rope was put up, but after a couple of touches this went. Not daunted, another rope was brought into use, but this stood only about six pulls in the 'raising' again. It was then Mr. Jim Rich had the idea he could ring the bell from the chamber above, as the rope had broken just below this. Ringing takes place from ground level and the next chamber, about 25 ft. up, is about 8 ft. high; above this are the bells. All Mr. Rich could see were the five other ropes, but he rang an excellent tenor to a touch of Grandsire and Stedman, unseen by anyone! H. H. T.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The first warm day for weeks, coupled with the usual warm welcome, made the Canterbury District's meeting at All Saints', Birchington, a memorable afternoon and evening. For many of the 89 members present it was their first visit to the tower since the new bells were installed, and their lightness and easy going proved perhaps a little difficult for some. However, some good ringing was enjoyed previous to the service, which was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. L. V. Donaldson), who gave a short address. An old friend of the ringers, Mr. H. S. Nixey, was at the organ.

Tea was served in All Saints' Church House, members being entertained by the Vicar, churchwardens (all of whom were present) and Parochial Church Council, the meal being prepared and served by the wives, mothers and friends of the local ringers.

Three new practising members from Teynham were elected and, going further afield, one honorary member from Gosport, Hants. Margate was nominated as the place of the next quarterly meeting, with Wickhambreaux for the by-meeting previous (May 17th). The collection taken in church was given to the fabric fund. Congratulations were extended to the Ringing Master (Mr. W. S. Palin) and his wife, formerly Eileen Wyles, on their marriage at Faversham recently.

Warm thanks were given to the donors of the tea and to all the helpers. Further ringing during the evening, with methods up to Cambridge, was practised, the striking of the higher methods being of a very good order. B. J. L.

OUTING

BRANT BROUGHTON

A short ringing outing was held by the Brant Broughton ringers and friends on April 19th.

Ringing commenced at Fulbeck at 2.20 p.m., with various Doubles and Minor methods. Leadenham was reached by 3.5 p.m., but ringing here was delayed owing to the tenor rope breaking whilst the bells were being raised. This was soon rectified and some pleasant ringing followed on these fine bells.

At Navenby we were again met by the Vicar, who inquired whether six of us could not be persuaded to come and live in his parish. It is a great pity that these bells are not rung more often.

After tea we visited Waddington—a fine new church, which has been completely rebuilt in the modern style since the war. The previous church was completely destroyed by a land mine during the war, and the original bells, which fell to the ground, have been restored and made into a grand ring of five (tenor 11 cwt.).

Ringing at Bassingham proved rather difficult for some owing to the rather long draught of rope. Finally, the magnificent bells of Brant Broughton were rung for almost an hour, mainly for the benefit of the visitors, who enjoyed them very much. W. L. E.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2460 Vol. LIV FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

DUBLIN'S RINGS OF BELLS

DURING the last century there were, in all, nine rings of bells in the city of Dublin. St. Patrick's Cathedral had a mixed lot of eight bells by Perdue, Covey, and recastings by Kilpling. Subsequently some of these were recast by Murphy, of Dublin, in the 1840's and 1870's. Christ Church Cathedral also had a Perdue–Covey ring. It was originally a 'six,' and these bells were cast in 1670 at the same time as St. Patrick's bells, originally an 'eight,' by the same founders who brought all the metal and implements for casting from Bristol to cast the bells in the churchyard adjacent to the Cathedral. These itinerant founders also cast bells in the same way at Kilkenny, Limerick and Galway.

In the 1860's and 1870's the two cathedrals were restored—St. Patrick's by Sir Benjamin Lee Guinness, of brewery fame, and Christ Church by Henry Roe, of Dublin whiskey fame. In these restorations the bells were not forgotten, and the Dublin bell-founder, John Murphy, had the task of augmenting Christ Church to a 'ten,' and of recasting some of St. Patrick's and rehanging the eight bells. The augmentation at Christ Church gave them the heaviest tenor bell in Ireland, reputed to be 39 cwt. but later scaled at 43 cwt.

In 1897 Lord Iveagh—also of Guinness fame—provided a new ring of ten bells for St. Patrick's. They were cast by John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, the tenor being 45 cwt. 1 qr. 18 lb. A few years previously Dean Jellett had some trouble with the paid band of ringers and 'sacked' them. He created the amateur band, led by Richard R. Cherry, Q.C., later Lord Chief Justice of Ireland. Cherry was a keen ringer and took part in the College Youths' peal at Waterford in 1873. He, along with Gabriel Lindoff, who was brought to Ireland as instructor at St. Patrick's, founded the Irish Association of Change Ringers in 1898. Cherry augmented the ten to 12 in 1909. A further treble was added in 1923 by Lady Seeds-Kaye. Thus St. Patrick's could have Major and Minor twelves. Christ Church bells have remained the same, apart from restoration by Gillett & Johnston in 1936.

SS. Augustine and John's, the Augustinian Church—or John's Lane, as this church is familiarly known—had eight bells by Murphy in 1873, whose foundry was opposite the church. These were augmented to ten by Carr, of Birmingham, in 1898. The tenor is about 24 cwt. Access to the tower is by an iron spiral open staircase from over the organ to the roof of the nave, and in through a hole in the belfry wall. It is said that when the tower was completed the builders had forgotten about a staircase!

St. George's Church, Dublin, on the north side of the city, was designed by the bell-ringing architect Francis Johnston, who presented a ring of eight bells, by Mears of London, to the church in 1828. The tenor is 19½ cwt. The bells were retuned and rehung in a steel frame by Taylor's in 1928. All these four rings of bells will be available during the visit of the Central Council.

The three oldest bells in Ireland, one of which is dated 1423, form part of the ring of six bells in St. Audeon's Church, Dublin. This church is situated between Christ Church and John's Lane. The other three bells were cast by Murphy. The bells have been idle since 1896 and are unringable. There was a ring of six bells in St. Werburgh's Church, Dublin, opposite Christ Church. As the tower was considered to be in a dangerous condition it was pulled down about the middle of the last century. The bells lay for many years in the church porch before being distributed to St. Mary's Parish Church, its chapel-of-ease, Clonsilla Church, and Castleknock Church. One remains in a turret in St. Werburgh's Church. The sixth found its way into a founder's furnace.

The Sheridan ring of eight bells in St. Paul's Church, Arran Quay, after having been idle for many years was converted to a chime by M. O'Byrne, the Dublin bell-founder, about ten years ago. Another ring of bells to be distributed to various churches in recent years was the old eight of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. The third and tenor remain in the Cathedral and are used for daily services; the other six were given on 'permanent loan' to the following churches: Irvinestown, Co. Fermanagh; St. Bartholomew's, Belfast; St. Columbanus', Ballyholme, Co. Down; Kenmare and Killonglin, Co. Kerry; and Killaney, Co. Down.

The ninth ring of bells was a secular one, originally cast by the Aldbourne Foundry for the old Crow Street Theatre, Dublin. They were purchased by Francis Johnston, the above-mentioned architect, when the theatre closed and its contents were sold. He erected a tower in the back garden of his home at Eccles Street, Dublin, about 100 yards or so from St. George's Church. The bells were hung here, for ringing. Johnston and his bell-ringing friends spent many enjoyable hours in the tower, not, it is said, without some annoyance to the neighbours. After Johnston's death in 1829 the bells remained idle until 1845, when they were auctioned, and six of them were bought for £180 for SS. Philip and James' Church, Holywood, Co. Down. In 1890 they were replaced by the present ring of eight bells in that church; all but one found their way into the Loughborough Foundry.

Dublin was once famous for its bells: at one time there were three bell-foundries which cast bells and hung them for ringing as well as for the ordinary tolling. It is unfortunate that there are now only four rings functioning. It is hoped that what Dublin lacks in quantity will be made up by the quality of the bells and the amount of ringing time available at each tower. FRED E. DUKES.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Losses By The V.W.H. Branch

The quarterly meeting of the Vale of the White Horse Branch, held at Ashbury on May 10th, recorded two serious losses by death to the Branch.

Miss M. Cross, the general secretary of the Guild, who presided, supported by Mr. R. F. J. Gilling (Branch secretary), referred to the passing of the Rev. C. G. Seymour Metford, who had been chairman of the Branch for nearly 16 years until the time of his death. During that time he had been a tower of strength to all who met him, the membership of the Branch had been consolidated and the results of it were now being seen. He was also a great priest.

The Branch had also lost one of its oldest members, Mr. Frank Wheeler, who had been buried at Faringdon that afternoon. Miss Cross spoke of the quiet, conscientious work done by him in the Faringdon tower. It was chiefly through his efforts that a band of ringers was formed when the bells were rehung at Faringdon in 1926, and the results were still showing fruit; he had always been very faithful to the Branch since he had become a member in 1920.

The members stood in silence for a few moments in respect of the memory of these two great men.

The Rev. J. L. Street (Vicar of Stanford-in-the-Vale) was elected the new Branch chairman, and in accepting the office he said he would do all he could for the Branch. The next quarterly meeting will be held at Buckland on September 20th. Members were reminded of the Guild festival at Oxford on July 19th.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. E. G. Mortimer (Vicar) for conducting the service, the Rev. J. L. Street for his address, to Mrs. Mortimer for playing the organ and Mrs. Fleet for providing teas.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Another new band was welcomed into membership of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild at their meeting on April 26th—the team at Fittleton, who also keep Sunday service ringing going at Netheravon, the two parishes forming a plurality. Three of their number were among the 25 ringers present at the quarterly meeting at Great Durnford. The Vicar (Rev. P. Higham) was unfortunately away, convalescing after prolonged illness, so the customary service was not held; but Mrs. Higham joined the visitors at tea, which was prepared by Mrs. Palmer and others.

Mr. A. Trimby (vice-chairman) presided at the short meeting, the chairman being also on the sick list. Several of the Wilton band came on from the big men's festival service at the Cathedral—part of the celebrations for the 700th anniversary of its consecration. Ringing continued for a short time on the five at Durnford, after which a move was made to Woodford, and the six were kept going till about 8.30.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Some 40 ringers and friends attended the South Wales District quarterly meeting, held at Sketty, Swansea, on April 26th. The service was conducted by Canon H. C. Williams, who gave a warm welcome to the Guild. Tea was afterwards served in the Church Hall, and Mr. R. E. Coles thanked Mrs. Whitworth and her helpers on behalf of the visitors.

At the business meeting five new members were elected. These were Miss June Tarling (Nash), Miss Jean Howell (Baglan), Miss Judith Robinson and Miss Joan Richards (Sketty), and Miss Victoria Price (Bedwellty). It was decided to hold the next meeting at Ebbw Vale.

Lewisham District

The spring meeting of the Lewisham District was held in the ancient church of St. Martin in the renowned village of Eynsford and attended by 50 members. Fourteen towers were represented. Mr. F. S. Macey (trustee of the Association) and ringers from Tunbridge Wells were very welcome visitors. Ringing, directed by Mr. A. S. Richards (Ringing Master) commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until service time.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. A. Tuffin), who gave an interesting address. Mr. A. A. Parson (churchwarden) played the organ and the lesson was read by Mr. E. Barnett (Crayford).

Mr. E. A. Barnett (vice-president), who presided at the business meeting, asked that respect should be paid to the memory of Mr. A. Grove, of Woolwich. Grateful remembrance was signified in the traditional manner.

Fifteen ringing members of the Association were elected and the election of two non-resident members ratified. Mr. A. S. Richards (West Wickham) read his report of proceedings at the committee meeting held at Ashford on Easter Monday, which was adopted, with a vote of thanks to Mr. Richards for preparing it. Beckenham was chosen for the next meeting, to be held on July 26th. It was decided to hold the annual meeting with the Surrey Association (Northern District) at St. Alfege's, Greenwich, on October 11th.

Members were gratified to see Mr. A. Bates, of Farningham, once again active among them after his recent serious illness. Performances on his ancient handbells preceded the return to the church for further ringing on the tower bells.

BELFRY GOSSIP

It was intended to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques at Aston Parish Church for Mr. Albert Walker's 82nd birthday, but unfortunately the band met short. In its place a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal was rung. Mr. Walker had not sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to take part, but came to Aston to welcome the ringers before the start. All will be pleased to know that he is now once more ringing at St. Martin's on Sunday rings.

Oxford University Society think their peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Appleton was the first peal of Royal rung by any University with a resident band.

Mr. T. E. Harrold sends the following correction to F.C.H.'s of Kebworth Surprise Major (page 279). These should read: 32465, 43265, 53624, 65432.

Mr. Josiah D. Harris, aged 86, rang the second to a quarter of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's, Portsea, on May 4th. His striking was excellent throughout, although it is some time since he last rang a quarter peal.

After the peal of Stedman Triples rung at Heptonstall on May 10th, Mr. and Mrs. Walmsley, for whom it was a silver wedding compliment, entertained the ringers to dinner. This will probably be the last peal Mr. S. H. Dearden will ring in the north for some time as he is leaving shortly to take up an appointment in Cardiff.

Those who participated in the 'William' peal which was rung non-conducted at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, on May 10th, would like to express their thanks to Mr. Frederick Scott, of Slough, who sat in the belfry throughout the peal to umpire the performance. They are very glad, however, that he had nothing to say but 'Go' and 'Stand'! The band had travelled a total distance of 650 miles to participate in the peal.

The peal of Stedman Cinques rung at Leicester Cathedral on May 12th was the 21st anniversary of the first peal on the bells, rung May 12th, 1937, which was also the coronation peal of King George VI. The composition for both peals was the same, the first being conducted by the late Harold J. Poole; and it was pleasing to the band for this one to be conducted by his daughter, Jill. Only three ringers who took part in the first peal are now members of the Cathedral Society—Harold G. Jenney and Shirley Burton ringing the same bell in both peals; the other member, Harry Broughton, is a regular service ringer, but his general health would not allow him to ring in this peal.

Mr. Neil Bennett has completed Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus.

By ringing the tenor to a quarter peal of Doubles at East Woodhay, Hants, on April 30th, Mr. J. Webb becomes the first ringer from this tower to ring a quarter peal.

St. Margaret's, Ipswich, bells are to be retuned and rehung. Work on them will be started by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank on May 27th.

Chepstow, Mon, bells were heard for the last time as an eight on Easter Sunday. They have now been committed to the care of the Loughborough Bell Foundry, where they will be retuned and augmented to ten. 'They're all yours, Paul—look after them,' writes our correspondent.

Mr. T. Jeanes, of Taunton, went to Huish Episcopi on May 10th to hear a peal attempt of Plain Bob Major on the bells of his native village. The band, which had travelled many miles, arrived one short. The 69-year-old veteran obligingly rang the treble and the peal was scored. The first quarter of Major on these bells was rung on April 23rd, 1937, just after the bells were augmented.

FIVE PEALS IN FIVE TOWERS IN A DAY

FOUR ringers with recent long peal experiences totalling 146,000 changes were only too pleased to accept Geoffrey Dodds' invitation to establish a new record—that of ringing five peals in five different towers in one day, the attempt to take place on April 26th.

On Friday evening at least one person was probably worrying what had happened when the chauffeur was delayed 50 minutes by dense London traffic, but calm was soon established when he and Robin arrived, and before leaving Dorking for Newbury we enjoyed another slight delay — Mrs. Cannon's charming hospitality being much appreciated. Soon we were making all possible haste along the North Downs, a drizzle limiting speed and turning the woods into a dark, damp enclosing curtain, until the beacon light from Geoff's cottage window was thankfully seen. After a welcome and cheerful supper, accompanied by the usual badinage, we realised that the time was approaching 1 a.m., and as we planned to leave at 3 a.m. three of the party scorned two hours sleep and continued talking—no prizes for successful guesses!

Longparish Church was reached at 3.45 a.m., and two minutes later we heard Ralph's motorcycle enter the village, a remarkable piece of timing after a ride from Croydon. The first peal passed without incident save that the conductor's voice took on the strange muted quality of the fully-muffled bells—a doubly rare experience! The prearranged breakfast was quickly despatched and we arrived at Barton Stacey behind schedule, catching up with a peal rung as fast as the low ropes would permit, the almost machine-like striking evoking hushed comment by the tenor king. Another fast peal was rung at Wonston, on bells which require much effort to strike properly, and then, thankfully—lunch!

At Overton we met Reg Rex at the 'normal' time of 3 p.m. and much enjoyed the change to a peal of Major, the resulting physical and mental relaxation confirming Derek Jones's letter in the previous day's 'R.W.', and giving us renewed enthusiasm for the last attempt. This took place at Deane, Robin saying en route that these were easy bells to ring. However, several of the bells were very slow striking and much care was needed to produce the desired standard of striking. We learnt that the clappers had been recently rebushed—perhaps these were still tight?

On Sunday the church of Husborne Priors was visited for another ring on bells which had their first peal for 45 years quite recently. The tenor here is a real 'dunce's bell,' the rope coming down right in the corner, such that one faces the corner to ring it! In the afternoon another peal was rung at Thruxton, these very musical bells being a sheer delight to ring—a fine conclusion to our weekend's ringing.

At tea in Andover it was congratulations and thanks all round—to our conductor, to Geoff for his excellent arrangements, to Philip for being our chauffeur, to Trevor for his honesty in saying that he ought to attempt only three peals (he was recovering from a heavy cold), to Bill Deason for being an able first reserve, and to Reg Rex for enabling us to ring Major at Overton.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The meeting of the Tonbridge District, at St. Peter's, Hever, on May 3rd, enabled the Rector (Rev. J. B. Collins) to hear his bells for the first time since his arrival in the parish six months ago. He gave a cordial welcome to the Association, conducted the service and later joined in ringing.

The bells are badly in need of restoration, and advice was given to the Rector on steps to this end. Two of the younger members—Eric and Stanley—spent the morning oiling, etc., in preparation for the visit.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION'S SECRETARY MARRIED

On Saturday, May 3rd, Mr. J. W. V. Sinfield and Miss June E. Gladman were married at Luton Parish Church. The bridegroom is the well-known general secretary of the Bedfordshire Association of Change Ringers, and the bride is on the Luton District committee of that Association.

Canon W. Davison (Vicar of Luton) officiated at a most impressive ceremony in this ancient and beautiful church, where the bride learned to ring some eight years ago.

The chief bridesmaid was Miss Cynthia Horsley and the matron-of-honour was Mrs. Enid Scott, who was initiated into the mysteries of change-ringing at the same time as the bride. The other two bridesmaids, Miss Josephine Hawkins and Miss Susan Oliver, are also Luton Parish Church ringers, and the tiny attendants were Bridge Sinfield (cousin of the bridegroom) and Susan Walters (cousin of the bride).

At the conclusion of the service the splendid ring of ten bells was set going to a touch of Stedman Caters, and later in the day a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung in honour of the occasion.

Among the many friends present in church was Mr. A. King, to whom this happy day must have brought back memories of 65 years ago! The reception was at the George Hotel and about 100 guests were present. The best wishes of a wide circle of ringing friends are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sinfield for their happiness in the years that lie ahead.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

Will the conductor of the peal at Starston on April 28th please forward the method rung? (No address with copy.)

Mr. Terry Haines has been informed that the committee of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild has recognised the peal at Newnham (see page 669, October 5th, 1957) as a true peal.

All Odd Fellows ringers will receive a warm welcome at St. John's Church, Blackpool, on Sunday, June 1st, at 10 a.m. for the special service in connection with the A.M.C.

We regret to learn of the death on May 7th of Mr. T. G. Macdougal, who had a fatal stroke while in the belfry of St. Andrew's, Hornchurch. He was aged 81 years. A memoir will appear in our next issue.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS

UPWARDS of 50 members and friends attended the meeting held at Cambridge on May 3rd. Met by members of the Cambridge Youths and Cambridge University Guild, the London train party was escorted to the city centre where ringing took place on the new eight at Great St. Andrew's, whilst others enjoyed ringing at St. Bene't's, this having been the home tower of one to whom the Ancient Society will always be indebted—Fabian Stedman.

During lunch at the Dorothy, Sidney Street, Canon Woodard, of Great St. Andrew's, speaking on behalf of the Ely Diocesan Association, welcomed the Society to Cambridge, and hoped the meeting would be a successful and happy one. Canon Woodard also extended good wishes to the Master (Dr. P. A. F. Chalk) on his forthcoming marriage, wishing him and his bride all good fortune.

The Master thanked Canon Woodard for his personal good wishes, and on behalf of the Society thanked the Cambridge members for their hospitality, particularly Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ridgman and Dr. C. M. P. Johnson for the excellent arrangements made.

In the afternoon Cinques and Maximus were rung at St. Mary-the-Great and a short business meeting followed in St. Andrew's Church Hall. The last tower was that of the R.C. Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs, where the ringing was worthy of the majestic bells.

The programme allowed time for leisurely strolls through the sunlit streets, and many visitors took the opportunity of 'umpiring' the ringing in the delightful settings of the college grounds.

It was particularly pleasing to see members present from as far afield as North Lincolnshire, Derby and Coventry, and this, with the warmth of welcome received from the goodly number of local members present, combined to make a most enjoyable and memorable meeting.

J. C.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD FOR THE DIOCESE OF BIRMINGHAM

The Parish Church of St. Nicolas, King's Norton, was the venue of the quarterly meeting held on April 26th, and ringing on the pleasant ring of ten bells was enjoyed by about 40 ringers. The Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. G. Ashford), who welcomed the members and afterwards joined them at the excellent tea, kindly prepared by ringers' wives and helpers.

Before commencing the business meeting, the Master (Mr. F. E. Haynes) referred to the passing of Frank E. Pervin, who had rung many peals for the Guild and was a ringer of sterling qualities. The members stood in silence.

Two new members were elected—Miss Judy Robinson and Mr. J. K. Foot—both from Shirley Parish Church; and the life membership of Mr. Alan J. Frost, of Kettering, was ratified.

The principal business was to discuss the decline in attendance at the Henry Johnson commemoration dinner, and to decide whether it should be held next year. Arising from a lengthy discussion, one of the chief reasons suggested to account for the smaller attendances was the increase in the number of Associations who now hold their own annual dinners. The general opinion was that the commemoration should be held on a smaller scale by restricting numbers and by increasing the cost of the tickets, if necessary, to avoid sustaining a loss. The meeting was against any attempt to popularise this function by the provision of an elaborate entertainment.

The next meeting will be held on July 5th at Northfield.

The Master welcomed several visitors to the meeting, including Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, Mr. J. S. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard, of South Africa.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT DINNER

MR. LEWIS COCKEY'S CANADIAN IMPRESSIONS

A MOST enjoyable dinner and social evening was held by the London County Association on April 19th. The venue was The Victoria, Buckingham Palace Road. Excellent entertainment of high quality was provided by the Domenica Quartet of madrigal singers. The singing was divided into three groups, interspersed with speeches and handbell ringing.

Mr. T. H. Taffender, I.S.O., general Master of the Association, occupied the chair. Mr. H. W. Rogers was toastmaster, and the toasts were by Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, Mrs. O. L. Rogers, Mr. F. J. Cullum and Mr. J. A. Hales.

Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, in proposing the toast of 'The Church and the Ringing Exercise,' mentioned the real joy at being again with ringing friends in London, on his return after 2½ years in Winnipeg, and after travelling about 9,000 miles. He and his wife had so very much appreciated the many kindly letters and messages so often received, which meant much to them both.

It was hard to express how greatly one missed the music of the ringing bells in Winnipeg. Bells there were in plenty, but only of the chiming variety. The nearest ringing bells were at Quebec, about 1,300 miles, and at Victoria, about 2,000 miles distant. He had, in fact, received a kind letter from Mr. Izzard at Victoria, inviting him to have a ring with them, and had he remained longer in Winnipeg would probably have made the journey. His stay in Winnipeg had, he felt, been really worth while, and had been a wonderful experience in broadening his mind and in getting a more realistic impression of matters outside the Old Country.

CANADA'S LOYALTY

He had been greatly impressed by the cheerful friendliness and kindliness of Canadians, and in particular of the members of the Anglican Church of Canada. There was a great loyalty to the monarchy, but it was stressed that the monarch was 'Queen of Canada.' One noted that in every public building, large and small, such as schools, post offices and the like, was a portrait of the Queen in a prominent place, and one he particularly noted was a large portrait in a Ukrainian church hall. The Union Jack was everywhere, including churches and schools.

As to the Anglican Church, he became a member of the congregation of the beautiful Metropolitan Cathedral of St. John-the-Evangelist, Winnipeg, the seat of the Primacy, and had met the Archbishop of Rupertsland, the Primate, on several occasions—a very impressive man, who had control of the Church from Vancouver to Newfoundland, a distance of over 5,000 miles. The Dean of Rupertsland, too, was a very brilliant preacher, and the congregation generally had shown great kindness to Mrs. Cockey during her recent severe illness, and it was with great regret that one parted from all these kindly people.

THE FUTURE DARK

In proposing the toast of 'The Church,' he wondered sometimes what was really meant by this. The Anglican Communion first, of course, but should not one really include 'the whole of Christ's Church militant here on earth'?—especially in view of the grim and foreboding dangers ahead.

'In the meantime, the future is dark. In the near East, the hosts of Islam, cruel and savage, with an undying hatred of the Cross, are gathering, backed by the evil hosts of militant atheism from Russia; and one wonders, sometimes, if the Church may yet have to fight another and greater Crusade, culminating in Armageddon, before the way is clear. The Christian Church, therefore, will need all its firmness, unity and strength to face these evil things, and it may well be centuries before the hosts of the East are brought into the fold; but in the end, the Cross will eclipse the Crescent, and we shall be in sight of the Millennium.'

As to the ringing Exercise, he could not say much that was new, but could only stress the goodwill and friendliness that he had received from Scotland in the north to London and the south, and the real pleasure that it was to be in ringing circles once more.

AVOID CLASH OF LONDON MEETINGS

A sincere and well received toast to 'Kindred Societies' was proposed by Mrs. O. S. Rogers, who commenced by welcoming Mr. and Mrs. Cullum. As the guest of honour, Mr. Cullum was requested to convey the Association's very best wishes to the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, of which he was again Master this year. Regrets were expressed at the non-attendance of Dr. P. A. F. Chalk, Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths. Dr. Chalk had accepted an invitation to attend, but had later had to turn it down as a result of his duties at the London Hospital. Mrs. Rogers requested any member of the Ancient Society present to convey the good wishes of the L.C.A. to the next meeting.

Mrs. Rogers appealed for greater collaboration and more fraternisation between the various ringing Societies operating in the London area. In this area, probably more than any other, most ringers were members of more than one Society or Association. Normally, and rightly so, each ringer owed greater allegiance to one Association than the others, but nevertheless liked to attend meetings of the other Associations. This was not made easy for him as frequently two or three meetings in London were on the same day.

As a practical proposal for dealing with this overlapping she suggested that the secretaries of the Associations concerned met once each year, to discuss arrangements which would generally avoid clashing and enable ringers to attend any of the meetings without feeling that they should be elsewhere. The L.C.A. would co-operate fully and would be happy to provide a central meeting place.

As to individual ringers, Mrs. Rogers asked: 'Do we ring for ourselves, for what we can get out of it, or as a service to God, to call His people to worship? We are all equal in His eyes, providing we are doing our work sincerely and well, so it matters not whether we ring at a great cathedral or a small parish church; whether we stand on the largest tenor box or just on the floor. As we are all performing the same service to God and His Church, why not resolve to be equal in each other's eyes and so rub smoothly with our fellow ringers?'

JOINT MEETINGS

Last year the Association held a most successful joint meeting with the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, and looked forward to many more and similarly with other kindred Societies.

In his reply, Mr. Cullum stressed the favour with which he viewed joint meetings, in fact, arrangements were well ahead for one between his Society and the Ancient Society of College Youths.

It being the wish of senior members to take wine with the Master, Mr. J. A. Hales preceded this with a very able and extemporary speech. In this he referred to days and incidents which occurred before many of those present were born, and to towers which were now non-existent, in which he had rung peals with Mr. T. H. Taffender.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The lovely little village of Polstead, set in beautiful Suffolk countryside and renowned for its cherry orchards and Maria Marten murder, attracted a record attendance of over 60 ringers to the meeting there on May 10th. It was a very fine day and those who were not in the tower ringing were able to go out into the churchyard either to talk or to ring handbells.

An inspiring service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. P. H. Biddlecombe), himself a call-change ringer, and the lesson was read by one of the Polstead ringers. A collection was taken for the Church Heating Fund.

An excellent tea was served in the Village Hall by the ringers' wives and friends. The Rector was elected chairman for the business meeting. Mrs. J. O. Bailey, of Stratford St. Mary, was made a ringing member and the Rev. P. H. Biddlecombe an honorary member of the Guild.

It was decided to hold evening practice meetings at Clare on May 31st and at Long Melford on June 28th. The next quarterly meeting, subject to permission, will be held at Kedington on July 26th.

The bells at both Polstead and Assington were rung during the evening, and a small party went down to inspect the bells at Boxford which have not been rung for many years. R. S.

UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL SOCIETY

The A.G.M. of the University of Bristol Society was held on May 6th. It was decided to hold the Society Corporate Communion at St. Michael's on June 8th at 8 a.m.

The Society's best wishes for the future were extended to the many members going down this year, and Mr. Michael Sprackling made a short speech of farewell on their behalf. A vote of thanks was expressed to Mr. David Heighton for his year's hard work as Master after he had declined to stand for the office for a further period.

The following officers were elected for the next session: Master, P. J. Bird, secretary, B. J. Wylde, tower secretary, R. Blackler, treasurer, Miss J. Cook. A first year representative remains to be elected, and enquiries from intending students would be welcomed by the Secretary, Society of Change Ringers, c/o Victoria Rooms, Clifton, Bristol, 8.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CARTER'S ODD BOB PEAL

Dear Sir,—If I may again join in the correspondence about Carter's Odd Bob peal of Stedman Triples, which has been going on during the past few months, and at the same time correct Mr. Brian Buswell's letter which appeared on January 10th, I think I can answer Mr. Donald Boreham's query concerning the ringing of that composition in December, 1903.

The composition was first published, in what has come to be considered a simplified form, in 'The Bell News' of December 24th, 1898: John Carter himself, whose abilities as a practical ringer perhaps tend to be overlooked, calling it the first time it was rung. As Mr. Buswell said, the other version, usually described as the Odd Bob One-part, appeared on October 18th, 1902, both on tower- and handbells; it will thus be seen that the version which is given in 'Stedman' appeared before, not after, the 'One-part.' The latter was next rung at Bishopswearmouth on December 1st, 1902, conducted by W. T. Robson, and it was also rung at Erith on February 8th, 1903, conducted by W. Pye, so that it had been accomplished at least four times before the achievement of the local band at Hughenden.

I sometimes wonder whether the 'simplified' version, which I felt rather pleased at calling ten years ago, is really any easier to call than the other. Easier to learn, yes, because of its greater regularity, but both peals contain the same number of calls (420), and the various different types of course are alike in both peals. The people who are really to be admired, of course, are those who can conduct peals of this nature from a non-observation bell, something I, for one, would never hope to do.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT.

A MAIDEN TOWER

Dear Sir,—The ring of six bells of St. Peter's Church, Bratton Fleming, near Barnstaple, were rehung in a new cast-iron H frame by John Taylor and Co. in December, 1956. Particulars of this grand ring are:—

Third: 7 cwt. 2 qr. in B flat, Thos. Mears, 1792.

Bands wishing to visit this tower must apply to Mr. F. G. Bale, Glendale, Bratton Fleming, near Barnstaple. The practice night is Monday at 8, and visitors are welcome. A peal has never been rung on these bells, and I personally would like to see Bratton Fleming tower 'put on the map.'—Yours faithfully,

G. L. TRIBE.

Bratton Fleming, N. Devon.

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL'S NEW MASTER

Dear Sir,—At the close of a recent excellent broadcast of the bells of Liverpool Cathedral, the retiring Ringing Master thanked the Cathedral bell-ringers for their help during the difficult days when the ringing of the bells was subject to the completion of the building of the tower.

It was with pleasure that the new Ringing Master's invitation to stay on in the band was accepted. When these great bells are next rung, for the Whitsun Festival, Mr. Joseph Ridyard, South West Lancashire's popular C.C. representative, will be in command.—Yours, etc.,

ERNEST L. HUMPHRISS,
retiring Master.

GOATHURST'S RULES

Dear Sir,—The following lines were taken from a belfry card at Goathurst, Somerset (on a visit mentioned in the 'R.W.' on May 2nd: 'Ringing and Skittles'). I have 'modernised' the spelling but it appears to be as interesting a set of rules as any I've seen printed, and may therefore interest our fraternity. I do not know the date.—Yours, etc.,

J. H. GILBERT.

'VERSES' FOUND IN GOATHURST TOWER

Let awful silence first proclaimed be
And praises given to the Trinity.
Then Love and Honour pay unto our King.
Thus with a blessing raise the cheerful ring.
Hark how the chirping treble sings it clear
And covering Tom comes rolling in the rear.
Now up on end at stay and let us see
What laws are best to keep sobriety.

Who swears or curses, or in angry mood
Quarrels or strikes, although he draw no blood,
Who wears his hat or spurs or turns a bell
Or by unskilful handling mars a peal,
Let him pay sixpence for each single crime,
'Twill make him cautious 'gainst another time.
But if the Sexton's fault an hindrance be
We call from him a double penalty.

Who doth our Parson disrespect
Or Warden's orders any time neglect,
Let him be held in foul disgrace
And ever after banished from this place.
Now round lets go with pleasure to the ear
And pierce with pleasing sound the yielding air,
And when the bells are ceased then let us sing
God save the Church, God bless the King.

CHURCHWARDEN RINGERS

Dear Sir,—I would suggest that all those concerned in the controversy of churchwardens, bells and ringers should consider the example of Messrs Percy Williams and Stanley Seymour, both wardens of St. Euny's, Redruth.

These two gentlemen have both held office as tower captain, and as serving wardens they today combine those offices with offices of captain and vice-captain of the tower. For many years before the war this combination of offices—warden and captain or warden and vice-captain—was held, I believe, in the same tower by the late W. H. Cornelius.

If the history of one tower can demonstrate this integration of warden and ringer for long periods with the complete accord of the rector of the parish, why is it necessary that the situation of warden against ringer be tolerated either by the people, the incumbent or diocesan authority?—Yours sincerely,

E. V. WILLIAMS.

Stoke Newington, London.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

After a lapse of 27 years the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford held a meeting at All Saints' Church, West Bromwich, on May 10th. One would hardly expect a large attendance at a Black Country town on a fine Saturday afternoon in May, and it was therefore a pleasant surprise for the Society's officials when some 85 ringers and friends turned up. A bright, fully choral service, conducted by the Vicar (Preb. N. W. Watson), a bountiful tea at a most reasonable price, and plenty of ringing on good bells to suit all tastes were features which contributed to the success of this meeting, and Messrs. A. Mills and G. W. Peart and their helpers are deserving of special thanks for their excellent arrangements.

The next meeting of the Society will be the 'annual' at Lichfield on June 21st.

HANDBELLS AS AN AID TO TEACHING CHANGE RINGING

By NORMAN CHADDOCK

(1) Give one of a set of three handbells (preferably the treble) to the pupil. The instructor takes the other two. Ring the bells UP (handstroke) in order down the scale (1, 2, 3) then down (backstroke) in order (1, 2, 3) until the pupil can strike the bell fairly well, realising he is in first place.

Now let the pupil ring a few whole pulls in seconds place (still ringing treble), next a few blows in thirds place (bells ringing in the order 2, 3, 1). The pupil can now hear and perhaps see his bell striking in 1st, 2nd or 3rd place as the case may be.

Explain to the pupil that instead of ringing a lot of blows in the same place, you want him to ring just one blow in 2nds, two in 3rds, 1 in 2nds, 2 in 1sts, after ringing up and down once in 1sts place (i.e., whole pull and 'go'). In this way the pupil will quickly learn 'plain hunt' on three bells by ear.

(2) The instructor now brings in another ringer and another bell and, giving the pupil the treble, once more explains that he must now ring in the following places: 1st, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 4th, 3rd, 2nd, 1st, 1st, etc., also explaining that this work is known as 'plain hunting.' To help the pupil at first, the instructor may have to count aloud as the bells ring, 123, 123 (or 1234, 1234, 1234, etc.). The pupil will be able to ring treble to Bob Minimus in a few minutes in this way.

(3) Bring in additional bells and ringers, and progress in this way to plain hunt on five, then six bells, then introduce him to Plain Bob Minor. After a little practice the counting aloud by the instructor may be omitted except when a trip appears to be imminent. At first the pupil learns the inside work by the places he strikes in, viz.: 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 6, 5, 4, 3, 4, 3, 2, 1, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 6, 5, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, 1, etc., and rings purely by listening. Later he is encouraged to ring by sight as well and also learn places where treble is met up and down.

Advantages of this use of handbells are:—

(a) Training in listening to one's own and all the other bells, leading to better striking.
(b) Counting one's place becomes automatic and causes less trouble than is often the case when tower bell ringing is attempted.
(c) The instructor finds out before wasting time and risking jangling tower bells whether the pupil knows the method sufficiently well to warrant him being given a turn on a tower bell, i.e., no method ringing on tower bells until the pupil has proved on handbells his willingness to learn the method.

(4) To help the pupil to count and hear all the bells it is a good idea at first for all the ringers to count aloud the place in which their bell is ringing, and even if the pupil fails at first to hear so many bells ring, he will hear the numbers called out so that if he is due to ring in 4ths, he will after hearing another ringer say 3rd (or 3) ring his bell and shout '4th' or '4.'

Six complete novices will ring plain hunt on six in this way almost at once.

The next step is for the tutor only to count aloud, and then for no one to count aloud.

Use of handbells in this way lightens an evening's practice on lashed bells and can fill in usefully many an odd minute or two. As the pupils will become quite adept in the use of handbells, new methods may be rung on handbells before being practised on tower bells. The pupil's interest is also greatly stimulated by being able to ring interesting methods on handbells by the time he can master plain hunt on tower bells.

NOTE.—In the above the pupil is referred to as 'he': as often as not it is 'she,' but that does not make the practice any less successful.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Out Of Order Bells To Be Minuted

ON Saturday, May 3rd, the Norwich Diocesan Association met in Norwich for their annual meeting, some 120 members and visitors attending.

The service, held in St. Peter Mancroft Church, was conducted by the Vicar (Canon John Waddington), assisted by the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, and the lesson being read by Miss D. E. Lidbetter. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. G. E. Dodson (Rector of Gressenhall), chairman of the Western Branch. In his address he stressed the importance of ringers being practising Christians, as well as ringers. He suggested that all annual meetings should consider the restoration of bells which were out of order. This would ensure that it would appear in the minutes of the Church Council; ringers should play an active part in this and support the Church in every way. Much could be done with little expense, such as cleaning bell chambers and belfries. Furthermore, he could see no future for bellringing unless the young people in the Church were encouraged to ring. If this was done every church with a ring of bells would have its own service band, which would be to the ultimate good of the Church and of the Exercise.

Tea, arranged by the local ringers' wives, and the business meeting which followed were held in the Chantry Hall.

The proceedings were overshadowed by the absence of the president (Rev. H. G. Lillingston), owing to health reasons. The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow (vice-president) took the chair and opened the meeting with prayers. The company was asked to stand for a moment's silence in memory of brother ringers who had passed on to higher service during the past year.

PRESIDENT'S RESIGNATION

The general secretary read a letter from the president, saying how distressed he was that he was unable to attend the annual meeting. In tendering his resignation of office he said he felt compelled to give up being president through lack of time to carry out the duties as he felt he should do, and for health reasons. He expressed his pride in the honour that the Association had done in allowing him to act as president for the past three years, and his sincere gratitude to all members for their help and co-operation, and above all, their friendship. He concluded his letter with: 'May God continue to bless you all, and the great work you are doing for Him.' The chairman proposed that a letter should be sent to the Rev. H. G. Lillingston, thinking him for his past services, and with the best wishes of the members for a quick recovery to health and strength. He spoke of the great work that the president had done, being a leader in every sense of the word. The proposal was passed with acclamation.

The annual report records that 1957 was the 80th anniversary of the Association, and recalls the names of some of the great personalities who helped to build the foundations of the present-day organisation: the Rev. C. L. Kennaway, Canon J. J. Raven, the Rev. Earle Bulwer, Arthur Coleman, George P. Burton, Chas. E. Borrett—to mention a few whose influence was felt throughout the Exercise.

200 NEW MEMBERS

Present-day members were keeping the Association in the forefront of the ringing world, as witness the recruitment of approximately 200 new members during the last three years, and a peal total of 356 over that period. Membership had risen to a record total of 487 at the end of the year. Four new companies had joined the Association, and many new bands were being trained at various towers in the diocese.

A new ring of six had been dedicated at Saxthorpe, believed to be the second lightest ring of six hung in any tower, tenor weighing 2 cwt. 94 lb. in E. Restorations were completed at Dereham, North Creake and Yaxham. A new treble had been added at Yaxham, given by Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gogle in memory of their parents. On the other side of the picture, at St. Mary's, Thetford, the five bells had been taken down (three are in London to be sold, two are going to another church, and the remaining one is to be rehung in the tower). At Wood Dalling the bells had been lowered for safety.

The Ringing Master (Mr. H. W. Barrett) reported the record total of 142 peals rung during the year, with 193 members taking part and 34 conductors. At all meetings he had attended the standard of ringing had been good, and many of the clergy had remarked how pleased they were to see so many young ringers. Mr. Barrett said that there were approximately 500 members, and he could see no reason why this number should not be considerably increased. This could be done by each one of the members finding and training at least one new boy or girl. He congratulated Mr. H. W. Lidbetter, of Acle, on ringing a peal on his 85th birthday.

The accounts showed an excess of income over expenditure of £8 18s. 8d. This is lower than 1956, but is accounted for by the increased cost of printing reports and the purchase of a further gross of Association badges. The general fund account stands at £199 4s. 9d. and the belfry repair fund at £106 11s. 2d.

The meeting passed on to the election of officers.

MR. NOLAN GOLDEN NEW PRESIDENT

Mr. F. Nolan Golden was elected president. Mr. Golden, in thanking the members, said how proud he was of the honour they had done him. Elected a member in 1924, Mr. Golden has held every office in the Association, with the exception of auditor: Branch secretary, South Branch 1929-36, North Branch 1935-36; general secretary 1937-40, Ringing Master 1945-54, elected vice-president 1956, Central Council representative since 1945, serving on the Methods Committee; has rung over 1,000 peals. No one deserves this honour more, and his fellow members wish him a happy and successful term of office.

All other officers were re-elected en bloc, with the addition of the Rev. H. G. Lillingston as a vice-president.

A proposal for alteration to rules—to include the publishing of quarter peals in the annual report—was defeated. The deciding factor in this is the rising cost of printing. Notice of motion was given for alteration to Rule 6—'To delete General Secretary, and insert Branch Secretary.'

Votes of thanks were passed to all who had made this a happy and successful meeting.

The most striking fact of the meeting was the large attendance of young ringers, which augurs well for the future prosperity of the Association.

ST. MARGARET'S, LEICESTER, RINGERS' OUTING

Each year we say: 'This was the best yet!': and of our outing this year we can repeat this quite confidently, thanks to the co-operation of good friends at the towers visited. Our party of about 40 comprised ringers and friends from All Saints' and St. John's, Leicester, Wigston Magna and South Wigston.

We arrived at Luton in time for some nice touches before a wedding at 11 o'clock. It was here noted that the verger emeritus took particular notice of this wedding because he thought he might learn something! Then on to Waltham Abbey where the 12 bells were rung to a good course of Maximus, Caters, and a course of Bristol on the back eight, in which one of the young local enthusiasts got his first touch in the method. We were delighted to meet Mrs. C. W. Roberts, organiser of the visit.

A quick run to St. Albans, where Mr. Arnold welcomed us and guided us up the long spiral, through the clerestory passages, then up again to the curious ringing room, where huge beams obscure the view of several ringers. Despite these difficulties we managed a bob course of Grandsire Cinques, a touch of Stedman Cinques, Cambridge Royal, and a beautifully-struck course of Bristol ended a pleasant visit. Then a walk to St. Peter's, where Mr. Johnson welcomed us to this finely-appointed belfry with its grand ten. Good use was made of the opportunity to ring here, and a course of Yorkshire ended what was originally our intended day. But after a good tea it was felt we were still capable of further efforts, so we called at Woburn, where Mr., Mrs. and Miss Spavins most kindly welcomed us and readily consented to allow us half-an-hour before another party came for an hour. The grand eight were made good use of till the arrival of friends from Rushden and Irthlingborough. It was a pleasure and honour to ring a touch of Stedman with a mixed band of both parties, who specially requested that 'Uncle Ernest' should call it!

On the way home a call at a local was made at Creeton, Northants, and it was observed that Ernest unobtrusively crept in and came out with a pint of shandy and a packet of crisps, much to the astonishment of some of the younger element, who threatened to tell 'Auntie Beatie' all about it! Then Sid Harrison, who with his handbells had enlivened the journey in the bus, got going with gusto and the local folk loved it.

We arrived home safe at midnight, and what Beatie said to Ernest as he crept in softly cannot be printed! Our thanks are due to all those who helped make this outing one of real happiness and pleasure.

JOINT MEETING AT WORKSOP PRIORY

Perhaps the unusual privilege of being allowed the use of Worksop Priory bells for a ringing meeting attracted the large number of ringers to the joint meeting of the North Notts District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild and the Chesterfield District of the Derbyshire Association held at this tower on May 10th. Between 60 and 70 ringers attended from 22 towers.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., competing successfully with both the band playing for the street pageant held on behalf of the League of Hospital Friends and the pleasure fair in a nearby recreation ground. Mr. Cyril Wright was in charge of the ringing, which continued in various methods until 7.30 p.m. Methods rung included Bob Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich Court Bob, St. Clement's Bob and Little Bob Major, Kent and Oxford T.B. Major, Cambridge, Superlative and Yorkshire Surprise Major. One of the visitors was Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, convener of the 'Ringing World' Committee.

After the meeting, 16 of the company visited Creswell for further ringing. M. J.

LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD REPORT ON RECORD YEAR

THE annual meeting of the Leicester Diocesan Guild was held in Leicester on the Saturday at the end of Easter week, as is the custom by rule. The bells of St. Margaret's, All Saints' and the Cathedral were in use from 2 p.m., and it soon became evident that there were not enough bells available to cater adequately for all the members and visitors who wished to ring. The actual standard of ringing was only moderate, as it was necessary, of course, to make sure that all people were given the opportunity to ring, especially at the 12-bell towers.

The service was held in the Cathedral and was taken by Canon F. W. Pratt, who gave an inspiring address to the hundred or more who were present.

Following the service, tea was taken in St. George's Hall in Colton Street. It was most unfortunate that some people did not find the rather complicated way to this hall but, in apologising, it must be remembered that there are very few buildings large enough in the centre of Leicester that can cope with over 100 for tea.

After the tea, the business meeting followed. The president (Mr. P. L. Taylor) was supported by the Archdeacon of Loughborough (Ven. R. B. Cole), vice-president (Mr E. C. Turner), hon. treasurer (Mr. A. E. Rowley), hon. peal secretary (Mr. S. Burton) and hon. general secretary (Mr. B. G. Warwick). In his opening remarks the president welcomed members to the meeting and then referred to the great loss the Guild had sustained by the tragic death of one of its leading peal ringers—Mrs. H. J. Poole, and also by the death of Mr. Felix Sutton, who was an honorary life member.

Apologies for absence were received from the Bishop of Leicester, the Archdeacon of Leicester, the Provost, Canon Blackmore, Rector of Bottesford (an honorary member) and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth. Quite a large number of visitors were present from Reigate, Stoney Stratford, Lichfield, Bedford and Aston (Birmingham). These were given a warm welcome by Mr. E. C. Turner (vice-president).

MEMBERSHIP UP

Presenting the reports, the hon. general secretary (Mr. B. G. Warwick) reported that the year 1957 was very successful from the Guild point of view. All Districts had produced increased amounts from members' subscriptions. On December 31st the membership figure stood at 625 (604 in 1956). In addition, 102 (128 in 1956) members had failed to pay their 1957 subscription. It was to be hoped that they would do so before the end of 1957 otherwise they would cease to be members. During 1957, 101 resident members, 21 non-resident, 1 rejoin and 1 honorary member were elected. This showed a pleasing increase as the comparative figures for 1956 were 55 resident and 38 non-resident.

From the peal secretary's report it was noticed that there was an increase in the number of peals rung. This was a healthy sign. It should be emphasised that in the realm of peal ringing nothing but the best would do for the Leicester Diocesan Guild, which was, without doubt, the leading Guild in the country.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. A. E. Rowley) reported that 1957 had been one of the best years from the financial point of view. The year had commenced with £32 17s. 2d.; there had been a balance on the year's working of £45 1s. 9d. which left a balance in hand of £77 18s. 11d. This had been achieved by restricting expenditure where possible, and by increasing the income from advertisements in the annual report. There was a balance in the Bell Repair Fund of £171 4s. 3d. and in the Catering Reserve Fund of £9 12s. 11d.

The peal secretary (Mr. S. Burton) stated that during 1957 191 peals had been rung, of which 39 were on handbells. This was an increase of 19 over 1956. Outstanding performances were a peal of Tythorn Delight Major, which was rung for the first time, a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in seven methods, and a peal of Spliced Plain Major in four methods on handbells. Twenty-four people rang their first peal, 228 their first in the method, 16 their first in the method as conductor, and the conducting was shared by 37 different people. The leading conductor was the general secretary (who was the leading conductor for the country), who called 61 peals, and the leading peal ringer was Mr. J. A. Acres (who had the distinction not only of ringing 100 peals in 1957 but who was the leading peal ringer for the country).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Great interest obviously centred round the election of the president and vice-presidents. A ballot was held for the election of the president, and the result was Mr. P. L. Taylor 56 votes, Mr. P. J. Staniforth 35, and Mr. E. C. Turner 7. For the election of the vice-presidents the result was: Mr. P. J. Staniforth 81, Mr. E. C. Turner 62 and Mr. F. K. Measures 49. Mr. P. J. Staniforth and Mr. E. C. Turner were elected. The remaining officers were re-elected en bloc. The committee would like to thank Mr. B. Cracknell, of Reigate, and Miss Joan Beresford, of Lichfield, for their work in acting as tellers.

The next quarterly meeting would be held at Kibworth on July 12th. The annual dinner would be held in the Co-op Café, High Street, Leicester, on November 1st at 7 p.m. Tickets would soon be available, price 11s.

The committee had decided that Mr. F. K. Measures should be the Guild Ringing Master, whose duties would be to arrange and control the ringing on general meeting days.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The monthly meeting of East Hertfordshire's bell-ringers was held at Much Hadham on May 10th. About 16 members sat down to tea at the Red Lion Hotel, and attended the business meeting which followed. Several more members put in their appearance after this, at the evening ringing. St. Andrew's Church has a light ring of eight (tenor 10 cwt. 3 qr. 5 lb.) with a long draught of rope of about 80 feet. The ringing, however, was on the whole quite good, and touches of Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Cambridge Major and Kent Treble Bob were rung. J. D. W.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD HAS NEW OFFICERS

MR. C. W. DENYER, Ringing Master of the Farnham District, was on May 10th at Guildford elected Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers. The other nominee was Mr. Harold Pitstow, of Banstead, who is in charge of the ringing at Westminster Abbey.

The retiring Master, Mr. A. Harman, of Beare Green, who had held the office for 15 years, was in the chair, and the annual meeting of the Guild showed its appreciation of his past services by electing him a vice-president.

There was another important change of officers. Mr. G. L. Grover, of East Clandon, who had been secretary of the Guild since 1938, had resigned and also Miss W. Oliver, of Guildford, the assistant secretary. The new secretary is Mr. S. Russell, of Ash, and his assistant Miss R. Hide, of Farnham.

The retiring officers and their wives are to be guests of honour at the Guild's annual dinner to be held at the Stoke Hotel, Guildford, on October 4th.

536 ACTIVE RINGERS

The report of the executive committee gave the strength of the Guild as 536 ringing and 107 honorary. The meeting approved of the revival of the Guild's summer festival to be held at Hersham on June 14th, at which the president (the Bishop of Guildford) would preach. The report added:—

> 'Our Lord Bishop has an appreciative ear for good ringing, and we especially urge tower leaders to see that there is worthwhile ringing at all special services, such as confirmations and dedications at which he is present. We can assure them that their efforts, if they warrant it, will not pass without appreciation.'

The meeting stood while those members who had died during the year—Mr. Bob Whittington (Cranleigh), Mr. R. Lathbury (Walton), Mr. J. Hessey (Chertsey), Mr. L. Crocker (Chertsey), Mr. W. Denyer (Aldershot), Mr. H. Charman (Cranleigh), Mr. D. Warner (Horsell), Mr. A. J. Stedman (honorary member, Farnham) and Messrs. G. Elson and J. Elliott (former members), also the Ven. G. B. Smith—were remembered.

Mr. C. W. Denyer said the family of the late Mr. W. Denyer were erecting to him a memorial tablet in the ringing chamber of Aldershot Parish Church. Later there would be the gift of a paten and chalice to the church where he was a communicant. Friends were invited to be associated with the latter gift.

PEAL RINGING DROP

Major E. J. Bragg (Aldershot), peal recorder, reported that only 21 peals had been rung during 1957, 13 fewer than the previous year, but the number of ringers taking part went up to 97. There were 18 different conductors.

Since the formation of the Guild 919 peals had been rung. Of these Mr. A. H. Pulling had conducted 334. [Applause.] He was one of the greatest ringers of all time, with nearly 1,500 peals to his credit.

Major Bragg regretted the ringing of a non-Association peal at Chiddingfold. On behalf of the Guild he asked captains of towers to urge their incumbents that permission to attempt peals should only be granted to people who had the good of the Exercise and the Church at heart.

MERROW CONGRATULATED

Mr. Pulling congratulated the young Merrow ringers, two or three of whom recently scored their first peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor. He urged them to ring local peals, and added: 'You can ring hundreds of peals, but there is nothing like a local band ringing a peal, and it is far better than any Surprise peal.'

The following new members were elected: Michael Weston (Cranleigh), junior member, the Rev. J. F. Bowen and Messrs. G. Chapman (Aldershot), B. Tebenham, T. Phillips, J. Reed, P. Parfree and Miss M. Nursey (Albury), Mr. John Griffiths (West Clandon). Mr. Roger Keeley and Miss M. Beamish were elected compounding members.

A motion to limit the period of the Master in office to not more than three consecutive years from the Leatherhead District was defeated. Another that the annual meeting should be held on a fixed date was carried.

The service was held in St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Rev. C. Marshall, at which the preacher was the Rev. Eric Woods, both of whom come from Leatherhead and are ringers.

OBITUARY

MR. T. A. KING

We regret to report the death of Mr. Thomas Alfred King at Shipley, Yorks, on May 1st, aged 89 years.

He was brought up as a ringer at Lavenham, Suffolk, under the late Arthur Symonds. He rang his peals for the Ely Diocesan Association with Samuel Slater, and it was with pleasure that he used to talk about the peal of Grandsire Caters which he conducted at the Norman tower in Bury St. Edmunds. He was a good and safe conductor in all he did; another record of his was calling Holt's Original at Lavenham on the famous Miles Graye tenor.

Before leaving Lavenham for Shipley, Yorkshire, on December 31st, 1906, his last peal there was one of Bob Major on December 1st, 1906, which was the first for E.H.S. and S.H.S. Joining the Yorkshire Association, he was always willing to help with service ringing.

On May 6th, at Bradford Cathedral, a quarter peal of Minor was rung to his memory, and also in memoriam Mr. F. Davison, of Idle Parish Church. Those taking part were S. B. Schofield (10) 1, Mrs. H. B. Schofield 2, S. G. Schofield 3, E. H. Simpson (conductor) 4, A. Ashton 5, H. B. Schofield 6, F. Raymond tenor covering. E. H. S.

MR. ALFRED UPEX

It is with regret we announce the death of Mr. Alfred Upex, of Warmington, on May 1st.

Mr. Upex joined the ringers 63 years ago when he left the choir on his voice breaking. He was a member of the Oundle first Deanery Association and later a member of the Oundle Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. Until a few years ago he was a regular attendant at every meeting. He had taught many young ringers, including his own two sons.

A half-muffled quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung to his memory at Warmington on May 6th by W. L. Ferrar 1, A. B. Clarke 2, Mrs. P. E. Clarke 3, G. Jeffs (conductor) 4, A. C. Wills 5, P. Stretton 6.

MR. FRANK WHEELER

All Saints' Church, Faringdon, Berks, has lost its oldest bell-ringer by the death of Mr. Frank Wheeler, which occurred at his home in Southampton Street, Faringdon, on May 7th, at the age of 77 years.

Frank ('Dusty,' as he was known to all his fellow ringers) was the instigator of change-ringing to Faringdon tower 40 years ago, as previously it had only a call-change band. He was a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and also the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

He started to learn to ring at the age of 11 and kept keen interest in it up to his death. Though he had not been able to ring himself since Christmas Day, he was always around to give advice to others.

A saw doctor by occupation, he was working until a few weeks ago. The widow shares her bereavement with two sons and a daughter.

The funeral took place at All Saints' Church, Faringdon, on May 10th, and was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. C. H. G. Davey). At Frank's request, he was carried by four of his fellow ringers—Messrs. D. Vincent, J. Strawford, F. H. Whipp and C. R. Miles. Other ringers present were Mr. C. I. J. Pearce (foreman of the Faringdon tower and V.W.H. Branch Ringing Master), Mr. J. Belcher, Mr. H. Taylor, Mr. E. Cadle, Mrs. Vincent, Mrs. Kinch, Mr. R. F. J. Gilling (secretary of the V.W.H. Branch), Miss M. Cross (the general secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Mr. J. Moore and Mr. M. Walker.

In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung half-muffled with 4, 6, 8 covering by M. Edney 1, N. Leslie 2, J. Strawford 3, J. Hutt 4, D. Leslie 5, J. Moore (first quarter) 6, C. I. J. Pearce (conductor) 7, D. F. Vincent 8.

WELSH RESTORATION

PORTHKERRY CHURCH

[By courtesy of 'Barry and District News'

Weathering of the stonework of Porthkerry Church (Glamorgan) had reached the stage where it was considered advisable to take down and rebuild the parapet. The ivy, picturesque but deadly, was cut down a few years ago, but as the stonework of the parapet is being removed the roots can be seen.

The church, which holds about 80 people, overlooks the Bristol Channel near Barry, and there are only half-a-dozen houses nearby, the nearest village (Rhoose) being a mile distant.

An appeal was launched in September for £750. In the first six weeks £500 was raised by direct subscription, and the remainder is now in hand or promised. Work started in April and it is hoped the bells will soon be ringing again. Two trebles were added in 1950 to make a ring of six, with a tenor of 7½ cwt.

MEMORIAL PLAQUE TO MR. E. EVANS

Canon R. H. Babington conducted a dedication service in the belfry of St. Mary-le-Tower Church, Ipswich, on May 11th, of a plaque and photograph inscribed: 'To the memory of Edward Evans, who passed away August 6th, 1957, aged 75 years: a ringer in this tower for many years.'

Among those present were the widow, Mrs. E. M. Evans, of Felixstowe, Mr., Mrs., the Misses Winifred and Audrey Jennings (Trimley), Mr. and Mrs. R. Davey and Mrs. J. Hambling. Also present was Mr. Lewis W. Wiffen, of Braintree, who with Mr. Evans rang in the first two peals of Cambridge Maximus (see 'R.W.' leading article, April 18th). About 12 members of the Suffolk Guild were also present.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

HEART OF OAK

THE name of Bragg is far from unknown in the Midlands, and in ringing circles it is familiar to all who have visited the tower of St. Alphege's Church, Solihull. As far back as the '80's (and possibly the '70's) the Braggs were intimately connected with the bells and belfry of the pretty Warwickshire village, and the intimacy has been prolonged unto the third and fourth generation.

Records of the old days towards the end of the 19th century are meagre, and little remains from which to reconstruct the times when John Bragg (senior) and his fellows rang on the old eight with its crazy frame and heavy-going bells. Those were the days of Mumford, James Holliday, the last of the Beadles, Charles Fairfield and, of course, some of the Braggs; but what they rang and how they rang it are matters on which we can pronounce very little. Legends and stories there are, of course, of their activities; of their ringing, for which they were paid; of their practices, which must have been very curious affairs; and of their social gatherings, which were, if nothing else, at least hearty. Among these doings there is recorded the story of how the band met for practice, but having waited in vain for Master Mumford, left the tower, fastening upon the belfry door the following light-hearted comment:—

> Brother Mumford, this is no joke—
> We'll meet you in 'The Royal Oak.'

In 1891, when the ringing band was reconstructed by that great enthusiast Geoffrey Martineau, the Braggs of the next generation were to the fore: John, Stanley, Roland, Archer, Samuel, George, to be reinforced and followed in after years by the third generation in Harry and Charles, an inextricable tangle of uncles, brothers, cousins, sons, nephews, second cousins—almost as many relationships as may be found in the Table of Affinities. And as sure as one Bragg dropped out so surely another arose to take his place.

All have proved to be able ringers and loyal servants of their belfry, and none among them has a greater claim to the affection and gratitude of the Church of St. Alphege than John Bragg, now 80 years of age, ringer for more than 60 years, tower-keeper over a great period in this century, a fine ringer of a heavy bell and a meticulous instructor of beginners.

John has always been known as 'J' because his father was John too, and the confusion that arose in referring to them was due not only to the similarity of their names but also to the unqualified excellence of their work. For both have been notable as great craftsmen, cunning workers in wood, and particularly in oak, the sturdy symbol of the lovely land of Arden, among whose lanes and hedgerows so many Braggs have lived, and moved, and had their being. To 'J' Bragg the manipulation of this magnificent timber and the shaping of it into inspired forms has been the skilled work of a long lifetime, a labour of love learned from his father, a devotion that has enriched many of the noble houses of Warwickshire.

And in the Parish Church of St. Alphege his work stands at every turn, in altar, pew and door, so that in this lovely House of God it might be said of John Bragg, as it was said of Wren: 'Si monumentum requiris, circumspice.' In this work will be found no flaw, no grudging turn of the hand, nothing to mar the perfection of the offering.

The 80th birthday was, by special request, celebrated in simple fashion with a visit to Packwood Church to ring on the newly-rehung six. Here among all the loveliness of the elms and sturdy oaks of Arden we rang Grandsire and Plain Bob, while the bright evening faded to the luminous afterglow of sunset, and the great chimneys of Packwood Hall grew black above the shining moat. Then, as darkness fell, on to The Punch Bowl for rest, refreshment and reminiscence, and the quiet chance to express thanks to our veteran for his long and unselfish service.

Long may this old Heart of Oak thrive to glorify God in the crafts of his workshop and in the loving care of his bells.

CLUTTON, SOMERSET

It was rather overcast on May 3rd when Clutton ringers and friends set off on their outing (four ringers had already travelled 15 to 20 miles by car). The first tower was Redmarley D'Abitot, a good-going six, recently rehung, where we received a cordial welcome from the Rector and one of the local ringers. A short run then took us to Ledbury, a delightful ring of eight (if only we could have struck them better). The long draught slowed up the ringing, but a course of Bob Major was creditable. The weather, by this time, was glorious, and some of the party enjoyed a sandwich lunch sitting on the grass. A scenic ride, via Tewkesbury, delighted the non-ringers of the party particularly, and took us to Toddington. The Vicar kindly showed the party the most interesing parts of his lovely church before ringing commenced. One noteworthy effort was a course of Kent T.B. Minor rung by five ladies with one (imported) gentleman to ring the tenor. The church stands in a private estate and, set in its surroundings, looked wonderful on the day of our visit.

The gentleman with the largest pile of Ordnance Survey maps directed the driver to Bourton-on-the-Water. On arrival we found that a visiting party earlier in the day had broken the stay on the second (tut, tut!). As it was, we rang six. Ringing included a course of London and concluded with a very good fall.

Our last tower was Malmesbury Abbey, where Mr. H. Blacker, a former Clutton ringer, welcomed us. We very much enjoyed these bells and were particularly congratulated on our rise in peal.

Thanks are accorded to all incumbents and local ringers, and especially to Mr. C. S. Bennett, our organiser. M. E. F.

OUTINGS

CORSTON, SOMERSET

On May 10th the ringers of All Saints', Corston, Bath, accompanied by the Rector and friends from other towers, visited North Devon for their annual outing. A start was made soon after 8 a.m. by three cars, followed shortly after by a fourth, plus a family wagon. At Swimbridge the party were met by the Vicar, and the pleasant six were soon raised in peal. Those not ringing were able to admire the church, with its magnificent screen and unusual font.

A move was then made to Landkey, where a sandwich lunch was taken, augmented by liquid refreshment from the Ring of Bells close to the church and situated in a very pleasant locality. After 45 minutes on the bells the party left for Tawstock. A somewhat tortuous route led to the ringing chamber, but the lovely eight bells gave satisfaction to all. The next tower was Bishop's Tawton, where the party were met by the local tower captain (Mr. H. C. Lock), who led the rise in peal and conducted a touch of call-changes, '60 on thirds.'

The last ring of the day was at Chittlehampton, where the party were joined by the Vicar (Rev. J. H. B. Andrews), who was able to enjoy a well-struck course of Cambridge Major. The party were loath to leave this very handy eight, but the return journey was eventually accomplished with the usual pause for sustenance en route. Thanks are due to the incumbents concerned for the use of the bells and to the various tower masters for their very kind welcome.

PUTNEY

Putney ringers rang at seven towers in three counties on their annual outing on May 10th. An early start was made and the fine octave at Boyne Hill was going by 9.15 a.m. The next ringing was on the pleasant six at the fine Perpendicular church of Ewelme, Oxfordshire. At Iffley we were given a great welcome by the Vicar and the whole band. We then went into Oxford, and after ringing at St. Giles' partook of a much-needed tea. The next stop was Cuddesdon, and our coach only just managed to negotiate the narrow lanes. From here we passed on to Great Milton.

Our last call was to the 'Church on the Hill' at West Wycombe, Bucks. After a wild scramble up the precipitous hill, during which a lady member of the party lost her shoe, the now very exhausted band reached the church. Strength soon returned, however, and ringing was almost forgotten in the ascent to the golden ball which surmounts the church tower. A. C.

PRESTBURY, GLOS

The first outing of the season was to visit Parkend, on the invitation of the Vicar, the Rev. G. R. H. Smith. The six at Awre and eight at Lydney were rung on the outward journey, and after enjoying an excellent tea in the Vicarage at Parkend, the eight tubular bells were put to good use. A course of Grandsire Doubles was brought home on the back six. This is an unusual early-Victorian church, cruciform in shape, and the parish is the centre for some of the best country in the Forest of Dean. We had to tear ourselves away to return by way of Hewelsfield and Alvington, both with five bells, on which a variety of methods were rung. Alvington bells were only just ringable. C. R.

BELFRY GOSSIP

On Ascension Day the bells of Slough Parish Church were rung for the 9.30 a.m. Sung Eucharist service by an all-school band from the Slough and Eton C.E. Secondary Modern School for the school's service. No less than 13 present pupils and two members of the staff can handle a bell. In the afternoon Linda Kew (13) followed this up by ringing her first peal, the fourth to Bob Major, at Maidenhead. The headmaster has asked that the scholars concerned ring handbell tunes at the school speech day on June 12th.

Mr. J. Ridyard informs us that the open day for ringing at Liverpool Cathedral will be June 21st instead of November as in previous years.

With the peal of Cinques at Reading (see page 310) Mr. Philip Mchew has completed the cycle of Stedman from Doubles to Cinques.

Mr. F. Neville Pailing, who rang the treble to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry campanile (see page 295), informs us that he is only 13 years of age. Congratulations, Neville; you must have looked 14 in our correspondent's eyes.

There was a disturbance during the peal at Offenham, Worcs, on April 26th, in which three young ringers were attempting their first peal. A lady opened the door of the ringing chamber and looked inside. The youngsters behaved like more experienced ringers and continued through to score a successful peal.

Writing from the Department of Physiology, Melbourne University, Mr. Peter G. Richards informs us that by the end of the year, when he has grabbed most of the Australian towers, he hopes to continue his journey back to England. Taught to ring at Tunstall, Kent, and a member of the Kent County Association, he has, as yet, rung all his peals outside the British Isles. His first peal was rung at Hamilton Cathedral, New Zealand, on December 11th, 1954.

The peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Cranleigh on May 17th is believed to be the first peal rung there for over 35 years. The peal was in the same method, but there are only three of the band left who took part in it. They are Cecil Charman, Leslie Warner and Ernest Warner. It was also the first peal since the recasting of the bells and, of course, the first for the Guildford Diocesan Guild rung at Cranleigh. Six of the band were local ringers, and it was the first peal for Joan Beeson and Donald Kirk, the new hon. secretary of the Guildford District.

'Art Sixth girls will never make ringers—they cannot count.' Comment of a Science Sixth recruit in a Surrey tower.

Messrs. Alan J. Frost, Philip Mchew, Kenneth R. Dunstan and Derek P. Jones rang three peals on May 10th, at Langleybury, Rickmansworth and Watford.

Honoured in our quarter peal column this week is Prof. John Evans, former principal of the Memorial College, Brecon, who preached in a broadcast service on May 18th in the Welsh Home Service. His 100th birthday was on May 12th.

Mr. Brian G. Warwick has 'circled' the Loughborough Bell Foundry campanile ten times, which is certainly a first on a 10-bell tower if not in any other tower. The number of times he has rung each bell is treble 11, second 13, third 11, fourth 13, fifth 10, sixth 13, seventh 10, eighth 10, ninth 10, tenor 15.

Visiting West Mersea, Essex (5, tenor 5¼ cwt.), Mr. Victor Sheppard writes: Wheel on treble only; all woodwork decayed and most fittings missing. Old frame in poor condition. All bells inscribed: 'Thomas Gardiner fecit, Sudbury 1717.' Treble has a large hole 3 inches long and 1 inch deep on the outside—a casting defect. Quite unringable.

THE WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY

MEARS & STAINBANK, 34, WHITECHAPEL ROAD,
BISHOPSGATE 2599. LONDON, E.1.

THE HALLOWING OF ALL SAINTS', MAIDSTONE, BELLS

FOR several years past the Kent County Association were concerned by the poor state of All Saints', Maidstone, bells, and quite a fair amount of quiet work and persuasion took place, until early in 1957 the Mayor of Maidstone (Ald. F. Leslie Wallis) launched an appeal for £3,500 to have the ten bells recast and rehung. This target was passed in the short time of six weeks. The necessary faculty being obtained, the bells were removed in September and the old frame dismantled from the bell loft by the bell-founders, Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough. Also removed were 40 dustbins of pigeon guano, many derelict pigeons and the accumulation of several years' dust.

The bells having been despatched to Loughborough for recasting, the tower was prepared to receive the new iron frame. As reported in the 'R.W.', a party of Maidstone District ringers visited the foundry in February to inspect the new bells and fittings. March saw the bells returned to Maidstone together with their new frame, and the task of installing in the tower began. This was completed in time for a short dedication service on Easter Saturday, which enabled the bells to ring for Easter Day.

The full dedication took place on May 10th. The service was conducted by the Bishop of Maidstone (Rt. Rev. S. W. Betts). In attendance also were the Vicar (Canon Frank Bennett), the Mayor of Maidstone (Ald. S. J. Lyle) and members of the Corporation. The service was attended by a large congregation of ringers and parishioners.

The Bishop in his address said the blessing of bells dated back by custom to the 8th century, by a sprinkling of water in those days. Today they were blessed in the name of God. When the bells rang out they proclaimed that the whole of life belonged to God, and when they called one to worship they did not call one from the main duties of life, to escape from normal problems, but called to share in something that was essential in life, God's love. Love was the only weapon the Church had in the offensive against evil.

The choir followed the Bishop's address with Henry Purcell's 'The Bells Anthem.' Immediately following, the Bishop was conducted to the belfry, together with the Vicar and Ald. Wallis, where the captain of the tower (Mr. L. Mannering) asked that the bells be blessed. The end of the blessing was a signal for the bells to peal out in rounds, followed by a well-struck touch of Stedman Caters. It was a truly lovely sound as the Bishop, Mayor and Corporation, Vicar and company retired to the Old Palace for tea. As reported in the 'R.W.' of May 10th, a peal has been composed by Mr. Louis Head and will be attempted in the near future for the first on the bells.

The opinion of three of the listening public was invited, and reports were: 'Very much better sounding'; 'More bearable now'; and 'Very, very nice to hear them again.' Amongst the ringing fraternity the reaction was one of satisfaction and pleasure with such a fine ring.

Thanks are due to all who supported the fund, to Messrs. John Taylor and Co. for their art in casting and tuning, and to the two foundry fitters, namely Mr. A. Fidler and Mr. K. Jones, also Monty and Maurice for a job well done.

The inscriptions from the old bells were reproduced on the new, together with an extra one on the tenor, which now reads as follows:

Thomas Mears, Founder, London
Rev. James Reeve, Minister
Henry Argles, Thomas Laurence, Churchwardens.
Me and my fellows recast were
When Leslie Wallis was the Mayor
1957. P. M. T.

GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

The third annual meeting of the Guild of Medical Ringers took place on May 17th at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Tring (8, 24 cwt.). Ringing, under the direction of the Master (R. E. Price), began soon after 3 and continued until 4.30, when a service of Evensong was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. K. Lowdell), who also gave an address.

The business meeting then took place in the belfry. A report on the year's activities by the secretary (D. L. Gullick) was received, and the president (P. T. Spencer-Phillips), who took the chair, was re-elected, as were the other two officers. Two new associate members were elected. Future activities were discussed; a report was given on prospects for the Dorset weekend (July 5th/6th), plans for another peal attempt, and another City meeting in the autumn. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Great Baddow. Finally, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar and to the local band for their hospitality.

Among those whom we were particularly pleased to see at the meeting were Dr. Jean Weddell, on leave from her work for children in Korea, and two student members, Messrs. Martin and Thornley, of the Middlesex Hospital.

After the business meeting further ringing went on until 7 o'clock. By then, as we became used to each other and to the bells, the standard reached became better and better, and the culminating 'presidential touch' of Stedman set the seal on the performance. We did not make a success of Surprise, but among more common methods achieved was a course of Double Oxford Bob Major.

At 7.30 a company of 19, including the Vicar and Mrs. Lowdell, sat down to dinner at the King's Head, Ivinghoe. Full justice was done to an excellent meal, and then, before separating—after a most enjoyable meeting—the proceedings were brought to an end in the fashion which is becoming a tradition: that is, by a few touches 'in hand.' on this occasion rung in the gathering twilight on the village green.

AN EBBW VALE VETERAN

A very pleasant function took place at Christ Church, Ebbw Vale, Mon, on May 10th, when 33 ringers and friends honoured their oldest member, Mr. J. Jeynes, on his 80th birthday. A supper given by the ringers, was prepared by the ladies of the band. Canon Davies, Vicar of the parish, presided, and proposed a toast to Mr. Jeynes, who then cut a birthday cake which had been made by one of the ladies. Whilst this was taking place, junior members of the band rang 'Happy Birthday' on handbells.

Tributes to his genial personality and steadfastness were paid by the Master of the ringers, deputy, churchwardens and other friends. Mr. Jeynes suitably responded.

Despite his great age, Mr. Jeynes still rings regularly for Sunday services and on practice nights. In the afternoon a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in his honour, Mr. D. J. King, of Chepstow, conducting.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Nine towers were represented at the Society's meeting at South Kirby on May 10th, but the numbers attending were affected by the meeting clashing with the Yorkshire Association's annual meeting at Pontefract. This the secretary hoped would be avoided next year.

An excellent tea was provided, free of charge, by the ladies, and the Vicar (Rev. M. Lindley) gave a hearty welcome to the Society. He deplored the fact that he had only three ringers at present and asked for someone to teach them. Three new members from South Kirby—Robert Wilson, Trevor Kemp and Allen Brewer—were elected. The next meeting, at Silkstone on June 14th, would be the shield contest, the entries for which close on June 7th. Mr. Noel F. Moxon (president) who presided, thanked the Vicar and churchwardens, those who made local arrangements, and the ladies. Supporting the proposition, Mr. John W. Moxon said he hoped South Kirby would have a team of ringers before long. Good use was made of the bells before and after the meeting.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Annual Festival

ON Saturday, May 10th, the Chester Guild held its annual festival at Bowdon, when about 100 members and friends were present. At the service in church the Vicar (Canon D. P. Low) preached and the general secretary of the Guild (Rev. J. Kingdon) conducted the service, whilst the Master (Mr. J. W. Clarke) read the lesson.

The Vicar took the parable of the talents as the basis of his remarks, and made the point that the talents were given to be used and that those servants who employed their talents were commended, whereas the one who hid his talent was reprimanded and his talent taken away from him. He suggested that we should use our talents, whatever they might be, in the service of the Church, and gave examples showing how architects, musicians, painters, sculptors, embroiderers and dramatists had all contributed to the beauty of the Church and its services. So could ringers contribute in their own special way. This must not, however, become a substitute for the offering of our own life in the service of God, but that we express the offering of ourselves to God by our talents and hope to be a 'reasonable, holy and living sacrifice unto Him.'

Tea was served in the schools by the local ringers, assisted by those from neighbouring towers, and an excellent meal was enjoyed. The annual meeting followed tea, under the chairmanship of the Master (Mr. J. W. Clarke). Apologies were received from the Rev. A. L. Minns, Mr. A. W. Frost and Mr. L. Boumphrey. It was mentioned that the Rev. A. L. Minns had now taken over a new parish on a housing estate, and that the new church would have a tower to which it was proposed to remove the now derelict six bells from Holy Trinity Church, Chester.

The annual report of the Guild was presented and copies were distributed to the Branch secretaries present.

The report recorded the death of the following members: George Bason (Rostherne), W. Stanley Booth (Daresbury), Albert Crawley (Wistaston), James Fernley (Norbury), Edward Hooper (Lawton), Pamela Hill (Oxton), Herbert Roberts (Dodleston), Noah Smith (Grappenhall) and Clement H. Taylor (Chelford); also the following non-resident members: Ernest T. Allaway, Frank Bennett, C. Henry Harding, Charles H. Page, Ernest C. S. Turner and Walter W. Wolstencroft.

The membership was 706 ringing, 20 life ringing and 16 honorary members from 87 towers. The financial affairs of the Guild were in a satisfactory state and 103 peals were rung for the Guild in 1957. There were 27 first pealers and 30 conductors, six of whom called a peal for the first time. Peals of Bristol Surprise Royal, 18, 22 and 25 methods of Spliced Surprise Major and ten methods of Doubles had been rung for the first time.

LONG PEAL ATTEMPTS

Messrs. W. Allman and A. J. Martin reported on last year's Central Council meeting, and suggested that a discussion be set on foot on this year's agenda. Various topics were discussed and it was decided that if possible some move should be made to condemn the adverse publicity which the long peal attempt at Loughborough had suffered, as it was felt that this had caused considerable damage to the prestige of the Exercise. It was also decided to forward a resolution to the Council for the 1959 meeting requiring that for long peal attempts the bells should be clearly audible both inside and outside the tower, and that in such attempts food and drink be not permitted.

Next year's festival was arranged for May 9th at a suitable place in the Wirral Branch.

Votes of thanks were accorded Canon Low for his assistance, the incumbents of the towers where ringing had taken place, the wardens, the organist and the choirboys, the local ringers and the ladies, who under the direction of Miss A. Brown had catered so ably.

Ringing was enjoyed at Bowdon, Dunham Massey, Warburton and Rostherne during the afternoon and evening, and every Branch in the Guild, except Northwich and Crewe, was represented at the festival. C. K. L.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual competition of the St. David's Diocesan Guild for the Dr. Prosser Shield was held at the Church of St. Teilo, Llandilo, on May 10th. Although the weather was not very kind, it did not prevent a good gathering attending.

Five bands competed, and Mr. F. Sharpe again acted as adjudicator. After tea in the Cawdor Hall, attended by 74 members, the results were announced as follows: 1st Llanelly, 277 marks, 23 faults; 2nd Llanbadarn Fawr, 272, 28; 3rd Llandilo, 270, 30; 4th Tenby, 249, 51; 5th scratch band 158, 142.

The Vicar (Canon T. Hughes) presented the shield and certificate to the Llanelly band and a certificate to the second band.

As a mark of appreciation for his services to the Guild, Mrs. Lewis, C.C., of Llandilo, presented Mr. Sharpe with a brief case, suitably inscribed. Mr. Sharpe, although taken a little by surprise, ably replied.

After votes of thanks, proposed by Mr. Chris Hawkins, came the highlight of the evening—a display of requested tunes by the Launton handbell ringers. Their wonderful performance was thoroughly enjoyed. The Vicar closed the meeting with prayer, and members returned to the tower to finish the evening.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING

THE 73rd annual meeting of the Sussex Association was held at St. Peter's, Brighton, on May 3rd. Ringing at the local towers took place during the afternoon and after the business meeting.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Brighton (Canon D. H. Booth), who also gave the address. He remarked upon the good singing by so many Sunday singing service ringers, a vocation we hope will always be found amongst us. A collection was taken for church expenses.

At the tea in the Church Hall we were pleased to have with us the Vicar. The meal was arranged by the St. Peter's ladies' organisations, who were warmly thanked by the Master (Mr. R. V. Johnson) for such a fine effort.

The Master presided at the business meeting. An act of remembrance of those ringers who had passed on during the year was observed.

The Master informed the meeting that he had been invited to and attended, on the Association's behalf, the enthronement of the new Bishop of Chichester at the Cathedral.

The minutes of the last A.G.M. were read and signed: the only matter arising was in respect of the display of bells and a model foundry given by Mr. and Mrs. Elphick at the church tent at Bognor in July last, at the Sussex County exhibition. Mr. Blackman proposed a hearty vote of thanks for such an outstanding effort.

The various reports were given and duly accepted. Peals were fewer than last year but still above the average. The divisional levies again caused a great deal of discussion, the interest of £33 gained on the sale of Post Office certificates was used to bring these down to 75 per cent. of the year's income. In the election of officers the only alterations were those of the central fund auditors, Mr. Riddington replacing Mr. Overy, who was warmly thanked for his past services, and the trustees, Mr. S. E. Armstrong replacing Mr. L. Stilwell, who was now hon. peal secretary.

The secretary was instructed to write to the new Bishop of Chichester, to ask him if he would honour the Association by becoming its president.

It was decided to let divisional secretaries hold six signed certificates each to enable easier distributions to be made.

As only one Central Council delegate would be going to Ireland it was decided that he should be given £12 towards his expenses, being the approximate cost of four delegates sent to Chelmsford last year.

Item 13 on the agenda was 'New rules to be formulated and a sub-committee be formed to prepare same' This created a lively discussion, members feeling that the present rules needed too much understanding and too much time over the past three years had been given to finance. It was advocated that divisional funds should be put into a central fund. A sub-committee was formed, consisting of the following: The Master, treasurer, general secretary, Mr. R. Overy and one representative from each division.

The general secretary (Mr. R. W. R. Percy) pointed out that the 75th anniversary was drawing near and preparations should soon be started if the Association decided to hold same. It was decided that this should be discussed at the next business meeting of each division and their views passed on to the general secretary.

As no news was available regarding the writing up of the Association's peal book, given in memory of the late Oliver Sippetts, Mr. Blackman offered to investigate and to report in due course. R. W. R. P.

POWER OF CO-OPTION

Dear Sir,—Like the good secretary he is, Mr. E. A. Barnett comes straight back with his references about the co-option powers of 'The Ringing World' Committee of the Central Council. 'Mr. W. W. is mistaken.' How refreshing to read it straight to the point like that. If I am, then of course I apologise to all concerned.

But if you, sir, will allow me to say so (a) I'm not sure that I'm mistaken, and (b) if I am, then I feel that 'The Ringing World' Committee have been given this power unwisely and it would be well for the Council's officers to reconsider the matter.

As regards (a), the decision that the Committee should have power to co-opt was made in 1951. This decision ought properly, of course, to be a rule and be incorporated in Rule 11 which relates to the appointment of committees. The handbook published in 1956 does not include it, though the fact, quoted by Mr. Barnett, that the similar power given to the Standing Committee was embodied in the Rules in 1956 proves my point that it is a proper subject for a rule.

If not a rule then the 1951 agreement must be a decision. But it is not included in the section of the handbook containing those decisions. When the report of the Handbook Sub-Committee was presented to the Council at its meeting in 1955 at Bristol, there was also passed on the proposition of Mr. Barnett a resolution rescinding all the previous decisions of the Council and substituting those presented in an appendix at that meeting by the Handbook Sub-Committee. That appendix included the co-option power of the Standing Committee and a brief reference to other committees, but did not include the co-option for 'The Ringing World' Committee.

There is a further section of the handbook headed 'Active committees—an account of their work.' In the account of the Standing Committee the power to co-opt is mentioned. In the case of none of the other committees is such mention made, though 'The Ringing World' Committee account refers to the new committee of 1951.

With regard to (b) above, I know that it is not uncommon for an authority to give its committees a power to co-opt members. But this power, if given, must be limited to protect the interests of the Council and its members. In the case of the Standing Committee such a limitation (to two members) has been made, although as that committee includes the officers of the Council, there would be no likelihood of the committee going off the rails. But there is no such limitation in the 1951 decision, so that between the triennial elections it would be possible for the committee to change its personnel and policy to an undesirable extent. The ordinary Council back-bencher has very little say in the actions of the Council and its committees except in voting for the membership of the committees, and if vacancies are filled by co-option he is deprived of that chance.

May I suggest that the Council's officers give serious consideration to these matters if the points I have made in (a) above are held not to be valid.—Yours faithfully,

WILFRID G. WILSON.

STEDMAN TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—The composition of Stedman Triples, viz.: Carter's Odd Bob One-part, is (probably owing to my bad writing) wrongly printed. The calling from the 4th course should read D B C D D C A, and then as printed. The calling of A should read 2, 6, 10, 12, 14.—Sincerely yours,

ST. ANNE'S PARISH CHURCH BELLS

Dear Sir,—I would like to correct a statement in the article '130 Miles in Lancashire' which appeared in the issue of May 16th, to the effect that St. Anne's Parish Church bells were cast only two years ago.

These bells were cast in 1890 by John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and were dedicated on September 18th, 1890. They were rehung two years ago on ball-bearings, also by John Taylor, and reopened on Easter Sunday, 1956.

The bells were named after the Clifton family who were benefactors of the church. These are as follows:—

2: Harry Arthur Clifton, 4 cwt. 18 lb.
3: Constance Gertrude Cecily Clifton, 4 cwt. 3 qr. 20 lb.
4: Cuthbert Clifton, 5 cwt. 3 qr. 18 lb.
5: Madeline Edith Clifton, 6 cwt. 3 qr.
6: John Talbot Clifton, 8 cwt. 3 qr.
Tenor: 'In Memoriam' Thomas Henry and John Talbot Clifton, 16 cwt. 1 qr. 10 lb.—Yours sincerely,

HARRY R. PRESTON, Hon. Sec.,
St. Anne's Parish Church Belfry,

'AN UNUSUAL GIFT OF BELLS'

Thus stated the announcer on the B.B.C. television on May 15th in opening the 6.10 p.m. programme. This referred to the collection of tintinnabula recently given to Leicester City Museum by Ernest Morris, and was thought to be so unique and interesting that before being placed on exhibition it should be televised. This was done, and with Mr. Daniel, the curator, Ernest Morris demonstrated some of the more interesting pieces. The collection included a Chinese temple gong, a heavy double-camel bell from Constantinople, a camel bell cut from solid cotton-wood which came from West Africa, a whole series of wagon or latten bells, cast by Robert Wells, of Aldbourne, Wilts (1764-99), as well as pack-horse bells from the same foundry and one by I. Stares of earlier date. Other bells included cow, bullock, sheep, goat, pony and cab-horse bells, as well as those of 'Bristol' glass, and a porcelain one from Meissen, Saxony.

After the television recording Ernest Morris was taken to the studio and gave a broadcast talk on the same subject, which was 'on the air' in Eye Witness at 3 p.m. the following Friday.

Mr. Morris has just completed a MS on 'Tintinnabula,' which he hopes to see published in book form later in the year.

SPLICING FOR CONVENIENCE — By N. F. Moxon

THERE must be many occasions at ringing meetings when a few ringers wish to try a method but cannot raise the necessary number who are able to ring it. For instance, if a touch of Kent Minor is desired four ringers may readily step forward, and although a treble man is usually available the other inside performer cannot be found, so the touch is abandoned. A solution to this, alas all too frequent occurrence, is to find a ringer who is familiar with Oxford and ask him to take the fourth rope; other inside bells could be used but usually most people are at home on the fourth.

Commence ringing and call Oxford continuing until the 4th lead when a lead of Kent is interposed; at this point the fourth bell dodges the treble in 3-4, the work being identical in Kent and Oxford and although the other bells are ringing Kent he carries on with Oxford. If a lead of Kent is also inserted at the 9th lead, rounds will come up after 240 changes, a useful touch for a meeting. Should an extent be desired, a bob must be called when 3 and 4 are together at the front, making three bobs in all.

A touch of Woodbine is often welcome, being a change from the inevitable Kent and Oxford, and is a method usually scorned although it forms the basis of no less than 26 standard methods. If again we are one short for a touch of Woodbine, put an Oxford ringer on the fourth and begin to ring the latter method; change to Woodbine during the 1st lead and continue with this method for the 2nd lead; as the fourth bell will be coming in and going out of the slow during this period he will not be affected by the change. If two leads of Woodbine are also inserted at the 6th and 7th leads a 240 will result. Three bobs, called when 3 and 4 are together, will produce 720 changes.

Snowdrop is an easy method, much neglected, and if our four ringers are determined to ring it they must again recruit the long-suffering 'Oxford' lad on the fourth; in this touch Snowdrop is called off, instructing the fourth to ring Oxford, the latter method being brought in at the 2nd lead, Snowdrop at the 3rd lead then revert to Oxford. If Snowdrop is inserted at leads 1 and 3, 6 and 8, a 240 will result and an extent can be produced by adopting the calling previously given.

Many ringers are familiar with New London, a full-lead method always enjoyable to ring, which when connected with Snowdrop produces Nelson Victory, a fine standard method. It is queer that two 'irregular' methods, New London and Snowdrop, when joined together make a regular method! By the way, New London forms the basis of 19 standard methods.

If a New London ringer can be found for the fourth bell, some Nelson's Victory can be attempted. Commence with two leads of this method, then change to three leads of New London, repeat the whole and rounds will come up at 240; three bobs with 3-4 together produce the extent.

Kingston and Wragby can be spliced easily in the same manner; the fourth bell persists in ringing Kingston which has Oxford groundwork, whilst the other bells provide the Wragby or Woodbine variation. The touch begins with Kingston, changing to Wragby for the 2nd and 4th, 7th and 9th lead-ends. The same bob calling produces the extents. The other methods in the same group, i.e., London Scholars, Sandal and Capel, will yield to the same treatment.

Great assistance can be obtained for this fascinating diversion by referring to J. Segar's 'Four-way Table of Minor Methods,' an excellent publication which can be improved by writing the ground methods Oxford, New London, Kent, Woodbine, etc., above the top line.

By H. CHANT

ATTENTION has recently been focused on the subject of F.C.H.'s by Mr. J. Segar, who pointed out that all literature on this subject, apart from his own, is now out of print. To those who use the half-lead system and to those who may want to learn about it, this article may be of use. It contains one or two slight innovations which, I think, simplify certain parts of the procedure and save time and thought (both valuable commodities!).

Mr. E. A. Barnett has raised no objection to my quoting his procedure as set out in Corrigan's, and has made several valuable suggestions as to clarifying the text in regard to the location of F.C.H.'s, suggestions of which I have gladly availed myself.

Take two pieces of cardboard and cut them into circles of, say, 4 in. and 6 in. diameter respectively, the smaller (A) and the larger (B) being secured, after being marked out, with a paper clip, or similar device, passing through the centres. This clip should be a loose fit so as to allow the two scales to be freely rotated.

Divide each card into seven equal sectors and into these sectors place the figures as follows:

Smaller (A Scale): 8 6 4 2 3 5 7, in a clockwise direction. Connect the pairs of figures 7-8, 5-6, 3-4 by arrows drawn across the surface.

Larger (B Scale): 1 2 3 4 5, also in a clockwise direction. Fill the two blank spaces with prominent black spots. The figures and spots must be placed on the outer edge so as to be visible after assembly.

WHAT FALSE COURSE HEADS ARE

A course head is an abbreviated row which signifies a complete course. E.g., 23456=the course beginning 12345678 (plain course). A False Course Head represents a course which if rung in the same composition as that which includes the plain course will contain certain rows which are identical with rows contained in the plain course.

Further, any two courses which bear the same relationship to each other, as do the plain course and its false course, will therefore mutually repeat certain rows. E.g., if course 23456 is false with course 32546 then courses 42356 and 24536 will also be false with each other.

It is therefore necessary that any composer, arranger, rearranger or what you will, should be able to discover not only what these F.C.H.'s are for any given method, but whereabouts in the two courses concerned the falseness (i.e., the repetition of rows) will occur.

METHOD OF EXTRACTING FALSE COURSE HEADS

There are many systems of extracting F.C.H.'s, but probably one that is second to none is the procedure of Mr. E. A. Barnett's in Corrigan's book. Here are sections (1), (2) and (3):—

(1) Write out half a lead of the method, and mark off the in-course (+) and out-of-course (−) rows.

(2) See whether each section is symmetrical, i.e., that places, if any, made between the first and second rows are matched by similar places between the third and fourth rows of the section. If so, consider only rows with the treble in the odd place, but in an asymmetrical section rows with treble in the even place must also be proved.

(3) Examine the rows to be proved to see if any pairs of bells coursing one another in the p.c. (2-3, 3-5, 5-7, 7-8, 8-6, 6-4, 4-2) occur in the bottom row beneath a coursing pair in the top row. If the two rows are of the same nature, both pairs must be the same way round; if they are of opposite nature the pairs must be in reverse order. If none are found, the section has a clean proof. E.g.,

i. Rows of same nature:

CAMBRIDGE—3-4 up

26143857 +

62148735 +

Rows with two examples

$\frac{57}{35}$ $\frac{78}{57}$

both in the same order.

ii. Rows of opposite nature:

LINDUM——5-6 up

64281537 +

48621537 −

Rows with one example

in opposite order. Top pair may always be regarded as in correct order and the lower pair as reversed.

The procedure to extract the F.C.H. by means of the 'chart' is as follows: Take the +ve pair (Cambridge) first.

I. (1) Place the paired figures 5-7 on Scale A opposite the two dots on Scale B and read off the numbers on Scale B opposite the numbers of the bells on Scale A as they occur in the remainder of the row—ignoring the treble. (So long as the order is kept the same in this and the next operation, it does not matter what the order is. Best, however, I think to maintain some system, so shall we, say, read the figures from the rows in descending order, i.e., 83462.) This gives the row 15324.

(2) Repeat this procedure with 3-5 against the dots and read 12453.

(3) Place 7-8 against the dots and this time read off the bells on Scale A against the rows 15324 and 12453 on Scale B which have just been obtained by (1) and (2). This gives 65243

To find the second F.C.H. which occurs from these two pairs it is necessary to make use of the arrows on Scale A, employing figures obtained at the opposite ends of the arrows in all cases. Procedure:—

II. (1) As 5 is arrowed to 6 and 7 to 8, place 6-8 against the dots and read off on the arrowed scale the figures on Scale B, 51342.

(2) The arrowed Scale A gives 4-6 in place of 3-5, so place these numbers against the dots and read off 54213 on the arrowed scale.

(3) As (3) above. (F.C.H. 46253.)

In the case of methods such as Lindum where, as is more usual, one row is +ve and the other −ve, the first row must be read off on the ordinary procedure I and the second arrowed II; then (3) will give the F.C.H.

To extract the second F.C.H. read the first row arrowed II and the second ordinary I. Proceed as (3).

The extraction of F.C.H.'s can be achieved in a few seconds, without any awkward transpositions, once stage 3 of Corrigan's (Mr. E. A. Barnett's) procedure has been reached.

LOCATION OF FALSENESS

Full information is given in Mr. E. A. Barnett's procedure, but it may be noted that falseness can be located quite simply by using the coursing circle (Scale A on the chart) and by observing the pivot bell at the first half-lead of the method.

Take first the Cambridge example, which we discovered has the F.C.H.'s 32546 and 46253 with the paired bells $\frac{57}{35}$ +.

If I may quote Mr. Barnett:—

Straightforward enough!

Now to find the places where $\frac{57}{35}$ − cause falseness, note that 3 is the pivot and substitute the pairs equidistant from it on the opposite side of the coursing circle (Scale A), i.e., for $\frac{57}{35}$ read 42, for 35 read 23. Therefore in place of $\frac{57}{35}$ in the quotation substitute $\frac{42}{23}$ and 46253 in place of 32546.

With Lindum the F.C.H.'s are 53624 and 65432, the paired bells causing falseness $\frac{86}{42}$ + with 7 as a pivot.

For the first location keep 86 unchanged. For the second pair we note that 42 is equidistant from either side of the pivot and therefore remains unchanged. The falseness is therefore located by substituting $\frac{86}{42}$ for $\frac{57}{35}$ in the quotation with a F.C.H. 53624.

For the second F.C.H. keep the bottom pair unchanged, and note that the pair corresponding to 86 with 7 as pivot is 35. The substitutions in the quotation are therefore $\frac{35}{42}$ for $\frac{57}{35}$ and 65432 for 32546.

Although the two F.C.H.'s extracted as above are all that are necessary 'for proof of a peal with tenors together,' for the sake of completeness it may be as well to point out that each of them has a reciprocal. These are found as follows:—

If the F.C.H. was, say, 43652, then—

'A. The original e.g., 43652

B. The course-head by which A must be transposed to produce rounds 63254.'

The second reciprocal is found in a similar manner.

For the location of falseness, in the quotation given in that section note that

'B 32546 is located the converse way—the 3-5 p.c.l.h. is false against the 5-7 l.h. of 32546';

(32546 is the reciprocal of 32546.)

THOSE I REMEMBER

By ERNEST MORRIS

MY wife 'Beatie'—feared yet loved by all ringers (see 'R.W.', March 21st, page 189), the only one who could meet the 'Sergeant-Major' on equal terms and tell the late inspector Harold Poole when and where to get off!—had an uncle, George Woodiss, who at one time was well known in Surrey and Middlesex as a very fine ringer who had rung over 100 peals and (I believe) called Holt's Original from every bell. He came to our wedding and I met him a few times but never in a peal. I did, however, with his son, the late Fred Woodiss, also a good ringer. On one occasion we were at Twickenham when Fred came to see cousin 'Beatie,' and incidentally brought along a composition of Grandsire Triples by the Rev. Canon G. H. Ridout, of Johannesburg, who was on a visit to this country after an absence of 20 years in South Africa, and who was looking for someone to call it for him! Fred Woodiss fixed up for this at Benhilton, Surrey, with the old Canon ringing the fourth, and I called the peal, much to the gratification of the old man, who was almost on the verge of collapse at the finish. He was so delighted, however, that he gave us a fine tea, and I believe he had a tablet put up in the tower, though I have never seen it.

'DON'T IT STINK!'

A recent invitation to ring in a peal at Monks Kirby, Warwicks, recalls an amusing episode of some 30 years ago. I was never very clever on a bicycle, but on that occasion, after going well from Leicester through Sharnford, we turned into a very rutty by-road. The late C. Henry Webb was just in front of me, and when turning the corner my back wheel slipped into a deep rut, throwing me aside—my front wheel caught Harry's back wheel, throwing him clean off his cycle. He disappeared completely into a deep ditch of stagnant water covered with fungus, nettles and undergrowth. When he reappeared his first remark was: 'Phew, don't it stink!' He was in a dreadful state, covered with slime and mud, and we spent the next half hour cleaning him down as best we could with tufts of grass, to the accompaniment of salubrious language about cycles, cyclists, and me in particular! However, all's well that ends well—we carried on and rang a good peal of New Cambridge. Harry Webb was an accomplished carver in stone and slate, and many peal tablets all over the country testify to his ability. At one time, with his two sons, he gave many exhibitions of his skill on handbells in tune ringing. He also was a good penman and wrote records in many peal books.

On another occasion at Monks Kirby we rang an excellent peal of London Surprise, which I conducted. After the peal, the late Joe White, of Coventry, who was in it, came to me and said: 'Do you know, Ernest, I thought Fred Dexter was calling the peal [he was on the tenor] till after two hours I noticed you call a bob!'. In that peal the late W. H. J. Hooton took part, also the late H. J. Poole and the late Frank Pervin.

We have lately heard a lot about Hoar Cross and peals at that glorious church with its fine heavy six bells. When I went there they were a different proposition to what they are today—on new frame, ball-bearings, and nice circle of ropes. At that time the ropes fell in a difficult, erratic 'circle'—1, 2, 3 fairly close, the fourth some distance away, with the fifth and sixth on either side of a large clock case. The fifth rope came down about 3 inches from the wall, so as I am blind on the right side, I elected to ring this and call the peal. I never saw the tenor ringer but once during the peal when, in the last 720, I dodged round to see if he was still O.K.! It was rung by that master ringer, Joe T. Dyke, so I knew it would be in its place, which it was throughout.

'WHAT'S TRANSITION?'

After several years' absence—too long!—I recently met that cheery and boisterous ringer of Nuneaton—James F. Clark, jun. Twenty and thirty years ago we rang many peals together, and 'Jim' was always the life and soul of the party. On one occasion at Loughborough Foundry we were ringing Bristol Surprise with F. H. Dexter conducting. For some reason we got in a bit of a fog, and in the excitement Shirley Burton, who was next to Jim, said: 'You do transition'; to which Jim, in his usual racy manner, said out loud: 'What the 'ell's transition?' It made us all laugh except the Sergeant-Major, who raged and stormed—called us a lot of blank school kids, ought to be in a blank asylum, and similar terms. Anyway, he sorted us out and scored the peal. In 1924 I called the extent of Ilkeston Spliced T.B. Major (9,120), and Jim rang the tenor to this clothed in a thick white jumper because he was cold!

In my last article I mentioned E. Harry Stonely and his eccentricities. When the extent of Cambridge Major was first attempted I was chosen as umpire, but it failed after four hours. In the subsequent attempt I was roped in the band, and we rang the 12,896 in 7 hours 35¼ minutes. After all this, Harry Stonely wanted to ring a course of Bristol for practice! I cannot repeat (or would it be printable?) what the Sergeant-Major said in answer to this!

On one occasion we went to Colston Bassett, Notts, and rang a peal of Cambridge. Shirley Burton took F. H. D. in his sidecar with me on the back. Returning home after the peal something went wrong with the works; and there we were, miles from anywhere, pushing the machine up hill and coasting down, but despite all efforts the thing would not go. So we had to leave it at a farmhouse and walk 11 miles to Nottingham to catch the midnight mail train to Leicester. Can words ever describe what the Sergeant-Major said about 'sparking plugs,' 'motor-cycles' and all things connected therewith? We arrived home about 3 a.m. In a recent issue Colin Walker wrote about my Beatie and the fear she puts into all ringers—can one imagine what I got on my arrival home at such an hour! And Mrs. Dexter too had a few 'kind words' to Harry Broughton whom she had routed out to see where F. H. D. was, and then some more to poor old Fred!

SOUTH WIGSTON, LEICS

Accompanied by friends from Leicester, South Wigston ringers had their annual outing on May 3rd. The first tower was the ground-floor ring of six at Brinklow, Warwickshire. Then came the fine-toned bells of Stow-on-the-Wold, with its 27 cwt. tenor. Bourton-on-the-Water bells, after having been recast and rehung by the Loughborough Foundry, are now a delight to ring on. The tenor weighs 14 cwt., and a course of Cambridge did ample justice to the bells. Unfortunately, the visit was marred by the breaking of a stay.

Broadwell, said to be the organiser's tit-bit, is an anti-clockwise five, with the tenor twice as loud as the rest put together and also quite half a tone flat! Next came Chipping Campden with its ring of eight and (by reputation) an unringable tenor. The regular tenor ringer had sense enough to stay downstairs.

Compensations came at Cheltenham, where Grandsire Cinques and Plain Bob Maximus were rung on bells that were a delight to ring, and finally, Stratford-on-Avon, surely the best-toned 10-bell tower in the country, which provided a perfect ending to a pleasant day.

Thanks are accorded incumbents, tower captains and Roger Stratton, the organiser. It is hoped to arrange a similar outing in the autumn—as Cupid was very busy in the back row!

MARCH, CAMBS

Bell-ringers from St. Wendreda's Church, March, together with friends from Peterborough and Whittlesey, held their outing on May 10th, when they rang at churches in Lincolnshire, Leicestershire and Rutland.

The highlight of the day was a visit to Messrs. Taylor's foundry at Loughborough, and the inspection of the various departments proved extremely interesting. Another looked-forward-to event was the experience of ringing the campanile bells, which the party considered well worth while.

Churches visited during the day were Edenham (a delightful eight), Silcby (a musical octave and a very fine church), and Whissendine and Empingham, two charming villages, the former church possessing six bells with a long rope-draught, and the latter a good ring of six where the tourists stayed for nearly an hour-and-a-half.

Thanks are due to the clergy and tower-keepers for permission to ring their bells; and last but not least, to Messrs. Taylor and Co.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Mr. Frank Oakshott Welcomed

Three other meetings, a ringers' wedding and a bus strike all on the same day in the same area do not help to make a big attendance. The Leatherhead District's welcome home meeting for Mr. Frank Oakshott was held despite the difficulties, and as is usually the case where attendance is small, those who did attend had a thoroughly good time. Ringing from 3 till 4.30 at Christ Church, Epsom, was followed by the Guild's form of service, the lesson being read by the ringing curate. The Vicar had the dual role of taking the service and playing the organ. A special tea awaited the ringers in the Church Hall, at which a company of 21 sat down, the seat of honour being taken by the returned wanderer and local captain, Mr. Frank Oakshott.

After tea the Vicar, on behalf of the Guild and the local band, welcomed Frank back, and his remarks were endorsed by the District Master, Mr. H. V. Young. In his reply, Mr. Oakshott said that he had had a wonderful time in Australia and that the ringers and people out there had been most hospitable. He would always cherish happy memories of the visit. At the short business meeting one new member was elected.

Ringing then continued, including plain hunting, Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge until 8.30 p.m. W. P.

OBITUARY

MR. J. G. MACDOUGAL

Mr. J. G. Macdougal, who died on May 7th at Oldchurch Hospital, Romford, Essex, aged 81 years, was an active ringer at St. Andrew's, Hornchurch, up to the time of his death.

'Mac' literally passed on in harness, for while ringing for Evensong and standing in for a three-course touch of Grandsire Triples he subsequently found himself unable to rise for belfry prayers. It transpired that he had been seized by a stroke. With some difficulty he was got down the tower and removed to hospital, where he was making an excellent recovery, but unfortunately pneumonia set in and this proved fatal.

For 38 years Mac had been a loyal member of the St. Andrew's band, being introduced to the tower by the late Arthur Rolph and taught to ring by John Dale. For many years he was tower secretary. He was especially proud of his connection with the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The funeral service was at St. Andrew's Church on May 12th, followed by cremation at the Corbets Tye Crematorium. There were no flowers by special request, and the bells were rung open, also by special request.

AN APPRECIATION

The last sentence of 'Mac's' obituary notice is synonymous with his character—'open bells by special request'—for Mac was a merry character: jolly, kind and thoughtful, he was most popular wherever he went.

Thirty-eight years of ringing in a tower is a record of which anyone can be proud, and Mac's 38 years are a record of loyalty and devotion.

We shall miss him very much at Hornchurch: the rotund figure striding vigorously up the hill for Evensong, the merry twinkle in his eye, his cheerfulness and sincerity were all too much of a part of the local scene not to be missed.

The last active member of the old Hornchurch band, Mac's passing is the end of another chapter in the history of that grand eight in the 'Church on the Hill.' May the younger band following on find inspiration in his sincerity, service and devotion. F. V. G.

'It is possible on occasion to find the f.c.h.'s from a given section without performing operations 4-5.' (The alternative in Mr. Barnett's procedure to using the chart.) 'If the alternate changes differ from one another by one pair of bells only, as in all sections of Kent Treble Bob:

'If the bells concerned are a coursing pair, the resulting f.c.h. is always 24365*; if they are one removed from a coursing pair, the f.c.h.'s will always be* 32546 and 46253*; if they are two removed from a coursing pair, no falseness will arise.'*

THE RINGING WORLD

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2462 Vol. LIV FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

DUBLIN

THE Council's first visit to Ireland will always be remembered by those who were privileged to take part in it. Not unnaturally, there were many who doubted the wisdom of holding a meeting so far away; one member at least watched the industrial situation with the feeling that while, remembering Bristol, a rail strike would not unduly have interfered with the meeting, it would have necessitated the cancellation of one in Ireland and much hard work would be wasted.

But in the event all doubts were swept away. The meeting was notable in several ways. Nearly half the members made the journey to receive a wonderful welcome and hospitality such as almost defies description. A permanent reminder, if one were needed, will be the shillelagh presented to the Council on behalf of the Irish Association by their president, Mr. William Pratt. Never before, moreover, has the Council had the honour of a welcome from an archbishop—one which, by special request, was in two languages! For the first time, also, a vice-president graced the top table, and his services were very nearly required almost at once, for the president somehow lost his way on returning from lunch! Another change in the officers arose from the election of Mr. Frank Perrens as the new librarian, and all will wish him (and his assistant) well in this very important post. The Council has been fortunate in securing for it one so well known and respected throughout the Exercise.

The absence of many of the senior members whose opinions always command respect was certainly felt, and particular regret was expressed at the continued ill-health of Mr. Joseph T. Dyke, who has served the Council in many ways for the past 30 years. However, some useful, if unspectacular, work was accomplished. The two motions were keenly debated; as a result of the first a new committee was formed to look into the important question of Sunday service ringing. No one could have failed to be impressed with the sincerity of Norman Chaddock's advocacy and with the amount of work he had already done in a limited sphere. As he rightly said, the pooling of people's experiences cannot fail to be of value.

The second motion, which was much more controversial, was not accepted. The general feeling seemed to be that the standard of what should be required in the truth of peals on five and six bells is already low enough. That is not to say that no case exists for the admission of, for instance, other arrangements than Pitman's and Morris's twelve-scores of Doubles. Indeed, this was recognised 21 years ago when the present definitions of peals of Doubles and Minor were formulated by Wilfrid Wilson and Ernest Turner. The then Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who himself felt that the composite parts of a 5,040 of Doubles or Minor should consist of separate and complete extents, and that the definitions adopted at Canterbury were a retrograde step, nevertheless commented that, since two exceptions had been admitted for Doubles '. . . it cannot stop there. There are other arrangements of Doubles, equally adaptable, which, if rung, will have to be admitted because they are equally as "true" in round blocks as those to which recognition has now been given.'

One cannot conclude without a special 'Thank you' to all those, ringers and others, on both sides of the Border who showed so many kindnesses to the visitors. The detailed arrangements involved a prodigious amount of work, and the excellence of them can be judged from the fact that everything went without a hitch. For many members it was their first visit to Ireland, and they will carry with them memories of glorious scenery—the view from Arklow churchyard, in the evening sunshine, was breathtaking—some lovely rings of bells, and of the traditional friendship which is one of ringing's greatest joys. E. A. B.

IN EAST CHESHIRE

Ringers from St. Mary's-without-the-Walls, Chester, Dodleston, Buckley and Flint made up a party for an outing in East Cheshire on May 14th. Four cars were available and a prompt start was made for Sandbach, where the eight bells were raised in peal at the appointed time of 10 a.m. Visits were also made to Astbury (6) and Congleton (8) during the morning.

After lunch at Congleton, Gawsworth (8) and Bollington (8) were visited and after tea Prestbury (8) and Holmes Chapel (6) completed the ringing, which included touches in all the standard methods, also rounds and call changes.

The outing, despite the cool and, at times, rainy weather, proved most happy and enjoyable. The countryside was looking its best, the schedule was maintained, the bells were a pleasure to ring and all the party had the privilege of seeing some most beautiful old churches for the first time, notably Astbury, Prestbury and Gawsworth, the last named with its two lakes close by. Apart from the churches, the villages of Astbury and Prestbury are well worth a visit.

A view of the radio telescope at Joddrell Bank was another interesting feature. This was first seen from the top of Gawsworth Church tower, but a closer view was later obtained on the journey between Chelford and Holmes Chapel.

Grateful thanks are extended to the clergy for placing their bells at our disposal, also to those who met us at the respective towers and made us welcome, particularly at Holmes Chapel, where Mr. Coppenhall, the captain, had the local Press photographer waiting for us, and a photograph duly appeared in the local paper! The thanks of the party are also due to Mr. Percy Swindley, who undertook all the arrangements, and whose schedule worked perfectly. G.

OUTINGS

ST. MARY'S, READING

A bright, fine morning saw ringers and friends from St. Mary's, Reading, off on their annual outing. After pausing at Streatley to pick up the 'Guinness-bird King' and stopping at Banbury for coffee, our first ring was at Daventry, where this pleasant anti-clockwise eight went well to Grandsire, Stedman, Cambridge, London and Spliced Surprise. The next stop was at Leicester, where a good course of Yorkshire Royal was enjoyed at St. John's, which was followed by lunch at the Forum Cafe. Journeying on to Loughborough, we rang the fine ten at the Parish Church, and were then conducted on a very interesting tour of the foundry by Mr. Fidler. It was then time to try our hand at the foundry bells. We rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Cambridge Royal, a very quick course of Plain Bob on the front six and a touch of Spliced Surprise on the back eight (much to Mr. Fidler's surprise).

Not only did the Forum Cafe again provide us with an excellent meal but the chef demonstrated the cooking of a mushroom omelette, and two of our party gave an exhibition of their skill with kitchen knives. At Southam, our last tower, a very well-struck course of Bristol was rung. The homeward journey was broken at Banbury for 'the usual' and the day ended to the tune of 'Uncle Tom Cobley,' etc.

We are grateful to the local incumbents and those who made ringing possible for us, and our thanks are due to Messrs. Lewis and Klorfy for an enjoyable and well-arranged outing.

LEEDS PARISH CHURCH

For their tenth annual outing, held, as customary, on the second Saturday in May, Leeds Parish Church ringers chose the Vale of Belvoir, and the choice to go southwards proved particularly fortunate in that brilliant sunshine prevailed south of Yorkshire, whereas at home torrential rain was the order of the day.

To attempt to describe the countryside, the churches, the bells and, not least, the ringing, would exhaust one's vocabulary of superlatives.

Outstanding were perhaps the opening touch of Stedman at Colston Bassett, which set the standard for the day, and the course of Cambridge at Oakham, which surprised even some of those taking part. A well-known conductor has said that anyone who can't strike Oakham bells can't ring at all—certain it is that these bells lend themselves to 'tapping.'

Oakham bells must surely be Gillett's masterpiece—they are near perfection, both inside and outside the tower. How the same founder could turn out the 'howling successes' we know in Yorkshire, to mention only Halifax and Harthill, must remain a mystery.

The hour allowed for ringing at Melton Mowbray seemed little enough, while the grand octave at Bottesford were not appreciated perhaps as much as they deserved, following Oakham.

Each year we try to 'go one better' on the previous year's outing, but wherever the next outing takes us, on one thing we are unanimous, we can never expect to have a better selection of towers than in 1958. R. H. D.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The band which rang the peal of Bristol at Brewood on May 17th travelled a total distance of 934 miles between them to do so. The youngest member of the band was 18, the oldest 20, and the average age was 19. The band which rang the peal of Little Bob Royal at Derby on Whit Monday had a lower average—18.8 years. The age range was greater here and it would appear that after the age of 20 one is on the decline!!

No praise can be too high for the masterly way Burnham's Joan Bacon rang her bell to her first peal at the age of 12 on May 17th at Hitcham, Bucks.

Bells will be heard prior to the morning service from Emmanuel Church, Plymouth, on Sunday, June 15th (West Home Service and Midland Home Service). The service will be conducted by the Vicar (Prebendary J. Denis Wakeling). Captain of the ringers is Mr. J. Sims.

Ladies, watch those shoulder straps! A peal might have been lost when a very embarrassed Jill tried to replace a most elusive shoulder strap and catch the sally at the same time. Fortunately, only rounds were being rung prior to the word 'Go.'

On Tuesday, May 20th, Councillor H. G. Mackrell was elected Mayor of Romsey for the second time. The Abbey bells were rung to mark the occasion and to convey to the new Mayor the sincere wishes of the bellringers for a happy and successful year of office.

Belfry Gossip items relating to the wonderful Central Council visit to Dublin appear on page 367. The welcome and programme exceeded all expectations. Peal ringing was most successful—about 17 peals being rung. Wherever visiting ringers went they were most cordially received. Most of the ringing was on a high plane and the striking vehy good.

The fact that a peal attempt was being made at Abergavenny on May 19th, in honour of Alderman Horsington, was broadcast in the Welsh news at 6.10 p.m. whilst the bells were ringing, about 50 minutes after the start for the successful peal. Those who took part were graciously entertained to supper after the peal, by Ald. and Mrs. Horsington.

The ringers of treble, 2 and 3 in the peal at St. Giles', Lincoln, on May 24th, were three generations of one family — grandson, treble; mother, 2; and grandfather, 3. Congratulations.

Will all those who rang in the peal of Yorkshire at Drogheda on Saturday, May 24th, please take all necessary precautions against infection, as the ringer of the 2nd developed measles on returning to England.

The Rev. Wilfred Couch, in whose memory a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung at Warehorne on May 24th, was an author and had broadcast on the B.B.C.'s 'Silver Lining' programme. Latterly he suffered much from arthritis but he always took an interest in the ringing of the beautiful little ring of bells in his church.

The four local ringers who rang their first peal at Holme Pierrepont on May 18th are part of a company who have only been able to ring methods since Christmas (prior to that they had to ring by numbers) but to date they have rung seven Plain and six Treble Bob methods. Their achievements also include five quarter peals, a 720 for most Sunday evening services, and their tutors are very proud of the way they are all trying.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AT DUBLIN

ARCHBISHOP'S AND DUBLIN CITY COUNCIL'S WELCOME — THE GIFT OF A SHILLELAGH — TWO NEW OFFICERS — WISE INVESTMENTS — NEW PUBLICATIONS FOR LIBRARY — THE ACCOUNTS — HISTORY OF CHANGE RINGING NOT TO BE PROCEEDED WITH — 'THE RINGING WORLD'

FOLLOWING three days of generous hospitality and friendship, together with a well-arranged ringing programme, the second session of the 23rd Council (61st annual meeting) was opened at the Synod Hall, Dublin, on Whit Tuesday, with welcomes from the civic authorities and the Church.

The President (Mr. Fredk. Sharpe) had the pleasure of welcoming the Deputy Lord Mayor of Dublin and the Archbishop of Dublin.

In his welcome to the Central Council the Deputy Lord Mayor (Cclr. E. Dockrell) said: 'I believe your Association has been visiting various cities in Ireland and rung on a large number of bells. . . .'

Ireland had had bells from the earliest time, and today they had some magnificent bells and Ireland stood high among the countries that had good bells. On behalf of the Lord Mayor and the Corporation of Dublin he welcomed them to the city and wished them a pleasant and interesting time in the country.

The Archbishop (the Most Rev. G. O. Simms) in his greeting to the Council said bells had a time-honoured association with their city. There was a tradition that long before Christ Church Cathedral was founded St. Patrick himself had held meetings in that hall, and St. Patrick, as they knew, had been associated with bells. Dublin was very proud of its bells. 'I hope you will have an excellent Council meeting in this hall and that God will bless you now and always in your going out and coming in.'

Mr. Wm. Pratt, president of the Irish Association of Ringers, in his welcome said it was very appropriate that the Council had decided to cross the Irish Sea on the 60th anniversary of their Association. 'You have done us a great honour and we very much appreciate it.'

There were church bells in the service of the Church all over the world, but it was in England where the art of change-ringing had been raised to perfection. They were very pleased to have English ringers here practising their art.

In Ireland they were not very well placed in regard to their rings of bells as they were spread widely over the country and therefore it was difficult to attain the same perfection. It was a case of the young ringer learning his art by the hit and miss method; in England the young craftsman had the expert to teach him.

They hoped that beside bells they had seen some of the beauties of the country and that that would induce them to spend some of their holidays in the country.

Mr. Pratt then on behalf of the Irish ringers presented to the Central Council a shillelagh—not as a weapon of offence but as a token of friendship to their brother ringers across the sea.

The silver inscription read:

> 'From the bell-ringers of Ireland to commemorate the first meeting in Ireland of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. Whitsuntide, 1958.'

Thanking the Irish ringers very warmly for their gift, the President said: 'We of the Central Council have thoroughly enjoyed our stay in Ireland so far, and I go so far as to say that it is one of the most enjoyable gatherings we have ever experienced, and in no small degree it is due to the welcome we have received.

'To the people of Dublin and the Corporation we say thank you for the welcome we have received. We thank the Church for all the facilities given to us to ring your bells and visit your churches, and to the Irish Association we can never say thank you enough for all you have done with your hospitality.'

The Dean of Christ Church (the Very Rev. E. H. Lewis Crosby) then led the Council in prayer.

A postcard was read from Miss J. Armstrong, of Morpeth, wishing the Council a successful conference.

REPRESENTATION OF SOCIETIES

The hon. secretary announced that since the last meeting the North Wales Association had ceased to be affiliated. The strength of the Council was 55 Associations, affiliated with 153 members, 24 honorary members, 6 life members, making a total of 183. There were two vacancies among representative members, three among honorary members. All subscriptions had been paid.

PRESENTATIONS

VICE-PRESIDENT

Mr. F. W. Perrens proposed the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow as the first vice-president of the Council. Mr. Thurlow, he said, had served the Council for a number of years, and most of them had heard his words of wisdom, so thoughtfully and so forcibly expressed.

Mr. T. J. Lock seconded and the resolution was carried.

HON. LIBRARIAN

Mr. E. H. Lewis proposed Mr. Frank Perrens as hon. librarian. 'You must agree with me that we cannot have anyone more suitable for the position than Mr. Perrens.'

The hon. secretary seconded and the resolution was carried.

Returning thanks, Mr. Perrens said he accepted the task with some trepidation because he followed one who had done the work so efficiently for many years, and also because there was a considerable amount of manuscript for examination and he felt he was not fully equipped to pass judgment on some of it. Mr. Speed had, however, offered to undertake some of this work.

HONORARY MEMBERS

Mrs. J. G. Steeples was re-elected an honorary member upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee. The resolution was moved by Mr. F. G. Dunkerley and seconded by Mr. Leslie Morris and carried.

LOSSES BY DEATH

The Council stood as the following losses by death were remembered:—

Messrs. F. Bennett, H. W. Brown, H. Chambers, J. Cook, F. Dench, J. Hardcastle, J. Holden, J. E. Lilley, E. W. Marsh, F. Preecey, Rev. C. J. Sturton.

Mr. R. G. Blackman, in a tribute to Mr. Frank Bennett, said he would not dwell on his work as a ringer, conductor or composer, but express admiration and gratitude for the quiet, sound, fatherly advice he gave to so many would-be change-ringers. He was always very quiet, never spoke a great deal, but they all had great confidence in his judgment. He had given a great legacy to the Council in his granddaughter.

Mr. George Pullinger, on behalf of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, also spoke of Mr. Bennett's work on behalf of the old Winchester Guild.

Mr. E. A. Barnett, in thanking the members on behalf of his wife and himself for the tributes, said they were very pleased to carry on in some small way the work of Mr. Bennett, who had been a very great ringer.

Mr. A. D. Barker, in a reference to Mr. F. Dench, said there were few now who knew of the excellent work he did in composition.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott, in an appreciation of Mr. J. E. Lilley, said he was tireless in helping struggling bands in his District. He had been a good friend of many ringers in Mid-Devon.

Mr. H. Sanger paid a tribute to Mr. H. W. Brown, whom he described as a very quiet man but one who did good work in the Bath area to improve the standard of ringing.

Mr. P. I. Chapman, in a reference to Mr. Harry Chambers, of the famous Irthlingborough band, said he was a quiet and unassuming man but a great example to them all.

THE MINUTES

The hon. secretary said the Minutes had been circulated. There was an omission in the names of new members, Mr. G. J. Joyce, of the Guildford Guild. With that addition he moved the acceptance of the Minutes as a true record of the proceedings.

Mr. T. J. Lock seconded and this was agreed to.

REPORT OF THE HON. SECRETARY AND TREASURER

Mr. E. A. Barnett reported:—

As a result of the decision at the Chelmsford meeting regarding the balance of the Clement Glenn Bequest, advantage was taken of the very favourable conditions prevailing after the raising of the Bank Rate to 7 per cent. to invest the money in one medium dated and one longer dated British Government Stock. These were bought at 70⅞ and 91¼ respectively. The market prices at the time of writing were 75⅛ and 95⅛. Should it be necessary to raise money at short notice these can, of course, be realised immediately.

During the year the secretary was interviewed by the B.B.C. in connection with a series on 'British Hobbies' being broadcast in their German service, answered queries from a number of London papers in connection with the record peal attempts at Loughborough, and supplied information to 'Church Illustrated' and 'Readers' Digest' for articles on ringing. It was also his pleasure to represent the Council at a number of dinners in various parts of the country.

Mr. C. W. Woolley has reported progress in the revision of 'Stedman,' which was begun by the late Ernest Turner. He has decided that in view of the many alterations and revisions made by Mr. Turner to the original text, the only practical course was to retype the whole work, incorporating such other amendments as he considered appropriate, and about a quarter of this has been completed.

The affairs of 'The Ringing World' are dealt with in detail elsewhere, but I would here like to express my thanks to Mr. W. N. Park for relieving me of the task of preparing the accounts of that journal. Thanks are also due to Mr. W. G. Wilson and Miss C. L. Groves who, for the last six years, have typed and duplicated these papers, and to those who kindly send me copies of reports and other publications.

The hon. secretary formally moved the adoption and Mr. W. F. Oatway seconded.

Before submitting the report the President paid tribute to the work of the hon. secretary and treasurer and Mrs. Barnett. 'I always feel the officials do the lion's share of the work and we do appreciate all they do,' he said.

The report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE HON. LIBRARIAN

Mr. Frederick Sharpe reported:—

The sale of publications increased considerably during 1957, and was approximately one-third greater than in the previous year. This was chiefly due to the issue of the Council's Handbook, of which 327 copies were sold. Sales of 'Village Bells' came second and 'Preservation' third.

I regret that the profit on the year's working amounted only to 14s. 2d., but this was chiefly due to the increased cost of postage and the number of complimentary copies of the 'Handbook' distributed.

Stocks of 'Change Ringing on Handbells' are low, as are also the 'Bristol' and 'Cambridge' method sheets, and I recommend these be reprinted. We need more publications to sell, and look forward to the forthcoming issue of the 'Beginners' book; but I am also constantly asked for a new edition of 'Minor Methods' and a book on 'Triples Methods.' I hope these will not be long delayed.

The borrowing of books of reference has decreased slightly. In view of the impending change in the office of librarian, may I ask all borrowers of the Council's books to return those no longer required as soon as possible, and to write me signifying if they wish to retain any books. Owing to great pressure of work I regret I have been unable to make progress in cataloguing the library MSS.

During the year the library received the gift of copies of 'The Irish Bell News' from Mr. F. E. Dukes; 'The Great Bell of Moscow,' an Italian book printed in 1802 describing some bells in Rome, and a Danish book describing pre-Reformation bells in that country, from Mr. E. H. Lewis; the peal books of the late Mr. Arthur Knights, from Mr. A. P. Knights; the 'Training Manual' of the College of Campanology, from Dr. J. Hatcher; the 'Science of Change Ringing,' by the late Mr. J. A. Trollope, and MSS. formerly belonging to the late Mr. Ernest Turner, from Mrs. W. D. Turner; to all of whom our best thanks are tendered.

The recent death of the Rev. E. S. Tarrant came as a great shock to us all. To Mrs. Tarrant and members of her family we offer our sincere sympathy. Mr. Tarrant very kindly housed the library in his Rectory at Launton during my term of office as librarian, and had it not been for his kindness I could not have accepted the office.

Once again I must pay tribute to Mrs. J. G. Steeples for all the good work done in connection with the sales section of the library. Most unfortunately, pressure of home duties compelled her to resign at the end of last year, much to our great regret, and we tender to her our very best thanks for her loyal, devoted and valued work. Finally, I must thank my daughter Elizabeth for managing the sales section of the library since the resignation of Mrs. Steeples.

Moving the report the President said it would be the last he would make in the capacity of hon. librarian. In amplification he said 55 complimentary copies of the Handbook were sent to various Associations, which accounted for the small profit. They proposed to reprint 'Change Ringing on Handbells' and the 'Cambridge' and 'Bristol' method sheets. They could not have too much to sell. There was a tremendous demand for books on Minor methods and Doubles methods.

He wanted to make a public appeal to those who had books on loan from the library—and some people had had them for years—either to return them or send a note that they would return them at an early date. This did not apply to Associations which had books on permanent loan, as these were duplicate books.

The Rector of Launton died suddenly two months ago. He had housed the library for six years free of charge to the Council. It was suggested by the Standing Committee that the hon. secretary write to his widow expressing their sincere sympathy.

Since the report had been compiled Mrs. W. S. Turner had presented a number of manuscript books compiled by Mr. J. Armiger Trollope, which would be added to the library shortly. They were very grateful for the gift.

Mr. P. Crooke seconded.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott thanked the President for his work as librarian. 'We were fortunate in having a man who not only took an interest in the library but one who knew more about the contents of the books than almost anyone.'

Mr. W. Wilson said the MSS. books of Mr. Trollope were really wonderful.

The accounts are accompanied by the auditor's certificate: J. Lunnis, Thames House, Queen Street Place, London, E.C.4.

Presenting the accounts the hon. secretary and treasurer said on the Income and Expenditure Account of the General Fund there was a gradual increase in expenses, which was no doubt due to the increased cost of printing and increased postage. They had had to pay two years' Income Tax on interest received on the Deposit Account for the Clement Glenn Fund, and as a result their balance was considerably smaller than the past few years. If it had not been for the interest they would have been some £5 on the wrong side.

In regard to the General Fund balance sheet the only point of comment was the purchase of office and library equipment. He was grateful for the authority to purchase a four-drawer steel filing cabinet in which to keep the Council's papers and records.

In regard to the Clement Glenn Bequest, provision had been made for a memorial stone. To his relatives Mr. Glenn left trifling amounts, and it was felt by the Standing Committee that as Mr. Glenn left £800 to the Council they should meet the cost of the memorial stone.

This year they had been fortunate to get the accounts audited before the meeting. Turning to 'The Ringing World,' they made quite a good profit, almost £500, but he felt that he should point out that the profit figure was gradually coming down. Some two years ago they made about £1,000, the profit the previous year was nearly £850 and this year £491. They must not forget that £491 included £281 in donations, so that the actual trading profit was some £200 odd. While that was satisfactory it was only half the amount of the Woodbridge Press bill for one month.

There was an increase of £80 in the sum for Notices, and the Editor told him that this increase was largely through personal announcements. Advertisements were slightly down, mainly due to Gillett and Johnston's advertisement ceasing.

On the expenditure side the Woodbridge Press printing account was up some £300, editorial up some £80, cost of postage and wrappering almost £100, accountancy £4.

As to 'The Ringing World' balance sheet, they had been able to take the maximum holding of £1,000 in 4½ per cent. Defence Bonds.

Mr. A. A. Hughes seconded the adoption of the accounts.

Mr. L. W. G. Morris called attention to debtors' £802 12s. 6d., and asked for an explanation.

The hon. secretary explained that it was on 'The Ringing World'; Rolls House always paid three months in arrears.

Mr. H. W. Rogers paid tribute to the way the hon. treasurer had compiled the accounts.

The accounts were then adopted.

TRUSTEES OF THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE

The report, signed by Mr. A. Walker and Mr. A. A. Hughes, stated:—

Since the last Council meeting there has been one demonstration, which was held at the Science Museum on February 15th for the benefit of the Upper Clapton Society of Voluntary Ringers. Twenty-one members attended and saw Stedman Cinques and Kent Treble Bob touches brought round. In the morning, while the machine was being cleaned and run through, a lady ringer from Clare who was in the museum by chance was also able to see it working.

No further progress has been made with the booklet describing the machine, but it is hoped this will not be long delayed.

The report was adopted on the proposal of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mr. Leslie W. G. Morris.

Mr. F. Dunkerley said members might be pleased to know that the Lancashire Association had acquired the Woodhouse machine, so they had a competitor.

STANDING COMMITTEE

The hon. secretary reported that the Standing Committee received the report of the Handbook Sub-Committee and considered the agenda in detail. They also co-opted Mr. W. N. Park to 'The Ringing World' Committee. He moved and Mr. F. E. Dukes seconded the report, which was adopted.

BELFRY GOSSIP FROM DUBLIN

The Central Council has a new problem—the appropriate use for the handsome and fearsome shillelagh presented to it by the Irish Association. It has been suggested the shillelagh be regarded as a mace and carried in front of the president at the opening of Council meetings. The hereditary bearer of the shillelagh should be a representative of the Irish Association—preferably 'a duke.'

Mr. A. D. Barker bagged more than towers and peals during the Central Council meeting. His experiences at a lodge meeting will be an interesting story to fellow ringers who are members of the craft.

'Pat's' adventures would fill the whole of 'Belfry Gossip.' To his room-mate on Monday night he cried out, 'Ralph, there's a rat in my bed!' Investigation proved that it was a bouquet from an admirer in the form of some Irish gorse.

Having had a successful week in Ireland, Mr. W. Williams is planning a Scottish tour in August. Mr. Pipe's tour will be in Wales.

Mr. Walter Allman was late at the Dublin Airport to take his plane home to Liverpool. He left by a later plane to Manchester. Unfortunately he had not his parachute with him, else he could have dropped over Liverpool!

It was well past midnight that the bedroom door of a lady's room at the Central Hotel, Dublin, was unlocked and there emerged the lady and three men. It was a 'fast' occasion—a handbell peal of Plain Bob Major in 1 hour and 50 minutes. At one time there was an audience of about 20 outside the bedroom, trying to guess who was 'calling the bobs.'

President Frederick Sharpe and Mr. Paul Taylor were guests of honour at the International Conference of carillonneurs at Cobh on Wednesday week. The president had to reply to a civic welcome, and Mr. Taylor gave a talk on change ringing. The day concluded with a 'fireside hour,' which was made memorable by the changeringing on handbells by Mr. Sharpe and some of 'Pipe's Southern Ireland Pilgrims.' The reception was most enthusiastic and 'the hour' did not finish until 1 a.m.

The Eastern District of the Irish Association gave the visitors most generous hospitality at Arklow during the Sunday afternoon tour that preceded the conference. Generosity of an equal character is reported from Cork and Limerick and also Northern Ireland. A warm thank you to our hosts.

Radio Eireann had a special interview with President Sharpe and Secretary E. A. Barnett at Dublin, which was recorded, together with handbell ringing. Finally the president sang the Appleton Ringers' song, which was duly recorded.

The Irish Press was most generous in the space given to the Central Council's visit, with special interviews with the president and secretary and Mr. Wilfrid Wilson. The 'belles' of the conference made a charming three-column picture—Miss Freda Greaves (Kings Lynn), Miss Kathleen Yeo (Tenterden) and Mrs. Olive Barnett, Miss Margaret Beamish and Mrs. Olive Rogers (Isleworth). 'The Cork Examiner' excelled itself by knighting our president!

SUB-COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER THE COMPILATION OF A HISTORY OF CHANGE-RINGING

Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis (convener) reported: The members of the Sub-Committee have very carefully considered the question of the writing of a History of Change-ringing, and are unanimously of the opinion that such a work is not one which they can recommend the Council to undertake. They consider that such a work must, by its very nature, be the work of an individual who would need to have the time, means and ability to do the research.

The Sub-Committee has not been able to find any substantial demand for such a book.

Mr. Lewis, in presenting the report, said he first thought it was a much easier job than anticipated. They found it would be a monumental task. They had an idea as to how it could be compiled, and although the material was there they found it was an impossible task unless they had an individual with unlimited time. The individual who wrote the thesis would either make or mar the work. They could not recommend the Council to invest £300, £400 or £500. The conclusion the Sub-Committee reached was unanimous.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead seconded.

Mr. P. I. Chapman disagreed with the second paragraph. He thought there was a demand.

The President: We all felt disappointed about the conclusion, but we could not see a satisfactory conclusion.

A suggestion was made by a member that inquiries be made from Associations to see if they had a person to recommend to undertake the work.

Mr. J. H. Crampion: How did the Sub-Committee reach their conclusions?

Mr. Lewis said he made enquiries in his part of the world as to the demand for the book and found that there was not a great deal of interest in it. Mr. Ernest Morris had to flog his latest book in 'The Ringing World' to sell it. There were people in that room who would buy the book but that would only be about 100. The price would be about 25s. to 30s.

Mr. R. G. Blackman said during his stay he had met a Father Sherridan who was interested in ringing. He asked if the Council had a book on the history of change-ringing, and left his address if a book was published.

The report was adopted.

Mr. F. E. Dukes: That means that the Committee goes out of existence.

The President: Yes.

'THE RINGING WORLD' COMMITTEE

The report, signed by Mr. J. Frank Smallwood (convener), stated:—

Your Committee is able to report that another year has been completed with the balance on the right side. This year has shown the full effects of the increased printing costs, and by the use of every possible economy a net balance of income over expenditure to the extent of £200 was realised. This was augmented by donations amounting to £281.

The financial situation can, therefore, be regarded as fairly satisfactory, but the profit is not sufficient to encourage your Committee to embark on any substantial schemes to improve the paper.

During the year it was found necessary to have a few issues containing 20 pages in order to accommodate the very large amount of matter for which space must be found. Whilst this has partly disposed of the space problem, it seems certain that from time to time we shall have to provide an extra four pages. Naturally we shall not be able to indulge in this luxury very often or we shall finish up on the wrong side.

Your Committee has under consideration schemes for augmenting the income. It notes that in the matter of donations much more support has come from quarter peal ringers than that received from peal ringers. Whilst being unwilling to suggest a levy on the publication of peal reports, your Committee feels that those who enjoy the use of approximately five pages per week to record their performances should show more generosity than has hitherto been the case.

The circulation remains about the same as last year, but in view of the recently published statistics of the number of ringers it is a sad reflection that only about one-eighth of them take 'The Ringing World.'

During the year we have lost the services of Mr. J. T. Dyke who, because of ill health, feels unable to continue to serve you. Our warmest thanks are accorded to him for his loyal service and sound advice, and we all wish him a speedy restoration to health. Your Committee has invited Mr. W. N. Park to serve in his place and he has kindly consented to do so. Mr. Park has already given good service in connection with the accounts and we feel he will be a valuable acquisition to the Committee.

Once again we place on record our sincere thanks to all who have assisted in the production of your journal, particularly to the Editor and his staff; Mr. Roper, the compiler of the index; to all who sent donations; to all literary contributors; and to all District representatives.

The hon. secretary, in moving the adoption of the report, said there had been some recent correspondence in 'The Ringing World' on the powers of co-option of the Committee. He also proposed the co-option of Mr. W. N. Parks.

Mr. F. W. Perrens seconded.

Mr. W. G. Wilson said he would like to ask the officers of the Council to look into the question of altering the rules to provide for co-option to 'The Ringing World' Committee. There was an unfinished correspondence in 'The Ringing World.' Mr. Barnett had already stolen from his main point. Had 'The Ringing World' Committee powers to co-opt? He knew that in 1951 'The Ringing World' Committee was given such powers, but in 1955 he proposed and Mr. Barnett seconded a motion which was passed that rescinded all previous decisions of the Council and substituted those in the Handbook. That meant that the power of the 'R.W.' Committee to co-opt members had been rescinded. That might not be the intention of the Handbook Committee. He suggested that in the next 12 months the officers should look into the matter and move an amendment to the rules. He moved an amendment to that effect.

Mr. J. Dunwoody seconded the amendment.

Mr. W. B. Cartwright said where the Council went wrong was in 1951 when 'The Ringing World' Committee was elected with powers to co-opt. In his opinion they did not have the power to co-opt; that could only be done by an alteration of rules. That must be ultra vires because they could only alter rules by notice of motion and that was where, in his opinion, the Council was wrong. He thought the question of co-option ought to be gone into by the Standing Committee.

Mr. A. A. Hughes: I am wondering, as treasurer of 'The Ringing World,' where I stand. I don't think I was ever legally appointed.

The report was adopted and also the amendment that the officers examine the whole position regarding co-option.

Mr. R. G. Blackman said the Council ought to have a decision as to what was meant by co-option because he felt that any committee should have the power to call on anyone at any time to help them.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Canterbury District

What is sometimes described as the prettiest village in East Kent was the place of the latest meeting of the Canterbury District. The village is Wickhambreaux, with its large, tidily-kept green, complete with chestnut trees in full flower, and the Church of St. Andrew in one corner. There was ringing during the afternoon, there was the usual service in the church, after which the Rector was enthusiastic with the singing, and following the service there was what some of the ringers called a 'smashing tea,' with Mrs. Walter's sandwiches (all sorts) and sausage rolls, and Mrs. White's cream cakes and pastries, all of which set the seal on a very pleasant afternoon and evening, the weather being the least kind. Three new members were elected. Grateful thanks were expressed to all who had helped to make the meeting a very happy affair.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Southern District At Cobham

Although the attendance was fairly low, the Southern District held an enjoyable meeting at Cobham and Stoke D'Abernon on May 17th.

The Rector of Stoke conducted an impressive service in the beautiful old church, and afterwards joined the members for a really splendid tea prepared by Mrs. Powell.

Among those present were the new Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild (Mr. C. W. Denyer) and his family, including his little daughter, aged six, who is the youngest lady ringer seen locally. Other visitors came from the Surrey Association. Ringing ranged from rounds to Stedman and Kent.

At the business meeting details were given of the recent peal, the first for the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild, and congratulations were offered to all concerned. Four new members were elected, and mention was made of the coach booked to take members and friends to the annual general meeting at Canterbury on July 5th. (See notice in 'Ringing World' of May 16th.)

Local ringers are thanked for their co-operation. B. M.

CARTER'S ODD-BOB PEAL OF STEDMAN TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—Mr. E. A. Barnett's letter re the above in the May 23rd issue of 'The Ringing World' is correct. The original composition was first rung at Harborne Parish Church, Birmingham, on December 17th, 1898, composed and conducted by John Carter and the figures published as stated in 'Bell News,' December 24th, 1898, also in Trollope's 'Stedman,' page 58.

A. WALKER.

Birmingham.

The hon. secretary said the co-option of Mr. Parks arose from his very kind offer to do the accounts of 'The Ringing World' to relieve him of a big burden.

Mr. J. H. Crampion: If all the Committee were to drop out through ill-health except one member, would that member have the power to co-opt?

The President: No.

Upon the proposition of Mr. E. H. Lewis it was decided to empower the secretary to write to Mr. Dyke, thanking him for his services and wishing him a speedy restoration to health.

Yorkshire Association Annual Meeting At Pontefract

THE annual meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Pontefract on May 10th and was attended by members and friends representing each of the four Districts. Ringing took place on the Parish Church bells and also All Saints' before and after the meeting. The service was held in St. Giles' Church, conducted by the Vicar (Canon Clark) assisted by the president of the Association (Archdeacon C. O. Ellison), who gave the address.

Following tea in the Parochial Hall, the business meeting took place, the president taking the chair, supported by the general secretary (Mr. L. W. G. Morris), the hon. treasurer (Mr. G. Benfield) and the hon. peal secretary (Mr. W. E. Critchley). Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. S. F. Palmer, A. E. Sellers, H. Chant, W. Barton, B. Sutton, J. J. L. Gilbert and J. H. Lenton.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicars and churchwardens of St. Giles' and All Saints' Churches for the use of their bells was ably moved by Mr. P. J. Johnson, seconded by Mr. J. Thorley, and carried with applause. This was suitably acknowledged both by the Vicar of St. Giles' (Canon Clark) and the Vicar of All Saints' (the Rev. Mr. Fowkes). A similar vote of thanks to the local companies of both churches for their excellent arrangements was moved by Mr. V. Bottomley, seconded by Mr. S. H. Steel, and also carried with applause. Mr. H. Newton, in reply, said how pleased the Pontefract ringers were to entertain the Association on this occasion, and hoped all present would enjoy their visit.

Presenting the report of the committee, the president drew attention to the fact that in contrast to the previous year, the membership showed a slight improvement. The effect of the increased subscription which came into operation at the beginning of this year remained to be seen, but the committee felt confident that this small increase would not of itself lead to any loss in membership. Reports from the Districts showed that progress was being maintained with the exception of the expansive Northern District, where there was very little change ringing, and the bells at many towers were often silent.

The treasurer's statement showed a further small loss on the year's working, but although the cost of printing the annual report had increased once again, there were grounds for hoping that the peak had been reached. It was this continual drain on the Association's resources that the increased subscription rate was designed to stop. Fortunately, the loss was not as great as was anticipated due to receipts from the sale of old copies of Association reports.

LOSSES BY DEATH

Altogether, and including out-county members, the Association has lost 16 members through death during 1957 and the early part of 1958, among them being Mr. T. F. Earnshaw, formerly of York, who had been a member since 1890, and whose death severs the last link with the band which rang the last peal at York Minster—Grandsire Caters on November 9th, 1892, and Mr. J. H. Brothwell, of Treeton, who joined in 1893 and had taken part in 229 peals for the Association. He was an excellent striker, who rarely made a trip even in the most difficult Surprise methods. His last peal, one of Cambridge Surprise Major, was rung at Handsworth in 1953 at the age of 79 years. Recorded also with deep regret is the death of a promising young ringer, Michael Stephenson, of Ossett, who was killed in a motor-cycling accident.

The annual Snowdon Dinner, held at Rotherham, attracted a record attendance of 172, and was honoured by the presence of many distinguished visitors, including Bishop G. V. Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett and Mr. J. F. Smallwood. The energetic local committee under Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert and Mr. N. Chaddock had spared no effort.

FEATURES OF PEALS

The peal secretary's report showed that 90 peals had been rung during the year at 42 churches and four handbell centres. The calling of the 90 peals had been shared by 31 conductors. Nineteen members had rung their first peal and four members had conducted a peal for the first time. Congratulations are extended to the Sherburn-in-Elmet band on ringing peals of Doubles in 14 methods, both 'in hand' and on tower bells, followed by a peal in 21 methods on tower bells, which is the most Doubles methods to be rung to a peal by the Association; and another meritorious performance was a peal of London Surprise Major by the Sunday service band at All Souls', Haley Hill, Halifax. A number of centuries have also been accomplished during the year. Mr. L. W. G. Morris has passed his 300th peal for the Association; Mr. M. C. Fowler his 200th; and first centuries have been accomplished by Miss D. M. Hawley, Mr. G. Jackson, Mr. W. F. Moreton and Mr. V. Bottomley. Miss Hawley is to be congratulated on being the first lady member to ring over 100 peals for the Association.

The report concluded by placing on record the Association's thanks to Mr. Irvin Slack for the compilation of a complete index of towers and the peals that have been rung in them, from the foundation of the Association in 1875 to the present day—an invaluable acquisition for quick and easy reference. Finally, the attention of members was drawn to the two prayers printed on the inside of the front cover of the report, which, it is hoped, will be widely used.

Mr. J. Gibson gave the auditors' report, following which Mr. E. Hudson formally moved adoption of the entire report. This was seconded by Mr. A. E. Marsh, and the report was unanimously adopted.

Mr. G. Benfield was unanimously re-elected hon. treasurer for the next three years, and Mr. W. E. Critchley hon. peal secretary.

No specific invitations having been received, it was decided to endeavour to arrange the next general meeting at Boroughbridge, together with Aldborough and Kirby Hill, on September 20th next.

SNOWDON DINNER AT LEEDS

The president reminded the meeting that arrangements were going ahead in connection with the Snowdon Dinner to be held in Leeds on October 11th, asking members to ensure its success by loyal support.

The following new members were elected: John L. White (Wakefield), Anne Shillito (Far Headinglvy), Stephen Boyes (Doncaster), Ruth Appleby (Calverley), Hugh Dempster (Pudsey), Valerie Whitfield and Avril Wilcock (St. Giles', Pontefract).

Mr. N. Chaddock referred to a questionnaire he hoped to send to all towers in the county inquiring into the state of ringing, numerical strength of the bands, and, in the case of the more successful towers, to what causes did they attribute their success. He hoped at a later date to give a full report and analysis of the replies received. This concluded the business, and an adjournment to the two towers was then made.

SOHAM, CAMBS.—On May 18th, 1,320 Plain Bob Doubles: P. Graves 1, F. Talbot 2, M. Whitehead (first as cond.) 3, C. Graves 4, D. Pollard 5, F. Shaw 6. For Commonwealth Youth service.

HOW MANY RINGERS DOES A TOWER NEED?

Dear Sir,—Recent correspondence in your columns prompts me to ask, how many ringers does a tower need? Since the days (not so very long ago) when I was just a ringer of rounds, I have too often heard of the sudden disintegration of first-class bands of ringers, and the Branston story is far from being unique. One significant point about those bands was this—that their numerical strength was seldom greater than one or two more than the number of bells in the tower. Two-and-a-half years ago, when I was given the responsibilities of tower captain at Saxilby, we had a small but reasonably competent band with a limited number of methods at our command. I made it my first business to recruit some new members. This, as Mr. Vernon points out, results, for a time, in a lower standard of ringing, but our position to-day is this—that the remaining members of the band could face the loss of any two or three ringers without turning more than one hair. They would continue to ring for Sunday services as they have done without fail for the last three years, and the activities of the new recruits, who would be found to fill the vacancies, could this time be restricted to practice nights until their ringing standards had reached Sunday service level. Our present ringing strength? Just double the number of ropes. And our experience is that this is not one too many.—Yours faithfully,

H. W. COX.

Saxilby, Lincoln.

Dear Sir, — Ringers at Great Chart, near Ashford, although without bells at the moment, are making an effort to raise £1,300 to restore their ring of six bells. They have raised £300 so far, but it is only a little village and all contributions are welcome. They are to hold a garden fete on Saturday, June 21st, in aid of the fund, to be opened by Sir John Kotelawala (former Prime Minister of Ceylon), supported by Mr. J. Willis (a vice-president of the Kent County Association). Records show that there were four bells in this church in 1552. They have twice been recast and made up to a ring of six, but a new frame and rehanging are now needed.

Those who cannot be present at the fete which the ringers are organising can help by sending a contribution to the Rector, the Rev. D. F. Stowell. All contributions will be gratefully acknowledged.—Yours sincerely,

CRAWFORD T. HILLIS,
Hon. District Secretary.

Willesborough, Kent.

THANKS

Dear Sir,—I would like to thank all ringers in the following districts for the kindness and hospitality shown to me during my stay among them whilst serving with the R.A.F. during my two years' National Service. In the Manchester and Runcorn areas between May and June, 1956; in Herefordshire between July and October, 1956; and in Suffolk between November, 1956, and April, 1958.—Yours faithfully,

DOUGLAS H. ROOKE.

BELFRY RULES

Dear Sir,—The set of rules quoted on page 335 from Goathurst is similar in every respect to those at St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, dated 1700, and quoted on page 202 in the long series of such rules I gave in 1953.

OBITUARY

MR. T. E. EADES

The death has occurred in a Canterbury hospital of Mr. Thomas Easton Eades, of Faversham. Mr. Eades, who was 72, formerly lived at Boughton, and it was at this church that he learned to ring. On his marriage he moved to Faversham and joined the Ospringe band, to which church he remained faithful for 48 years. He was made captain of the band in 1931 and remained in office until a few years ago, when he was succeeded by his son, Eric, he himself remaining as vice-captain. While at Boughton he joined the Kent County Association, and had he lived a few more days would have completed 50 years as a member. Not a man for ringing peals, he was more concerned with service ringing, and was most regular at the tower. Reluctantly, on advice, he was compelled to give up ringing some time ago, but it was still his great delight to be in the vicinity or Ospringe bells when they were ringing, and tell his three sons—who are all ringers—what he thought about it. He had a ready smile, was good company, the kind of man it was a pleasure to be with. In addition to his three sons he leaves a widow and two daughters. The family have received many expressions of sympathy, with which all the ringers in this district will surely join. The funeral service was at Ospringe, with cremation following. Previous to Evensong on the Sunday following the funeral a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, being conducted by his son, Eric, with another son, Cyril, and other friends taking part. B. J. T.

MR. E. A. MIDWINTER

The funeral took place at All Saints' Church, Sutton-on-Trent, on Monday, May 19th, of Mr. Ernest A. Midwinter, the former tower captain, who died the previous Friday.

Mr. Midwinter was the son of the late Rev. Nathaniel Midwinter, a former Vicar of Bleasby, Morton and Halloughton. He had been tower captain for many years and was mainly responsible for the recasting and rehanging of the old five bells and the augmenting to six in 1922. A further two bells were added in 1929 to complete the octave.

Mr. Midwinter had rung about 30 peals and taught many ringers, including the Misses Burchnall, to ring. The sixth bell in the tower will remain to his perpetual memory, for its inscription reads: 'The Ringers Bell.' E. A. Midwinter, J. W. Neep. 1828. Recast 1922.'

The funeral was conducted by the Vicar, Canon R. T. Keel, and the bells were rung half-muffled by many of the ringers he taught to ring, namely, Misses K. and G. Burchnall, Mr. and Mrs. N. Moxon, M. Garside, W. Rushby, J. T. Shipley, A. Wilson and J. W. Wilson.

A half-muffled peal was rung to his memory on the bells he loved and rang, on May 23rd.

W. L. E.

MR. WALTER SEAR

It was with deep regret that the Glasgow ringers learned of the death of Mr. Walter Sear, late of Bletchley, Bucks., After undergoing two major operations, Mr. Sear came to reside with his son at Glasgow about three years ago, and regularly took part in service ringing and the weekly practice, and although experienced in all numbers he enjoyed calling touches of Doubles and Minor.

Latterly, owing to eye trouble, he found difficulty in seeing the bell-ropes, but continued to ring by ear. He bore his affliction with fortitude and was always optimistic in his outlook.

The funeral took place at Craigton Crematorium on Saturday, May 17th.

May he rest in peace. E. A. S.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

Essendon was chosen for the May meeting of this District and, in spite of the bus strike, was quite a successful one. Not as many members were present as at recent meetings and as tea arrangements were not possible perhaps it was just as well!

The Rector conducted a most pleasant service and spoke of the use of bells in the framework of the Church, and of his own lack of knowledge of the 'science of change ringing.'

A short business meeting was held in the tower before ringing restarted in the evening, the Summer Festival at Woburn being discussed and also the arrangements for the next District meeting, which will be held, as usual, on the third Saturday, at a tower yet to be arranged.

DUKE AND DEAN AT RINGING FESTIVAL

The Duke of Bedford and the Dean of St. Albans have accepted an invitation to attend the service and tea when Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Association hold their Diocesan Ringing Festival on June 14th, the venue of which is to be at Woburn. The Duke is a regular attender at St. Mary's, Woburn.

A unique feature of the service is that a handbell voluntary is to be rung in place of the anthem.

An attempt is being made to organise a joint choir of 40, with 20 from Hertfordshire and 20 from Bedfordshire.

This is the first time for this meeting to be held in Bedfordshire: at other times it has been held in St. Albans, the service being held in the Abbey.

BEHIND THE DUBLIN VISIT

WHEN the Central Council at Chelmsford by a small majority decided to accept the invitation to hold its next meeting at Dublin, Mr. F. E. Dukes, the secretary of the Irish Association, promised members who crossed the water a happy time. The visit coincided with the diamond jubilee of the Irish Association and more than fulfilled the expectations of the Council. Throughout there was a wonderful spirit of friendship and hospitality, which started with the visit to the great brewery of Guinness fame, where the 80-odd guests had a luncheon that outrivalled the far-famed ringers' teas, and continued throughout the week. Wherever ringers went during that memorable week they were fêted. There are so many recollections that it is difficult to specify, but those who went on the three-day Southern Ireland peal tour will not forget the friendly greeting from Mount St. Alphonsus' Monastery and the supper that was awaiting the party. Another was on the six bells at Doneraile where at the sound of the bells came the lady of Doneraile House hurrying to the belfry with a cordial invitation to visit Doneraile House and have tea.

The week was one of perfect organisation and wholehearted co-operation from every tower visited to ensure that the opportunities for ringing and fellowship were perfect, both in Eire and Northern Ireland. Members of the Central Council knew beforehand of Mr. Dukes' enthusiasm but there are hundreds of English ringers who have not had the privilege of meeting him, enjoying his Irish wit and receiving his cheery greeting. Probably he has done more than any man to carry on the torch lit 60 years ago by Lord Chief Justice Cherry when the Irish Association was formed.

Dublin born, Mr. Dukes is an electrical engineer in the Great Northern Railway Company. His interest in ringing dates from his 'teenage, when as a lad he answered an appeal for volunteers to man the belfry of St. George's Church, Dublin. That youthful enthusiasm brought with it proficiency. An opportunity came to carry forward the art when he joined the Great Southern Railway and was appointed to Cork in 1934. Here he reorganised the change-ringing at St. Finnbarr's Cathedral, and Mr. Fred Bogan, who is now in charge, was one of his pupils. Incidentally, the first peal on the bells of St. Finnbarr's was rung during the tour, and it was typical of Irish generosity to permit the attempt rather than reserve the occasion for a local band.

When Mr. Dukes returned to Dublin he again took his place in St. George's belfry. Among his pupils was a young ward sister from Steeven's Hospital, who later became his wife. Mrs. Dukes is the assistant hon. secretary of the Eastern District of the Irish Association, and her interest in ringing is shared by her 13-year-old daughter, Sandra—whose name has already appeared in our peal columns—and her son, Edwin, aged 11. The Dukes are the mainstay of ringing at St. Peter's Protestant Church, Drogheda. Here the Rector and his wife are also ringers, both trained by Mr. Dukes.

Peal ringing opportunities in Ireland are not so plentiful as in this country; in fact, only two members of the Irish Association have exceeded 100 peals—Mr. Dukes, with 135, and Mr. J. T. Dunwoody, of Holywood, the hon. secretary of the Northern Division, who is also on the Central Council with a special responsibility for advancing the broadcasting of bells. Mr. Dukes' 135th peal will be one of happy memories to him — it was rung on the concluding Saturday of the Dublin week at St. Patrick's Cathedral, and was his first peal of Maximus.

From now onwards English ringers will look with affection on the advancement and achievements of the Irish Association. Already there have been a number of tours —the Leicester Guild's, headed by the late Mr. Harold J. Poole, and last year's by the Ancient Society of College Youths—but it is safe to forecast that there will be many more. The Council were the guests of the Irish Tourist Board at the reception that followed the business meeting, and the wish expressed that that would not be their last visit to Ireland was heartily endorsed by many present. Even if it might be some years before an official visit is paid, the individual call of Ireland, with its wonderful scenery and friendly people will, we feel certain, be answered.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Appeal For High Standard And Regularity Of Ringing

THE 79th annual meeting of the Essex Association was held at Chelmsford on Whit Monday. Proceedings started with the annual service, conducted by the Provost (Very Rev. G. E. Gordon), who also preached an extremely interesting sermon. The lesson was read by the Master (Mr. R. C. Heazel).

The Master was in the chair for the annual meeting which followed in the Chapter House, and he welcomed visitors from Harrow, Harrold, Gravesend and Lavenham.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. R. C. Heazel, who was nominated by all Districts, was re-elected Master, and he thanked the members for their continued support. Mr. H. Turner, of Shenfield, was elected deputy Master, and the name of Mr. F. V. Gant was the only one submitted for the onerous post of hon. secretary and treasurer. Mr. D. G. Mayell was elected an auditor. The other auditor nominated—Mr. Maurice Baker, of Hulton—declined to stand again owing to ill-health, and it was decided to allow the committee to fill the vacancy. The trustees—Messrs. J. Crawley, P. Eves and G. Smith—were unanimously re-elected.

One of the most pleasing duties at the annual meeting is the rewarding of long and faithful service by the conferring of life membership. This was conferred upon Messrs. O. Broyd, F. C. Maynard, H. Oliver, H. Rumens and G. Sewell.

After the Master had closed the meeting the company adjourned to the Cathedral Hall for lunch, where the Provost was the chief guest.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR

The year was one of consolidation of progress with the highlight being the visit of the Central Council to Chelmsford. This entailed a lot of work, and none worked harder than Mr. A. H. Everett, who was mainly in charge of accommodation, and Miss H. G. Snowden, who arranged all the ringing.

Through the vigilance of members a ring of bells from Colchester had been hung for ringing at Little Horkesley and not hung dead. The committee were able to advise and help financially in a situation which might have gone unnoticed.

Membership stood at 220 (217) honorary members and 915 (914) ringing members. There were 111 (112) towers in union. Newport and Wenden had dropped out and Little Baddow was welcomed. A deep loss had been sustained by the death of Horace Mansfield, a life president and the Association's representative on the Central Council, who was one of the Association's most popular members.

PEAL RINGING INCREASE

Peal ringing showed a satisfactory increase—a grand total of 122 against 72 in 1956. The conducting was shared by 40 members (25 in 1956), the leaders being J. E. G. Rorst 17, F. B. Lufkin 16, T. Earle 12, D. L. Mills and U. W. Wildney seven each. One peal was non-conducted and one in which the conducting was shared. Congratulations were extended to F. B. Lufkin on his 400th peal, his 250th for the Association and his 250th as conductor; Miss M. Dowsett on her 50th peal, and T. Earle on his 100th peal for the Association. Also congratulated were the band who rang the record length of 18,000 Minor in 25 methods at Stisted.

Quarter peal ringing had been well sustained—161 being recorded against 160 in 1956. The leading towers were Walthamstow 18, Hornchurch 13, Burnham-in-Crouch 11, North Weald and Rayleigh ten each.

The report concluded with the following message from the Master and secretary:—

'In many instances there is no tangible return for our labours, but by our constancy and determination we may inspire those within the Church to act with greater zeal, and by our regularity and high standard of ringing reach the hearts of the careless or bewildered who come within the sound of the bells.

'Living in a scientific age, we must remember still that the highest duty to which any one person can be called is that of rendering honour, praise and glory to the one God who indeed knows all.

'Let us then resolve that by our lives and actions we will point to the way of life which alone can give peace and happiness.'

200th Anniversary Of Wells Cathedral Bells

'We hear that on Friday and Saturday (April 28th and 29th) a company of ringers from Bristol opened the new Set of Bells (a peal of eight) at the Cathedral Church of Wells, cast by the famous Mr. Ruddle, of Gloucester.

'Very good judges are of opinion there is not a better ring (of eight) in the Kingdom. They say the Wells Ringers rung them best when at SET, but that the Bristol Ringers shewed their skill most by ringing them best at Rising and Falling.'

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The spring meeting of the Eastern Branch was held on May 17th at Ditchingham in the Waveney Valley, home of the late Sir Rider Haggard, at whose former house the members sat down to tea.

The pleasant ring of six was soon set going to suit all tastes and capabilities. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. K. Lewis), the organist being Mr. Bond, of Loddon.

After tea the meeting, presided over by the Branch chairman (Mr. E. R. Goate), soon dealt with the agenda. Members stood in silence in memory of Mr. A. R. Warnes, of Raveningham, who died on May 7th.

Subject to satisfactory arrangements being made, the next business meeting will be held at Pakefield on September 27th, and a by-meeting at Gorleston on July 5th.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Presentation To The President

THE 79th annual meeting of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at Holsworthy on Whit Monday in glorious Devon weather. At the Guild's form of service, which was conducted by the Rector (Rev. A. Warne), a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells preceded the sermon which was preached by the president, who took for his subject Leading, leadership and being led. He pointed out how important leadership is in every walk of life and how much depends on a good leader, eyes and ears being essential. The world is crying out for Christian leadership, but are we willing to follow where Christ leads? We must each always be asking the Holy Spirit to 'lead me to a rock that is higher than I' (Psalm lxi, 2).

60 GAINED CERTIFICATES

A luncheon followed, and at the subsequent business meeting it was reported that membership at the end of 1957 was 555, a drop of 27 on last year, and that only ten members rang their first peal, though 60 qualified for certificates by ringing 120 changes. The greatest encouragement must be given to beginners. The Guild library is now in being at Clawton Vicarage, and the gift of books belonging to the late Mr. James E. Lilley was acknowledged. One of the rules was altered so that the incumbent of a parish in union with the Guild could be elected an honorary member without payment of a subscription. It was decided to hold next year's annual meeting in Exeter on a Saturday in June with a tea and not lunch, and subsequently the Lord Bishop of Exeter has agreed to address the Guild on June 6th, 1959. Grants of £25 each were made from the bell restoration fund to Honiton Clyst and Kentisbeare.

25TH YEAR PRESIDENT

The next business was the election of officers, and Mr. F. Smale, who was general secretary from 1940 to 1950, had a very pleasant task to perform in proposing Preb. E. V. Cox again for his 25th year as president. The Guild had been very lucky in its presidents: Col. Troyte (1874), Rev. Maitland Kelly (1896), Rev. E. S. Powell (1924) and the present president. One of his first acts was to have the rule deleted which barred members from taking part in competitions. Mr. Smale had great pleasure in handing the president a gift contributed to by the majority of members in the hope that he would continue as president for many years, and at any rate break the record of 28 years of the presidency of the Rev. Maitland Kelly. The present general secretary (Mr. E. M. Atkins) gave him a book containing signatures of members.

The other officers were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. Norman Mallet, who did not wish to seek re-election as peal secretary. Mr. Geo. Skinner was elected in his place. To fill the vacancy in the Central Council representatives caused by the death of Mr. G. E. Lilley, Mr. G. L. S. Glanvill was elected.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Visits to Walton-on-Thames are always enjoyable and the recent quarterly N.W. District meeting held there was no exception. Ringing in a variety of methods from 3 to 4.30 was followed by shortened Evensong, led by the Vicar. Forty-five ringers then adjourned to the Church Hall, where the local ringers, led by the indefatigable Mrs. Lathbury, provided an excellent tea. At the short business meeting three new members were elected and the sum of £1 10s. 2d. collected for the bell fund. After the usual votes of thanks, ringing continued until 8.30 at Oatlands Park. W. OUTINGS

IN MONMOUTHSHIRE AND GLOUCESTERSHIRE

On Whit Monday, a small party of ringers, representing five counties, had a very pleasant outing in East Monmouthshire and West Gloucestershire in beautiful weather. The first tower was Shirenewton (6), where the vicar welcomed the band; a few hours' work with a spanner would be beneficial here. Penhow's six are a delightful ring, as also are Caldicot's eight. At the latter church the Vicar conducted the band to the ringing chamber.

A break for lunch preceded the visit to Mathern (6), a most charming spot situated in beautiful quiet surroundings. After negotiating the traffic going to Chepstow races, the party eventually left Monmouthshire and reached Tidenham (6) with its spacious ground floor ringing chamber.

A hilly and intricate run brought the band to Hewelsfield, a very nice five rung from the centre of the church. A member of the local band met the visitors at St. Briavels (8) and the Vicar was waiting at Newland (6); the latter has a glorious heavy ring in an exceptionally fine church, aptly called the 'Cathedral of the Forest.' A short run brought the band to Staunton (6), where again the ringing takes place in the centre of the church. So officially ended a very happy day, but a few of the band later 'bagged' Westbury-on-Severn before taking part in the now famous traffic queue into Gloucester.

PENARTH

With two ringers from Sully and one from Llandaff, Penarth ringers had an enjoyable outing on May 31st. The heavy-going eight at Monmouth were first visited before travelling to Leominster for a ring on the ten and lunch.

The anti-clockwise bells at Bromyard did not prove too difficult and Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung. After tea at Worcester came Ledbury, where Grandsire Triples was managed despite the long draught of rope. The best tower of the day was Ross-on-Wye, where touches of Grandsire Triples and rounds and call-changes for learners were rung. Penarth was reached at 12.15 a.m., everyone having enjoyed the outing.

KIRK ELLA AND SUTTON-IN-HOLDERNESS

The ringers from these towers and their friends joined forces on Whit Monday for an outing in the North Riding. The weather was perfect, and the coach driver avoided main roads to take us through the countryside, which is at its best at this time of the year.

The first tower visited was Nunburnholme (6), and good ringing on the lovely six gave the day a good start. Hovingham (6) proved to have an interesting Saxon tower, and an all-ladies' band rang a course here. After a picnic lunch, we were met at Helmsley (8) by the local ringers, and also met the Elland ringers on their outing. A combined band rang a touch of Stedman Triples before we left for Kirby Moorside (6). Here we were met by the Vicar, but unfortunately the ringing was not of a very high standard, the bells being difficult to strike well.

A provided tea at Thornton-le-Dale was followed by a touch of Plain Bob Minor on handbells, and we then left for Pickering (8) before proceeding to Hutton Cranswick (6). Touches of Stedman, St. Martin's Bob, Kent and Oxford T.B. and rounds for learners ended a very successful day for both ringers and non-ringers. S.

CIRENCESTER

Cirencester ringers, accompanied by their wives, had their annual outing on Whit Monday. The first tower to be visited was Nuneaton, where standard methods were rung on the fine-going ring of eight. The next ringing took place at Loughborough Parish Church, where Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters were rung on this fine ring of ten; then a visit to the bell foundry and the noted ring of ten. After the preliminary antics we managed to ring Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples, and this was much enjoyed, especially by the younger members. Our best thanks are due to Messrs. Taylor and to Mrs. Beamish, who fixed up Nuneaton at short notice.

ST. GEORGE'S, DONCASTER

Chester was the objective for the annual outing of St. George's Doncaster, ringers on Whit Monday. Fairfield was reached by 10.30 a.m. and an hour's ringing included Grandsire Doubles, Stedman, Double Norwich and a course of Yorkshire. A delightful 6-bell tower, Chelford, was next visited, and after a picnic luncheon Chester was reached. At St. Mary-within-the-Walls the experienced ringers did justice to the tower they represented and the younger members went boating on the River Dee. After tea, a call was made at Daresbury. Singing, led by ex-members of the choir, enlivened the journey home. For the enjoyable outing thanks are accorded the organiser who wishes to remain anonymous, and incumbents and local captains.

BELFRY GOSSIP

To the list of name peals must now be added the Donalds, which was rung for the first time at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill. Organiser was Mr. Donald G. Clift and the peal was conducted by Dr. D. H. Niblett, of Oxford. The other Donalds came from Newport, Mon., Weston-super-Mare, Hornchurch, Ely (2) and Bures, Suffolk. 'It took nine months to find all these Donalds and get them together,' said Mr. Clift to an 'Evening News' correspondent.

The band who rang in the peal at Itchingfield desire to thank the local ringers for their welcome and also Mrs. Francis for the wonderful spread after the peal.

Is it etiquette to eat a large onion on a ringers' outing? St. George's, Doncaster, have strong views on the subject.

The many friends of Mr. W. Rose, formerly of Peterborough, will wish him a happy journey to New Zealand. He sailed on June 6th on a visit to his daughter.

A claim to be the fastest peal on the bells is submitted by the band who rang a peal of Little Bob Major at Dore, Derbyshire, on May 24th in 2 hours 37 minutes.

A new era is started at Kilndown, Kent, with the first peal on the new bells from the Whitechapel Foundry on May 24th. In the first peal on the old bells in 1905 stood Frank Pattenden. He is the only survivor, and now 74 struck his bell well in this latest peal. The 1905 peal was conducted by the late Mr. F. J. Lambert, of Horsmonden, and three of his sons, one of whom was the conductor, were in the peal recorded this week. At the local afterwards the band warmly praised the bells; they also complimented Mr. H. Parkes, the bell-hanger, for a good job well done.

In connection with the peal of Spliced Surprise Major rung at Drighlington on May 31st, the conductor would like to place on record his thanks and appreciation of the kind help and ready co-operation given by Mr. Vernon Bottomley and his band who, under his able and enthusiastic leadership, regularly ring Spliced Surprise Major for Sunday services at All Souls' Church, Haley Hill, Halifax.

Mr. Albert J. Pitman's composition of 5,120 Spliced Surprise Major in 30 methods has been rung for the first time by the Chester Diocesan Guild at Norbury (Hazel Grove).

The peal at Pontefract on May 31st started immediately after a local wedding. Upon the completion of the second part of Parker's Twelve-part peal the verger turned off the electric light at the main and plunged the belfry in subdued light. However, although the peal was rather slow for these bells, it was nevertheless well struck.

A car-load of 'tower-grabbers' from Warmley, Westerleigh and Yate spent Whit Monday in Wiltshire, Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire and Berkshire. Towers visited were Cricklade, Castle Eaton, Kempsford, Meysey Hampton, Lechlade, Langford, Brize-Norton, Aston, Great Coswell, Stanford-in-the-Vale and Broad Blunsden. Incumbents and those who met the party are thanked.

St. Mary Redcliffe Guild had a pleasant surprise on June 5th when they rang before and after the Confirmation service. After the service the Bishop of Malmesbury came up to the tower and without taking off his jacket took part in some of the ringing on the 12, and expressed his admiration of St. Mary Redcliffe, its bells and ringers. The Bishop spent so much time with the ringers that the Vicar had to send for him, reminding him it was time he went.

BELLS AND RINGING POPULAR NEWS

LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE

The report, signed by Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd and Mr. F. E. Dukes, stated:—

If, as the controllers of our national Press assert, newspapers and journals are giving the public what it asks for, then ringers have no cause to complain that their art is not appreciated. Each year sees a multiplicity of news items relating to bells and bell-ringing and the appearance of serious articles presumably of interest to newspaper readers. The year 1957 was no exception.

In this report we have not found it possible to include notice of all news items great and small. We have therefore endeavoured to select from the material that has come our way such essays as will indicate the scope and variety of the publicity given to ringing during the 12 months, and in doing so we venture to believe that we have omitted nothing of major importance.

The number and variety of journals printing notes and articles are worthy of note. 'The Dalesman' published a series on Yorkshire bells and bell-ringing; 'British Railways Magazine' printed an account of ringing in the North East Region; David Fitzpatrick in the 'Blackburn Evening Telegraph' described Blackburn's bells; and in the 'Solihull News' Ruth Harman extolled the delights of ringing as a hobby. Unfortunately, she missed the significance of bell-ringing as an act of worship. In the sphere of youthful activity we note E. F. Rigby's instructional articles in 'The Guide,' and Anthony Upton's neat essay, 'Campanology,' in the November number of 'The Scout.' In passing, it is worth noting that 'The Belfry' reminds young people of the Girl Guide ringer's badge and the conditions attaching to it.

Another local publication, 'Surrey W.I. News,' devoted a considerable portion of its December number to the appeal of the bells, and gave prominence to the work of Mr. Harold Pitstow at Westminster. Two pieces of work stand out this year by reason of their excellence. One is 'Bells,' an unsigned article in the 'P.D. Review,' enlivened with 12 small illustrations selected and arranged by Ernest Morris, F.R.Hist.S., and beautifully reproduced; the text was supplied largely by the same indefatigable historian. The other outstanding work is a monumental essay running through several numbers of 'Hi-Fi News.' The superficial flippancy of the title of this highly technical journal tends to obscure the seriousness and authenticity of its articles, but in 'The Story of Bells and Bell Music,' H. Michael Howard has produced a notable thesis written with authority and skill, and covering bell casting, tuning and hanging, with extensive notes on acoustical effects and carillon playing. The illustrations and diagrams are striking and convincing.

The year has brought a good sprinkling of photographs of ringers and ringing bands. Among them the 'Drogheda Independent' portrayed the ringers of St. Peter's, Drogheda, and the 'South Yorkshire Times' showed the band of ladies who rang the peal of Bob Major at Handsworth, Sheffield, on May 14th. The 'Birmingham Post and Gazette' depicted Sir Theodore Pritchett with his ringers at Tanworth-in-Arden, and two veterans appeared the 'Birmingham Mail'—Mr. W. Hauley, of Leamington, on his 92nd birthday, and Mr. William Collett, who recently completed 50 years as a ringer at Warwick. The Railwaymen's Guild were photographed again, this time by the 'Crewe Chronicle.'

We regret having to include reference to the distressing tragedy at Okeford Fitzpaine, the painful details of which aroused much attention during the summer. It is perhaps only in such tragic circumstances that the technicalities of bell mechanics are forced, as it were, on the public notice, and we can only hope that the publicity afforded to this melancholy catastrophe will lead to further steps to prevent unauthorised or inexperienced persons from entering bell chambers when bells are up.

Once again we note important contributions in the Press overseas. From British Columbia come two articles: a short one dealing with ringing at the Anglican Cathedral at Victoria, and the other a lengthy essay in the 'Province B.C. Magazine' on the bells and ringers at The Holy Rosary Cathedral, Vancouver. 'Overtones,' the organ of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, still provides astonishing evidence of the vitality of the Society, and American literature has been enriched by the publication of 'The Story of Handbells,' an important and comprehensive book by Scott B. Parry. The American paper 'Saturday Evening Post' of December 22nd, 1956, published a lengthy and discursive article by N. M. Clark under the title 'The Loudest Music I Ever Heard.' The subject matter ranged from carillon playing to the Liberty Bell, and included references to handbell ringing and to the Whitechapel Foundry.

From Ireland we have noticed 'The Bells of Belfast' appearing in the 'Belfast News Letter,' and an interesting note on bell lubrication in the technical journal 'Scientific Lubrication.' Both articles are from the pen of Colin J. Robb. The 'Lurgan Mail,' under the title 'Where Change is Lightsome,' provided an illustrated article on Lurgan bells and ringers, with special reference to Mr. Thomas Livingstone and Mr. John Irwin. 'Ring out the Old—Ring in the New' is the title of a well-written article in the Irish Press. It details the history of the bells of the Augustinian Church, Dublin, and of Irish bell-founders.

The Australian journal, 'Woman's Day,' dated August 5th, contains an account by Sally Baker of the competitive ringing for the Joyner Cup. The illustrations are in colour and most of the names are familiar to us through the medium of 'The Ringing Towers.'

Among the publications of the year we have to report 'Church Bells of the Fens,' T. Bevis; 'Cheshire Bells, Part V,' C. W. Clarke; a reissue of 'Elementary Change Ringing,' the excellent treatise by E. F. Rigby; and 'The Manual of the College of Campanology' which appeared in August and was made available to all ringers at the modest price of 2s. 9d. That comprehensive book of reference, 'The Central Council Handbook,' has now been published. It is indispensable for Council members and will be found a treasure trove of information for every ringer.

Subsidiary ringing journals have come to hand as usual. They include 'The Irish Bell News,' beginning its third volume neatly clad in a new cover; 'The Belfry,' from the Maidstone District, and 'The Ringing Towers,' from the Antipodes. To the list this year has been added 'The Ringers' Magazine,' edited by Mr. William Butler, of Windsor. This is an extremely bright and enterprising quarterly, produced by an unusual process, and presenting in its type and its illustrations a most fascinating face. Its range is wide and it has already numbered among its contributors some of the leading experts of today.

Messrs. Viggers and Hodgson have maintained their high standard with 'The Ringers' Notebook and Diary,' and it is a gratifying tribute to the authors to find this little book already sold out.

Moving the adoption of the report Mr. Dukes said the national Press had given greater space to their interests, and the same applied to various magazines. In Ireland he had many telephone calls from national papers and free-lance journalists. They were very grateful to the people who sent articles to the Committee.

Miss J. Stewart seconded and the report was adopted.

SATURN T.B. DOUBLES NOT RECOGNISED

PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

The report, which was signed by Mr. Walter Ayre (convener) stated:—

Once again the committee are pleased to report an increase in the peals rung during the year 1957. There was a grand total of 2,488, with 2,336 on tower bells and 152 on handbells; an increase of 145 on tower bells but a decrease of 23 on handbells. (The Winchester and Portsmouth band did not function.)

The analysis shows as follows:—

	Tower		Handbells		Totals
	1956	1957	1956	1957	1956	1957
Maximus	18	30	—	—	18	30
Cinques	37	21	3	3	40	24
Royal	116	99	8	14	124	113
Caters	70	83	9	8	79	91
Major	857	884	59	59	916	943
Triples	217	251	9	9	226	260
Minor	640	732	69	38	709	770
Doubles	236	236	18	21	254	257
	2191	2336	175	152	2366	2488

What would the Leicester Guild do without the Bell Foundry? They are once again at the head of the list, with Kent County moving into 2nd place, the Norwich Association following in 3rd place, with the Suffolk Guild rising out of the depths to 4th place.

The first six places are as follows: Leicester Diocesan 192, Kent County 154, Norwich Association 142, Suffolk Guild 135, Oxford Diocesan 131, Lincoln Diocesan 129.

No peals were recorded by the New South Wales Association, the National Police Guild or the Sheffield and District Society.

Outstanding performances.—On tower bells: 14,560 Yorkshire Surprise Major by the Bedfordshire Association; 16, 18, 22 and 25 Surprise Major methods (spliced) by the Chester Diocesan Guild; 25 extents of Minor (18,000 changes) by the Essex Association; and 42 Doubles methods by the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

Handbells: 57 Spliced Minor methods by the Yorkshire Association.

The report was moved by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, who said there were one or two slight alterations to the total number of peals, which was reduced to 2,486. That was because it was not noticed until after the report was written that three peals were duplicated in 'The Ringing World' and only one was spotted by the convener.

Mr. F. T. Blagrove: Can the committee tell us why they excluded Saturn T.B. Doubles?

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead: We have not discussed it. The first I knew was when I saw the report. The reason is that it is not in accordance with the rules.

Mr. Blagrove: As a method?

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead: Yes, not as a composition.

Mr. Blagrove said in the Decisions there were no requirements of an irregular method. An irregular method which had a repeated change could be included. There was also the question of jumping changes.

Mr. E. K. Lewis commented that it was not a question of making rules and regulations. The Exercise had not been built up by rules and regulations but by good taste.

Mr. Blagrove: I agree that is should be excluded, but if such peals were rung they must be included as they were not bound by any Decision of the Council.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott maintained that as there was no reason in the Decisions of the Council why the peal should not be included, if it was a peal it must be included to the discredit of the composer.

Mr. C. K. Lewis said he was afraid if they included it they would cause a lot of trouble. The Analysis Committee had taken the right line.

Mr. J. H. Crampion: There are certain people who like to have a kick at the Central Council. I feel it was rung with that purpose.

Mr. Blagrove agreed that the method was false in the plain course. He thought they should divide such peals into 'accepables' and 'non-acceptables.'

The report was adopted.

RECORDS OF 770 WHO HAVE SERVED THE COUNCIL

THE BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

The report of the Committee, signed by Mr. A. C. Hazelden, stated:—

The total number of past and present members in our records is now 770 and of this total 357 are at the time of preparing this report known to be deceased. The records of very many of these deceased past members are complete and already in the Album, a few without photographs, which so far we have failed to secure. Others are held up for important particulars which we hope to get by further research. A few are still on the sad list of those of whom we know nothing, or very little. Some of this category should perhaps be presumed deceased.

Notwithstanding the possibly gloomy sentence ending the previous paragraph, the work of the Committee is not all failure and frustration, and some progress is made. In recent years the rate of completion of biographies has been around 30 per year, which means that we have caught up with many of the arrears. It also means that our Album is very rapidly filling and must soon be followed by No. 2.

Some members may recall that our first Album was provided by a bequest of the late Mr. James Shepherd, and will remain a very fine memorial to an illustrious ringer who, although never a member of it, always wished the Council well.

It may be expected that this second Album will last much longer than its predecessor, because the entries must eventually be reduced to the six or eight deaths which have annually to be reported.

The report then recorded deaths of members, and apart from those remembered at the opening of the Council there were E. W. Marsh (Devonshire Guild), died January 23rd, 1946, and J. Holden (United Counties Association), died August 30th, 1899.

The 1957-58 Council was joined by 25 new members, 21 of whom, present at the Chelmsford meeting, were handed a copy of our Biography Form. At the time of preparing this report eight have been returned. The Committee, while grateful to those who promptly filled and returned the forms, would also point out to those who have not responded that the few details for which we ask have been found by experience to be the basic facts upon which the Council's record must in due course be built.

With great pleasure and thanks we acknowledge the assistance of a host of willing correspondents. Typical of all are the efforts of Mr. C. K. Lewis who secured details of the ringing career of the late William Gordon, which began with ringing for the victory of the battle of Alma, and ended in 1915 when World War I was in progress; of Mr. Jeffs who informs us of the deaths of the Rev. L. S. Clark and H. Chambers; Mr. Pipe, of the Suffolk Guild, who has helped us to get a photograph of the late Canon Raven, an original honorary member of the Council, who though never a ringer and never present at a meeting, was an illustrious scholar and author of books on bells and ringing.

The Biographies Committee would like to contact relatives or friends of the following past members for the purpose of completing the Council's records: (1) The late Mr. Albert Coppock, of Nottingham, who died March 28th, 1937—loan of photograph required; (2) The late Mr. S. J. Hughes, of Dudley and District Guild—date of death required; (3) The late Mr. R. T. Woodley, of Ancient Society of College Youth, died at Lowestoft on November 15th, 1943—loan of photograph required.

Mr. L. Stilwell moved and Mr. R. G. Blackman seconded the adoption of the report.

Mr. T. G. Myers expressed surprise that the death of Mr. E. W. Marsh, of the Devonshire Guild, who died in 1946, had only just reached the Committee.

The hon. secretary said difficulties arose when people dropped out of ringing.

Mr. Myers: That did not apply in the case of Mr. Marsh, who died within three days of attending a meeting of his own Branch.

The President: We might do our best to get Associations to co-operate.

SELECTING BANDS FOR BROADCASTS

BROADCASTING AND TELEVISION COMMITTEE

The report, which was signed by Messrs. H. J. Sanger (convener), J. T. Dunwoody, G. E. Fearn, A. A. Hughes and the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, stated:—

Following up two suggestions for Interlude items, we have had some correspondence with the B.B.C., who have finally informed us that Interlude items are being curtailed to a minimum and in their place trailers of forthcoming programmes put on. No new Interlude items are, therefore, being made. This is rather a disappointment but there is nothing we can do about it in the circumstances.

Broadcasting has in the main been confined to Sunday service ringing, and has on the whole been of a fair standard and covered most of the country. From Ireland we have news of several good broadcasts, including one from St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on Christmas Eve.

Again there has been criticism of the time allowed and of introductory remarks and the like taking place whilst ringing is in progress. We, for our part, agree that two or three minutes of uninterrupted ringing is the ideal, but we feel that whilst we are doing what we can in this direction, in the main the remedy lies with ringers at the time of broadcasting. If all bands took the initiative and approached their incumbent and the B.B.C. or I.T.V. engineers, prior to the broadcast, and voiced their desires, this problem would rapidly be solved. This business of ringing for broadcasting is no new thing, and all ringers should by now be aware of the standard generally desirable in every direction.

In other spheres the bells of St. Clement Danes' were recorded by I.T.V. when being tried out, and the attempts on the Major record at the Loughborough Bell Foundry Campanile received much publicity. The first attempt in particular even had an interview with the arranger, Mr. Philip Mehew.

The Christmas broadcast was an excellent effort, and we are happy to say that whilst we had no part in the actual selection of towers, with the exception of our Northern Ireland representative, we were specially asked by the B.B.C. to let them have our comments on the broadcast. This we did and were duly thanked. Last year there were many letters of criticism of the broadcast and much controversy over the poor standard of ringing. We think it regrettable that the excellent effort this year received extremely little acknowledgment from ringers in our paper. Much good could also have been done had listeners expressed their appreciation to the B.B.C.

We have been asked by the B.B.C. to provide them with a list of first-class bells that are manned by good bands of ringers, capable of putting up a good performance should the occasion arise. The members of the Committee in England have co-operated and produced a fairly comprehensive list. This has been submitted to the B.B.C. who have thanked us very warmly for it. From time to time we propose adding to it as deemed desirable. Our colleague in Northern Ireland was of the opinion that the idea cut across an agreement held with the B.B.C. in that area, and which has been in existence since 1946, and therefore did not contribute to the list as he felt that the present very satisfactory position might be jeopardised.

In concluding, we would impress on all bands approached with a view to broadcasting how important it is that they set a good example and provide something worth listening to.

Mr. H. Sanger, in moving the adoption of the report, said since writing the report there had been a letter in 'The Ringing World' criticising the Hillingdon broadcast. It had come to his notice that had there been a little better co-operation between the ringers, parson and B.B.C., the result would have been better. The onus was on the ringers to co-operate in good time before the broadcast took place.

In regard to paragraph 6, a fairly comprehensive list had been submitted. They had been asked by the B.B.C. to submit a list of 25 towers in the British Isles which would give a good standard of ringing. Each member of the Committee submitted two or three towers from his area. At the same time, the Committee pointed out that there were many other towers that fulfilled the qualifications, and that from time to time the Committee would submit further towers.

A lot of questions had been asked about the ringing at three minutes to 9 of the bells of St. Peter's, Evercreech. They felt if the standard of all Sunday ringing was the same there would be nothing to complain of.

Mr. J. Dunwoody seconded the adoption of the report.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, captain of Hillingdon, said they had a rehearsal on the Saturday previous to the broadcast. Unfortunately, most of the leading ringers were unable to attend. Their broadcast was only for 45 seconds. They had previously discussed the matter with the Vicar and they expressed the view that they wanted uninterrupted ringing and not the bells as a background. The Vicar was only able to give them 45 seconds' uninterrupted ringing.

Mr. C. W. Pipe thought there was a great deal in co-operation between ringers and the parson.

Mr. Sanger asked that the name of Mr. Norman Chaddock be added to the Committee. This was agreed to and the report was adopted.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

The report of Mr. J. W. Clarke (convener) stated:—No further records have been received during the year. From recent correspondence in 'The Ringing World,' however, accurate details of a very interesting stone tablet in the tower of St. John the Baptist, Hillingdon, have come to light. The tablet records three peals of Grandsire Triples in 1733 and one of Oxford Treble Bob Major, and the contributor is to be congratulated on his perseverance in the task of deciphering the writing in very difficult conditions. There is some doubt, however, about the date of the Treble Bob peal, although the change made in the calendar in 1752, with its consequent confusion, suggests that the date should read 1757/8 rather than 1737/8.

It is interesting to note that the tablet is shortly to be restored at the expense of the local ringers.

The restoration of ancient peal boards, especially those which are made of wood with painted lettering, is sometimes a delicate operation calling for both knowledge and skill. The committee is prepared to advise in difficult cases, both in the matter of cleaning and, where it is absolutely necessary through continued neglect, of repainting. Tower-keepers especially are asked to keep an eye on these valuable and interesting possessions and to remember that the 'stitch in time' may well save something which is virtually a page in the history of ringing

The hon. secretary moved and Mr. F. E. Dukes seconded the adoption of the report.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow asked members to keep a watchful eye on the preservation of peal boards in redundant churches.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow said in regard to the Hillingdon tablets that a signwriter had taken a copy of the original letters so that when the duplicate was written it would be an exact replica of what was there before.

The report was adopted.

GOOD NEWS FOR LEARNERS

THE 'BEGINNERS' HANDBOOK' COMMITTEE

The report, signed by Miss M. R. Cross, Messrs. J. T. Dyke, R. F. B. Speed and W. G. Wilson, stated:—

At its meeting at Chelmsford last year the Council agreed to our proposal that a book for beginners, on the lines of a draft submitted, be printed and placed on sale at as low a price as possible.

The draft has since been thoroughly revised, though we have retained the same layout, viz.: (a) a description of a bell and how to ring it; (b) elementary change-ringing; and (c) the duties of a ringer. We are grateful for the help and advice given by various members of the Council and have especially availed ourselves of the assistance of the Council's officers. Mr. F. Sharpe has provided photographs which, by their own merit, have taken the place of the sketches we first proposed to use, and Mr. E. A. Barnett helped by attending our meetings.

The revised draft is in the hands of the secretary, and we reiterate our plea that a sufficient number shall be printed to make it possible to sell very cheaply so that all beginners may have access to it.

Mr. W. G. Wilson, in moving the adoption of the report, said he was very much encouraged by the President's remarks about the tremendous demand for the beginners' book that corresponded with his own personal experience. There was one advantage of the delay—the book would contain some photographs taken by the President.

The report had one or two omissions. It did not mention the fact that they did not circulate copies of the draft to members of the Standing Committee. The officers decided for a very good reason—it would have cost a lot of money. The report also did not deal with the question of printing.

His opinion was that the Council could afford to order stock for ten years. At a rough estimate he felt that they ought to sell as near to 6d. a copy as possible with an initial order of 5,000 copies.

Mr. Speed seconded the adoption.

The President: There is a tremendous demand for such a book. I agree that we should print at least 5,000 copies. They should get estimates and empower the librarian to place the order.

Mr. F. B. Lufkin advocated the book being sold as cheaply as possible, even at a loss.

Mr. Peter Crook questioned too cheap a price. The strides being made in ringing might find the book out of date in ten years. He thought it should be revised after five years.

The report was adopted with thanks to the Committee for their work.

PEALS COLLECTION COMMITTEE

The report, which was signed by Messrs. W. E. Critchley (convener), C. W. Roberts, G. E. Feirn and A. J. Pitman, stated:—The work involved in collecting suitable material for the Stedman Caters and Cinques Collection is still continuing, still hampered to some extent by the lack of examples of the work of certain able composers. The committee feel it should be pointed out that a collection of this kind cannot be rushed into print, if it is to contain peals other than a few well-known peals on worn-out and hackneyed plans. By allowing sufficient time, the committee is sure that a book can be produced which will be really worth while buying, which will give conductors something interesting to call and ring, and encourage students of composition to investigate plans of composition which as yet have received little attention.

Mr. Critchley moved and Mr. G. E. Feirn seconded the adoption of the report, and this was agreed to.

ADVICE SOUGHT ON RESTORATIONS

TOWER AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE

The report was signed by Messrs. F. Sharpe (convener), J. W. Clarke, F. E. Collins, J. Freeman, E. H. Lewis, J. Osborn and the Rev. J. G. M. Scott, and stated:—The work of this committee has again increased considerably. During the year 67 inquiries were received—an increase of 12 above the previous year. The inquiries came from 23 different counties. Several were dealt with by correspondence—the majority by personal inspections and reports. A summary of the work of each member is appended.

Mr. J. W. Clarke has been consulted by one architect regarding the building of a new tower, and all his recommendations were accepted. This tower, to be built in Cheshire, will one day house a ring of six. He advised on rehanging in one other tower and in collecting material for his 'Cheshire Bells' has examined many rings and made verbal reports on them. He is also a member of the Central Council for the Care of Churches.

Mrs. F. E. Collins has made inspections and reports on the bells in four towers in Kent, Essex and Hertfordshire, in all of which he has advised on restoration.

Mr. J. Freeman has dealt with four inquiries in Lincolnshire. In two of these he advised on rehanging; in the third on the provision of a new bell. In the fourth tower he advised rehanging two old bells in a new frame for six; on account of cost the P.C.C. wished to install an amplifier, but fortunately the faculty for this was refused.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott has been consulted in three instances in Devon and Somerset. In one tower he advised new gear and the rehanging of the bells in the existing frame; in another he advised a new frame and gear; the third concerned the restoration of two turret bells, one of them probably of late 12th century date.

Mr. W. Osborn has given advice on restoration work in 16 towers in Dorset, Somerset and Wiltshire. One related to the augmentation of a ring, another to augmentation and rehanging in a new frame, three concerned rehanging bells in new frames, and another the rehanging of bells in an existing frame; in seven towers repairs were advised, and in three others work advised has been satisfactorily completed.

Mr. E. H. Lewis has been consulted on the restoration of bells in two towers, one in Northamptonshire and the other in Warwickshire.

Mr. F. Sharpe dealt with 36 inquiries, some by correspondence, the majority by inspections and reports. In three towers he advised recasting, in 19 rehanging, in 13 repairs, and the remaining case was one in which advice was sought on sound control. The inquiries came from 16 English counties and from two Welsh ones. He has given many lectures to architects and diocesan authorities during the year.

In November last the convener received a letter from the secretary of the Central Council for the Care of Churches, in which, inter alia, she stated that the Standing Committee of her Council felt concern at the extent to which the 'Simpson' tuning of bells was being pressed on parishes, and she felt that to some degree this was being done by the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. She was referring in particular to a case in Hertfordshire, and she asked for the official views of our Council. In reply the convener explained the position regarding the bells at Kings Langley, and asked for a list of those towers in which the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers was alleged to have pressed for the unnecessary recasting of bells, stating that the contents of our Council's files gave no evidence of it. Copies of the Central Council for the Care of Churches' letter were circulated to all members of the Towers and Belfries Committee, to the bell-founders and to our secretary. Their comments, while not entirely unanimous, showed an overwhelming majority in agreement with our Council's policy, the broad outlines of which were communicated to the secretary of the Central Council for the Care of Churches. That Council eventually withdrew its opposition to the granting of a faculty for the recasting of the Kings Langley bells.

Moving the report, Mr. E. H. Lewis said that the Committee felt very strongly that good relations with the Central Council for the Care of Churches was essential. Talks should be at summit level between their president and the president of the Council for the Care of Churches, and that harm would be done by approaching at other levels.

Mr. F. E. Collins seconded.

Mr. Crampion said he had been asked by several incumbents in Essex to express thanks for the work done.

The report was adopted.

BOOK ON MINOR METHODS PROMISED AT EARLY DATE

METHODS COMMITTEE

The report was signed by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead (convener), Messrs. F. N. Golden, C. H. Kippin and C. K. Lewis, and stated:—The committee has continued its work of producing completely new books on Minor methods and Triples methods and much of the necessary material for these is now to hand. In the autumn the members of the committee were able to meet for two days at Southampton. At this meeting we were able to plan the scope and contents of the books and to divide out the work. This has been going on during the winter months—the composition sections, of course, being the most difficult, since peals are having to be produced for methods never yet rung.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, in moving the report, said they hoped that the Minor book, which was given first priority, would be published before August. They had all the material except for one section on splicing, which was being written, and then there were minor details to do. In republishing the contents they were including the new Double Surprise methods and the Alliance methods, and they had to find names for most of them. There were a certain number unknown and shortly he would be sending a letter to 'The Ringing World' asking for further names and if there was a method under any other name. As a compliment to the six-bell towers of the country the unnamed would be selected from those six-bell towers. The composition section was being revised and they were also going to deal with the question of duplicated names. Members would know that many were known by unusual names.

In the Triples methods they would include all those that would produce a peal. A lot of those methods had not been rung. The Triples book would take a little longer to produce. They hoped that by this time next year the Triples book would be in print.

Mr. C. K. Lewis seconded.

The President: As librarian, I know there is a crying need for these books.

The report was adopted.

DONCASTER AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

Visitors from Dronfield and Chesterfield and friends from Handsworth were present at the meeting at Thryburgh on May 31st. Methods rung were Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, Kent and Oxford, and rounds for beginners. The local band served tea in the Church Hall and an attraction was Children's Hour television.

Mr. F. Brunt presided at the business meeting and asked the District to accept 10s. as Thryburgh's subscription as he had some young ringers whom he thought were too young to be made members of any of the three Societies in the District. The Ringing Master (Mr. Staveley) asked him to leave it for the time being as the committee would discuss the matter. Thanks were conveyed to Mr. Brunt and the local band for the excellent tea and to the Vicar for the use of the bells. The next meeting is at Campsall on June 28th.

Mr. Richard Churchward, of Dean Village, Buckfastleigh, Devon, desires to thank sincerely those members of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild who recently rang a quarter peal 90th birthday.

Re page 338, May 23rd, 1958.—Who are these 'Raving Ringers'? They must be 'Odd Fellows.' They have their 'Bases Under Canvas' and no one knows whether they are 'In' or 'Out' of course.

CENTRAL COUNCIL TO PROBE SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

POSITION TO BE ANALYSED BY SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The first motion before the Council was in the name of Mr. N. Chaddock and read:—

'That a committee be appointed to investigate the state of Sunday service ringing to find out the factors making for success and to report back their findings and recommendations so that together with the ringing Associations and Church authorities the Central Council may help to increase and improve Sunday service ringing.'

Mr. Chaddock said the idea of such a committee had been in his mind for a number of years, and recent correspondence had led him to realise that others held the same view and to the proposition to set up a committee of the Central Council.

Was there a problem regarding Sunday service ringing? Was the quantity and quality throughout the land what it could and should be? Was it capable of improvement?

'In my view there is a problem and improvement is possible, and I know many responsible ringers who hold similar views. Unless the Council is satisfied with things as they are it is its duty to take some action.

DEMAND IN YORKSHIRE

'In order that I might put concrete information, rather than just my own personal impressions, before the meeting, I recently sent out a letter and questionnaire on this subject to over 150 towers in my own county (Yorkshire) where I did not know what the position was in regard to Sunday service ringing.

'An analysis of the results proved beyond doubt that there is urgent need for action to be initiated by the Council through Associations, to bring about an improvement. One question I put was whether they thought the Central Council could help, and 75 per cent. said that the Central Council could, and 60 per cent. asked for the provision of instructors.'

He thought this condition was pretty general throughout the country. He sent the result to Archdeacon Ellison, president of the Yorkshire Association, and he wrote that he hoped the resolution would produce help. Since the motion had appeared a number of people had written to him welcoming it. It would seem, therefore, that the setting up of the committee would receive wholehearted agreement, particularly from towers and ringers in need of help.

PANELS OF TUTORS

What sort of thing could such a committee do working through the Societies and Associations? They could ascertain the extent of the problem, collect and circulate information regarding causes, suggest remedies, factors for success and generally act as a clearing house of information between Guilds and Societies. They could investigate the means of finding more leaders and instructors; persuade existing leaders to take on the instruction of an additional tower, possibly remunerated by the local educational authority. They could help to create a panel of tutors or instructors, of assistants, and a waiting list of requests for tutors and guidance.

Representatives should endeavour to convince educational authorities of the social and cultural value of ringing. Some form of course might be run for instructors. Links with schools and other educational bodies might be formed. The committee might advise to secure the co-operation of the rural dean in each area and to stimulate clergy to greater interest, e.g., through theological colleges and Church Assembly representation.

The results might provide useful statistics to show where the black spots were. Endeavours should also be made to get some news about ringing in every Church publication.

The Central Council had a committee on most things except the very reason for their existence. If established, the committee needed to be a vigorous one and its members people who were prepared to do a lot of hard work and who were likely to inspire others in the tremendous task to be undertaken.

ELLACOMBE'S NOTES

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott, who seconded the motion in the absence of Mr. Philip Gray, who had to have an eye operation and rest for two months, said he had discussed the problem with Mr. Gray. It occurred to him that they had to be careful to point out what the problem was. It was the usual complaint that service ringing was not what it was. This was not true. Old ringers would say that they remembered when St. John's and St. Mark's bells were rung regularly and now they were silent on Sundays. He would point out that in many parts of England service ringing had been a comparatively recent development. If they looked at the notes on Ellacombe's chimes it was stated that it was to avoid unruly and disorderly men ringing on Sundays that he devised his chiming apparatus.

In certain parts of England service ringing had increased over the 70 years. He felt, however, that the Council did not concern itself with the very reason for its existence. One might ask how far were peals fulfilling the purpose for their ringing. A self-examination might reveal that the Council was failing to encourage service ringing and might by its policy be militating against such conditions. It might be that these findings would be helpful even if they were against themselves.

Mr. C. H. Kippin: All we have to do is to pass it over to the College of Campanology!

ASSOCIATIONS DOING THEIR DUTY

Mr. Fred Dunkerley thought the Associations were doing their duty regarding service ringing. Wherever they went in Ireland and the British Isles they would find that the topic of conversation was this question of Sunday ringing. It could not be said that this central body was not doing anything. That was what they were doing and doing well.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott: I should hate to imply that the Associations were not doing their job, but we feel if the committee could pool the experiences of the Associations and individual members we might be able to help the Associations.

Mr. W. B. Kynaston said he was in full agreement with Mr. Scott when he mentioned the individual. It all came back to the individual. They heard of Evercreech and how its ringing was heard by thousands. It was a small place, remote from a big centre of population and dependent entirely on its own efforts. How was it done? Hard work by those who ring there. He thought every good ringer should make a resolution to give one or two hours a week towards the instruction and improvement of beginners. If that was done the subject would be solved.

EXAMPLE FROM ISLEWORTH

Mrs. Rogers, who expressed herself as being entirely in agreement with the last speaker, said at Isleworth from 1949 to 1953 they had an excellent Surprise ten band. Two couples were married and went away until they were left with five or six people. They felt that something must be done about it. She had previously been asked to talk to various organisations in the Church, and as the result of two talks she gave to the Young Wives they had nine beginners, some boys 11 to 15 and two men. They had now a band of 14; most were beginners and they were now at the stage of Grandsire Triples and plain hunting On practice nights they rang Grandsire and on one evening a week they came to their house and were given instruction on handbells single-handed. 'While I think it would be nice to have a committee I think the personal touch would do very much more,' she concluded.

Mr. F. B. Lufkin said the Essex Association had a lot of sympathy with the motion because they had been thinking on the same lines. They had sent out a letter to all incumbents with bells asking if they wanted help. He felt that Essex was in sympathy with the motion if a body of select people from the Council could look at the problem and report back. It would be useful to correlate the experience of Associations and would let everybody see they were trying to face up to the problem.

Mr. D. Burnett, speaking for the Truro Guild, said a lot was due to the incumbents. One of their rules said the incumbent appointed the ringers. If an incumbent liked bells he would get ringers.

Mr. R. G. Blackman commented that they had already been told by three speakers that the greatest responsibility rested on the local ringers. Surely the idea was to collate the information and issue a report next year to help all those who had not been so fortunate as Isleworth and other places.

IRELAND'S PROBLEM

Mr. F. E. Dukes said Ireland was a very big problem as most of the churches had very few parishioners and in some cases the number of ringers were about 10 per cent. of the Church population. About ten years ago, when the Irish Association was reorganised, there were five towers without teams of ringers. Now there was not one tower without a team of ringers and that was due to the District officers. He was in sympathy with the motion.

Mr. A. A. Hughes quoted the case of St. Lawrence Jewry. When the bells were put in in 1927 they got a band from the choir and they had hung together.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow emphasised that in a live parish the various activities of the church should not consist of a number of individual groups but one big family of the congregation, where each was interested in the activities of the other. That was his conception of church life, and they had to have it in each parish if it was to survive. With such a family spirit, if the bells were silent everybody would want to know why.

Mr. F. E. Perrens also supported the motion.

The motion was then submitted and carried by a very substantial majority, about ten votes being cast against.

Appointed to the committee were Messrs. N. Chaddock, P. Gray, Rev. J. G. M. Scott, F. B. Lufkin and Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, with power to co-opt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RATCLIFFE-ON-WREAKE BELLS RING AGAIN

Dear Sir,—For at least ten years Ratcliffe bells have been silent. In Coronation year the secretary of the Syston District, Leicester Guild, visited the Rector to see if it were possible to get the bells ringing for the Coronation. The Rector refused to allow anyone to even inspect the bells.

Just before Christmas of last year we heard that there was a new priest in charge. Two members of the committee went to see him and were given permission to inspect and if possible get the bells ringing.

We found that apart from rotten ropes and nearly two feet of debris of the usual kind where windows are not covered with netting, there was not very much wrong. A strong-arm gang with shovels was recruited and one bright Saturday afternoon it all went out of the window. An odd experience to be excavating 60 feet up! We dug down to the mouths then found the sliders and rollers, all well preserved. All the repair necessary was one stay and one new slider. All bolts were tightened and bearings greased.

Meanwhile, all over the District efforts were being made to raise money to buy five new ropes.

Eventually all was finished and the bells rang out again—appropriately on Easter Sunday, when five District members rang a quarter peal. Since then we have rung for the induction of the Rector, and then a peal at Whitsun. After the peal the Rector led the band in prayer, and then they were royally entertained by the Vicar's warden.

Now for the real task—the teaching of a local band so that Ratcliffe bells will ring every week. —Yours faithfully,

B. STEDMAN PAYNE.

Barrow-on-Soar, Leics.

Mr. Ernest Morris writes: The bells were rehung by W. Sturmer and Son, of Syston, in 1923, at a cost of £122 4s. 8d., and the first peal rung on them on August 25th of that year, conducted by W. H. Clarke. Only two other peals have been rung—Grandsire, conducted by Arthur Mansfield (Syston), and Stedman by E. Morris.

PIDDINGTON BELLS

Dear Sir,—The first peal on the ring of five at Piddington, Oxon, was rung on May 24th. Prior to 1887 there were three bells hung on a mediæval frame for four. In 1887 Messrs. F. White and Sons, of Appleton, made additions to the frame and hung two new trebles and recast the original treble. These three bells were cast by Llewellyn and James, of Bristol.

The fourth was cast in 1738 and the tenor in 1729 by Edward Hemins, of Bicester. The tone of the tenor is unique in that its harmonic is a minor sixth above the strike note. — Yours sincerely,

CYRIL H. KINCH.

Bicester.

PEALS AT CRANLEIGH

Dear Sir,—With reference to your note in Belfry Gossip regarding the recent performance of a peal of Grandsire Triples at Cranleigh, which it is believed is the first to be rung there in 35 years:

I find that I took part on September 17th, 1927, in a peal of Double Norwich C.B. Major, of course, well within the period mentioned.

There are now but three survivors of the band who on that day, I think, rang the first peal of Double Norwich on the bells. Messrs. A. J. Bartlett, F. Bennett, R. Dawe, S. Radford and O. Sippetts have all passed to their rest.—Yours, etc.,

A. C. HAZELDEN.

Guildford.

FALSE COURSE ENDS

Dear Sir,—Mr. H. Chant, in his article on the Extraction of False Course Ends (sorry, Heads), introduces one or two time-saving devices. To save even more time a knowledge of complementary F.C.H.'s is useful, these being the F.C.H.'s which occur when the tenors are reversed in position (II in Mr. Chant's procedure). For reference I have tabulated the complementary F.C.H.'s opposite each other, and also divided the course ends into groups, such that if one of a group occurs so will all the others. This should be a useful check to anyone extracting the F.C.H.'s of a method.

As a matter of interest, I think it will be obvious from this table that the complement of the reciprocal F.C.H. is the same as the reciprocal of the complementary F.C.H.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN L. MORRIS.

SIGNATURES

Dear Sir,—On Whit Monday this year the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Bellringers held their annual meeting and festival in Hereford. With other rings in the district our bells at Burghill were available for ringing at intervals during the day. Our visitors book shows that 54 unsolicited signatures were entered during the day. This figure is not claimed to be even approaching a record, but it would be interesting to hear whether any other country parish church belfry possessing a visitors book can claim to substantially beat this figure on any one day in any year.—Yours truly,

F. MORRIS.

Burghill, Hereford.

The Ringing Master

SOLEMN THOUGHTS ON BEING RE-ELECTED

With def'rence to ringers and respect for the Clergy,
He Doubles up steps with his restless energy.
In Minimus time the bells peal in the steeple,
To start with the 'lesser lights'—those Minor people.
He ignores not the learners, round ringers and such,
Like the Spliced Surprise ringers they all have their 'touch.'
The Major problems which cause others a spasm.
Just Triples his enormous enthusiasm.
In real Royal manner (this point do not miss),
He Cinques all his personal prejudices.
In Maximus ringing time (brief 'rise' and 'fall'),
With touching devotion he Caters for all.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Mansfield District Formed

A general meeting of the Guild was held at Mansfield on May 31st, which was regarded as the first of the quarterly meetings resolved upon at the last general meeting. The fine bells of St. Peter's Church were available for ringing from 2.30 p.m.

At the business meeting, Mr. F. W. Midwinter took the chair, and altogether 39 members were present. The proposal to form a separate Mansfield District was the main item on the agenda and the chairman skilfully put forward the case for the Guild. He called upon Mr. B. A. Sollis for his views and he declared himself in favour of the idea and promised the goodwill of the East Derbyshire and Notts Association. Mr. Fossey, of Mansfield, Mr. Brown, of Mansfield Woodhouse, Mr. H. T. Rooke, of Warsop, Mrs. Woodhead, of Edwinstowe, and Mr. J. W. Raithby and Mr. W. L. Exton, of Newark, all spoke in favour of the idea.

Mr. F. A. Salter, of Nottingham, supported the proposition but deplored the proposed loss of Greasley and Eastwood to the new District.

Mr. B. N. Buswell, of Daybrook, did not feel the same sentiment as Mr. Salter for these towers and thought that the Nottingham District already had more than enough towers.

On a formal proposition being put to the meeting by Mr. B. N. Buswell, seconded by Mr. George Challans, and carried unanimously, it was resolved to proceed with the formation of a separate Mansfield District.

The following towers within the Diocese were tentatively agreed as being within the area covered by the Mansfield District, namely, Mansfield, Mansfield Woodhouse, Cuckney, Warsop, Edwinstowe, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Kirkby-in-Ashfield, Selston, Hucknall, Eastwood, Greasley, Farnsfield and Teversall.

The following officers were elected for the new District: Chairman, Mr. S. W. Fossey; hon. secretary, Mr. Douglas Rooke; committee, Mr. A. J. Brown and Mrs. Woodhead. The first meeting was fixed for July 26th at Edwinstowe, when it is hoped that Guild members generally will attend and encourage the new District.

JOINT SECRETARIES OF ROVING RINGERS MARRIED

Many ringing friends were present at St. Mary's, Beddington, on May 17th to witness the wedding of Mr. Michael Chilcott and Miss Kathleen Weller, the joint secretaries of the Society of Roving Ringers.

The bride, wearing a dress of off-white heavy brocade, was escorted by her father, Mr. H. Weller, and the Misses Sylvia Napier and Mary Kidney acted as bridesmaids.

The reception was at The Grange, Wallington, where telegrams of congratulation were read by the best man, Mr. David E. Parsons, including greetings from members of the Roving Ringers and the Ancient Society of College Youths. Wedding gifts were received from the Beddington band, the Surrey Association and the Society of Roving Ringers.

Beddington bells were rung before and after the service by the local band and other Surrey Association friends, and as the couple left for their honeymoon the bells of St. Michael's, Cornhill, were sounding a peal of Stedman Cinques, rung by College Youths to honour jointly this event and the wedding of the Society's Master which took place the same day.

A quarter peal of Cambridge Minor was rung by West Country R.R.'s at Nailsea, and on the following Saturday a peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Beddington to mark the happy occasion.

FIRST PEAL PERFORMANCES

By F. T. BLAGROVE

Oxford T.B. Major.—5,120 at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East on December 27th, 1718, by the Union Scholars.

Oxford T.B. Royal.—5,200 at St. Sepulchre's, London, on April 7th, 1741, by the Eastern Scholars.

Oxford T.B. Maximus.—5,040 at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on March 12th, 1758, by the College Youths. Oxford T.B. was often rung under the title Union Bob or Union Treble Bob.

Kent Treble Bob.—This method was regarded as a variation of Oxford Treble Bob, and no doubt many early peals of Kent were recorded as Oxford. In the 'R.W.', August 27th, 1943, J. A. Trollope gives a good argument that the peals of Cumberland Treble Bob were actually of Kent Treble Bob.

Kent Treble Bob Royal.—5,760 at Leeds, Kent, on May 15th, 1784, by the Leeds Youths.

Kent Treble Bob Maximus.—7,200 at Birmingham on April 17th, 1820, by the St. Martin's Youths.

Cumberland T.B. Major.—5,504 at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on May 4th, 1795, by the Cumberland Youths.

Stedman Triples.—Peals were rung at St. Peter Mancroft on October 25th, 1731, and at St. Michael Coslany on December 6th, 1731, by local bands of the Norwich Scholars.

Stedman Caters.—5,076 at St. John's, Horsleydown, Southwark, on May 28th, 1787, by the College Youths.

Stedman Cinques.—6,204 at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields on October 6th, 1788, by the College Youths.

Double London Court Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Lawrence Jewry, London, on May 17th, 1735, by the College Youths. It is probable that the early peals of Court Bob in London and Kent were actually Double London Court.

Double London Court Bob Royal.—6,720 at Leeds, Kent, on January 25th, 1765, by the Leeds Youths.

Double Norwich Court Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Michael's Coslany, on March 9th, 1741, by the Norwich Scholars. Presumably the peals of Court Bob at Norwich were all actually of Double Norwich Court.

Double Norwich Court Bob Royal.—5,040 at St. Peter Mancroft on April 7th, 1769, by the Norwich Scholars.

Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus.—5,016 at St. Peter Mancroft on January 20th, 1817, by the Norwich Scholars.

Having covered the standard methods—Plain, Grandsire, Treble Bob, Stedman and Court—we can now deal with the other methods rung to peals in the 18th century.

Richmond Triples.—5,040 at Richmond, Surrey, on March 10th, 1742, by the Richmond Society.

Royal Triples.—5,040 at Dover on November 11th, 1750, and at Twickenham in 1751.

St. Dunstan's Triples.—5,040 at St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street, on January 27th, 1728, by the College Youths.

St. Simon's College Bob Triples.—5,040 at St. Bride's on April 12th, 1732, by the College Youths.

Union Triples.—5,040 at St. Lawrence Jewry on February 17th, 1728, by the College Youths.

Hick Triples.—Rung at St. Dunstan-in-the-East on September 9th, 1718; is the same as Grandsire Triples.

Hank Triples.—Rung at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on February 26th, 1738; is the same as Grandsire Triples.

London Union Triples.—Rung at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on December 28th, 1782; is presumably the same as Union Triples.

The following Triples methods, rung by the All Saints' Youths of Wakefield, are not known, the figures presumably being lost. They may, however, be only variations of Plain Bob or Grandsire Triples.

Wakefield Pleasure Triples.—5,040 at Wakefield on February 15th, 1756.

Vauxhall Triples.—5,040 at Wakefield on September 23rd, 1761.

Merry Wakefield Delight Triples.—5.040 at Wakefield on December 25th, 1762.

Wakefield Evening Delight Triples.—5,040 at Wakefield on May 14th, 1764.

Barnsley Evening Pleasure Triples.—5,040 at Barnsley on February 23rd, 1773.

New Bob Caters.—5,040 at Shoreditch on January 21st, 1770, by the Cumberland Youths. Morris gives this as Grandsire New Double Caters.

Union Caters.—6,410 at Shoreditch on December 26th, 1786, by the Cumberland Youths. Morris does not give this.

Real Double Bob Cinques.—5,236 at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on February 26th, 1776, by the Cumberland Youths, and is Real Double Grandsire Cinques.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Kent Branch

The meeting of the Kent Branch on May 24th was attended by some 21 members and friends. On this sunny Whit Saturday afternoon the really beautiful old Church of St. Leonard provided a delightful setting for the very enjoyable service conducted by the Vicar.

The eight bells were rung all the afternoon, but as several of those present had to begin long journeys home shortly after the business meeting, the ringing during the evening consisted of Grandsire on handbells in the churchyard and Stedman Doubles, Kent Minor and Grandsire Triples in the tower.

As the next meeting in Kent will be the annual general at Canterbury on July 5th, the next Branch meeting was arranged for September 27th, and Frindsbury was suggested.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Successful Festival Held At Fowey

On May 17th the spring festival of the Mid-Cornwall Branch was held at Fowey Parish Church, and was attended by about 90 ringers and friends from St. Mewan, St. Gorran, St. Stephen, St. Dennis, St. Ewe, Tywardreath, Newlyn East, Kea, and Truro Cathedral.

Guild officers present were vice-presidents Mr. W. H. Southeard, Canon F. F. Gilbert and Mr. H. J. Clark, also Mr. W. Moss, secretary of the Launceston Branch.

In the afternoon all the ringers rang at intervals before the service, which was conducted by the Vicar of Fowey (Rev. G. W. I. Coe). The Vicar preached a very appropriate sermon and welcomed the ringers to Fowey. Attending the service were the Mayor and Mayoress of Fowey. Tea was provided by the Mothers' Union and wives of the Fowey bell-ringers.

The B.B.C. recording car from Plymouth took some recordings of the bells and also interviewed the Vicar, the secretary, also Mr. H. Lander, of St. Stephen, and 15-year-old Michael Joslin, of St. Mewan.

Later in the evening all the bands of ringers took part in the test ringing, and several certificates were awarded. The judges were Mr. A. Locke, of St. Kea, and Mr. J. Keatte, of St. Merryn.

The festival concluded with a gathering in the hall, where refreshments were served, and votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, and the ladies for putting on such a splendid tea. The organiser was the Branch secretary (Mr. D. Burnett), assisted by Mr. H. Lander, of St. Stephen-in-Brannel.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District Meeting

A most enjoyable meeting of the Newark District was held at All Saints' Church, Winthorpe, on Saturday, May 17th. Although the attendance was rather small during the afternoon, it approached 40 after tea, and ringing ranged from rounds to a variety of Surprise Minor methods.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. B. F. Houghton, who also kindly took the chair at the business meeting. One new member, Mr. J. Hadley, of Sutton-on-Trent, was elected, and East Bridgford was confirmed as the place for the July meeting.

It was agreed to hold an experimental evening meeting at Farnsfield on June 14th, ringing to commence at 6 p.m. The collection for the Bell Repair Fund realised 9s. 4d.

Many thanks are due to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the local ringers and their wives, who so kindly arranged and served an excellent tea.

W. L. E.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The annual meeting of the Saxmundham District was held at Kelsale. The attendance was low, but the bells were kept ringing until almost 9 p.m. Methods rung included Cambridge, Superlative, Double Norwich, Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford, and various rounds.

At the business meeting the hon. secretary and Ringing Master were re-elected. Mr. Leonard Minns, of Pulham Market, Norfolk, was elected a non-resident life member.

Next meeting: Peasenhall and Yoxford on July 12th.

THE RINGING WORLD

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2464 Vol. LIV. FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

SOME THOUGHTS ON SUNDAY RINGING

THE most practical thing that emerged from the Dublin Council meeting was the establishment of a committee drawn from Yorkshire, Bristol, Devon, Essex and Norfolk to investigate the state of Sunday service ringing, a subject which Mr. Fred Dunkerley aptly remarked was a topic among ringers in all parts of the British Isles. How the committee is to function remains to be seen, but an indication as to the work of a preliminary survey has already been undertaken by the Yorkshire Association by a questionnaire to over 150 towers in that county and by the Essex Association by a letter to all incumbents with bells, asking if they wanted help.

The normal and proper channel for such a survey is through the affiliated territorial Guilds and Associations. And these in due turn will carry the investigation through their respective districts. It is in the districts that an accurate understanding prevails as to the respective strength of each tower, its capabilities and the degree with which it is fulfilling its obligation by Sunday service ringing. These conditions change from year to year. The writer knows of a flourishing tower that is losing four experienced ringers in the space of one month, thus reducing a company with a good standard of ringing to mediocre until the six probationers are fit to qualify for membership. Such circumstances are not uncommon, and the survey to give any useful guide needs in consequence to be constantly under review.

The motion, that was carried by a substantial majority, went further than a mere survey; it wanted to know how the Central Council and others may help to increase and improve Sunday service ringing. The ideal is an enthusiast, who is a capable instructor, and has a happy relationship with the incumbent in charge of the tower. Where such circumstances prevail and the ringers are part and parcel of the big family of the church in the parish—a point made by the Rev. A. G. C. Thurlow—there is no question that ringing will flourish and a high standard of Sunday service ringing prevail. The onus is very much on the individual, and when one looks around the country at the flourishing towers, this is invariably the key to success. It is not only in training but moral leadership that instils not only a pride in good performance but a strong sense of duty and obligation to the church that results in having a company that will ring all the bells for each service.

Unfortunately leadership of such a high character is not general. There are, however, in most districts a number of key towers where Sunday service ringing is faithfully performed; the standard as regards methods might not be high—and here we would emphasise that for Sunday service ringing it is not the method but the general quality of striking that is essential. Sunday ringing should if possible be all-embracing. The probationer, as soon as he or she can ring rounds reasonably well should have a part—even a few minutes of rounds—to gain that sense of obligation and responsibility in the act of worship through ringing. This sense of duty to the church must be inculcated in all that take up ringing.

We hold strongly to the view that each individual ringer should be definitely attached to a particular church. Because of work and often home circumstances, a 100 per cent. attendance is not always possible, nevertheless each ringer should look upon one or two towers in the cases of those working away or at college as their home towers. We commend the view of Mr. W. B. Kynaston, that every good ringer should make a resolution to give one or two hours a week towards the instruction and improvement of beginners. Every ringer who enjoys his peals should be prepared to make his contribution. We rejoice to see ringers who are masters in a wide field of Surprise and Spliced ringing taking their place in a peal of one of the four standard methods to help and encourage others in the art. This is the basis of all true ringing and real progress, as a beginner's best start is when ringing with a band of wide experience.

The biggest problem of all is tackling the silent tower where there are only one or two ringers and no ringing on Sundays. The answer can only be found by the district providing an instructor if the incumbent can find the young people. Preliminary work is in the nature of a talk on bells and ringing generally presented in an attractive way so as to whet the inquisitiveness of human nature. If the lecturer has got his audience with him then should follow a practical demonstration in the belfry by a team of ringers. A class is thus formed, and with a patient and understanding instructor eventually the bells will be rung regularly again.

We implore district officers to co-operate to the full in collecting the necessary data for the survey. Some might regard what is proposed as unnecessary, but this we say with confidence: Sunday ringing can be improved enormously, and the method of success is in each individual ringer making his or her own personal contribution. Talk about the subject at your meetings, but don't merely talk—be prepared to help.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS DISTRICT

Arranged by Mr. A. W. Rolfe, ringers from Hartest, Whepstead, Bury St. Edmunds, Pakenham and a holidaymaker from Coventry had an enjoyable outing on Whit Monday.

The party met at Horringer Church and rang on the light eight for about one hour. At Fornham All Saints Mr. C. Stannard met the party and joined in various 5-bell methods. The bells were ready for the visitors at West Stow. Some of the 5-bell ringers of the party excelled themselves with Kent T.B. and Oxford T.B., with the help of Messrs. A. E. Moore and W. Stannard.

After lunch at Fornham St. Martin an hour's ringing was enjoyed at St. Martin's Church, and later on the lovely old six at Ixworth, where the District secretary (Mr. K. Brown) and some of his ringers were waiting, a good course of Cambridge was rung.

Mrs. Milton had arranged a lovely tea at Pakenham, and this was followed by ringing on the heavy-going five. A long run brought the party to Badwell Ash—another five with a long draught of rope which are seldom rung. Finally came an hour's ringing at Walsham-le-Willows. The party dispersed from Bury St. Edmunds, having enjoyed a good day's ringing, thanks to the kindness of clergy and ringers in host towers.

ROCHDALE, LANCS

Happy memories remain of the Rochdale ringers' outing on May 10th, which started at an unconscionably early hour. There was ringing first at the beautiful church at Bolsover, with a miner's lamp doing service in the sanctuary. Southwell was decked in lilac, and after a splendid meal the fine eight at the Minster were rung. Conditions were, however, a trial to the unexperienced, for ringing is performed in a narrow gallery strung round the inner sides of the tower walls with a clear view of the Minster floor dozens of feet below. The ropes are quite 10 feet apart (two to a wall) and fall anti-clockwise. Despite all this we were able to execute Grandsire Triples, Double Norwich and Plain Bob Major to the satisfaction of our hosts.

At Nottingham, where a policeman was unable to tell us where St. Mary's Church was, we enjoyed ourselves when we found it, starting with a first-rate course of Stedman Caters. A very good high tea followed, and although a little behind time we were made right welcome by Canon Sprittles and his ringers at Bulwell. The last tower was Ripley in Derbyshire, where the Vicar is an old friend, having been incumbent at St. James', East Crompton. A jolly reunion took place. Best wishes and sincere thanks are extended to local clergy and ringers for an enjoyable day.

WELLINGTON, SOMERSET

A tour of North Devon and Cornwall was the objective of this year's outing of Wellington Parish Church ringers on June 7th, when interesting churches were visited.

St. Mary Magdalene's, South Moulton, is a popular tower with touring parties, and these bells were soon pealing forth to the standard methods, including a good course of Kent T.B. Major. At Bideford the visit coincided with a wedding, and the bride and bridegroom were greeted from the service with a good rise in peal followed by a well-struck touch of Stedman Triples.

During an enjoyable lunch at the Globe Hotel, Bude, a presentation of a leather wallet was made to Mr. David North, the captain, in appreciation of his having organised all the ringers' outings since 1948. The afternoon was spent at this popular resort, and after tea ringing took place at Stratton and later at Holsworthy, a grand Gillett and Johnston eight, where the ringing included Cambridge and Spliced Treble Bob Major.

An incident on the homeward journey was the stopping of the coach by a local policeman who thought one member of the party sitting in the front seat resembled an escaped Dartmoor prisoner. The coach driver, however, vouched for his respectability, and Wellington was reached soon after 10 p.m. The outing was as enjoyable as ever.

TENTERDEN, KENT

Tenterden ringers were augmented by friends from Benenden, Bethersden, Cranbrook and High Halden for their outing on Whit Monday. A 'long hop' was necessary to the first tower, Lindfield, where under the guidance of Percy Relf there was an hour's ringing. Grandsire, Minor and rounds were rung at Steyning before an excellent lunch at St. Cuthman's Hotel.

At Henfield there was a pleasant surprise—our Vicar came into the belfry to greet us. Here, aided by two local ringers, we surpassed ourselves by 'tearing off' a good touch of Bob Major. Intoxicated by our earlier efforts at Henfield we again set off for a touch of Bob Major at Shoreham. It went all right for a few minutes until the conductor (foolish fellow) decided to call a single. This he did with wild abandon, the result being a crash that must have been heard in Tenterden! Tea was laid on at the Huntingdon Hall.

In the evening at Hellingly we were joined by Mr. Beney and his friends, and Cambridge Surprise, Kent T.B. and Stedman were rung in fine style. A special word of thanks to Violet Relf for a very pleasant trip.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The bells of the ancient Priory Church of St. Bartholomew-the-Great, West Smithfield, the oldest parish church in the City of London, will be heard prior to the service to be broadcast from there on Sunday, June 29th, at 9.45 a.m. in the Home Service, when the Archbishop of Quebec (the Most Rev. Philip Carrington), distinguished Canadian over here for the Lambeth Conference, will preach the sermon. The captain of the ringers is Reuben Byrne. These bells are the only complete set of five pre-Reformation bells in the City of London.

After Mr. Leonard Rodmell had rung his 100th peal, scored at Patrington on June 7th, the band was entertained to an excellent tea by Mrs. Rodmell, a kindness that was much appreciated.

The band who rang in the peal at Heswall, Cheshire, on May 31st would like to express their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith for their spontaneous and generous hospitality after the peal; also to Mr. W. Stone, the veteran tower-keeper, for having everything in readiness.

By special request of the Rector, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on All Hallows' bells, Harthill, on May 31st, to celebrate the 21st anniversary of the bells, which were installed in May, 1937. It was the first peal of Triples on the bells and the first peal rung open, as due to the excessive noisiness in the ringing chamber the only other peal on the bells was rung fully-muffled. Due to efforts of the new band, the volume of sound in the ringing chamber has been reduced. The peal was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. N. Chaddock. Mrs. J. Bishop entertained the ringers to tea in the Rectory afterwards, and the Rev. J. Bishop commented how pleasant the changes sounded with the tenor behind.

Mr. Brian J. Woodruffe, of Fairfield, Buxton, has set up two new records in handbell ringing with 45 and 55 methods of Doubles. This was on June 7th. The first peal contained 24 extents spliced and the second 30 extents. Congratulations!

Members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths residing in the Midlands scored a peal for the Society on the bells of Lincoln Cathedral on June 7th.

Mr. Norman Chaddock has received requests for Belfry Prayers from 25 counties in England and also one from James R. Lawson, carillonneur, Rockefeller Chapel, University of Chicago.

Correction.—The number of changes of method in the 46 Treble Bob Minor peal at Fairfield on May 17th (page 361) was 74 and not 14 as printed.

The peal rung at Great Addington, Northampton, on Friday, April 18th, should read Colin M. Payne 2nd, and not Colin M. Walker as submitted.

In honour of the visit of H.R.H. Princess Margaret to Helmingham, 1,280 Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung by C. W. Beecroft, P. M. Clarke, F. Ruffles, M. R. Page, R. G. Parker, W. Ruffles, W. W. Miller and L. G. Brett. A peal attempt was impossible owing to a repeat pageant in the evening.

Traditional melodies using 35 bells were played by Rotherham High School handbell ringers when they took part for the first time in the Rotherham Schools' music festival. Those in the team were Susan Chaddock, Elizabeth Wardell, Patricia Walker, Christine Rodgers, Mary Atkinson, Joyce Godber, Rosamund Barclay and Mr. N. Chaddock. Seven out of the eight are ringers at Rotherham Parish Church.

NO ADDITIONAL LICENCE FOR DOUBLES PEALS

Mr. F. T. Blagrove moved:—

'That the conditions required for peals of Doubles shall be amended to read as follows:—

(a) Peals of Doubles shall consist of 5,040 or more changes rung in:—
  (i) True and complete six-scores without interval between any two six-scores and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.
  (ii) Round blocks of a multiple of 120, provided that such round blocks contain each of the different 120 changes the same number of times, without interval between such blocks and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.
  (iii) Combinations of (i) and (ii).
(b) Peals of Doubles may be rung with or without a covering bell, and no continuous leading bells are allowed.

That the conditions required for peals of Minor shall be amended to read as follows:—

(a) Peals of Minor shall consist of 5,040 or more changes rung in:—
  (i) True and complete 720's without interval between any two 720's, and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.
  (ii) Round blocks of a multiple of 720, provided that such round blocks contain each of the different 720 changes the same number of times, without interval between such blocks and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.
  (iii) Combinations of (i) and (ii).
(b) Peals of Minor to be rung on six bells.'

Mr. F. T. Blagrove said the purpose of his motion was to clear up some of the inconsistencies of the Council. As Decisions stood at the moment, in the composition of round blocks of Doubles the first 120 must be true to itself and the second must be true. The idea was that a round block of 240 should consist of all the changes twice and not necessarily in each 120. It was found that Pitman's and Morris' did not conform to that idea and an exception had been made. Although they could now ring Pitman's and Morris' they could not ring B. D. Price's. He wanted that inconsistency removed.

At the moment they could not ring a peal of Erin Doubles or Double Grandsire Doubles. They were contained in a book published in 1952 but they did not conform to the Council's Decisions. The reason was in the peal of Erin there were three different types of singles.

By passing the motion they would widen the scope of Minor ringing. They had twin hunt and plain hunt Minor methods which they could not put into a 720, but if they allowed round blocks they would be able to ring these methods to a peal.

The motion would firstly get rid of inconsistencies and secondly extend the range and scope in Doubles and Minor methods.

This year there was a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major rung with two types of bobs, which he felt that as the rules stood at present should not be included. Also a peal of Erin Doubles, which most people regarded as a good peal but it was not included; it should have been included.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow seconded the motion.

The hon. secretary: The motion was considered by the Standing Committee and it was recommended that it be not accepted for reasons Mr. C. K. Lewis has been asked to put forward.

Mr. C. K. Lewis said he had views which did not always agree with the Standing Committee. The Exercise had been built up on truth and the motion was an attack on truth. They had kept to truth, the only exception being in two Doubles cases. Mr. Blagrove had presented a very convincing case.

The Standing Committee thought they should adhere to truth and not lower the standard. He agreed that there were inconsistencies but they had grown up with the Council. Hitherto they had worked on good sense and good taste. If they were to be ruled by regulations the Exercise was going to go down. The decision they were asked to make in Paragraph 2 was a decision which came up at Chester which was thrown out. Fortunately he turned up an old 'Ringing World' where Mr. E. H. Lewis was speaking at the Snowdon dinner. His comment was that he did not like ringing a peal of Minor with two singles. That was a point made by the Standing Committee.

Mr. G. E. Feirn said he had done much Minor ringing. By the motion, instead of clearing up inconsistencies they were opening the field to free composition. He thought they ought to stick to the present rules.

Mr. W. G. Wilson said it was 21 years ago that day when he had the temerity to propose the basis of the motion for the Handbook which contained the Minor and Doubles methods. When they composed that book they had to put in a couple of exceptions with Morris' and Pitman's. They admitted those two items and closed the door quickly. A departure would mean the risk of letting in a lot more. The debate was not one for letting in Erin Doubles. If the Council wanted Erin Doubles in they should do so by amendment. But to open the door wide and leave it open wide was asking for trouble. He would like to see the motion rejected. If the proposer and seconder could produce good reasons for admitting a good exception they should do so.

Some Of Our Ladies

Mr. F. T. Blagrove in reply said the first thing was the question of truth. The only thing they could imply was a minimum of falseness. He failed to see in such cases where the truth came in. They could ring a peal of Grandsire with two singles, and who would say 'that the opinion of the Council that the publication of worthless methods reflects discredit on the composer'? They had allowed Mr. Wilson's inconsistencies. Most people outside would say they did not like inconsistencies and would like to see inconsistencies got rid of.

The motion was defeated.

NEXT MEETING

Mr. F. Dunkerley said he had great pleasure in inviting the Council to Lancashire and could promise the Council the same high standard as Dublin had set. The actual centre would be considered by his committee if the Council accepted.

The invitation was unanimously accepted.

ALTERATION OF RULES

The hon. secretary gave notice of an amendment of rules to be submitted to the next meeting to the effect 'that all reports to the Council shall be made in writing to the hon. secretary by March 31st.'

RECORDS OF FAMOUS PEALS

Under Any Other Business, Mr. C. W. Pipe said the Council had committees dealing with biographies of past members and records of old peal boards which would be kept to posterity. It occurred to him that they had no records of the more important things—the actual bells. He felt that the Council should have recordings of famous bells rung up and down the country. They had a perfect recording of the old Bow Bells, but how many knew what Yarmouth bells sounded like before the church was destroyed?

He thought the time had come when they should have recordings of bells up and down the country. One man had told him that a machine to make a perfect recording would cost about £80.

Mr. Paul L. Taylor said it was difficult to make a perfect recording. They could get quite a close approximation. That was all he was prepared to say.

ERIN DOUBLES

Mr. F. T. Blagrove asked the Council to give advice as to whether 5,040 Erin Doubles constituted a peal.

Mr. C. K. Lewis: If it is included in the analysis I would like to propose that peals of Erin Doubles be deleted.

Mr. E. A. Barnett seconded.

Mr. Blagrove: And what about Cambridge Surprise Major using two types of bobs?

Mr. Lewis contended that it was permissible.

Mr. Blagrove: But the Decisions of the Council stated only one type of bob.

After further discussion the Council agreed to the deletion of Erin Doubles.

Mrs. Barnett asked that the Peal Analysis Committee would state what peals they had thrown out.

ONE TYPE OF BOB

Another question from Mr. Blagrove was: Is it possible to alter the Decisions of the Council that only one type of bob be used?

The President asked if the Council wanted to discuss this question. As only Mr. Blagrove's hand was held up in favour, the question was not proceeded with.

THE ATTENDANCE

10 Associations fully represented, 20 members: 27 Associations partly represented, 52 members present, 46 absent: 18 Associations not represented, 33 members.

	Present	Absent
Life members	5	1
Honorary members	10	11
Representative members	72	79
Totals	87	91

'I think you will agree,' said Mr. Barnett, 'that the attendance figure has exceeded our expectations.'

VOTES OF THANKS

Mr. J. Dunwoody proposed a vote of thanks to the President for ably conducting the meeting, to Mr. and Mrs. Barnett for their work in compiling the agenda, and to Mr. Dukes for his hard work in making arrangements.

Mr. H. W. Rogers seconded and the motion was carried with acclamation.

The President then moved a vote of thanks to the Deputy Mayor of Dublin (Cclr. M. E. Dockrill), the Archbishop of Dublin (the Most Rev. G. O. Simms), the president of the Irish Association (Mr. W. Pratt), the representative body of the Church of Ireland for the use of the Synod Hall, the Very Rev. W. de Pauley (Dean of St. Patrick's), the Very Rev. E. H. Lewis-Gosby (Dean of Christ Church), and last but not least to the Irish Association for their kindness and hospitality.

'I think,' said the President, 'our members have enjoyed themselves very much in Ireland, and we thank Mr. Dukes who has done the lion's share, Miss Jean Stewart for doing the typrewriting and duplicating, and Mr. J. Dunwoody for his works. We also thank local incumbents and ringers for the use of their bells. Your excellent hospitality we have enjoyed: and may I conclude with the words of the Psalmist: "Truly it is a pleasant thing to be thankful".'

The motion was carried with enthusiasm.

THE SOCIAL SIDE

Presentations and Hospitality

The appreciation of visiting ringers to Mr. F. E. Dukes was expressed at the conclusion of the reception given by Bord Failte Eireann (Irish Tourist Board) at the Central Hotel, Dublin, following the Central Council meeting. The guests were received by Mr. E. P. Karney, manager of Bord Failte Eireann, and after tea he gave a very cordial welcome to the Council and visiting ringers.

'It is a very great pleasure,' said Mr. Karney, 'to welcome you this afternoon on the occasion of your annual meeting—the first to be held in Ireland since the foundation of the Council in 1890. It strikes me that with Ireland's association with Christianity and Christianity's association with bell-ringers we have now a congress of holy ringers. This week we have not only had to welcome your Council but also at Cobh the carillonneurs. With you in session here and the carillonneurs at Cobh together they constitute a unique occasion.

'I understand that for most of you it is your first visit to Ireland, and I trust it will not be your last, and that what you have seen has proved favourable and that before long we shall have the pleasure of welcoming you back again.'

The president, in replying to the welcome, thanked Bord Failte Eireann for their reception. 'We have had a delightful time and had the pleasure of ringing on some delightful Irish bells in your churches and cathedrals. To many of us it has been the most enjoyable Council we have had, set in such glorious surroundings.'

Mr. Frederick Sharpe then made presentations to Irish friends, with the visitors' thanks for the wonderful service and arrangements they had made. To Mr. F. E. Dukes he presented a brief case, to Mr. J. T. Dunwoody a wallet and to Miss Jean Stewart a purse.

Mr. Dukes, in acknowledging the gifts, said it was their ambition that the Council should visit Ireland and the third time of asking was lucky.

Jean also expressed her thanks, and Mr. J. T. Dunwoody added: 'I must say Fred has done all the work—we just carried out his orders. Thank you for your kindness.'

Later in the evening the customary after-Council-meeting social was held. There was no lack of fun and plenty of handbell ringers. Highlights of the evening were contributions from clerical ringers—the recitations by the Revs. K. W. H. Felstead and J. G. M. Scott. The latter's topical verses concerning the adventures of 'A. P. C.' 'brought down the house.'

Two interesting visits were those to Messrs. Guinness' Brewery on the Saturday, when a company of some 80 ringers were most hospitably entertained to lunch, and on the Wednesday to Messrs. Jamieson's Distillery. The appreciation of the visitors at the former was expressed by the president and at the distillery by Mr. E. A. Barnett. On both occasions appreciation was expressed in a true ringer's fashion by well-struck courses on handbells.

A special report of the Northern Ireland peal tour will appear in our next issue.

SOUTHERN IRELAND GAVE VISITORS A WONDERFUL RECEPTION

A tour of Southern Ireland in three days, including ringing at eight famous towers and attending the carillon festival at Cobh, appeared a formidable undertaking. All the same, a party of ten ringers in two hired cars left Dublin promptly after the C.C. meeting on Tuesday, with the intention of visiting Arklow, the one-time home of the famous James Washbrook. Here we found a magnificent church, high up on the hill and containing a fine ring of eight bells with a 22 cwt. tenor in E by Taylor. Then on to Enniscorthy where we had booked an hotel for the night. The enormous supper of ham and eggs and the famous Irish wholemeal bread and butter put everyone into wonderful spirit and we all slept like tops.

An equally wonderful breakfast and a five-minute stand on the age-old bridge and it was time to move on to Wexford, where hangs a glorious ring of ten bells (tenor 31 cwt. in D) by Gillett and Johnston. More good ringing and on to Waterford Cathedral, with its eight bells (tenor 20 cwt.), and quite a good ring too.

After lunch and a few touches, it was decided to attempt a peal, and Miss Hilda Snowden was offered the tenor and the privilege of conducting. The decision proved correct, and there was hardly a trip or a word spoken during the whole peal. The cheer from 20 to 30 locals who had gathered up on a gallery over the ringing chamber was a great tribute to Hilda's masterly handling of the tenor.

Cork was 80 miles ahead and we had to do 70 when the roads permitted to get to Cobh for the carillon festival, where some of the party were due to take part in a handbell demonstration, together with Mr. Fred Sharpe and Mr. Paul Taylor. The glorious cathedral and heavenly carillon music had to be seen and heard to be believed. Cork Cathedral is equally glorious, and its bells, with a 27 cwt. tenor in D flat by Rudhall, were the envy of all those who could not take part in a peal. Johnson's variation of Middleton's Cambridge was attempted and successfully brought round without a trip.

There was little time for delay as we were due for a reception at Mount St. Alphonsus, Limerick, at 8 p.m., and a 65-mile ride in front of us. Good roads and lovely scenery were once again enjoyed, and we arrived strictly on time to be greeted by Father O'Donnell, the brothers of the monastery, and local ringers who had prepared a supper for us. The wonderful welcome we received would be hard to describe, and a conducted tour of this most beautiful building rounded off an evening we shall never forget. We stayed the night in Limerick and the next morning saw us up bright and early, ringing at St. Mary's (8, tenor reputed to be 24 cwt.).

Then back to Mount St. Alphonsus where hangs one of the nicest rings of ten by Taylor (tenor 21 cwt. in E) the writer has ever rung upon. A splendid peal of Plain Bob Royal was knocked off in 3 hours and 10 minutes, and we were soon heading eastwards for Kilkenny Cathedral, the last tower of the tour, where we were met by the Dean who requested us to fire the bells on the occasion of the engagement (to be married) of the 81-year-old Bishop. There is no difficulty in firing these bells, and we did real justice to the job.

Those of us who decided to embark on the three-day tour had no idea we would find such hospitality and friendliness. The scenery was delightful and the bells were magnificent. This tour was another sideline of Mr. Fred Dukes' arrangements, and we were all, and always will be, deeply grateful to Fred for all he did for us.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A LEADING TOWER AND RECRUITMENT

Dear Sir,—John Vernon, in his admirable letter on page 319, has drawn attention to 'the bands of ringers renowned for their abilities, in whose towers the clappers are never tied,' but who draw their recruits from less accomplished bands in their locality. This is very true. Some years ago I remember asking a member of the Cathedral band in Leicester why they did not train their own ringers right from the very beginning instead of drawing upon trained ringers from other towers where they could do more good by teaching in their own belfries. His reply was that it was not their policy, and in any case if you wished to learn the violin you would not go to Sir Malcolm Sargent but to someone else first to learn to play.

I have discussed this attitude with several ringers, and I have yet to find anyone to disagree that this is a selfish and perhaps a snobbish attitude.

The Bishop of Coventry, in his Epilogue on B.B.C. television some weeks ago in 'Faithful Service,' said that it was usually the people in the background, whose names we very rarely heard, who kept things going in a quiet, unobtrusive way. I came across a tower last week with a band of learners who were being taught by a man from another county who cycled 18 miles twice a week. His name was quite new to me, and I was assured that you would never see his name in the glorious records of leading peal ringers, and yet, contrary to Mr. Bowley's contention that peal ringing is the best practice and means progress (page 191), the striking at this tower was some of the finest I have heard.

In February I wrote of a 12-bell tower with about 30 Guild members who could only muster six for Christmas Day Mattins. I was careful not to mention any tower by name, but both M. R. P. and Mr. Bowley knew to which I was referring. The excuse was that only ten minutes were available for ringing. No doubt if they only come for ringing it would not be worth while to them, to muster a band, but it would be nice to see more than one of these 30 at a service occasionally. However, I know what I am talking about regarding morning service ringing at this tower, and in spite of the writings of your correspondents, the eight bells have been rung more often than the 12 since my last letter. With nearly 30 members this is not consistent with what is known as a 'leading' tower.

To refer back to John Vernon's letter, and the need continually to fortify one's ranks with new blood, I am reminded of the story of the very full train which failed to negotiate a very steep gradient in South America. After the train had ground to a halt, the guard walked up and down the coaches shouting: 'First class passengers, sit still: second class passengers, get out and walk: third class passengers, get out and push.'

I am inclined to the belief that we suffer from too many first class passengers who are content to sit still and let the third class people do the work and push them to the top.

Congratulations to John Vernon's band at Stoney Stanton—20 of them all home-produced and all active and 'living' members of the Church. This is the work of the lesser-known third class passengers.

Finally, may I make mention of the passing of that faithful man Felix Sutton? It was the writer's privilege to be in his company several times at his home at Kegworth, and his devotion to his church was an inspiration to everyone. He was a humble man of God, and delighted, as far as his age and health would allow him, to do any work in the parish that he was asked to do.—Yours faithfully,

THOMAS C. BELTON.

Birstall, Leicester.

THE STRENGTH OF A TOWER

Dear Sir,—Mr. H. W. Cox is a wise leader in keeping the strength of his ringers at 'double the ropes' (page 369, 'R.W.'). In my experience it is an everlasting job of teaching recruits to maintain an efficient standard of ringing, particularly in the face of National Service demands.

A terrible pitfall for a band of ringers is to be self-satisfied with the few good ringers; for when, for any reason, loss takes place, catastrophic are the results.

I am with you all the way, Mr. Cox!—Yours faithfully, H. A. PRICE.

Yatton, Somerset.

P.S.—Our company at Yatton contain the following: Vicar's wife, sacristan, churchwarden, deputy churchwarden, lay reader, two servers, one chorister (boy) and, probationer, one choirboy. Is there another band containing a longer list of 'officials' than this?—H. A. P.

HISTORY OF CHANGE RINGING

Dear Sir,—I am not the least bit surprised to note that the sub-committee appointed by the Central Council to inquire into this matter failed to reach any conclusion. As stated, it would be a colossal undertaking: but the greatest difficulty would be to find a publisher willing to lay out the required money to bear the cost of producing such a book.

I have had lots of inquiries for copies of my 'History and Art' which has been out of print for many years, and copies are fetching fabulous prices from £3 3s. upwards. I approached several publishers — including 'The Ringing World'—with a view to a revised edition, but none would undertake it.

The cost of printing, advertising and all attendant items connected with publication today is prohibitive, especially for such a limited circulation.

If the Council can find a publisher willing to risk the enormous cost of producing such a book, I would be willing to assist in its production, but not to be responsible for its authorship. That would require someone much more capable and experienced than I.

It would—to be a full and complete history of the Art—run into more volumes than one. When I wrote my book, my biggest headache was how to reduce it to a reasonable size, yet give as full account as possible. My first effort would have filled two volumes, and I was told by the publishers to reduce it to the approximate size of its companion volume 'Bells through the Ages.'

I do not envy anyone who would tackle this work, and would wish him (or her) every success.—Yours, etc., ERNEST MORRIS.

Leicester.

IRISH COUNCILLORS' THANKS

Dear Sir,—We, the Irish representatives on the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, wish through the columns of 'The Ringing World' to thank all those who subscribed to the most useful gifts presented to us at the Bord Failte reception on May 27th.

We do appreciate very much the very kind thoughts, and feel that although the gifts were presented to us, they are an acknowledgment of the co-operation given by the bell-ringers of Ireland, and the clergy of the various churches who so readily placed the bells at our disposal. Without their help the Council's visit would not have been so popular. In addition, C.I.E., Messrs. Guinness, Jamieson and Bord Failte Eireann all, in their usual highly efficient way, co-operated in a very practical way to make the councillors and friends most welcome.

We trust that this expression of our sincere thanks will be accepted by all, and we can assure you that it was a very real pleasure for us to throw our weight into making the meeting in Dublin a happy and memorable occasion.

We hope that it will encourage you all to visit us again soon.—Yours sincerely,

R.A.F. GUILD OF RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Further to my letter printed in the 'R.W.' dated March 28th, 1958: I would like to bring to the ringing fraternity the present progress to date.

I have had some very encouraging letters, and I have answered them all in turn and have given the general points for the formation of the Guild. The very broad outlines are as follows, and further comment is awaited.

1. The movement shall be known as the St. Clement Danes' Guild of Royal Air Force Bellringers.
2. The aim of the Guild shall be to encourage and maintain, through close liaison with all ringing circles, ringing in the R.A.F.
3. Membership will be given to all present serving R.A.F. ringers, ex-members of the R.A.F. and its ancillary services.
4. The Guild shall be formed into Regions, and a Regional Ringing Master of the Guild appointed to arrange with the local towers for the use of the bells on meetings, etc., and to report to the Guild ringing activities in his area.
5. Selection from its members for ringers to offer their services for ringing at St. Clement Danes' (the Guild headquarters) on such days as the Queen's Birthday, Battle of Britain Sunday, etc.

I hope that Mr. E. A. Barnett will revise his views on the 'closed shop' organisation, as membership will be open to hundreds of ringers if they are at present serving in the Royal Air Force, or have in the past served with the R.A.F. or in one of its ancillary services.—Yours faithfully,

J. D. SANKEY.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Membership Exceeds 1,100

THE festival and annual general meeting of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Dorchester on May 17th. Proceedings opened with the A.G.M. in the Corn Exchange, Canon C. C. Cox (Master of the Guild) presiding, supported by Mr. W. C. West (hon. secretary and treasurer) and Mr. F. Slatford (hon. assistant secretary).

After prayers the following apologies were read out: The Mayor of Dorchester, the Ven. E. L. Seagar (Archdeacon of Dorset), Dr. C. Brown, Dr. Taylor, the Rev. S. P. Rowcroft (chairman, Dorchester Branch), Mr. Alan Macdonald and Canon Markby (vice-president).

In opening the meeting, the chairman mentioned a large jug which the Rector (Rev. P. J. Heaton) had placed before him: this pewter jug was presented by a benefactor in 1676 and carried the inscription: 'Given to remain for the use of the Dorchester Ringers for ever,' going on to say that the ringers probably did drain it occasionally and fill it up; he was sure the giver did not mean it to remain empty for ever.

The chairman then welcomed the members and visitors, many of whom had made a long journey to attend, the number attending being 165.

The names of the following members who had died during the past year were remembered and honoured: Mr. Harold Flewellin (Wootton Bassett), Mr. W. J. Brymer (honorary member), Mr. F. Price (Wimborne), Mr. W. Pester (Great Toller), Mr. Arthur J. West (Melksham), Rev. W. Mortimer (Okeford Fitzpaine), Mr. Peter Chapman (Westbury), Miss West (Devizes, honorary member), Mr. F. Precey (Bovington, late Ringing Master), Rev. E. J. Tarrant.

Matters arising from the minutes, which were confirmed, included various items of Guild papers, records and books, a list being before the meeting. It was decided to co-opt Mr. C. F. Andrews, to bring the peal book up-to-date and file old letters and other matters of interest with a view to starting a library.

The hon. secretary's report and treasurer's statement were accepted as printed in the new annual report.

The hon. secretary's report stated that during 1957 the Guild had gone beyond the 1,100 mark—1,090 ringing members, 17 honorary and 12 associate; total 1,119. In addition there were 36 life members. Congratulations were extended to the North Dorset Branch for their increased membership.

The accounts showed a balance in hand of £251 8s. 11d. again £201 2s. 4d. at the end of 1956.

The retiring officers and members of the committee were re-elected, with Mr. W. C. Shute to fill the vacancy on the Guild committee; Mr. T. Merritt (Bishops Canning) was elected an hon. life ringing member.

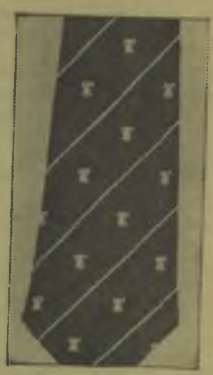
EDWARDS MEMORIAL FUND

The hon. secretary informed the meeting that under the will of the late Rev. F. Ll. Edwards the Guild had been left £150, to be known as the 'Edwards Memorial Fund.' It had been recommended by the committee and endorsed by the meeting that £10 10s. be granted annually to the Fund, and that approved grants be made towards rehanging and bell repairs on application through the usual channels.

It was recommended and carried unanimously that £3 3s. be sent annually, without prejudice, to 'The Ringing World' when the report of the annual general meeting was submitted for publication. The hon. secretary then appealed for more subscribers to the paper: it was their paper and should be supported generally by the members of the Exercise.

Grants of £5 5s. each were made to Wareham and Pewsey, the Master suggesting that St. Martin's, Salisbury, defer their application until next year.

It was reported that a peal of Plain Bob Major had been rung at Melksham as a memorial and thanksgiving for the life and work of the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards. It was unanimously decided a peal board be obtained, and subject to permission being granted to hang the same in the belfry at Kington Magna.



Thanks were expressed to all who had made the meeting possible, especially to Mr. R. H. Duke who had so ably carried out the local arrangements.

The meeting then closed with Grace.

The festival service was held in St. Peter's, conducted by the Rev. P. J. Heaton, who also gave the address, the robed clergy present being the Archdeacon of Sherborne, Canon Cox, and the Rev. F. E. Brooks (Fordington St. George). The Lyme Regis ringers rang a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells during the service.

Tea was later served in the Corn Exchange, to which 150 sat down.

NATIONAL POLICE GUILD MEMORIES

The peal of Stedman Caters rung a few weeks ago by members of the National Police Guild at All Saints', Loughborough, has revived happy memories of the first peal of Stedman Caters rung for the Guild or, indeed, ever rung by a police band. This was on November 4th, 1933, nearly 25 years ago, when at the same tower the same composition was called by Harold J. Poole, then a detective-sergeant.

Just before starting this peal, one could not fail to be impressed by the fact that Harold waited for each ringer to take a rope before he himself took the remaining one—the second. After what must have been well over two hours' excellent ringing, darkness was descending outside and the peal was well under way when, without any warning, the lights in the ringing room went out and remained out for some reason which cannot be recalled.

Although it was rapidly becoming impossible for the ringers to see each other and no one quite knew what was going to happen next, there was not the slightest trip, indeed, one would have thought that this was a most natural occurrence, so high was the standard of ringing.

The other ringers, however, soon became aware that their conductor had something 'up his sleeve.' Ringing his bell with one hand he reached for his coat, which fortunately was hanging behind him and, after what seemed an interminable length of time, he extracted a torch from a pocket. Turning round and still ringing with one hand (from recollection the other hand, however), he switched on the torch and placed it in an upright position on the table in the middle of the room, an operation which took some considerable time and which he performed with great care, coolness and skill. It soon became quite dark outside, but by means of the torch the ringers were just able to discern each other's movements and carry on with the peal.

Outside the tower, another party of police ringers who had been ringing at the Bell Foundry Campanile noticed that there appeared to be no light in the belfry, but came to the conclusion they must be mistaken: Dick Benson, of Manchester, remarking: 'No band could ring like that in the dark!' A very good peal was successfully brought round, the ringing room and ringers still being in semi-darkness.

One has the happiest recollections of ringing this peal; of the usual thoroughness and complete mastery of an unforeseen situation by one of the greatest conductors of our time, and not least of being right royally entertained afterwards and until 'the small hours' at the Leicester City Police headquarters. Only two of this band were in the recent peal—Messrs. Jenney and Butler, who, by a coincidence, rang the sixth and treble respectively in the former peal and treble and sixth in the latter peal.

This latter peal, too, which was rung at the second attempt, provided many pleasant recollections. Incidentally, it was not without some misgivings that, prior to the start, two members of the band overheard that an important band contest had been planned and, in fact, actually heard it commence in a building immediately underneath and adjoining the tower. How the contest fared is not known. T. R. B.

Lincolnshire Bells Ringable

Irnham, Lincs, bells, which are described in Dove's as unringable, have had their first peal rung on them for over 40 years. Mr. J. M. Simpson writes: 'In actual fact there are many worse rings about. The main trouble is that the belfry is very badly lit, and we had to ring this peal in the middle of a summer afternoon, by the light of three paraffin lamps. The bells do not go too badly, though they sound most unusual, being more like the front five of a six than a five tuned to a chromatic scale.'

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD ANNUAL FESTIVAL

ON Whit Monday the Hereford Diocesan Guild held its 72nd annual festival at Hereford, when about 150 members and friends were present, every District being well represented.

The Guild service was sung in the Lady Chapel of the Cathedral at 3.30 p.m., conducted by the retiring hon. secretary, the Rev. W. R. Thomas (Vicar of Marden). The lesson was read and the blessing given by the Archdeacon of Hereford, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. E. G. Benson, one of the vice-presidents of the Guild. It was a most impressive service and the singing was notably good—how well Psalm 98 sounds set to Dr. Hull's fine chant when a congregation mostly of men sings it vigorously.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD'S WEEK

Mr. Benson took as his text the words: 'Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as to the Lord' (Col. iii, 23). He started by describing a vivid memory he had of walking up a village street on a bright, sunny morning a few years ago to assist at an early weekday Communion service during a C.U.G.C.R. ringing week. '. . . and ringing out clear and crisp in the early morning air came the steady, rhythmic beat of a perfectly-struck 720 of Cambridge Minor . . . so perfectly timed that the bells came into rounds just as we clergy were ready to leave the vestry to take our places in the sanctuary and so to complete the act of worship at the altar which was begun in the belfry. And at the climax of the service there were those same six ringers kneeling in a row at the altar-rails.' Seldom, he said, had he heard so impressively 'the bells rung for the services of the Church with the attractiveness of perfection.' And that, he reminded his hearers, was the primary object of the Guild—indeed those very words appeared on the cover of every Guild report.

He went on to say that he had chosen the same text as that used by the Rev. G. W. Turner (sometime hon. secretary) at the Guild festival at Ludlow in 1894, to remind the Guild 'its object is the same now as it was then—it is really twofold. Our ringing should be done heartily and also as to the Lord.'

By 'heartily' he meant aiming always at a higher standard of ringing, being satisfied with nothing less than perfect striking. But it must also be done 'as to the Lord.' A Guild member's ringing was always in its essence work for the Church—to proclaim the Gospel, to praise God 'with loud cymbals' to call God's people to worship.

The Guild, when it was founded in 1886, set before it this double object—to encourage the art of change-ringing and to link this up with the services of the Church and make ringers realise that they were in fact officers of the Church and should be recognised as such.

Before the Guild was formed conditions in most belfries were very bad. It was realised that the best means of bringing about 'belfry reform' (a phrase we never heard now) was to encourage change-ringing and Sunday service ringing. It was hard for us to realise the enormous transformation that had been brought about by the Guild. A visitor today might seek a 'Herefordshire (or Shropshire) interlude' in many another tower besides Ewyas Harold and find a local band striving hard to ring good Grandsire Doubles for a service on any Sunday of the year.

It was fitting for us, said Mr. Benson, on our annual festival to express our thankful remembrance of the founders of our Guild, and renew our resolve to carry out further and more fully the noble object that they set before us.

EARLY MEMBERS

He was, he said, proud as a vice-president of the Guild to be able to claim what probably very few other members could—personal contacts with some of the well-known ringers who figured in the early history of the Guild. He was a close friend of the Rev. C. D. P. Davies during the last few years of his life, and rang with him in his last peal at Tewkesbury in 1928. It was, too, his privilege to minister to him at his death. The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, with the Rev. F. E. Robinson, had been invited to speak at the inaugural meeting of the Hereford Diocesan Guild in 1886.

Another famous ringer connected with these early days was J. W. Washbrook, who was appointed the paid instructor of the Guild for its first year and conducted its first four peals. In 1922 Mr. Benson as a beginner had had the privilege of ringing rounds with him at Manchester Town Hall, a year before his death. He had also rung a peal in 1933—his first for the Guild—with W. H. Fussell, who had held the post of paid instructor from 1887-1895.

Mr. Benson felt that these personal contacts brought home to members at the Guild festival that sense of continuity with the past which should inspire present members to carry on the same aims and ideals of their founders.

An excellent tea was served in the College Hall, arranged by Mrs. A. W. Davis, wife of the Master of the Hereford District, and others, presided over by the Archdeacon of Hereford. The clergy present included the Dean of Hereford, Canon Moreton and Preb. Martin.

THE BUSINESS MEETING

The annual general meeting followed the tea, under the chairmanship of the retiring Master, Mr. H. G. Thomas, of Bridgnorth. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, the officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Mr. F. A. Jaine, of Kimbolton, was unanimously elected Master and took the chair. Mr. Jaine had been conductor of his tower since 1912 and a Ringing Master of the Leominster District since 1929.

The Rev. W. R. Thomas wished to resign the post of hon. secretary, which he had held since 1954, and in his place Mr. H. G. Thomas, the retiring Master, was unanimously elected.

The other officers were re-elected and so was the committee, with the exception of Mr. R. T. Jones, who had left the diocese, and Mr. Albert Jones and Mr. Wilfred Overton, who had died.

The 72nd annual report of the Guild was presented and adopted, and copies were distributed to the District secretaries present.

The report shows an increase of towers from 77 to 80 in union with the Guild, but a small decrease in the number of resident members, there being now 24 honorary and 613 ringing members. There were 34 peals rung in 1957 (14 less than in 1956), including one of Grandsire Caters, six of Surprise Major methods, one of Minor in 12 methods and one of Doubles in eight. Seven members rang their first peal and two their first in Major. The District reports show that progress has been well maintained in meetings and Sunday service ringing.

Votes of thanks were warmly accorded to all the officers who had served the Guild during the year, the Dean and Chapter and the clergy who had allowed the use of their bells for the festival, Mrs. A. W. Davis and the ladies for the tea, the organist and the preacher.

Ringing was enjoyed at All Saints' (8) and the Cathedral (10) during the morning and afternoon, and parties going to and coming from the meeting made good use of the bells of Holmer (6), Marden (6), Burghill (8), Withington (6), Lugwardine (8) and Bodenham (6), which were kindly made available during the day.

It was decided to hold next year's festival at Berrington (8) in Shropshire.

OBITUARY

MR. ARTHUR I. HOLMES

The funeral took place at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Edenham, Lincs, on May 24th, of Mr. Arthur I. Holmes, who died on May 20th, aged 80 years. He was a ringer at Edenham for 62 years and clerk and sexton for 36 years. Mainly due to his enthusiasm the Edenham bells were augmented from five to six in 1908, and to eight in 1931.

He rang about 150 peals, many of them with the Rev. H. Law James' band. This band rang the first spliced peal of Minor in 14 methods at Edenham in 1911. He used to tell how he often cycled 20 or 30 miles for a peal. He was a founder member of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and a reader of 'The Ringing World' since its foundation, previously being a subscriber to 'The Bell News.'

He will be long remembered for his faithful service to Edenham Church. He was particularly keen on Sunday service ringing and on the quality of the ringing. It is said he had taught more ringers in Lincolnshire than anyone else.

He leaves a widow and two sons and a daughter, his son William succeeding him as tower captain. Following the funeral several half-muffled touches were rung by ringing friends.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

An example of enthusiasm comes from our Bolton correspondent, who tells of a meeting at Hoddlesden (6, 15 cwt.) on June 7th. The church has a large tower capable of holding a ring of ten, but there are only six bells, all being in one corner. One member of the Branch had the foresight to go early, and with the help of a local man and a spanner put the bells in a ringable condition.

The day before the meeting, the roof of the tower was removed, leaving the bells exposed to the sky. After a few touches a rope broke; this was spliced and ringing continued until the last touch before tea, when another broke.

During tea rain fell in torrents, and it was still raining when the ringers returned to the exposed tower with the floor one huge pool. Undaunted, the rope was spliced, and wearing their raincoats or sou'-westers the ringers continued to ring, although conditions were like one huge showerbath. Various methods up to Cambridge Surprise were rung.

Bradford Cathedral Dedication

The new south wing of Bradford Cathedral was dedicated by the Bishop (the Rt. Rev. F. D. Coggan) on June 5th. The bells were rung before the impressive service and afterwards a quarter peal (720 of Kent and Oxford T.B., spliced, and 540 Plain Bob). Those taking part were E. H. Simpson 1, Mrs. H. B. Schofield 2, Miss S. G. Schofield 3, J. Rhodes (Calverley) 4, H. B. Schofield 5, R. B. Coke (conductor) 6, T. Pedder tenor (covering). This was the first 720 of Spliced to be rung on the bells.

Leeds and District Society

The May meeting was held at Guiseley on the 31st. Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m. and continued until 9 p.m., with short breaks for a wedding and tea. About 40 members made good use of the excellent ring of eight, and methods ranged from Plain Bob to Yorkshire. During the afternoon three visitors from Essex called in for a ring.

An excellent home-made tea was served in the Church Hall (formerly a tithe-barn), and at the business meeting membership cards, which had been kindly provided by Mr. C. F. Sutcliffe, were distributed.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Mr. P. I. Chapman The New Master

'Well, I've had a very good day.' Comments in like vein were heard in the evening of May 17th, the day of the Guild's annual general meeting. Ringing at the dozen or so towers in and around Northampton provided practice from Doubles to Royal at various times from 11 a.m. until a late hour.

The local Branch secretary (Mr. G. F. Roome) and his committee gave careful thought to the necessary arrangements, and the smooth running of the day's proceedings reflected highly to their credit. The Rev. E. T. Hughes (Vicar of St. Giles') conducted the service in his church and gave the address. Also taking part were Canon Turner (Guild president), the Rev. G. F. Hales (Rector of Green's Norton) and the Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner (Rector of Harlestone).

Following tea in St. Giles' Buildings, where more than 100 sat down, the business meeting was held with the president in the chair, supported by his clerical brothers and Mr. B. P. Morris (Master).

The chairman first gave a warm welcome to visitors from neighbouring organisations, and also expressed his pleasure at seeing so many youthful members present. He was again elected to office as president, amid long applause, as was also the general secretary.

A ballot was necessary to elect the Ringing Master from the two nominations. The result was very close between Mr. P. I. Chapman and Mr. E. G. Orland, the former being elected. As a result of this the office of auditor is vacant until later in the year.

From the bell restoration fund two grants were made of £30 each to Boughton and Whittlebury.

After routine business had been disposed of the meeting considered the new Guild Office, which had been in preparation for some time and had been authorised by the Bishop for use in the diocese. Some members deplored the passing of the present form but the majority gave it a hearty approval. It had been felt that as new forms were needed in quantity the opportunity should be taken to make the ringers' service more acceptable to everyone.

The vote of thanks was in the hands of Mr. J. Skerritt and Mr. L. Priestley, who very ably expressed the members' gratitude for all that had been done for their pleasure.

The meeting ended with the Blessing, pronounced by the president.

FROM THE REPORTS

The Master in his report said there had been a number of first peals in a particular method for the Guild. This was very encouraging and such bands usually maintained a high standard of striking. However, such achievements did not contribute entirely to the healthy state of the Guild: this would come when they got Sunday service ringing at every possible tower.

Losses by death he mentioned were: Mr. A. J. Green (Wicken), Mr. W. H. Ashby (Northampton), Rev. J. O. Hichens (sometime president of Guilsborough Branch) and Mr. C. D. Nichols (Kettering).

The general secretary's report mentioned that in regard to peal ringing seven firsts had been rung for the Guild—Pudsey Surprise Major, Annable's London S. Minor, Gainsborough Little Bob and Plain Bob Major, St. Peter's Doubles, All Saints Doubles, Hinton S. Major and Hazelbeech S. Major. The last two methods were rung to a peal for the first time. Twenty-four members rang a peal for the first time. The total number of peals rung was 42.

The number of members resident in the diocese appeared to be maintained with a good number of new members replacing those who had left the Guild. A critical analysis of the membership lists would probably reveal a large number of inactive members. After making due allowance for reasons beyond personal control, there were still too many to be found under this heading. 'They are not getting the benefits which are to be had from the fellowship of a great body following the same pursuit and the Guild is being denied the full strength of their membership.'

THE LADIES' GUILD

Central District

The quarterly meeting of the Central District was held in bright sunshine on May 31st at St. Michael's, St. Albans. Good use was made of the light eight and ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Mr. Harper) who, instead of a sermon, gave a brief but fascinating account of the items of interest in this lovely 1,000-year-old church. After an ample tea, the gentlemen present volunteered to wash up, leaving 16 ladies to hold a short business meeting. Mrs. Savory took the chair.

Eight new members were elected—four from North Mymms, three from King's Langley and one from St. Michael's, St. Albans. Some discussion followed before it was decided to forgo the August meeting and accept the invitation from Mr. F. W. Goodfellow to hold a joint meeting with the Middlesex Association and Oxford Guild at Hillingdon on October 18th.

Members were also reminded that the annual general meeting of the District is to be held at Stamford Hill on January 31st.

Votes of thanks followed, and the members then rejoined the gentlemen in the tower for further ringing until 8 p.m. J. D.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Thirty-six members attended the Northern District meeting at Knebworth on June 7th, when ringing ranged from rounds to Spliced Surprise Major. Mr. A. Cutler presided at the business meeting, when Miss J. Dear, of Baldock, was elected a member and Mr. J. Hulme, of Clifton, Beds, a non-resident life member. The Rector (Rev. D. Howells) conducted the service with Mr. J. Pluck as organist.

A VISIT TO SALISBURY

Salisbury was visited by the ringers of Twerton-on-Avon and friends from Corston for their annual outing on June 7th, and it was a pleasure to meet Mr. Roger Fry, now studying at Salisbury Theological College, and Mr. Newman at the first tower, Wilton. The belfry, of Italian mediæval architecture, is 108 ft. high, and we enjoyed ringing on the six bells cast by Mears in 1831.

St. Paul's, Salisbury, the next tower, has a ground floor ring, which was augmented from six to eight in 1949 by Mears and Stainbank. After tea, the heavy octave of St. Thomas', cast by Wells, of Aldbourne, and rehung by Gillett and Johnston in 1948, were rung. The visitors were joined by members of the local band in the ringing as it was their practice night. Sincere thanks are extended to Mr. Fry for his arrangements, and the local ringers for their welcome.

STORRINGTON, SUSSEX.—On June 3rd, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Miss J. Curtis 1, Miss G. Smith 2, Miss A. Middleton 4, Miss J. Horton 4, B. W. Farhall (cond.) 5, J. R. Maple 6. Rung half-muffled in memory of Dr. A. J. Head, interred the previous day.

THE RINGING WORLD

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2465 Vol. LIV FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

SELF OR SERVICE RINGING?

A FEW months ago someone described ringing as a 'dedicated sport.' You know, there is a good deal of profundity in that statement if only we'd care to think about it.

Do you ring for sheer selfish pleasure and your own self-satisfaction, or do you ring for the service and glory of God? I wonder just how many of us could answer honestly? I am quite sure if we were asked that question out of the blue, in the case of most of us our haloes would glitter in the aura of self-righteousness which would shine round about us, and we would say: 'But of course, for the service and glory of God. How else could it be so?' But would it be true? Would it be true to say that we had never felt an immense surge of satisfaction to know that we could ring a certain method better than old so-and-so? Or that we had never hugged ourselves with secret glee because the so-called expert could not ring that certain method and we could? And what is that if not selfish pleasure and self-satisfaction?

No, I'm certain that if we look really closely at our ringing careers, we have all been guilty at one time or another. Some of us are worse than others, and those of us who are worse can sometimes make ourselves rather obnoxious, and not a little boring, to our fellow ringers.

I think it would be quite wrong of us not to admit that ringing in a lot of cases is a 'sport.' Peal ringing (whether it be quarter or extra long) is a sport, and one gets a lot of fun chalking the numbers up. Going round the countryside collecting towers is a sport, and one gets a lot of fun out of entering up the new ones in one's diary. But I do think we should keep it quite clear in our minds that it is a dedicated sport—dedicated to the work and worship of the Church, and from that it must surely follow that we will derive greater and purer pleasure from our ringing. If we considered our hobby to be dedicated, no doubt we would be forced to make our standard higher. Perhaps we would get a greater pleasure from hearing a really beautifully struck peal in a simple method which we knew we could ring well, and a greater sense of guilt from hearing a really badly struck peal in a more complicated method which we knew we could not ring very well but had tried merely to satisfy our own personal ambition. Perhaps we would be more ready to strive harder and only offer our best, whether we be ringing for personal pleasure or for Sunday service, because we were offering our skill, however small and humble, to God.

There is another thing. If we tried thinking more about ringing as a dedicated sport, we would be a really happy band of people. Maybe, too, we would find it easier to attract the much-needed recruits to our ranks. Aren't we sometimes to blame that we lose the interested beginner because we cannot sufficiently curb our own selfish aims and ambitions to allow the learner time to ring rounds and simple methods properly? Don't we sometimes crowd him out at ringing meetings because we want to shine before our fellows? Don't we sometimes tend to shove all the beginners in together and so get it over quickly, rather than take them one at a time and give them the full benefit of our greater knowledge and skill? Isn't that very often true? Come on now, let us be honest with ourselves and admit that it is so.

Yes, I'm afraid however much we try to bluster our way out, we do ring for selfish pleasure and our own self-satisfaction, almost without knowing it. When you come to think about it, it is a pity that we don't ponder more over this idea of ringing being a 'dedicated sport.' It's a solemn thought when you consider that if only we would try harder we could be better ringers and nicer people.

Heavens above! On reading this over it seems I've written something of a sermon. But I don't really care, because I must admit I've got a certain amount of selfish pleasure and self-satisfaction out of doing it!

NANCY KEMPSELL.

DEDICATION
Mildenhall, Wilts

A big restoration scheme costing over £5,000 has been carried out at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, Mildenhall, Wilts. The work includes a new bell frame and a new treble bell, the other bells being retuned. These bells have been silent for 21 years.

The tenor at Mildenhall is dated 1594, and was recast by Robert Wells, of Aldbourne, in 1801, who added four more bells at that time. The new treble has been recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

This ancient church was filled to capacity with parishioners and ringers from far and near for the dedication service, performed on Sunday, June 8th, by the Archdeacon of Wilts (Ven. C. A. Plaxton). The opening rounds were rung by W. Theobald 1, T. A. Palmer 2, N. Tilley 3, J. Fuller 4, A. Smith 5, O. Wherrell 6. Immediately after the service 120 Grandsire Doubles was rung by W. Theobald 1, F. Cook 2, L. Kutt 3, R. Johnston (conductor) 4, H. Gummer 5, V. Gilbert 6.

By kind invitation of the Rector (Rev. E. G. Courtman) the 250 people present had tea in the Rectory grounds. A further sum of £450 is needed to discharge the debt on the church. Another responsibility is the recruitment of a new band as there is only one experienced ringer in the village.

READING UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

At the annual meeting of the Reading University Society the following officers were elected for the 1958–59 session: Master, Miss Lucy Allen; secretary, Miss Mollie Tilbury; treasurer, Miss Pat Buss; lay members, Miss Angela Mullock and Mr. John Coates.

MEMORIAL TABLET TO MR. GEORGE PRESTON

On Monday, June 9th, a moving little ceremony took place in the belfry of Christchurch Priory when the Vicar (Rev. Canon R. P. Price, M.A.) unveiled and dedicated a tablet to the memory of the late Mr. George Preston.

The memorial to the late captain of the Priory Ringers records that he was a ringer and subsequently captain of the band for nearly 70 years (just a few months short of that time), and the Vicar paid tribute to Mr. Preston's devoted service to the Priory.

Upwards of 40 people had climbed the belfry steps to be present that evening, and the company included the two churchwardens, Mr. J. Galton and Mr. S. W. White (himself a ringer), Mr. Harry Preston (brother), and members of the Priory band who were Mr. George Preston's colleagues for many years. These included Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Witt and Miss Barnes, and Messrs. L. Stone, F. Sparshott, G. Scragg, H. Harrison and R. Broadest.

The Christchurch District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild were represented by the hon. secretary (Mr. W. T. Godfrey) and several members, some of whom rang in the peal to Mr. Preston's memory performed on February 9th, 1957, on the Priory bells, and details of which are recorded on the memorial plaque. It will be recalled that the late Mr. George Preston served the Guild as District secretary for 37 years.

After the ceremony, Mr. J. Galton, churchwarden, said it was his first visit to the belfry during ringing time, although in his capacity of warden he often climbed the tower. They all greatly appreciated the value of the late Mr. George Preston's loyal service among the bells. In Mr. Lenstone he felt the Priory band had a worthy successor as captain of the ringers.

THE LADIES' GUILD
Yorkshire District

In the beautiful parish church of Doncaster, the few ladies who attended the meeting on May 17th made good use of the very fine ring of eight bells, along with the members of the Yorkshire Association, under the guidance of Mr. H. Chant.

The service was conducted by Canon Herklots and the chief organist accompanied the singing on the fine organ which is reputed to be the largest for many miles around and has 6,000 pipes. An excellent tea was served in the nearby Memorial Hall, and at a short business meeting Chesterfield was suggested for a joint meeting with the Midland District.

Then a gallant effort was made to climb the 100-odd steps to the belfry, where further ringing took place, ranging from Bristol to rounds.

Our thanks go to the Yorkshire Association, Mr. Eric Critchley and the local company, as well as to Canon Herklots and the organist.

SHEFFIELD & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The last meeting of the Society, held at Penistone on June 7th, was well attended, and amongst the visitors was Mr. J. F. Smallwood, who commented how encouraging it was to see so many youngsters present. Though a variety of methods up to Surprise Major was rung, the best ringing was probably a touch of closed-lead Treble Bob Minor and a musical touch of Stedman Triples.

At the business meeting 14 new members were elected and it was announced that the next meeting would be at Dore on July 5th. The meeting concluded with the usual votes of thanks for an excellent tea and the use of the delightful ring of eight bells. N.C.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The members of the University of Bristol Society who rang the 10,080 Plain Bob Major at Longney on June 7th are interested to know whether this is the longest length yet rung by a University Society.

Eight teams competed for the Barnsley District shield competition at Silkstone on June 24th. Friezland were the winners, followed by Cawthorne.

Congratulations to Hemyock (Devon) on ringing their first quarter as a band. They have only been ringing the 'scientific' methods a few months. The quarter peal of Grandsire was conducted by one of the band, Donald Salter.

The Rector of Loughton has expressed his appreciation to the Essex Association for ringing a quarter peal with a high standard of ringing on the occasion of a High Mass attended by the Archbishop of Central Africa. Loughton has only a band of learners, and the visit was much appreciated.

Youth rang the call to worship at Rotherham Parish Church for the youth service on June 8th. A service touch of 168 Grandsire Triples was rung in good style by four boys and four girls (average age 17 years). The performance was quite good for bells of this weight (tenor 34¾ cwt.).

Many ringers will remember Mr. and Mrs. P. Page, of the Canterbury District. For the last six years he has been a regular member of St. John-the-Baptist's tower, Margate, and it was here that a quarter peal was rung on June 8th in honour of his and Mrs. Page's golden wedding anniversary. The actual date was June 6th, and on that day a golden wedding party was held at their daughter's home at Ashford. Our congratulations to this veteran of the K.C.A. with 50 years' membership, and also to Mrs. Page who is an honorary member.

Mr. Wm. Cheeseman, who died recently at the age of 74, was one of a famous family of Kent ringers. It was mainly through his efforts that the bells of Stowting were augmented to the present delightful little ring of six, and it was here that an in memoriam peal was rung. Mr. Cheeseman was buried within the precincts of the church.

We are informed that the tenor ringer in the quarter peal at Cranford, Middlesex (see page 407), was Josephine Pole and not Josephine Speake.

An Exeter ringer wishes to congratulate a Huntingdon bachelor on ringing his first peal on ten bells with an unmarried lady on either side of him. What memories of Ireland!

At 6 a.m. on Sunday, June 8th, a ringer, well known in the East Midlands, was observed walking towards Heckington. He had been to a Loughborough District meeting and missed the last train from Nottingham (44 miles from home). He is not discouraged!

At the end of June, Mr. R. Newman, a regular ringer at St. Mary Magdalene's, N.7, is retiring from work on reaching the age limit, after 39 years as a male nurse. He is looking forward to continuing his service in the church as a ringer for as long as possible.

About £900 is needed for the restoration of Putney bells. This Thomas Mears octave of 1836 is to be turned, tuned and rehung with new fittings including clappers. While ringing is suspended, arrangements have been made for practices and Sunday ringing. For details see our Notices column.

NORTHERN IRELAND PEAL TOUR

A Wonderful Four Days

'North, East, South, or West,

WHEN, at Chelmsford in 1957, the Central Council decided to visit Dublin, quite a number of delegates and friends thought that it was well worth making a full week of it. Knowing that there would be a party visiting Southern Ireland, the writer thought that it would be only fair to visit Northern Ireland, and accordingly gathered together some 12 ringers and two wives for a four-day tour. The arrangements, from the Irish end, were most kindly and carefully made by Messrs. Fred Dukes and John Dunwoody, those two pillars of Irish ringing. All those taking part would like to thank Fred and John for the splendid organisation, both for ringing and travelling, which enabled everything to go off without a hitch. The generous hospitality was unforgettable, the bells all first-class, and the enthusiasm of the local ringers was a fine example to many English bands.

Our adventure started at Euston Station on Friday, May 23rd, when ten of us boarded the 11.25 p.m. 'relief' train for Holyhead. The train was nearly empty, and although seats had been reserved there was enough room for everyone to have a compartment to themselves to try and snatch some sleep! We saw the sun rise over the Welsh mountains, and arrived in Holyhead at 6.10 a.m., to catch the 5.20 a.m. boat! Fortunately, the boat waits for passengers, and we had a smooth crossing to Dun Laoghaire, arriving in Dublin at 10.30 a.m.

Six of our party, with the addition of Messrs. E. A. Barnett and J. G. Gipson, had the pleasure of ringing a first-class peal of Yorkshire on the magnificent bells at Bray, cast by Taylors in 1880. The speed of the ringing was a steady one, and although there was some 'leg-pulling' about the 3 hours 40 minutes time, we would have been quite happy if another ten minutes had been taken. As a well-known Cheshire humourist said: 'Let the harmonics get clear'! It is mainly poor bells which need fast ringing, and Bray are undoubtedly among the best ten 'eights' in the British Isles. Previous to the ringing, the Rector (Canon E. H. F. Campbell) had conducted a short service for us, and at the finish the local captain led us round to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pretty-Perry, where a very nice tea was awaiting us.

For the next three days we all took part in the arrangements so ably made for everyone, and enjoyed ringing on some excellent bells. However, by Tuesday night, May 27th, most of us went to bed a little earlier, so as to be fresh for an early start for Northern Ireland on Wednesday.

ENNISKILLEN

On Wednesday, May 28th, everyone was up at 6 a.m., and with a cup of tea and some sandwiches, we were on our way to Amiens Street Station by taxi, to catch the 7.30 a.m. train for Portadown, en route for Enniskillen, 116 miles away. A fine breakfast was served on the train, and it was noted that the railway feeding was much ahead of British Railways, both in the quality of the food and in the cheerful service. (Will members of the Railwaymen's Guild please note!)

We had to change at Portadown for Omagh, and here the writer had to use a little Irish 'brogue' to make the jolly porter understand that we wanted Omagh, and not Armagh! An hour's run to Omagh, and we changed to an Ulster Transport bus, drawn up outside the station, for our last stage of the journey, the 25 miles to Enniskillen. The very helpful inspector knew all about our visit, and much amusement was caused when, noticing that he was training a new conductor, one member of the party offered to give him a few tips!

Generous Hospitality

ANOTHER DUBLIN PICTURE.—Some 80-odd ringers were present at the luncheon given by the directors of Guinness's Brewery. Copies of this photograph, published by the permission of the Brewery, may be obtained from Lensmen, 9, Westmoreland Street, Dublin, price 4s., each plus 6d. postage. Please quote photograph No. A/701/3023.

On arrival at Enniskillen at 12.20 p.m., we were greeted at the bus station by the Rector (Canon T. Clements) and Messrs. J. Johnson and C. Paine, of the local band. A fine lunch had been prepared for us at the Imperial Hotel, on the kind invitation of the Vicar and local ringers, and a very happy hour was spent discussing Northern Ireland. In 1935 Messrs. Taylors recast three of the old bells, and added two trebles to make a fine ring of ten. The ringing chamber is just under the bells, and consequently they are a little noisy, but are a well-balanced ring. Our peal of Bob Royal went off without incident, and afterwards we were again entertained by the local ringers, this time to tea in the Parish Hall. Before tea, four of the very keen local band were 'put through' a course of Bob Triples, and much credit is due to them, as the nearest assistance is 90 miles away, in Belfast.

This peal gave great pleasure to the conductor, as his father, an Irishman, was at school at Portora from 1871 to 1874, and he has long had an ambition to ring a peal there. Our bus left at 6.40 p.m. for Omagh, and we were seen off by those who had met us. Thank you, Enniskillen, for such a wonderful welcome.

LONDONDERRY

After a night's rest at Omagh, we were off at 8.15 a.m. for Londonderry. We were very lucky to all be on the train, as at 8.15 we were still waiting for five of our party, the station being half-a-mile from the hotel. However, the guard kindly delayed the start until 8.20, and the late arrivals bundled into the train just as he blew his whistle!

The journey to Londonderry is 60 miles, and the line passes through some splendid scenery, mostly following beside the River Foyle. Mr. A. Fielding, the secretary of the local band, was waiting for us at the station, and took us straight to the City Café for coffee and cakes, kindly provided by the Dean and Chapter.

The Dean (Very Rev. L. R. Lawrenson) was waiting to greet us on the steps of the Cathedral, which is situated on high ground above the City walls. The belfry, octagonal in plan, has large lancet windows on three sides, and the bells are a fine ring of ten, cast in 1929 by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. Circle and draught of rope are excellent, and the sound of the bells just comfortable. An excellent peal of Kent Royal was duly completed, Ralph Edwards being highly delighted to travel some 340 miles to score his 500th peal on the third heaviest tenor in Ireland. The bells came round at 2.45 p.m., just giving us 30 minutes to catch the 3.15 p.m. train for Coleraine.

COLERAINE

We arrived at Coleraine at 4.7 p.m., and were greeted on the platform by the Curate (Rev. S. Simpson), Mr. Samuel Morton and Mr. E. Hamilton. They had another lovely meal ready for us, and at the finish of this, Tom Sone presented the writer with a nylon-covered umbrella, with thanks from the party for his part in arranging such an enjoyable tour. This was to replace one left in Shandon belfry on Monday! Many thanks, everyone; I shan't lose this one!

The beautiful church has a battlemented tower of graceful proportions, surmounted by four handsome corner pinnacles—the only church of eight we had visited without a spire. It is dedicated to St. Patrick, and the bells are a good eight, cast by Taylors in 1893, with a tenor of 20¼ cwt. in E flat. We rang Yorkshire, Bristol and two touches of Stedman Triples. The Rector (Canon L. V. Uprichard) came into the belfry while we were ringing, and said how delighted he was to see us. Our train for Ballymena departed at 6.30 p.m., and the local band escorted us back to the station. We thanked them for their very kind and generous hospitality, and promised to send them some books of instruction, to assist them with learning change-ringing.

BALLYMENA

Arriving at Ballymena at 7.7 p.m., we were again met by the local company, headed by Mr. V. C. Patterson, who had also met Mr. W. H. Fussell's party in 1931. The church, another one dedicated to St. Patrick, contains a good ring of eight (tenor 17¼ cwt.) cast by Mears and Stainbank in 1895. The well-kept ringing room has a good circle and draught of rope, and we enjoyed ringing Stedman, Superlative, Bristol and London. The local ringers also rang call-changes for us, but we could not persuade any of them to join us in method ringing, though they had received some instruction from Mr. George Skinner, of Exeter.

Afterwards we were entertained to a fine buffet supper in the Parish Hall, and were joined by the Rector (Rev. C. H. B. Craig). Thanking us for our visit, he said he hoped we would visit them again soon; and we, in turn, thanked him and his very keen band for their lavish hospitality. Mr. R. Letters had kindly advised the bus company of our 10 p.m. departure, and although we had intended travelling by an earlier train, the bus company accepted our tickets, and we arrived in Belfast at 11.10 p.m. and made our way to the Kensington Hotel, after an unforgettable day, in which we had travelled 135 miles.

CARRICKFERGUS

On Friday, May 30th, our destination in the morning was only a mere 12 miles, and we caught the 10 a.m. train from York Road Station for Carrickfergus, which is beautifully situated on the north shore of Belfast Lough, the train following the coast from the city.

The musical ring of bells, cast by Gillett and Johnston in 1920, are housed in a detached campanile, as the old tower and spire was considered too weak to bear the strain of a ring of bells. The tower and bells were erected as the town's war memorial, and the bells are rung from the ground floor and 'go' well.

We were met by Mr. J. Palmer, with whom the writer rang a quarter peal of Grandsire here in 1934, and it was decided to ring Double Norwich, partly to enable Miss Freda Greaves, of King's Lynn, to score her 'first in the method,' and partly to let the writer 'bag' a new country for his favourite method! We found that the seventh had just had a new stay fitted, which was a little too large. The result was that it would not set, and Tom Cullingworth rang it splendidly with a light touch.

After the peal, Mr. Palmer took us down to the Parish Hall, where lady helpers had prepared an excellent lunch. We were joined by the Rector (Canon J. Rutherford), who gave us a hearty welcome, and incidentally had done the same to Mr. W. H. Fussell's party in September, 1931, and another touring party in September, 1936.

The lunch was so nice that we were a little later than we expected in leaving, and as we were due at Holywood 'as soon after 3.30 p.m. as possible,' we very regretfully had to miss ringing at St. Thomas's, Belfast. However, one of our party, Wilf Robinson, who did not come to Carrickfergus, represented us, and was joined by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Oatway and Roy Davies, of Croydon, so they were able to ring the back six. We apologise for being unable to get there.

Ralph Edwards unfortunately had to leave us after a pull at Carrickfergus, as he was booked on a party flight by plane from Dublin. However, although only ringing two peals, he was well satisfied, as he had rung the tenor for the 'plum' of the tour. It will cost him a few English tenors for this, as a reward!

HOLYWOOD

A short taxi ride along the south shore of Belfast Lough brought us to Holywood, and we alighted at a maypole, said to be the only survivor in the British Isles. Mr. John Dunwoody, who had done so much for our tour, welcomed us, and we started for Cambridge on a light ring of bells, supplied by Taylors in 1891. Unfortunately, a broken treble rope, after two hours, brought our only failure. However, it brought some compensation, as we were able to spend much longer at St. Mark's, Dundela, later in the evening.

The surroundings of Holywood Church, dedicated to SS. Philip and James, are very pretty, with tall trees bordering a well-kept lawn.

The local ringers had a splendid tea ready for us, and we were officially welcomed by Mr. William Pratt, president of the Irish Association. Among those present were Mr. Harry Brown, local captain, and late of Pontefract, Yorks, Miss Jean Stewart, of St. Donard's, Belfast, well-known at Council meetings, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers, of Isleworth. A very happy hour was spent, which only had to be terminated because we were due at Dundela, and it was then 8.25 p.m.

ST. MARK'S, DUNDELA

Escorted on the bus by John Dunwoody and Jean Stewart, we arrived at Dundela at 8.40 p.m. The church is a modern building, with a very tall tower and spire, and the ten bells, cast in 1955 by Taylors, with a tenor of 12¼ cwt., are undoubtedly the finest ten with under a ton tenor in the British Isles. Owing to the height of the tower, they are wisely hung on plain bearings, and sound and 'go' is just perfect.

Most of the local ringers were there to greet us, and it was a pleasure to renew acquaintance with Mr. F. E. Fagg, late of Milton-next-Sittingbourne, Kent, who is a great help to the band, who are mastering Plain Bob and are very keen. We rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters, the first Cambridge Royal on the bells, and finished up with three leads of Oxford Royal, in which John Dunwoody and Jean Stewart joined us.

Afterwards we went to the nearby Parish Hall, where the Rector (Rev. E. G. Parke) gave us a very cordial welcome. The usual Irish 'cup of tea' was served to us, and we were so full at the end of the day that even the chance of a 'late' peal would probably have been regretfully refused!

It must be mentioned here that the Irish 'cup of tea' is an extremely modest description of a first-class spread! Regretfully, we had to say 'Goodbye' to Dundela at 10.30 p.m., but we hope we shall be allowed to return for a peal, once the local district ringers have scored the 'first on the bells.' We wish them 'very good luck.'

HILLSBOROUGH

Saturday, May 31st, arrived, and meant packing everything up, and catching the 8.30 a.m. bus for Hillsborough, the seat of the Governor of Northern Ireland. The church is a most striking building, approached by a long avenue of trees, and has twin towers on each side, in addition to the fine ringing tower and spire.

Mr. David Rogan (local secretary) and Mr. F. McBride (captain) met us off the bus, and took our luggage to a local café. The ringing chamber is ideal, being lit by three large windows, and the circle is perfect, a big improvement to when the tenor used to hang in the centre! The bells were originally cast by Rudhall in 1774, but were all recast by Taylors since 1945. The draught is a fairly long one, with no guides, and as the seventh sounds out louder than the others, we rang at a very steady beat for an 18¼ cwt. tenor. Nevertheless, a good peal was scored in exactly 3 hours 30 minutes, the bells coming round at 1.5 p.m.

Immediately we had finished, Mr. Rogan took us to the nearby café and, once again, a really splendid lunch was kindly provided by the local ringers.

Owing to leaving Hillsborough much later than anticipated, due to the generous hospitality received, it was with very great regret that we just could not visit Lurgan, as the local band was expecting us. A phone call was made by Mr. Rogan, but was too late to notify them, and they were apparently awaiting us. We did not leave Hillsborough until 2.10 p.m., and only just caught the 3 p.m. train back to Dublin, on which we were booked with reserved seats. We hope Mr. J. P. Irwin, and his kind friends, have accepted our sincere apologies, sent by letter, and that we may meet him later.

ACROSS THE SEA AGAIN

We reached Dublin at 5.50 p.m., travelling the same route from Portadown as we had come on Wednesday, and again sampling an Irish Railways meal—too good to miss! Leaving our baggage at Westland Row Station, we were able to do a little shopping before catching the boat train for the 8.40 p.m. steamer ex Dun Laoghaire to Holyhead.

A quiet crossing, several courses of Grandsire Triples on Geoff Pearson's handbells on the top deck, and the sun setting over dear old Ireland brought a memorable week to a close.

Once again, it is most difficult to thank sufficiently the local bands for their splendid welcome and unbounded generosity. All of us got the impression that the Irish ringers everywhere are very proud of their bells and belfries, and will spare no pains to make any visitors really welcome. For the record, we had travelled some 1,540 miles in the week.

Thank you, Ireland, for a wonderful week, which will never be forgotten.

GUILDFORD GUILD SUMMER FESTIVAL

THROUGH the initiative of Mr. Roy Collins, and supported by officers of the Chertsey District, the Guildford Diocesan Guild summer festival was revived on June 14th, and despite the bus strike 120 ringers were present, including a coach-load from Aldershot. Thames-side towers of Weybridge, Walton, Oatlands Park, Thames Ditton and Hersham were open to the visitors, as well as Chobham and Horsell.

It was at Hersham that the company foregathered for the service, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. L. St. C. Gower Williams), with the Lord Bishop of Guildford (Rt. Rev. Ivor S. Watkins) as the preacher.

This was the first meeting of the Bishop with the Guild as president. He recalled a meeting some years back at Dunsfold, where he came to stay with the then Rector for a quiet weekend. The bells rang until it was dark, and after that he could not sleep because of the nightingales!

There was something essentially English, said the Bishop in his sermon, about their church bells. When one went abroad and listened to the bells of continental churches they sounded tinny and uncontrolled: there was no depth or mellowness in those bells. What better sound could there be than to hear the bells ringing out over the Surrey hills? and as he went around the diocese he sometimes heard the bells guiding him to some church. For this he was truly grateful. Sometimes he was honoured by a special peal, and although he must confess that he could not distinguish what was rung, he could distinguish good and bad ringing. He wished there was a great deal more ringing for the ordinary services of the Church.

Bells primarily reminded them of spiritual influences and spiritual duties, and it was on that note that he would talk to them. The first message of the bells was spiritual. They found in their towns and villages rising above houses or trees church towers or steeples reminding them that the things of God were on an eternal foundation, and the things of man were materialistic. They told them that they had to depend on spiritual things, and it was because man had neglected or ignored that message that the world was in its present position. After the first world war they were determined that there should be no more wars. What happened was that man tried to run the world for his own ends and left out God's purposes. Selfishness, greed and lust for power were the things by which man lived for. God was left out to make room for political expediency. They knew there was little chance of peace and security unless and until spiritual things were given a chance to work, and alas, they could not look on the national or international situation today without anxiety. Whenever they saw a church tower or heard church bells they should remember that spiritual values were the only true values.

'May I call your attention to a practical point that concerns you all? It is all very well to ring church bells; you do it because you enjoy the experience of ringing, and you can treat it as a hobby. How often just before the service one hears the ringers clattering down the tower steps —but not to worship. I hope it does not happen in this diocese, but I do know it happens. It means that spiritual values have been ignored. It is all very well to talk about service ringing—it is the service that matters, and it is all the better when the two go together.'

The second message of the bells was that they were a call to personal holiness. The bells proclaim the holiness of God and also proclaim to all those who call themselves Christians. 'We are all made in the same mould,' but, he would add, some were mouldier than others. If we are to be worthy of our calling and worthy of the present opportunity which is ours and worthy of the generations to come, we must try day by day in the common ways of life to be the best Christians it is possible for us to be. We all know we are far from perfect—it is very difficult, so difficult that many people say it is impossible, and they settle down to what is second best. Jesus never asked us to do the impossible. We may stumble again and again but we must all honestly try; failure is the fault of not trying.

Lastly, the bells remind us we are not sufficient by ourselves. The call to worship reminds us of our spiritual duty and also of the need of His Grace. The times we live in are fraught with great responsibility and also great opportunity. We shall only succeed in our tasks if we seek the Grace of God. And it can only be gained by worship, prayer and the sacraments as an integral part of our daily experience. Every time you hear the bells they ask are you putting spiritual things first, are you trying to live a life of holiness, are you relying on the Grace of God?

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand:
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

Tea followed in the Church Room, at which the Bishop attended. Mr. C. W. Denyer (Master of the Guild), in a word of welcome to the Bishop, said of those who rang bells in the diocese 99 per cent. were Church people.

In reply, the Bishop said he was very glad to see so many young people present and to know that they were taking part in the ringing.

The Master also thanked Miss Hancock and Mr. Roy Collins for getting the summer festival once again on its legs. 'Chertsey District, we thank you very much,' he concluded.

Mr. W. Shepherd thanked the ladies who had prepared the tea, and Mr. Johnny King for all his work.

The programme of ringing was then resumed.

ST. ALBANS DIOCESAN RINGERS HOLD JOINT FESTIVAL

The joint summer festival of the two Associations within the St. Albans Diocese took place on June 14th, the hosts this year being the Bedfordshire Association.

Taking advantage of the fine spell of weather, ringing was under way from 9 a.m. at Maulden and Luton until 9 p.m. at Woburn. In between times coaches and assorted vehicles travelled to take members to ring at Dunstable, Leighton Buzzard, Aspley Guise, Totternhoe, Husborne Crawley, Eversholt and Flitwick.

As 4.15 p.m. arrived, over 200 people had gathered for the service at St. Mary's Church, Woburn, conducted by the Rev. T. N. Gunner, assisted by the Dean of St. Albans. The Rev. Elliot Wigg, in his sermon, stated his belief that bell-ringing was one of the purest possible forms of worship. Preceding the sermon, a combined band rang Grandsire Caters 'in hand.' One of the outstanding parts of the service was the singing of the joint choir.

Immediately after the service a group photograph was taken, followed by tea at Woburn Town Hall, the guest of honour being the Duke of Bedford.

In his speech the Duke said that having become an authority on skiffle, as a result of being photographed with a washboard, the photograph taken with handbells before the service would no doubt lead to his being considered an authority on handbell-ringing.

The Bedfordshire Association would like to take this opportunity of thanking the Rev. T. N. Gunner for his hospitality and conducting the service, also the Dean of St. Albans, the Rev. Elliot Wigg, the Duke of Bedford, the clergy who allowed ringing at their churches, and all who helped to make such an enjoyable and memorable day. J. W. S.

BULLDOGS AND CHAMPAGNE

'Well, did you win? '—this question from his non-ringing room-mate always used to greet a certain member of the Cambridge University Guild upon his return from the Oxford University Society's dinner. There is a certain subtle rivalry between the two Societies, of course, consisting in such things as attempts to undermine the other side's morale by furnishing it with false peal compositions, but for the most part peaceful co-existence is a welcome reality in their relations with each other.

A pleasant manifestation of this was the repetition on May 31st of last year's successful joint meeting. This year Bedford was chosen, and the arrival of Roger Morris's hearse, 'Charon,' with a body (if that is the right word) of C.U.G. members, found the Oxford contingent taking lunch in Bromham churchyard. The inner man (and woman) satisfied, the combined parties ascended the tower, where among mostly indifferent ringing a presentable touch of spliced was brought round.

At St. Peter's, Bedford, the next tower to be visited, the Cambridge party excused themselves at the end of the ringing in order to sample the champagne which the fortunate winner of the St. Andrew's Bell Fund draw had come to collect: this was duly drunk out of the handbells (it is not recorded who snatched the tenor for the occasion). Needless to say, your correspondent was only told about the celebrations after they were all over.

After tea, ringing took place on the ten at St. Paul's, Bedford, but except for a full course of Cambridge Royal, in which the striking was above the day's rather poor average, the band did not do justice to the fine bells. This may, of course, have been due to the champagne, in which case the O.U.S. is exonerated. After leaving the tower, the ringers felt in need of legal advice, following the principle of a certain litigation clerk who has been heard to say that in the evenings he always consults his solicitors, Messrs. Draught Worthington and Co. The meeting accordingly adjourned over the river, where the ringers were able in the appropriate manner to celebrate the end of Tripos, or, as the case might be, to fend off the immanent shadow of Schools.

Soon the parties began to wend their respective ways homeward, and when the Oxford people had departed for their train the Cambridge band set off in 'Charon.' A further short halt was called at Caxton where, with the hearse appropriately parked beneath the gibbet, the members of the Guild brought their drinks outside and sat in the twilight ringing handbells. A course of Bob Royal staggered round, but three attempts for a touch of Grandsire Caters came to grief—the first because the conductor forgot the calling, the second because someone got lost, and the third because about half way through a bulldog, pursued by a breathless lady, carcered round the corner of the inn, circulated for a few panic-stricken seconds among the ringers and finally disappeared under a bench, where it lay glowering out between the legs of an ex-Master of the Guild (somewhat to the latter's discomfiture). In the end the animal was led, protesting, away, peace returned, and the Guild completed its journey to Cambridge without further incident. It is to be hoped that the O.U.S. members had an equally pleasant, if perhaps less eventful, journey home; and that they felt with the Cambridge band that the continued success of these informal meetings augurs well for similar occasions to be held in the future. HANDBELL MUSIC

By Colonel M. D. Bell, Ashtead

In the issue of 'The Ringing World' of May 2nd last, it is said that there is a definite need for a simple book of instructions in handbell music for schools and youth clubs, if some enthusiast will produce such a textbook.

For the past eight or ten years I have run a handbell class for choir boys, who on voice-break pass on to the tower ropes, and some four years ago I discussed handbell music with the present president of the Central Council. Mr. Sharpe is, of course, an acknowledged expert on handbells and their music, and a profound authority on such modes of notation as 'Dorian,' 'Phrygian' and 'Mixolydian.' Scott Parry, in his American book, writes of polyphonic variations, 'Bennington selections bearing the influence of oriental music with its pentatonic scale and parallel fourths.'

But of what practical use is all this to youth clubs or 'sing-by-ear' choir boys?—categories apt to be allergic to concentration. Hence the devising of what I would call the 'Morse Code' notation, whereby the majority of simple carols, hymn tunes and ballads present little difficulty. For most of such tunes the minim, the crotchet and the quaver suffice. Instead of musical notation the actual number of each bell represents its own individual note. A minim is denoted by a 'dash' under the number, and a quaver by a 'dot'; a bell number without either 'dot' or 'dash' is a crotchet—twice as long as a dot, or half as long as a dash. The dots and dashes, of course, govern the action of the bell following that so marked—the following bell therefore holding up a beat after a dash or cutting down more quickly after a dot.

the dot or dash covering the bell striking the melody or air of the tune, and the other bells in the chord following suit as soft background only.

The following examples are given for an octave of eight bells in the key of F:—

Half-a-dozen tunes can be printed on a fair-sized page or card—which is far from being the case with the academic 'modes.'

With 12 bells in the band (an octave plus four above it) innumerable carols, hymns and ballads are possible. (See appended example.) Music, or rather this 'Morse Code' notation, for a great many of these is available and could doubtless be printed quite cheaply, should sufficient demand be forthcoming.

IN CONSTABLE COUNTRY

The eighth annual outing of the St. Giles', Totternhoe, bell-ringers took place on May 31st to the 'Constable country' of Essex and Suffolk. The first tower was Thaxted, where the bells are as good as the lovely old church would lead us to hope, and here the day was started well with a course of Yorkshire. This was, however, excelled at the next tower, Great Dunmow, where a practically faultless course of Cambridge even led to us being applauded by the non-ringers, and quite confounded a small member of the party, who had been heard to refer to us as the 'Totternhoe bashers'! At Halstead a tripless course of Bedfordshire proved that the frenzied studying of the method which had taken place in the coach had not been in vain, and we left for lunch at Colchester with an air of conscious virtue.

Having missed the turning to Ardleigh, and with difficulty navigated the narrow lanes through the fields, we were yet in time to ring a really good touch of Stedman. Stoke-by-Nayland, the next tower, we shall remember partly for a stately course of London which we rang there, and partly for the stir that a certain tenor-grabber caused by being locked in the tower with a lady member of the party. His exploit was commemorated to the tune of a well-known hymn later in the evening.

After tea at the Woodpecker Restaurant, Sudbury, the next tower was Lavenham, where we all admired the famous tenor. Another beautiful church this, as was also the last of the day, Long Melford; but ringing here had to contend with the Long Melford fair, held on the green near the church, for the ringers' affections, and the ringing was less good. However, we all enjoyed the hot-dogs and coconuts!

Our thanks are due to Jack Scott, who organised the outing even down to the printed programmes, to the incumbents, to those who met us at the towers, and to the coach-drivers. A really memorable outing—good company, good bells, good ringing, and even good weather!

HOLME PIERREPONT, NOTTS.—On May 30th, 1,440 Oxford Treble Bob: R. Mills 1, R. Larkin 2, J. Meredith 3, B. Mills 4, F. Bradley 5, D. Armstrong (cond.) 6. First in method for all except 5 and 6.

CUMBERLANDS JOIN THE ESSEX AT PRITTLEWELL

On June 7th the current trend of Societies to intermix was taken another step forward when the S.W. District of the Essex Association and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths held a joint meeting at Thorpe Bay and Prittlewell.

News of the local bus strike which had started the previous Thursday somewhat curtailed the attendance, but at 2.30 p.m. the Thorpe Bay bells struck up merrily to the tune of Stedman Triples, and a goodly company enjoyed an hour of Surprise and standard methods on this easy-going and tuneful ring.

At 4 p.m. 'Pip' Sadler was waiting to greet us at St. Mary-the-Virgin's, Prittlewell, where good use was made of this handy ten with ringing from rounds to Cambridge Royal.

In the unavoidable absence of the Ven. E. N. Gowing (Vicar, and vice-president of the Essex Association), who was convalescing in Devon following a recent operation, the Rev. D. Morris conducted the service, and won the respect of all by the strength and purpose of his address in which he stressed the importance of church bells and the duty of ringers to ring for service no matter how few meet in the tower.

A traditional shrimp-and-cockle tea was enjoyed by some 50 members, with the exception of one who up to then had been unusually subdued.

The respective Masters, Messrs. J. Crampion and F. Cullum, were supported by officials of both companies. In welcoming the Cumberlands Mr. Crampion drew attention to the unique occasion and also recalled that a link between the two Associations was forged in 1892 when an Essex band rang their first peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's, the headquarters of the Cumberlands, and it was conducted by Mr. F. C. Newman, a prominent member of both. In reply, Mr. Cullum emphasised the necessity for all Associations to pool their resources so that the greatest effort possible can be directed to our main object—that of maintaining service ringing.

A message of sympathy and good wishes was forwarded to the Vicar, and thanks accorded to all those who had contributed to what had proved to be a very successful meeting.

BOOKS WANTED

Dear Sir,—It may be that some students of bells feel they have little use for some of their books, and would be willing to sell them to one who has real need of them for current use. Now that the following are out of print, I should be glad to hear of the possibility of purchasing them, for my own sole personal use:—

J. L'Estrange's 'The Church Bells of Norfolk,' a book on Essex bells, and some of Ellacombe's county books.—Yours faithfully,

A. T. NIXSEAMAN (Rev.).

OBITUARY

MR. WALTER SEAR

A former Bletchley resident and member of an old local family of ringers, Mr. Walter Sear died on May 14th. Since his retirement and in failing health he had been in Glasgow with his only son, Raymond. Cremation took place the following Saturday and the ashes were brought to St. Mary's Church, Bletchley, for burial on Whit Sunday.

A good number of ringers of the North Bucks Branch were present to pay their last respects to their former secretary, as Mr. Sear held this office for 25 years until 1939. During his secretaryship the Branch became one of the foremost in the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

A BACHELORS' TOUR AROUND ENGLAND

SHORTLY after mid-day on Friday, May 22nd, a green and grey Bedford was to be seen speeding eastwards from Truro. It was the start of yet another ringing tour organised by that intrepid Cornishman Alan Carveth who, in company with Robert A. Southwood, of Plymouth, and Cyril A. Wratten, of no fixed abode (but at present resident in the Darley Home for the aged and infirm at Cheltenham), was looking forward to a good week's ringing.

The scene of the first fray was at Lambourn in Berkshire. This was reached after first visiting East Hagbourne with its ring of eight (tenor 21 cwt.) and Blewbury which has eight bells (tenor 19¼ cwt.). Lambourn has an extremely fine church with a lofty, unbuttressed central tower, which unfortunately 'walks around the churchyard' when the bells are rung, thus making them a little difficult to manage. We started the peal, the method being Stedman Triples, and all went well for the first hour until the 25 cwt. tenor started to go badly and in spite of all efforts on the part of Ernie, the attempt had to be abandoned.

After suitable refreshment we proceeded to Wallingford, where we were the honoured guests of Jack Berry for the night. On Sunday morning we went with Jack to ring at Wallingford Church (eight bells, tenor 21 cwt.). It was then time to take leave of our friends and travel on to Reading.

Once in Reading we made for the home of Mr. Albert Diserens and his family, and in spite of the fact that many of the local ringers were taking part in a peal that afternoon he managed to round up enough to provide us with some new towers. Ringing was enjoyed on the light eight at Highclere (tenor 11 cwt.), Woolton Hill (6, tenor 7 cwt.) and the good eight at Thatcham (tenor 13 cwt.). After a sumptuous tea, kindly provided by Mrs. Diserens, we enjoyed ringing on the fine eight at St. Mary's, Reading (tenor 25 cwt.) and at St. Laurence's (12, tenor 23 cwt.). Cyril also managed to bag St. Giles', and returned blissfully babbling about the most attractive band of ladies with whom he had rung. A convivial evening then followed, with Mr. Diserens recalling past ringing experiences.

UNDER CANVAS

Monday found us speeding past Kentish hopfields to Marden, with a delightful little ring of eight (tenor 14 cwt.). A peal of Double Norwich was successfully rung, conducted by Mr. Tom Sone. Then followed our first night under canvas, followed by a delicious open-air breakfast of bacon and eggs. Later that day we visited the 'birth-place' of Mr. Wratten, at Saltwood, near Hythe, and Alan at last fulfilled a lifelong ambition of riding on the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch light railway.

Another successful peal was rung in the evening at Brenchley, with a good eight (tenor 18 cwt.). Yorkshire Major being rung in 2 hours 54 minutes. That night, at the invitation of Mr. Tom Sone, we erected our camp beds in the pump house of the Mid-Kent Water Board, certainly an unusual place to sleep; our course of Minor 'in hand' rung before retiring must surely be the first in such a place.

Most of Wednesday was taken up with a long ride through London and Stamford to Epworth in Lincolnshire. Here we were greeted by Jack Millhouse and other ringers from Lincoln, and in spite of the fact that Alan had not previously studied Bristol, quite a passable peal of it was rung on the excellent eight (tenor 17 cwt.).

On Thursday evening, after a good peal of Oxford T.B. Major on the merry little eight (tenor 12 cwt.) at Burton-on-Stather, we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bray. We were very interested to hear Mr. Bray's reminiscences of past peal tours in Cornwall and to sample some of Mrs. Bray's cakes and sandwiches (a biennial treat). The next morning, after a quick visit and a drink with our old friend Phil Barnes, who unfortunately was not in the peal the previous evening, we made tracks for Conisbrough in Yorkshire, a pleasant eight with a 13 cwt. tenor. Here we had the pleasure of ringing with John Gilbert and other ringers from Sheffield and Rotherham. Unfortunately, our peal of Yorkshire Major could have been a lot better —I think the strain must have been telling on our mental processes.

After a night spent in an hotel in Sheffield, we collected other ringers and proceeded to Dore in Derbyshire, where Ian Holland conducted what proved to be the best and also the fastest peal for the week, Little Bob Major being rung in 2 hours 37 minutes. The bells are an ideal peal-ringing eight with a tenor of 11 cwt. On leaving the church we discovered that a canopy had been set up over the path and a blue carpet laid down. We did not discover whether this was in our honour or in preparation for a wedding!

Subscriptions Now Due

This is the last issue of the quarter and postal subscriptions for quarterly and half-yearly subscribers are now due. New readers should enrol at once with Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro. Rates: Quarterly, 7s. 6d.; half-yearly, 14s. 6d.; yearly, £1 8s.

AT MANCHESTER TOWN HALL

After depositing our Yorkshire friends back in Sheffield and bidding them farewell, we proceeded via a roadside tavern and some excellent ale and sandwiches to Manchester. Unfortunately, no practice had been arranged for the afternoon at the Town Hall, but we discovered two of the ringers busy raising the bells in preparation for ringing the following day, and we are very grateful to them for allowing us to ring some Doubles on the middle six. That night was spent among the Derbyshire hills, and the following morning we had the unique experience of ringing for Mattins at Ashbourne. We were warmly welcomed by the local ringers and each issued with a little black 'ringer's smock.' Cyril looked most incongruous in his, with sleeves short enough to show vast expanses of hairy forearm.

After visiting some of Alan's relatives and partaking of an excellent lunch, we proceeded southwards to ring on the glorious ten of Lichfield Cathedral. Alan and myself had quite an argument as to whether these bells are musically better than those of Truro Cathedral. (We would be grateful if other ringers could give us their views on this matter.) We were very pleased to find that Joan Beresford, who knew we were coming, had fixed up some more ringing for us on the pleasant little six at Little Aston (little brother to Big Aston, Birmingham). The tenor here is a mere 9 cwt., and we enjoyed a pleasant half hour on them. Back then to Lichfield to enjoy some of Joan's home-made sponge and a spot of handbell ringing, and then on to ring on the eight at St. Mary's, Lichfield. Later in the evening, a quick ring on the pleasant eight (tenor 12 cwt.) at Alrewas, and it was then time to say farewell to Joan and Peter and be on our way once more. (Joan, please tell us what the Vicar of St. Chad's said to you!)

IN MONMOUTHSHIRE

Monday was our last day, and we had the pleasure of joining Paul Field, Bill Stoat and other notorious tower-grabbers in a tour of the Newport, Mon, area. Towers visited were Shirenewton (6, tenor 7 cwt.), where the Vicar was pleased to hear the bells rung, Penhow (6, tenor 6 cwt.), rung from just inside the south door, and Caldicot (8, tenor 13 cwt.), where the stays are missing from the treble and second. After a quick ale-and-sandwich lunch, accompanied by some more handbell ringing, we proceeded on to Mathern (6, tenor 10 cwt.), Tidenham (6, tenor 11 cwt.), Hewelsfield (5, tenor 11 cwt.)—another chancel ring, St. Briavels (8, tenor 11 cwt.), Newland (6, tenor 16½ cwt.)—an excellent ring, and Staunton (6, tenor 10 cwt.)—yet another chancel ring.

This officially finished the tour, but those who know Bill Stoat will realise that there is always time for one more tower, and we are very grateful to the Vicar of Westbury-on-Severn for allowing us to ring on the fine old ring of six (tenor 21 cwt.).

DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A well-attended meeting of the Peak District was held at Bakewell and Youlgrave on May 17th.

Blessed with a fine, sunny day, ringers and friends came from Cheshire, Nottinghamshire, Lancashire, Yorkshire and Staffordshire to join a very strong force of our own District and Association members. Methods up to Bristol, and also rounds, were rung during the day.

SOME OF THE OUTINGS

ASHTEAD, SURREY

Ashtead ringers, together with a few more experienced ringers from neighbouring towers, spent a very successful day in Kent on May 31st. The outing was blessed with magnificent weather, and this fact, together with some very good bells, made the day a memorable one.

The towers visited in the morning were Staplehurst, Frittenden and Tenterden. Unfortunately a broken rope at Tenterden reduced the ringing time to a bare half-hour, but a touch of Bob Major on these majestic bells made the visit worth while. Lunch was taken at Tenterden, after which the party proceeded to Rolvenden and Hawkhurst. Tea was served at Goudhurst and the last tower of the day was at Horsmonden. Here time permitted of a full hour's ringing.

Apart from numerous rounds for the less proficient, methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent, Double Norwich and Cambridge. Thank you, Kent, for a happy day.

J. T. S.

GRANTHAM, LINCS

The weather was cloudy, although the sun was making some attempt to brighten the day for the annual outing of the Grantham ringers on Whit Monday. By 8.40 a.m. some 40 ringers and friends were on their way.

The first stop was at Hucknall, where we were met by the Vicar, who was kind enough to show us some points of interest in his church. We were able to ring here on this melodious new eight for nearly an hour.

By 10 o'clock the day was much brighter and the 'cruise' through the delightful Derbyshire dales was much appreciated. Whilst among this scenery we rang on the octaves of Matlock, before lunch, and Bakewell, after lunch. Unfortunately, we had fallen behind schedule and arrived at Bolsover later than intended. (Our apologies once more to the two ringers who so kindly waited for us.)

The last tower was the six at Blyth, where the majority of the party seemed to have difficulty in catching the fourth rope, which never appeared to descend in the same place twice.

In closing, we would like to express our appreciation to the incumbents and ringers of the churches visited and our appreciation to the organiser for a most enjoyable day.

PINCHBECK, LINCS

A damp day greeted Pinchbeck ringers and friends when they set out for their outing at 7 a.m. Although an hour was spent at Daventry real justice was not done to this anti-clockwise ring. Various touches of Minor were rung at Henley-in-Arden, and there was more 6-bell ringing at Broadway after a picnic lunch.

Burford, in Oxfordshire, proved to be a real musical box; some good ringing and a touch of Lincolnshire made this a tower to be remembered. After being refreshed by tea at Witney, the visit to this well-known tower was much enjoyed. At Wicken, Northants, Mr. George Green met the party, and the ringing on this delightful octave was a highlight of the day.

There was a stop for supper and refreshments and also handbell ringing at Towcester. The journey home must have been done in record time, although it was 1 a.m. before some members were set down on their doorsteps. Grateful thanks are recorded to all who made this delightful day possible.

ST. PETER MANCROFT, 1958

Past Hethersett's church with ring of eight.
By Wymondham's Abbey tower great,
Spires, towers, churches small,
Flower decked cottage, village hall;
Attleborough, Thetford, Bury,
Long Metford thro' to Clare,
To Finchingfield's Church of Saint John
We stopped, its loveliness to share.

'I sweetly sing,' one bell's inscribed,
One, 'I am calling "Come" ':
And 'Music, medicine for the mind,'
One the Vicar's name of John:
Eight bells, they call to worship still,
To sacrament, prayer and praise,
From the church that stands upon the hill.
Their loud, clear tones they raise.

Then on thro' Essex's county fair
To Bocking's Church of St. Mary,
Eight bells again their tones to share
Our methods, too, to vary;
London, Bristol, Stedman too,
Superlative some rang and true.
The bells their courses kept, but come
A 'bob's' been called and brought them home.

A tiny church, a spire, too,
Amongst the houses comes in view:
A 'meeting' here, six bells at Stisted,
The cottage chimneys are built twisted;
At Halstead next we rang: and then
Saw the famous ringers' jar
At St. Andrew's Church: it was made when
The Puritans were in full power.

At Coggeshall, St. Peter's stands,
It tells a different story
Of bombers from another land
Who robbed it of its glory.
But now, the bells ring clear and loud,
The church rebuilt, from tower proud.
They call us all to prayer and praise,
Thanksgiving still to God to raise.

Our last call now that day is done,
St. Mary's Church at Bures:
The last rays of the setting sun
Spreads glory to the viewers:
Bells and church, their story telling
From treble and from tenors swelling.
Keep them ringing, every band
'In England's green and pleasant land.'

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2466 Vol. LIV FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

OLD CHARLIE

WHEN his parish church had a ring of eight bells installed in the tower, Charlie said he would like to be one of the band to learn change-ringing, and soon he was busy trying to master his bell on lashed practice nights with varying degrees of success.

Although the circle was a good one and well spaced, Charlie found difficulty in getting his rope to land conveniently, which caused the ringers on either side of him to set their bells hastily and get out of the danger zone. His frantic grip of the sally was very firm, too firm in fact, for his continual grasping soon shewed marks where his strong but nervous hands had worn the tufts away in one particular place.

Progress was slow because the band, plus half-a-dozen or so late entrants, were all learners; but the instructor happened to be one of the highly skilled kind with many years of experience in the finer arts of teaching ringers correctly, and I leave the ringer to imagine the trials and difficulties of the first twelve months.

Charlie took method ringing very seriously, and his two weak spots in Grandsire Triples were thirds and 4-5 down, for in the former position he would miss the hunt bell and sometimes call out 'Who's in the hunt?', while in 4-5 down he would complain that 'nobody would dodge with him.' Once he held up over the tenor and said: 'I'm lost.' In spite of the many pitfalls, Charlie went by stages to 504, then 1,008 and a quarter peal, but for some unknown reason he would not start for a peal and when the time came to tackle Stedman he said it was 'too complicated,' and 'he didn't like the look of it.'

It took Charlie a long time before he resolved to try his hand at something different, and he had quite a string of questions to ask the instructor regarding the various terms used, such as 'whole pull wrong,' 'thirds before going slow,' 'the whole and half turns,' etc.; but Charlie could not seem to grasp the slow work at all.

Having the treble to guide him for making thirds in Grandsire, he could not understand why Stedman wanted ringers to make thirds on the way down to lead and without the treble for a guide! He also failed to see why the first lead in the slow should be a wrong one before having to do a right one. Another puzzle was the making of thirds place five times so soon after leading in four different ways. When Charlie began to see some of the reasons for the terms used in Stedman he was shown how to divide the slow work into four portions, and he soon began to master the front work with more confidence even though he would worry at what he called his four different turns.

'I do five whole turns and one half turn at work each week,' he would say with a smile, for Charlie, who was a skilled wood-carver by trade, finished at mid-day on Saturdays. On Sundays he would confine himself to Grandsire but at practice he would have just one try at Stedman, which usually resulted in being lost 'somewhere in the slow.' In order that Charlie should have a change from Grandsire, after banishing Stedman from his mind he was invited to try Plain Bob; but here again he found snags, the chief one being he had no tenor to lead from!

I lost sight of Charlie for two or three years, but one day when in his neighbourhood I happened to look through the doorway of his workshop, and he hurried forward to greet me with his usual call, 'Whole pull wrong,' his eyes twinkling with merriment. 'Some day,' he said, 'you and I ought to ring a peal together'; and when I asked him which method was his favourite, he replied sadly: 'I have only one method, my good old Grandsire.'

That same evening I went to conduct a peal of Grandsire Triples at Charlie's home tower, and on entering the ringing chamber I beheld Charlie adjusting his rope to the correct length and a happy smile on his face. We rang a well-struck peal and afterwards spent a happy half-hour having a friendly drink and chat together, during which time I ascertained from Charlie that had he started ringing earlier in life he might have successfully tackled Stedman.

Taking his pipe from his mouth he told me that what little he could do in the way of service to the church he preferred to do sincerely and well in his own humble way, for it is not the method that matters most but the striking that listeners find most pleasing to the ear.

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

WHITSUN IN EAST ANGLIA

A party of 15 ringers from Kent and Lancashire joined forces for a ringing holiday in East Anglia during Whit week.

The tour started on Saturday at Swaffham before the arrival of the organiser of towers, Mr. Peter Bond. Ringing here came to an abrupt close when the clapper fell out of the seventh during a course of Cambridge. Other towers visited that day were Necton (famed for its angel roof), Holme Hale, Ashill, Saham Toney (where John Barnes met the party), Walton, Grinston; Caston, Rockland All Saints, Great Ellingham, Hingham and Barnham Broom (where two of the stays of the five bells were missing). The night was spent at Norwich, where Mr. Peter Schofield had arranged accommodation.

On Sunday we were made very welcome at St. Peter Mancroft, and the band was able to ring together a course of Grandsire Cinques. For Matins, ringing was at St. Giles'. Later in the day came Sall, Heydon, Saxthorpe, Gressenhall, Gaywood, and St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, for evening service. Some of the band also rung at Terrington St. John and Wigenhall.

Despite Monday being a very wet day, the tour was continued with visits to the following towers: Clenchwarton, Tilney All Saints (the best six of the weekend), Terrington St. Clement's, Walpole St. Peter, Walpole St. Andrew. After a picnic lunch, Lincolnshire was visited with calls at the following churches: Lutton, Long Sutton, Gedney, Fleet (a detached tower), Holbeach, Whaplode and Moulton. Here the party split up, one half going home and the other to ring at Surfleet.

We thank everyone for making us so welcome and also the organisers.

AN APPRECIATION OF KENWYN RINGERS

On Thursday o'er the evening air
There falls upon the listening ear
Fair chimes from Kenwyn's strident peal,
Which makes some listeners wince, and feel
The urge to flit to towns afar,
Some on foot but most by car!

They hasten from their homes and haunts,
Flinching from the bitter taunts
Of those who are more fully blest
By living north, south, east or west
Of Kenwyn tower by leagues enough
To dull the blast of this 'ere stuff.

And so the evening weareth on,
With bells a-peal and natives gone
To pastures new in other climes,
Waiting for those better times,
When ringers, having done their best,
Hurry home to food and rest.

Then homeward come the motley throng,
To raise their voice in praise and song
To vicar, verger, choir and organ,
Congregation and churchwarden;
They drink their health and wish them well,
As long as they don't ring a bell.

We regret to learn that Mr. L. H. Bywaters, secretary of the Biggleswade District, is in hospital.

To compensate a band, which included well-known ringers, after losing a peal at Darley Dale, Derbyshire, on Sunday, June 22nd, Mr. J. Frank Smallwood kindly entertained them to tea at a local hotel. His kind hospitality was much appreciated by everyone.

MR. G. E. FEIRN'S 400 PEALS

An interesting list containing a wide variety 'in hand' has Mr. George E. Feirn, of Kirton Lindsey, Gainsborough, in his first 400 peals.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We feel Yorkshire ringers will give a warm welcome to Mr. F. A. Munday, conductor at Holy Trinity, Guildford, since 1951, who is making his future home in Bradford with the Post Office telephones. His keenness for a good peal is only excelled by his faithfulness as a Sunday service ringer.

Mr. C. H. Kippin informs us that he called the first seven-method peal at Longparish (see page 326). This was one of a series of five peals in a day.

The Rector and ringers of St. Michael's, Stone, thank Mr. Arnold Moore for conducting the peal in honour of the bicentenary of the church, and also congratulate Miss Sheila Hodson and Mrs. Glenda Bowley on being the first local ladies to ring in a peal.

The Very Rev. W. de Pauley, Dean of St. Patrick's, who celebrated Holy Communion on the Central Council meeting day, has been appointed Lord Bishop of Cashel, Waterford and Emly Diocese. He was mainly responsible for the restoration of St. Patrick's Cathedral bells.

A ringing member of the Irish Association, Canon Alan Buchanan, of St. Coomgall's, Bangor, Co. Down, has been appointed Lord Bishop of Clogher Diocese. Of the 14 Bishops of the Church of Ireland, two are ringers. The Lord Bishop of Cork (Rt. Rev. Gordon Perdue) is learning the art at St. Finbarre's Cathedral, Cork.

The ringers of St. Michael's, West Retford, wish to express their appreciation of the valuable help given to the tower by the late Mr. John Bartram, of East Retford. He had been a regular visitor since ringing recommenced five years ago, and he helped to train most of the present band, including those who rang the half-muffled quarter peal to his memory on June 20th. His presence will be sadly missed.

The quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Sowton on June 8th was rung as a farewell to Mr. J. White and Miss S. Cope, both members of the local band, who are marrying shortly and emigrating to New Zealand where Mr. White has obtained a position with the Ministry of Agriculture. Before morning service the couple were presented with a salad bowl and servers, a gift from their fellow ringers. On the same evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was also rung at the neighbouring village of Honiton Clyst, where the couple regularly attended to ring for evening service on Sundays.

Of those taking part in the peal of Plain Bob Minor at Middle Littleton, Worcestershire, on June 21st, the ringers of 1, 2 and 3 are present pupils and those of 4, 5 and 6 past pupils of Prince Henry's Grammar School, Evesham. This is believed to be the first 'Henricians' peal.

The Goscote Society of Change Ringers have lost their president by the departure of the Rev. T. Howell Evans from Hoby to his new living at Brent Pelham, Herts. He was a great friend to the ringers, and all who have enjoyed the hospitality of the Rev. and Mrs. Evans at the annual ringers' dinner will wish him God speed in his new living.

The jubilee in Holy Orders of Canon F. E. Mercer was commemorated by a peal rung at Rothwell, Yorks, on June 14th. He was appointed Vicar of Rothwell in 1949, and in 1950 he made an appeal for the restoration of the bells, and these were recast in 1951 with new frame and fittings. Canon Mercer retired in 1955 to make way for a younger man but still lives in the parish. His 50 years' ministry includes nine years in Canada, five in Tokyo, and Vicar of Armley, Leeds, from 1933 to 1949.

BELLS IN CHELMSFORD'S FESTIVAL OF ARTS

IT has now become an annual event to hold the festival of art, music and drama at the Cathedral Church of St. Mary-the-Virgin, St. Peter and St. Cedd, Chelmsford, commencing in Whitsun week. This is one of the Cathedrals where the ringing of church bells is accepted as one of the noble arts and sciences, and is always given a place of honour in the actual festival programme.

The fifth annual festival commenced on Thursday, May 29th, with an attempt for a peal on the Cathedral bells. Owing to certain of the Association's leading peal ringers being across the sea on other ringing business, the method selected was Cambridge Royal. All appeared to be going well until the end of the eleventh course, when the conductor noted that there had been a shift and called 'Stand' at the course end.

On Friday the festival opened with a service in the Cathedral, followed by a lecture in the Shire Hall on 'Music in the Life of the Community,' by Dr. Thomas Armstrong, Principal of the Royal Academy of Music.

On Saturday the ringing of a quarter peal of 1,260 Stedman Triples in 58 minutes on the heavy bells preceded the summer festvial service of the Friends of the Cathedral: the ringers were drawn from the North Western Area. Frederick Whitby treble, Benjamin Burton, Reginald Hayden, Henry Bird, William Wheeler, Robert Heazel, Stanley Clark (conductor), Edward Rochester tenor. Following the annual meeting of the Cathedral Friends, a recorder and harpischord recital was given by Carl Dolmetsch and Joseph Saxby.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, June 3rd and 4th, the Colchester Repertory Company presented 'A Sleep of Prisoners,' by Christopher Fry, in the nave of the Cathedral. These productions were preceded on Tuesday by a quarter peal of 1,344 London Surprise Major on the heavy eight by members from the Northern Area: Harry G. Felton treble, Lewis W. Wiffen, Frank Clayden, John A. Warner, Alan R. Syder, Hilda G. Snowden, Terry Earle (conductor), Walter Arnold tenor.

Members of the South Western Area rang a quarter peal of 1,166 Grandsire Cinques on the Wednesday. Thomas G. Fox treble, Adrian J. N. Boyack, Brian J. Howard, Harry Turner, Ernest W. Furbank, Edward D. Smith, Frank V. Gant (conductor), Donald M. Salisbury, John H. Crampion, Charles E. Willmington, Peter Eaves, Andrew J. Salisbury tenor.

On the Saturday, preceding an organ recital by Dr. Ivor Keys, Professor of Music, University of Nottingham, members from the North Eastern Area rang a quarter peal of 1,296 Little Bob Royal. William J. Brunt treble, Mrs. Leslie Mills, Evelyn R. Cansdale, Janet M. Spurgin, Allen W. Cansdale, Bernard W. Fairhead, Donald L. Mills, Leslie D. Mills, Edward E. Davey, Harry J. Millatt (conductor) tenor.

The ringing on the two Sundays covered by the festival was in the hands of the Cathedral ringers, who rang methods and touches to suit all their members and visitors, including a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, before the pianoforte recital given in the Cathedral on Thursday evening by Colin Horsley.

Those taking part in the festival ringing came from all over the diocese: the effort and the final results are worthy of their great calling. It is no mean achievement to travel long dissances after daily work to arrive in good time and then ring to call others to worship or to join with others to appreciate 'Craftsman's Art and Music's Measure' as it can only be portrayed by gifted stars.

The ringers of Essex are honoured to be included with all those who worked to make the effort a great success. R. C. H.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

THE annual festival of the Guild was held at the Parish Church, Llanelly, on June 14th, when the bells were available at 2 p.m. Members came from Pembroke, Tenby, Carmarthen, Llanstephan, Burry Port, Llandilo, supported by the Llanelly ringers. It was good to see many of the honorary members present, and also the members of the Southern Section of the Swansea and Brecon Guild. The Vicar (Rev. Howard Williams) officiated at the service, and the Archdeacon of Carmarthen (Ven. J. Richard Pugh) gave the address, deputising for the Bishop who had to attend to another important meeting.

At a really wonderful tea at the Parish Hall, 80 members thoroughly enjoyed themselves. After the tea, the usual business meeting was held, at which the Archdeacon presided. Before the meeting started a testimonial was presented to Mr. Chris. Hawkins by the Archdeacon, on behalf of the members of the Guild, for his services as secretary to the Guild. Mr. Chris. Hawkins very briefly replied, thanking the members of the Guild, and said it would inspire him to carry on the good work the Guild was doing.

The Archdeacon then declared the meeting open, and the usual touch on the handbells was given by Messrs. Gwyn Thomas, A. Hoare, Gwyn Lewis and R. Scudamore. Mr. Gwyn Thomas, of Tenby, was elected Master of the Guild, and Mr. Harry Jenkins, of Tenby, Ringing Master. The secretary, treasurer and auditor were re-elected. The Archdeacon then placed the badges of office on the new officers, and the outgoing officers were thanked for their services by Mr. J. Webb.

A statement of accounts was given by Mr. W. P. E. Sage, the treasurer, and Tenby was selected for the competition in 1959. A collection for the Bell Restoration Fund realised the sum of £2 2s. The Vicar (Rev. Howard Williams) accepted the invitation to become a vice-president of the Guild; there were also eight honorary members and three life ringing members made.

Before the meeting was closed by a prayer, appropriate votes of thanks were passed to all who had contributed to the festival, especially the ladies ('the big five') who were responsible for the tea. Further ringing in the tower concluded a very successful meeting. C. H.

MR. F. A. MUNDAY LEAVES GUILDFORD

Mr. Frederick A. Munday, who has been captain of Holy Trinity, Guildford, since 1951, left the town last weekend for Bradford, Yorks, on promotion in the Post Office telephone service. Twenty of his fellow ringers entertained Mr. and Mrs. Munday to supper on June 25th, and they were the recipients of presentations from the company.

Mr. T. W. White, who presided and made the presentations, referred to Mr. Munday's faithful service to the tower, which he joined in 1946. He was appointed sub-conductor in 1949 and succeeded Mr. A. H. Pulling as conductor in 1951. Mr. White also referred to other impending losses to Holy Trinity—Mr. and Mrs. J. Tate, who were going to Manchester, and Mr. W. J. Robinson to Olney.

Mr. Munday, in thanking the company, said he had been ringing for 26 years and remembered coming on a visit to Holy Trinity, Guildford, as a boy in 1932. He had rung in 46 peals at Holy Trinity; he had 'circled the tower' twice to peals and had called a peal from each bell in the tower twice. He hoped that Trinity bells would never be silent in the future.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bentley for arranging the supper. Handbells were rung during the evening, including touches of Grandsire Caters.

THE BACK-ENDER'S DOOM

A Ballad Respectfully Dedicated To A. P. C.

(Tune: 'Vilikins and his Dinah')

Of a young man named Patrick this sad story tells,
Who made his life's work ringing dirty great bells.
The biggest and roughest to him were ideal,
He would grab them and turn the things in to a peal.
Singing toorali-oorali-oorali-ay.

Three ringers one day who were evil inclined Decided together some method to find
Of bringing our Patrick's career to a smash,
And they'd stop at no villainy to settle his hash.
Singing &c.

Next Sunday, their wicked intentions to gain,
They went to the market in Petticoat Lane,
And bought an old five from a barrow-boy's stall [Great Paul].
With a tenor five-hundredweight more than
Singing &c.

They built them a tower designed for to sway
No less than two feet and six inches each way;
The frame was of rubber, the gudgeons were square,
And the headstocks slacked off with a half-inch to spare.
Singing &c.

They made an announcement when once they were hung:
'A peal in this tower has yet to be rung';
And laughed when our Patrick sent word for to seek
For permission to go for a peal the next week.
Singing &c.

They went into changes with Pat fresh as paint,
With a bag full of raisins in case he felt faint;
While the villains stood sniggering outside the tower,
For the six-scores each lasted a good quarter-hour.
Singing &c.

When just ten hours later the fortieth was o'er,
Pat shouted: 'Let's strike it, there's only two more';
But see how his spirits they suddenly flag,
When he finds he's got no raisins left in his bag.
Singing &c.

He struggled and sweated, he puffed and he blew,
Until the last two-forty changes were through:
Then managed expiring to gasp: 'This is all,'
Then down on the floor like a doornail did fall.
Singing &c.

Below on his tombstone you'll find written:
'Stranger,
Of being unready observe here the danger;
For here on the grave of Pat Cannon you're gazin',
Who came to his death all for want of a raisin.'
Singing &c. J. G. M. S.

ROTHERHAM PARISH CHURCH

For some time there has been anxiety about the condition of the stonework of the central tower of Rotherham Parish Church. Parts of the surface inside and out are badly eroded due to weather and atmospheric pollution. Work has now started on cutting out and replacing badly-affected parts and on repainting. This work will proceed for a year or so, within limits of the funds available. It is not expected that ringing will be affected at all since the repairs concern the surfaces of the stonework only. Some of the pinnacles will be renewed.

FIRST PEAL PERFORMANCES

Wakefield Delight Triples.—Rung on May 14th, 1788, and is some form of Treble Bob Triples.

Wakefield Surprise Triples.—Rung on May 14th, 1788, and is actually Oxford Single Triples. Presumably the first peal of Single Oxford Bob Triples.

The following additions should be made to the 18th century Triples methods on page 391.

Bob Major Triples.—5,040 at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields on May 20th, 1738, by the Union Scholars. This method is a variation of Original Triples. Other peals so titled are presumably all Plain Bob Triples.

Crown Bob Triples.—5,040 at Halifax, St. John-the-Baptist's, on October 10th, 1787, by the Bradford Society.

Double Union or Crown Bob Royal Triples.—5,040 at Leeds, Yorks, on March 1st, 1771, by the Leeds Society. Presumably the first peal of Double Union Triples.

New Grandsire Triples.—5,040 at Horsham, on November 16th, 1777, by a local band of Cumberland Youths. Morris gives 5,040 at West Bromwich on April 21st, 1877. See Reverse Grandsire on page 253.

Royal Union or Crown Bob Triples.—5,040 at Leeds, Yorks, on September 22nd, 1769, by the Leeds Society. 'Consisting of three peals, viz.: College, London and Oxford Triples.' Presumably Spliced College Single, Fulham and Single Oxford Bob Triples.

Sheffield Triples.—5,040 at Rotheram in April, 1782, by the Sheffield Society.

The following Major and Royal were rung in the 18th century, in addition to the standard methods on pages 253 and 391.

Cambridge Surprise Major.—5,088 (false) at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on January 30th, 1780, by the London Youths. 5,152 (false) at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on February 23rd, 1783, by the College Youths. 6,048 at Sheffield on May 11th, 1787, by the Sheffield Society.

Double Eastern Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on January 12th, 1752, by the Eastern Scholars. Morris gives 5,088 Double Yorkshire Court at Selly Oak on January 6th, 1913.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

There was a fairly good attendance at the half-yearly meeting of the Swindon Branch at Bishopstone on June 14th, and ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major. No service was held owing to the absence of the Vicar, and Dr. Craig presided at the business meeting. One new member was elected and it was proposed that meetings be held at Hannington, Castle Eaton and Blunsdon, and Purton during the quarter ensuing. The Branch secretary gave a report of the Central Council meeting held in Dublin. Towers in the Branch were well represented and there was one visitor from Bedford.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Eight teams competed for the 29th annual shield contest, held at Silkstone on June 14th. Results and order of ringing were: Wakefield 10 penalties, 123 faults, total 134; Handsworth 25, 77, total 104; Sandal 5, 65, total 70; Shelley 64, Cawthorne 44, Thornhill rung out, Meltham rung out, Friezland 29. Friezland won the shield, and it is hoped to give a prize to the runners-up, Cawthorne.

The business meeting, which followed an excellent tea, was presided over by the Rev. G. H. Firth. Twelve new members were elected, and Shelley, near Huddersfield, was selected for the next meeting.

Mr. Noel F. Moxon proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens, to Mr. Harry Mann and the local ringers for making the local arrangements, and to the ladies for the tea. The shield was received by Mr. Joseph Burgess on behalf of Friezland ringers, and each member received a gent's hair brush and comb.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. & MRS. E. W. BIFFIN

Their fellow members of the Devon Guild and the St. Thomas', Exeter, band were pleased to extend their good wishes in the form of a peal to Mr. Edward W. Biffin and Mrs. Biffin, of 17, Sydney Road, St. Thomas', Exeter, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. The thanks of the band are herewith recorded for the entertainment which followed the first attempt (a failure).

The service which 'Ted' has rendered ringing in general in the Exeter District, St. Thomas', Exeter, and the Devon Guild in particular, 'will take some beating.' He came to St. Thomas', in 1923, was elected Ringing Master in 1926, and from 1946 has also held the post of steeple captain and Ringing Master combined. The reason why St. Thomas' has survived the rest in Exeter with a performing 'method band' is entirely owing to his ceaseless efforts to teach.

His other offices include Branch Ringing Master and past Central Council representative.

Good wishes from all for health and happiness in the future—on to the diamond!

RINGERS' SUNDAY AT BURTON-ON-TRENT

June 22nd was observed as Ringers' Sunday at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent. The first ringing of the day started at 7.30 a.m., when members attended the service of Holy Communion. An hour's ringing before the 11 a.m. service brought friends from South Derbyshire, and Grandsire Triples and Caters and Stedman Caters were rung. When ringing commenced at 5.20 p.m. for Evensong, more than 20 ringers were in attendance.

At the service lessons were read by Brian Deakin and June Key, and in place of an anthem a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells was rung by the following: A. G. Foster 1-2, G. Harrison 3-4, B. G. Key 5-6, Mrs. B. G. Key 7-8.

In his address the Rev. W. Willis Price made mention of bells and ringers. He stressed how all members of a team are equally important and should be united in offering all their ringing to the glory of God.

After the service more ringing took place, and further visiting ringers were welcomed from Derbyshire, Lichfield and Birmingham.

The Vicar and members of the congregation also climbed the 92 steps to the ringing chamber to watch the proceedings. At one time over 60 people were assembled in this fine belfry.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ST. ALKMUND'S, SHREWSBURY

Dear Sir,—St. Alkmund's bells were rehung in 1909 and rung regularly until 1913, when the first peal of Stedman Triples in Shrewsbury was rung on them. The band unfortunately split up and most immigrated to St. Chad's, where they got the bells recast and hung in less than 12 months. While we are given to understand there was a considerable sway on the steeple, no one seems to be able to say that it was condemned by any responsible architect as being in danger for ringing to take place. However, this seems to have been the reason put forward by the band for ceasing to ring there.

The bells were silent until 1921 when the late W. Saunders, of Coalbrookdale, took a band there during a Guild meeting. It was doubtful if official permission was either sought or granted for this.

On Easter Sunday morning, 1926, the late C. Lilley persuaded some of the younger members of St. Chad's to go with him to St. Alkmund's and ring for early service. Again, it is doubtful if permission was obtained. One of the company still rings at St. Chad's.

Around this time the top part of the steeple was reconstructed and three strong copper bands put around the top. However, there was still no ringing.

After the last war Mr. W. A. Farmer, who was then living in Shrewsbury, made repeated efforts to have a go on them, but the different vicars always backed out after promising to think about it.

St. Alkmund's now has a vicar who is keen enough to find out if his bells are ringable or not. After considerable work in cleaning out pigeons, etc., ropes were borrowed from St. Chad's and St. Mary's, and on Tuesday evening, June 10th, the bells were rung for a few minutes.

The Vicar had arranged for Mr. Bertram Miller (an architect from Liverpool who is also in charge of other work for the parish) to be there. There was certainly a sway on the top part of the spire, but no one could say if it was greater or less than before. The Ringing Master of the Shropshire Association (Mr. A. Pritchard) was present, and other ringers came from as far as Birmingham.

Mr. Miller thought that another opinion should be sought, and I understand that the Vicar is going to ask Mr. F. Sharpe if he can help us.

The bells went well considering they had not been rung for 32 years, and they are a very pleasant eight by Bryant (tenor 13 cwt.). We are all looking forward to ringing them again for further inspection.

F. G. BEDDOW.

CARTER'S ODD BOB

Dear Sir,—It might be of interest to your readers to mention that Mr. G. N. Trice called the above composition from each pair of handbells. The dates were as follow: July 4th, 1905; March 3rd, 1906; July 18th, 1906, and August 28th, 1906.

Mr. Henry Hodgetts, of Oxhey, took part in all the four peals, William Hodgetts and Hubert Eden three peals, Mr. F. W. Brinklow two peals, and the late Charles F. Winney one peal.

Mr. Trice always had umpires for handbell peals, and for the first peal the umpire was Hubert Eden, the second peal Arthur W. Dix, the third the late Harry R. Pasmore and the late J. W. Golding (this peal was rung at the Coffee Pot), and for the fourth the umpire was the late Alfred D. Bates.—Yours, etc.,

EDWIN JENNINGS.

CAPE TOWN RINGER'S THANKS

Dear Sir,—When I look back at the calendar, I am surprised that my stay in England was so short, for I seem to have done so much.

I came, having rung in three towers; I left with 20 times that number; and in remembering each of them and the happy hours in your company, in and out of the tower, I find a realisation of the brotherhood of ringers uppermost in my mind.

The phrase 'ringers' hospitality' is a byword; to experience it, a heartwarming revelation. That I was deeply sorry to have to leave England is a sure measure of the good time I've had, and my sincere thanks go out to everyone, ringer or no, who made us so very welcome.

For the immediate future, I can only hope that in Cape Town we shall be afforded opportunities to uphold this spirit of hospitality and friendship, not only as a traditional part of the South African way of life, but as an outpost of 'we happy few, we band of brothers.'—Yours sincerely,

VICTOR SHEPPARD.

Cape Town.

Another Tower Functioning

June 22nd was a great day at St. Margaret's Church, Whitwash, Leamington Spa, when the first quarter peal was rung by members of the tower and church. This has never before been achieved since the bells were hung in 1892.

The story of their training goes back two years. Mr. P. A. Oram, the captain, has now a band of 16 beginners, each of whom, he writes, could easily be of peal standard by the end of the year.

He expresses his sincere thanks to ringers of neighbouring towers for their help in teaching the band.

The quarter peal, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles, was rung by Ann Trindall (first quarter) 1, Christine Sanders (first quarter) 2, Jean Addicott 3, P. A. Oram 4, Ian Maycock (conductor, first quarter) 5, Derek Bedford (first quarter) 6.

FALSE COURSE ENDS

Dear Sir,—Mr. John L. Morris's reference to false course ends will be appreciated by all who are used to this type of nomenclature. His table of complementary and reciprocal False Course Ends (sorry, Heads) is excellent.

In connection with the article on this subject may I point out that if 64235 is substituted for 12345 on Scale B the final step (3) may be eliminated in both procedure I and II, as the rows, say, 65324 and 64352, etc., may be obtained direct.

I apologise for not spotting before that which, like Dr. Tarrasch's trap in the Ruy Lopez, is so obvious afterwards.—Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

Ryhill, Wakefield.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Central Bucks Chairman Retires

A record gathering of the members of the Central Bucks Branch honoured their revered chairman, Canon G. Dixon, by electing him as their first president at their annual meeting at Aston Abbots on June 14th.

Canon Dixon had been chairman of the Branch since its inauguration at Granborough in 1928, and after 30 years in the chair he decided to 'step down' to make way for a younger man. Saying what a wonderful chairman Canon Dixon had been, Mr. J. W. Hall made the proposition that he now become their president, and Mr. G. Edmans seconded.

Miss Marie Cross, the hon. general secretary of the Guild, also spoke very highly of the valuable work of Canon Dixon to the Branch and the Guild, and how the continuity of service of the officers of the Central Bucks Branch (the hon. secretary, Mr. F. Gibbard, having also done nearly 30 years' sterling service) had ensured the success of the Branch. She warmly thanked Canon Dixon on behalf of the Guild executive, and suggested that his name go forward to the annual meeting of the Guild for election as vice-president of the Guild. A resolution to this effect was later passed with acclamation.

To mark the occasion and to make the day complete, the Rev. F. J. Amies, who inaugurated the Branch in 1928, came to preach at the service.

Many old members whom Mr. Amies taught to ring in the Winslow area were present, and were seen reminiscing with him before and after the meeting. As Miss Cross aptly put it, Mr. Amies must have been justly satisfied to see in such a gathering the fruition of his work begun 30 years ago.

The treasurer and hon. secretary, Mr. F. Gibbard, reported a satisfactory balance of £21 7s. 10d., 135 members having paid up last year.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Chairman, Rev. C. E. Last; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. F. Gibbard; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. J. W. Hall; Ringing Masters, Mr. F. Gregory and Mr. G. Edmans; Branch representatives in Guild committee: Mr. G. Edmans, Mr. L. J. Gregory, Mr. J. W. Hall.

The meeting concluded with Canon Dixon thanking the meeting for the honours they had bestowed on him, and also the Vicar of Aston Abbotts for allowing the Branch to hold the meeting there, and the Rev. F. J. Amies, the local foreman Mr. F. Hines, and the caterers for such an excellent spread.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

A meeting of the Halesworth District was held at Southwold on June 14th, attended by about 30 members and visitors, and supported by Mr. L. G. Brett (Ringing Master of the Guild) and Mr. J. W. Blythe (general secretary). Ringing ranged from Bob Minor to Stedman Triples, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, everyone being provided for.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. W. A. Macfarlane) with Mr. F. W. Drew as organist. The lesson was read by the general secretary.

The Vicar extended a warm welcome to the members and gave a most interesting address, which was much appreciated.

Thanks were expressed to the Vicar and organist and Mr. R. S. Payne (District secretary) for the arrangements. It is hoped to hold the next meeting at Yoxford either the last Saturday in September or the first Saturday in October.

STORIES FROM SOME OF THE JUNE OUTINGS

ST. PETER'S, BRIGHTON

If the ingredients for a perfect outing include good company, good bells, weather, time-keeping, coach comfort, meals and, above all, perhaps, the welcome extended by the local incumbents and ringers, then we had all these and more on June 14th, when over 40 ringers and friends spent a happy day.

Arriving at St. Nicholas', Arundel, at 9 a.m., the pleasant eight with tenor of 13¼ cwt. were soon ringing out, whilst the non-ringers were busy with cameras focused upon the splendid edifice of the Castle. By some misfortune, we had omitted to bring our handbells, but Mr. Daughtrey and the local ringers most kindly loaned us theirs for the day. Later on, good use was made of them to touches of Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Major.

On to Portsmouth Cathedral, where the recently-restored ten were rung to various methods, including, as at all towers we visited, rounds for the 'new hands.' Here we had hoped to see Fred Burnett, a frequent visitor to St. Peter's, but business prevented him from welcoming us in person. Lunch at 'Kimbells' followed, and a well-contented party later boarded the coach for Curdridge. This melodious eight, with tenor of 26 cwt. in D, seemed to go best to Cambridge, although other methods were rung with varying success.

Thus to St. Mary's, Southampton, where the ringers alighted for an hour's enjoyable ringing whilst the non-ringers continued to the Docks for a sight-seeing boat trip of dockland. The party reunited for tea, after which, refreshed and replete, our return journey was via Shedfield, where we were met at the church by Miss Daysh. Here, with its cosily-circled ring of eight and its 12½ cwt. tenor, we were compelled to ring in relays through lack of elbow room. We were indeed sorry to leave this friendly little belfry, but time was pressing. Calling at Arundel to return the handbells, we later made the usual halt for refreshment, arriving at Brighton at a very respectable hour.

SHEFFIELD CATHEDRAL

The longest day, June 21st, was the date chosen for the Cathedral company's outing. The weather was not too kind. An 8 a.m. start was made by coach, from the Cathedral, by ringers and friends. Mr. Harry Parkes, who had just completed some work on the Cathedral bells, also came.

The first tower visited was St. Edward's, Leek, Staffs, where an hour's ringing on the light ten was much enjoyed. The venue for lunch was Stafford, followed by an hour's ringing at St. Mary's, also a nice light ten. A short run took the party to Uttoxeter, where an excellent high tea was followed by an hour's ringing at the Parish Church. These bells are a very fine and tuneful octave; the back six, we were told, were cast by Rudhalls.

The run to Ashmoor was by way of country lanes, and the party were met by the Vicar. After raising the bells, and at his request some rounds, shots and queens rung on the octave for the benefit of a wedding party in the village, the usual method ringing followed.

Most of the ringing during the day was quite good, and included up to Cambridge Major and Stedman Caters, also a touch of Spliced Plain and Little Bob Royal. A pleasing feature was the raising and lowering in peal.

Some of the Staffs and Derbyshire choicest scenery was seen, and the party arrived back home at 10.15, tired but happy. We extend our thanks to the tower-keepers and local people for their co-operation in making our outing a success.

PORTISHEAD AND WRAXHALL

With their friends from Wraxhall, over the hill,
The Portishead ringers a coach did fill;
To the lovely Wye Valley they were bound,
Where glorious scenery and bells are found.

The first stop was Thornbury, a very good ring,
But the ropes still retain considerable 'spring';
Tho' ten years (we're told) already they've [served—
Perhaps bells aren't rung so oft as deserved?

Ross-on-Wye, what a magnificent peal!
Here, Mr. Webb met us and made us feel
Quite at home; to him, 'Thanks very much'
For joining in Stedman and calling the touch.

Our outings wouldn't be quite the same
Unless we had a drop of rain;
So at Symonds Yat we didn't encroach
On the River Wye—but remained in the coach!

At Monmouth, we had some time to spare,
To wander round and stand and stare;
Then to the church, and soon found employment
In ringing the bells to the shoppers' enjoyment.

Then Tintern, on very banks of Wye,
Appetites we sought to satisfy;
And we must find room in this little ballad
To mention the ham, the tongue, and the salad!

Some round the Abbey then did wander,
On glory of towering walls did ponder
But one, who anonymous remains,
Made a tour of inspection of all the drains!

Then on to Lydney: we took our stand,
When emerged from aloft, with grease-gun in [hand
A figure—who need not here be named—
But in Police Force as well as in belfry he's famed.

Perhaps he had heard that our strength was fast burning,
Or maybe he was greasing the tenor he'd 'turn in.'
Whatever it was, we know that without him
We shouldn't have had such a wonderful outing.

SUTTON-ON-TRENT, NOTTS

The annual outing of the Sutton-on-Trent ringers with friends from Gamston, North Muskham, Newark, Retford, Southwell and Winthorpe took place on June 7th. The venue this year was Lincolnshire.

Leaving Newark at 8 a.m., the first tower to be visited was Stow. After climbing the 64 steps (the largest number of the day) ringers enjoyed these bells for an hour before leaving for Ouston, followed by ground floor ringing at Epworth and Broughton.

High tea was enjoyed at the Lord Nelson. After tea Caister was visited and then the village of Walesby. After climbing the hill for about one mile the tower was reached, but needless to say, some of the ringers were in need of bath chairs and not bells. Nevertheless, there was some good ringing after members had regained their breath. The final tower of the day was Nettleham, where ringing was completed at 9 p.m., and the party then left for home.

During the day Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, Single Oxford, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and St. Clement's were rung.

Thanks are expressed to incumbents, tower captains, Mr. F. W. Midwinter (who kindly acted as Ringing Master), and anyone who helped to make the day so enjoyable.

BROMHAM RINGERS IN RURAL SUFFOLK

The Bromham, Beds, ringers had their annual coach outing on June 7th to Suffolk, and they were joined by ringers from St. Paul's, Bedford, and other neighbouring towers. The driver's weakness in map-reading resulted in a late arrival at Bures. Our apologies for keeping Mr. Mills waiting! Consequently our time here was restricted to half-an-hour, in which we rang a course of Cambridge Major on this recently-augmented anti-clockwise eight. The beautifully-kept belfry was well noted!

The coach travelled by narrow country lanes to the church in the park at Assington, near the burned-out Manor House. Here the usual standard Minor methods were rung. We popped our noses into Essex to ring at Great Horkesley, where the mellow but rather rough-going bells are rung from a dark cell-like belfry illuminated by candlelight. Those who started their lunch here were soon interrupted and had to finish on the coach, and finally at Stoke-by-Nayland! Here one member strained the hospitality of mine hostess at the local hostelry by spreading his four-course meal out in the lounge, and then not ordering even a ginger beer! A prompt start was made on the recently retuned and restored bells (1956, by Taylors) and ringing included Double Norwich, Stedman and Duffield.

The really handy, musical light six at Polstead resulted in some very good brisk ringing with an all-ladies' band effort. A very welcome salad tea had been prepared at Hadleigh, and it was quickly disposed of by a hungry party! The handsome church with spire contained quite the roughest-going ring of the day, although the mellow grandeur of the bells couldn't be faulted, the tenor of 28 cwt., by Miles Graye in 1686, was the heaviest of the day. The tricky 'go' here didn't permit any very inspiring ringing. The bells at Monks Eleigh were reputed to be rather a humpy ring, but this did not prove to be so. Here an impromptu course of Double Stedman Slow Course Minor was successfully brought round.

And so finally to the highlight of the day—the famous tower at Lavenham. How superb the church looked against the setting sun! These bells are so well known for their magnificent and impressive tone that little need be said here; the tenor is, of course, another Miles Graye bell of 1625. The anti-clockwise ring did not hinder us in ringing some Double Norwich Kent T.B. and Cambridge Major and Stedman. We were very pleased to be able to extend our visit here, thanks to Mr. Stedman Symonds. Home was reached at 11.45.

All our thanks for a most enjoyable and well-organised day to Miss Mary Tysoe; many thanks, too, to the incumbents and everyone who met us.

'CAMPANAMANUAL.'

SUTTON-ON-THE-ISLE

A day's tour in Northamptonshire was enjoyed on the first Thursday in June by Sutton ringers and friends. Before lunch at Thrapston, ringing took place at Wilby, Isham and Finedon. In the afternoon Cranford St. John, Woodford and Great Addington were visited before reaching Irthlingborough for tea and a ring on the eight bells. The last tower of the day was Stanwick. Then came a call at the local for supper, and home was reached shortly after 11 p.m.

The thanks of the company are due to Mr. Donald Knights for making the arrangements and finding eight pleasant rings of bells. Incumbents and local ringers are also thanked.

BARKING, SUFFOLK

Some 30 Barking ringers and friends spent May 17th in Bedfordshire. Arlesey was reached in good time for the Rector to point out some of the interesting features of the church before the ringers made good use of the bells. Henlow proved to be a grand six. Afterwards at Biggleswade a good touch of Stedman was the highlight.

The first tower after lunch was Northill where, after ringing on the heavy six, Mr. Waggstaff kindly conducted us to the church museum where a course was rung on his set of saucer bells. The other two towers of the afternoon were Old Warden, where beautiful church carvings were admired, and Southill. After tea there was ringing at Elston, where there was much competition to ring the fifth—Bunyan's bell; Willington, and Blunham, a glorious ring, where the day's ringing was brought to an end with a good course of London and a lower in peal.

After one stop on the way, home was reached at approximately 12.30 a.m.

Methods rung during the day ranged from Plain Bob to London and Cambridge Minor, Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Major.

The thanks of the party are extended to R. E. Lester for his organisation of the tour, to J. B. Morley for his services as Ringing Master, to Ron Sharp, of Maulden, for his assistance, and to all clergy and local ringers L. N. M.

ST. MARY'S, WALTHAMSTOW

On the longest day of the year, with the weather trying hard to mar our enjoyment, 30 members, including wives and friends, met at 8 a.m. to board a coach which was to take them to various Essex villages en route for Clacton-on-Sea.

The first stop was at Tarling, where the church has a ring of five bells, recently rehung, so were in excellent going order. A pleasant surprise was a reception after ringing, the party adjourning to a very fine 'old world' house for drinks and biscuits at the invitation of Mrs. Whitehead and Mrs. Roalt.

Reluctantly the party took the road to Great Tey, where various methods were rung until 11.30 a.m. By this time appetites were beginning to develop, so the long run to Clacton was taken, where lunch had been reserved. All having been satisfied, the majority of the ladies and the non-ringers spent the time before tea on the sea front dodging showers of rain, whilst the ringing enthusiasts paid visits to Kirby-le-Soken and Great Bentley. Both these rings have tenors of about 10 cwt. and are in very good condition.

On the journey home stops were made at Coggeshall and Felsted. The former tower has been rebuilt, replacing the original which was destroyed by enemy action. It is a very solid-looking structure, well worthy of the magnificent bells it contains. The tenor weighs 19 cwt., and the Double Norwich which was rung was probably the best touch of the day, these bells emphasising the musical qualities of this method. Felsted bells are shortly to be rehung, and although the going is rather bad, several touches were brought round. After half-an-hour's conviviality, the return was made, everybody being quite satisfied that another St. Mary's outing had been well and truly enjoyed.

Thanks are due to incumbents and Ringing Masters, with a special mention to the ladies who so hospitably entertained us at our first stopping place. H. R.

LLANDAFF, GLAM.—On June 21st, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: J. Armitage 1, A. Smith (first quarter) 2, R. Hughes 3, Jill Birch 4, Penelope Welch (cond.) 5, G. Marchant 6, J. Woodham 7, M. Bennett 8. For the inaugural service of the Llandaff Cathedral Festival Week of Music and Drama.

WARMINSTER, WILTS

For the past three years the Warminster ringers have combined their annual outing with a reunion with the former secretary of their tower, Mr. Norman Pearson, now headmaster of Haslemere C.E.P. School. Once again Mr. Pearson arranged their outing, and June 14th, the chosen date, was a beautiful day for the occasion. The ringers came up in three cars, meeting the Pearson family at Basingstoke. That is to say two cars arrived, the third having broken down on the way, suspiciously enough, with the only lady in the Warminster party!

The party rang on the famous nine at All Saints' and the fine eight at St. Michael's, the delays somewhat curtailing the time allowed. Lunch was taken at Aldershot, and then ringing was enjoyed at the Parish Church, where the party was welcomed by Major E. J. Bragg, Mr. W. Viggers and Mrs. Stewart.

A lovely run through the Surrey and Hampshire countryside was followed by ringing at two beautiful village churches—Frensham, where Mr. Heath, the captain, met the party, and Blackmoor, one of the most delightful settings one could wish to see, where the Vicar (Canon Somerset-Ward) was waiting. After ringing at Aldershot, Mrs. Pearson had dashed back to Haslemere, and when the party arrived there punctually at 5 it was to find tea waiting on the lawn of the School House. After tea another beautiful village and church were visited—Steep, Hants, where Miss Roberts gave the ringers a warm welcome.

As there was a preponderance of beginners, Grandsire and Bob Doubles were rung mainly, though some Stedman and Grandsire Triples were brought round. The Warminster captain's 'pièce-de-résistance'—a touch of Plain Bob Minor—however, failed to come round!

SYSTON, LEICESTERSHIRE

On June 14th the clans began to gather for the eighth annual outing organised by the St. Peter's ringers.

The first call was at Banbury, where the pleasant ten were put to good use. On to Bicester, where after mastering the peculiarities of the tenor rope, some very enjoyable ringing was produced. By this time we all had a large appetite—which was perhaps as well, as we were faced with an extremely large lunch.

The slightly uncomfortable 'full' feeling was worked off on the beautiful eight at Ambrosden (tenor 20 cwt. 1 qr. 6 lb.). Here again the ringing was good—as it deserved to be. The large, airy belfry at Buckingham tended to put off some of our more timid members, especially when they saw the height of the tenor box. Perhaps the organisers knew what they were doing when they put the heaviest ring of the day just before tea.

The last tower was Stoney Stratford, where we lost half of the company to the fairground next to the church.

Thanks are due to all who made the day such a memorable one.

KINGSBURY, LONDON

On June 14th ringers and friends of St. Andrew's, Kingsbury, went by motor coach for a tour through the Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire countryside. Stops for ringing were made at Twyford, Witney, Wantage, Piddington and Wendover, where everybody enjoyed ringing bells new to them.

Thanks are due to incumbents, ringers and tower masters who made everyone welcome.

MARPLE, CHESHIRE.—On June 1st, 1,272 Kent Treble Bob Minor: D. Stafford 1, M. Mackay (first of Treble Bob) 2, F. Osbaldiston 3, B. Groves 4, W. H. Dowse 5, A. McFall and R. Smith (conducted) 6. For evening service, and for the ordination of the new curate the same day at Chester.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

Record Attendance At Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Society was held as usual at Lichfield on June 21st. The showery weather did not affect the attendance, 124 sitting down to tea, the largest number at an annual meeting for some years. Ringing during the afternoon and evening took place at the Cathedral and St. Mary's and St. Michael's churches. A break with tradition was the holding of the service at St. Michael's, the beautiful little church on Greenhill. This service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. H. Allen) who also gave a most interesting address. Tea was served in St. Michael's Church Hall, and a bountiful meal was provided by the Lichfield ringers.

At the meeting which followed, an apology was received from Mr. F. Colclough, of Bilston. Mr. F. Brotherton (hon. treasurer) presented the accounts, which showed a balance in hand of £68 15s. 7d., this being an increase of £4 6s. 4d. on the previous year.

Giving the committee's report, Mr. F. Bennett (lay secretary) mentioned that the attendances at the Society's meetings during the year under review had averaged 78 per meeting, a figure which compared favourably with those of any other Association in the country. It had been very encouraging to see the large number of young ringers attending the Society's meetings. In October a joint meeting had been held with the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire Association, and this had been a most enjoyable occasion.

Mr. G. Hughes (Ringing Master) reported that the number of peals rung was 43 compared with 47 the previous year. Sunday service ringing had been well maintained.

Mr. B. G. Kay (Central Council representative) reported on his recent visit to the Central Council meeting in Dublin.

The chairman (Ven. W. A. Parker, Archdeacon of Stafford) said it was obvious from the reports he had heard that the affairs of the Society were moving along smoothly. He was particularly pleased to hear of the interest being shown in ringing by the members of the younger generation.

The officers elected were: Ringing Master, Mr. Clive Smith; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. Brotherton; clerical secretary, Rev. C. H. Barker; lay secretary, Mr. F. Bennett; peal secretary and auditor, Mr. E. E. Speake. A new appointment was that of Mr. D. Tranter to be assistant secretary.

Meetings for the next 12 months were provisionally arranged as follows: August, Barton-under-Needwood; October, Brewood; January, Bradly or Coseley; March, St. Peter's, Wolverhampton; May, Hoar Cross; June, Lichfield (annual).

Mr. E. E. Speake then presented the proposed alterations to the Society's rules which he and his sub-committee had drafted. The formal proposition to accept these was duly carried. After an interesting discussion a proposal that the annual subscription be increased from 2s. to 3s. was carried by a large majority.

Thanks to the Archdeacon of Stafford for taking the chair, the Rev. H. Allen for taking the service and the use of his church hall and bells, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sedgwick, Miss Jill Morgan and the Lichfield ringers for providing such an excellent tea, the Cathedral authorities and Preb. Cresswell for the use of their bells, brought the meeting to a close. F. C. A. B.

OBITUARY

MR. H. PRICE

It is with regret that we have to announce the death of Mr. Harry Price, of Beeston, at the early age of 49 years.

Son of the late Percy Price, of Beeston, he joined the Midland Counties Association in 1925, and at that time Beeston had one of the best change-ringing bands in the Midlands.

He was Ringing Master at Beeston Parish Church until the bells went out of action; since then he had been a regular ringer at St. Mary's, Nottingham.

Mr. Price was building and maintenance manager for Boots Pure Drug Co., and his work took him to various parts of the country. He also took a lively interest in Freemasonry, and was Worshipful Master of the Old Priory Lodge No. 2594 in 1956.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. F. M. Price, and one daughter, Miss G. F. Price. Cremation at Wilford Hill was preceded by a service at Beeston Parish Church, attended by members of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, and conducted by the Rev. A. H. Wyatt. S.A.

MR. WILLIAM PAGE

With regret we announce the death of a pioneer of change-ringing in South Wales by the death of Mr. William Page, at the age of 80, in the little village of Pentrie, Rhondda Valley.

For approximately 40 years Mr. Page had rung at St. Peter's Church, Pentrie, and the sound of the muffled bells announced his passing to the village, where he was greatly beloved.

Mr. Page had rung about 70 peals, including the longest peal in Wales (6,120 changes at Llantrisant). The funeral service was on June 14th, and in brilliant sunshine handbells were rung at the graveside to his memory.

BELLS AND A UNIVERSITY

CEREMONIES commemorating the 50th anniversary of the dedication of Alice Freeman Palmer memorial chimes in Mitchell tower of Chicago University took place on June 9th. The ceremonies included the dedication in the ringing chamber of a bronze plaque in memory of Roy B. Nelson, who was the first chime master, holding the office from 1909 until 1919. The bells were also re-dedicated. Before and after these ceremonies chime concerts were given by James R. Lawson, University carillonneur and present Mitchell tower chime master, and Bruce Cushna, a student chimer.

The Palmer memorial bells were cast at the Whitechapel foundry and brought to Chicago University and dedicated on June 9th, 1908. For the past 50 years the bells have been rung an average of three times a day. At one time the bells sounded every 15 minutes mechanically, and the old clock mechanism still stands in the ringing chamber with other objects of the campanological museum. The mechanism was, however, turned off in 1932 when the Parsifal chime of the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel was employed as the regular time-keeper for the University.

Also silent today is the change-ringing, which makes the Mitchell tower unique among the bell towers of the United States. The Mitchell tower was modelled after Magdalen tower, Oxford, with ten bells installed for change-ringing. For a brief period change-ringing was actually practised at this tower by a band of eight ringers imported from England. On November 21st, 1908, the first extent was rung on the bells — 720 Plain Bob Minor in 26 minutes. One of the original band, Francis J. Rumens, is still living in Chicago. By 1911, however, change-ringing had stopped. A letter from David A. Robinson, secretary to the president, written in 1914, contained the following commentary: 'We were never able to do much with change-ringing owing to the nervousness of our neighbours.'

Tune-playing, on the other hand, was practised from the first and never allowed to lapse. Each night at 10.5 one of the members of the Society Campanariorum (Society of Bell-ringers) rings the 'Alma Mater.' This is done in compliance with a request made by a former coach, Amos Alonzo Stagg, who in 1904 gave the University a cheque for 1,000 dollars for a 'good-night chime' for U.C.'s athletes. Stagg hoped the chime's 'sweet cadence' would serve as a 'last word with them before they fell asleep; to speak to them of love and loyalty and sacrifice for their University, and of hope and inspiration and endeavour for the morrow.'

Although the days of Chicago's football fame are history, and it is doubtful that today's athletes are in bed by 10.5, the tradition is still maintained. (Rumour has it that Stagg set the curfew at 10.30, thus the gridmen had 25 minutes to go from their girl friends' homes to the dormitories or fraternities.)

Listeners to this bell benediction may occasionally hear immediately following the 'Alma Mater' an Alpha Delta Phi fraternity song, for the ringing has been performed for several years by student chimer Cushna and other members of this fraternity.

The Chicago bell-ringers try to maintain a campanological link between Mitchell tower and its Magdalen tower prototype. Annually, on January 30th, the tenor of 2,443 lb. in the Mitchell tower is tolled to commemorate the anniversary of the beheading of Charles I. Oxford in those days was predominantly a Royalist University. Each spring, during the University Festival of the Arts, the Society sponsors the 'Mitchell Tower Spring Ceremony.' This is patterned on the annual May Day Morning ceremony at Magdalen, which involves the singing of the Latin hymn 'Hymnus Eucharisticus.' At Mitchell tower the ceremony is re-enacted with chime music, brass choir and English handbells.

This summer Mr. Lawson will be in Europe playing concerts on an electronic carillon installed at the Brussels World Fair. While abroad he hopes to visit Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and study means of reactivating the Mitchell tower bells for change-ringing.

Ashford District

The old Norman church of Brabourne, peacefully situated in a large but thinly-populated parish, was the scene of meeting of the Ashford District on June 28th. Ringing began shortly after 2.30 p.m. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. O. W. Thompson Evans). Mr. G. Keith Finn read the lesson, and Master A. Finn was at the organ. After the service the visitors were the guests to a most lavish tea, kindly given by the Brabourne ringers and served on the lawn of Mr. L. B. Finn's home.

A short business meeting, at which three new members were elected, was followed by Grandsire Caters on Mr. Pearson's handbells. We gather that these have recently been heard in various parts of Ireland, and Mr. Pearson pointed out that they originally came from Brabourne.

Mr. J. R. Cooper, speaking on behalf of the visitors, thanked the Rector for the use of the bells, and the Brabourne band, especially the Finn family, for their generous hospitality.

Afterwards ringing continued at Brabourne until about 8.30, and at the even more remote tower of Stowting until 9. C. T. H.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The June meeting was held at Woodlesford on the 28th. The attendance was small, but the six bells were kept busy during the afternoon and evening, and a variety of methods from Plain Bob to London were rung.

A short break was made for tea and the business meeting. The home-made tea at a moderate charge was much enjoyed by all present, and Mr. J. F. Hodson expressed the Society's thanks to the local company.

The next meeting will be held at Calverley on July 26th.

SOCIETY OF SHERWOOD YOUTHS

The June meeting of the Society of Sherwood Youths was held jointly with the recently-formed Nottingham University Society at Colston Bassett. Although ringing was not possible until after tea, the eight bells were put to good use until about eight p.m. A variety of methods were rung and a good standard of striking was maintained. The special method for the meeting (Yorkshire Surprise Major) was successfully brought round several times. All members agreed that the meeting had been very successful. This was emphasised by the good attendance.

RUDDINGTON LADY RINGER'S WEDDING

The weekly practice on June 20th at St. Peter's, Ruddington, Notts, was marked by a very pleasant interlude, when Miss M. E. Hill (Margaret) was presented with a handsome little clock and breadboard and knife on the occasion of her wedding on the following day to Mr. J. A. Pollard (Jim), of Nuthall.

The tower captain, Mr. Sydney Adams, said how much the ringers had appreciated the time and skill which Margaret had brought to the tower, and what a great help she had been in the successful performance of the several peals in which she had taken part.

Mr. Bartlam, in presenting the gifts on behalf of her ringing friends, not only in Ruddington but amongst the neighbouring towers, said that he was proud to think that he had some small part in introducing her to the belfry and to the art of change ringing, and that he hoped she would look on these gifts as a tangible token of the goodwill and affection of her ringing friends, and an expression of their good wishes for a happy and successful future with her husband.

Her wedding on the following morning was celebrated by the Vicar (the Rev. A. C. Shrimpton) and was supported by the organist and choir, as well as the belfry.

The occasion was suitably marked by the ringing of a peal at the neighbouring village of Bunny on the same evening. S. A.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. J. A. Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and also of the Cathedral ringers, had the honour of being presented to H.M. the Queen and Prince Philip during their visit to Lincoln Cathedral on June 27th. The royal visitors asked him several questions about the bells and ringers. The visit was followed by a peal of Stedman Cinques in honour of the occasion.

The tenor ringer to the quarter peal at Pulham Mary on June 5th was Mr. P. D. T. Cattermole, and not as printed.

After a quarter peal in honour of their silver wedding, Mr. Cecil Matthews (captain of Waltham ringers) and Mrs. Matthews hospitably entertained the band. Unfortunately, a peal attempt failed.

There was a record attendance of 132 at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild at Canterbury last Saturday. Mrs. Lock was re-elected president and Miss D. Colegate hon. secretary. A new office, that of hon. treasurer, was made with the appointment of Miss Joan Beresford.

The peal rung at Weston-in-Gordano on June 25th was arranged as a 21st birthday peal for the conductor. The tenor ringer is now in his 40th year of ringing.

Mr. Joseph Wanby, who has joined the Westhoughton, Lancs, tower, rang his first peal for 26 years on June 25th at St. Mary's, Deane. His previous peal was of Double Norwich at Preston. He is still a young and healthy man and should prove a good asset to his new tower.

A Bedfordshire correspondent writes regarding the shorter skirts now in fashion as seen on a recent outing: Is bell-ringing a form of beauty culture hitherto unappreciated, or whether all the ladies of Bedfordshire are specially endowed with charm!

A peal of Stedman Caters was rung at Liverpool Parish Church on June 25th as a welcome to the Rev. G. C. C. Pepys, who was inducted and instituted Rector of Liverpool two days previously. During the ringing for the induction the tenor clapper broke, and it was a rush job to get it welded in time for the peal. This was done through the good offices of Mr. T. S. Horridge, a member of the local band. Apparently it was an ardent Roman Catholic who actually did the job, and his comments were said to be somewhat biting! Ringers will be interested to know that Fr. Pepys learned to ring while he was a student at Cuddesdon, and he can hunt the treble. Also, the latest addition to the staff of Liverpool Parish Church is the Rev. Ian Campbell, well known to Merseyside ringers as a very useful man in the tower. Have an incumbent and one of his curates ever taken part in a peal together on their own bells? Perhaps they will at Liverpool soon.

Who was the conductor who talked so fast recently in Stedman that he got a whole pull in front of the changes? enquires a correspondent from Buckinghamshire.

Will those intending to be present at the Peterborough Branch meeting of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild at Deeping St. James please note that the date of this meeting is Saturday, July 19th, not July 12th as stated in our issue of July 4th (page 439).

An anonymous donor to our Gratefully Acknowledged column writes: 'With best wishes to "The Ringing World" and to the "Brass Hats" of ringing from a ringer who has had "The Ringing World" for 35 years except for Friday, May 7th, 1926, has rung a few good peals and has rung for thousands of Sunday services.'

STEEPLE CHASING WITH A DIFFERENCE

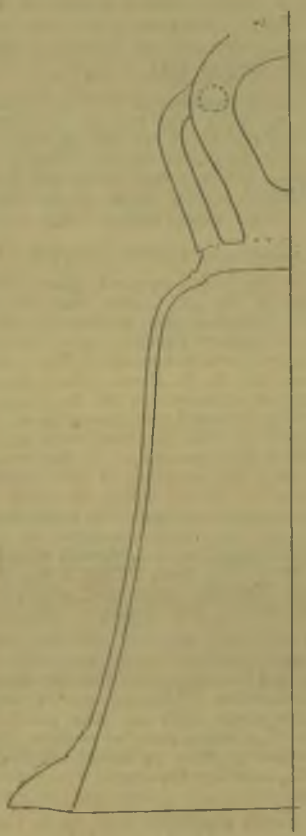
By GEORGE P. ELPHICK

MOST of us like visiting new towers, to ring on different bells and to enjoy the company and friendliness of the local ringers; making new contacts and renewing old, all the time strengthening that bond of friendship that is the crowning glory of our Exercise. The author has recently enjoyed a holiday, officially in Dorset, but including expeditions into Somerset, Wilts and Hants. The difference is that he not only enjoys meeting new ringers, but the bells they ring as well. To attempt, by studying their works, to ferret out the founders' techniques; to admire good craftsmanship and relate it to the spirit of the times in which they lived, so building a mental picture of the character of the men who cast them.

Ringers often talk about 'long-waisted' bells—a term that is very flexible, far too flexible to be of any real use to the archæologist. Perhaps bells of archaic shape convey one's mental picture of some early bells to a better degree. For the truly long-waisted bell is very far from the conventional form, although it occasionally, by means of the layman's hazy ideas on bell shape, finds its way into some badges.

The bells one has in mind are very old, so old in fact that in attempting to place them in the historical scale one has to feel forward through the misty period before the 13th century, where signposts to help us are few and far between. It is as though one is traversing a valley filled with the mists of time and the sun shining on the high ground on either side. From the glory of the early 14th century founders established at London, Gloucester, Bristol and Leicester we enter the mists and the period when the present general bell shape was evolved. Our signposts will be varied and occur in the most unexpected places. It has to be experienced to understand the thrill one gets when the blinkers drop off and a new technique is revealed by minute marks on an ancient bell.

NEW TECHNIQUE



The bellfounders' window at York Minster, as a signpost, shows the technique of the lathe-turned cores and models, also the use of a smoothing iron on moulds forming bells with a very high crown. No bells of that period (c. 1330), at least in the southern part of England, show such marks, so we must assume that this is an early method that had lingered on at York, whereas the more advanced southern founders used to strickle up their moulds in the same position as we do today. It may be considered as a signpost that is not telling us the whole truth. Were we to find a signpost half way across our valley with no numerals, as is often the case, it may indicate a development half way between our known fixed points, but not necessarily half way in a time scale. It is like some Dorset posts indicating a distance, yet one often finds half-a-mile further on the same distance is shown.

From the early 14th century, when the internal curve was continuous from lip to crown, we move down to when its lower end was a straight line across the soundbow section as our first signpost at Claughton, dated 1296, shows. A pair of bells at Thorley by their inscription can be placed between 1260–85, and have the same type of internal curve as Claughton. They are much longer but not archaic; yet some 60 years earlier Caversfield (1207–19) shows a bell of totally different shape. The sloping straight line of the soundbow area has become horizontal.

We have by now arrived at two signposts, which while not showing the same numerals, are exaggerated in the opposite direction to our Dorset example. One of those short miles a tired traveller longs to see. It would appear that Thorley is an early example of its shape, and Caversfield a late one, indicating late 12th century fashions in bell design. These are the last of our datable examples, and our signposts as the mist thickens will assume several different forms. One will not, as previously, have to study the shape of letters and founders' marks, but signs indicating what materials they used for their moulds, how they formed their models and head moulds, how they joined them together, their use of moulding wires and how they set out their bell's shape.

A ROMAN BELL

On the other side of our valley standing out of the mists of time we have some firm posts rooted in the Celtic Church. Across an even deeper valley on the far-distant side, one tiny, solitary bell, said to date back to Roman times, remains. It is now in the Pitt Rivers Museum close to the village of Farnham nestling in a secluded Dorset valley. It was a most unexpected find while steeple-chasing—a small, diminutive cast bronze bell, not more than one-and-a-half inches in diameter, of the old-fashioned beehive shape. Its founder of long, long ago appears to have formed three rings of wax of diminishing size, stuck them together, smoothed the inside and fastened a loop on top to form the wax model of his intended bell. He then covered it with clay, and after baking it to remove the wax poured in the molten metal, the result being a tiny bell, like those used by the Babylonians and Greeks.

HANFORD, DORSET
Half Sectional Drawing
of Bell.

Now on the highest peak across our valley are the sheet-iron bells used by St. Patrick and other Celtic saints. Just like the clucket sheep bells that used to sound over our English downland—straight-sided bells of equal thickness and rectangular in plan. St. Patrick died about 463, which gives us a firm date for his bell. By the next century it appears that bells of the same shape were cast of bronze by the waste wax process, like their distant Roman predecessor. One of our next signposts is St. Finan's bell. It is cast in bronze and has a most important difference—a lip to strengthen the part that so easily cracked in the earlier bells. The incredible thing is that there still are many bells left in our land, in that foggy, historical valley, with soundbows of identical section. Half-a-century later, in the late 7th century, we find another cast bronze bell at Dumbarton, not rectangular in shape as the others, but approaching that of an octagon.

AN 11TH CENTURY MS.

Here we enter the mists, until the 11th century where, on a solitary peak, we have a glorious view provided by a manuscript written by a master craftsman, who was also a craftsman of explicit instruction. He tells us all his secrets in the designing of cymbals, moulding, casting and tuning church bells of no mean size. Circular bells, whose cores were turned in a lathe, whose models were made from sheets of wax of equal thickness, and whose soundbows were joined to the waist by means of a hot iron, leaving marks similar to that of the workers in lead in joining their sheets and pipes of a century ago. Except for two brief notes by 13th century monks, these were the first and last written instructions on the bell-founders art until the 19th century—a gap in documentary evidence of 800 years.

A post of direction which is easily missed in the Saxon period indicates that their founders moulded everything by the waste wax process; they do not appear to have been acquainted with piece moulding as were the Bronze Age peope that built the strongholds and earthworks that litter Dorset and Wilts. Back on our side of the valley, a similar post is the fresh surge of inspiration provided by the Early English architecture with its parallel—the development of the traditional bell shape. Does it not suggest that there is a little-known signpost somewhere just after the mid-11th century, telling us that the Norman founders brought the art of piece moulding to this land? If we find it, then one may assume that bells entirely moulded by the waste wax process are pre-1066, and partially piece moulded bells after that well-known date. Of course, one would have to allow a reasonable overlap of the two techniques.

TELL-TALE MARKS

If one is walking over the hills, through woods or lanes covered by mist, it is fascinating at a turn of the path to find a vista enriched by a shaft of sunlight piercing the gloom. The views that are fascinating, when one is steeple-chasing in our misty valley, are the signs of new techniques such as the canons at Brympton formed over a bundle of straw, the surface textures that tell one if the casting was done in sand or loam, tell-tale marks as Richard Tunnoc's smoothing iron at Sutton Bingham, and the blotchy surface at Bramshaw with its grain shucks and apparently crumpled threshed ears of barley that protruded from the model. Bells with signs that their moulds were parted at the lip, as to us is normal, can tell us many things—still more, when they were parted elsewhere. Soundbows of all shapes: straight-sloping interior faces, horizontal and even tilting so that the interior edge is lower than the lip—all for a purpose, that are signposts in our misty valley. Canons moulded in a variety of ways, moulding wires that tell us why they were formed and how; all are signposts in our search for knowledge.

All these thoughts were occasioned by the countryside which one has been visiting, by its few inaccurate signposts and by a few bells scattered among their mediæval sisters and later generations stretching down to today. They were triggered off by a bell that surely must be well up the other side of our misty valley, toward that 11th century peak or even beyond—who knows?

A family church, so secluded that one can wander round the mansion that has nurtured it and still miss it within a clump of sheltering trees. A church crowned by this small bell, not even carrying an inscription, and usually lumped together with all uninscribed bells as uninteresting. That may be so, until the blinkers drop, and one sees through the eyes of an 11th century monk—a master craftsman at work. Bells of that period appear to have been the property of the priest, as were the chalice and missal. They may or may not have wandered from their original home, but the one in mind rests in that secluded church nestling by the water meadows between the Iwerne and Stour. Hanford is its name.

EARLY MOULDING WIRES

The sectional drawing tells us many things, as do other bells of the same type. The straightness of its sides of unvarying thickness, the shape of its soundbow, as was described by that 11th century monk. Its model was made entirely by wax as is proved by the projections on either side of the mouth and lip, shown dotted. Projections caused by the founder piercing his one-piece mould through the wax model soundbow, to let the air in as the wax was melted out during the baking process. Here, too, we have the origin of the now familiar moulding wires. Where the wax soundbow section met that of the waist, this artist in metal covered the joint with a wide band of wax, its edges being again masked by two narrow, very flat strips. Our modern bells still have three moulding wires at the junction of soundbow and waist. Their first use fading and altering to serve in holding the later loam models to the cope, and still surviving the changing scene when the use of loam models disappeared, being still retained today—just because men liked them. Fortunately, the monstrosities without these ornamental bands are very few, and rarer still are bells that have suffered in the turning machine by not only having their interior surfaces ploughed but their entire outside surface, with grooves where moulding wires should be and inscriptions engraved.

Again at Hanford, where the head mould joins the waist, we have another narrow band—the forerunner of the moulding wires found on the crowns of our modern bells. The argent and canons are complete and show signs of distortion as the loam was pressed round their wax patterns. 'Straws indicate the way the wind blows' is a true saying. It is the little marks on the mould, the bending stresses that show on the surface of the loam as it was fitted over the model that tell us much—just as much, if not more than the finest Lombardic lettering. They tell of the spirit in which the mould was made, the character of the man who made it, often rough and crude, sometimes refined. They often themselves prove to be signposts pointing the way through the valley of time, onward and upward to the source of all knowledge—the author of all things.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

An experimental evening meeting was held at the Church of St. Michael, Farnsfield on June 14th.

The bells were raised in peal soon after 6.15 p.m., and ringing in a wide variety of Doubles methods continued, under the direction of the District Ringing Master (Mr. J. D. Clarke) until 8.30 p.m.

The success of the meeting may be judged by the fact that the attendance of 25 ringers represented no less than ten different towers, and no less than 12 Doubles methods were rung or attempted. A collection for the bell repair fund realised 10s. 7d.

The Rector (Rev. K. B. Frampton) joined the ringers later and welcomed them to his church, and the thanks of the ringers was conveyed to him by the secretary. W. L. E.

SAHAM TONEY BELLS

By JOHN S. BARNES

ONE of the finest rings of six bells in Norfolk is that at St. George's, Saham Toney. The tower, standing on rising ground overlooking the village, was completed about the year 1480, and the earliest mention of bells occurs in the 1552 inventory when the commissioners found three, weighing 12, 14 and 18 cwt. During the next century their number was increased to five, and in 1841 a sixth was added, being placed in a separate frame resting on the old frame. Charles Newman recast the third in 1697, Messrs. Warners the fourth in 1898 and Dobson the fifth in 1812.

Such was the position in 1934, by which time repair of the fabric had become necessary and the play in the joints of the old oak frame made it unsuitable for further ringing. Two bells needed recasting—the treble and the fifth, one of them having been badly damaged through a clock weight having fallen on it.

MR. E. H. LEWIS' VIEWS

Considerable discussion took place regarding the future of the old frame, and the church authorities consulted the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Buildings as to its value as a specimen of craftsmanship. On behalf of the Society, Mr. E. H. Lewis visited the village and made an examination of the frame. By measurement he found that the width of the pits was sufficient to take the three bells mentioned in the Edwardian inventory. In particular, the diameter of a bell weighing 18 cwt. would have been about 3 ft. 10 in., whilst the width of the largest pit was 4 ft. 1¼in. He concluded that the frame was that which contained the bells in 1552, and further, as no renewal would have been required in so short a time, it was the first frame put into the tower and probably contemporary with it, and should be preserved.

Mr. Lewis also reported that the fine 17th century bells could not weigh more than 43 cwt. and that this corresponded with the 44 cwt. of metal listed in the 1552 inventory. It appeared to him that about 1614 the three pre-Reformation bells were recast into five without the addition of metal in order to satisfy the desire for more bells, and that the frame was mutilated to take them.

If the parish wanted its bells to be rung and not chimed, as indeed it did, there arose the question of the means of preservation. Both the British Museum and Norwich Castle Museum were unable to find room for a somewhat cumbersome bell cage, and a suggestion that it should be stored in the churchyard was abandoned, because even under cover it would have led to more rapid decay. Eventually it was decided to remove the 1841 addition and to raise the structure some 15 feet in the tower at a cost of £73, and to support it on four 11×11 in. pine stilts.

There it stands today, a fine example of mediæval craftsmanship, particularly interesting because its older portions consist of a 3-bell frame of 'post' type with an early and unusual type of bracing.

From the 1841 addition a model was made of the original frame, and this is now in the St. Peter Hungate Museum, Norwich.

Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, was entrusted with the task of installing a new frame of teak, of recasting the treble and fifth, of retuning the remaining bells and of rehanging all six on plain bearings.

CRACKS IN TOWER

Before the frame could be installed the tower, cracked on its western side from top to bottom by a settlement, had to be stitched by reinforced concrete. In addition, a secondary crack was beginning on its eastern side, and in order to bind the walls together two rings of reinforced concrete were placed around the interior of the bell chamber, one immediately below where the new frame would stand and one just under the roof. This work was carried out by Messrs. Keeke Vout, of Watton, a local firm. The architect was the late Mr. John E. Burton, of Norwich, himself a ringer, and whose death occurred in 1957, the incumbent being the Rev. M. H. Richmond. Canon Richmond is still Rector of Saham Toney, and has in fact given considerable assistance in the preparation of this article.

Dedication took place on October 18th, 1936, by Dr. Pollock, Bishop of Norwich. No ringing was possible on that day due to the amount of concrete in the tower not being properly set, and none took place until several weeks later.

2nd: Anno Domini 1622. (5 cwt.)

4th: Recast by John Warner & Sons Ltd, London, 1898. Hung by G. Day & Son—Eye Iterum Refecta Sono MDCCCXCVIII. (8 cwt. 10 lb.)

5th: The Rev. V. David Williams, Rector, 1812. Rev. Robert Rolfe, Curate and Ch. Wdn Hugh Boughton the other Ch. Wdn. Recast by Bowell, Ipswich 1936. (10 cwt. 56 lb.)

On their crowns, 2 and 6 have three shields: Norwich City, Brayser, and A B. W

So great is the antiquarian value of the mediæval frame and so fine is the standard of 20th century bell-casting, tuning and hanging at Saham Toney, that ringers on tour in Norfolk ought to try and include the tower in their programme. They would be well rewarded.

SATURN TREBLE BOB DOUBLES

Dear Sir,—Your postscript to the peal of Saturn Treble Bob Doubles, rung at Hascombe on June 8th, is quite correct. The peal does not conform to the Decisions of the Central Council

However, the reason given by the Peals Analysis Committee for the exclusion of the first peal of Saturn Treble Bob Doubles, rung last year, is not valid. Methods which are false in the plain course can be included in peals. The peal is not recognised because the blocks of 240 changes do not conform to the Practical Conditions Required for Peals.

Methods which are false in the plain course and also methods which have jumping changes can be included in peals, provided that the composition satisfies the Practical Conditions Required for Peals.

Personally I am in agreement with those who say that such methods should not be included in recognised peals. However, as the Decisions stand at the moment, such methods must be recognised. For this reason I think the following should be added to the Practical Conditions Required for Peals:—

'On all numbers of bells the methods rung must be Acceptable Methods

An Acceptable Method is such that:—

(ii.) The Plain Course is true within itself;

(iii.) The Plain Course contains no jumping changes.

The use of different types of bobs with only one Plain Course does not give rise to several methods. Each Plain Course defines one method only.'

Such as amendment to the existing Conditions would mean the exclusion from the Peals Analysis of methods false within the plain course and also those having jumping changes. It would also mean that the Central Council recognises that Plain Bob and April Day Doubles are one and the same method.

Regarding the peal of Erin Doubles rung last year. This was included in the analysis, which was accepted by the Council when the Peals Analysis Committee presented its report. Under 'Any other business' it was proposed that the peal should be deleted, even though the Council had already accepted it. This motion was, quite rightly, rejected. But those who proposed, seconded and voted for it, showed their ignorance of what they were voting for when they accepted the Peals Analysis report.

The 5,040 Erin Doubles, rung at Shepperton on November 23rd, 1958, by the Middlesex County Association, is recognised and accepted by the Control Council as a proper peal. —Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Windsor.

Dear Nancy Kempsell,—Thanks for your article, 'Self or Service,' for there is a lot to be learned and felt towards each other, which, in my opinion, could be more of an equal spiritual feeling.

I myself am always glad to fix up for any fresh tower snatchers, quarter or peal ringers, and to make their acquaintance for spirit's sake, which, to me, is towards the Glory of God amongst our fraternity. And, as you state, a beautifully struck peal in a simple method is more glorious to me than haphazardness.

I must have been blessed to have been taught under circumstances as I was, at 15 years of age, when my clothes would not allow me to go into church for worship. I followed the ringers into the tower and learned to give my services to the Glory of God on the bells.

To you and all who desire to visit our tower for a ring, you will be joyfully received.

JOSEPH BURGESS

IN DEFENCE OF AN EPIC

Dear Sir,—I was greatly surprised that anyone should find it necessary to write so facetiously about my epic poem 'The Ringing Master.' I am replying in prose as it is obvious that poetry is a medium entirely beyond their comprehension.

My poem was written in a moment of inspiration on the back of an envelope, as the Editor of 'The Ringing World' can testify. (I can vouch for 50 per cent of the above statement—it was an otherwise perfectly good envelope.—Ed.)

After a long and tiring ringers' outing I can think of nothing more moving (apart from the bus) than these immortal words, rendered in seven-part harmony (one treble, two tenors, three basses and a Worthington), sung 'con spirito' by the heavy-bell men with a tuba obbligato.

The tune, if the words could be made to fit (which I am afraid is impossible) could be either the well-known Irish air, 'Will ye noo dodge 3-4 doon?' or that equally delightful Welsh melody, 'The handbells are ringing. Hurrah! Hurrah!'

A young poetic friend of mine (I still have a friend) remarked on reading my masterpiece that 'My name would be remembered when Shakespeare's was forgotten!' although he is reported to have muttered into his beard as he turned away, 'But not before.'

I am still wondering what he meant.—Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

BIRTHDAY WISHES PREMATURE

Dear Sir,—It was with great amusement that we read of Mr. Leale's generosity towards Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis, but imagine our delight when the latter informed us of some slight misconception on the part of five members of the Exercise regarding the actual date of his birthday. Perhaps Mr. Leale would like to repeat his performance on August 23rd, when it would be more appropriate.—Yours faithfully,

NEIL BENNETT

RINGERS HOLDING OTHER CHURCH OFFICES

Dear Sir,—I was particularly interested to read the letter of H. A. Price in 'The Ringing World,' as our band of ringers at St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, includes one deputy churchwarden, two servers, one sidesman, three senior choristers and three choirboys.

Entrance to the ringing chamber is at the north-east of the church, which necessitates walking through the entire congregation for exit.

It has often been said to me that there should be another means of exit. To this I disagree, as I absolutely insist that all new recruits become regular church attenders, which more or less assures that ringing here is performed as an act of worship. (Leading article in 'The Ringing World,' June 27th.)—Yours sincerely,

S. HARRISON,

Ringing Master, St. John-the-Divine.

P.S.—We have five conductors for Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles—one a boy 11 years of age.—S.H.

CHEDISTON, SUFFOLK.—On April 26th, 1,440 Plain Bob Minor: E. C. Bailey 1, M. J. Stokes 2, T. G. Page 3, H. A. Mitson 4, T. N. J. Bailey 5, L. N. Melton (cond.) 6. Rung after peal failure.

'SELF OR SERVICE RINGING'

Dear Sir,—The author is to be congratulated upon another most entertaining article, but this time I think she is a little severe.

Firstly 'sport' is hardly the best definition for ringing. Later in the article 'hobby' is quoted which I feel is more suitable but not entirely correct. Why should we not enjoy our ringing or at least most of our ringing? Should we not obtain enjoyment and satisfaction from everything we do, whether at work or at play? Probably some ringers are self-satisfied, but in my experience to date I have yet to meet one.

I feel that our ringing could be divided into sections.

(1) Service Ringing.—This is, of course, our duty as ringers, but I would point out that it is not always a real pleasure, although it should be, to ring (say) Grandsire Doubles on the back six. There are, however, many ringers who do just this as a duty to the Church on many occasions.

(2) Peal Ringing.—For the more ambitious and/or the perfectionist, is this not a climax of many hours' study and practice? Probably it is the only opportunity for them to satisfy the desire for good, or fairly good ringing, but it is hoped that all peal ringers are regular service ringers and attend all local practices.

(3) In all probability visits from a touring band may awaken a dormant ringer and encourage him to renew his interest, and it may even be the beginning of the formation of a new band where there has been none. The writer has on several occasions heard a local inhabitant remark how lovely the bells sounded after such a long silence. Surely there is a good chance that some good may be achieved and certainly some pleasure may be given to a few.

(4) Monthly Practices.—Such functions create a spirit of comradeship amongst district ringers: they provide the social side and help to preserve the interest of many of us.

May be that we are to blame for the loss of recruits, but this is mainly due to the lack of organisation and co-operation between towers and not to ringers as individuals.

I know many ringers who would travel miles to help beginners if beginners' practices were organised as such. True beginners are often neglected but not intentionally. It may be that the tower captain feels that he must foster the interest of the more advanced ringers as well as the beginners. The only answer to this problem is to organise 'beginners' practices' at different towers just as 'advanced practices' are arranged.

It is hoped that this will prove to the author that we do not always ring for selfish pleasure.

It is easy to criticise. Ringers are often condemned from the pulpit for what they do not do while too little encouragement is given for what they do do: the latter may obtain the better result.

Circumstances resulting from the modern mode and speed of living, which must be followed by the majority, are not fully appreciated by those who condemn.—Yours faithfully,

A. H. CROSS.

Old Windsor.

RINGING IN AOTEAROA

By PETER G. RICHARDS

FROM 1951 to July, 1957, I was fortunate enough to live in Aotearoa (Land af the Long White Cloud), or as it is more commonly known, New Zealand. During this period I had a most delectable time getting to know something of the country, and the wonderful people who live there. I was also fortunate in that I was able to participate in quite a lot of ringing.

To my knowledge there are six rings hung for ringing, but only two of them are in a ringable condition. There is also a very fine carillon of 49 bells in Wellington. I believe there are also two rings of bells in Dunedin and one in Nelson; unfortunately, I was unable to visit these two cities to verify it. Of the six rings that are hung correctly, one is in Auckland at St. Matthew's (8, tenor 18 cwt. in F, cast by Mears and Stainbank). These bells are said to be unringable because of a crack in the bottom of the tower, but personally I find it hard to believe, for I have rung bells in far less stable towers. I think I am correct in saying there has never been a peal scored on these bells, and I believe only one quarter, which was rung on September 20th, 1914, and the method Grandsire Triples. The ringer of the seventh was Mr. A. J. White, who is now an octogenarian, and I have had the pleasure of ringing with him when he has visited Hamilton.

The bells at St. Matthew's are only on loan; they actually belong to the Cathedral, the foundation stone of which was laid last year, so it is to be hoped that it won't be too far distant before the bells are in the new tower. At the moment, Auckland Pro-Cathedral is the original wooden building erected by Bishop Selwyn, New Zealand's first bishop. The Pro-Cathedral is a very magnificent building, and as fine an example of the Selwyn type of church as is to be found in the country. Bishop Selwyn was undoubtedly the finest architect for building in the Gothic style, with only wood as the material for construction.

Like most of New Zealand's visitors we will travel from north to south, so that after leaving Auckland we head for Hamilton, 80 miles distant. But before we arrive at this fair city we have a pleasant surprise in the little town of Pokeno, which is about half way between the two cities. At the little Church of St. Mary are three bells in a nice little tower; and I am sure it could take a very light ring of five, which I dearly hope will hang there.

HAMILTON'S FINE RING

The fine Cathedral of St. Peter, Hamilton, has a glorious ring of eight bells (tenor 20 cwt. in E, cast by Mears). The tenor bell was placed in the tower in 1933, but it wasn't until Dean Chandler undertook the monumental task of organising the bell appeal in October, 1948, that it became apparent that before long Hamilton would have its full ring of eight. It was only two months after the commencement of the appeal that the order for the bells was dispatched to England, and by Christmas Day, 1949, the full amount of the appeal, £1,394, had been collected—a most praiseworthy effort. The third bell (6 cwt. in C sharp) was given by the Hebrew congregations of Christchurch and Auckland. The gift was completely unsolicited, and the founders at the time of casting said that they had never in all their long experience known of such an unusual gift.

The bells are all mounted on ball-bearings on a steel frame. The frame was constructed in Hamilton, and the installation of the frame and bells was supervised by Mr. A. C. Caldwell, who is a ringer at the Cathedral. The 'go' of the bells is really superb; in fact I would go so far as to say I haven't rung bells that have gone better than St. Peter's. This is undoubtedly due to the capabilities of Mr. Caldwell as an engineer: he also installed the clock and chiming apparatus in the tower.

As far as I know there have only been three peals rung on the bells; the first was Plain Bob Minor on the back six, rung on October 23rd, 1950, to commemorate the dedication and opening of the bells, conducted by Albert J. Lancefield (who wrote a fine piece of poetry for the occasion: see 'The Ringing World,' Vol. LI, No. 2291). There was no more peal ringing until 1954, when there were two in quick succession, the first being 5,040 Bob Minor, rung on October 23rd to commemorate the fourth anniversary of the opening. For the ringers of the treble, second, third and fourth it was their first peal. They were all regular Sunday ringers, and started to learn the ancient art only after the bells had been installed. To be self-taught as they were, and to have reached peal-ringing standard in such a short time I think is most commendable. This peal was conducted by Colin Ward, who is the first New Zealander to conduct a peal in New Zealand. The third peal was 5,040 Grandsire Doubles and was rung on December 11th; and I thank the St. Peter's Society for allowing me to ring in this peal, and thereby to score my first.

Twelve miles from Hamilton is the very pretty town of Cambridge. At St. Andrew's Church there are six steel bells, believed to be cast by Vickers-Armstrongs Ltd. (tenor reputed to be 19 cwt.). These bells were installed in 1887. If the weight of the tenor is correct then it is understandable why the bells are only chimed, for they are housed in a wooden tower. I have visited the church twice, and both times my efforts to reach the bells have been thwarted; the first time by the lack of a ladder, and the second by an obstinate, unyielding padlock.

WELLINGTON'S TWO TOWERS

In the capital city of Wellington we find two towers of interest to the campanologist. Firstly there are eight bells (tenor 16 cwt.) in the wooden tower of St. Peter's Pro-Cathedral. The story here is identical with Auckland. The foundation stone of the new Cathedral was laid by H.M. the Queen when on her historic visit in 1953–54, and again it is to be hoped that the bells before long will be housed in a tower that is worthy of them. Secondly, there is the National War Memorial with its magnificent carillon of 49 bells. The Bourdon weighs 4 tons 19 cwt. 1 qr. 13 lb. in G, and as is the tradition, this bell is specially decorated with a frieze of fern leaves and the New Zealand flax as the national emblems of the country; upon its shoulder it also has the Union Jack, and on a blue background it has four red stars edged with white, representing the Southern Cross constellation, as in the Arms of the Dominion. This bell is very aptly named 'Reo Wairua,' which being interpreted means 'Spirit Voice,' and underneath the dedication lines bears the words 'Ana! He Tangi Aroha.' the translation being 'Hark! A Cry of Love.'

The lightest bell in the carillon weighs 9 lb., and the total weight of the whole is 31 tons 10 cwt. 2 qr. 4 lb. It is a great pity that at least eight, preferably 12, of these bells weren't hung for ringing. The carillon is ideally situated, being on the southern shores of the Wellington Harbour, and is encircled with hills, those to the north being the snow-clad Tararuas. The whole scene is of a gigantic amphitheatre with the finest source of music available to man at its heart. The bells of the carillon were cast in 1927 by Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, England, the founders of many fine carillons on the American continent and also in Europe. Before the bells were shipped to New Zealand, they were exhibited at the Newcastle upon Tyne exhibition, and also in Hyde Park, London.

THE OLDEST BELL

This completes the campanological phenomena of the north island, except maybe for a bell that is to be found in Whangarei, and this is undoubtedly the oldest bell in New Zealand. Whangarei is approximately 100 miles north of Auckland city, and in the region that the locals call the winterless north; but don't be fooled into going there in the winter without the fur coat and some means of attaining internal warmth. Still, whatever time of the year it is I think it is definitely worth a visit, particularly from the historic angle. Firstly, Whangarei is only a short distance from Russell and the Bay of Islands, this area being the cradle of civilisation in New Zealand. The bell at Whangarei is known as the 'Tamil Bell,' and its arrival in New Zealand certainly predates that of Captain Cook and also very likely that of Tasman. This bell is thought to have come from a wreck at Raglan on the west coast of New Zealand. Raglan is about 30 miles due east from Hamilton city, so the bell is now about 210 miles from its place of origin. The wreck is at the moment buried under sand, but has from time to time reappeared when wind and tide have decreed.

The bell has Dravidian inscriptions similar to the rivets from the wreck, and I feel along with many others that this very ancient and interesting bell is undoubtedly from this elusive wreck.

RECOLLECTIONS OF AN OCTOGENARIAN

By B. SHARPLES

The short article commencing 'An example of enthusiasm . . .' by a Bolton, Lancashire, ringer regarding a meeting held at Hoddlesden on June 7th, brings to mind the first visit of Immanuel, Oswaldtwistle, ringers in October, 1895. We decided to accept an invitation from the Hoddlesden ringers to try for a 720 Bob Minor on their bells, we having scored our first on Immanuel bells.

A walk of three miles in the country brought us to the church—a first visit for all. Owing chiefly to the long draught and heavier bells, we failed. After a very substantial supper at the home of one of the local ringers and an hour or two of billiards at the nearby Conservative Club, the three-miles' walk back home, minus any moonlight, was reached eventually, sometimes matches being struck to avoid hedges or ditches. The captain of Hoddlesden ringers at that time was the village schoolmaster (I forget his name); he had a club foot and it was difficult for him to mount circular stairs.

We Immanuel ringers went occasionally in the summer on a Sunday to ring for 3 p.m. Evensong; there was no later service probably because of the scattered population of the village. I had always longed to have a go on the tenor for a peal: we were told its weight was 16 cwt., and an opportunity came during a cotton strike in January, 1912. We started off in a slight snowstorm, and scored a peal of Surprise Minor in seven methods in 3 hours 13 minutes—the one and only peal on the bells. Snow was still falling as we wended our way home on the edge of darkness.

My next visit for ringing was one Sunday in June, 1944. I had gone back to live at Oswaldtwistle when the ban on church bells was lifted in 1943. I recruited three boys from the Sunday School, and with the help of older ringers we went along to ring for 3 p.m. Evensong, ringing Grandsire Doubles. After the service the Vicar kindly gave us afternoon tea, and I told him of the bad state of the louvres, many being broken and the bells exposed to the elements. Now the report says ringing was carried on in the rain with raincoats on owing to no roof on the tower. Well, well!

I may add I always had a soft spot for Hoddlesden bells. Two of the schoolboys rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles in January, 1945, one on the treble and one covering on the tenor (11 cwt.) at Immanuel.

OUTINGS

DARTFORD AND DISTRICT

Ringers from Erith, Bexley, Lewisham and Northfleet, together with Dartford, made up the party for this year's outing to Sussex on June 14th, which turned out to be one of the best ever for ringers and friends alike.

The first call was at Paddock Wood for refreshments, after which Mr. T. E. Sone piloted us to the tower at Horsmonden. This fine-toned eight (19¼ cwt.) gave the younger members a little difficulty, the result being that our ringing was not up to the usual standard. However, some useful experience on strange bells was obtained.

Lunch at Hastings preceded a visit to All Saints' Church (8, 12¼ cwt.), where we were welcomed by Mrs. Levett, deputising for her husband, who has been ill for some time but is now happily recuperating. Ringing here, unfortunately, had to be curtailed owing to a wedding. Whilst here, two ringing friends from Rye made up the first eight for a good touch of Grandsire and this was followed by Plain Bob and yet more Grandsire.

At Christ Church, Blacklands, Hastings, two of the local band were waiting to meet us. This church and tower was judged by most as being the best of the day, and certainly our ringing here was exceptionally good. The eight bells (20¼ cwt.) were rung to standard methods and a well-struck course of Cambridge.

Across country to Heathfield, where tea was taken at the Star before meeting Mr. Dann, who was waiting at the tower and had the eight bells (11 cwt.) all ready. Once again everybody enjoyed whatever was called for.

The final church was Buxted, situated in a beautiful park. Again this eight (15 cwt.) were kept going to various methods until time came to make our way homewards.

The beautiful countryside, enriched with rhododendrons, particularly at Buxted Park, made one non-ringing member of the party say 'A rhododendron tour could not have been better arranged.'

The thanks of the party go out to all who made this outing so enjoyable. R. G. R.

NEWARK-ON-TRENT

Saturday, June 21st, saw the ringers of Newark Parish Church, accompanied by the Vicar and friends from the surrounding district, departing early for their annual outing. A traffic hold up whilst crossing the Cat and Fiddle Pass in Derbyshire caused a late arrival at St. Peter's Church, Macclesfield (8). These bells were very much enjoyed to Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Major.

The next tower was the wonderful church and bells of the Church of St. Mary-the-Blessed-Virgin, Eccleston (tenor 26 cwt. 3 qr. 3 lb. in D). Here again, standard methods including Little Bob Major were rung, and the fine quality of the bells much appreciated.

Returning towards Chester, the bells of St. Mary-without-the-Walls, Handbridge, were next raised in peal and rung before dispersing to look around the shops.

After tea the bells of Chester Cathedral (10) were rung, commencing with a fine touch of 305 Grandsire Caters. The last tower on the way home was the anti-clockwise ring of bells at St. John-the-Baptist's, Knutsford (6). The bells, cast by Rudhalls, were rung to various methods, finishing with a good course of Cambridge Minor.

Many thanks are due to incumbents and ringers who met us at towers, even when we arrived late; also to Mr. F. W. Midwinter, who once again arranged a most perfect day. W. L. E.

OUT AND ABOUT IN SOMERSET

It so happened that when the diaries were produced and dates arranged for two Saturday afternoon ringing expeditions, they fell on two consecutive Saturdays, and this combined report represents both a financial and journalistic saving!

The trip on May 30th was primarily arranged to be all new towers for one member of the party and was fairly local in character. We were pleased to welcome Keith Lane, of Sutton Coldfield, who was on holiday in the area, and also a lone ranger from the Bridgwater Branch.

After ringing at Burrington, the party went to the fine, heavy six at Chilcompton, where Norwich and London Minor were successful, two local ringers joining us in the latter.

A picnic tea in a convenient field preceded ringing on the six at Camerton, where Oswald Delight proved difficult to ring and where the tenor not only hangs very close to the wall but sounds as though it might have hit it at some time! Timsbury tower is obviously well-looked-after, and we enjoyed ringing here. The final call was at Queen Charlton, where the five bells (front five of an eight) are rung from the crossing. A pleasing feature was the welcome we received from the local ringers at the various towers, and at two of them we were greeted by the incumbent.

The following Saturday an outing arranged by 'J. B.' found more or less the same band journeying to Kingsdon in South Somerset to ring on the magnificent heavy six there. After ringing at Norton-sub-Hambdon we had tea on the green in front of the church wall—much to the surprise of at least one of the older inhabitants. Fortified in no uncertain manner from portions of a very long Vienna roll and from the newly-acquired N.S.T.G. monster teapot, we then journeyed to Merriott with its fine ground-floor ring. Another ground-floor ring, this time a light one, was at Seavington St. Mary, and it was here that two fugitives from a successful peal attempt joined us as we were letting the bells down; we were, however, able to give them a pull before going to Puckington, a good six, where combined Kent and Oxford and a course of London went well.

We should like to say a big 'thank you' to all the people who met and welcomed us, and hope to have the privilege of entertaining them in North Somerset some time in the future.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Joint Meeting at Dean Prior

The Mid-Devon and South-West Branches held a joint meeting at Dean Prior, near Buckfastleigh, on June 28th in ideal weather conditions. The younger members who were present had a large share in the ringing, and in addition the more experienced ringers rang some excellent touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

After an excellent tea at the Buckfastleigh 'headquarters,' a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the vicars of Dean Prior and Buckfastleigh for the use of their bells, after which general ringing matters were discussed. Incidentally, this was the first joint meeting without the presence of the late Mr. J. E. Lilley, and had he still been amongst the members he would have given his usual efficient support. The duties of Ringing Master were in the capable hands of Mr. T. G. Myers, of Plymouth.

Ringing after tea took place at Buckfastleigh Parish Church, where some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, not forgetting some well-struck Kent Treble Bob Minor on the back six before the bells were lowered in peal. Those who were left spent a very pleasant hour together before dispersing to their various homes. A. L. D.

SOUTH DEVON RINGING FESTIVAL

THE longest day—and well might it be! Lustleigh's bells—a ring of six with a 12¼ cwt. tenor—were going from 1.30 p.m. until just after 9 o'clock, apart from the half-hour break for service at 4 o'clock. It was the now annual invitation festival, organised by the South Devon Ringers' Association, and this year was in aid of the Historic Churches Preservation Trust. A full entry of 20 teams, each ringing 'sixty-on-thirds,' competed for the George Middleton Shield and six certificates.

The team from nearby Bovey Tracey were drawn to ring first, and so opened the festival, and in turn the other 19 teams followed. The four judges—Messrs. J. J. Brewer (Alphington), T. G. Darch (Torrington), J. Down (High Bickington) and R. M. Elliott (Bridford)—were installed out of sight in the village school which overlooks the church. Down St. Mary's with a near-perfect peal were the winners with no more than 17 faults, with Kingsbridge (23¼ faults), Kenn (32), Widecombe-in-the-Moor (48), Dartmouth, St. Saviour's (49½), and Upton, Torquay (57), forming the first six teams. A particular welcome was given to the new team representing Babbacombe (All Saints'), under their captain, Mr. D. J. Roberts, which contained the only lady ringers competing; and their entry was especially sporting in view of their not having participated in call-change competition work before. The whole festival was, in fact, marked by a wonderful atmosphere of enthusiastic co-operation and a spirit of 'all for the good of the cause.'

68 Years A College Youth

Mr. Adolphus Roberts attained the ripe age of 88 years on Sunday, June 29th. He has been a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths for 68 years, and a member of the Stoke St. Michael's (Coventry) band for 50 years (30 years as Ringing Master). Unfortunately he is unable to take part in any ringing at present, as last Christmas he had an accident and injured his shoulder.

In honour of his birthday, for Evensong on June 29th, 1,260 Stedman Triples was rung on Stoke St. Michael's bells. Ringers: E. Sibley (conductor) 1, F. Brassington 2, W. Stote 3, D. Ellender 4, R. Robinson 5, H. Folwell 6, N. Haile 7, R. D. Hayne 8.

The presence of the Bishop of Crediton, after his long illness, 'crowned' not only the service but the whole event. His address to the capacity congregation of ringers in church was based on the equal dimensions of the City of God as seen in the Revelation, and he developed the theme to apply to the Church and churchmanship of today. The Bishop was attended during the service by the Association's president, the Vicar of Kingsbridge, and the service itself was conducted by the Rector of Lustleigh (Rev. N. McGee).

East Allington was the last team to ring and, after the results had been announced and the awards made by Mrs. McGee, the chairman and hon. secretary made up a 'six' with the judges to enable them to have a peal—a good one although we say it! The day made, after the deduction of expenses, about £22 for the Trust. Each team paid 10s. entry fee; donations were received; the service collection shared with Lustleigh Church; teas made a profit; there was skittling for a pig and a 'pick-the-winner' competition.

The Association records with deep appreciation the gift from the Guild of Devonshire Ringers towards the cost of furnishing the George Middleton shield awarded at this annual festival.

A BOTANIST ON A RINGERS' OUTING

As usual, very efficiently organised by Ron Sharp, the Maulden outing took place on the longest day of the year, when a large party, including the Rector of Maulden (Rev. H. R. Cousins) and Mrs. Cousins, with many ringers' wives and friends, set out on what proved a trip which will be long remembered by all. We made our happy way to Old Windsor, where Mr. Welling greeted us, and where the pleasant ring of eight, in this peaceful corner of Berkshire, was much enjoyed. And here a special word of thanks to our old friend Bill Butler, who had put in some good work at short notice.

Next came St. Lawrence's, Alton, where some very good ringing took place, a course of London and a touch of Bob Major being particularly well struck, and where we were very sorry to say goodbye to Mr. Hedger. Another local captain welcomed us at St. Mary's, Liss. Mr. Riley was soon shepherding us into the rather unusual belfry, where we found the bells a little difficult to handle but none the less enjoyable. Next came what is always a very much appreciated item—lunch; and very nice, too!

Afterwards we proceeded through beautiful country to Haslemere, where we missed the jovial faces of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bowden, but where their able deputy did the honours to a nicety. At Godalming we encountered a little more metal, and the heavier ring of eight gave general satisfaction; and here Miss Susan Steer, who had kindly arranged tea, met us and joined in the ringing, afterwards congratulating us on having such an accomplished party.

The last tower was Stoke Poges, which has associations with the poet Gray. Here we were met by Mrs. Barker, and here we had perhaps the best ringing of the day, the highlight being a touch of Six-spliced Surprise Major, which was brought round in fine style.

But the day was not finished yet, and when your party includes an eminent botanist with perhaps a slightly eccentric turn of mind, unexpected things are liable to happen; and here, behold, the coach was stopped at a point where the verdure was most profuse to enable our enthusiastic friend to examine the local plant life more closely, and having selected a rare specimen of the local flora, to bear it triumphantly to his seat! YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Eastern District was held at Selby on June 28th, and was attended by over 30 ringers from 12 towers in the District. Good use was made of the ten bells in the Abbey. The service in the Abbey was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. J. A. P. Keat). Tea was served in the Hawdon Institute by wives of the local ringers, followed by the business meeting, presided over by the vice-president (Mr. A. E. Sellers).

Five new members were elected: Miss P. Crimmon, Mr. P. Stipetic, Mr. I. Tinkler, of Hull, Miss I. Piper, of Sutton-on-Hull, and Miss Margaret Pinkney, of Queen Margaret's School, Escrick. Mr. S. H. Steel was re-elected Ringing Master and Messrs. A. B. Cook, L. M. Woodhead and J. J. Taylor were all re-elected to the committee for a further three years. Hedon was selected as the next place of meeting on October 4th, if convenient. The usual votes of thanks were passed. A collection for the Associan Bell Repair Fund realised 17s.

WOODFORD (ESSEX) RINGERS MARRIED

Warm and bright weather on June 14th provided a suitable background for the wedding of Miss Patricia Welsh and Mr. Keith Gardner at St. Mary's, Woodford. The Rector officiated in the presence of a large congregation, and as bride and bridegroom are both ringers at St. Mary's it was fitting for the ceremony to be rounded off by a merry peal on the bells of this ancient Essex Parish Church.

Accordingly, some assistance was provided by the South-Western Division of the Essex Association, and a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by the following: Miss M. March (first quarter) 1, R. G. Cousins 2, Miss V. Hester 3, C. A. Hughes 4, H. Neil 5, E. D. Smith 6, V. A. Waugh (conductor) 7, C. A. Wilmington 8.

Some days later, on the occasion of the annual ringers' outing, Patricia and Keith were presented with a gift cheque as a wedding present from their fellow ringers.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

1957 WITH THE LADIES

THE greatest change in ringing in the last 60 years has been the introduction of women to the belfries. There will be few who will disagree with Mr. John Willis, who made this statement in welcoming the Ladies' Guild to Canterbury for their annual meeting on July 5th. Women have come to stay in our belfries: indeed without them Sunday ringing would be in a sorry plight in many of our towers.

The presence of the Ladies' Guild is a natural corollary to this entry. Compared with the main territorial Guilds the ladies are at a disadvantage: there is not a District to correspond with each territorial Association, and hence Guild meetings involve travel. But in the last few years there has been a trend for expansion, and some 13 Districts submitted reports to the annual meeting.

Organisation on a national scale is no easy matter. There is, however, a spirit of enthusiasm among those who are leading the Guild, and within the Districts there is a determination to resist any attempt to let activities dwindle and decay. Throughout, the spirit of independence is strong; and while many meetings are joint occasions with territorial Associations, the ladies take great care to preserve their identity and individualism.

What is the story these Districts have to tell? The Beds and Northants, which has just completed its first year, has a ringing membership of 41, its own Surprise band in Minor methods, and ladies' bands capable of Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples and Caters and Bob Major. One of the oldest Districts is the Central, and from this new Districts have been created; nevertheless, it has 83 members. Kent District, which was formed in 1954, carried out its programme and is planning to hold six meetings a year in order to cover the six Districts of the Kent County Association. The paid-up membership is 48.

Mrs. A. Richardson, who is secretary of the Lincoln District and one of the Guild's Central Council representatives, reported quite a good year with a membership of 56. The Midland District, where there is a change of secretary, held five meetings. The year 1957 was an outstanding one for the North-Eastern District, whose members showed enterprise in money-raising to ensure adequate hospitality for the Guild's annual meeting at Newcastle upon Tyne.

The North-Western District held meetings at Manchester, Southport and Chester during the year, and has a membership of 8 honorary and 60 ringing, a decrease owing to 17 members allowing their subscriptions to lapse, although there were 11 new members. The Southern District, with 10 honorary and 69 ringing, had a small programme of two meetings. A vigorous District is the South Wales, with Mrs. J. S. King as secretary. Fifteen new members were elected and there is a paid membership of 45.

Sussex is able to report all the four meetings of 1957 being well supported and quite a high standard of ringing maintained. The membership is 37. The Western District, which embraces six counties, has quarterly meetings. It has been customary of late for at least one coach-load from Bristol and Bath to attend one meeting with ringing en route. Nurtured in the atmosphere of Birmingham, the West Midland District reports that ladies' bands achieved Cambridge Major at Clent, Cambridge Royal at Solihull (with the assistance of the president, Mrs. K. Lock), London Minor at Great Barr and Stedman Triples at Yardley, where several members took part in touches of Spliced Surprise.

1957 proved to be a good, successful year for the Yorkshire District, and although two of the most staunch members were lost, a quarter peal and a full peal were scored. The new secretary, Miss E. A. Wardill, writes: 'We shall try to have an equally successful year in 1958.' And so may it be for the whole Guild.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION
Western District

The annual meeting of the Western District was held on June 21st at Lindley, near Huddersfield by the kind invitation of the local company. The attendance of about 30 members was considerably below average and no doubt partly due to the poor weather.

Under the able supervision of the Ringing Master (Mr. Vernon Bottomley) full use was made of available ringing time, equal opportunities being given to both learners and more experienced ringers.

The Vicar addressed a few words of welcome to the visitors in the Parish Hall, where he and the churchwardens joined the ringers in an excellent tea arranged by the local company.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by Mr. L. W. G. Morris in the unavoidable absence of the vice-president. After the reading of the minutes, the company stood for a short period of silence as a mark of respect to three recently deceased members of the District—Mr. G. W. Slack, Mr. F. W. Bradley (who joined the Association in 1893) and Mr. A. E. Hancock.

A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to all those who had shared in the organisation of the meeting.

The following officers, due to retire, were re-elected en bloc:—Ringing Master, Mr. V. Bottomley; Committee, Messrs. T. W. Strangeway, A. W. Bond and J. Pearson. In proposing their re-election, the chairman said that the District was ably served by its present officers and he saw no reason for change.

Miss Margaret Clark and Messrs. David Smith and Edgar Drake were elected members.

It is to hoped to hold the next meeting on September 13th at Ilkley and Addingham.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD
Banbury and District Branch

The annual meeting of the Banbury and District Branch was held at Deddington on July 5th and was well attended, nearly half the members of the Branch being present. The service was conducted by the Vicar and the address given by the Rev. C. O. Moreton, the retiring Branch Chairman. The Deddington handbell ringers accompanied the hymns together with the organ.

An excellent tea was served in the Schoolroom followed by the business meeting at which the Rev. T. W. Griffiths was elected Branch Chairman. Miss Cross, the General Secretary, on behalf of the Guild, expressed thanks to Mr. Moreton for his services to the Guild and wished him and Mrs. Moreton a long and happy life in retirement. The other officers were re-elected except that Mr. Stretton replaces Mr. Burton on the Guild Committee.

Six new members were elected including four from Mollington, one of the earliest towers affiliated to the Guild (1885) and, unfortunately, one of the earliest to drop out (1894). The bells there have been put in order and the Branch voted a grant of five guineas towards the cost.

It was agreed that the autumn meeting should be held at Wroxton and Hanwell on October 4th, and the next monthly practice at Lower Heyford on August 30th.

CHEW MAGNA, SOMERSET.—On July 3rd, 1,280 Lincolnshire Surprise Major: J. Brain 1, Monica Fray 2, M. J. Horseman 3, E. Brown 4, D. Hoare (cond.) 5, D. E. Cobb 6, E. Naylor 7, E. J. Chivers 8. First quarter in the method by all the band.

AN EVENING TOWER-GRAB IN CHESHIRE

'George and Bernard, what time are you coming, Bill?—be ready for 6.15 p.m.'

'Half a mo'—I only leave the erecting shop at 5.45!'

But George—the driver—who also works in the railway erecting shop, picked us up at 6.20, and 'the Dean' three minutes later.

We were turning in left by the church at Lawton at 6.45—not bad going. The same time Shelagh, David and the party from Stafford followed us in by the right. Bob was waiting for us on the church step, with the bells up.

Thirty-five minutes' ringing and we were on our way again to Alsager, where Arthur was waiting for us, but said: 'Get the bells up and get going; we have some work to do up there' (new ropes, I believe). Here we were joined by Fred and Bill from Market Drayton, who improved the ringing. We had just fallen the bells on the last chime when down came the tenor rope. 'There you are,' said 'the Dean,' 'there's one down for you, Arthur.'

Then on to the tit-bit of the evening, Barthomley—six of Rudhall's best, augmented to eight, and almost a perfect match. Here the party was augmented by two from Northwich. It was also practice night at Barthomley; but I think the local ringers chose the better part, sitting out on the green listening.

At 8.30, the real object of 'the grab,' Ronald Dove, of Guide fame—for which the Exercise owes him so much—took leave of the company to catch the 8.57 p.m. to Leeds.

Judgment: Much better than peal ringing; and 'the best night in my long association with ringing,' said 'the Dean'—and he should know.

Our best and grateful thanks to all incumbents and local ringers. 'OWD BAT-ER.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

The 240's of Double Grandsire Doubles, rung to a 5,040 at Neath, Glamorgan, on July 5th, were produced by Mr. A. J. Pitman after some talk about the method at a local practice. The band were given the figures many months ago with the advice that they might ring and publish it if they wished, but as he was afraid that it might not conform with the Central Council's requirements as a peal, they must do so on their own responsibility.

The peal at Ockley was rung on June 14th, and not May 31st as published. The conductor sends his apologies to all concerned.

The quarter peal of Stedman Triples at Westminster Abbey on June 24th was for the diamond jubilee of the Royal Army Medical Corps, not the silver jubilee as stated in our issue of July 4th.

This week we announce the first peal of Scientific Triples (composition on another page) rung at Hampton, Middlesex on July 5th. The band extend a friendly challenge to the Cheshire band to ring a peal of it.

In future, any visitors who stand in a peal with the band who rang at Willersey should not be worried if they hear: 'Do you think they'll last? '. It is not the stamina of the band, or the ropes, but Wilf's trousers! He hitched them up so often during a recent peal that the rest of the band offered to subscribe towards the cost of a pair of braces!

The five bells at Dickleburgh Parish Church, Norfolk, have been brought to the ground preparatory to their journey to Loughborough for general overhaul and augmentation to six. Towards the cost of over £1,000 the sum of £800 has been raised, and a generous person has offered—if the fund reaches £1,000 by Christmas—to meet the rest. A little something from friends would enable this kind offer to be accepted.

Supt. Claude Rush reports that the restoration fund for Eye, Suffolk, bells now stands at £982, and £426 of this has been raised by collecting and selling 78 tons of paper, rags and old sacks. The work is pressing on without let-ups, so £1,000 should be reached by the beginning of September.

Whepstead ringers desire to congratulate Mr. R. D. Hart on his grim determination to ring his first peal. After two fruitless journeys to Whepstead, Suffolk, and Coventry, he with John Ivings scored a good first. Who said ringing was a dying art?

Mr. Alan R. Elliott of Kelvedon, Essex, desires to express his sincere thanks to all the ringers at the Cathedral, St. Peter's, and St. Giles', Lincoln, for the very friendly welcome extended to him on his recent visit to that city, which made his stay so enjoyable.

Miss Susannah Smith, a member of the Godalming (Surrey) bell-ringers' band for 11 years and the present captain, was married on July 5th at Godalming to Mr. Raymond Stanley. The bells of Godalming Parish Church were rung before and after the service by ringing friends. The bride is also a part-time member of the Auxiliary Fire Service.

The peal at Carbis Bay celebrated much as the footnote tells, and most of the band went on to Truro for David Penrose's birthday party in the evening. His uncle called the peal. It also enabled Jill Swanne, who has recently gained her B.Sc. at Southampton University, and Roger Sullivan, both of Carbis Bay, to ring their first peal in their own tower. Congratulations to both. A welcome was extended to Dr. R. E. Price who was on holiday in Cornwall.

LADIES' GUILD HAVE RECORD ATTENDANCE AT CANTERBURY

WOMEN IN BELFRY GREATEST CHANGE IN 60 YEARS

THE loyalty of members of the Ladies' Guild was demonstrated in a remarkable manner at the Guild's annual meeting at Canterbury on July 5th when there was a company of 132 at tea. This was a record gathering for any meeting of the Guild.

Ringing took place at St. Stephen's and St. Dunstan's in the morning and the Cathedral Belfry was crowded in the afternoon which preceded the Cathedral Evensong. Special seats were reserved in the choir for the Guild at Evensong, and the Dean (the Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson) before reading the second lesson extended a welcome to the Guild. He recalled, while in Cheshire when the Armistice was declared in 1918, taking five young girls into the belfry and showing them 'how to make a big clang on the bells and the whole town was full of joy.'

The ladies were the guests of the Kent County Association to tea after the service and Mr. John Willis in his welcome described his guests as 'charming, accomplished, beautiful, athletic ladies.' As vice-president of the Kent County Association it was his privilege to welcome them and to hope they were enjoying the hospitality of the Association and also their visit to this lovely old city.

AN 1896 MEMORY

His ringing memory was long enough to go back to 1896 when Miss Alice White was the first lady ringer to ring a peal on tower bells. 'I remember the utter astonishment with which we mere boys (I was a boy in those days) viewed the introduction of women into the belfry. It seemed the last place one would expect to find them. But conditions have changed; the great reduction of manpower brought about by the first World War was the opportunity for the ladies and the Ladies' Guild was formed. You have been led by some able lady officials and it is all to the good.

'If anyone asked me what was the greatest change in 60 years of ringing I would say the greatest change had come about by the introduction of ladies to bell-ringing and the formation of the Ladies' Guild, because in our early days men quarrelled among themselves very bitterly both in Association meetings and the towers. These troubles seemed to have disappeared and I think that a very great deal is due to the ladies whom we have now with us.'

One other thing. He had often looked at certain ladies ringing in the belfry and he had been rather surprised that a set fashion had not been evolved for lady ringers because it was rather disconcerting when the arms went up at rope end to see a gap between the waist and the skirt. He thought the most graceful attire would be something that hung straight down all in one piece. He had no doubt that the president and secretary would be putting their heads together and be issuing paper patterns before long. [Laughter.]

On behalf of the Kent County Association he offered the Guild a sincere welcome on the first meeting of the full Guild to Canterbury.

Mrs. T. J. Locke, the president, thanked Mr. Willis for his welcome and the Kent County Association for their hospitality. 'We have all had a wonderful time and will enjoy ourselves this evening.' She thanked Mr. Bert Luck for his untiring efforts in making all the arrangements and the incumbents of St. Alphege's, St. Dunstan's, St. Saviour's and the agent of the Cathedral for permission to ring.

THE BUSINESS MEETING.

There was a representative and large gathering at the business meeting presided over by the President (Mrs. Lock), supported by the hon. secretary (Miss D. Colgate). Members were present from as far afield as Nottingham, Birmingham, Lincolnshire, Leicester and South Wales.

Before the proceedings started the company stood in silence in memory of Miss Margaret Rhodes (vice-president of the Yorkshire District for several years), Mrs. Phyllis Poole (of whom it would probably be true to say was more widely known, liked and respected than any other member of the Guild), and Mrs. Mack (probably better known as Miss Dora White, who was the first lady to ring a tower bell peal of Stedman Triples).

New members elected were: The Misses J. Steed, Gay Williams and Smith (Benenden School), Mrs. Evans (Hythe), the Misses Evelyn Cumberworth (Rainham), Christine Remmer and Alison Macfarlane (St. Albans), Doreen Harfleet (Guildford), Harriett Trevelyan (Steep), Margaret Crate (St. Albans), Mrs. Yvonne West and Miss Mary Dowsett (Danbury), Miss Judith Corby (Sevenoaks). Hon. member:—Mrs. Collins (Guildford).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Miss Colgate announced that no nomination other than that of Mrs. Lock had been received for the office of President. She proposed her election and Mrs. Mitchell seconded.

Thanking the members for her election, Mrs. Lock said she would remind the Guild that she was entering her third year as president and they would have to find someone else to take her place in accordance with the rules. If she had not visited their District would they send her an advance notice of their meeting. 'I wish there were seven Saturdays in a week.'

Regarding the election of hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Lock said last week the good lady who had held office for seven years 'dropped a bombshell' saying she was not seeking re-election. She suggested that the two offices should be divided. This was agreed to.

Miss Colgate was then elected hon. secretary on the proposal of Mrs. Barnett seconded by Mrs. Percy, and Miss Joan Beresford hon. treasurer on the motion of Mrs. Barnett seconded by Mrs. Hart Miss Audrey Bailey was re-elected hon. auditor.

The secretary's report for 1957 stated that a number of new members had been elected and most District secretaries reported well-attended meetings. Receipts from subscriptions were lower and an inspection of the register reveals that a number of members owed one or two years' subscriptions. As the result of these arrears and also the dinner held in October expenditure exceeded income. They trusted that this would be rectified in 1958.

In spite of many difficulties, including illness and last minute cancellations, the dinner was enjoyed by all who attended and thanks were due to the President who worked hard for its success.

TWO PEALS

Two peals had been rung—Plain Bob Major at Handsworth by members of the Yorkshire District and Plain Bob Major at St. Michael's, St. Albans, by the Central District. Both bands were congratulated.

In expressing grateful thanks to all District secretaries, special tribute was paid to Miss W. Oliver, who was secretary of the Southern District for many years but owing to home ties has had to resign. They were glad to know she retained her connection with the District as vice-president. Mrs. De Jong, of the Western District, Miss Diana Perrins, of the West Midland District, and Miss Kathleen Yeo, of the Sussex District, had also to give up their work as secretaries for various reasons.

The report recorded appreciation of the wonderful welcome given to the Guild by members of the North Eastern District on the occasion of the annual meeting at Newcastle. Everything was so well organised that Mrs. Lea and her committee must have worked hard to achieve such a successful result.

The report was adopted.

The accounts show a loss of £5 14s. 4½d. of which £5 7s. 11d. was the deficit on the dinner. Mrs. Staniforth proposed and Mrs. Speake seconded the adoption.

NEXT MEETING

The hon. secretary reported that the committees of the North Western and West Midlands had met and agreed that Liverpool would be an excellent centre for the next meeting. Miss Rudyard, whose father was now ringing Master of Liverpool Cathedral, had offered to provide personal contacts. It was decided to hold the 1959 meeting at Liverpool.

A vote of thanks to the president for taking the chair was proposed by Mrs. Barnett and carried with acclamation.

GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

The first week-end meeting of the Guild took place on July 5th and 6th, in East Dorset. Ringing began at 11.30 on Saturday on the fine heavy six of Bere Regis; the ringing was not quite up to the standard of the bells perhaps, but we were a scratch lot, and had not all recovered from the fatigues of the road there. However, this was speedily put right after the party had been entertained to lunch by Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Brown, at Wareham.

The first call of the afternoon was at the noble octave of Kingston. Even the fact that the magnificent view was shrouded in mist did not prevent some worthy ringing, notably a good course of Cambridge. Moving on, the convoy made its way to Poole, and had just time to park on what appeared to be the side of a cliff, and get in position to send off a wedding party in the proper fashion, with Stedman Triples. After tea at Wareham we were to have rung there, but just a week before the bells had disappeared to Loughborough, so instead we went to the little church at Wool. Here we were fortunate to be joined by some very young ladies of the local band, who showed us how Grandsire Doubles should be rung. Saturday finished with an excellent dinner at Wareham, and a handbell session until bedtime.

Those members who had stayed the night met in the belfry at Poole next day, to ring with members of that tower for morning service. Grandsire Caters went quite well, but Bob Royal was anything but regal; we saved our faces with a final touch of Stedman Triples.

All members taking part would wish to take this opportunity of saying 'thank you' to all incumbents and ringers of these Dorset churches for their kind hospitaliy, and to our guests who came and made such a success of the meeting. That it was a success however is really due to the organiser, C. T. Brown—we are most grateful to him, not least for his offer to do it all again next year. Members therefore please note that the first weekend in July, 1959, is booked for Dorset.

RINGING IN AOTEAOROA

By PETER G. RICHARDS

CHRISTCHURCH BELLS

We now have to cross the Cook Strait to the south island, and travel to the very English city of Christchurch, with its glorious cathedral and 10-bell ring (tenor 32 cwt.). These bells and the Society are the oldest in New Zealand: they celebrated the 75th jubilee on October 31st, 1956.

The bells for St. Paul's Cathedral, London, were cast by the Loughborough foundry in 1879, and at the time they were said to be the finest ring ever cast, so the Christchurch Cathedral authorities immediately ordered from the same foundry a ring that was to be an exact replica of the London bells. Such an excellent reproduction was executed that, if you were to be blindfolded and walk down Colombo Street, Christchurch, whilst the bells are ringing, you would swear that you were walking down Ludgate Hill.

Eight of these fine bells were the gift of R. H. Rhodes, and two trebles from E. P. W. Miles. The bells carry very apt inscriptions to commemorate these two noble benefactors:—

'Through all the ROADS of life the best
We'll strive to be your guide;
And let our notes do your behest
By tolling far and wide.
We've crossed the seas to this fair land,
To do God all the honour;
From clime to clime we'll ring our chime,
And tell of RHODES the donor.'

'We two little bells to complete the chime,
Were nearly left out too late,
When Miles to the rescue but just in time.
Added us on to the eight.'

The bells were installed in the year 1881, but the Society founded in 1880, and they have moulded themselves on the Ancient Society of College Youths; this is more than just a sentimental desire to follow in the footsteps of the most celebrated of English Associations. The first bell-ringers at All Saints', Christchurch, were taught by members of the A.S.C.Y., and each successive generation has kept to the strong traditions of its foundation members.

The 75th jubilee celebrations saw the largest gathering of bell-ringers and those interested in the art ever in New Zealand: about 70 in all attended the three-day function.

Mr. Caldwell and I attended from the St. Peter's Society, and we were intrigued by a little red ensign fluttering from the belfry window, as the great bells thundered out over the city. On enquiring we were told that like a lot of bell-ringers it was an emigrant from the homeland and that it had flown at Windsor Castle at the Coronation of King George VI. It was brought back to the Society of Bell-ringers by Mr. W. H. Fussell as a gift from the Castle authorities, and is now flown from the belfry windows only on very special occasions.

The Christchurch Cathedral Society were forced by Mother Nature to abandon the ringing of the Cathedral bells for a while. Around the turn of the century there occurred quite a violent earthquake which resulted in the collapse of the top of the 210 ft. spire. The ringers, however, being true to the Exercise, didn't forsake the art and lean on their haunches; instead they mounted their penny-farthings and rode out to the little ring of five (tenor 6 cwt.) at St. Paul's Church, Papanui.

Papanui is the final tower of our tour. Unfortunately the bells here are very rarely pealed, the reason once again is that they are housed in a wooden tower, which age has weakened. The bells are at present chimed, but it is to be hoped that before long the tower will be strengthened sufficiently to allow the ancient art to be regularly practised.

To conclude this treatise on New Zealand, I will mention the facts that will, I hope, be useful to the intending visitor.

St. Peter's Cathedral, Hamilton, North Island. Practice night: Wednesday, 7 till 9 p.m. Sunday ringing: 8.30 till 9 a.m. and 6 till 7 p.m. Mr. Caldwell is the Master, and an enquiry at the Deanery in Bridge Street will soon locate him.

All Saints' Cathedral, Christchurch. Practice night: Tuesday, 7 till 9 p.m. Sunday ringing in morning and evening on alternate Sundays as at St. Paul's, Melbourne. An enquiry to Mr. Harry Mee, at 96, Kerrs Road, Wainoni, Christchurch, will soon see the visitor with a rope in his hands.

OUTINGS

ST. AMBROSE, BRISTOL

The ringers of St. Ambrose, Bristol, together with wives and friends, had their annual outing on June 14th to Lyme Regis. On the outward journey a stop was made for coffee and ringing at Martock, with its very large ringing chamber.

Both lunch and tea were enjoyed at Lyme Regis and also ringing on the musical eight in the Parish Church. Our English summer took place that day and those not ringing had a restful afternoon on the beach.

A two hours' run through some of the best scenery in the south brought us to Midsomer Norton. Some excellent ringing including a near perfect rise was had on the eight bells which are rung from the ground floor. A very good supper at the Greyhound Hotel followed, and after a few brief speeches of thanks the homeward journey was made. Methods up to Cambridge, Double Norwich and Double Oxford were rung under the able captaincy of Mr. R. G. Hooper, ringing Master for Bristol Rural.

CARDIFF

Motor-bikes, trains, buses, a lorry, a car (and tired feet!) conveyed eight young Cardiff ringers on an eventful outing on June 28th. The first stage of the journey led to Aberdare, where the fine eight bells were soon 'tapping out' touches of Triples and Bob Major. (Many thanks, Aberdare!)

The party then split up and made their own way to the Swansea and Brecon festival, at Brecon, three members taking a short 'bus ride and then hitch-hiking the rest of the way. Thus our youngest ringer covered 23 miles on 3½d.!

After meeting several old friends and making use of the bells available, the party made their separate ways back to Cardiff. G. R. M.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD

New Bishop At Summer Festival

In glorious weather, and ideal surroundings, this year's Annual Festival, held at Brecon on June 28th, proved a great success. The attendance was excellent, and visitors came from as far away as Surrey, Crewe, Eardisland, Gloucester and Cardiff.

In many ways a service held in a cathedral always seems to be more impressive, and this occasion was no exception. For the first time since the creation of the Diocese a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells immediately before the service by four members of the Guild, standing at choir stalls.

Evensong was conducted by the Dean (the Very Rev. Edward Jones), and the Bishop gave the address. The theme he took was 'Priority.' Priority in building and rebuilding churches. In deciding these factors, we have always to use a sense of proportion in saying which was necessary, and which was not necessary—and he went on to say that we must not forget that without the church there would be no stained glass windows, no organ, no bells, and none of the arts so well known in our cathedrals and churches. He was quite sure however, that the people of Swansea would see that a ring of bells was put in the stately tower in the centre of the town, before very long.

After tea in the Parish Hall, the business meeting was opened by the general secretary, with a warm welcome to the Lord Bishop, Dr. John Thomas, the new president. We do not, he said, fully appreciate the honour bestowed on us by the presence of the Bishop at our meetings, and would suggest that we show our appreciation by seeing that all rings of bells in the Diocese are rung regularly for Sunday service.

The Bishop replied by thanking everyone for their warm welcome, but he was afraid that he would have to have the help of the Master and general secretary on any technical matters relating to the Guild.

Both the general secretary's and the Master's reports told of a general improvement in ringing. It was a great pity however, that Knighton, Dolou and Bronllys were not yet affiliated to the Guild, but it seemed one couldn't do anything about it.

The statements of accounts were presented by the treasurer, with the happy results of increases in bank balances.

All officers were re-elected including the five committee members.

It was agreed to hold the 1959 Festival at Brecon again, and the date and time to be decided later. A proposal to hold it always in Brecon was withdrawn, as on some future date it may be necessary to hold it at St. Mary's, Swansea.

The Ringing Competition was again postponed, and a proposal for a Guild's Badge was left to the committee to draw up details for the 1959 meeting. Together with the Bishop, seven life members and three resident ringing members were elected.

The Dean thanked everyone for giving towards the Cathedral Appeal Fund

The meeting proved undoubtedly that Brecon was very central for everyone, and as far as ringing is concerned there are many towers available if required. J. A. H.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HANDBELL MUSIC

Dear Sir,—I hesitate to write again after occupying so much space in the 'R.W.' in recent weeks, but I feel that the article on Handbell Music by Col. M. D. Bell merits some attention, and perhaps the word of an 'old man' may be respected!

Quite frankly, although I realise that the proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof, I am not greatly impressed by his method. The one used by Mr 'Billy' Barton of Pudsey, which incorporates what is best in Col. Bell's, is, I consider, far superior.

Three or four years ago I was asked to teach a group of the G.F.S., belonging to the local church, tune-ringing on handbells. After trying various methods without much success, I approached Mr. Barton who gave me much advice and a sample of his 'music.'

His method, like Col. Bell's, is to use numbers in place of ordinary notation and to write these out in tonic sol-fa.

By this method any rhythm may be set down and, of course, no knowledge of musical notation is required. Mr. Barton also has separate copies for each ringer containing his (or her) own bells (e.g., 1-2, 3-4, etc.) with the melody notes underlined in red and bass notes in blue.

This latter device is, I think, very necessary, as too often we hear performances by reputable bands in which the melody is swamped by the inner parts.

HANDSTROKE ONLY

Again, following Mr. Barton's advice, I taught the girls to ring their bells on handstroke only, no backstroke being used at all. It was surprising how quickly they learnt to cut out the 'double-tap' and with what speed and efficiency they could execute repeated notes after a little practice.

I may say that after a few weeks they were performing at concerts. My wife, who teaches at a Secondary Modern School, has 'borrowed' the handbells (as wives will), and has used this method successfully in her music lessons, where it is quickly grasped even by the lower streams.

I found it better to make my own arrangements as quite frequently the full harmonics of 4-part writing are overpowering if continued for any length of time. The procedure (if anyone is interested) is as follows.

(1) Write the arrangement in staff notation. (If one has knowledge of harmony, this is better done away from the keyboard, although it may be done there by trial and error if desired. Concentrate largely on 3-part harmony, using 4-part sparingly, e.g., cadences, final choruses, etc.)

(2) Make a master copy in tonic sol-fa, using numbers instead of the customary notation.

ST. GEORGE'S, DAMERHAM

Dear Sir,—It has been found that the 3rd bell in our ring of six is cracked, and we are advised to have it recast. At the present time, we have had heavy expenses on our church fabric and we find it very difficult to face this further financial crisis. Many of you in your ringing tours of Hampshire have visited our tower and we feel you might care to help us in some way by sending us stamps, postal orders or even cheques. Rev. A. Philips will be most grateful to receive help from anyone wherever you may be.

M. F. MACKENZIE (Miss).

The School House, Damerham.

Semitone bells for modulation purposes can be shown by 2 sharp, 9 sharp or 6 flat, etc., and need not necessarily be used by the ringers of 2, 6, or 9 respectively, but can be fitted into any ringer who is not busy at that particular moment. A table with a cloth on can be used to hold the 'music' and the unused bells.

Mr. N. Chaddock's excellent band at Rotherham use music proper, I believe, and a word from him on this subject would be most interesting.

   11 8 8   - 7 6 6   - 4 3 3   - 2 1 1
:|: 13:13 |-: 9 8: 8 |-: 6 8: 8 |-: 7 6: 6 etc.
    15 -  11 -15 - 11 -12 - 14 -15 -

No. 3 and 4 would appear:

|:|:   :|:   :|:   :|:   :4 3: 3 |-:   :etc.

The bars could be numbered for use in practices. Students should be made to count (audibly at first), throughout the piece, or this may be left to the instructor.

I wish it to be understood that this method is Mr. W. Barton's and not mine, but I have found that it produces excellent results in a short time.—Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

Ryhill, Wakefield.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual meeting of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Southampton on July 5th. Mr. F. D. Rogers (Master) presided and some 60 members were present from a wide area of the Guild. Visitors from London were Messrs. W. Theobald and W. Williams.

The recorder reported a big drop in the number of peals rung—from 113 in 1956 to 39 in 1957. This was largely because the handbell bands at Portsmouth and Bournemouth had been depleted.

The librarian reported a great year for the library; two gifts of books had been received: (1) from Southampton University Ringers; (2) from an anonymous donor. The Guild handbells had been in constant use, chiefly by the Southampton University Guild.

Officers elected were: Master, Mr. F. W. Rogers; treasurer, Mr. R. Reed; general secretary, Mr. J. King; auditor, Mr. L. Bailey; librarian, Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

The recorder of peals, Mr. M. Lakin, announced that he was not seeking re-election, as probably he would be leaving the area shortly. He was thanked for his services. Mr. D. Matkin (Bournemouth) was elected recorder.

It was decided to hold the next annual general meeting at Portsmouth on July 4th, 1959.

Mrs. Kippin said that in recent years a great deal of time had been taken up at their meetings over alterations to rules, and she felt that an overhaul was needed. It was decided to set up a sub-committee comprising: Admiral Everett, Mr. C. Kippin and Mr. R. Reed to go into the matter, and report back.

The service was held in St. Mary's Church, the preacher being Rev. R. O. Stephenson (Bitterne Park). Tea was afterwards taken in the Chantry Hall.

The rings of ten at St. Mary's, St. Michael's and North Stoneham and the ring of eight at Bitterne Park were available to members during the afternoon and evening.

BISHOP'S LONG JOURNEY TO REDEDICATE OAKLEY BELLS

ON Sunday evening, July 6th, the six bells at Oakley, a Suffolk-Norfolk border parish, were rededicated after general overhaul by Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

The oak frame, put up by Geo. Day and Son, of Eye, in 1879, has been taken away, although in good general order, and a steel frame erected some ten feet lower in the tower. The fourth bell has been recast, and all have been turned, retuned and supplied with fresh fittings at a cost of about £1,200, less than half of which has so far been raised. But this is Oakley Bell Year and, by the end of it, it is hoped that the debt will be well reduced.

The houses in Oakley are scattered: there is only one near the church, and this is the Rectory. It is, therefore, one of those churches where, without fear of complaint from householders, the full sound of the bells could be allowed to go across the surrounding countryside.

A good gathering of Suffolk and Norfolk ringers rang the bells after the service and found how well they went. The recast fourth fits in with its fellows and, so far as being a new bell goes, is undetectable. The 10-year-old treble has some shrillness still. They are rung from the ground floor.

The church was full for the service, conducted by the Rector (Rev. H. D. Tyson). There was a large choir of both sexes and all ages. There was evident enthusiasm and determination in all who had arranged and practised for the service, which included no less than six full-bodied hymns, as well as the Bell Carol, which was sung by the choir. The lesson was most clearly and beautifully read by Margaret Bourne, a member of the choir and a ringer like her sister.

NOT HALF-WAY

The Vicar said that they had been able to pay off £500 the day before—not quite the half-way mark. So far, they had asked for no help from diocesan sources. He praised the way women helpers had cleaned the church for the service, as two days before everything it it was smothered in dust and dirt as the incidental builders' work in the tower had taken longer than anticipated, and the tower is open to the church.

The dedication was performed by the Lord Bishop of Dunwich. He also preached the sermon, and had taken part in the service in St. Paul's Cathedral (nearly 100 miles away) that morning, when some 400 bishops from all over the world attended preparatory to the beginning of the Lambeth Conference.

Bells, he said, take part and have a place in our national as well as parochial and private life—a mouthpiece for stirring the minds and emotion according to the event. He had particularly noticed the ringing before and after the service in St. Paul's that morning.

Ringing means much to the community. Take ringing on New Year's Eve—bidding penitence for mistakes in the old year and a forward look with a prayer into the new one. We are told in our prayer books to pray, and a bell to be rung twice a day—not on Sundays only.

Bells are messengers of God proclaiming His Gospel unto the world. To ringers he would say: 'Exercise your sacred ministry and be sure that your own lives accord with what you are preaching.' Bishops, priests and deacons should not only preach but should act according to what they preach to evade condemnation of being called hypocrites. Ringers should act likewise by going to church to worship after they have called others to do so. Sometimes there are people who ring and then go to the nearest 'pub.' 'To me,' continued the Bishop, 'that is the work of a hypocrite. You cannot summon those others to do something and then not do it yourself. . . . If the congregation believed in the message of the bells the Rector would have no difficulty in getting the rest of the money now needed, but it would be useless to pour out all that money for the overhaul if peple did not listen to them and hear their message.'

The six ringers who rang rounds immediately following the dedication, with the Bishop in the midst of them, did their job extremely well. There was no unevenness throughout and a perfect 'stand' was effected. The local ringers are enthusiastic, with Mr. Flack training the newer ones, and the tower should be a live one.

University Of Bristol Society's Summer Tour, 1958

ON Friday, June 13th, 20 members of the University of Bristol Society met at Bridgwater for the start of the annual summer tour. Of those taking part, all were cycling and Youth Hostelling except three whose previous contact with Youth Hostel beds had not been too comfortable.

After ringing at Bridgwater we went to Wembdon, Cannington and Stoke Courcy. At the last named tower the third has been rehung by a local ringer and proved rather difficult to handle. The dash to the Hostel followed but this was rapidly reduced to a crawl when it was discovered that Holford Youth Hostel is near the top of a rather high hill. At breakfast next morning the warden sized-up the Master with the admirable description of a 'chatterbox.'

Saturday's ringing started with two fives—West Quantockshead and Sampford Brett. We then pressed on to Old Cleeve, where the Vicar took some of us into the village club, of which they are very proud. After lunch followed by ringing at Carhampton we moved on to Minehead. Here we managed Stedman Caters and also suffered the first of a series of punctures. Dunster was next on the list and after ringing on the eight there we visited Timberscombe. Exford was the Hostel for the night and was finally reached after much walking up hills.

A BUSY SUNDAY

We crept out of the Hostel soon after 7.15 on Sunday morning to ring on the fine six at Exford before Communion. Ringing for matins was arranged at Winsford but some of those with long Hostel duties only arrived in time to hear an exhibition touch of Cambridge Minor. However, after adding our musical talents to those of the rest of the congregation, we rang for a while after service. At the Vicar's invitation we ate our lunches on his lawn. One or two were sufficiently brave to bathe in the stream flowing past the end of the lawn. Very reluctantly we left Winsford to visit Exton. Ringing for Evensong was at Dulverton and we had a glorious ride of several miles down the Exe valley with its beautiful wooded slopes and colourful clumps of rhododendron bushes. We spent the night at Bampton Hostel—an old malthouse conveniently situated in the middle of the town.

Ringing on Monday started at Bampton, where we were met by an old member of the Society, and we then cycled to Tiverton. Before ringing on the fine eight we had time for coffee in an hotel that possessed a fabulous collection of beer mats. We also had lunch in Tiverton and despite our strange attire we gained admission to a very respectable restaurant. After ringing on the ten at Cullompton we visited Uffculme, Sampford, Wiveliscombe and Uplowman before returning to Bampton for well-earned refreshment and rest.

HOSPITALITY.

On the following morning we said goodbye to Bampton and made our way to Huntsham, the home of the Troyte family. Here a course of Bristol was rung, the aged and infirm having at last remembered enough of the blue line to fill in the gaps. Ringing at Ashbrittle and Rockwell Green followed and then the party swept into Wellington to have lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Bird, the parents of the Society's secretary. Twenty ringers finally disappeared into the house and enjoyed a delightful lunch served by Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Slocombe. Even the local press took notice and we were duly photographed and interviewed. After lunch we rang at Wellington before going on to Milverton. That night found us in Crowcombe Hostel which has the air of a country club about it. Here we had our first (and last) real sing-song before trying to sleep on the creaky bunks.

The last day started with the anti-clockwise six at Crowcombe before going on to Bishop's Lydeard, a ring we found difficult to handle because of the tower sway. Taunton St. James' was the last tower before lunch and here we met Mr. W. G. Gigg. After lunch we visited St. Mary's, and found the bells rather a handful. The engaged couple in the party had rather taken us by surprise with the announcement a week earlier but we made amends at this stage by presenting them with a very serviceable rolling pin. St. George's, Wilton, was the scene of our last ring together and the party then split up to go their various ways.

Our chief memories of the tour will be the unbelievably good weather, the lovely countryside and the large number of beautiful carved screens we saw in the churches. We are most grateful to the secretary of the Society, Mr. P. J. Bird, for organising the tour, to the incumbents and tower captains for their hospitality and to Mrs. Bird for the way she 'fed the five thousand' when we descended on Wellington.

STORIES FROM OUTINGS

BOLSOVER, DERBYSHIRE

The last Saturday in June has now become the traditional date for the outing of the Bolsover Parish Church ringers and friends, and after several days of very heavy rain it was a very pleasant change to have a reasonably fine and warm day for the visit to several towers in the Coventry and Warwick District.

It was necessary to make an early start and calls were made at Cresswell and Warsop to pick up old friends, including Harry Prout who rang at Bolsover many years ago and has now retired to live in Warsop.

The first stop was at Nuneaton where Mrs. Beebe was waiting to meet the coach. The allotted time passed very quickly. It was only a very short journey to Bedworth where slight difficulty was experienced with the new ropes. The red sallies reminded us of home and the ground floor ringing was appreciated by all. The writer was very much impressed by the fine high altar and reredos and it was encouraging to find the Curate and one of the churchwardens taking such a keen interest in the visit. A number of the non-ringers had gone forward by service bus into Coventry and all assembled at the Wine Lodge Hotel for a very substantial lunch.

In the early afternoon a visit was made to Allesley and we were pleased to meet Mr. Taylor. The light bells were moved along at a merry pace and the visitors showed considerable interest in a table with a glass top covered with extracts of pages from the 'Ringers' Diary.' It was noted that this was the home tower of W. A. Stote who is a regular visitor to meetings of the Derbyshire Assocation.

The afternoon was devoted to the two towers of St. Mary's and St. Nicholas' in Warwick. Two of the local ringers had very kindly raised most of the bells of St. Mary's and the party were very pleased to make the acquaintance of Mr. Wm. Collett who has been connected with the tower for more than 60 years. For many it was their first experience of ten bells but a good touch of Kent Treble Bob was brought round. A course of Superlative Surprise Major was rung on the back eight, Little Bob and Plain Bob Royal on the full ten. There were divided opinions on the comparison between these bells and those at Chesterfield.

Mr. Collett accompanied the party to St. Nicholas' and the new ring of eight was very greatly appreciated by all. A young lady kindly deputised for Mr. Garner-Hayward (away in Italy) and joined in a course of Bob Major. The bells here were very easy to strike and were heard to great advantage in a course of Yorkshire Surprise Major.

Tea was taken at the Warwick Restaurant and the last call was at Tamworth where Mr. Peers very kindly waited approximately 30 minutes to meet us. The heavy eight proved to be the highlight of the day and in spite of a long and tiring tour the striking was up to the best standard, particularly in touches of Stedman Triples, St. Clement's Bob Major and Double Norwich Court Bob Major. Some of the best ringing of the day was heard in a course of Yorkshire Surprise Major with Herbert Rooke on the tenor. The Vicar of Tamworth visited the coach and had a kindly word with members of the party.

It was approximately midnight when the last of the party reached home but all agreed that this was one of the best outings ever arranged. The writer would particularly like to thank Mr. Garner-Hayward and members of the Coventry Diocesan Guild for their ready assistance with suggestions for the tour. A. B. C.

SWINDON RINGERS SELECT MIDLAND TOWERS

A prompt 7 a.m. start was made on June 28th by the Christ Church, Swindon ringers on their customarily superbly organised annual outing. Joined by friends from neighbouring towers, a total of 43 ringers, including an eleventh hour 'gate-crasher,' filled a luxurious coach en route for the first tower at Bromsgrove (Worcs.) with an historic ring of ten. Some excellent Stedman Caters redeemed a rather disappointing full course of Cambridge Royal, while the beginners rang some creditable Grandsire Caters on these mellow bells.

An early salad lunch awaited a ravenous party at Dudley—where the temptation to foist some members of the party on the famous zoo had to be resisted! A beautifully musical and sweet-tuned ten were found at St. Thomas's Church, and the customary Caters and Royal methods were rung, including a Bob course of Kent and also some Little Bob. At Walsall our all-too-short ringing time was sadly curtailed by a wedding for which the sun had obligingly appeared. However it produced probably the best ringing, of Stedman Caters, of the day. A neat touch of Stedman Cinques had full justice done it with some excellent and almost faultless ringing, which gave much satisfaction to everyone.

Tea was to follow next, in Lichfield. To everyone's regret the glorious bells at the Cathedral were not available, but we had an enjoyable time on the mellow eight at St. Mary's. Cambridge, Double Norwich, St. Clement's Major and Stedman Triples were among the methods brought round. Thus we were soon en route for our last tower of the day at Coleshill (Warwicks). A very tuneful light eight here were put to good use, and Superlative and St. Clement's were brought round although on the whole the anti-clockwise ring did not produce very distinguished ringing. Another group photo to follow the one at Walsall was taken here in the evening sun—it's to be hoped everyone managed to get some part of themselves into the photo!

All aboard again via Kenilworth and Warwick for supper and drinks at the Home Office Fire Training Centre at Moreton-in-the-Marsh. The superb 'facilities' and refreshments here made the perfect end to the day. Everyone was well satisfied with the Resident Recording Engineer who had done 'sound' work during the day recording the ringing at the various towers on the tape recorder, when our efforts were played back to us.

Swindon was reached just before 12.30 a.m. at the end of a long but exceptionally satisfying and thoroughly enjoyable day. Everyone's most sincere thanks are due to Eric Sutton for his thorough and painstaking organisation, to Frank Wilton for his excellent arrangements at Moreton, and to all the tower captains and incumbents for the privilege of ringing upon their bells. 'CAMPANAMANUAL.'

NORTH WEALD, ESSEX

For their outing on June 28th, 15 ringers from North Weald went and sampled the bells at half-a-dozen towers in North Essex. This was something of an adventure, for North Weald had not done anything like that for a long time.

The first tower was Newport, where everybody had a go from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise. Then followed Wendans Ambo, Littlebury and Elmdon, where a fine tea was had at the King's Head. Chrishall, with its long draught and small circle, took some getting used to. The tourists visited Clavering, where the best ringing of the day took place.

BURGHILL, HEREFORD

Last year our Vicar—a Salopian—at our request, planned for the Burghill, Hereford, ringers a very interesting ringing tour mainly in Shropshire. We were agreed that another trip into this lovely county would please both the ringers and the non-ringers. Our band on June 7th was strengthened by the Rector of Presteigne, the Rev. E. Geoffrey Benson, a former Vicar of Burghill, who was able to act as navigator: Mr. Austin Wingate, of the Hereford Cathedral band; Mr. W. Jones, for many years a member of our band and now resident in Gloucester; Mr. T. Stokes, father of our captain, and Bill Adams, of St. Nicholas', Hereford, a rooted tenor-man.

At Claverley we found a nice mellow and tuneful ring of eight bells (15¼ cwt.) by Gillett and Johnston (1929). Two members of the local band met and rang with us and we felt we were being made very welcome (this experience was felt at all the towers visited). Claverley has a keen Sunday service band and with very few exceptions the bells have been rung for morning and evening service for the last 16 years.

Our second tower was at St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth. Here we again found a lovely ring of eight bells, a very fine 21 cwt. Warner tenor, and the ladies a fine shopping centre. We were met here by Mr. H. G. Thomas the retiring Master and newly-elected secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild.

Our third tower was to have been at St. Michael's, Madeley, but owing to our late arrival and a wedding time would not permit.

At Broseley we were welcomed by the Rector and one of his ringers, and we quickly had this tuneful octave (13 cwt.) by Mears in action. We arrived at Much Wenlock in time to have a leisurely booked tea before ringing. The massive stone tower contains a ring of eight bells. The back six are by Rudhall, 1729, trebles added by Taylor, 1931. The 'go' and tone of the 16 cwt. tenor is such as would please the most exacting campanologist.

Our last tower was Cleobury Mortimore—our only six of the day and the Rev. E. G. Benson's 621st tower. It was his only 'new' tower on this outing. The bells are by Abel Rudhall, 1757. We had asked for the use of the bells for 30-40 minutes but the Vicar, who met us, and who has no Sunday service band, appeared to be so enthusiastic at hearing his bells ringing again that we felt we could have stayed longer had time allowed us to do so.

Methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples and Plain Bob Minor and Major. From a ringing point of view the 279 Grandsire Triples at Broseley and the two courses of Bob Major at Much Wenlock were the best efforts. Our thanks are due to the six incumbents for giving us permssion to use their bells and to the ringers who were waiting at each tower to meet us.

50 Years After At Llantwit

On Monday, June 29th, 1908, the bells of St. Illtyd, Llantwit Major, were rededicated after being recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. They were originally a six, cast in 1722 by Abraham Rudhall.

On Saturday, June 28th, ringers came to the tower from as far away as Cardiff and Bridgend, and according to the Parish Magazine 'We were treated to a variety of ringing from rounds to methods hitherto unheard at Llantwit Major.' Afterwards they, together with old and present ringers of the parish, held a short service in the church, which was followed by tea and more ringing with renewed vigour.

On Sunday, the actual day of the anniversary, there was Festal Evensong with special hymns and lessons.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Northampton Branch

The village of Courteenhall is situated 1¼ miles off the main Northampton—Stony Stratford road, and with a population of about sixty, it has no bus service or village pub. It was at the beautiful church dedicated to SS. Peter and Paul that the Northampton Branch held its summer meeting on June 28th. The weather on this day was exceptionally kind. Before ringing commenced at Courteenhall, the bells of the neighbouring parishes of Wootton and Roade were made available. When all had assembled at Courteenhall, and the service touch duly rung, the Guild form of service was conducted by the Rector of Courteenhall with Collintree (Rev. C. L. Dunkerley), who also gave the address. The local organist, Mrs. W. Gosnald, was in attendance. Afterwards, a stroll through the park was necessary, for tea had been arranged in the only convenient place —the Old Grammar School, a well kept building, some 200 years old. Tea was served to 64 ringers and friends.

As this was a non-business meeting, it was necessary for the secretary to give notice of a change in date of a special meeting to be held at Walgrave to enable the enrolment of new members from this tower. The secretary said he was pleased with the state of Branch towers, and that nearly all had a band of ringers. New members were also forthcoming from Pitsford, where training of young people was in progress.

On behalf of members and friends present, Mr. G. F. Roome thanked the Rev. C. L Dunkerley (Rector), the organist, and ladies for the tea arrangements. Replying, the Rector said he could not help but notice the young people present, and stated that on looking down from the pulpit, he could not see one bald head! The bells of Courteenhall were again ringing across the park to complete a beautiful scene.

A social evening later took place in the Church Hall which was attended by over 100 ringers and friends. The evening consisted of dancing to the music of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and a selection of popular games. Entertainment was given by Miss Diana Papworth with a selection of tap and Scottish dancing, and the 'Planets' Skiffle Group. Refreshments were served by the church ladies. During the evening the secretary thanked all who had taken part in the entertainment and for the excellent arrangements made.

Mr. B. E. Frost (Branch Ringing Master), is to be congratulated on the way he carried out the duties of M.C. According to a local resident it was the liveliest 'do' in the village since the Coronation.

At Loughborough Foundry

A start at 6.30 a.m., and for some even before, was necessary for the Framsden (Suffolk) and Diss (Norfolk) outing to Loughborough. At the foundry we were met by Mr. Paul Taylor, and Mr. John Fidler escorted us round, which was greatly appreciated. At the Campanile, after a few bumped stays, Cambridge Royal and Yorkshire Major were rung. Some asked: 'Why all the shelves in the Campanile?'

After lunch All Saints' Church was visited, and a good course of Cambridge Royal was rung. Many of the party preferred these bells to those of Grantham.

We apologise for our poor attempt to raise in peal at St. John-the-Divine's, Leicester, but Cambridge Royal was well rung. After tea the handy eight at Aylestone and South Wigston were visited. Home was reached after an absence of 20 hours. We thank especially Mr. Brian G. Warwick for his valuable help in organising the outing.

A DAMERHAM WEDDING

The wedding took place on June 28th, at St. George's Church, Damerham, of Mr. R. T. Jones, of Ross-on-Wye, and Miss J. M. Gray, of Damerham. The Rev. A. Phillips officiated at the choral service.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white figured brocade with a shoulder length veil held in place by a circlet of imitation orange blossom.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Evelyn Gray, who wore a full length dress of yellow net over taffeta, with a matching headdress.

The best man was Mr. K. Walker.

At the conclusion of the service touches were rung on the bells by the local band of ringers.

The reception was held at the Compasses Hotel, Damerham.

After the reception a peal of Plain Bob Minor was attempted by members of the Salisbury District ringers. Unfortunately it came to grief after ringing for 1½ hours. A quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was then attempted and was successful. The band was:—P. Waterman 1, J. Baverstock 2, Miss A. Bacon 3, A. Haines 4, P. Morgan 5, H. H. Abrahams (conductor) 6.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN T. BARTRAM

The death took place in Worksop Victoria Hospital on June 9th of Mr. John T. Bartram, of East Retford, aged 74. He was to have undergone an operation but unfortunately passed away before it could be carried out. For many years he had lived at Misterton and was churchwarden there. He had learnt to ring at North Wheatley and at one time was attached to the Gainsborough tower.

He joined the North Notts Association in 1906 and for years would cycle miles to meetings. He also had been a member for many years of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. On his retirement from work he came to live at Retford and joined the East Retford band in 1949.

Mr. Bartram assisted West Retford on practice nights, and often rang there on Sunday mornings before going to his own tower. Of a quiet nature, he had rung less than a dozen peals; to him Sunday service ringing seemed to be the object.

The funeral service took place at East Retford on June 13th, Canon W. E. A. Pugh officiating and the interment was at Ordsall; his wife predeceased him some years ago. Ringers attended from East and West Retford and North Wheatley and the bells were afterwards rung half-muffled.

Although East Retford has a fair number of young learners, 'Jack,' who was well respected, will be greatly missed and will leave a gap that will be hard to fill.

May he have rightly earned his reward.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2469 Vol. LIV. FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

TAKING STOCK

'THE RINGING WORLD' has been running steadily since 1911, and with one break due to industrial troubles in the newspaper and periodical Press, has not failed to make a weekly appearance. It is well under such circumstances for the Editor to take stock. Looking back to the publication in 1946 when the present Editor assumed office, there have been various improvements in lay-out and technique generally and to present such ringing news available in an attractive manner without sensationalism. But 'The Ringing World' differs from most publications; its ownership is not individual but collective, and every ringer who is a member of one of the affiliated associations shares in that ownership—not for any personal profit but for the general enrichment of the Exercise.

The purport of 'The Ringing World' is to knit the great body of ringers into one big brotherhood. And there is this to be said for ringing generally—there is no body of lay church people where the family spirit is more manifest, where individuals are known to a very wide circle, if not personally, by their deeds and accomplishments. Towards this family spirit a start was admirably made by the founder, and his example has been in front of the Editor during these past 12 years.

But a family cannot stand still, neither can 'The Ringing World.' There are big gaps. On the one side there are towers that are silent on Sundays, and on the other there are many ringers who are not subscribers to the journal. Our experience has been that there is a change in subscribing membership of approximately 6 per cent. a year. Fortunately, newcomers of late have counterbalanced losses, and we are a little to the good.

What are the reasons, apart from deaths and marriages? In the first place, young ringers lose interest in the Exercise, often through leaving home. Secondly, there are many ringers who are not really in the family. Their ringing is confined to their own tower; they rarely go to meetings and their only contact with the big outside world of ringing is when an itinerant ringer or a coach party comes to their tower. They take the journal for a season and give it up. And when one's vision is restricted to Grandsire Doubles and there is an absence of outside social contacts it is understandable.

Then we have the fluctuating readers who take the journal for one quarter, drop out for one or two quarters and then rejoin for another period. But a glance at our peal and quarter peal columns indicates that they are still keen on their ringing; they are invariably readers of the journal through belfry or friends' copies. In many cases the lapse arises through being 'too busy' to buy a postal order. Last week-end, for example, we sent out 144 overdue subscription reminders, asking for a reply. The 'too busy' section didn't even reply.

Finally there are those to whom the journal fails to make an appeal. Some complain about the four pages devoted to peals, others that compositions and letters on theory are Greek to them and a waste of space. (Incidentally, one subscriber told the Editor that the only thing he read in 'The Ringing World' was compositions.) There are complaints that reports of outings are curtailed, others think some of the contributions are too flippant, or again 'The Ringing World' is far too stodgy and the special articles too heavy. The Editor to some is too dictatorial and to others not 'having the guts' to use the waste-paper basket. It is obvious that 'The Ringing World' will not please all its readers, but we go so far as to say that the majority find it a very welcome arrival on a Friday.

What is the remedy? The answer is surely the greater postbag the more varied the contents. We welcome everything though not necessarily for publication. We need good articles of interest to ringers and also suitable contributions for the front page of the journal. To those who send reports of outings or tours remember that 'Bert' or 'Shelagh' is not sufficient identity. A report of an outing has to be written for the interest of 5,500 readers, not for the 20 or 30 in the coach party.

Now for a few grouses. All journals get bad copy—difficult to decipher. A fancy signature at the end of a letter or contribution has caused many wasted minutes—searching guild reports and other means to establish the identity of the sender. It may be a protection against forgery on a cheque, but the good old-fashioned block capitals are still the best.

Names in peals and quarter peals cannot be accurately printed unless plainly written. Do not economise in paper—write on one side only, especially peals and quarter peals. When submitting a report of any performance, have a copy of 'The Ringing World' in front of you and see how it is set up. There are great men in the Exercise who feel that the number of the bell should be printed before the name of the ringer and the sign for a footnote afterwards. Then there is a proper sequence for footnote signs, starting with an asterisk. This has been traditional since 1911.

As to the future, the Exercise can only have the newspaper it requires in relation to the degree of co-operation from its readers. The individual reader's enthusiasm is the crux of everything: he or she can get new subscribers and can add to the interest of its pages. And now for bumper postbags and more subscribers.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Devizes Branch

The half-yearly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at All Saints', Westbury, on July 5th. The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Galloway.

After tea in the Institute the business meeting was presided over by Mr. A. T. Weeks (chairman), who welcomed visitors from Backwell (Somerset), Chippenham, Clutton, Corsley, Frome, Malmesbury, Nailsea, Salisbury and Brother Ronald of the Order of St. Francis (Dorset). Seven new members and one honorary member were elected. Thanks were extended to the Vicar, the organist, and to the ladies who provided the tea.

The next three meetings were arranged for Steeple Ashton, Longbridge Deverill and Bradford Holy Trinity. Methods rung during the afternoon ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major.

RINGING PROGRESS AT HARTHILL

Appreciable progress towards establishing a change ringing band has been made at All Hallows' Church, Harthill, Yorkshire, where the ring of eight bells (tenor 18¼ cwt.) has for the past two years been rung fairly regularly for both morning and evening services.

Six members of the band have now taken part in 720 Bob Minor, which qualifies them to become members of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers. On July 14th three of these six rang in a quarter peal of Plain Bob Triples (1,260 changes): they are Hugh Bishop and Ian and Donald Fraser, and the other three who have qualified for the Yorkshire Association are Jean Pemberton, Patricia Hartley and Janet Meek. N. C.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT RINGERS' OUTING

Barnsley District ringers outing on July 5th was into Derbyshire, and a 7.15 a.m. start was made to pick up ringers and friends at Silkstone, Cawthorne, Shelley and Ecclesfield. Owing to floods the route to Clowne was diverted, and despite arriving one and a half hours late a warm welcome was received from Mr. Cooper. The six bells were soon ringing to Oxford, Kent and Plain Bob.

At Bolsover Mr. Cooper and Mr. Joseph Saxon not only made us welcome but joined in the ringing. An excellent lunch was served at the Diamond Horseshoe Hotel.

The afternoon's ringing was at Fairfield, where Mr. Richardson had made arrangements for tea, provided at the Pavilion Gardens Restaurant. The last tower was St. Matthew's, Hayfield, where Mr. D. Johnson made us welcome. The outing was well organised by Mr. Noel F. Moxon and our thanks are accorded to him, the incumbents and everyone who met us. J. W. B.

BELFRY GOSSIP

At Sharrow, Yorkshire, the Gainsborough ringers on their outing were surprised to see a stained glass window recording a peal. Is this unique?

Featured in the July issue of the British Railways Magazine (North-Eastern Region) is the Guild of Railwaymen Church Bell Ringers at York.

The ringer of the treble in the quarter peal at Penarth (see page 346) was E. J. R. Hartley and not R. T. Escott, as printed. Our correspondent's apologies.

During the University Whitsun tour a valuable fountain pen was left in the belfry of Crookham Church. If the owner will send 1s. 6d. to Mr. T. Fowler, Crookham, Berks, it will be returned by registered post.

During ringing for Evensong at St. Martin's, Dorking, Surrey, on July 6th, the bells were rung by eight ladies, all resident in the parish. There must be few parishes which can emulate this feat.

The peal of London Surprise at Daventry (page 460) was rung with the best wishes of the band to Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Webb, of Staverton, on the birth of a son and heir.

The Ancient Society of College Youths rang a peal of more than ordinary interest at Croydon on July 12th, when the band was composed of the Master and 11 past-masters. Perhaps some other Society will also try to emulate this perofrmance among its past-masters as apart from an officers' peal.

The Army peal at Richmond, Yorks, on July 9th was the culmination of 23 months' waiting by Mr. J. R. Taylor, of Bedford, who is doing his National Service. The peal was finally possible by the posting of Mr. Bruce Grainger to Catterick on a two weeks' course. The band hope that more Army peals will be forthcoming.

Mr. P. E. Preston, a member of the Farnborough (Hants) Parish Church team, celebrated his 21st birthday by taking part in his first quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles on July 6th. It was also the first quarter for Mr. A. E. Lifford, and the eighth successful quarter this year for the Farnborough band.

Handing over the Central Council Library was no light task. It involved Mr. Frederick Sharpe moving 12,000 books—and it was not a 'ground floor ring.'

The peal at St. Thomas' Church, Exeter, on June 18th (page 426) should be credited to the Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

The Railwaymen's Guild's slogan for 1957 'On to the Century' was exceeded; the slogan for 1958 is 'On to the Double Century.'

Good fellowship abounded at the joint meeting of the Shropshire Association and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford at Shrewsbury on July 12th. A company of 76 attended.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild made 265 new members during 1957. Some members would like to see Mr. Cupid banned from the belfry! Marriage is one of the reasons for loss of members.

His friends will be pleased to learn that Mr. Philip Gray has recovered from his serious eye trouble that has involved two operations and has prevented him working since the end of April. He hopes to start work next week.

A feature of the Oxford Diocesan Guild Festival on Saturday was the dedication of a beautiful banner for the Guild by the Master, the Rev. C. E. Wigg. Designed by Mr. F. G. Edmans, of Great Horwaard, Bucks, it was woven by Mr. M. Jamieson and embroidered by Miss E. Irving. The pole for the banner was made by Mr. Edmans from the old oak bell frame of Great Horwood Church, dated 1660.

GREAT RINGING DAY AT SAFFRON WALDEN

The 335th anniversary of Great Ringing Day was held on Saturday, June 28th. Ringing commenced at 11.15 a.m. with visitors from Bedford, and others. The Oxford Diocesan Guild arrived about 11.45 on their annual outing and commenced their ringing with Stedman Cinques, followed by Stedman Caters and Grandsire Cinques. They all went to the Oulde Hoose at 12.30 for lunch. By this time a party from the South-West Division of Essex Association, under the leadership of the Master, Mr. John Crampion, arrived and went to their lunch at the Abbey Hotel.

After lunch the party from Oxford said 'Farewell' and continued their journey on their outing, and the South-Western ringers made their way to the tower, where other visitors had gathered. The bells were kept going all the afternoon. Stedman Cinques appeared to be the favourite method, but a half-course of Cambridge Royal was successfully brought round.

The festival service was held at 4 p.m., conducted by the Vicar (Canon M. R. Sinker), the preacher being the curate (the Rev. W. Uden). Tea was taken at 5 p.m., some going to the Abbey Hotel and some to the Oulde Hoose.

It is much regretted that the key to the tower could not be found after tea and we express our sincere regrets to those visitors who could not ring. We trust they enjoyed watching the carnival procession. We now know that the key made a journey to Surrey. On the whole it was a very enjoyable day, with some good 12-bell ringing. There were over 100 visitors during the day. L. E. P.

A Visitor's Impressions

For the second successive year, 'S.W.' has meant the occasion of the Essex Association's lively South-Western Division outing to Saffron Walden's Great Ringing Day on the last Saturday in June.

Composed largely of the younger generation from Waltham Abbey and Walthamstow, with friends from Leytonstone and Epping, and the largest Cumberland, from Tunbridge Wells, the coach set forth equipped with handbells and hunting-horn, the latter to warn sleepy Essex villagers of the impending shattering of the deep peace which is, alas, so rarely disturbed by the sound of their own bells.

En route, Peter Bond and Hugh Neill beguiled us with a well-rung course of Bob Major, perfectly synchronised. At Ickleton the excellent octave was put to good use from rounds to Bristol. A very unusual feature here is that, whereas other churches' Norman arches are their treasured 'oldest feature,' Ickleton goes one better and has its Norman arches supported by Roman columns!

Saffron Walden was 'en fete' and the sound of the bells, well rung by a party from Bedfordshire, mingled with that of fairground organs. After lunch at the Abbey Hotel we were welcomed at the tower by Mr. Pitstow and ringing, delayed by a funeral (last year it was a wedding), started off with a well-struck touch of Stedman Cinques. Rounds on 12, more Cinques, Royal and Caters followed, with a service at 4 p.m. and tea.

Leaving Saffron Walden abandoned to the spirit of carnival (in a damp English way) we set off for Radwinter. A difficult eight, with some ropes hanging down against the walls and others discovered hiding coyly behind beams and clock-case. A continuous and alarming rumble overhead was found to be due to an incredible swinging movement of the entire bell frame. Here the aforementioned largest Cumberland, frustrated in casting aside the tenor box by finding it screwed to the floor, knelt sideways upon it to ring. It is pleasant to see him adopt such a devout posture occasionally, even if only for reasons of comfort.

The road to the last tower took us through Thaxted, where the famous horn-dancers, in white knee-breeches, were performing slow and solemn gyrations before the Moot Hall. Lionel Woods' thoughtless greeting on the hunting-horn produced from them the sort of hostile glare which was only to be expected from anyone wearing antlers on hearing such a sound.

Hatfield Broad Oak's pleasing octave sounded well, and a good lower in peal concluded the day's tower ringing.

Once again the Good Intent at Sawbridge provided a vast buffet-supper and the well-remembered draught cider. Music on handbells and piano brought our stay all too soon to an end and the journey home was resumed, during which one noted with interest an increase this year in the number of closely-paired heads!

Our grateful thanks are given to Lionel Woods for organising this happy day—a particularly difficult job since he is at present on National Service.

In view of the curious correspondence about Cumberland Youths and a 'new beat' which followed the writer's last report of an outing, he desires it to be known that on this occasion no untoward incident or odd striking (apart from a course of 'Howling Bitch' Grandsire Doubles on handbells, 1, 2, 5, 4, 6, 3) was attributable to the Cumberland Youths present, even the largest of whom behaved as well as could be expected.

HARTEST, SUFFOLK.—On July 12th. 1,260 Doubles (360 St. Bartholomew, 360 Plain Bob, 540 Grandsire): G. Garwood 1, M. Willoughby 2, F. Payne (cond.) 3, H. Clarke 4, R. J. Truin 5. Rung to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the treble ringer.

RUGBY, WARWICKS.—At the Church of St. Andrew, on July 6th, 1,264 Plain Bob Major: Miss P. Murden 1, Mrs. W. Vann 2, A. Barlow 3, C. Underwood 4, P. Howitt 5, P. Fisher 6, J. Underwood 7, S. G. Osborne (cond.) 8. A 90th birthday compliment to Mr. G. Peck.

KIMPTON SAGA

'Tis nearly four years since the game was begun
And ringers assembled to plot
How Kimpton Church bells be retuned and rehung,
The verdict—six hundred the lot!

The Vicar looked grave as the tale he was told,
For where could the money be found?
'The fabric and organ come first'—we resolved
To work for it, penny and pound.

Our jumble and handbells soon saw light of day,
The sales and the carols went well,
A concert, a social, all helped on the way,
And then the misfortunes befell!

The new Village Hall was completed at last
'Mid cheers—and a whacking great debt.
Folk rallied to pay it—formidable task—
Alas! they are rallying yet!

The Methodist Church then a kitchen required,
Two ringers with babies were blessed,
Three youngsters apiece made the parents so tired,
The Bell Fund was given a rest.

Now slowly and surely the money comes in,
Till three hundred pounds we record:
O, soon may our bells cease their odd-striking din,
And worthily ring to the Lord!

Halfway, and new hope, so a fete we did plan
For August, the ninth of this year;
So Herts and Beds ringers do come if you can,
If only to drink up the beer!

There's sports, dance and baby show, something for all
(And ringing, we hardly need say),
So mind you're at Kimpton (the School Field and Hall)
In time to enjoy a good day. H. P.

THE HALIFAX OPENING IN 1787

By DAVID CUBITT

'In 1787 a visit was paid to Yorkshire. . . . The band (of College Youths) . . . went first to Halifax, where a new ring of eight was opened on October 19h, and on the next day they rang 5,088 Oxford Treble Bob Major. . . . They claimed this as the first peal ever rung in that county, but the claim is not a sound one. Two years previously 5,120 in the same method had been rung at Sheffield. . . .'—J. Armiger Trollope, 'The College Youths,' 1937.

Early in 1787, the inhabitants resolved that the eight bells at the Parish Church of St. John the Baptist, Halifax, should be replaced. It was decided that the money for the scheme should be secured by voluntary subscription and not by a rate levied on the parish, 'to avoid all litigation, as to any townships, districts or places, being, or not being, liable to contribute thereto.' The old eight were a miscellaneous lot. The treble had been cast (or recast) in 1660: the second bell bore the date 1722: the third and fourth bells were dated 1720: on the sixth was inscribed 'Gero nomen Sanct. Johannis D 1599 F': on the seventh 'Thomas Fourness of Halifax the first founder of this bell 1472 recast 1639': the tenor, called Stancliff, was dated 1691, and had been cast by Samuel Smith at York.

QUAINT INSCRIPTIONS

A moderate estimate of the cost of the work involved was £350, and promises of subscriptions, including one of 20 guineas from the Halifax ringers, were quickly received. In due course the new bells were cast at the Whitechapel foundry, transported northwards and installed. The names of the founders appeared on the seventh bell; the other bells each carried two lines of doggerel; for example, the third:

'Let Parker's liberal deeds be known
To future ages yet unborn.'

(A Mr. Parker gave 20 guineas.)

The fourth:

'Ye ringers who would happy be,
In concord live and unity.'

While on the tenor the inscription from Stancliff was repeated:

'All ye who hear my mournful sound,
Repent before you lie in ground.'

and the names of the wardens, who had together given five guineas, were added.

It was arranged that the bells should be opened in October, 1787. The opening, in fact, took place early that month, and occupied two days, but which two it is difficult to discover. Mr. Trollope said the opening day was the 9th: Parson and White's 'Annals, History and Guide of Leeds and York, etc.,' and John Mayhew's 'Annals of Yorkshire,' both gave the 10th as the opening day: a 'History of Halifax' (the printer of which was E. Jacobs,' but no author's name or date of publication—though I think it was about 1790—appeared in the copy I saw) gives Wednesday, October 11th, as the first day of the opening—October 11th that year was, however, a Thursday.

On the first day, whichever it was, early in the morning, the Halifax ringers raised the bells in peal, rang a touch of Bob Major, followed by a lower in peal, taking 40 minutes.

CROWN BOB TRIPLES

Bradford ringers followed them with a peal of 5,040 Crown Bob Triples in three hours and ten minutes. Crown Bob on six bells (as rung, for example, at Rotherham in 1752 and Addingham-in-Craven in 1759) was a combination of Oxford Treble Bob, College Treble Bob and College Pleasure. Similarly, Crown Bob Triples was a combination of College Triples, Oxford Triples and London Triples, and a peal described as 'Royal Union or Crown Bob Tripples' and as 'perhaps, the first Peal of the Kind ever rung in this Country,' had been rung at Leeds on September 22nd, 1769.

The Wakefield Society next rang a peal of Triples—method unidentified— in three hours and twenty-nine minutes.

The third and last peal that day was rung by the Leeds Society—5,040 Bob Triples in three hours and sixteen minutes.

The next morning, the College Youths were first up the tower and rang the peal referred to in the opening quotation, in three hours and thirty-five minutes. The ringers were:—Robert Donkin, treble: Thomas Blakemore, second (conductor): John Inville, third: Joseph Monk, fourth; William Lyford, fifth; George Webb, sixth: Joseph Holdsworth, seventh: and Samuel Muggeridge, jun., tenor. It was unpardonable arrogance to claim the peal as the first in Yorkshire: but a peal in the method would be new to some, and perhaps all, of the ringers assembled at Halifax that day.

Ringers of the Ashton-under-Lyne Society were next, and a peal of Triples—method unknown — was rung in three hours and three minutes, after which the Sowerby ringers started for a peal of Triples, but failing light forced them to call off their attempt after about 4,500 changes.

SACRED SYLVA'S PRAISE

So ended two full days of ringing, and while the other visitors travelled homewards the College Youths moved on to York.

Soon after the opening the following verse appeared:—

Artists from the Metropolis to you,
The laurels of the day are doubtless due:
'Tis granted all your brethren have done well,
But my opinion ye far excel.
Accept the honour Halifax bestows,
Expect it too from all but fools and foes.
A very high degree of praise is due,
Ashtonia's artists, as I think to you:
Grudge not the praise to London Ringers given,
The merit of your work was nearly even!
Ye both excel somewhat in different ways,
Let both accept of sacred Sylva's praise.

('Sylva,' I find, was the name once given to a collection of literary pieces, especially poems: thus, in 1787, was published 'Sylva: or the Wood: being a Collection of Anecdotes, Dissertations, Characters, Apophthegms, Original Letters, Bons Mots, and other little things . . . by a Society of the Learned.')

Less than a month later, on November 5th, in commemoration of the Gunpowder Plot, a peal of 5,088 Bob Major was rung on the new bells in three hours and thirty-three minutes, by: James Green (conductor), treble; John Fawcett, second: Samuel Firth, third: Joseph Flather, fourth; Samuel Pearson, fifth; John Crowther, sixth; John Fournise, seventh; and William Taylor, tenor.

LATER PEALS

The College Youths' peal inspired the Leeds and Bradford Societies each to ring a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major, as two paragraphs in 'The Leeds Mercury' of Tuesday, June 10th, 1788, show:—

'On Wednesday last (being the anniversary of His Majesty's birthday) was rung at our Parish Church, by the Society of Ringers there, an Abstract of Union Treble Bob, consisting of 5,088 changes, in three hours and twenty minutes, being the first time it was ever rung in this part of the kingdom, except by a select set of ringers from London, who rang the same peal at the opening of Halifax new bells.

'On Wednesday the same peal was rung at Bradford on the same occasion, by the ringers of that place in three courses complete; and was performed in three hours and six minutes (though the tenor weighs 20 cwt.) in a most masterly manner, to the satisfaction of all lovers of that music, who had the pleasure of hearing them.'

The words 'in this part of the kingdom' in the report of the Leeds peal are intriguing; for if synonymous with 'Yorkshire' they would, of course, mean that the Sheffield peal of Oxford Treble Bob in 1785 was unknown to ringers in the woollen towns of the county—in which case, I suppose, the College Youths might have been justified in calling their peal at Halifax the first of Treble Bob Major in Yorkshire.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION

After 30 years Sandal have again won the annual prize contest of the Halifax Association. Their success took place at Thornhill, near Dewsbury, on June 28th, against four other teams.

The judges—Mr. Harry Marsden, of Hanging Heaton, and Mr. Dyson Scargill, of the local company, gave their decisions as follows:—Sandal 100 (five penalties, 95 faults), Shelley 161 (10 penalties, 151 faults), Meltham 215 (215 faults), Batley 290 (five penalties, 285 faults). Friezland rang out (five penalties, 96 faults).

Mr. G. Cutts, conductor of the Sandal team, proposed a vote of thanks to the judges and recalled that it was 30 years since they had won the trophy. It had really been a case of 'If at first you don't succeed try, try, try again.' He regretted that Mr. Will Moxon was not in the ringing team, as he had competed so often and had persevered in his work of training, advising and helping the present band. Mr. Cutts also thanked the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, the ladies for the splendid tea, and the local company for their hospitality. Mr. J. W. Buxton seconded and the Vicar suitably replied.

The audited accounts were then presented and showed an increased balance of £1 5s. 1d. The officers were re-elected en bloc and the secretary was instructed to contact Crofton for the next meeting on October 18th. A vote of thanks to the officers for their work during the year was proposed by Mr. G. Crompton and carried with acclamation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SAD PLIGHT OF HULL

Dear Sir,—This is a very urgent appeal from Holy Trinity, Hull. We have ten excellent bells, the tenor 25 cwt. 2 qr. 18 lb., and two experienced ringers: we sometimes manage 120 Grandsire Doubles on Sundays if we are lucky. Are there any good friends in this area who will help to get the back eight going for Triples or Major? There must be half a dozen good ringers in this city of 300,000 who could come and help us out. It is more than disappointing and sad to see the bell ropes hanging and no ringers to man them, so if there are any kind friends willing to help out we shall be more than pleased to have them. I pray to God sincerely that my letter will be answered as we wish it to be.

This lovely old church—and it is lovely—is the largest parish church in England and dates back some 600-700 years or more. Churches aren't built like this any more, mankind appears to be more interested in seeing how quickly they can destroy them to-day. Our church stands as a symbol of Christianity. With its massive tower reaching skywards it belongs to us—men and women of God, we Christians.

Surely there are a few men and women who will come and aid us and let the sound of the bells be heard by all.—Yours faithfully,

AUSTIN STONE.

Hull.

TANTNEY

Dear Sir,—I wonder if any reader could give me any information on the following:—

When I was a lad, at the village church I attended the last bell, after chiming for service, was chimed alone for some three or four minutes, and this was called the 'Tantney.'

Several times since both my sister and I, in various parts of the country, have tried to find how it ever got the name of 'Tantney,' without success.

I should be very pleased if anyone could give me some knowledge of this title 'Tantney.'—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE F. KNIGHT.

Irthlingborough.

HENRICIANS' PEALS

Dear Sir,—I would refer to an item of 'Belfry Gossip' in your issue of July 4th, stating that a peal at Middle Littleton on June 21st was believed to be the first 'Henricians' peal.

Your informant should be referred to the following peals rung for the Worcestershire Association: (1) On April 23rd, 1955 (No. 3240) and (2) on July 8th, 1955 (No. 3252).

It is quite possible that other 'Henricians' peals were rung prior to those noted above.—Yours, etc.,

MAGIC MOMENTS.

INCUMBENT AND CURATE RINGING PEALS TOGETHER ON OWN BELLS

Dear Sir,—There have been two instances of an incumbent and his curate ringing a peal on the bells of their own church. The first was on August 5th, 1912, when the Revs. A. H. F. Boughey (president of the Cambridge University Guild) and H. S. T. Richardson (brother-in-law of Mr. Edwin H. Lewis) rang their first peal of Stedman Cinques at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. The second instance was in Wales a few years ago. — Yours sincerely,

E. A. BARNETT.

Note.—We thank other correspondents who have given an answer to our reader's query.—Editor.

PRAISE FOR LONDON UNIVERSITY GUILD

Dear Sir,—Being far from satisfied with the standard of striking generally, I have been waiting for someone to give credit to the members of the London University Guild, who at Whitsun rang at many towers in this area and did truly give an object lesson to most.

I was present at Burnham (8, 12¼ cwt., Hitcham (6, 6 cwt.), Bray (8, 26¾ cwt.), Langley (6, 18 cwt.) and Slough (10, 17¼ cwt.) and thoroughly enjoyed the ringing at these towers, as did many local ringers with me.

If all visiting bands to other towers would only attempt what they are capable of they would leave a much better impression behind them. May I appeal to all to leave the experimenting in methods beyond their capabilities to their own towers or area. I am not trying to be rude.—Yours sincerely,

Burnham, Bucks. GEORGE GILBERT.

'IN DEFENCE OF AN EPIC'

Dear Sir,—Reading a letter in 'The Ringing World' of July 11th, 'In Defence of an Epic,' I was reminded of another ringer—Lewis Carroll's Bellman:—

The Bellman perceived that their spirits were low,
And repeated in musical tone
Some jokes he had kept for a season of woe—
But the crew would do nothing but groan.

Yours faithfully,

DAVID CUBITT

P.S.—If you don't recall the writer of the letter to which I refer, 'Musical Tone' might, I suppose, be used as a clue to his name. —D.C.

GAINSBOROUGH & DISTRICT RINGERS' OUTING

Few June days could have been so wet and dismal as Friday, the 27th, the day the Queen came to Lincolnshire, and the Saturday dawned little better. However, by the time the bus had picked up from the villages and got well into Yorkshire, a beautiful day developed.

Wetherby, with a nice ring of eight, was the first call for coffee and ringing. Lunch en route to Kirby Hill, and here we found a good light ring of six and a delightful church. We would have liked to have rung at Ripon but a service made this impossible and so Sharrow was substituted: a very good substitute it turned out to be. The ringing chamber will long be remembered as an example of how one should be. The stained glass window recording a peal is most unusual and beautiful.

Time was found for a pause in Ripon for shop window gazers, Cathedral gazers, etc., and so on to Knaresborough for a delicious tea. Then a brief sample of what this lovely spot has to offer in the way of scenery and boating on the river. What a shame the bells are not rung! Leaving late, the driver certainly coaxed the miles per hour out of the luxury coach to Chapel Allerton—Dove's tower, and in the news recently through the Bishop of Ripon. Every man, woman and child declared this to be the best ring of six they had heard or rung. The bells are a credit to Messrs. Taylor, the local people and the Nonconformist lady who gave them.

More speeding was necessary to reach All Saints', Pontefract, by 8 p.m. The tower, surmounted by an octagonal lantern, contains a musical, good-going ring of eight. We rang Stedman, Grandsire, Bob Major and Kent, with rounds for the non-change ringers. All too soon the outing was over. Where next year?, is the burning question. G. S. C. L.

Eastern Branch At Gorleston

The Eastern Branch held an interim meeting at Gorleston-on-Se. on July 5th, the first for several years and since the recent renovation work carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. All tastes and ringing talents were catered for and favourable comments were heard as to the improved sound of the two trebles.

In the absence of the Vicar (on holiday) the service was conducted by the curate (the Rev. J. H. Squibb), who also joined the members at tea.

At a short emergency business meeting two young local ringers, Joseph Bradley and John Soames, were elected to ringing membership of the Association, and the date of the autumn meeting was changed to October 11th, at Pakefield.

The members were given a brief account of the Dublin meeting of the Central Council by their president, Mr. Nolan Golden, with suitable asides from the new vice-president of the Council!

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rev. J. H. Squibb, Mr. Mayland (the organist) and Mr. A. W. Bird (local Ringing Master), who, together with Mrs. Bird and other ladies, had provided an excellent tea.

North Norfolk Branch

Grandsire and Stedman Caters were rung at the quarterly meeting of the North Norfolk Branch at St. Michael's, Aylsham, on July 12th.

The Vicar (the Rev. F. B. Evans) conducted the service and in his address he spoke of copper and tin fused together to make a bell: and that human lives could be compared to a bell, as we were fused together by a spiritual and mortal life. Their aim, whatever our job, was the same as a bell, to ring true. The lesson, taken from Psalm 15, was read by the chairman, Mr. A. G. Bason.

At the business meeting, which followed tea, the chairman welcomed the new president, Mr. F. N. Golden, and spoke of the work he had already done for the Association and ringing as a whole, and he was confident in his new capacity this high standard would continue. He also paid tribute to the services of the retiring president (the Rev. H. G. Lillingston) and wished him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Golden thanked the chairman for his remarks and the honour which had been given him: he also expressed thanks to the Rev. F. B. Evans for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, Mrs. Wells for playing the organ, Mr. Pumphrey for arrangements made, and to Mrs. Howard for serving the tea.

The next meeting will be at Mulbarton on Saturday, September 18th.

After tea it was a pleasure to welcome ringers from Beccles on their annual outing.

BLETCHLEY, BUCKS.—On July 4th, 1,260 Stedman Triples: J. Marks 1, F. Stonton 2, R. Cadamy 3, W. Yates 4, J. Meager 5, R. Howson 6, G. Holland (cond.) 7, H. Sear 8. Rung to mark the 80th birthday of the tenor ringer, after peal attempt failed.

NEWBOLD-ON-AVON, WARWICKS.—On July 8th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Wendy Griffith 1, Joan Cheney 2, A. G. Eveleigh (cond.) 3, W. C. Budd 4, A. G. Grant 5, L. G. Pickering 6.

ST. ATHAN, GLAM.—On July 12th, 1,296 Bob Minimus: G. R. Marchant (cond.) 1, W. H. Harford 2, B. Taylor 3, D. J. Llewellyn 4. First of Minimus by all.

ST. MARY'S, PUTNEY

THE two towers of Fulham and Putney standing on either side of the Thames by Putney Bridge must be a familiar sight to many readers. The embattlemented tower of Putney Church is 80 feet high and was built of Kentish ragstone in about 1450. It is a fine, solid-looking structure.

There have been bells in this tower for many centuries, for in the Inventory of Church Goods made in the reign of Edward VI it is stated:—

'Item in the steple V belles,' and in a later return

'Fyve belles in the steple and a saunce bell'

Up to the year 1836 the tower contained a ring of six bells with the following inscriptions:—

2, 3, 4.—'Robertus Mot me fecit 1586'

5.—'Robertus Mot made me 1582'

6.—'Feare God 1642'

From the Churchwarden's accounts it appears that Number 1 was cast by William Eldridge at Chertsey. The total weight of the ring was 46 cwt. 3 qr. 6 lb.

In 1836 all these bells were recast and the octave completed. They are now inscribed:—

1–7.—'Thomas Mears of London, Founder, 1836'

8.—'The Six Old Bells were recast and Two Treble Bells added A.D., 1836 The Revd. Christopher Thomn(?)*s Robinson, Minister Mr. James Miller, Mr. William Thompson, Churchwardens 'Thomas Mears of London, Founder'

* Founder's mistake for an 'a.'

Their total weight is 70 cwt. 1 qr. 25 lbs. The tenor weighs 16 cwt. 25 lbs., and is in the key of F. Its diameter is 46 ins. and that of the treble 28 ins.

These bells were all rehung in 1911. They must now undergo a thorough restoration. They will be rehung one-eighth turned and tuned to bring out their already good tone. They will be supplied with completely new fittings and rehung in the oak frame of 1836 which is still in good condition. This will cost about £900 and it is the hope of all Putney ringers that the bells will be ringing, as they have done for so many centuries, at Christmas.

There must be many ringers who have rung in this tower and still more who have passed outside it, not least on Boat Race Day. To all these and ringers in general we appeal for a donation, however small, towards the work of restoration.

A. Clayton, 126, Kenilworth Court, Putney. S.W.15.

THE PARISH CHURCH OF ST. MARY, PUTNEY

OXFORD.—At the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, on July 13th, 1,260 Doubles (600 Grandsire, 660 Plain Bob): Linda Forward 1, Christine Woodward 2, A. Marian Gould 3, C. R. C. Coussmaker 4, P. R. Sanders (cond.) 5, R. James 6. For Sung Mass.

SAPCOTE, LEICS.—On July 13th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Rosemary Stratford 1, Jennifer Stratford 2, Dorothy Stratford 3, R. Brandrick (first 'inside') 4, M. E. Brown (cond.) 5, A. Chapman 6. For Evensong by Sunday service band.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

A very enjoyable meeting of the Sheffield and District Society was held on July 5th at Christ Church, Dore, and good use was made of the melodious, light ring of eight bells during the afternoon. After tea and a short business meeting, members adjourned to the tower, where rounds and methods ranging from Plain Bob Minor to Bristol Surprise Major were rung. Much time was also devoted to learners.

BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY TOUR

THE Birmingham University week-end tour took place in Bedfordshire on June 27th-31st. The tour started on a bad note when a car load of students got lost while on the journey from Birmingham to Arlesey and did not arrive until 11 o'clock on the Friday night.

The two graduates in the party travelled to Bedford by train, arriving at 10.15 p.m., but when they were picked up about midnight to complete the journey to Arlesey, they were thinking of catching the next train back.

The male members of the party intended to sleep in tents, but were forced indoors by the weather. Mrs. Charles, the wife of the Vicar of Arlesey, kindly allowed us to use a room in the vicarage as a tent.

On the Saturday morning, it was found that transport was required for seven. Six were squeezed into a Morris Minor, leaving one. It was decided to use a bicycle, each male taking a turn on the saddle. Paul Webb, the society's chairman and driver of the car, hurriedly explained that the car was only insured for him to drive and the two 'young ladies' could not be asked to ride a man's bicycle, so this left four very unwilling pedallers.

Alex Simpson took first turn on the bicycle (endearingly known as 'Penelope') to the first tower, St. Mary's, Henlow. Here we were greeted with the sad news of Lewis Bywaters' sudden illness. We send him our best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Graeme Hughes took 'Penelope' to Clifton, where the Rector and some of the local ringers welcomed us and joined in the ringing—the only eight-bell tower of the day. Methods rung were Grandsire Triples, Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob Major.

'Penelope' took Arthur Crump to All Saints', Southill. The ringing here was not of very high standard, probably due to the great thirst of some of the party (it was getting on for 1 p.m.). Packed lunch was eaten outside one of Southill's public houses, although some spent more time in it.

Old Warden was the next tower and it was Warrick Rich's turn to manœuvre Penelope through the woods of Southill Park (oh: for a tandem!). Having been refreshed, the ringing at Old Warden was much improved and a good touch of Cambridge Minor was rung. The only complaint was from Arthur Crump, who said that he kept catching the wrong sally.

The last tower was at Northill. It was a delight to ring this heavy but easy going six. When the bells had been stood after a well-struck extent of Cambridge Minor, we were surprised to hear the sound of bells ringing below in the church. On investigation, we found that the Vicar of Northill had recorded our ringing on his tape-recorder and later he recorded a touch of Grandsire Doubles and an extent of Bob Major rung on Mr. Wagstaff's handbells.

A very enjoyable tea was had in a nearby public house, and then we were taken around the church museum where Mr. Wagstaff's collection of 'bicycle-bells' was rung to Bob Major and Grandsire Triples. Mr. Wagstaff kindly showed us his handbell workshop and we are grateful to him for looking after us while we were at Northill.

The band rang for the morning and evening services at St. Peter's, Arlesey.

Two interesting points were brought to light during the week-end. The retiring chairman, Graeme Hughes, failed to set the tenor at the word 'stand' in all six towers rung in during the week-end. If anybody is thinking of becoming his wife—think again. He snores louder than anybody else I know.

A COLLECTION OF SUMMER OUTINGS

BRENTWOOD, ESSEX

Sixty ringers and friends formed the party for the 28th annual outing into Kent on June 28th. A 7 a.m. start was necessary, but we were punctual at Rainham and enjoyed the welcome refreshments at the White Horse Hotel, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Cheal, to be followed by ringing on the good bells in the tower across the road.

An hour's ringing followed at Ospringe and then came the best ringing of the day at Faversham and a welcome from Mrs. Palin. An excellent lunch was served at the Delbridge House Club.

A stop was made at Canterbury but as a service was in progress we were unable to see round the Cathedral. At Chilham, the Vicar (the Rev. Sir Reginald Champion) gave us a hearty welcome to his lovely old church. Tea, another first-class meal, was at the Church Hall, Ashford, and an hour and a half was spent at the fine old parish church with its lovely bells. Brentwood was reached at 11.30 p.m. Thanks are accorded to those who helped to provide us with such an enjoyable day in Kent.

HORNCHURCH

There cannot be many counties where such a grand collection of bells are to be found in such a small area as in Suffolk.

Ipswich (St. Mary-le-Tower), Helmingham, Debenham, Woodbridge and Cecil Pipe's musical box at Grundisburgh thrown in for good measure was the Hornchurch itinerary on July 30th.

It has been reported that the younger members of the party refused 'Mum's' supper when they got home, and this surely speaks for some grand Suffolk hospitality.

What are we to remember of the day? Well the writer remembers George Symonds at Ipswich pointing out with pride the fine collection of Maximus peal boards and remarking wistfully, 'They don't ring 'em like that now.' This was before we had rung: what he thought afterwards I'm not so sure. Well, George, we might not have rung them as well but we had a good time and it was a pleasure and joy to meet and ring with you all. Thank you very much.

F. V. G.

RYE, SUSSEX

Rye Church ringers held their annual outing on June 21st. Twenty-one ringers left Rye by coach at 1 p.m., and for four beginners it was their first outing.

Hailsham was the first tower visited and this lightweight was much appreciated and a successful touch of Plain Bob Triples was managed.

The next two towers were both eights, being St. Mary's and All Saints', Eastbourne. We took some time to get used to the former but settled down to the pleasant ring at All Saints' in order to ring for a departing wedding party. At this tower we enjoyed some of the best ringing of the day, despite a considerably longer draught than we are accustomed to. Grandsire and Plain Bob Triples were rung.

High tea was enjoyed at a nearby restaurant and everyone had a look round Eastbourne before rejoining the coach to travel to Westham (6), near Pevensey, the last tower of the day, where the Vicar called in to see us ringing. Ground floor ringing and outsize sallies made ringing quite a handful, but we managed Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles.

We extend our thanks to all incumbents and to the local ringers who met us.

S.

COLESHILL, WARWICKSHIRE

The dull morning of June 28th saw Coleshill ringers, with friends and relatives, off for their annual coach tour Following refreshments and touches on the six at Towcester, a move was made to Wicken. Here they enjoyed the fine eight, and were reluctant to leave for lunch at Bedford and ringing at St. Peter's. A pleasant drive brought them to Rushden, where another fine ring of eight was kept going for the time allowed.

At Northampton tea was taken and then the ten at St. Giles' claimed attention for a while. Weedon was eventually reached and train-spotting, Cambridge and simpler methods were accomplished. With an all-ladies' touch at Staverton the programme for the day was completed and Ham's Hall soon came into view.

Thanks are expressed to incumbents for permission to ring, and to all those who helped in various ways.

HUNTINGDON

The annual outing of the Hunts District ringers and friends took place on July 5th, the venue being Essex. Huntingdon was left at 8 a.m. and the first ring of the day was at Great Yeldham (6), and on to Bocking St. Mary, where we were met and introduced to the fine eight: here our limited time passed all too quickly. By this time we were looking forward to lunch, which proved to be excellent.

Kelvedon (6), where hangs a Festival of Britain tenor (21 cwt.) and Witham, with a very nice handy eight, were visited before tea.

At Boreham a well-struck course of Cambridge Major was the highlight, then on to Springfield (6), and afterwards our last stop at Broomfield (6), where hangs in this delightful round tower the most musical ring of the day

Ringing finished at 8.30 p.m. and then the course was set for home. On the way we were provided with somewhat light entertainment by the blended harmony of Ely's Sutton Singers Choir, etc., who tried to sing some of their native folk songs.

During the day, Grandsire, Stedman Doubles and Triples, Bob Minor and Major, St. Clement's, Kent, London, Norwich, Beverley and Ipswich Minor, Cambridge Major and Minor were rung.

The thanks of the company are due to Mr. H. S. Peacock, who arranged yet another successful tour.

M. J. D.

LYME REGIS

Members and friends of the St. Michael's Guild enjoyed their annual trip on July 12th through Somerset and Wiltshire with Swindon as the farthest point. The ring of eight at Mells had been hoped for, but this not being available Shepton Mallet was substituted and, after a break for coffee, the musical eight there were kept going for an hour.

Westbury was reached a little late, but Mr. Grist was patiently waiting for us and the heavy bells were up in readiness. Some good ringing resulted here. On the 33 miles run to Wootton Bassett, passing the historic Avebury Stones on the way, a short break for picnic lunch was welcome. At the tower the veteran, Mr. L. A. Wilson, and Mr. Brooks greeted us and the easy-going ring of eight was much appreciated. The lovely ring of ten at Christ Church, Swindon, provided, perhaps, the greatest joy of the day. Dr. Craig and others of the local band gave us kindly welcome and were not too critical. Indeed, the Caters were quite respectable, while our novices performed well in their first experience on ten bells. Our send-off from this tower was accompanied by some beautifully-struck Kent Minor with tenor covering.

Another long run on some busy roads and down the picturesque Avon Valley via Upavon and Enford, brought us to Amesbury, where all did full justice to an excellent tea. Mr. Harvey was waiting for us here and the Vicar (the Rev. E. C. Hazelton) visited the tower during the ringing. This quite good ring of eight was easily handled, albeit the tenors rather predominated through the opening for the clock weights. Rain held up a little for a brief visit to Stonehenge, where the restored transom stones are now in position again.

All then settled down for the 46 miles run to Yeovil, touching the pleasant Wylye Valley and getting some splendid glimpses of the rolling Plain country. A short break taken for refreshments at Yeovil as the evening drew in, and then an uneventful journey home, which was reached soon after 11 p.m.—only about half an hour behind schedule.

Methods rung during the day included Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, Kent Royal, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol, Yorkshire and London Surprise Major.

The warm thanks of all are expressed here to those who met us at the various towers; to the incumbents for their permission to ring: to the coach driver; and, not least, to Mr. G. S. Morris for his capable organisation.

EMMANUEL, PLYMOUTH

On Friday, July 10th, at 4 p.m., Emmanuel ringers set off with wives and friends for their annual outing, this being the most ambitious tour undertaken by the band in some 28 day and half-day trips since 1944, being an overnight affair.

The weather was ideal and the journey to Bristol in our usual 33-seater coach belonging to Messrs. Pridham was greatly enjoyed. We had several old friends with us—Mr. T. G. Myers, of St. Andrew's, who has never missed one of our trips, and Mrs. Joe Woodley, whose late husband was for a number of years the captain of Emmanuel ringers, and who was well known to many Bristol ringers in the 1920's and early 1930's.

We were due at Chewton Mendip at 8 p.m. and arrived a few minutes ahead of schedule. Ringing on these grand bells was a good start. We arrived at our hotel in Clifton about 11 p.m.

Mr. Bert Perkin took on the job of 'knocker-up,' at least for the top storey, and we were all set going at 7 a.m., but I think he overlooked the fact our party occupied 17 bedrooms! However, breakfast at eight and 'all present,' and Mr. Lavers' bugle was not required!! And what a day! It rained and rained, but did that damp our spirits? No, and neither did it prevent our wives and friends from having a good look round Bristol both in the morning and afternoon, whilst the ringers did the rounds, meeting at our hotel for lunch and tea.

We were off to a good start at 8.50 at St. Ambrose's, there to be met by several members of the local band. Miss Smith, one of our newest recruits, who had spent four years at Bristol University, did a grand job in piloting us from Clifton through parts of Bristol unknown to her. Here we were joined by our old friend, Mr. R. J. Bowden, who then became our pilot, although to reach our next church, Holy Nativity, Knowle, he took us up a hill about one in two!! Next to St. Thomas', with that grand old ring of eight and its 29-cwt. tenor, where we were greeted by Mr. Mack. Here we had to say goodbye to 'Dick' and wish him well; we shall miss him in Plymouth.

Back to our hotel for a good lunch, then off again to St. Stephen's, and although ours is an eight-bell tower, we were very pleased with the job we made of Grandsire Caters, thanks to the help of Mr. Tom Myers, and to our being able to visit St. Andrew's and ring on the 10 bells at any practice night. On to SS. Philip and Jacob's, where there was a wedding, and the bride and bridegroom left to the strains of Stedman Triples. A visit to Emmanuel Church, Clifton, concluded our ringing in the city, and at 4.30 we were back at our hotel for tea and were soon on the homeward journey—still raining!! The journey home was pleasantly broken to ring at Burnham-on-Sea.

During the trip we rang at eight churches. The ringing was, for some reason, not our best, someone so often wanting to take the wrong turn, although we had at least one good touch at each church, and in our 'rises' and 'lowers' we were complimented at several places. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Major were rung, also rounds.

A short halt was made at Chudleigh for the usual 'end of trip' refreshments, and it was here that that well-known ringer from St. Andrew's beat the secretary back to the coach for the first time for the day! Plymouth was reached at 11 p.m. Mr. J. B. Sims, the captain of Emmanuel ringers, had quite a job on to see that everyone had his or her share of ringing, and he made a success of this.

At tea thanks were accorded by Mr. Sims to Mr. Pridham, our driver, the proprietors of the hotel and Mr. H. H. Thomas, hon. secretary, who had made all the arrangements. Regret was expressed that Mr. W. Collier and Mrs. Owen Thomas were unable to be with us, both being ill, with the hope for their speedy recovery.

Through 'The Ringing World' sincere thanks are expressed to the Vicars of all the churches visited, local ringers and Mr. 'Dick' Bowden. H. H. T.

GAMSTON, NOTTS

Fine weather favoured this outing on July 5th into Northamptonshire. Ringers from East Retford, Rampton, Worksop, Tuxford and Sutton-on-Trent joined, and Retford was left at 7.15 a.m. A short stop was made at Stamford for cups of tea before continuing to Titchmarsh. It was at Oundle that flood notices were out but the driver thought he would take the risk, and after going through about two feet of water we emerged safely. On account of this, Titchmarsh was reached a quarter of an hour late, but 45 minutes were enjoyed on this grand octave. Rushden was next on the list, and here the males had to listen to rounds and Queen's rung by the fair sex, who did it to their satisfaction. We should have liked to have stayed with these grand bells longer.

Earls Barton has a lovely Saxon tower and the belfry is reached by a long wooden ladder. A good course of Cambridge Minor on the back six was rung. St. Giles', Northampton, was reached late owing to the driver taking a 'wrong turn,' but these ten bells are a pleasure to ring and hear. Some rang their first Grandsire Caters and some their first rounds on ten. The Holy Sepulchre eight followed and a good touch of Oxford Bob Triples was brought round.

Tea followed and afterwards a call was made at Moulton (8), where some of the locals joined in and a good hour was spent. It was here we said goodbye to Margaret, who was on her way to join the Manchester University Guild tour.

Thanks must go to Mr. G. H. Roome for his kind help in arranging the outing, the local clergy and local ringers who met us on arrival.

Thank you, Northamptonshire, we shall be pleased to see you again in Notts. H. D.

LUTON

The Cotswolds! There's magic in the very name of this fair stretch of England, and here it was that the Luton ringers took their wives and friends for this year's outing.

The first stop was Dorchester, where, owing to the bell mechanism, we were unable to ring, but we enjoyed a look round the ancient Abbey and a cup of coffee. At Stroud, after an excellent lunch, we made good use of the very pleasant ring of ten bells, and then on to Painswick, set in the heart of some glorious scenery, and with 12 splendid bells—something for everyone!

Next came tea at Northleach (well up to standard!) and more ringing on the recently-restored ring of eight at Bourton-on-the-Water before the journey home via Chipping Norton and Bicester. Altogether a lovely day.

Looking back, there was not much amiss with the Bristol at Bourton, and at Stroud, Cambridge Royal was going well until . . . !!! Perhaps some day I shall have the pleasure of hearing the remarks of the conductor of an orchestra when interrupted in the middle of a performance. But there it is, it's all in the game, and our only real regret was that once again Mr. A. King was unable to be with us.

Our sincere thanks to the incumbents and local ringers who met us and so contributed to our enjoyment of this very successful trip. A. E. R.

OBITUARY

THE REV. A. OGLE

Many friends in East Ilsley and district will learn with regret of the sudden death on July 4th of the Rev. Arthur Ogle.

Coming from a living at Maidstone, Kent, he was Rector of East Ilsley for 30 years and retired seven years ago to live at Clanfield, on the Thames, where he spent many happy hours boating, which was one of his favourite hobbies.

Mr. Ogle spent his boyhood in Lancashire and his University years at Magdalen College, Oxford. A scholar and a gentleman, he was always ready with help and advice for anyone who sought it.

The funeral took place at St. Mary's Church, East Ilsley, on July 9th, when a large number of friends and parishioners attended. In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled by the local band: J. W. T. Hibbert 1, Miss P. E. Hibbert 2, Mrs. M. C. Hibbert 3, E. T. Sneller 4, Miss E. M. Wilson 5, J. W. Wilson 6, C. J. Hibbert (conductor) 7, H. R. Wells 8. First quarter 1 and 2.

MR. WILLIAM J. WEBB

The death at 87 of Mr. William J. Webb, severs the last link with the original band, formed in 1927, when the tower was opened with its new ring of bells at the Good Shepherd, Brighton. Since that date he had been a consistent and regular ringer, both for Sunday service and practice alike.

As a youth, employed in the gardens of Hever Castle, Kent, he learned to ring with the local band at the parish church, where the limit of their capabilities at that time was the 'old 120' of Grandsire Doubles. Becoming employed on the railway and moving away from Hever, ringing was given up until at the age of 58 the new tower and bells at the Good Shepherd were opened on the hill above his home in Preston.

Beginning again, almost from the start, and by persistent practice at other towers, including constant attendance at Association meetings, he finally realised his ambition of ringing the Surprise methods. Although having rung only three peals, two of Stedman and one of Bob Major, it was his never-vacant rope in the tower on Sunday that commanded our respect. Until three weeks before his death in hospital after an operation, William Webb regularly climbed the steepest hill in Brighton and then the tower steps almost on hands and knees in order to make the band complete.

The funeral service was conducted by the Vicar of the Good Shepherd (the Rev. R. J. Hills) and was preceded by the bells rung half-muffled by representatives from the three Brighton towers as the coffin approached. To the many who had gathered to honour his memory, the Vicar paid a high tribute to his unfailing qualities as a churchman and ringer, his constancy of character and never-failing devotion. In the evening a representative Brighton band successfully completed a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples.

The tower of the Good Shepherd has lost a devoted servant, and his fellow ringers a valued companion and an old friend.

OBITUARY

THE REV. C. J. HANCOCK

The Rev. Charles John Hancock, who died in his sleep on June 12th, had been Vicar of Kimpton for 6½ years and was very active until his sudden death at the age of 54.

Soon after his induction at Kimpton he was taught to ring. He would never have become a great ringer (although he was nephew to Walter Buckingham, a well-known St. Albans ringer), and never to our knowledge rang out of his own tower, but here he was most regular for practice and service ringing, until recently, when the band became strong enough to manage without him. (He conducted at least four services and Sunday School every Sunday.) We believe he enjoyed ringing, but definitely as 'service.'

Visiting ringers were always welcome at Kimpton, and those fortunate enough to have met him will mourn his passing.

Mr. Hancock was an exceptional priest, with a friendly manner which made him welcome and 'at home' anywhere. He was a tireless visitor, especially to the sick of his parish, whatever their religion. Last November he was made Rural Dean of Welwyn.

Twenty priests and the Bishop of St. Albans walked in procession at his funeral service in Kimpton Church on July 17th: the church was crowded. A course of 120 Bob Doubles was rung on the half-muffled bells by Maurice Butterfield 1, Shirley Dyer 2, Robin Arnold 3, Helen Price 4, Donald Price 5, John Gatward 6.

A memorial service is to be held in Kimpton Church on Sunday, July 27th, at 6.30 p.m.

POINTS FROM RECENT PEALS

THE length of time since the last article in this series means that some of the items mentioned are not quite as 'recent' as usual! But better late than never, I hope. As usual, we first turn to landmarks. Pride of place must go to Debenham, where we can safely say the 300-peal mark has now been passed. Which peal was the 300th will probably never be known, since a few were rung prior to 'Bell News' (I have five such). However, the peal on March 15th last was the 300th since 1881. Lavenham is another tower where there was an odd peal before 1881 (I have recorded three), so that the peal on May 24th, which was the 150th to be published in the ringing press, is possibly the 153rd.

In mentioning that the next peal on the bells at Burnham, Bucks, is the 150th on the bells, one is on safer ground, since the first peal there was not rung until 1897. Several towers have reached or are about to reach the century mark. Measham's 100th peal was on March 8th (the first was rung in 1913); Erdington (R.C. church) had its 100th on April 21st. According to the footnote, the first peal ever in the town was on these bells on January 15th, 1883. There appear to be only two R.C. churches where 100 peals have been rung—this one and Birmingham, St. Chad's Cathedral, which has had 132. Then I can confirm the 100th peals at Milton-next-Gravesend and Portsmouth Cathedral. Congratulations to all these towers.

I believe Dorchester, Oxon, has also become a centenarian. I have recorded 99, but I think there were one or two earlier than 1881. Darley Dale's next peal will be the 100th. As for 50 peals, we have Woburn (1st in 1887), Sutton-on-Trent (1st in 1925), Headingley, St. Michael's (1st in 1892), and Wrotham (1st in 1883) reaching that number, whilst Buxton, Norfolk, Manchester Town Hall, Barwell and Heckington do so with their next peals. Marston celebrated its 25th peal in fine style with 12,600 Doubles!

Amongst 'First peal on the bells' one has noted Upton, Wirral; Lyng, Norfolk; Freckenham; Bottisham; Eriswell; Thruxton; Heswall; Paddington; Bradford (Devon). Some of these were claimed and some were not. Unless the bells had been recast, the peal at Holme Pierrepont, Notts, was not the first on the bells; a peal of Doubles in three methods was rung there in 1921.

Of towers that have had previous peals, the one which appears to have had the longest silence since the last article is Holbeck, R.C. church. It was almost exactly 50 years since there had been a peal there—March 7th, 1908 (the recent one was on March 1st). There were eight peals here from 1896 to 1908. Two other towers appear for the first time since the first world war—Bristol, St. Thomas's, which was last seen in 1913 (I confirm four peals in all here) and Colsterworth, in 1914 (there were nine peals from 1911 to 1914). Pershore, St. Andrew's, had a silence of nearly 40 years—the three previous peals were rung in 1913, 1914 and 1920. Ratcliffe-on-the-Wreake had three peals from 1923 to 1925, and there have been none since until this year. Cranleigh's last peal was in 1927. There were nine just before the first war and six from 1917 to 1927. Only three of these peals were of Major, and none of these Surprise Major. I expect that will soon be altered now that the bells are in order again! Hose also had its last peal in 1927. There was one before that in 1911.

It is just 30 years since Winlaton appeared in the peal columns. The four previous peals here were rung in 1893, 1902 and 1928 (2). Four towers were last heard in a peal in 1931. They are Great Milton (eight peals in all—first in 1902); Hardingstone (also eight peals, first in 1911); Kilndown (first peal 1905; then four from 1912-1914 and 13 from 1920 to 1931), and Enmore (three peals now, 1906, 1931 and 1958). Orwell and Irnham had previous peals in 1932. The former had only had this one before, but Irnham also had one in 1930 (the footnote to the recent peal—first peal for over 40 years on the bells—was not quite accurate, therefore). In the case of Walsden, the footnote—first on the bells for 20 years—erred the other way. It is 25 years ago, in 1933, that the last peal was rung here. Before that, peals were rung in 1872, 1890, 1914 and 1926. The only previous peal at Stoke Abbott was in 1935, whilst at Padworth there have been two peals before the recent one, in 1912 and 1936.

Two towers have had a peal silence since 1937. They are Hampton in Arden and Exning. The first now has a total of four peals, there being others in 1908 and 1925, whilst the latter has only these two, 1937 and 1958. In the last six months, there have been four towers which were last in the peal lists 20 years ago. Oadby was the first, and there were six peals here spread out fairly evenly from 1908 to 1938. Then came Great Barford, celebrating its fourth peal with one in 21 methods. The previous ones were all in two methods, in 1923, 1936 and 1938. Thirdly, Storrington, where I can confirm that the only previous peal was in 1938; finally, Uffington, Berks, with exactly the same history. There is another Uffington in Lincolnshire which had its last peal in 1903!

It will probably be of interest to some to mention a few more towers which appear infrequently. Southgate has had its second peal since the war and yet at one time it was a very popular peal-ringing tower. It passed the 100 peal mark in 1901, 150 in 1909, and had reached 170 by the first war. There were only 19 between the wars, so the grand total is still less than 200. Bristol, Christ Church, has a similar record, though with fewer peals. We have just had the second peal since the war. There were 39 here from 1910 to 1914, then one each in 1918 and 1919, then silence until 1953. Mortlake, until the recent peal, had only had one other since 1925 (which was the only one between the wars, by the way). That was in 1948. Two or three peals a year were rung here during the 1890's.

Blaenavon has had only five peals since the first in 1912. All are of Grandsire Triples or Doubles, so a 'Major' peal can be expected here soon! The only previous peal at Harthill, Yorks, was Yorkshire Surprise Major in 1945. One would have expected to find many more than that in this peal-ringing centre around Sheffield. Pitsford (five) has had five previous peals. They were all Grandsire Doubles and rung in 1913, 1924, 1926, 1930 and 1944. Willingham by Stow was last seen in 1946. There had been eight peals commencing in 1931 before the recent one. It is ten years since there was a peal at St. Anne's-on-Sea. There have been 12 in all now, the first in 1891. The recent peal was the first of Surprise on the bells. The first peal on the augmented bells at Thurnby suggested to me that the ringers might be interested to know that there had been three peals there when it was a five-bell tower—in 1921, 1937 and 1951. Whilst talking of five-bell towers, Little Houghton is to congratulated on reaching double figures since the last article appeared. There are now 25 such towers, so the number is gradually increasing.

Concerning a couple of footnotes, Longparish had a peal in seven Minor methods in 1946, so the recent peal was not the first such on the bells; Lewknor had a peal of Doubles in 1947. It was in 19 methods.

Then a final item of peculiar interest. The peal at Dersingham was the 19th consecutive peal of Plain Bob Minor since 1951! There had been six peals in 20 years before then. The local band must be fond of the method!

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. J. S. Hawkins (London), a past Master of the College Youths, happened to be staying in Cheltenham when his 79th birthday came round. To mark the occasion a band of College Youths from Gloucester, Cheltenham and Swindon met at St. Mary's Church, Cheltenham, on July 22nd, and rang a quarter peal of Stedman Caters with the veteran himself on the treble. A social hour and supper followed at the Tivoli Inn, when the health of Mr. Hawkins was proposed and honoured in the usual manner. Thanks were expressed to mine host (whose birthday fell on the same day as Mr. Hawkins') for his welcome and for making the necessary arrangements.

The peal at Great Gaddesden on July 19th was rung during a memorial service at Little Gaddesden for Miss Kathleen Talbot, who did much to stimulate rural music in West Herts. The peal was a tribute to her memory.

The stoppage in the publication of 'The Ringing World' between February 14th to March 7th, 1947, was through the Government's fuel emergency order, and not arising from an industrial dispute, as stated in our issue last week.

In connection with the peal at Wilburton, Cambs, the rest of the band would like to congratulate Mr. H. W. Sharp on the way he rang in the peal on his 84th birthday. His perfect ringing, using a minimum of effort, was a model to the younger members of the band.

We have received a chatty letter from Denis J. Woodham from Cooma, New South Wales, who is helping to plan a £60 million hydro-electric project. His last ringing was at Sydney at Christmas, but at times he chimes the bell at the Presbyterian Church. Through 'The Ringing World' he keeps in contact with the happenings of the Exercise.

Seven on the band who took part in the peal of Yorkshire Royal at Swindon had never struck a blow in Yorkshire Royal before. The band are very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Sutton for their kind hospitality before and after the peal. The peal was the 50th together by Reginald Hooper and Eric Sutton, and the 25th together by Eric Sutton and Roger Fry.

The peal at Brenchley on May 20th ('Ringing World,' page 410) was 5,056 changes and not 5,088, as printed.

Mr. Ernest Morris has had his manuscript on 'Tintinnabula' (the subject on which he did a recent television broadcast and radio talk) accepted for publication in book form by Robert Hales, Ltd., of London. The work will be profusely illustrated by line drawings and photographs and will be published in the early autumn.

After a break of 50 years, Bradley, Staffs, bells are ringing again. The bells have been recast and were rededicated last November. It is a pleasure to record that with the help of Messrs. A. Mills and F. Barraclough (not forgetting Francis) and Mr. E. E. Speake, these bells have rung out for every service since their installation. Local ringers now being trained will make every endeavour to maintain this record.

On Sunday, July 6th, members from St. Peter's, Dorchester, Wyke Regis, Abbotsbury, Buckland Newton and Yetminster tried out the bells at Piddletrenthide after rehanging. Recordings were made and the ringers and villagers were generally pleased, and expressed their approval. The work had been carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. The dedication of the bells will take place in October. These bells have been silent for nearly 50 years.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD FESTIVAL

GUILD BANNER DEDICATED — REPRESENTATIVES' EXPENSES AT DUBLIN — SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

THE annual festival of the Oxford Diocesan Guild on July 18th will go down in the long history of the Guild as a year to be commemorated. In the presence of a larger congregation than usual the Guild's banner was dedicated at the service in Christ Church Cathedral by the Master (the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg). Mr. F. G. Edmans, who two years ago proposed that the Guild should have a banner, and later designed it, carried it for the dedication ceremony. He was escorted by Mr. M. Jameson, who wove the banner, and Miss E. Irving, who undertook the embroidery.

In the centre of the banner is embroidered in silver a bell, and superimposed on it is the arms of the Diocese. Worked in gold thread against the blue background are the words 'Oxford Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers.' The staff, which was turned by Mr. Edmans, is from oak taken from the old bell frame of Great Horwood Church, and dates back to 1660. The banner is of great beauty and it is believed that Oxford Diocesan Guild is the first Guild to have a banner.

The Bishop of Reading preached at the festival service, which was conducted by the Master. The lessons were read by the Deputy Master (Mr. Frederick Sharpe) and Mr. Wigg.

RINGERS IN THE CHOIR

The Bishop of Reading, in his sermon, said with the skill and craft of their Guild, what could be finer than making a cheerful noise unto the God of Jacob? What could be finer than summoning people to the worship of His Church? Many times he had been driving through the lanes of Berkshire and Oxfordshire and, drawing near to a church long before he could see it, had heard the bells.

And, as so often happened, when he reached the church and went into the vestry and was all ready to start the service, the Vicar would say, 'Do you mind waiting a minute or two while the ringers come down and put on their cassocks to sing in the choir?' There was sometimes the other side of ringers' conduct, but, thank goodness, not often.

An unfortunate occurrence was to find in an obscure corner of the vestry a gramophone where a needle was scratching out bell music. That was an example of the Church using the things of science in the wrong way. The Church could use the things of science in a good way, and an instance of that came to him when he was in St. Paul's Cathedral for the opening service of the Lambeth Conference. There a television camera recorded all the service so that people looking in at home could see the whole of the service on their screen and hear every word of the preacher and the celebrant at Holy Communion.

'Down through the centuries had come that still quiet voice "Follow Me." You, as ringers, are serving God to the best of your ability in making this very cheerful and supremely beautiful noise to the God of Jacob. You know how many hours of practice you have to put in to bring your ringing up to such a standard of perfection as it is in this country. Looking back over the past years we thank God for the work of your Guild and the devoted lives of its members. Looking to the future, we hope that in God's keeping the bells of the Church will always be ready to summon His people to His worship.'

After the singing of the hymn, 'Thy hand, O God, has guided,' the Bishop pronounced the Blessing. The new Guild banner was carried in the procession by Mr. Edmans as the choir and clergy left the service.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting was held in the Chapter House with the Master in the chair, supported by the Deputy Master, the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker), the hon. secretary (Miss Cross) and the hon. librarian (Mr. H. L. Roper).

Arising from the minutes, Mr. P. Walker said the general committee had revised the rules but he felt that members should have sufficient time to discuss them. He proposed that the revised rules be considered at the autumn meeting. This was seconded by Mr. A. Diserens and agreed to.

Among the apologies was one from Mr. E. F. Gibbard, and the meeting heard with regret that he was ill with pneumonia, particularly as his daughter was being married that day.

The general secretary stated that the printed reports had not yet been received. They were presented in a duplicated form to the committee and approved. She proposed that they be accepted in the duplicated form.

The same applied to the audited accounts, and in reply to a question, Mr. A. D. Barker said there was over £100 left in the Bell Restoration Fund. The accounts were approved on the proposition of Mr. Castle, seconded by Mr. Edmans.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The Deputy Master said only one nomination was received by the appointed time for the office of Master—the Rev. C. E. Wigg. He thanked the Master for all he had done for the Guild in the past year. The election was ratified amidst applause.

The other officers were re-elected with expressions of thanks for their past services. The election of the 12 members of the committee was left till after the adoption of the rules at the autumn meeting, as there was a proposal to reduce the number to six.

REVISION OF SERVICE BOOK

Mr. David Smith reported on the progress in revising the Guild's service book. He had made a collection of ringers' hymns, and various people were selecting the top 10. The meeting suggested that Mr. Smith should consult the Archdeacon of Oxford, who was a ringer, as to the order of service.

The Master said he used some of the prayers collected in the service that morning.

AUTUMN MEETING

The General Committee recommended that the autumn meeting be held at Reading on September 27th. The service would be at St. Lawrence's Church. Mr. and Mrs. A. Diserens were arranging the towers and tea.

It was decided that the 1959 festival be held at Oxford on July 18th.

ALL SAINTS', WOKINGHAM

The General Committee recommended a grant of £50 for All Saints', Wokingham. Mr. B. C. Castle said the proposal was for the bells to be rehung on ball-bearings, and other work The cost was just under £400, and the Sonning Deanery Branch had made a grant of £25. The church had a big reconstruction scheme and was struggling to raise the necessary £5,000.

An amendment to limit the grant to £30 was defeated, and the committee's recommendation adopted.

CENTRAL COUNCIL'S DUBLIN MEETING

The General Committee recommended that second-class travelling and board while in Dublin be paid to the Guild's Central Council representatives who attended the recent meeting, and that Branches be asked to make a contribution towards the expense.

Mr. A. D. Barker (a representative) said there was one amount voted towards the account of £5. At one Branch, when the matter was raised, a member was very uncomplimentary. When he heard the matter discussed, the adjectives he used could be associated with glorious technicolour. Others remarked, 'A fine holiday at the Guild's expense,' which showed how little they knew of the Central Council and its work. The motion did not mean expenses for a whole week or longer. He suggested fares and two or three days' bed and breakfast.

Mr. F. Vickers proposed the recommendation and added: 'We should be very proud that our representatives were able to go to Ireland.'

Mr. B. T. Lister said members had asked what did the Exercise get from the Central Council. He suggested that the Council meetings be held once every ten years, like the Lambeth Conference. He complained that their representatives never presented a personal report on the meeting.

Mr. Roaf suggested that the meeting delay passing the resolution until they knew what was involved.

A member said when the matter came before the committee a figure of £10 was mentioned.

Mr. Barker: 'If you want to know my expenses I should advise you to go out and get some brandy, because the Guild could not afford to pay.'

Mr. Roper: 'Our representatives certainly went to Ireland under the impression that this was what the Guild would pay. I think it would be niggling if we failed to ratify it.'

Mr. F. Vickers proposed, and Mr. Roper seconded, 'that the committee's recommendations be adopted.' This was carried.

In regard to Mr. Lister's other point, that representatives give a report, Mr. Sharpe said the Guild proposed on one occasion that these should be deleted because members said they had read it all in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. W. Birmingham suggested that one of the representatives should write his impressions in 'The Ringers' Magazine.' 'I have known people walk out as soon as the Central Council is mentioned.'

The meeting agreed that Mr. Butler should print the impressions of Mr. Barker or Mr. Lock.

NEW VICE-PRESIDENTS

Mr. E. G. Foster, past-secretary of Reading Branch, Canon G. Dixon, 30 years chairman of the Central Bucks Branch, and Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins were elected vice-presidents of the Guild. Supporting Mr. Wilkins' election, Mr. George Gilbert said 55 years ago Mr. Wilkins gave him his first lesson in ringing.

APPLICATIONS FOR GRANTS

The meeting approved of a grant of £5 to Mollington, and an application on behalf of Cumnor was deferred until the autumn meeting.

265 NEW MEMBERS

The secretary asked for the confirmation of 265 new members elected since last year.

Mr. T. Fowler said they were getting these hundreds of new members, but the Guild did not increase in membership very much. He thought many were made members before they were qualified.

The Master: 'I think the principle of tower foremen is that recruits be nominated after 12 months in their tower.'

Mr. W. Birmingham: 'It is only by heavy recruiting that we will keep our numbers up.'

The Secretary: 'I have lost eight girls in the last two years and they have all gone out of the parish and not one is now ringing. Some are married, one has gone to Canada and another to London.'

Mr. Sharpe: 'Is there anything to be done to lock Cupid up?'

The Secretary: 'That is the trouble.'

The election of the new members was ratified.

THE SEARS OF BLETCHLEY

The general secretary reported receiving a letter from the Rector of Bletchley stating that Mr. Harry Sear was celebrating his 80th birthday and golden wedding. The family had been ringing at Bletchley for 100 years, and they proposed to put up a memorial window to Alan and his three sons.

The Master commended the project and it was decided to defer any contribution until the autumn meeting, when the cost would be known.

The vote of thanks to the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, the preacher, organist, clergy and ringers of Oxford and district for use of their bells was proposed by Mr. A. D. Barker.

THE LUNCHEON

A company of 142 sat down to luncheon in the hall of Christ Church with the Master in the chair. The principal guest was the Bishop of Reading.

Proposing the toast of 'Church and State,' the Deputy Master (Mr. Frederick Sharpe) said probably there were no Societies more loyal to the Church and State than ringers, and they publicly expressed their loyalty.

Among their ringers they had a good many who appreciated the difficulties of the clergy. These were days when parishes had been grouped together in twos and threes and some six and seven. He had been a churchwarden for 27 years and for four of those years there had been no incumbent. Such difficulties provided an opportunity for laymen to come forward and he was very pleased to say that they were coming forward better than in the past.

'I have served on the Towers and Belfries Committee and have visited more than 2,000 churches. That means that I have heard 2,000 stories of parochial life and sometimes the Vicar told a very different story from the clerk about the life of the parish. In my recent travels I have noticed a greater desire on the part of the laity to take part in Church government and Church work and there is a greater interest than 20 or 30 years ago.

'We have had correspondence in "The Ringing World" about ringers holding other offices in the Church. In my own parish of Launton the ringers provided one churchwarden, one lay reader, ten choristers and six members of the Parochial Church Council.'

The Rector of Slough (the Rev. Mr. Perkins) responded.

Many of our readers have not seen a thatched tower but there are a number in Suffolk—Butley, Brampton and Theberton (where the bells were rededicated last December). The picture sent to us by Supt. Claude Rush is of Thornham Parva tower, near Eye, Suffolk. It contains one bell—by Thomas Newman, 1727. Supt. Rush inquires whether anyone has compiled a list of thatched towers.

SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

Mr. David Smith, in proposing the toast of 'The Visitors,' particularly welcomed Mr. Philip Gray, of Bristol, with whom he had had some correspondence regarding Sunday service ringing, which was brought up at the Central Council meeting at Dublin. Mr. Gray had had a trying time in hospital over the past two months with his eyes, and they all hoped he was better.

Visits to other towers, in his opinion, were very important—one learned new things. While they did not suppose they could teach their distinguished visitors anything, they liked to learn from them.

Mr. Philip Gray said he learned to ring in the Oxford Diocese and lived there for many years—in fact he had rung more peals for the Oxford Diocesan Guild than any other Guild. It was a pleasure to be with them because he had so many happy memories of their Guild.

As they knew, this year at Dublin the Central Council passed a resolution to look into the matter of Sunday service ringing. This was done for two reasons. Firstly, all ringing associations had an obligation towards Sunday service ringing. It was a primary consideration and concerned every one of them. The other was that Sunday service ringing in the county was not quite what it ought to be. They assumed that rather less than half the churches in the country with rings of bells had adequate Sunday service ringing. This was not a situation with which they ought to be pleased about, and they ought to consider what went towards making a Sunday service band.

What, he said now, was his own personal opinion? He believed the crux of the matter was the integration of a band of ringers into the parochial organisation as a whole. Unless they had that there was not much hope of a good Sunday service band. Where the ringers were part of their church organisation there was generally no cause for complaint. But the ringers were often apart from the rest of the church. The belfry was upstairs and out of mind and the ringers were not always regarded as part of the church. Unless the ringers were part, there was not much prospect of getting a good Sunday service band.

GUILD'S RESPONSIBILITY

Where the Guild came in was to help with the technical instruction to make people ringers. They would all agree that ringing was not easy—it took perseverance, skill and hard work. Very few people could become ringers on their own. They had to have the help of an association. If there were no Guilds like theirs the state of Sunday service ringing would be far worse than at present.

He hoped they would organise their efforts to get the best Sunday service ringing possible. They were short of instructors and they could not afford to waste the efforts of those they had. They might think that it was better for ringers to receive instruction in their own tower than come to another on a Saturday. He asked members to talk about it at their Branch meetings. Mr. Gray concluded by proposing the toast of 'The Oxford Diocesan Guild.'

The Master, in reply, thanked Mr. Gray for his suggestions. 'In my own parish, as an example of what should be done, we always insist on one of the ringers being a member of the Parochial Church Council. That was a first step and it should be taken in every parish.'

The Master mentioned that the collection for the Bell Restoration Fund that day amounted to £5 5s. 6d. He thanked the voluntary choir for singing at the festival service, and especially Mr. Coles, who succeeded in getting some boys at short notice. They would all agree that it was a very fine service, and the Bishop said afterwards he thought it was a homely and family service.

Ringing in various towers in Oxford and neighbourhood followed.

A request has been received at Rodbourne Cheney, Wilts, from bellringers in the Peak District for the use of the bells for a peal attempt from 10.30 p.m. to 1.30 a.m. on a day this month. Permission has been granted provided the peal starts at 10.30 a.m.

The band who rang the quarter peal of Stedman Triples at Blagdon, Somerset, recently, would like to thank the Vicar and his wife for their hospitality at the Rectory after the attempt. At present the bells are not rung regularly but the Rector is hoping a local band may be re-formed this winter.

TRUE RINGING ON HANDBELLS

Dear Sir,—In view of recent correspondence in your columns from Mr. Chant, I take it that his latest letter on how to teach handbell ringing is also intended to be amusing. In the unlikely event, however, of his being serious, it would (when one remembers their excellent booklet on this subject) be interesting to know the views of the Central Council on the abolition of the back-stroke, since traditional English bellringing surely consists of causing the clapper to strike at each end of the swung arc?

One would also like to know the proportion of Youth Clubs and similar organisations who can afford several octaves of bells (and intervening semitones), as well as the cost of printing their music in three colours—which Mr. Chant regards as 'very necessary.'

One or two other points:—

(1) The 'Morse Code' notation was expressly designed for the simple tunes of which 8 and 12 bell sets are capable, and for young ringers devoid of any knowledge of musical writing: the introduction of bars merely complicates ultra-simplicity, and, as we here have shown, is not required for simple tunes which are well known. All the ringers want to know is when to strike their notes and some handbell equivalent of 'rope-sight.' If Mr. Chant wants anything more advanced, many such modes are already available.

(2) We here have been endeavouring to start youngsters off for ultimate tower-ringing—tunes being a welcome relief from plain hunting: Mr. Chant appears to be mainly concerned with stage-chiming, like the variety stage artiste running feverishly from end to end of a long table loaded with handbells. But, as I suspect, he may be merely joking!—Yours sincerely,

M. B. BELL (Col.).

A PEAL AT EGHAM

Dear Sir,—The peal rung at Egham on May 24th was, I think, of the lowest standard I have been called upon to ring in. I do not call 3¼ hours' bad ringing a peal, even if it is the first for one member of the band.

The first peal should be an example for the recruit to follow, and the conductor should place his band to the best advantage for the recruit.

Egham Church is in the middle of the town, and it is hard to get the bells for peals. If the ringing is bad the conductor should set the bells.

Apart from the bad ringing, the 3 and 6 had been crossed for some time before the conductor, Alan Hartley, and his co-pilot, Bill Birmingham, with the peal figures on the wall, put them right.

My name was printed without my consent. I do not think the conductor should have let it go on in his home town. If Alan calls that a peal, I would be ashamed to say I kept a record of my peals.—Yours sincerely,

G. COUSSINS.

Old Windsor, Berks.

TANTNEY

Dear Sir,—Replying to your correspondent, Mr. George F. Knight (page 483), this bell is so called for the following reason. In many places the 'ting tang' (or the treble of the peal where they had no special bell) was known as the 'Priest's bell,' as it was supposed to warn him that it was time to put in an appearance. Many of these bells, cast in the West Country by Rudhall, of Gloucester, bear appropriate inscriptions, such as 'Come away—make no delay.'

Some successors of the 'sanctus' bells are now used as 'priests' bells' or ting-tangs. Their numbers vary very much — Lincolnshire has about seventy; Leicestershire very few; in some counties, especially in the North and South of England, they are rarely found. In Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire it is almost the rule, rather than the exception, to find them, and the adjoining counties have a fair proportion.

Sometimes these little bells are the sanctus or saunce bells of mediæval days, a fair number of which survive, although they are often uninscribed and therefore difficult to date. Most of the 'ting-tangs' now in use are either recasts of old bells or additions of the seventeenth and later centuries. One 'priest's bell' is mentioned as such in Edwardian Returns of Church Goods—at Ware in Hertfordshire: '1552 one lyttle belle to calle for ye priste, clarke, or sexton when they are absent.' This bell is sometimes called the 'Tantoney bell' or Saint Anthony bell, the name being derived from the emblem of that saint—a small bell being attached to his tan-staff, or suspended from the neck of his accompanying pig. The small bell at Lichfield Cathedral is so called, so was one at Lamport, Northants, and another at Weedon Bec in the same county. The writer found one at Wigston Magna, Leicestershire.

Again, in 1552 the sanctus bell at Oldham, Lancs, was called the 'Anthem bell.' In 1528 the churchwardens at Leverton, Lincs, paid 'for a littel sanct antony bell ijd,' and at Lamport (mentioned above) in 1747, 9d. was charged for 'a Tantony bellrope.' The small bells attached to the necks of cattle in Northants were often called 'tanthony bells,' and at Great Oakley the bell is known as 'tintanny,' which may be derived from St. Anthony or ting-tang.—Yours sincerely,

ERNEST MORRIS.

THE MAN FROM PHILADELPHIA

Dear Sir,—Some notes under this heading appeared in 'The Ringing World' about two years ago, describing the experiences and tremendous pleasure which ringing gave to Morris Alfred Turner after 47 years' absence in the United States.

After this re-awakening of the long dormant love, it is hardly surprising that Mr. Turner is back again for more—a five-month holiday with his brother, Mr. Robert F. Turner, the Ringing Master at Kettering Parish Church. Naturally, when on a visit to Kettering on a recent Sunday, the writer expected to see the Turner brothers side by side at the ropes for service ringing. But Morris Alfred was not there.

After the service I called at his brother's home to hear the full story; and what a terrible disappointment the two have had! After a week or two back in the tower, 'getting his hand in' again, Morris Alfred was told by his doctor that he must not ring at all, because of 'ticker' trouble. Now, all hopes of increasing his peal total, started in 1903, with such great promise, abandoned in 1909 and increased by two in 1956, seem to be past. We had in mind for this year a peal of Cambridge Major—not a popular method in the days when Mr. Turner rang (with the old Kettering band) his peals of Double Norwich and Superlative.

However, he still fully intends to join in a tour in the Canterbury area this summer and a trip to York Minster later on, if only to listen to others ringing and to join in the fun which inevitably goes with ringers and ringing on such occasions.

The writer was very interested to hear at first hand of Mr. Turner's visits to Kent School, in the beautiful Connecticut Hills, since he was last here in 1956. He says he was made a great fuss of and given a very happy time on each occasion, passing on in return several hints and corrections to the speed of ringing, etc., which had slowed down at Kent School over the generations of boys, who are not there long enough to progress very far. Several are able to ring elementary changes, and the ten bells were rung to rounds—and a lovely ten they are, too, according to my informant.

Mr. Turner also visited the tower in Philadelphia again recently, and says that ringing would not now be possible, even if there were ringers, as an organ has been built so as to obstruct ringing.

Though a very jovial type, even after such disheartening news, Mr. Turner feels that young ringers of to-day do not take ringing seriously enough, and that progress would be much quicker if it were a little more disciplined and the social side of ringing kept strictly separate.

We in the Peterborough Diocesan Guild wish Mr. Turner, who has rung peals under the conductorship of people as far apart as the Rev. F. E. Robinson and Stephen Ivin, improved health and a happy stay in this country.—Yours, etc. P. I. C.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—I wish to withdraw the peal of Plain Bob Major which I conducted at Aspenden on November 9th, 1957. The composition, which is on the back of the Hertford County Association Annual Report for 1957 (by G. Lewis), has been proved false in the second half of the peal. My sincere apologies to all ringers concerned.—Yours faithfully,

C. A. S. HARWOOD.

BELLS WELCOME PRINCESS MARGARET TO BRITISH COLUMBIA

H.R.H. Princess Margaret arrived Saturday, July 12th, at Victoria, the capital city of British Columbia, by a direct flight by air from London. On her arrival in Victoria the bells of Christ Church Cathedral rang out a welcome from 10.30 a.m. to 11.30 a.m. As the Royal car drove up to the Empress Hotel, the temporary residence of the Lieut.-Governor of the Province, the bells were fired 21 times.

The ringing consisted of touches of Grandsire and Victoria Surprise. Ringing recommenced at 8.30 p.m. and continued until 9.30 p.m., and on this occasion was televised, showing the ringers ringing and views of the bells in action from a position in the belfry looking down on the bells. A touch of 1,260 Grandsire was rung on this occasion. The striking was very accurate in spite of the disturbing influence of the T.V. operators.

On Sunday morning the Princess attended Matins, and ringing continued until she entered the Cathedral at 11 a.m. Special tickets had been issued to the congregation previously and the front pew of the West Gallery reserved for the ringers and their wives.

After the service, as the Princess came out of the Cathedral, the bells rang out again and continued to 12.30 p.m. with touches of Grandsire and Bob Major. As the Princess left she was presented with a bouquet of flowers by one of the Cathedral Sunday School children, who were lined up on the steps outside the west doors.

There have been very many favourable comments regarding the ringing and also the T.V. broadcast and sound recording.

The ring of eight bells was supplied by Mears and Stainbank in 1936 and are approximately the same weight as those of Westminster Abbey, and tuned to the same scale of D flat.

The 7th and 8th bells are of special interest, as they were christened Queen Mary and King George V. by special permission of the late Queen Mary, and have the following inscription cast on them:—

7th bell Queen Mary
God bless Queen Mary
I hail the festal day
8th bell King George V.
God save the King

Christ Heaven's King be pleased with this ring

The Cathedral ringers taking part were: Patricia Horne, Margaret Horne, Margaret Izard, T. Arkell, C. Millard, B. Guthrie, Dr. Longridge, Godfrey White, D. Boniface, V. Donaldson, A. Izard and E. W. Izard.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

Perhaps the most interesting things about the meeting held at St. Peter's Church, East Bridgford, on July 5th, were the most generous welcome extended to us by the Vicar, the Rev. G. R.'D. Mclean, his most interesting sermon, tracing the history of bells, and the variety of the ringing on these most enjoyable bells.

Although the attendance was rather small, only reaching some 30 ringers, the ringing was if anything rather better than usual. Methods rung included London, Cambridge, York and Westminster Surprise, Sandal, Capel, Duke of Norfolk, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, interspersed with a variety of rounds and plain methods, under the direction of the District Ringing Master, Mr. J. D. Clarke.

At the business meeting it was decided to hold an evening meeting at Coddington on August 9th and the next district meeting, to be jointly with the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, at Eagle and Harby.

A hearty vote of thanks to all concerned was proposed by Mr. F. W. Midwinter.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Frome Branch

Ringers visiting Norton St. Philip on July 14th for the Frome Branch quarterly meeting enjoyed an afternoon which the organisers of the fete the previous week must have envied, and among the apologies for absence was one from Hinton Blewett tower, whose members were engaged in haymaking! About 30 members and friends attended and visitors were welcomed from the Bath and Wells Branches and from Kent for ringing from rounds to Surprise.

The chairman, the Rev. N. Mitchell, of Radstock, reported that the Corporate Communion and breakfast at Nunney had been well attended. He congratulated Mr. D. Hoare and his band on ringing the first peal of Spliced Surprise for the Association, and thought that interest might be stimulated and financial stability increased by inviting friends of ringing to become honorary members of the Association—though associate members might be a better name. Three performing members from High Littleton were elected—Mr. M. and the Misses V. and F. Ormond. Mr. K. B. Williams, of Stockbury, Kent, became a life member.

Mr. D. Hoare (the Diocesan secretary), while making no proposition, reminded members that for more than 30 years both Frome and Bath Branch meetings had been held on a second Saturday (this one had to be postponed a week) and up to now neither side were willing to change. He wondered if the Frome Branch would take the lead by considering a change to the first Saturday of the month. A few members thought that the tradition should still be respected, but many were for a compromise as they would enjoy the opportunity of attending both meetings. Mr. Prescott, Ringing Master of the Bath Branch, said that he would like to see both Branches of the Association working together. It was agreed that the matter should be put to the vote at the annual meeting at Chewton Mendip, after time for discussion in the towers. The next meeting will be at Camerton on October 11th, subject to the necessary permission.

The meeting ended with votes of thanks to the ladies who prepared and served the tea, to Mr. A. H. Angell, tower captain, and to the Vicar, the Rev. O. W. Johnson, for conducting the service and the use of the bells, and to his daughter, who was organist. In his sermon, Mr. Johnson said that the ringing of bells was an act of praise such as no other religion had: they shout out aloud to praise God. E. D. O.

There will be three peal attempts — Ilminster, Drayton and Martock.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Wedding Present For Mr. H. Ford

When the Dorchester Branch held its summer quarterly meeting at Abbotsbury, a cheque was presented to Mr. H. Ford by the chairman (the Rev. S. P. Rowcroft) on behalf of the Branch members, as a wedding present. In thanking the members for their kindness, Mr. Ford said he would give all the help he could in his capacity as Ringing Master.

Five new members were elected from St. Andrew's, Leigh, and the chairman welcomed members from this tower back into the Guild after a lapse of many years.

The hon. secretary (Mr. R. H. Duke) reported that the bells of Piddletrenthide were now rehung and ready for ringing, and a request had been made for a band of ringers to go there and try them out. This would now mean another five-bell tower in the Branch after a lapse of nearly 50 years.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wyke Regis some time in September. The hon. secretary said he was sorry to learn of the impending removal of the Rev. S. P. Rowcroft from Abbotsbury to Ower Moigne, as his new parish had no bells, but that he would now have closer contact with him as he would be under the Dorchester Deanery. He hoped that, in spite of no bells, he would continue as Branch chairman. He wished Mr. and Mrs. Rowcroft every happiness in their new parish. Mr. Rowcroft thanked Mr. Duke for his remarks and said he would be pleased to continue as chairman for as long as possible.

The Guild service was conducted by the Branch chairman, who is Vicar of Abbotsbury. In his address he pointed out how bell-ringing, if done in the right spirit, helped to spread the Kingdom of God. Tea was served in the Flower Bowl Cafe.

West Dorset Branch

The West Dorset Branch held its quarterly meeting at its Devonshire church, St. Andrew's, Chardstock, on July 19th. Members arrived to find a new set of ropes which had been fitted a little over a week. This, combined with a long draught, made good striking impossible. One well known ringer was heard to remark that his bell would place-make when he wanted to dodge! Two young ringers of the Lyme Regis band gave a good display of bell control, and credit to their tutors for correct handling. They were Miss Charlotte Brown and Sidney Brixton, and both were elected members of the Guild later in the day. There were visitors from Bridgwater, Yeovil and Nottingham. Numbers were sufficient for Cambridge Minor to be rung by two different bands, while later London Minor was rung by a third.

As Chardstock was without a Vicar, Preb. E. V. Cox conducted the Guild service, and Canon C. Carew Cox read the lesson and gave the address on Love the Brotherhood and how we should be Christians first and ringers after. Mrs. Wilson played the organ.

Tea was served in a nearby hall, to which 25 sat down. The next quarterly meeting was fixed for Hawkchurch on September 27th and a by-meeting at Thorncombe.

Canon Cox, on behalf of the Guild, thanked Preb. E. V. Cox for taking the service, Mr. Pratt and the ladies for providing the excellent tea and all arrangements, and Mrs. Wilson for playing the organ. Canon Cox was thanked for his very helpful address.

SUTTON-ON-TRENT, NOTTS.—On July 20th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor (7-8 covering): Grace Burchnall (cond.) 1, Lavina Hulford 2, B. Hough 3, Eleanor Rose 4, M. Gartside 5, Katharine Burchnall 6, R. Mumford 7, W. Rushby 8. For Evensong.

JOINT MEETING AT SHREWSBURY

July 12th was the occasion of the third joint meeting of the Shropshire Association and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. The venue for this meeting was Shrewsbury, that interesting town almost surrounded by the River Severn. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was obtainable at St. Chad's and St. Mary's Churches in Shrewsbury and also in the outlying towers of Berrington and Condover, and good use was made of these facilities by the many ringers attending the meeting, and others who were just wandering around tower grabbing.

The service held at St. Chad's was conducted by the Rev. B. M. Harris, senior curate, who also gave the address.

Tea, very kindly provided by the Shrewsbury ringers, was served in St. Chad's Church Hall, and 76 sat down to a bountiful meal. Following tea, Mr. A. Pritchard, Ringing Master of the Shropshire Association, and Mr. F. Bennett, lay secretary of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, thanked Messrs. F. Beddows, E. Willcox and H. Bennett for their efforts in arranging this very enjoyable meeting, the Shrewsbury ringers and their wives for providing tea, the lady helpers who served the meal, the various incumbents for the use of their bells, the Rev. B. M. Harris for taking the service and Mr. Harwood for playing the organ

Altogether it was a most enjoyable day with good fellowship abounding and the 'Staffords' will look forward to the next of these joint meetings, when it will be their turn to act as hosts to the members of the Shropshire Association. F. C. A. B.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The Diocesan Festival was held at St. Stephen-in-Brannel on July 12th. There were present Mr. A. Carveth (the President), Mr. D. Burnett (the Ringing Master), Mr. Southeard (vice-president), and about 70 ringers, including a band from another St. Stephen's, Launceston, and several ringers who were on holiday in Cornwall.

It was unusual to hear more method ringing than call changes and rounds, as the Truro Guild is composed mainly of call-change ringers. The service was conducted by the Rector, Canon Gilbert, and the Diocesan Secretary, the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, preached. The proposed Guild ringers' service was used and prayers were said for the souls of Mr. Henwood, of St. Columb Minor, and Mr. Rowe, of Stoke Climsland, two members of the Guild who had recently died through accidents. Mr. Rowe had written to say that he would be at the Festival with the Stoke ringers.

The secretary, in his sermon, said that he discovered a few days before that they had come to St. Stephen's a year early; they should have come in July, 1959, when St. Stephen's bells in their present form would be fifty years old.

A sumptuous tea was provided by some of the ladies of the parish, after which many of the ringers went off to neighbouring towers, which were also open for ringing.

COLLEGE YOUTHS AND CUMBERLANDS JOINT MEETING

The two oldest Societies in the Exercise held a joint meeting at St. Mary-the-Virgin's, Beddington, on July 19th, and in honour of the occasion the clerk of the weather supplied one of the few good days of this summer.

Ringing in the afternoon was followed by a splendid tea furnished by the local band at the Social Hall—more than enough for even ringers' appetites.

Mr. Frederick J. Cullum, Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, thanked the Master of the College Youths and all those who had helped in bringing the meeting about, and hoped that it might become an annual event. He thought that the two Societies should get together more and see what could be done about churches where little or no Sunday ringing was being done. He felt that there was a lot they could do in this direction.

The Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. Philip A. F. Chalk, said he was enjoying this get-together; it was 25 years since the two Societies had last met, and that was at cricket, but although he thought it ought not to be another 25 years before they met again, if it became an annual occasion it might lose its interest. He added that perhaps they could have another social meeting in another sphere—rugby instead of cricket, perhaps!

Ringing continued after tea, ending ten minutes earlier than scheduled, owing to the breaking of a rope in the hands of a member of the weaker (?) sex. So ended a memorable day; a delightful ring of bells in a lovely setting, a fine day, many old friendships renewed and reminiscences exchanged—a very pleasant meeting indeed.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Eight towers were represented at the monthly meeting at Shelley on July 12th. After tea in the school, the Rev. A. Crow presided at the business meeting. Arising from the minutes of the June meeting, which was the Shield contest, Cawthorne offered the prize they should have received for the Hoylandswaine Cup contest at Hoylandswaine on September 13th. Five new members were elected, viz., J. Whitehead (Marsden), Shirley Greenwood and the Rev. A. Crow (Shelley), B. Mills and J. Meredith (Holme Pierrepont). The next meeting will be a joint one with the Yorkshire Association at Thryburgh on August 9th. Mr. Herman Rusby proposed the vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwarden, the local company and the ladies responsible for tea.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD FOR THE DIOCESE OF BIRMINGHAM

A quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at Selly Oak on July 5th. Owing to various other attractions the meeting was poorly attended and was very brief.

The secretary reported that a smaller room at the Imperial Hotel had been reserved for the Johnson Dinner, which will be held on March 7th, 1959.

The Guild practices at St. Martin's on Tuesday evenings were discussed, but no substantial reason could be found for the diminution in the numbers attending and it was decided to continue for the time being.

The next meeting will be held at Aston on October 4th.

EXPERIENCES ON OUTINGS

INTO SOUTH BUCKS

The morning of July 12th saw three cars carrying a party of 12 ringers on an outing, aimed at ringing in various towers in South Bucks with a few from nearby counties.

Ringing commenced at St. Paul's, Langleybury, where Mr. Ken Dunstan met us and joined in a course of Bourne; this light six go well. Our first eight, King's Langley, have only recently returned from the Loughborough foundry and, as usual, Taylors have done an excellent job, the only criticism being a stuffy belfry. We were pleased to have Mr. Walter Ayre stand in a course of London, though our ringing here didn't do justice to the bells.

After these two Hertfordshire towers we entered Bucks, having a short ring at Aston Clinton, followed by the five from the Croydon foundry at Weston Turville, thought by some to be one of the best fives in the country. Prior to lunch London was successfully rung at Stoke Mandeville. After the first touch here the stay of the fifth fell out, having been attached with only a couple of nails.

Replenished by a picnic lunch, we had the interesting experience of a ring on the steel bells of Waddesdon, where we were met by Canon Dixon and Mr. Copcutt. Though these bells are a little out of tune they are by no means as harsh as might be expected, and went well to Cambridge. A little time in hand provided an opportunity for a pull at Quainton; this ring of five is of very fine tone, the tenor weighing 19¾ cwt., and the bells hang in the order 13254, anti-clockwise. The ringing circle is surrounded by ornamental statues, which, coupled with the long draught, makes the bells tricky to handle. A pleasant drive through narrow lanes brought us to another anti-clockwise ring of five at Nether Winchendon, where the appropriate Doubles were rung. The ring of eight at Haddenham sounded better outside the tower than in. A course of the special eight-bell method of the day, Glasgow, reached just over three leads before collapsing. Another attempt progressed a further lead at Thame (Oxon), where the bells are a very poor ring for such a fine church.

Before ringing at Tetsworth we enjoyed tea at the local fete. The ring of six by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank has a tenor of 4½ cwt., and everyone enjoyed it very much. Permission had been obtained for a pull at Aston Rowant (5, 13 cwt.) but on arrival at the church a large boiler was found in the ringing chamber directly beneath the tenor rope. However, the tenor was raised with extreme difficulty, and rounds rung on this anti-clockwise peal of good tone, though the 'go' left a lot to be desired. The bells had just been lowered when the Parochial Church Council secretary rushed in to tell us the tower was condemned as unsafe in 1922, since when the bells had not been rung.

Our ringing at Chinnor was curtailed when the second's rope broke, but a short splice remedied matters, and an interesting touch of Spliced Minor was rung. Re-entering Bucks, we visited the heavy ring of five at Bledlow and, later, West Wycombe, where a final onslaught on Glasgow produced six leads.

Grateful thanks are extended to all those who helped to make this outing so successful.

TEWKESBURY, GLOS.—At the Abbey, on July 19th, 1,777 Erin Cinques: D. Heighton 1, M. T. Sprackling 2, F. Hansford 3, D. J. Marshall 4, P. J. Bird 5, Miss P. M. Bourn 6, Mrs. E. A. G. Bowden 7, I. Goulter 8, R. J. Bowden 9, A. M. Tyler (cond.) 10, T. P. Edwards 11, F. D. Mack 12.

HANDSWORTH, SHEFFIELD

The local company had not had an outing for several years so a few impetuous fools this year persuaded everyone that it would be a good thing, and arrangements were duly put in hand. This means that our patient tower captain arranged coach, towers, eating places and a period delicately described on the itinerary as 'social activity.'

Prompt at the appointed time, four people arrived at the rendezvous. About a quarter of an hour later the last members of the party turned up still rubbing sleep from their eyes, and just as some were giving up hope, the bus came as well, so we were able to depart only about 20 minutes late, although we soon caught this up en route.

Having got more or less settled in, the handbells were produced for a 'quick' course 'in hand,' but we arrived at Grantham before this came round so we rang a few courses of various things on the noble ring of ten instead, J. E. T. and 'Our Kid' doing great things on the tenor.

Some signed the visitors' book underneath some more illustrious names than ours, of the previous outing, and then we all 'embussed' for Surfleet. Here we had a great time where, because of the leaning tower, the ropes appear to descend at 30 degrees to the vertical, and the way some of us performed at 30 degrees to the horizontal. Afterwards it was generally agreed (by at least five gentlemen) that the highlight of this visit was some Doubles on the top five.

During ringing here, one or two of the more thirsty members disappeared, and the feeble excuse of those who went to 'hurry others up' didn't really fool anyone, but eventually we all set off for lunch at a hotel in Spalding.

We finally left Spalding in peace for Sutterton, where we astonished ourselves by ringing a course of Lincolnshire Surprise in Lincolnshire on this delightful eight. One thing of note occurred here and that was the 'turning in' of the tenor to some Stedman Triples by one of our ladies, otherwise we all enjoyed some good ringing.

Next we arrived at Boston Stump, where we rang some Grandsire Caters nearly at cloud base and where one of our many comics remarked that these must be a heavenly peal because of the height we had to climb to ring them. By now perhaps the pace was beginning to tell, as we did not ring these bells as well as we should have done, although we did bring all the touches round.

Magically we all, or nearly all, recovered for another long climb at the organisers' 'pièce de résistance,' Lincoln Cathedral, but the bells were well worth it and so was the view from the balcony! Much has been written about Lincoln, but mere words cannot describe the grandeur of this beautiful building from foundation stone to the highest pinnacle. After some of the best ringing of the day we took our leave and began our journey home. We stopped on the way, of course, to sample some of the much vaunted 'social activity,' which proved most acceptable.

Our thanks include the coach driver, who performed miracles, and our tower captain and organiser, Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert, who should have been a psychologist, and, of course, local captains and clergy for their kind co-operation.

WEST RETFORD, NOTTS

York was the destination of the annual outing of St. Michael's, West Retford, which took place on July 19th. The outing was blessed with a really good summer's day, and at 8 a.m. 36 ringers and friends from Sutton-on-Trent, Rampton, Gamston, East Retford and Bawtry left the church.

Selby (10, tenor 25 cwt.) was the first tower on the programme and the lovely bells were enjoyed by all. The best ringing here was a touch of Spliced Triples.

At Escrick (8, tenor 13 cwt.) we found that the clappers of the treble and second were tied and unfortunately this wasted a bit of time. After the opening rounds a touch of Plain Bob Major was brought round. Oxford Bob Triples went well, and then a ladies' band, assisted by 'Miss Denman,' rang a touch of Grandsire Triples. Little Bob Major was rung and then the bells were lowered.

The first tower after lunch was Acomb (6, tenor 10 cwt.). Although the bells are very loud in the ringing chamber they are easy to ring and some good ringing was accomplished. The Institute of Architectural Study (6, tenor 8 cwt.) was next on the list, and difficulty was experienced here in striking these very old bells.

After tea we made our way to the Minster (12, tenor 59 cwt.), where, after the bells had been raised, we started with rounds on 12. Unfortunately we broke a stay, which reduced ringing to 10. We then rang rounds on 10, with Mr. Williams making a very good job of the tenor. Oxford Bob Triples and Grandsire Triples were rung on the back eight. Although we enjoyed hearing these majestic bells we did not do justice to them with our ringing.

The last tower of the day was Carlton (6, tenor 6 cwt.). This nice light ring was very much enjoyed by all. Double Oxford went particularly well. An all-ladies' band rang a touch of Bob Minor.

The customary stop was made on the way home and we arrived home just after 10.30.

Methods rung were Stedman and Grandsire Doubles, Plain Bob, Single Court, Single Oxford, St. Clement's, Double Court, Double Oxford, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor, Grandsire and Oxford Triples, Plain and Little Bob Major and Grandsire Caters.

Thanks are extended to all incumbents concerned, to the Dean of York and to local tower captains for meeting us.

GLOUCESTER RINGERS' OUTING

Some 41 ringers and friends participated in the North Forest Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association's outing in North Worcestershire, Warwickshire and Oxfordshire.

Good bells had been selected. First came the recently rehung eight at Hanbury, followed by Aston Cantlow (6) and Wootton-Wawen (a very interesting old church). Lunch was taken in picnic fashion at Stratford-on-Avon and, after a brief rest, the coaches left for Wellesbourne Hastings and Kineton. Tea followed at Banbury. The last tower was Hook Norton, a good eight.

During the day methods rung included Grandsire Triples and Doubles, Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, St. Dunstan's and rounds for beginners at each tower.

Grateful thanks are due to all incumbents and local ringers for their co-operation and to the Ringing Master, Mr. Wilson, of Redmarley, who planned the route; also Miss J. Smith, Secretary, for organising the tour and tea at Banbury.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

RHYTHM

From 'The Irish Bell News'

THOSE Irish readers who had the privilege and honour of listening to or ringing with the members of the Central Council no doubt were struck by the perfect striking by the various teams. As the various towers will be getting into their stride after the summer holidays, in preparation for the competitions, some notes on striking will not be out of place.

Perfect rhythm necessitates an equal space between each pair of bells. There is no other way to achieve this than by listening to one's own bell striking. There are many ringers, including some of the most prominent ringers, who are unable to pick out their bell when ringing. Having picked out your bell, it is necessary to use your sight and to estimate the time-lag after the bell you are following, in order that the bell will strike at the correct moment. To enable that to be done the correct pull must be given to the rope to enable the bell to swing to the correct height and to permit the clapper to fall at the right part of the bell's swing, to strike the bell also at the correct degree, whilst the bell swings up again.

These three faculties are all necessary in achieving perfect rhythm. They apply equally to a perfect ring of bells and to a ring which has odd-struck or difficult running bells.

Let us now examine the time element. For a ring of eight bells of, say, 20 cwt. tenor, the average number of changes or rows is 24 per minute, for simplicity. The time for ringing every two rows, i.e., 'hand' and 'back,' is 5 seconds. There are 16 notes in each whole-pull, plus a gap for the open-handstroke lead. This gap is the equivalent of one bell, or a silent 17th note. The time between any two bells, except the tenor at back and treble at hand, should, therefore, be about 0.3 sec. Assuming 0.3, therefore, as the actual time interval, this would give an open handstroke lead of 0.6 sec.—in other words, the gap between bells should be slightly less than $\frac{1}{3}$ sec., and at treble handstroke lead of less than $\frac{2}{3}$ sec.

To the 'layman' these times seem incredible to achieve, yet the finalists of the Murphy Cup very nearly achieved it. The 'experts' from England generally did achieve it. Supposing all bells were ringing in perfect rhythm, except one bell, and its time varies up to 0.1 sec. or 33⅓% of the time element. The time of ringing would, therefore, be, assuming No. 5 was the culprit: Treble 0.3 sec., second 0.3, third 0.3, fourth 0.2, fifth 0.4, sixth 0.3, seventh 0.3, tenor. It will be seen that the fifth is too close to the fourth and the sixth has a big gap after No. 5.

We are now talking in terms of 1/10th sec.—such times are big for bell-ringers. If No. 5 ringer is 3/10th sec. out of time, we will get something like this: Treble 0.3 sec., second 0.3, third 0.3, fourth and fifth 0.6, sixth 0.3, seventh 0.3, tenor. Here we have a clash of fifth on fourth and a gap equivalent to two bells for the sixth or if the fifth holds up to the extent of 3/10th sec. we get this: Treble 0.3, second 0.3, third 0.3, fourth 0.6, sixth 0.3, seventh 0.3, tenor. The sixth if it maintains its time has to clash with the fifth, but what generally happens is for the sixth to pull in if the fifth is too close to the fourth and hold up if the fifth is too slow, with the result that the rhythm throughout is upset.

In the case of the open handstroke lead, we should, for perfect rhythm, get this: Tenor (back) 0.6, treble (hand) 0.3, second 0.3, third 0.3, fourth 0.3, fifth 0.3, sixth 0.3, seventh 0.3, tenor 0.3, treble (back). If the treble is unsteady, even up to 0.2 sec., its lead will either be too quick or too open. The rhythm is generally upset throughout because the second will try to cut in after treble where it is too close to tenor or to hold up if the lead is too open, again upsetting the rhythm.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Mansfield District's Good Start

The first meeting of the newly-formed Mansfield District was held at Edwinstowe on July 26th with 50 ringers and friends attending from East Markham, Bolsover, Daybrook, Nottingham, Newark, Gamston, Greasley, Holme Pierrepoint, Mansfield and Warsop, with the local band.

Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m. and the bells were kept going to a variety of methods until an excellent tea was taken in the Church Hall at 5 p.m. kindly provided by the local ladies.

At the short business meeting, the chair was ably taken by Mr. S. W. Fossey, Mansfield District chairman, and 16 new members were elected to membership of the Guild. By kind invitation of Mr. B. A. Sollis, hon. secretary of the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, it was decided to hold the next meeting as a joint meeting with that Association at Sutton-in-Ashfield on October 25th. The Bell Fund collection realised the sum of £1 3s. 0d. Mr. H. T. Rooke, of Warsop, was elected Ringing Master. Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar of Edwinstowe for the use of the bells and the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.

Ringing again took place after tea until 7.30 p.m. when the ringers joined the Rev. Mr. Pickles in saying Evensong. Ringing followed until just after 9 p.m. when the bells were lowered in peal. Methods rung during the day included rounds for the learners, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Double Court, St. Clement's, Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Killamarsh Treble Bob, Oswald Delight, Cambridge Surprise, Norwich Surprise and Annable's London Surprise. THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Saxmundham District

A meeting of the Saxmundham District was held at Peasenhall and Yoxford on July 12th. The attendance was low, but, thanks to visitors, the bells were kept ringing until almost 9 p.m. with many methods being rung at both towers. The visitors included Mr. F. W. Lalk, of Hunts, Mr. and Mrs. Marriott, of Ipswich, Mr. Alan Clarke, of Grundisburgh, and one from Waltham Abbey. The Rev. Mr. Thickett took the service at Peasenhall and gave an interesting address. The Rector's wife, Mrs. Thickett, kindly arranged and provided tea at the Rectory. Next meeting: Tunstall with Blaxhall, September 20th. A. R. B.

LAVENHAM OUTING

The morning ringing was at Bennington and St. Peter's, Hertford, after which the party did ample justice to the lunch at the White Hart. This was followed by further ringing at All Saints', Hertford.

A short run brought the party to Bengeo to enjoy ringing on the light eight. After partaking of tea, also at the White Hart, Hertford, tracks were made for the last tower of the day, Epping. Methods rung were Grandsire Caters, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Kent, Oxford and Cambridge Surprise.

Many thanks are due to incumbents and ringers who met us, also to Mr. F. Mortlock for arranging such a happy day.

SCIENTIFIC TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—I would like to offer my congratulations to Mr. Robin G. Leale and his band, for accomplishing a peal of Scientific Triples at Hampton recently. From a mental point of view, this is undoubtedly the acme of Triples possibilities, especially in view of the fact that, when the method was first published by John Carter in 1908, it was regarded as too hard to ring! His original composition was also a harder one, and liable to put anyone off! Mr. A. J. Pitman is also to be congratulated on producing an easier one.

There seems little left to do now in Triples ringing, except to go to a meeting and hear a well-struck touch of Grandsire.—Yours sincerely, A. PATRICK CANNON.

Dorking, Surrey.

TUNES ON HANDBELLS

Dear Sir,—I agree that a book on handbell tune ringing would be very welcome, especially if it could start with an octave of bells and then 10, 12, 15 and on to the highest numbers. There must be many systems in use, from one bell in each hand, using figures to table ringing from music with over 100 bells.

I have access to a book on table ringing, also a catalogue of handbell music by the late William Gordon, of Stockport, but I expect they are now both out of print and would not be economical to reprint.

However, a collection of systems such as used by Messrs. G. E. Symonds, A. D. Barker, F. Sharpe, H. Chaddock and others could be made, also figured tunes for various numbers, so that a choice could be made to suit requirements.—Yours faithfully,

St. Albans. H. V. FROST.

BELFRY GOSSIP

A loss to the East Grinstead Guild is the impending departure of its chairman, Mr. S. G. Ponting, from Ticehurst to Milford, Surrey, where he has been appointed headmaster of the local school. Mr. Ponting came to Ticehurst nine years ago and there learnt to handle a bell and his change ringing at Wadhurst. He quickly progressed through plain methods to Surprise Major. Mr. Ponting will be missed particularly by local peal ringers as he was always willing to take part and provide transport for others.

The ringer of the seventh in the peal at Thorpe Bay, Essex, on July 5th was Mr. Frederick J. Cullum and not Mr. Frederick E Cullum, as stated.

Comments a correspondent in sending a quarter peal from Devon: 'Our joy knew no bounds as we crashed into rounds.'

Mr. Joseph Thornley of Farnworth, Lancashire, would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers, of Isleworth, Middlesex, and other London ringers (all Guilds) for a very warm welcome extended to him during his recent holiday in the London area.

Apropos the stained glass window at Sharrow, Yorkshire, Mr. H. V. Frost writes that in the belfry of St. Peter's Church, St. Albans, there is a stained glass window depicting bells and ringers recording a victory peal in 1945. A picture of this window was reproduced in 'The Ringing World' of May 9th, 1952.

After an absence from the art for about 14 years, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wright rang in two 720's of Plain Bob Minor for morning and evening service at St. Mary's, Rougham, Suffolk, on July 27th. This arose not only from the strong persuasions of the conductor, Mr. R. Rose, but because their 14 year old daughter wants to take the right course and learn to ring.

Those friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Edwards who have enjoyed hospitality at 140, Beeches Drive, Erdington, Birmingham, will be sorry to hear that Mrs. Edwards is at present in Birmingham General Hospital, after having been knocked down by a car. We are pleased to hear that she is making good progress, and we all wish her a speedy recovery.

The surnames in a quarter peal rung at Cannock, Staffs, on July 22nd all began with a letter 'B.'

Churches dedicated to St. Lawrence should note that Sunday, August 10th, marks the 1,700th anniversary of his martyrdom, writes Mr. R. Collins. His church, St. Lawrence's, Chobham, has no less than 11 lady ringers, all residents and communicants.

Ringers from London, Kent and Nottingham who have been holidaying at Stratton and Bude, rang quarter peals at Stratton and Pyworthy and 'grabbed' many new towers, Mr. M. F. Oakshett, on behalf of the band, desires to thank local ringers and incumbents for permission to ring and especially Charles Sangwin and Harry Stacey, who have the amazing ability in being able to get that extra tower at a moment's notice.

Mr. Peter Crook, of Bolton, has left England for a four month holiday in Ontario, Canada. Mr. Crook recently lost his wife and has gone to visit his married daughter, Mrs. G. Annie Paine, and her three children. Before emigrating to Canada Mrs. Paine, as Annie Crook, rang many peals for the Lancashire Association and conducted several. She also took part in a Father and Daughters peal of Grandsire Caters at Manchester Cathedral some years ago. Mr. Crook also has a son, Peter, jun., who is a ringer. Father and son are both members of the National Police Guild of Bellringers.

WIDENING THE SCOPE OF BELL MUSIC IN CHANGES

THE question, 'How many rings of bells have you in your tower?', would seem to most ringers, no doubt, a bit odd; and a typical answer might be, 'I don't know what you mean, but we've got a nice ring of eight.' But if to this came the reply. 'Ah, eight bells? Then you've got at least twenty-three rings!' —it's pretty certain it would be regarded as some sort of a poor joke. Nevertheless it would be, in a sense, quite true; and not merely theoretically so; because the realisation of these possibilities in ringing can be interesting musically as well as useful practically; at least for all other than peal ringing.

The possibilities arise from two factors—the attendance of fewer ringers than bells in the tower, and the nature of the occasion of ringing—joyous or sad; and these considerations are quite apart from the cases where a 'semitone-bell' has been added to a tower ring to provide a 'light eight' or 'minor eight,' etc.

As to the first—for example, in meeting short—it is important to realise that the necessarily silent bells need not be those at the upper end of the ring. Rings of rather more interesting groups of notes may be derived by careful selection; and in some the retention of the tower treble may be found to be an advantage. Even in a 5-bell tower selections of rings of less than five bells are possible, it being assumed that ringing will proceed with as few as four attending. Depending on the nature of the occasion at least one such selection might be considered preferable to the ring of five. Of course, the more bells in the tower-ring, the greater the possibilities. The table below gives some of the possible selections on rings from five bells upwards. It should stimulate interest in appropriate circumstances. The 'Code' or number-letter in the left-hand column indicates, by the figure, the number of bells employed, and identifies, by the letter, the particular selection for that number of bells. (If a selection omits bells, i.e. there are gaps in the normal sequence, the ring is referred to as 'open.')

As to the second factor—occasions of mourning or memorial—it is possible to select rings in a minor mode, according to the number of ringers available. Such rings are distinguished in the table by a star against the code. They do not necessarily furnish the exact notes of a minor scale, but they do yield cadences with a distinctly nostalgic atmosphere, and sometimes of an almost haunting sadness.

The number of selections included in the table may seem surprisingly high, but, even so, they have been chosen for their musical characteristics, which become the more apparent when changes are evolved. It is recommended that 'rounds' of the various rings be tried out on, say, a piano keyboard, or tapped on handbells. Those finding most favour could then be marked for trial in changes. Some selections, particularly on the higher numbers, may be considered to yield surprisingly attractive effects as the course ends roll up. But every selection or 'ring' has its characteristic tone effects.

To avoid possible selection-error in using the table, which, to save space, has not repeated in any one group the selections set out in the preceding group, it should be borne in mind that if a selected ring is taken from a bell-group of other, i.e. lower, number than in the tower itself, then the bell numbers given in the table must be adjusted accordingly. They must be regarded as 'from the back,' since the highest number always refers to a tenor bell. For example, if, in a six-bell tower, only four ringers turn up, and it is decided to select a ring from the 5-bell group, say, No. 4A, where the bell numbers are given as '1 3 4 5,' then these numbers, applied in the six-bell tower, become '2 4 5 6.'

TO USE THE TABLE

Refer to the group appropriate to the tower ring, and, if desired, from there to lower groups. For example, if in an 8-bell tower, refer to Group III primarily. Pick out the code number of the number of bells to be rung, either in this or in previous groups, as determined by the number of ringers (and by bells in the case of broken ropes or stays) available. In the present case suppose a requiem touch is to be rung and only seven ringers are present, then either of rings 6H (group III) or 5E (group II) may be selected for the particular purpose. But if all ringers are to be used, and music in a minor mode is not the prime consideration, then any of the major-6 or major-7 rings in group III may meet the case.

In practice, it may be helpful to post up in the ringing chamber as much of this table of rings as is appropriate to the tower ring; and to refer to it whenever the full ring cannot be employed. Variety in musical effect is then always available.

HANDSWORTH RINGERS VISIT SHROPSHIRE

On July 19th a party of thirteen ringers from St. Mary's, Handsworth, Birmingham, arrived at Claverley on the first stage of their yearly outing. The fine tone of the pleasant eight here made a good start to the day and Grandsire and Stedman Triples were duly brought round. Before going on to Bridgnorth the party visited Worfield, where the long draught tends to obscure the fact that the six bells certainly go well enough, with care. Here Plain Bob Minor and the inevitable Grandsire were cautiously rung.

The first tower at Bridgnorth was St. Leonard's, which has a truly magnificent 18 cwt. ring of eight. The noble tone of the bells, the pleasant and spacious ringing chamber and the welcome of Mr. H. G. Thomas combine to make this the sort of tower one could ring in all day. Despite the encouragement the bells provided, Bob Major could not be induced to sort itself out. The other Bridgnorth tower was the beautiful church of St. Mary Magdalene, which has a light eight and a tiny ringing chamber. It was very kind of the Rector of St. Mary's to compliment us on our ringing, and, recovering from surprise, we pushed on to Chelmarsh and ate a picnic lunch before ringing at St. Peter's.

The bells here proved to be a pleasant country six which only need to be rung more often to be very good, and several Doubles methods were rung. After this we visited Highley, which yielded a bumpy and intriguing six which delighted by their novelty. The fourth and fifth are the original 14th century bells, the fourth particularly being a fine bell, and Kent Minor.

The next tower was Cleobury Mortimer which proved to be a medium-weight six and which went well despite having no local band to ring them. The Vicar is very keen to hear his bells rung and visiting bands are most welcome. By this time everyone was quite used to ringing all sorts of bells and the competition to conduct Grandsire Doubles was much keener here than in the home tower.

After a high tea at Cleobury we went on to Rock, the last tower of the day and the only one of the trip in Worcestershire. By this time exhaustion was becoming apparent, and if the highlight of the day was the Stedman at Claverley then the lowlight was certainly the rise at Rock which only succeeded at the second attempt. Touches of Grandsire Triples here tended to get out of hand at about the fifth consecutive single, and we did not really do justice to the excellent bells.

The courtesy shown us by the incumbents and tower captains at every tower was much appreciated indeed and certainly made the Ringing Master's task lighter than it would otherwise have been. There was one thing, however, that we could not help noticing at every tower we visited—even the most petite of our ringers had half a yard of backstroke over and above her requirements. Can it be that the Wee Folk ring in Shropshire towers while Shropshire Lads are fast asleep?

REDENHALL AND DISS OUTING

The annual outing of the Redenhall and Diss ringers was held on July 19th with a visit to Ely and Cambridgeshire. After picking up Miss Reeve and Harry and Mrs. Fuller at Thetford the party of 32 first stopped to ring at Hilgay, then moved on to Littleport. Arriving at Ely 12.30 p.m., a brief look round the lovely Cathedral preceded lunch, after which ringing took place at St. Mary's Parish Church.

The next call was at Soham where the ten bells were rung. On to Cambridge for tea where all agreed that the 91 steps to the tea room was the highest climb of the day but the meal was very welcome.

Ringing took place on the recently rehung eight at St. Andrew the Great and finally at Trumpington. On the return journey a stop was made ot Newmarket for supper, and Diss was reached about 11.30 p.m. The thanks of the party go out to Mr. William Flatt who again organised the outing, also to all ringers who met us and to the incumbents.

WIDENING SCOPE OF BELL MUSIC—Continued

GROUP V: 12-BELL TOWERS (SEVENTY-TWO RINGS)

Of these 72 rings selected for Group V, 59 rings, as given in Group IV, may be had on the back ten bells of the tower-ring of 12. The remaining 13 rings are as follows:—

12A	Major-12	All	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 0 e t	Caters covered by 0/t. Royal covered. Cinques. Cinques covered. Maximus.

Some selected rings may have an instant appeal: but, of course, tastes vary.

Such rings may include the 'MAJESTICS,' i.e., Nos. 5G, 6Q and 6X, especially when rung to a slow rhythm: also some of the minor modes, e.g., 5H, 5J, 6J, 6K and 7E, with their nostalgic atmosphere: and the 'ECHO' rings—8J and 10C, especially if these two last are rung to 'repeated' minimus and 'repeated' doubles, respectively. At all events, plenty of scope will be found for imaginative selection. (The table is not exhaustive.)

THE POWER OF CONCENTRATION

..'Course the treble's not a bad bell when you think about it. Don't really think I could have managed inside tonight—it's too hot for one thing!

Treble's going! She's gone! Now we're away. I really must concentrate tonight. I'll try and look like one of those supercilious ringers who never even look at you when they're ringing.

Dodge-lie-dodge, down to 3-4—must say I'm striking this well. More than I can say for Bill—fancy missing that dodge with me!

Lead at hand—now over the three. Can't think what made Pam wear that skirt tonight—it doesn't suit her at all. Perhaps she didn't have anything else clean. Lead full—now at back. Phew! Isn't it hot? Can't say nylon's very good for ringing. Suppose I ought to have worn my—Oh blow! Missed 3-4 up and there's Pam glaring at me!

I really must pull myself together. After all, I'm only ringing the treble! 3-4 down, now into lead, lead full. Just got that last lead in right. Thank goodness I'm not tone deaf! 'Course old Vi is. Can't think how she's got as far as she has! Dodge-lie-dodge at the back with Ruth. I must lend her my Vitapointe—her hair is just like straw tonight! Must be the weather! Oh my goodness! Was that the second dodge behind or the first? I'm all right—don't panic! Pam's frowning like mad, so I must be dodging with her! Phew! that was a near thing—nearly tripped!

It's really too hot for a peal. Mum would think I was crazy if she knew! Still it will look jolly good in 'The Ringing World'! 3-4 down with Barbara. Wonder where she got that blouse? Looks like Marks to me!

Dodge-lie-dodge behind—dum-de-dum. Anyone would think Pam was calling 55 methods instead of Kent! Still I couldn't do it, can't concentrate—that's my trouble!

3-4 up with Bill. Nice boy. Pity he's so young—Oh my gosh! Now I'm lost! Oh someone help me out! This is the third time I'm leading—I must have finished at the front! Good old Pam! Can't think how she knows what I'm doing—puts you right just like that!

Dodge-lie-dodge—dum-de-dum. We'll never keep this pace up—it's too hot for one thing. Probably the fastest on the bells or something. 'Course that would look good in 'The Ringing World.'

Hello! Bill seems to be fiddling around! Why he doesn't concentrate I can't think! Oh dear!—that's two of them now. I must keep right—they ring by the treble. Lead full, now at back. Over me, Bill! (I hope that's right!) That was a near thing! Pam's the only one who hasn't made a trip now. We must have rung over half-an-hour. What's this? Pam's saying 'Go round!'? Go round! Whatever for? The 720 was false! Stand!

You know I can't think why these conductors can't concentrate!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SOUTH DEVON RINGERS AND 'TAKING STOCK'

Dear Sir,—The front page article in a recent issue inspires me to write—not so much in connection with the problems of circulation of 'The Ringing World' as with the stated aspiration to 'knit ringers into one big fellowship.'

As you know, call-change, as distinct from change ringing is the predominent feature of the 'ringing world' in the West Country. In a recent issue of the journal I was naturally interested to read that, at the invitation of the B.B.C., a list of towers where good ringing may be expected was submitted to the Corporation. My reaction, somewhat naturally, was to wonder whether any call-change towers had been included. With this in mind I wrote to the secretary of the Central Council to express the hope that as call-change ringers are, after all, church bell ringers too, some consideration was given to us of that 'persuasion.' I also asked whether there might not be room on the Central Council for call-change representation.

The answer to my question regarding the inclusion of Devon call-change towers in the list submitted to the B.B.C., I quote, 'would be "no" . . . as change ringing is the Council's main consideration.' To my enquiry regarding representation the answer was in effect that were it granted 'offence' (!)—my exclamation—would be given to the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. Incidentally, my own personal experience gainsays that supposition. This attitude surely is a mistaken one and does not help me and several others on both sides of the 'fence' here in Devon who are working to achieve and maintain a happier relationship of better understanding between the two schools of thought. Prebendary E. V. Cox, John Scott (now Vicar of Clawton) and Maurice Atkins, well-known figures in the Guild, share my endeavours in this direction, and it seems so much the greater pity and frustration that the Cenral Council of Church Bell Ringers—and I emphasise the appellation 'Church Bell Ringers' in the title—should pretend to the non-existence of call-change towers and non-qualification for consideration, except when its members wish to ring in our towers!

Surely the purpose and overruling consideration is for the Glory of God and the service of His Church and this should be the inspiration of enlightened thought on both sides of our metaphorical 'fence.

Mr. Barnett ventured to commend me for my interest in the 'wider field' but I could only point out that that qualification 'cuts both ways.'

Be assured that this letter springs from no sense of ill-feeling. My great desire is to have our church bells rung Sunday by Sunday and rung well and, whether in call-change or 'scientific,' to see the great brotherhood 'all one in Christ Jesus.'—Yours truly,

B. E. BARTLETT,
Hon Secretary,
South Devon Ringers' Assoc.

SHAROW WINDOW

Dear Sir,—With reference to your query in 'Belfry Gossip' about the uniqueness of the stained glass window in the belfry of Sharow church may I make a few comments.

Firstly Sharow is a parish adjoining Ripon city, Sharrow, the name given in 'Belfry Gossip,' is a district in Sheffield: some confusion frequently arises through the misspelling of the names of the two places.

The window was provided by Thomas Clarke, the conductor of the peal; he was a retired road surveyor, a good ringer and a man of a very hospitable and generous nature.

Clarke's enthusiasm was unbounded. He kept a horse and wagonette which he used for conveying his ringing friends to local churches and local inns. Unfortunately his generous habits brought him into reduced circumstances and he died in a Poor Law institution.

At the inaugural meeting of the Yorkshire Association in 1875, Clarke was present and it was due to his influence that the bells at Sharow were augmented from six to eight and the Cathedral ring increased from eight to ten.

In the previous year the city of Ripon celebrated a thousand years of municipal independence and a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at the cathedral. Clarke rang in the peal and a stained glass plaque was placed behind an existing window in the cathedral ringing room recording the peal, Clarke was the donor of this plaque.

Thomas Metcalfe, a great figure in North Yorkshire ringing circles for many years, was born in Sharow parish and scored his first peal in the jubilee peal at Sharow. Almost fifty years later he paid a visit to Sharow and called another peal of Kent Major on Sharow bells. I rang the seventh to this peal.—Yours faithfully, EDWARD HUDSON.

Sharow, Ripon.

ST. ANTHONY'S BELL

Dear Sir,—'Tantney' or 'Tantony' bells, according to H. B. Walters, are usually old priests' bells named after St. Anthony the Hermit, who had as one of his emblems a small bell attached to his tanstaff or suspended from the neck of his attendant pig. The small bells attached to the necks of cattle in Northamptonshire used to be called Tanthony bells. As Walters also refers to instances at Weedon Bec, Great Oakley, Stanford and Lamport in Northants, it would seem that your correspondents will easily be able to get further information not far from home. At Stanford, St. Anthony and his pig may be seen in a window.—Yours, etc.,

H. V. FROST.

St. Albans.

THE PAYMENT!

Dear Sir,—At a recent wedding of a landowner's daughter in a church with three bells the ringers were a boy and a girl of 12 and two boys of 16. No payment was made but a carton was found in the belfry containing six bottles of ale with a note 'For the bell-ringers!' —Yours truly, H. B. MAKINS.

Bruton, Somerset.

DIFFICULTIES AT HULL

Dear Sir,—Not knowing what difficulties, if any, exist at Hull, it would appear that Mr. A. Stone should contact his Vicar immediately and ask him to make it known through all parochial organisations that ringers are urgently needed.

A band raised from young local churchpeople would be far more satisfactory than one formed from the 'good ringers' to whom Mr. Stone appeals; in any case if it's a Sunday service band he wants no good ringers would be available, they would all be occupied in their own towers.

What a wonderful opportunity Mr. Stone has.—Yours truly, R. G. BELL.

Watford, Herts.

Dear Sir,—While wishing success to Mr. Austin Stone in his appeal through your columns for ringers to man the bells of Hull Parish Church, I cannot help feeling that he is trying to find an easy way out of a nation-wide problem, and he will eventually have to accept the fact that there is only one solution—go forth into the world and recruit and train.

Let him take two London towers as examples:

Stamford Hill. Until recent years only a modest Grandsire Doubles band existed. 'The Ringing World' columns have shown the result of the past few years of intensive recruiting and training—two more bells and a band (including a girl of 12) capable of ringing Glasgow Surprise.

Walthamstow. A parallel case to Hull, a ten-bell tower reduced five years ago to Grandsire Doubles on Sunday mornings, evening ringing 'by arrangement,' and no practice. The intervening years of recruitment are now bearing fruit in the form of Double Norwich and Stedman Caters for morning service and a quarter-peal attempt most Sunday evenings (Stedman Caters recently with six 'firsts').

So go out, Mr. Stone, talk to church and other youth clubs, scout and guide groups, and make useful contacts such as school-teachers who may be a possible source of recruits. It's a long job, with disappointments and frustrations, and only by looking back over the years is it possible to see the length of the path which has been travelled and the heights so far attained, and then look forward to more unremitting effort continually to recruit and train. But it's immensely satisfying and it's the only way.—Yours faithfully, A. B.

Westcliff-on-sea.

PRINTING OF COMPOSITIONS

Dear Sir,—In 1946, at the Norwich C.C. meeting, I moved a resolution to the effect that compositions should be printed with the notation before the C.E. It found no favour with the Council, probably owing to my poor presentation, for I have not that facility of expression which some people so happily have.

Now today I find that the idea is gaining favour, and in your issue of July 25th four composers have compositions printed there, which to my mind is the logical way. No amount of argument can controvert the fact that the calling comes before the C.E. Moreover one does not first put the answer to a sum before its working out.—Yours faithfully,

Ipswich. CHAS. J. SEDGLEY.

A RINGING EPISODE OF 100 YEARS AGO

The Aberdeen Opening in 1858

By DAVID CUBITT

AT the Reformation, the three bells at the Church of St. Nicholas, Aberdeen, became the property of the Town Council. To these, two more were added by the Council between 1795 and 1802 and they remained five in number until 1858. In 1857, the inhabitants ('prompted by the revived musical taste of the town' according to 'The Dundee Advertiser') decided to add three bells to complete the eight and sought advice from Mr. E. B. Denison (later Lord Grimthorpe), who told them that the proposed octave would make a more perfect ring than any other in Scotland. A Bell Committee was formed and a subscription list opened. Mr. John Smith, a Leeds banker and a native of Aberdeen, gave the price of the new treble, sixty guineas.

The new bells, two trebles and a tenor, were cast at the Warner foundry in London and on Saturday, April 3rd, 1858, were brought up to St. Nicholas' steeple amid the clangour of the bells they were to join. The tenor weighed rather more than 32 cwt. and Smith's treble over 7 cwt.

Through the instrumentality—and generosity—of Mr. Smith, the St. Peter's Company of Ringers of Leeds were invited to open the augmented ring and stay in Aberdeen for a week. The St. Peter's Company, however, could not muster more than six of their number to make the journey and William Milnes and Joseph Paul Healey, of Wakefield, were asked to join the party. In fact, nine ringers went to Aberdeen—six from Leeds (Kendall, Hubbard, Iles, Priestley, Gawkrodger and Bird), Milnes and Healey from Wakefield and a Shropshire man named Brooke.

They first rang on the bells at St. Nicholas' on Saturday, August 28th, finding the bells less of a handful than they thought they would be. 'The Aberdeen Journal' of September 1st, after noting that during the previous four days 'a variety of peals of change ringing' had been performed, went on to say: 'Although the surpassing beauty of this bell-melody of "merry England" seems to be duly appreciated, and indeed has excited many feelings of the utmost pleasure and admiration, yet among those who are ignorant of the character and capabilities of change-ringing we have heard some feeling of disappointment expressed that no regular tunes have been played. In explanation, it may be mentioned that change-ringing is quite a distinct art and its professors are not necessarily musicians in the usual sense of the term. They consider, too, that church bells are not adapted for playing tunes, and that to do this is quite illegitimate and inferior use of of them . . .!

CERTIFICATE OF MERIT

The extent of the ringers' repertoire during their week in Aberdeen was Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major, and their longest length 1,260 Grandsire Triples, rung on the Monday of their visit. After this quarter, the following notice was issued:

Aberdeen, 30th August, 1858.

'The St. Peter's Company of change-ringers, Leeds, do hereby certify that the peal of eight bells in St. Nicholas Church, Aberdeen, are for power and richness of tone, the finest peal of bells, of their weight, in the United Kingdom. They also consider them in perfect tune. Should a company of young men from eighteen to twenty-five years of age come forward and place themselves under the tuition of Mr. Hubbard, there is no doubt of Aberdeen being put in the possession of as good a set of change-ringers as any other town in the Kingdom can boast of.—William Gawkrodger, President of the Company.'

Hubbard was retained by the Aberdonians as tutor to aspiring change-ringers, who, 'The Aberdeen Journal' pointed out, 'will have no fees to pay,' and who would not disturb the townspeople unduly as the chief part of the instruction would be given on handbells.

The ringers had, incidentally, taken a set of 12 handbells with them and on two evenings they 'gave performances (gratuitously on their part) on the handbells, which were enthusiastically applauded by respectable and numerous assemblages.'

On Friday, September 3rd, the ringers returned to Yorkshire, leaving behind 'a very favourable impression as to their professional ability and personal character'—'Aberdeen Herald.'

Although Hubbard had been engaged to teach ringing in Aberdeen, it would seem he did not remain there long, for soon after returning to Wakefield Healey was asked to act as instructor. He returned to Aberdeen, taking his wife and family with him, and remained there for five and a half years.

Healey was then 32 years old. He rang his first peal (8,000 changes at Liversedge) when 17 years of age and his last (5.004 Grandsire Caters at Wakefield) on November 15th, 1883. His peals included the last on the bells of St. John's Church, Wakefield—5.056 Kent Treble Bob Major, composed by Joseph Tebbs, conducted by Henry Senior, and rung on Sunday, February 18th, 1844.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Successful Meeting at Scarborough

A very successful meeting of the Northern district of the Yorkshire Association was held at Scarborough on July 12th, about forty ringers taking part in the day's proceedings.

Amongst those present were the ringers of Richmond Parish Church, who combined attendance at the meeting with a day's outing to Scarborough; unfortunately they were not favoured with good weather.

The bells of the parish church were rung in a variety of methods ranging up to Yorkshire Surprise Major, which was made possible by the attendance of members from the Southern and Eastern Districts of the Association. These members proved to be very helpful and welcome visitors to a district not rich in change-ringers.

Evensong was rung in the very fine old parish church, recently enriched by the addition of a new east window.

The Scarborough ringers and their wives provided a very bountiful tea in what must be one of the finest parish halls in the Northern Province. The Vicar of Scarborough and his wife were very welcome guests at tea and it is of interest to note that the Vicar has previously held two other livings in Yorkshire with rings of bells, Ossett and Acomb.

At the business meeting thanks to the Vicar and local company were expressed and Mr. Fred Hodgson was elected Ringing Master for the Northern District. The meeting was undoubtedly the most successful held in the District for some years.

ACTIVITIES OF THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Maidstone District Outing

The English summer honoured us by returning for the Maidstone District ringers and friends' outing on July 19th. An 8 a.m. start was made and after picking up various people en route, the coach nosed its way westwards to invade the neighbouring county of Surrey.

Our first call was Shalford where we were joined by our rearguard of two cars and a motor cycle from the remote parts of the Maidstone district. Ringing on the eight musical bells under their metal spired tower was much enjoyed and we were surprised to find how quiet the bells sounded outside. Guildford, with its cobbled streets, was our next objective. At the Cathedral Church of Holy Trinity we were welcomed by Mr. W. J. Robinson who joined with us to ring a course of Cambridge on these lovely-toned bells. A sandwich lunch was partaken by the river at Guildford.

Owing to a slight misunderstanding we arrived at Frensham some twenty minutes late having journeyed through pleasant countryside, passing Frensham pond, which looked cool and tempting. At the church we found our rearguard had 'leap-frogged' us and were taking full advantage of our late arrival on the mellow six. We then crossed the Hampshire border to ring on the light eight at Grayshott. These bells proved to be rather tricky for the less experienced. Here we rang the special method of the day, Montgomery Bob Major. Striking was not of a high standard, which was a pity because the bells sound very loud outside.

Tea at 'The Sally Lunn,' Hindhead, was welcomed by everyone. The final tower of the day was St. Bartholomew's, Haslemere. The beautiful little ring (tenor 10 cwt.) was put to full use, but the ten bells did not receive the striking they so fully deserved. Plain and Kent Royal and Grandsire Caters were reasonably performed, but Stedman galloped to its miserable end and 'Monty' was again flogged on the back eight. We were indeed very sorry to leave these lovely bells but time had to be allowed for the long journey home.

We arrived in Maidstone at the respectable hour of 11.15 p.m. after dropping Dr. Hatcher and shorts (together) at Offham. All agreed it had been a splendid day. Our thanks are extended to those who made it so, particularly to all incumbents and ringers who welcomed us to their towers.

Canterbury District at Margate

That the Canterbury district's quarterly meeting was to be held at Margate no doubt encouraged members, who had visions of a breath of sea air, as well as ringing at the parish church, to turn up in force. Eighty members were present, representing sixteen towers in the district. It was also one of the finest and warmest days of the year, thus adding to the general enjoyment. Ringing during the afternoon was followed by the usual service, which was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. S. A. Odom, who was assisted by his curate.

At the Church House members were entertained to an excellent tea by the local ringers, their wives, mothers, and friends of the Mothers' Union. Arriving at tea time were the ringers from Birchington, who had spent the afternoon at Quex Park, recording for the B.B.C.

Mr. J. A. Russell occupied the chair for the business meeting at which six new members were elected, Herne was chosen as the place for a by-meeting (September 6th), and the collection given to church funds. Of interest to all Kent County members will be the news that the district decided to recommend the association to hold its annual general meeting at Margate, this tower getting a two to one vote against Canterbury. Grateful thanks were expressed to all who had entertained the members to tea.

SOUTHAMPTON AND READING UNIVERSITIES TOUR THAMES VALLEY

On July 6th past and present members of Southampton University were wending their way towards Oxford Youth Hostel. Almost everyone arrived with their bicycles in time to ring at Headington (6) for Evening Service, but distances actually cycled ranged from four to 84 miles! The tower captain here very kindly let us borrow his handbells for the evening, resulting in many interesting questions from American hostellers.

Members from Reading University, being less energetic, arrived at Cowley (6) the next morning by car and motor bike; the school-children here must have wondered why their playtime had been extended! After some welcome refreshments, we carried on to Radley (6) where Miss M. R. Cross welcomed us. It was as well that lunch had been consumed before we rang the first ten of the tour at Abingdon as some members found them hard to manage. Later, our efforts at St. Nicholas' (6) were unexpectedly curtailed when a policeman walked into the belfry and asked us to stop as the Assize Court was sitting next door.

After some good ringing on the handy eight at Drayton, we journeyed on to Long Wittenham (6) where the untuneful ring hardly does justice to the rest of the church. The cyclists stayed the night at the local youth hostel. The Reading contingent returned to Radley where they were hospitably entertained by Miss Cross, Her helpfulness in finding accommodation was much appreciated.

A BOILING SUN

Meeting together again at Dorchester Abbey the next morning, we were disappointed we could not ring on this octave due to a broken stay; instead we spent the time profitably by exploring that wonderful building before proceeding to Wallingford. One of the finest eights of the tour, Watlington, was enjoyed before the climb over the Chilterns beneath a boiling sun. When the position of West Wycombe church on the top of yet another hill was viewed, one wondered whether everyone would have enough energy to reach the belfry, but some good ringing, includng a course of Surprise, showed that there was plenty of stamina left. Many people had their first experience of twelve bells at High Wycombe and we were grateful for the help the locals gave us. After a pleasant ring at Marlow, the cyclists went to Henley where they did not do justice to the bells, due to the exhausting day, while the others went to the practice at St. Mary's, Reading.

The next day began at Boyne Hill, Maidenhead (8), and afterwards, even though we were directed to miss the centre of the town, some people managed to find it! However, we all eventually reached St. John the Baptist, Windsor, but one member liked the place so much that, on arriving at Old Windsor, he discovered he had left his jacket behind, so had to retrace his steps. Lunch was consumed at a spot on the Thames near Datchet, ideal except for one thing—the nearest public house was miles away! We enjoyed ringing on Slough's lovely ten and only wished we could have stayed longer; however the energetic ones carried on to Uxbridge (8) and took it in turns to ring and buy ice lollies. Afterwards, it was a relief to leave the main roads behind and reach the picturesque village of Fulmer, where a course of Beverley Surprise Minor was rung on the pleasant six. The final tower of the day was Beaconsfield where we were joined by Mr. Cyril Lewington. At this tower 'Treble's going' was NOT followed by 'Treble's gone' to Jill's great surprise! Here Southampton's indefatigable Master and Secretary decided it was time they sampled luxury travel and tried to leave in Mary's car, but as they could not find the ignition key Reading victoriously left for Ruislip where they stayed at the home of Mary's parents, while the rest had to be content with the amenities that Jordan's Youth Hostel could offer.

MADE NEWS FOR LOCAL PAPER

The ladies' pet aversion—an almost vertical ladder—confronted us at Rickmansworth (10) the next morning. Our ringing was unfortunately not up to standard here, but we made up for it later on Watford's magnificent ten. A reporter was so interested that our visit appeared in the local paper the following day. By the time we reached Hemel Hempstead (8), we were beginning to wilt again in the heat, and both here and at the next tower St. Michael's, St. Albans (8), the ringing suffered. Here we were joined by a past member whom we were pleased to see for the rest of the week. After tackling the heavy going ten at St. Peter's, replenishments fortified us for the long climb up to the ringing chamber at the Cathedral. Methods were rung on all numbers from six to twelve. Then the campaign of 'car rides for all' was renewed, this time Southampton winning, as the two undaunted members were squeezed in and taken to Hatfield practice. The less fortunates travelled there by bus and bike, but it was noticed that after actually experiencing Mary's driving, the enthusiasm waned considerably. That night Reading had the experience of staying in the guest house of a convent, (the male member inhabiting the chaplain's lodge).

The old church of St. Stephen in St. Albans was visited first the next morning followed by the journey to Harpenden—a very pleasant town and equally pleasant bells. The ten at Luton were also a joy to ring but we did not really do justice to them. After lunch we came to the ancient priory at Dunstable (8) where Jill's explorations nearly left her stranded on the outside ledge above the west door. Several local ringers joined us at Leighton Buzzard (10) and we were glad of their assistance. The last ring of the day was on the erratic six at Ivinghoe. The 'go' was such that the person on the tenor having asked for Minor hastily shouted, 'Go Grandsire Doubles.' Fortunately, or unfortunately whichever way you look at it, we were all together on the last evening as the motorists were allowed to stay at the hostel by special permission. After a cross-country walk to give the luxury travellers unaccustomed exercise, and a drink at the 'local,' some people thought the fire escape between the men's and women's dormitories admirably situated Saturday, the last morning of the tour, saw us setting out promptly for Tring (8). The church was beautifully decorated in readiness for a wedding and the bells must have sounded very melodious outside. Capes had to be worn for the first time for the journey to Wendover (6) and also to the picturesque village of Monks Risborough (6). At Thame a number of Triples methods were rung before we reached Wheatley (6) near Oxford; our final tower. It hardly seemed possible that we had rung in six counties during the week—Oxfordshire, Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire and Middlesex. Goodbyes were then said, everyone making their separate ways home, but most people hoped that such a joint tour would become an annual event.

We would like to thank all incumbents and ringers who met us at all the towers; all who arranged accommodation for us; Don Exell for taking charge and last but not least our organiser David Blackwell, without whose efforts there would have been no tour. M. B.

DEDICATION

ALDBOROUGH, NORTH YORKS

On Sunday morning, July 6th, in the presence of a large congregation, the ring of six bells at St. Andrew's Church, Aldborough, was re-dedicated by the Dean of Ripon (the Very Rev. Frederick Hughes).

The bells were removed from the tower in September of last year by Taylors of Loughborough, who have recast the treble and third, retuned the second, and rehung the six on a new iron frame. All fittings are new, the fourth, fifth, and tenor have been fitted with cannon retaining head-stocks. A new floor has been put in under the bells, and the old wooden bell frame which was infested with the beetle has been scrapped. The bells, which are rung from the ground floor, have rope guides fitted and are a first class Taylor job.

During the dedication they were chimed by members of the Aldborough band, assisted by ringers from Boroughbridge, Ripon, and Stillington. Included in the band were two ladies. The bells were rung by the same band for a short time after the service.

The restoration of the bells and tower has cost over £1,000, and the last £300 was raised by a garden fete on the previous Saturday. On view at the fete, and also at the dedication, was a model ring of six bells, loaned for the occasion by a Stillington ringer, the plan of the bell frame being the same as the one in the tower. Many people present at the fete and service, who were unable to climb the tower, were thus able to see what the actual work looked like.

The inscriptions and weights are:—

Treble. To honour God and King in melody we ring. 1790. 4 cwt., 2 qtr., 10 lbs.;

Second. I call the people, I adorn the festivals. 1784. 5 cwt., 0 qtr., 16 lbs.;

Third. Chapman and Mears, London, fecerunt. 1782. 5 cwt., 1 qtr., 26 lbs.;

Fourth. Sancte Toma Ora Pro Nobis. 7 cwt., 0 qtr., 6 lbs.;

Fifth. Sit Nomen Domini Benedictum. (Foundry mark of Henry Jorden, London.) 8 cwt., 1 qtr., 20 lbs.;

Tenor. Jesus be our speed. 1627. 11 cwt., 1 qtr.

The ring is in the key of G.

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM R. CATCHPOLE

By the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. William R. Catchpole of Buxton, Norfolk, at the early age of 48, the Norwich Diocesan Association has lost one of its keenest members. Ever since a boy he had served his church loyally as a chorister and ringer. He was taught to ring in 1925 by Mr. W. C. Duffield and in 1950 was elected Ringing Master.

His enthusiasm was infectious and it was mainly due to his efforts that the last year or two has seen a revival of interest in ringing in North Norfolk. He was genial and lively, always willing to help others.

Pressure of work prevented him from taking part in many peals early in his career, but he had rung nearly 50 in the last 18 months. He rang, in all, 81 peals, conducted 18, ranging from Doubles to Surprise Major. Only three weeks ago he made a 300-mile journey to achieve one of his ambitions, which was to ring a peal at Loughborough Bell Foundry.

The bells were rung half muffled before and after the funeral service on July 29th and handbells over the grave. A half-muffled peal of Plain Bob was rung in the evening.

His kindness, his helpfulness and his Christian charity were qualities which made him so valuable a member of the community, and we are all the poorer by his passing. Our sympathy goes to his wife, son and daughter.

J. R. S.

MRS. W. GORRINGE

We regret to learn of the passing of Mrs. W. Gorringe, wife of Mr. W. Gorringe, of Milton-next-Gravesend, and mother of Mr. W. Gorringe, jun. of Hawkhurst.

To her memory at St. Lawrence's Church, Hawkhurst, 672 Grandsire Triples was rung on July 27th by M. Collins 1, Miss L. Wood 2, L. J. Jarvis 3, W. Gorringe, jun. 4, A. H. Kemp 5, Mrs. M. Cloke 6, M. Cloke (cond.) 7, E. Baker 8.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A Guildford District meeting was held at Cranleigh on July 26th when the Rector, the Rev. H. L. Johnston, welcomed the ringers and conducted the Guild Office.

After the service, tea was taken in the Church Room and this was followed by a short business meeting in which John Parsons, of Cranleigh, was elected a junior member. The bells were available afterwards and ringing continued in a variety of methods; directed by the District Ringing Master, Mr. T. Mark White.

Guild members were pleased to welcome visitors from outside the diocesan area—including an Oxford Bob Triples contingent from Crawley, Sussex.

OUTINGS

ST. JOHN'S, HILLINGDON

On June 28th the Hillingdon band, together with friends, visited four West Country towers. The first stop was at Wantage (8, 21 cwt.) where ringing started encouragingly with a course of London but then degenerated rapidly on the call of coffee and cakes in a nearby cafe.

An hour and a half in the coach brought us to an excellent lunch at Paganhill followed by ringing at St. Lawrence's, Stroud (10, 20 cwt.). Although a little odd-struck and difficult to hear the bells yielded to treatment and gave forth some very good Caters and even a half course of Cambridge Royal.

The most memorable stop was to ring the fine twelve at Painswick; the bells went well and the band rang very creditable touches of Stedman Cinques and Kent Maximus. Our success at Painswick, however, was not maintained on the twelve at Cheltenham: and some choppy Stedman Cinques was soon abandoned in favour of tea and the journey home.

All who attended the outing will want to express their thanks to the incumbents concerned for the use of their bells and also to Fred Goodfellow for his masterly organisation.

N. D. R.

GRIMSBY, LINCS

It was a glorious day, July 19th, as Grimsby ringers met for their outing. Together with ringers from Ulceby, Walesby and Goxhill we set out for Loughborough at 7 a.m. After stopping at Newark for coffee, train spotting and ice lollies, we arrived at the foundry at 10.30 a.m. to be met by Mr. P. L. Taylor. Several ladies got their toes dirty inside the foundry due to wearing sandals, and how interested our tenor ringers were in the bell rung up by electricity!

As to the foundry bells, where the tenor goes easier than our treble, after a few bounces, we managed some Grandsire and St. Clement's

A tremendous lunch followed and we then proceeded to Oakham by way of Rempston, stopping to watch a steam engine rally. It was so hot at Oakham that several ringers spent more time on the church roof than in the ringing chamber!

From Oakham to Spalding for tea. The driver, in league with two of 'the boys,' sounded his horn at every young lady between Oakham and Surfleet where we rang after tea. For many of us it was our first twelve bell tower and we were sorry that all we could manage on all twelve was rounds.

We then made our way to Boston and its 285 steps. Our congratulations to our oldest ringer on reaching the top!

The return journey was made all the more enjoyable by the choir of five voices; one bass, two tenors, and two fine sopranos. Grimsby was reached at 10.30 p.m. after a truly enjoyable day. Our many thanks to Frank Kennington for his excellent arrangements, to Mr. Paul Taylor for the interesting tour of the foundry, to all incumbents for use of their bells and to everyone who so kindly met us. Hurry up 1959.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2472 Vol. LIV FRIDAY, AUGUST 15, 1958 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

'NE PLUS ULTRA'

EGERTON and Charing could, quite profitably, form a little enclave of their own with Pluckley and Little Chart; our boundaries (if any) with the Hawkhurst and District Guild remain undefined; Smarden may secede, and Stowting come out in sympathy; but there is no doubt about our seaward boundary. Here geography has declared the confines and, as our title says, there is 'nothing beyond.' Nothing, of course, except the sea. For we must not forget that Lydd is the first tower visible to the returning exile as his ship picks up her pilot off Dungeness.

This (Ashford) is the most southerly of the six Districts which form the Kent County Association. Most of it lies off the beaten track. Many features we share. Tenterden is in the same Weald as Tonbridge. Brabourne and Stowting nestle against those Downs on which stand Boughton Monchelsea and Wrotham. Folkestone doesn't rhyme so easily as Dover, but it has the same 'White Cliffs.'

Our aforementioned mariner may not so easily pick out Aldington, Lympne and Cheriton, but these towers have seen ships since before the Armada (unless, of course, the ships happened to be bringing uncustomed kegs and bales to be secreted in their towers, with or without the connivance of the parson!).

We have no rings of ten, but the Tenterden tenor, of 30 cwt., is the heaviest for an 8-bell tower in Kent. Given the choice, Mr. Cullingworth would rather turn it in to a peal than the Woodchurch tenor. (Has he rung the fifth at Brabourne?) At the other extreme is our newest ring at Little Chart (tenor 6 cwt.), recast and rehung in the new church after Hitler and thieves had done their worst. Stowting, too, is 6 cwt., and a favourite resort of ringers of the District owing to the quietness and seclusion of the church.

Probably the oldest bell in the District is the fourth at Bethersden. This bell was cast in the 14th century, and is thus older than the present tower. Burmarsh faithfully abides by the resolution passed by the Central Council in preserving its pre-Reformation bell on the floor inside the church door.

Great Chart are hoping to emulate their Little namesake in getting their bells rehung. Their ringers are making every effort to raise funds. On the other hand, within a few miles there is an equivalent ring, with potential ringers, but indifference and defeatism reign.

Standards of ringing, as in all Districts, vary from tower to tower. Outstanding is Willesborough, with a record for service ringing unequalled in the county, perhaps in the country. Perhaps this is due to the influence of Mr. Edward S. Ruck, sole surviving founder-member of the Association, now in his 92nd year. Perhaps it is because all the members of the band ring, or have rung, peals. Or is it team spirit? Most likely it is a combination of all these things. Often ringing at a particular tower is associated with one family—Finns at Brabourne, Relfs at Tenterden, Marshalls at Bethersden. Usually, however, it is a case of one or two devoted individuals struggling to teach a television-ridden generation that if a thing is worth doing it's worth doing well.

We will finish, as we began, at Lydd. Inside the commodious ringing chamber the band has met for Grandsire Triples. For the umpteenth time Miss Maisie Vantom is to attempt to call Parker's Twelve-part. The ringing proceeds sweetly. The striking is good, and with no other hitch than a timely correction from veteran Bob Swift or an occasional querulous call to an errant dodging partner, the peal comes smoothly round. But outside, the Guards are off to Cyprus. Lydd is the last Church of England they see before climbing into the plane. Lydd bells are the last sound they hear of the England of the Church before the roar of the Dakotas drowns the ringing of the bells.

OBITUARY

MR. ERNEST BIRCHALL

The Church of St. Wilfred, Standish, Lancs, has suffered a severe loss by the death in hospital, on July 31st, of Mr. Ernest Birchall, at the age of 71 years. He had been ill for about six weeks.

Mr. Birchall had been associated with St. Wilfred's choir since boyhood days and at the age of 16 he entered the belfry. He had been captain for the last 40 years and his chief aim was to keep the bells ringing for service and to take his place in the choir Sunday by Sunday. His membership of the Lancashire Association dated back to 1914. He was not a regular peal ringer but had rung about 30 (24 for the Lancashire Association) and had conducted several.

The funeral was at Standish on August 4th, the service being fully choral and conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. E. Bramley). In addition to the family mourners the following members represented the Lancashire Association along with the local band: Messrs. J. Ridyard (Southport), A. Tomlinson (Blackburn), A. Parker (Poolstock), J. Ashcroft (Newton-le-Willows), T. Marshall (Parbold), J. H. Gartside (Chorley) and E. R. Martin (Preston). By profession Mr. Birchall was a builder, and leaves a widow and married son to mourn their loss. May he rest in peace.

Touches of Stedman, Bob Major and Double Norwich were rung before and after the service, the bells being half-muffled. Much sympathy is felt for the local band who have lost four experienced ringers by death in the last seven months. E. R. M.

MR. HERBERT P. CLIFF

Members of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association were shocked to learn of the sudden death, through heart failure, of 'Herbie' Cliff on July 10th at the early age of 46 years, and their deepest sympathy is extended to his widow and three children.

The cremation service was held on July 14th, and the Association was represented by the president (Mr. K. Arthur), vice-president (Mr. K. W. Cheeseman) and hon. general secretary (Mr. D. A. Bayles).

Herbert Cliff began his ringing career in 1929 at his home tower, St. Cuthbert's, Blaydon-on-Tyne, and his early training was supervised by his father, the late Mr. James Cliff, and his brother-in-law, Mr. F. E. Collins, of Croydon. Later he became a member of Newcastle Cathedral Guild and for a term was vice-president of the Northern District of this Association. In recent years he was responsible for reviving the local company at the Church of St. John the Baptist, Newcastle.

Although an accomplished ringer with some 60 peals to his credit, he will be remembered mainly for his labours in teaching new bands and as a fearless crusader for improved striking among ringers. He was handicapped from boyhood by a hip injury but he led an intensely active life and set an example to all of courage and determination.

He will be sadly missed by his many ringing friends. An 'in memoriam' peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung by his fellow ringers on Monday, July 21st, at St. John's, Newcastle, where he was formerly Ringing Master. K. W. C.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

The beautiful church of Lydd, now almost completely restored after its war-time bomb damage, was the rendezvous of some 50 ringers and friends on July 26th. The Vicar (the Rev. G. A. Finch) welcomed the gathering and conducted the service. Mrs. Finch was the organist and Mr. J. Willis read the lesson.

Tea was generously provided and served in the Church Hall by ringers and friends of the Lydd band.

At the business meeting two new members were elected.

Mr. J. R. Cooper, who said he had learned to ring at Lydd, then presented the Vicar with an illuminated book containing all the peals rung at the tower since the bells were hung in 1926.

Afterwards the meeting was augmented by several Dark Blues, who came over from Rye after seeing off Dr. Niblett and his bride.

Ringing on this fine eight continued in methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major until nine o'clock. C. T. H.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The July meeting was held at Calverley on the 26th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and the tower remained crowded until at least 8 o'clock. The weather was very 'heavy' and the same might be said for the ringing, which failed to reach a decent standard all day.

At the business meeting eight new members were elected, and the thanks of the Society to the local authorities and ringers for their arrangements were expressed by Mr. G. Benfield, who commented on the fact that the new ropes had Yorkshire ends like the old ones.

The next meeting will be held at Otley.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The current quarterly issue of 'Overtones,' the journal of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, is an English number, with an article by Mr. Frederick Sharpe on 'The early use of handbells' and a photograph of the Norbury (Hazel Grove) Handbell Ringers. There are also two articles dealing with change-ringing.

A bashful conductor submitting his report writes: '. . . called the bobs and singles.' While we admire his modesty we cannot differentiate between bob callers and conductors. The traditional form must be maintained.

A note from a holiday in Scotland by Mr. L. Walmsley: 'When we were in Inveraray last weekend I was wishing there were nine other ringers with me, and perhaps ten good ropes. We could have done something.'

Mr. A. P. Cannon is not organising his own tour this year. He is spending a week in Devon with some young ringers from Haslemere and others for a 'tower grab,' but with four or five peal attempts included.

For the fourth consecutive year the girls of Rotherham High School managed to muster a team to ring for their end of term service. Five girls from Rotherham and two from Thrybergh and Whiston, assisted by two members of the local company, rang touches of Plain Bob Minor on the front six and rounds and call-changes on the back eight.

Mr. Leonard Last, of Hoxne, Suffolk, organised a propaganda exhibition of handbell ringing at the Suffolk Agricultural Show on July 4th and 5th to obtain recruits to help in replenishing the shortage of ringers in various steeples. Mr. G. E. Symonds, his two daughters and a grandson performed well-known tunes on 15 handbells. Courses of Grandsire Triples with Mr. and Mrs. Last and Mr. Charles J. Sedgley were also rung.

Last year a peal was rung at Hemingbrough to mark Mr. J. T. Tune's 50 years as a ringer—his brother, Mr. E. D. Tune, has now completed his half-century, and the occasion was marked by a peal in seven methods. The band would like to express their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tune for their kind hospitality after the peal.

The peal of Wye Surprise Maximus at Leicester (see page 506) contained 5,280 changes, 'phones the conductor.

Congratulations to West Countrymen on their successful peal ringing tour in Yorkshire with ten peals to their credit. Six conductors shared in the honours.

Malcolm and Daphne Cloke, who are on holiday in East Budleigh, were on the day of their arrival roped in for a couple of quarters in the evening.

We regret to hear of the passing of Mr. Ernest J. Butler, of Colchester, a life vice-president of the Essex Association, who was at one time secretary of the South Western Division and a representative on the Central Council.

Mr. George Gilbert informs us that Mr. Jack Champion gave him his first lesson in ringing 59 years ago at Rainham, Kent, and not Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins. The latter came into the picture by conducting his first peal. See Oxford Guild Festival (page 497).

With regard to tune bell-ringing, Mr. G. E. Symonds, of Ipswich, informs us that his arrangement is to have four MS. books; the highest three have four bells each and the fourth book the three tenors. All tunes are in the same key by transposition in the tonic sol-fa system with the bottom bell as doh. Several lads have become proficient by this method after a few practices, without any previous musical knowledge.

A NEW ANGLE ON TEACHING BEGINNERS

By DENIS A. BAYLES

ABOUT six years ago I went for my first driving lesson, and I can recall some of the thoughts that ran through my mind at that time. Just what would I be doing? Perhaps I might actually drive the car a few yards in the seclusion of some quiet spot away from traffic, but most likely I would be learning the various operations, such as starting the car, changing gear, and so on, one by one.

These ideas were soon shattered when on arrival at the driving school car I was installed in the driving seat and after a few words of explanation was doing the thing that I had least expected, viz., driving the car (albeit with the instructor's able assistance on the duplicate controls) out on the road!

The first lesson was spent out on a quieter country road, but the second and subsequent lessons were spent in among the traffic of Durham City. This course, although unexpected, seems to be the general practice of driving schools, and so I began to mediate upon it and the reasons for it.

Driving tuition is expensive and so the number of lessons in a course must be kept to a minimum for at least one very compelling reason! Against this there is the Government's test, setting a standard to be attained and so requiring that the instruction must be thorough as well as rapid. The pupil who passes his test under these conditions is not immediately an experienced driver but he has a good foundation on which to build, with experience, to become a sound and experienced driver.

Consideration of the driving of a car can subdivide it into sections, such as (i) operation of controls, e.g., gear changing, steering, etc.; (ii) observations, e.g., looking through windscreen and in mirror; (iii) signalling. These could be tried out in a backyard one at a time, but in that is there not a danger? Gear changing, for instance, could become an operation engaging the whole attention, causing eyes to be taken off the road and control of the steering wheel to be relaxed, thereby starting bad habits or, at least, causing difficulties at a later stage when the operation had to be performed while observing traffic and controlling the wheel. Is there not therefore some sound sense besides mere financial urgency in regarding the driving of a car as an integrated set of operations and tackling it as a complete job from the start in the conditions under which it will be required, i.e., on the road among other traffic?

APPLIED TO RINGING

The meditation progressed to another subject and certain similarities could be seen. The other subject was the instruction of recruits to the belfry.

There is not the urgent financial reason in ringing instruction, but it is still essential that the recruit should progress as rapidly as possible to maintain his interest and to reduce the period of drudgery for the rest of the band.

Ringing involves a number of integrated operations as does driving, and so it seemed that these might be taken as a whole from the start as far as possible. I have therefore adopted this system in teaching the handling of a bell. The sally has eventually to be caught while retaining the tail end and so prolonged spells on one stroke only are cut out. A few pulls on each separately to get the feel of the bell, demonstrations and explanations by myself, and my pupil usually finds himself handling both strokes together in his first lesson. There is room on both strokes, especially if a box is available, for dual control when it is needed. It is only when the pupil has both strokes that he can feel the effect of his own pulls and regulate the weight of them accordingly. The secret of success in this direction, I feel, is the selection of a medium heavy bell and the avoidance of a light one. The heavier bell has more stability and does not descend so rapidly to produce a flying rope when prematurely checked. At Chester-le-Street I use the fifth, where the tenor is 19 cwt. On lighter rings I would probably use the tenor itself.

In the early stages I do not expect the bell to be fully controlled, but the pupil acquires the art of manipulating the rope and is then required to ring the bell successively higher until he can feel it up to and just over the balance. During this instruction I keep up a conversation with the pupil so that he gets uesd to attending to other things besides handling the bell as he will eventually have to do in change-ringing.

[I may interpose here that at Chester-le-Street I consider conditions approach the ideal for learning in that the bells go very well, are clearly audible in the ringing chamber and have only a short draught of rope. Conditions elsewhere will often present far greater difficulties and modifications of this scheme might be necessary.]

The handling of a bell on its own is not unduly protracted for this, after all, corresponds to driving on a secluded country road, and therefore with the minimum delay the recruit is put into 'rounds'—the 'traffic' of ringing. The instructor stands by for dual control when necessary, but this is gradually tapered off to instructions about what is wrong and the correction to be applied and then merely pointing out the faults with the pupil left to devise the remedy and apply it.

Rounds at the start is restricted to six bells and the pupil is usually given the third (i.e., fifth of the eight), and when reasonable proficiency has been acquired there a switch is made to the treble to give experience of a lighter bell and leading. In this way experience is provided of ringing a bell at the standard steady pace following the previous bell at the same or opposite stroke. Call-changes can teach little beyond this and they are restricted to a minimum, usually with the pupil on the treble, calling the second to lead and then reverting to rounds. The frequency of switching is increased to provide a suitable prelude to change-ringing.

START CHANGES ON THREE

Change-ringing proper begins on three bells, with 4, 5 and 6 covering to add stability. An explanation is given beforehand with the bells to follow given to the pupil along with the information about the intervals to be expected. It is stressed that, whereas in 'rounds' there have been five notes between every stroke of the pupil's bell, this time there will be six notes for the first two blows, five for the third and only four for the fourth and fifth, then five for the sixth after starting from rounds. In other words, taking 'rounds' as the standard pace there will be a slower pace for hunting up and a quicker one for hunting down. The pupil is urged to anticipate these requirements and to pull at each stroke not merely for that stroke itself but for the next one as well, e.g., the backstroke lead is pulled to fit in with holding up the handstroke over the second. This is all demonstrated and the pupil then takes over under the instructor standing by.

Thus the pupil enters change-ringing by easy stages. He does not initially have to seek out the bells to follow but can concentrate on placing his bell correctly and acquiring these rhythms of hunting up and down.

The next stage sees the extension of the hunt to four bells with 5 and 6 covering. The bells to follow will be 2, 4 and 3, but by having 3 and 4 lie still at the start they could be made 2, 3 and 4 if that were preferred. In either case the bells would be given. At this stage, too, it is usually appropriate to point out how the larger bells need rather more room to turn for even striking. When that stage is satisfactory the plain hunt on four is changed to Bob Minimus and the pupil now with some rhythm of hunting is left to pick out his own bells.

HUNTING

At this stage it is pointed out that the very important basic rule of change-ringing, that no bell shall jump a place, has at least one very important practical consequence, viz., that any bell that has passed below one's own as one hunts up must remain there until one's own bell hunts down again. Hunting up becomes thus a question of adding the first of the bells remaining above one's own to those already below in taking each step upward. Similarly, in hunting down one successively eliminates the bells that are followed, for at the next stroke they will be above one's own. I do not mention that in Plain Bob the bells on the return journey will be the same as on the outward journey from the lead. As a result hunting is learned quite generally and no trouble is encountered in ringing the treble to a method such as St. Clement's or Double Court.

From Bob Minimus with 5-6 covering the next steps are Doubles with 6 covering and then Bob Minor. In this course the pupil will have carried out all the operations encountered in change-ringing except dodging, and this, I think, is best introduced by ringing treble bob on the treble, rather than 'inside' work in Plain Bob. Thereafter Plain Bob may be attempted 'inside' and should present very little difficulty. In my opinion it should be rung at first by the course method, i.e., knowing the order in which the dodges come rather than by passing the treble.

Mastery of these stages will give a sound basis on which to build. Having managed Plain Bob 'inside' the pupil may be considered as having 'passed his test,' and experience and wider knowledge will be largely up to himself.

I have put these thoughts down on paper after some application of them in practice, which has convinced me that they are quite practicable, in the hope that it may stimulate one or two new slants on a very important subject.

PEALS AT EDITH-WESTON

Dear Sir,—With reference to a peal at Edith-Weston, Rutland, on page 476, 'The Ringing World.'

Footnote: First in seven methods on the bells.

On February 27th, 1954, a peal of 5,040 changes in seven methods—Thelwall, St. Clement's, Childwall, Double Oxford, Plain, Oxford T.B. and Kent T.B. Minor—was rung on St. Mary's bells.

I rang the third and the peal was conducted by J. H. Bluff.—Yours truly,

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HANDBELL TECHNIQUE AND MUSIC

Dear Sir,—I read with great interest the article by Col. Bell in a June issue of 'The Ringing World.' As my experience of handbell ringing has been very much the same I thought I would write and explain the method of notation I have adopted after considerable experience of the various systems.

I began by borrowing eight bells which we numbered 1-8, and then set about mastering the technique. It is tempting to flick the bells as I sometimes see done, but is incorrect, and though it takes longer to learn to ring them up and down it not only pays in the long run but is much more pleasing to watch.

Eventually we acquired an old set of handbells which we had repaired. These comprised two octaves with incidentals, and we have since added an E in the lower octave to give us the span of three octaves which gives an added depth of tone to the harmonies.

As the bells had the note stamped on them we have adopted this as our method of notation. We find this a great improvement on the old method of numbers as it saves all the work of transposition, and you can refer to the actual music when necessary to see where you are wrong, without all that fumbling and counting to find your note. With this method the first line of 'Silent Night' would read:—

C A
A (E) bottom E

The selection of suitable music we find our greatest problem. Young folk are soon tired of hymns and ballads, and we are constantly on the search for those lovely classical airs like Brahms' 'Lullaby,' which prove most popular and sound so well. Canons like 'London's Burning' can be very effective and people love them, but they have to be learned by heart, and suitable ones are very difficult to discover. The purpose of this letter is to suggest that your paper might invite handbell ringers to send you accounts of their experiences and a record of the music that they play, which could be published from time to time. Handbell ringing is a lonely art, and we amateur enthusiasts can do with all the help we can get.—Yours sincerely,

R. G. CHAFFEY MOORE (REV.),
Rector of Shaftesbury, Dorset.

TUNE RINGING

Dear Sir,—I would be grateful if you would allow me space to make the following points in answer to Col. M. B. Bell's letter.

1. I hope that my letter on tune-ringing on handbells caused Col. Bell no annoyance; I thought he would have welcomed a system superior to his own. (S.)
2. I shall be worried to death if the C.C.'s views on handstrokes and backstrokes in tune-ringing do not coincide with my own. (N.S.)
3. The bit about youth clubs, etc., is of course irrelevant; the tonic sol-fa system is as flexible as Col. Bell's. (S.)
4. In the unlikely event of copies ever being printed a red and blue pencil could be used to underline melody and bass notes. (S.)
5. 'Ultra-simplicity' could mean ambiguity or uncertainty. (S.)
6. Col. Bell should get his copies printed quickly or they will be unwanted when the advantages of the tonic sol-fa system are recognised. (N.S.)
7. I remain unimpressed by his system. (D.S.)
8. I wish Col. Bell and his students every success both in tune- and change-ringing. (S.)

Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

Ryhill, Wakefield.

P.S.—KEY. (For the benefit of those who are apparently unable to distinguish that which is serious from that which is not.)

S. = Serious.
N.S. = Not serious.
D.S. = Deadly serious.

N.B.—No prizes given for guessing the import of the above eight sentences without resort to the key. (S.)—H. C.

FALSE PEALS

Dear Sir,—I have always been under the impression that the calling of a peal with visible aid and use of manuscript was disallowed from the time John Holt called his 'Original' at Westminster when it was first rung. Also the letting of bells run on out of course then moving them back in itself is against all principle, including the rules of the C.C. (which is our guide), and only fills up pages of the 'R.W.' with conscienceless and unworthy rubbish.

It is a great pity that two of the ladies in the Egham peal were ever allowed to make an attempt prior to learning to strike a bell properly, as it only gives them a wrong impression. Geo. Coussins has rung in quite a few peals at Burnham and I feel that he had long thought before summoning up his courage to draft the letter to you re the Egham peal; knowing him well, I can safely say that he felt it his duty to do so. May I suggest that the conductor and his co-pilot (both friends of mine) honourably withdraw the peal, and that it be not recorded for the Oxford Diocesan Guild? It is the least they can do. We do not want umpires to be employed for peal ringing.—Yours, etc.,

GEORGE GILBERT.

OXFORD GUILD FESTIVAL

Dear Sir,—Re the discussion over the Central Council's meeting at Dublin: let's not quibble over the question of remuneration for services rendered in the world of ringing. Either we are or we are not paid servants.

Whatever remarks or comments may have been made against payment, Mr. Barker's caustic wit, I sincerely trust, served as nothing in support.

If members of the Guild are satisfied that the motion met with wholehearted support, then all's well that ends well.—Yours faithfully,

G. W. BISHOP.

CALL-CHANGE RINGERS & CENTRAL COUNCIL MEMBERSHIP

Dear Sir,—I was a little surprised to see the letter from Mr. B. E. Bartlett in your last issue. Perhaps he wrote it because I had not managed to answer a further letter which he sent to me, but I have been so overwhelmed with work of one kind and another in recent months that I am afraid a good many correspondents have had rather a long wait.

It seems to me that in his quotations from my letter Mr. Bartlett has given the impression, no doubt unwittingly, that I had rejected out of hand the possibility of the South Devon Ringers' Association becoming affiliated to the Council. I have no authority to do so in any case, but what I actually said was rather different:—

'This brings me to your second question—is there no room on the Council, for representation of call-change ringers? It is a difficult one to answer. If I say "no" it seems, on the face of it, rather an insult to people who, as you say, ring regularly Sunday by Sunday. On the other hand, to say "yes" would appear to go against the aims of the Council and its constituent Associations and would, I fear, cause offence in the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. Nevertheless, there is nothing in the Council's rules which would preclude your Association from membership of the Council, and if you wished to apply to join, this would be considered in the normal way. I would say, however, that you (Mr. Bartlett) are one of the very few with an interest in "the wider field" and that generally speaking, your members would not think much of the Council and its works.'

The position in Devonshire is one which, so far as I know, does not exist elsewhere, in that two organisations with partly contradictory objects seek the allegiance of towers in the same territory. The Guild of Devonshire Ringers, however, founded 84 years ago, has as one of its aims 'To cultivate the art of scientific change-ringing,' just as one of the Central Council's three aims is 'To encourage and assist the development of the Art in its scientific, mathematical and historical branches.' Bearing this in mind, I do not see that one could say 'Come in' to the South Devon Association without hearing the views of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, which was in any event first in the field. To say this is not to imply that call-change ringing is beneath a change-ringer's dignity, or that in some way it has less value in the eyes of God.

The point I am trying to make, however, is this: unless the Council and the Associations of which it is composed regard the spread and development of the art of change-ringing as one of their main objects, my view is that there is little point in their continuing. Whether these bodies are to admit ringers of all kinds is a matter for them to decide individually. The Bath and Wells did so a few years ago, and changed its title for the purpose. This, it would seem, points to a possible solution of the problem which exists in Devonshire, but that is also a domestic matter and one on which no one outside that county really has a right to express an opinion.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Secretary,
Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

THE PEAL AT EGHAM

Dear Sir,—I would like to amplify the remarks passed by Mr. Coussins on the 'peal' at Egham on May 24th.

As he states, Egham tower is in an extremely bad position with respect to the town, and much friction is caused by prolonged ringing of any standard. We have, for the past few years, voluntarily limited the number of peals rung in the tower to two or three a year and to bands composed almost entirely of our own ringers. On this occasion only two of the band were, in fact, Egham ringers, the others being complete strangers, with the exception of Mr. Coussins. The arrangements were made by a member of our own band, without my knowledge, as secretary and steeple-keeper, who took advantage of a new vicar who did not know of our arrangements. I was in fact unaware of the peal until I heard it being rung.

As Mr. Coussins states, the standard of ringing was very poor, and no conductor should have allowed it to be prolonged beyond the first few blows.

I must correct one inaccuracy in Mr. Coussins' letter—Mr. Hartley is not a member of the Egham band and has to my knowledge only entered the tower on two or three occasions .

I consider that it was not in keeping with our normal code of behaviour as bell-ringers and servants of the Church for Mr. Hartley to bring what sounded like a novice band to a strange tower for what turned out to be a practice meeting.—Yours faithfully,

D. S. FROOME,
Tower Secretary.

Egham.

CLASH OF MEETINGS IN BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Dear Sir,—Your account of the meeting of the Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Association is liable to misinterpretation—not your fault, of course.

It cannot be made more clear that the clashing between the meetings of the Bath and the Frome Branches are entirely due to the Bath Branch or its secretary. The latter's two immediate predecessors were always careful to avoid clashes, to the mutual advantage of both Branches, and it astounded older members of the Frome Branch when this apparently deliberately engineered effort to clash was made, for Bath already had its allotted Saturday and another had become vacant.

We are still without an explanation, and can only surmise what the reason was, but deplore this action which has led to bad feeling.

In my opinion, the time has come for the Bath Branch to take over the first Saturday in the month. It was offered to them at least 12 years ago. They would certainly find a welcome from the Frome and neighbouring Branches, which have kept to their allotted Saturdays which were agreed to at a general committee meeting 20 years ago.

I regret that I can no longer attend meetings but I should like to see this regrettable matter amicably settled in my time.—Yours, etc.,

J. T. DYKE.

RINGERS IN DURHAM

Dear Sir,—In 'The Ringing World' of April 11th, 1958 (p. 237), there were published figures obtained by the Central Board of Finance of the Church of England on the number of ringers in the Provinces of Canterbury and York.

These figures have produced very little or no written comment in the interval, and I can only hope that circumstances which have delayed my comments will not altogether have destroyed their topicality.

If the figures could be taken at their face value then Durham Diocese could feel that it was in a very enviable position. 'Dove' (2nd edition, p. 169) shows a total of 44,288 bells for England, which is very near the estimated total of 42,319 ringers published in April. On the justification in estimating to 5-figure accuracy I will not comment, but merely observe that the national average is rather less than one ringer per bell. In County Durham, using 'Dove's' figures again (p. 143) and excluding the Roman Catholic 8 and Presbyterian 6, there are 267 bells, so that, with ringers estimated at 550 we have an average of over two ringers per bell!

The figure of 267 bells includes some unringable and others without ringers, and it would require an average of nearer three ringers per bell in other towers to make up for them. How many 8-bell towers throughout the whole country can boast a complement of 24 ringers?

Quite clearly the survey figures are meaningless for Durham. Mr. Barnett commented: 'How far the total includes people who chime one solitary bell, for instance, one does not know; but possibly any of those who are included may serve to balance omissions caused by failure to render returns.' In an endeavour to estimate the 'chimers of solitary bells' I have studied a Durham Diocesan Yearbook and found listed there about 280 parish churches with over 100 mission churches, i.e., a total of nearly 400 churches, of which only 36 contribute to the 267 bells previously mentioned. Thus, our 550 ringers might well be made up of about 350 solo chimers and about 200 ringers proper.

An analysis along similar lines for the other dioceses might be interesting. Most of these do not fall in so well with the county boundaries as does Durham and would require the local year book in conjunction with 'Dove.'

A critical survey such as this ought to conclude with suggestions for rectifying the position; but beyond the possibility of framing the section of the return to exclude the solo chimers I cannot visualise much improvement.—Yours faithfully,

DENIS A. BAYLES.

THATCHED TOWERS

Dear Sir,—May I please refer to 'R.W.' of August 1st (p. 498). I am sorry if I have given a wrong impression, but I hasten to say that Butley, Brampton, Theberton and other Suffolk churches have thatched naves and/or chancels—not towers. I do not know of a thatched tower other than Thornham Parva. Does anyone?—Yours truly,

CLAUDE RUSH.

STOWMARKET AND DISTRICT RINGERS' OUTING

Stowmarket and district ringers, accompanied by a few non-ringing friends, visited towers in Hertfordshire on June 14th. A slightly delayed start, due to the driver not having received correct instructions, was the only feature which marred an otherwise perfect day. The weather, conveyance, towers, meals and the ready co-operation of all taking part left nothing to be desired.

Calls were made at Aspenden, Benington, Knebworth, Hertford—first for an excellent lunch, then for ringing at Bengeo—St. Andrew's and All Saints'. High tea was enjoyed before setting out for Bishop's Stortford for the final touches of the day. Mr. H. D. Lister, in well-chosen words, voiced appreciation of the efforts of the organiser, and the party set out for home via Newmarket to enable a call to be made at a favourite hostelry for refreshment and a few touches on the handbells, including the hardy annual 'Drunken Dog.'

A special word of thanks to the driver, who negotiated the narrow, winding but extremely picturesque Hertfordshire lanes with considerable skill, also to the local ringers who so kindly had everything ready for us on arrival.

WEST COUNTRYMEN'S PEAL TOUR OF YORKSHIRE

WHILE many thousands of people streamed south for their holidays in seemingly endless lines of traffic, 12 ringers from the West Country assembled in Bath on the morning of Saturday, July 26th, to begin their leisurely and unobstructed journey north for their tour of Yorkshire. Later in the day they were joined at Nottingham by friends who had made their way their by devious other routes. Two members, who diverted into Birmingham to collect George Fearn, managed to ring at Shirley, where ringing was in progress for a wedding. It was good to see George Massey after a break of several months. He flew over from Malta especially for the trip.

At Nottingham it was learned that one car had broken down en route. This meant a readjustment of plans and the attempt for Lincolnshire at Mansfield had to be cancelled in favour of a 10-bell attempt here. As our conductor was stranded in Leamington, choice of method depended on composition and Stedman Caters had to be abandoned for Cambridge Royal—a strange alternative. Despite these difficulties a good peal was scored which served the useful purpose of getting our tenorman in trim for his assault on Beverley Minster the following Tuesday. We should like to record our thanks to Mr. W. Nichols for having everything in readiness. Selby, where we were to spend the first part of the week, was reached about 10 p.m. We were glad to see that a permanent repair had been effected on the offending vehicle and also to meet the captain of the local company, Mr. Morley, who gave us a very warm welcome to Yorkshire and details of Sunday ringing at the Abbey.

Sunday began with ringing and Matins at Selby Abbey. We much enjoyed our first experience of this fine ring of ten. In the afternoon the journey was made to York, where we were given the privilege of ringing Grandsire, Stedman and Kent on the glorious ring of 12 at the Minster. Later in the day four members made for Doncaster to see if Eric Critchley was ready to take his part in some of the peal attempts, and came away impressed—nay, rather bewildered, with what they had found!

A 'HAT-TRICK'

Monday opened with u peal of Double Norwich at Howden. But an important question dominated everyone's mind: 'Could they possible be a finer ring than Chewton Mendip's?' Obviously we had to be cautious with our comments. Everyone was impressed by their magnificence, but opinions and prejudices are things too personal to put on record. A short visit was paid to Thorne and, after lunch, a peal of Rutland was scored at Doncaster. Then, to complete the 'hat-trick' for the day, Cambridge was scored at Goole. Of special interest at Doncaster is the famous Schultze organ, and the organist very kindly demonstrated some of its superior qualities to us with various selections. However, this great treasure is now in dire need of renovation, and suffice it to say that the Parochial Church Council appeals to music lovers everywhere to help raise the required money.

Much speculation was made over the wisdom of an attempt for Cambridge Royal at Beverley Minster on Tuesday morning, since so many stories had been circulated regarding the 'go' of the bells. After raising, rounds and some rope adjustments, the bells went into changes at roughly ten o'clock. Occasional glances were cast in the direction of the tenorman, whose frequent smile was sufficient to assure the rest of the band that everything was all right. The last three courses will long remain in the writer's mind as some of the most enjoyable Royal he has rung, and the tenorman remarked that the bell had weighed more on his mind before the peal than it did on his wrists at the end of it. The peal also marked the completion of 50 years of unbroken service to the Minster by Mr. Osgerby.

Those not taking part in the morning peal paid a visit to Cottingham.

YORKSHIRE ELUSIVE

At attempt for Yorkshire later at Hedon unfortunately broke down after two hours through a shift course. For reasons unknown, this method was to elude us for the whole of the week. At Patrington some good ringing was had after the awkward scramble to the belfry. On leaving the tower we were greeted with this rather surprising comment: 'Well, aren't you going to ring a peal?' We apologise to the disappointed locals, but time, distance and the fitness of the band were not conducive to another attempt this day. We had promised also to attend the practice in the evening at Selby. On return to the hotel the voice of Mr. J. T. Dyke could be heard over the telephone, requesting news of the progress of the tour. Although his enforced absence from the belfry nowadays, through ill-health, is greatly regretted, his interest in the art has, if anything, increased.

The towers visited on Wednesday gave most of the company their first experience at Yorkshire rope ends, something which was to become the rule rather than the exception. Lincolnshire was scored in good style at Birstall but a broken rope brought an abrupt end to Bristol at Tadcaster. The afternoon, being free, was spent in moving into fresh accommodation in Harrogate. One person found better amusement watching his county's performance (?) at cricket at Sheffield. In the evening a pleasant hour was spent at St. Chad's, Headingley, the church designed and endowed by Edmund Denison and his son, and another at Leeds Parish Church, where we were met by Mr. Ronald Dove, who told us we were the first people to ring the back ten up in peal. Stedman Cinques, Cambridge Maximus and a lower of the 12 in peal sounded well on these bells.

ANOTHER 'HAT-TRICK'

Thanks to the kind co-operation on Thursday of the Rev. R. C. Capel-Cure, the band who lost the Bristol at Tadcaster were able to make good their deficiency at Birstwith. The morning began with Matins at Ripon Cathedral followed by an interesting tour led by the head verger, Mr. Rice, who showed us, among many treasures, a Bible of 1225, a book printed by Caxton, and a Prayer Book of 1549. The Cathedral bells were put to good use with a peal of Bob Royal, while six others went to Boroughbridge and scored Cambridge Minor, so completing the second 'hat-trick.' Congratulations to Reginald Rex, who scored two peals in a day with one arm. Good practice, this, he says, for when he attempts five! Some members visited the peaceful grounds of Fountains Abbey in the afternoon and, before the ending of the day, a return journey was made to Otley for another hour's ringing.

Friday started disastrously for both the morning attempts for peals came to grief. A shift course ended Yorkshire at Skipton and a broken rope brought the same result to an attempt for four-spliced Surprise at Guiseley. However, no one can say that the enthusiasm of the party diminished, one member anticipating the start of the afternoon peal at Bradford Cathedral by three hours or more. This surely must have merited him his place in the band. The rest spent a most enjoyable hour on the eight at Pudsey, where we should like to record our thanks to the local band for seeing that we left fortified by a substantial the meals we had been used to in a Chinese meal. This was quite up to the standard of restaurant we had adopted in Harrogate, where more than one person had tried, without success, to induce our 'Brummie' companion to sample Canton delicacies.

Two peal attempts on Saturday morning were forestalled; one at Ossett through depleted numbers, and the other at Heptonstall by a funeral. Stedman Cinques at Wakefield was also unsuccessful though the ringing was good. So began the journey south again, a stop being made for the night at Chesterfield.

PRESENTATION TO ORGANISER

During the evening the company assembled together and a word of appreciation was made to the organiser, David Hoare, by Roger Keeley, who presented him with a leather brief case on behalf of all present.

After ringing at Chesterfield on Sunday morning an opportunity was taken to view the curious spire from close up and this caused our student of architecture hastily to revise his records, then abandon the attempt altogether. So brought to a happy conclusion yet another West Countrymen's tour. Thank you, Yorkshire, for your generous hospitality and for placing so many of your fine rings of bells at our disposal.

LETTER

ASHTEAD'S EXAMPLE TO HULL

Dear Sir,—I was interested in Mr. Stone's letter about the state of ringing at Hull, but with respect I suggest that he is approaching the problem from the wrong angle.

Some ten years ago we in Ashtead were faced with a similar problem. There were only three or four resident ringers with any experience and the bells were chimed for most Sunday services. What service ringing there was (once a month for Evensong) was good, but this was due to the fact that the Leatherhead ringers gave up their own service ringing on that evening to come to Ashtead. Weekly practices were well attended but again mostly by visitors.

At that time it was decided to recruit local boys and one or two girls to assist with the ringing, and although in time this meant the end of the monthly visits by the Leatherhead ringers it did result in the bells being rung for services each Sunday. The boys were in the main senior choirboys whose voices had broken and to encourage them in their efforts a hand-bell class (for tune ringing) was formed by one of our choirmen, Col. Bell.

So began a long uphill struggle which has continued almost to the present time. We have had our disappointments, particularly in the way of wastage of young ringers. I have had perhaps upwards of 100 youngsters through my hands, but although most of these have fallen by the way the odd one has stayed. But we have had our successes as well, as in December last the first peal ever rung by a resident service band was scored. This was also the 300th peal on the bells. Of late years more girls have become interested, and in this respect our bells (tenor 14 cwt.) are perhaps more suited to girl ringers than are the bells at Hull.

One interesting comment on Mr. Stone's letter is the fact that only on three occasions has a ringer with any previous experience joined our tower. Two of these are amongst our keenest members.

In my experience it is useless to appeal to outside ringers to come in and help. The only solution is to find and train local talent, a long and difficult task. In this connection I am quite sure that the secret of loyalty to the tower and regularity of service ringing is the unwritten rule that all ringers attend at least one Sunday service apart from their early Communion.

It has often been stated, recently by eminent bishops, that service ringing cannot be divorced from service attendance, and to that view I heartily subscribe.

One last thought. I am sure that the modern youngster if properly led is quite as capable of becoming a first-class ringer as were any of the 'giants' of the past. Youth will be served, and how better than in the service of the Church?—Yours faithfully,

J. T. SYMONDS.

Ashtead, Surrey.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

After a space of ten years the Southern Branch visited Mundford for their summer meeting on July 26th. Friends from the Ely Diocesan Association and Suffolk Guild were welcomed, and ringing in many methods on the light and easy-going six continued till 9 p.m. The Rector (Rev. H. D. E. Rokeby) conducted the service, and Mr. David Heighton acted as organist.

Mr. F. Nolan Golden (president of the Association) presided at the meeting and thanked the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and Mr. H. Fuller for making arrangements for the meeting.

The next meeting will be at Banham on November 8th. C. F. W. P.

Norfolk Bells Sold

Norwich Consistory Court was informed recently that three of the six bells of the Church of St. Mary-the-Less, Thetford, had now been sold for scrap. The bells, which had been the subject of a previous order of the court, had realised £238 5s. 9d.

A mixed ring of six with a tenor weighing 10 cwt. 98 lb., the bells have been in bad condition for a long time. The church is poor and has had a very great expense with repairs. The tower alone now needs an estimated £3,000 to £4,000 spent on it. The bells which have been sold are the third, cast by Lester and Pack in 1753; the fourth, by Thomas Gardiner, of Sudbury, in 1725; and the tenor, by John Goldsmith, in 1711. Those retained comprise the treble, cast by Lester and Pack in 1765; the second, by John Draper, cast in 1615; and the fifth, by John Darbie, in 1664.

At present only the treble is left in the tower, and the second and fifth are being preserved. There is every possibility of the Draper bell replacing the treble in the tower, at which time the latter will be sold for scrap.

BRANT BROUGHTON, LINCS, OUTING

The ringers of St. Helen's Church, Brant Broughton, were entertained by the churchwardens, who organised a visit to the bell foundry of John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

The party were met at Loughborough by Mr. Paul Taylor, who conducted a most interesting tour of the works, terminating in the ringing chamber of the foundry bells.

Tea was had in Loughborough, and the homeward journey was broken by a short stay at Elston, where again the ringing was much enjoyed. Thanks were given on behalf of the band by Mr. E. Brown, who said that the ringers were most appreciative of this act of kindness by the Parochial Church Council, and in particular Col. Ashmore and Mr. Andrews (churchwardens). P. C. P.

YOUNG RINGERS VISIT NORTH BEDFORDSHIRE

On July 26th a party of young ringers from Essex, together with a party from Bedfordshire, made a summer tour in North Bedfordshire and parts of Bucks and Northants.

Altogether 15 towers were visited, viz: Pavenham, Turvey, Stagsden, Clifton Reynes, Emberton, Stoke Goldington, Weston-Underwood, Bozeat, Upper Dean, Keysoe, Milton-Ernest, Harrold, Sharnbrook and Felmersham.

Among the party were young ringers from Bromham, Harrold, Felmersham, Woburn and Wavendon.

Methods rung were London and Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Single Oxford, St. Clement's, Grandsire and Plain Bob.

The Essex party are planning a return tour around Chelmsford in the autumn.

The day finished up with a quarter peal at Felmersham. Thanks are expressed to incumbents, tower captains and those who helped to make the day so enjoyable. C. M. P.

GRAPPENHALL BRANCH'S OUTING WAS POPULAR

The Grappenhall Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held its annual outing on July 19th on the border of the counties of the red and white roses.

The company of over 80 ringers, wives and friends were transported in two coaches, one leaving Frodsham at 7.30 a.m. and picking up at Northwich and various other points, the other leaving Runcorn at 8 a.m., both arriving at Todmorden, our first call, simultaneously. We soon had the bells—a nice ring of eight (tenor 23 cwt.), but rather noisy in the tower—going to Stedman, Cambridge, Kent and Plain Bob. Mytholmroyd, with its very pleasant ring of eight (tenor 14 cwt.) was our next stop. Here we had the pleasure to ring for a wedding.

The weather was now becoming quite warm and 'shirt sleeves' was the order as we journeyed to Halifax for lunch. We certainly did justice to a very excellent lunch. At Keighley (another eight, tenor 16¼ cwt.) we rang the usual methods.

We travelled through some lovely country to Skipton, where we found the best octave of the day (tenor 22 cwt.), and as 'The Owd Buzzard' once remarked, you could dance to them. One of the local ringers recalled ringing a course of Bristol with J. Bibby and others on their way back from Inveraray.

After tea at Skipton we left the sign of 'The Huntsman' and crossed the border back into the 'red rose' county on our way to Clitheroe, discrediting the story that they use chimneys for trees in Lancashire. At Clitheroe we found a nice eight (tenor 23 cwt.), and here we introduced St. Clement's Major. Afterwards, with two local ringers and some ringers from Todmorden who had travelled in a car with us all day, we rang three short courses of Cambidge.

Our last call was Whalley (another fine eight, tenor 21 cwt.). The bells are a little too quiet in the tower so that one had to be outside to appreciate the beauty of this very musical ring. An additional call, not on the schedule, was made to the Boiling Kettle, where they had a good brew on. We reached home about 12.30 a.m., tired but happy after what we thought the best tour we had had.

Thanks and appreciation are expressed to the ringers who met us, the incumbents, the coach drivers, and last but by no means least, Cecil Raddon, who organised this tour and has done so for the past 20 years. W. A.

RICHARD VALENTINE AND COMPANY

By Edgar C. Shepherd

NEARLY 60 years ago there came into the possession of Mr. Geoffrey Martineau, of Solihull, a manuscript volume compiled and written by a certain J. D. Wagstaff, who lived somewhere in Northamptonshire. It is a duodecimo book, bound in leather, measuring 7¼" by 4½", and the paper is of good quality. The title page, neatly designed in Old English and Roman, proclaims:—

'The Five and Six Bell Peals of Mr. Richard Valentine who was born December 19th, 1796 and who died March 9th, 1861, at 3 Hor. 30′ P.M. Aged 65 yrs.'

Below this, and set in the same panel, is a cutting from 'The Northamptonshire Free Press' of March 23rd, 1861, and the notice reads:—

'Kettering. On the 14th ultimo, the remains of Mr. Richard Valentine were interred in Kettering churchyard, when the society of the Ancient Order of Foresters paid their last tribute to the deceased by walking in procession to the grave. Afterwards a dumb peal was rung on the church bells, the deceased having been a celebrated ringer. The following having been fellow ringers and companions of the deceased, also rung at Longstanton, near Cambridge, on their handbells (muffled) a true and complete peal of 1260 changes, being the quarter peal of Grandsire Triples. A very solemn effect was produced. The following persons were the ringers: John Henson, sen., first and second; John Henson, jun., third and fourth; James Althorp, fifth and sixth; and William Smith, seventh and tenor.'

The identity of Mr. Wagstaff remains obscure, but he was clearly an admirer of Mr. Valentine and a man of great precision and method. It seems to have been his aim to copy from Valentine's own manuscript a large collection of five-bell methods, adding a few four-bell extents, and to tabulate and set them out in figuring most beautifully written and exquisitely spaced on the pages. There are 113 methods of Doubles, many of them familiar to us in form and name, but some with names perhaps not so commonly met with. Among these are such delights as Old Frostley, The Mouse Trap, Spandigo, The Gas Light, and Valentine Maxham, which Wagstaff ventures to think may have been meant to be 'Pax An.': the year of peace.

There is something suggestive of legal precision about the way the writer of the book has framed his comments. He records that the collection contains 113 Doubles, but adds a note that three of them are not quite complete, so that the number should really be 110. He is careful to point out that his own additions are all in red ink and that certain spellings have been corrected. And to round off his task he writes: 'By the letter I received from his wife Mary Valentine he died Saturday March 9th 3½ hor P.M., Exactly the time I returned the MS to the carrier.'

There are some 50 pages remaining in the book after the setting out of the methods, and these sheets have been filled by Mr. Wagstaff with a most extraordinary collection of notes and extracts from works on (and allied to) bells and ringing, together with innumerable jottings and comments of his own. He writes partly in his own tiny print-script and partly in a form of shorthand, so that it is very difficult to follow much of his thought. He has gone to the trouble to copy extensively from 'Church Bells and Ringing,' by W. T. Maunsell, and from 'The Shepherds Kalender,' and he seems to have had access to, and to have studied, most of the books devoted to ringing that had appeared up to his time. The very end of the volume seems to have accumulated a mass of sporadic jottings, among them being 'Jasper Snowdon Esq. (Campanologist) Ilkley-Leeds, Yorkshire, his father a clergyman,' and the following rather abrupt reminder: 'Jonathan Wild hung May 24th, 1725.'

In the forepart of the book are pasted copies of the circulars advertising the proposed publication of B. Thackrah's 'Art of Change Ringing' and Sottenstall's 'Elements of Campanalogia,' and with these are some newspaper cuttings that record ringing activities at Kettering and Wellingborough in the '70's.

Extracts from 'The Northampton Mercury' record, in 1871, the sudden death of Mr. Samuel Tilley, and in 1872 the demise of Mr. John Henson, of Wellingborough. The former gentleman, a member of the 4th City Rifles and a bandsman, collapsed and died immediately after playing at the funeral of a comrade in London. He was only 53 years of age. Mr. Henson was 78, and a 'dumb peal' was rung for him after his funeral. The year 1872 was marked, too, in Wellingborough, by the ringing of 720 Bob Minor by a mixed band, conducted by Mr. Samuel Spencer, of Rushden. It was, according to the report, the first 720 rung in the town for over a hundred years, the previous performance being recorded on a tablet bearing the tailpiece:

'We were ye first then with a nod
That on these bells learn'd Grandsire Bob. 1741.'

Possibly the most interesting slip of paper is the cutting of 1874 recording the ringing of 2,520 Grandsire Triples by what was called 'The Kettering Star Handbell Ringers.' The paper tells us that 'the above was divided into five equal parts, containing forty-five lesles and one gingal, and was brought round in one hour and thirty-eight minutes.' The ringers were Frank Starmer, George Starmer (Conductor), Thomas Whiteing and John Starmer. The 45 lesles are clearly bobs, but the one gingal defeats us. An old dictionary of 1843 gives the verb 'Gingle: to utter a sharp clattering noise,' and the substantive 'a Gingle: a shrill resounding noise,' but whether these have any relation to Mr. Starmer's unusual call there is no means of determining.

The composition of this meritorious performance seems to have caused the methodical Mr. Wagstaff considerable heartache, and he spends much time trying to ascertain exactly what Starmer did call. The half peal was reported as the first half of Holt's ten-part, but the figures produced are those of the old 2,520 in the 'Campanalogia' of 1702, published, as Wagstaff says, 'long before Holt's time.' There would appear to be no reason for any call other than bobs for the purpose of securing the half peal. This part of the manuscript book contains extensive notes and prickings showing that the writer was well aware that a ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples with two common singles would of necessity be false, and he goes on to assert that a 5,040 said to have been rung at Kettering (probably the one reported in 1840) was on this plan and must therefore be discredited. The reasoning is impressive, and a survey of these notes reveals Wagstaff as a very able man.

Much more might be written about this rather remarkable book, and doubtless a closer study of the notes would repay the earnest searcher. But this brief description of some of its features may arouse interest in certain quarters and possibly lead to the emergence of some more particulars concerning Richard Valentine and (of possibly greater interest and importance) concerning his friend and admirer, J. D. Wagstaff.
